FIGHT FOR PHYSICAL VALUATION OF ROADS IS BEGUN BY STUBBS

Kansas Governor Proclaims Platform Meeting in Topeka.

Says Public Demands Such Action---Arraigns Railroad Policies.

Illinois Men Claim Missouri Rate Case Injunction Is Violated.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 22.—Governor W. R. Stubbs of Kansas outlined the purposes of the interstate rate conference, which he called, in a speech at the opening of the session here today.

The governor said the railroads of the country had combined to advance freight rates on a scale never before known. He said the railroads, of their own initiatives, had opened up the whole question of ascertaining the physical valuation of their properties by the testimony by their officials before the interstate commerce commission.

Governor Stubbs also deplored the tendency of railroads to favor large cities in the adjustment of freight rates. In outlining the purposes of the conference the governor said:

"This conference was called to discuss the ways and means to protect the interests of the producer, consumer, shipper and the public generally in the Middle West from the advance in freight rates involved in the most important case that has ever been heard by the interstate commerce commission.

Valuation of Property.

"The public demands nothing short of a bona fide valuation of all railroad property, and public officials who represent the consumer, producer, shipper and general public, will be criminally negligent if they do not avail themselves of this opportunity to go to bed rock and assist the interstate commerce commission to make a searching and exhaustive investigation so as to determine the actual value of all the railroads of the United States.

"Congress should immediately enact a law providing for the physical val-

ONCE RICH MAN PENNILESS SUICIDE

Frank Reiger, Former New York Clothier, Dead in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 22. — Frank Reiger, formerly a New York clothier and once reputed to be worth $125,000, died today from the effects of poison, which he swallowed here Tuesday with suicidal intent. Reiger, who was 60 years old, had become penniless.

TENDERLOIN RAID IS SPECTACULAR

Grand Jury Evidence Secured in Action By New York Police.

New York, Sept. 22.—A police descent on the Tenderloin early today was featured by several of the most spectacular raids in years on alleged illegal resorts.

The activities of the official force caused intense excitement in the Tenderloin. Agents of Raymond Fosdick, commissioner of accounts, whose investigation of Tenderloin conditions brought about Acting Mayor Mitchel's recent complaint against Police Commissioner Baker, were out in numbers following the course of the police and seeking evidence for the grand jury probing of gambling and vice conditions now in progress.

It was expected that Commissioner Baker would be one of the witnesses called by the grand jury today.

ODD FELLOWS IN FINAL SESSIONS

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 22.—The eighty-sixth annual session of the sovereign grand lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows comes to a close today with the election of the 1911 convention city. Buffalo, Toronto and Los Angeles are trying hard to secure it.

An interesting feature of last night's program at the Auditorium Armory previous to the opening of the grand ball, was the conferring of the grand decoration of chivalry upon Gen. Fred W. Davis, Detroit; Maj. D. E. Bird, Kansas City; Maj. John A. Wild, Detroit; Col. Isaac G. Reynolds, Ann Arbor; Col. Peter Betzing, Flint, Mich.; Capt. J. W. Wilkerson, St. Louis; Capt. A. G. Hartley, Kansas City; Capt. Fred E. Pierce, Los Angeles, and Capt. H. C. Hall, Atlanta.

TOLD OF WHERE BIG FIRMS SPEND MONEY

W. W. COLE.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22.—W. W. Cole is one of the witnesses appearing before the legislative committee investigating Albany graft, which is sitting in New York. Mr. Cole was treasurer of the street railway association, which according to the testimony of the witnesses contributed largely to the campaign funds of political parties and to the pocketbooks of the members of the state legislature.

SEEKING TO FIX BLAME

Indiana Authorities Are Investigating Horror on Interurban.

Thirty-Nine Are Dead and Others May Not Survive Injuries.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 22.—Thirty-nine is the toll of the dead in the Fort Wayne-Bluffton interurban disaster yesterday, so far as the check made this morning shows.

While the officials of the company refuse to give out their opinion as to where the responsibility lies, rumor fixes the blame with the crew of the "special" which was speeding south from Fort Wayne, empty. The crew, knowing the "local" was ten or more minutes late, it is said, took chances on making a siding and failed.

There still is some confusion as to the names of the dead. There are in the hospitals in Fort Wayne six injured. These are:

Mrs. W. D. Burgan, Bluffton.
Miss Margaret Tribolet, Bluffton.
S. A. Parkhurst, Bluffton.
C. M. Brown, Warren, Ind.
B. F. Corkwell, motorman "special" train.
A. Ellensberger, Berne, Ind.

Holiday Throng Stricken.

Practically all of the dead were persons living in the vicinity of Bluffton. It was a holiday throng bound for Fort Wayne to attend the state fair. The "local" was filled to the last seat and there were many persons in the aisles or on the platforms.

The crash was without warning.

WAR RISK FOUGHT BY INSURANCE FIRM

Unique Case Will Be Heard in the Supreme Court.

Washington, Sept. 22.—An odd tale of adventure including an unusual insurance risk is to be laid before the supreme court of the United States next month, when that tribunal will be asked to decide whether an insurance company is liable on a policy taken upon a steamer against the perils of capture on a voyage from San Francisco to Vladivostok during the Russo-Japanese war.

The vessel in question was the British ship M. S. Dollar. Late in 1904 it was desired to send the steamer to Vladivostok with a cargo, and in order to protect the owners from loss by capture, they took out a policy against this peril with the Maritime Insurance company, Ltd., a British corporation.

Seized Off Japanese Coast.

The vessel was seized off the coast of Japan about four days' sail from Vladivostok and subsequently was condemned.

It is claimed by the insurance company that it is not liable, because the vessel not only carried papers showing Vladivostok as her real destination, but also another set of papers showing Moji, Japan, as the destination.

The circuit court of appeals for the Ninth circuit decided that the company was liable. On account of the conflict of law on the subject the supreme court will be asked to direct the circuit court of appeals to send the case to it for review.

PRAISES THE "LATE ENEMY"

Van Sant Pays Tribute to Confederates at G. A. R. Meeting.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 22.—With a fine tribute to the old soldiers of the Confederacy, Commander-in-Chief S. R. Van Sant of Minnesota today formally opened the business session of the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic on the Steel Pier. The commander spoke earnestly as he expressed his gratification at the increasing fraternization of the "Blue" and the "Gray." When he said that no braver troops were ever marshalled for conflict than the Southern soldiers and that the Union veterans now realize that no men ever made greater sacrifices for what they believed to be right than their former foes, the commander was applauded.

Comprehensively reviewing the work of the Grand Army for the year during which he has acted as its head, Commander-in-Chief Van Sant addressed the delegates with an eye to the future good that the great organization might accomplish as well as upon the notable achievements of its past.

Would Keep Rolls Filled.

While the roll of the Grand Army is steadily shortening, the commander-in-chief urged that every effort be made to keep the organization up to its fullest possible strength. He quoted figures showing that the G. A.

MAKING WAR ON INFANT PARALYSIS

New York State Health Commissioner Has Begun Campaign.

Albany, Sept. 22.—A systematic study of infantile paralysis in this state is being made by State Health Commissioner Porter. He has been watching the prevalence of the disease and says he is fully satisfied that a number of cases exist in the state.

"While recent investigations," says a statement from the state health department today, "establish beyond a reasonable doubt that this is a communicable disease, it has not as yet been positively determined by what means it is transmitted from one person to another. Recognizing, however, its accepted transmissibility, the state health department has put it on the list of quarantinable diseases and now requires it to be reported and quarantined for a period of twenty-one days."

With a view of systematically studying the cause and prevalence of this disease, Commissioner Porter has recently placed in the hands of every physician in the state blanks on which he urges a detailed report of every case, which has arisen since Jan. 1, 1910.

The state health department urges united co-operation of citizens in its combat against the disease.

GARDNER ON STAND AGAIN

Remarkable Financial Returns Revealed in Rate Hearing.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Today's session of the railroad rate hearing before the interstate commerce commission was expected to be devoted largely to cross-examination by attorneys for the shippers of witnesses of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago & Northwestern railroads, who on direct examination testified they believed an increase in railway rates necessary to maintain the financial integrity of their properties.

W. A. Gardner, vice president of the Northwestern line, was the first witness subjected to questions by Attorney Clifford Thorne, who represents livestock shippers in twenty-two states. Mr. Thorne's questions were intended to bring from the witness admission that his company had made enough net earnings to rebuild the road, had they been so applied.

Dividends Not Affected.

The attorney maintained that the company had kept up its right-of-way and equipment by the use only of earnings without affecting the dividends in years when the income apparently was light as well as other years.

Other roads which will present tes-

Aurora, Ill., 29,807, an increase of 5,600, or 23.4 per cent, over 24,147 in 1900.

Elgin, Ill., 25,976, an increase of 3,545, or 15.8 per cent, over 22,433 in 1900.

TWO CRIMES END GAY DAY

Woman Is Shot and Assailant Hangs Self in Cleveland Jail.

Man Is Believed to Be Burton W. Yates of Detroit.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 22.—A man believed to be Burton W. Yates, a Detroit business man, committed suicide by hanging in the county jail today, an hour after he had been lodged there for shooting a woman identified as Mrs. Fred Singer of Cleveland, formerly of Detroit, in a road house at Rocky River.

Left alone while commitment papers were being made out, Yates hurried into the washroom, tied his handkerchief around his neck, attached it to an iron bar and strangled himself. When the guards returned they found him dead.

The woman was taken to a hospital. It is believed she will live.

Followed Day of Gayety.

ELLSWORTH WINS IN THE SECOND

Ward Concedes St. James Man's Nomination for Congress.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Figures from the county auditors in every county of the Second district show that Frank F. Ellsworth of St. James was named as the Republican candidate for congress by a majority of 299, with two small precincts missing. A. L. Ward of Fairmont conceded the nomination of Ellsworth today.

SILK HOSIERY PLANT RAIDED

Twenty Men Arrested Under the Alien Contract Labor Law.

New York, Sept. 22.—Five government inspectors of the department of commerce and labor, with the assistance of a special agent from the department of justice, raided a silk hosiery factory at Dover, N. J., yesterday and arrested twenty men who were employed as weavers, on warrants issued at Washington, D. C., charging them with violating contract labor laws. The penalty for each conviction is $1,000 fine for the importer and deportation of the workmen.

GILPIN IN THE LEAD; WILL PROBABLY WIN; NORTON SURE WINNER

"THREE TIME WINNER" AS COUNTY ATTORNEY

JOHN H. NORTON,
Who Is Again Victorious Over Charles E. Adams.

Middlecoff Has Fifty-One Votes to Gain in Gilpin Territory.

Range Man Is Likely to Be Nominee for Judgeship.

Norton Continues to Gain as the Later Returns Come In.

It looks like Gilpin for judge of probate, and it's practically certain that Norton has again captured the nomination for county attorney on the Republican ticket.

With twelve precincts to be heard from, John H. Norton has a net plurality of 169. There is small chance of that lead being overcome.

With the same precincts not reported, S. W. Gilpin has a net plurality of 51, and there is no particular reason to expect that this lead will be lost when all the returns are in, although both sides are exceedingly anxious to learn what sort of dope fate has been mixing up for them in these voting divisions. They are claimed to be Gilpin territory chiefly.

E. A. Dyer of Hibbing has apparently a safe lead in the surveyorship fight, which became interesting as the battle progressed. There were three candidates in the field, Andrew Anderson, Lyonel Ayres and Dyer. Ayres, the incumbent, is second in the race.

All day the candidates for the two places in doubt have been on the anxious seat.

Throughout the day the liveliest interest has been manifested in the de-

BOLD THIEF MAKES HAUL

Tray Taken From Window While Evening Crowds Pass By.

The boldest theft of months was perpetrated last evening when a tray holding twenty diamonds, valued at $2,000, was stolen from the window of the Keystone Loan company at 22 West Superior street.

The jewels were taken in broad daylight at 6 o'clock, when the evening throngs were hurrying along the city's main street, passing the window by the score every minute.

J. D. Segal, the proprietor, did not discover his loss until this morning, when he reported it to the police. He was unable to give any adequate description of the thief and the authorities have small hopes of apprehending him.

It is believed that two men worked the game. One of them engaged Mr. Segal in the rear of the store, where he bargained for some time over an overcoat. In the meantime it is almost certain that his confederate walked behind the counter and up to the window in which the diamonds were being exhibited. Without arousing the suspicions of the proprietor he slipped them in his pocket and walked out.

The valuables in the store were put in the safe last night when they closed by Segal's son. The young man did not notice the absence of the tray of diamonds. But when the owner went to the strong box this morning he immediately noticed that they were missing and notified headquarters.

WEYMAN TRIES OUT HIS MOTOR

Brig, Switzerland, Sept. 22.—The weather was clear but cold today and a strong wind blew over the Simplon pass. It was hoped that before evening Mr. Weyman, the American, and George Chavez, the Peruvian, aviators, would find a favorable time to attempt the cross-Alps competition flight from here to Milan, Italy.

During the morning Weyman made three trial flights to test his motor, but he at no time reached a height greater than 4,300 feet. To clear the mountains an altitude of some 7,000 feet must be maintained during the first half hour of the trip.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DEMOCRATS MEET

Platform Is All They Can Consider Under New Primary Law.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 22.—The party convention provisions for the new direct primary law in New Hampshire were tested for the first time today when the Democratic state convention was held in this city. Under the new law the candidates of both the Republican and Democratic parties for state and county offices and congressmen were chosen at the joint primaries held Sept. 6. The only thing left for the Democratic state convention today and the Republican state convention Sept. 27 was the adoption of party platforms. The ratification of the direct nominations is not required.

Eugene E. Reed, mayor of Manchester and the Democratic nominee for congress from the First district, was the presiding officer.

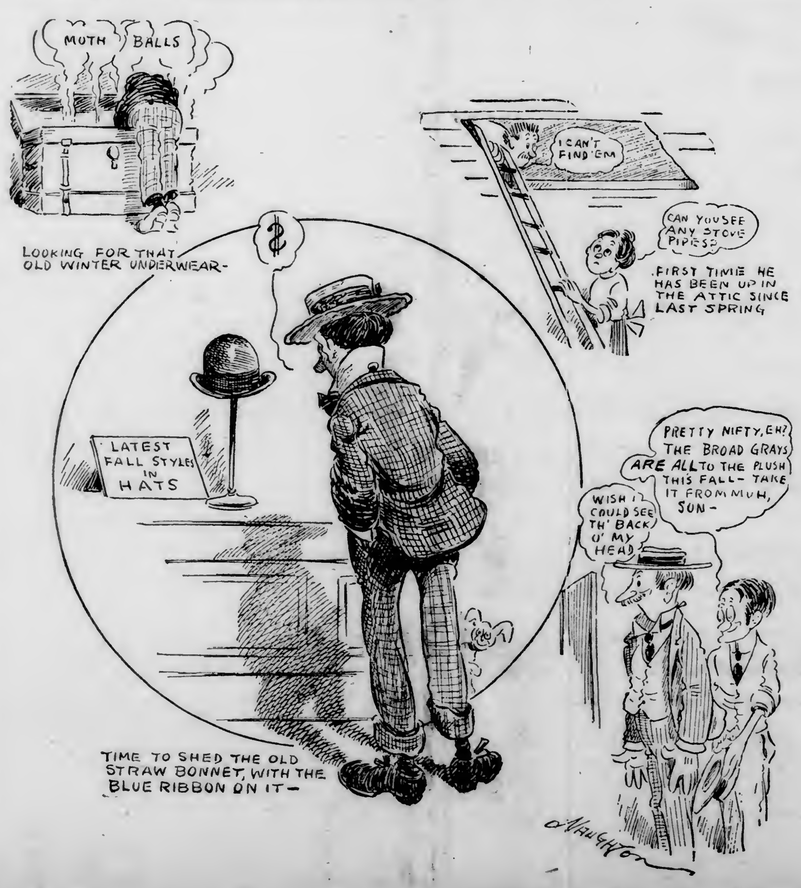

HAS BUREAU TO TREAT WITH MEN

International Paper Company Takes Step to End Labor Troubles.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22.—John Lundrigan of Buffalo has resigned as chairman of the state board of mediation and arbitration to become general superintendent of the industrial department of the International Paper company, which has its main offices in New York city. The creation of an industrial bureau where the thousands of employes of the corporation can have their differences discussed and adjusted is looked upon as a novel scheme.

Under his new duties Mr. Lundrigan will be the mediator and arbitrator between the men and the company in all of its disputes. During his twelve years of service as deputy state commissioner of labor he has urged the creation of similar industrial departments believing they would result in reducing the number of strikes.

DISTRICT IS PROSPEROUS

Superintendent Copper Makes Report for Duluth.

Methodists Listen to Various District Reports.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Methodist annual conference continued its business session this morning at 9 o'clock, Bishop Hamilton presiding. The most interesting item of the morning session was the reading of the district superintendent reports. Rev. Dr. E. K. Copper read a splendid report. The work on the Duluth district has been prosecuted with great vigor and success.

New churches have been built this year at Chisholm, costing $6,000; Taconite, $1,600; Hill City, $3,000; and about $10,000 has been expended in church improvement and about the same amount paid on old indebtedness. Benevolent collections in the city churches have been more than doubled over last year, due in part to the influence of the laymen's missionary movement.

Yesterday afternoon address were made for the Methodist brotherhood. Rev. M. E. Tindell of Alexandria presided at the anniversary of the Freedman's Aid society. President J. S. Hall gave a graphic account of Methodist work among the colored and poor white people of the South.

Rev. Andrew Gillies, pastor of Hennepin Avenue church of Minneapolis, spoke at the evening session of the conference. The church was crowded. Mr. Gillies' subject was Methodism and world evangelization and an adequate theology, its spiritual, dynamic and personal experience and spiritual democracy, and its vicarious offerings and concrete victory in the missionary field. He paid a glowing tribute to foreign missions and missionaries and attacked vigorously missionary critics.

Judge Charles A. Pollock of Fargo, N. D., was loudly applauded by the preachers when he spoke on the advantages of prohibition for North Dakota. He pleaded for the clergymen to get together on temperance legislation.

Memorial services for the dead preachers was announced for Sunday afternoon, also consecration of deaconesses and deacons and elders. The conference expects to adjourn Monday noon.

The candidate for governor always has been a Republican, but he is bitterly opposed to the present Republican organization of Wyoming.

JURY FINDS FOR GASSER

Award Is Reduced on Second Trial of the Case.

A jury in the district court this morning brought in a verdict of $913.62 in favor of M. M. Gasser, the plaintiff in the action against J. J. Wall.

It was the second trial of the case. Mr. Gasser claimed that in 1907 he was induced by Mr. Wall to purchase a half interest in 10,000 shares of stock of the Consolidated Copper company of Parry Sound. The stock was purchased from C. O. Baldwin and the purchase price was said to have been $3,000.

In his complaint Mr. Gasser states that Mr. Wall told him the stock was a snap at that price, as local stock brokers were selling the same stock at $1 a share. Mr. Gasser agreed to the purchase and gave Mr. Wall a note for $1,500, his share of the purchase price in the transaction, he asserted.

Later he claims to have discovered that $1,500 was the whole of the purchase price and that he, while only receiving a half interest, had paid all the money. He brought suit for the full amount in district court, and a jury awarded him something over that amount. Mr. Gasser appealed the case and the supreme court decided that Mr. Gasser could not recover an amount as great as that named in the verdict.

velopments of the count of the votes cast in the primaries, and comparatively early it came to be an accepted thing that Norton was the winner in the attorneyship struggle. Adams men reluctantly gave up hope of any other termination, and Norton's friends evinced less and less interest, as it became more and more apparent that their candidates was reasonably safe.

The Closest Race.

As to the judgeship, the feeling was notably different. Until far into the afternoon inquiries poured in at all places where the count was being compiled, and the hopes of the adherents of the respective candidates rose and fell with spasmodic irregularity.

Nothing certain can be said as to the probable outcome of this contest. It may be that the deciding returns will not be in hand until the official canvass of the ballots is completed at the courthouse.

Judge Middlecoff, who is a candidate for renomination, has held the office of judge of probate for ten years, eight of them consecutive. He is opposed by S. W. Gilpin of Virginia, who has been county superintendent of schools, and who has been taking a course of law at the University of Minnesota that he might be adequately trained for the duties of the office. Mr. Gilpin has not been adamitted to the bar, but is qualified to pass the required examinations at any time, it is said.

The Norton-Adams feud is one of long standing, but it is a friendly one and has a bearing only on the desire of each man to serve the people of St. Louis county as county attorney. This is their third contest for the Republican nomination for that office, and it has terminated just as have the others in which they have been rivals.

John R. Meining, nominee for sheriff, had a plurality of 1,946 in the city; had a plurality of 1,946 in the city; the rest of the county, so far as heard from, gives him an additional lead of 217, making a total plurality of 2,163. Meining's many friends in Duluth have been exulting a whole lot since the returns began to point to the certainty of his nomination, and Mr. Meining himself has been showered with congratulations on having achieved success in a direction that has attracted him strongly for years. This is Meining's third run for the Republican nomination for sheriff. Each time he has been a candidate his opponent has been William J. Bates, the incumbent, whom he defeated Tuesday. Many traveling men took part in Meining's campaign this year and assisted materially in bringing their fellow-traveler favorably to the attention of the voters, especially on the range.

Boyle's Great Race.

The senatorial fight in the Forty-ninth brought out a vote that must be a great surprise to the Vail men, who before election day were aggressively optimistic, declaring that no one could defeat Vail if he did not so will it. And Vail has not willed that he give up his senate seat. He worked hard, but apparently Mr. Boyle's methods of campaigning made the more favorable impression on the public mind.

All the way down the column of returns the Boyle landslide is apparent. In some precincts even Raab got more votes than did Vail, but Raab's total is very small.

That Boyle would win his supporters had no doubt, but that the redoubtable Virginian would be beaten so badly was hardly hoped by even the most extravagantly optimistic of Boyle's friends.

Returns on the contest in the Forty-ninth legislative district for seats in the lower house show that the range has appropriated to itself all the three places of that district's delegation. With Boyle of Eveleth named for the senate, the range, having the right and the votes, nominated Knapp of Chisholm and Healy of Hibbing for the house places. These nominations are equivalent to election, as the nominees have little opposition, the other candidates being prohibitionists.

The figures to date show that Knapp and Healy ran far ahead of the other two candidates, Healy getting the biggest vote—sixteen more than Knapp, who was more than a thousand votes ahead of McClean, while Sulcove brought up the rear with 400 less than McClean.

The small vote given Sulcove is readily explained. He did not make an aggressive campaign, but where he is best known he received a good vote. That is in the West end of the city, where he led all the candidates. But he was comparatively unknown on the range and the appeal of the successful Hibbing candidate for range support for a range man was heeded and Sulcove was the sufferer by that fact.

Dr. A. J. McCuen's victory in the race for nomination for coroner was a foregone conclusion, but it is demonstrated by the returns that Helps of Eveleth, his opponent, was given a very good complimentary vote on the range.

Friends of Democratic candidates for legislature and county offices as well as those who are most deeply interested in the candidacy of Judge Jaques for congress, are examining the returns with care and with an eye to the polls Nov. 8.

As to the county attorneyship, they say that Walter F. Dacey should have a very good chance to beat the Republican nominee. This view of the situation is based on the theory that if the voters of the county find so little reason for choice between the two Republicans who have been fighting for the nomination, the Democrat, coming in as a third choice, although running against but one of the Republican aspirants, might get a bulk of the votes of those balloted against the loser in the primaries, together with those of the solid Democratic organization and the young men's vote, which is counted upon to be for Dacey.

Thomas J. McKeon returned today from a trip which he made with Mrs. McKeon to lake points, and he said he was ready to take off his coat and get right into the thick of the battle. He feels confident that his nomination for the office of judge of probate by the Democrats is but the prelude to his election.

E. A. Lindgren, Democratic candidate for treasurer, and Charles Jesmore of Eveleth, candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket, are not in the city.

STEPHENS HAS 178 MAJORITY

Polk County Senator Wins Over Representative John Saugstad.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald)—After one of the most bitter campaigns ever waged in Polk county, the county option forces failed to defeat Senator A. D. Stephens for renomination, the complete returns received last evening giving Stephens 178 majority over his opponent, Representative John Saugstad.

John Holton was nominated as one representative with a big majority, but the second place is still in doubt with Knute Aker leading, O. N. Lindh second, and W. A. Marin a close third, and fifteen precincts to be heard from.

The county officers nominated are as follows: Auditor, Henry Welte; treasurer, George Flaten; clerk of court, W. A. Lanetot; register of deeds, Theodore Thompson; judge of probate, T. T. Merken; superintendent of schools, N. A. Thorson; county attorney, E. O. Hagen. All are the present incumbents. Judges Watts and Grindeland were renominated without opposition.

For congress Halvor Steenerson was renominated over Bjorge by a majority of 2,500 in Polk county and 8,000 in the district, carrying every county excepting Becker which Bjorge carried by 250 approximately.

Cass County.

Walker, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—With thirty out of forty-five precincts heard from, the following county ticket appears to be nominated in Cass county: I. P. Byhre, auditor; W. T. McKeown, treasurer; Bert Jamison, judge of probate; N. J. Parlmer, clerk of court; Odin Naustvold, register of deeds; Robert, De Lury, sheriff; J. S. Scribner, county attorney; J. W. Curo, surveyor; E. S. Holman, coroner, J. W. Huffman, commissioner, First district; B. L. Perry, commissioner, Third district; Chris Burns, commissioner, Fifth district. La Du and Warner lead in the county for the legislature and P. H. McGarry gets a small majority as candidate for congress.

Kanabec County.

Anderson; sheriff, Otto Allman; judge of probate, O. P. Victorlen; county attorney, P. S. Olsen; county surveyor, John Nelson; commissioners, C. W. Holmes and Martin Nystrom.

Mark, county optionist, is nominated and Rice, anti-county optionist, also wins for representative. Lindberg carried Todd county by over 700.

Wadena County.

Wadena, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.) — With two precincts in Todd county, four in Wadena, and four in Hubbard to hear from, James Johnson wins for state senator from this district over Rudolph Lee by ninety-four votes. The winners for representative are: Dr. W. T. Stone, a county option man, and L. H. Rice. Congressman Lindbergh received the nomination in this county over McGarry by a four to one vote.

Beltrami County.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the primary election here Tuesday the following Republicans were nominated for county office: Auditor, R. C. Hayner, treasurer, George H. French; register of deeds, J. O. Harris; sheriff, A. B. Hazen; judge of probate, M. A. Clark; county attorney, Henry Funkley; county commissioners, A. B. Rako and L. O. Myhre. With the exception of the office of county commissioner there were no Democratic candidates in the field. There is nearly a complete list of Public Ownership candidates, and the successful Republican nominees will also find opposition in candidates who will file independently.

Clearwater County.

Bagley, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clearwater county was carried by Congressman Halvor Steenerson by about 600 majority; senator, A. L. Hanson, optionist, by 600; representative, D. P. O'Neil, optionist, by 400 majority.

PROMINENT DOCTOR PRAISES BAKE OVEN

ADVISES SUFFERERS TO TAKE TREATMENT

DR. F. S. GROVER.

Dr. Grover says: Drs. Loughney & Loughney are curing people of rheumatism and kindred ailments every day with their curious Bake Ovens. I went to them with rheumatism and it is truly wonderful how quickly they cured me. I have treated a great many people for rheumatism myself, and applied in my own case the different medicines considered the best by the medical profession, but I desire to state that the Bake Oven beats anything ever before used to relieve pain and cure Rheumatism. If you are a sufferer from Sprains, Synovitis, Rheumatism, Gout, Arthritis, Neuralgia Lumbago, Gangrene, Phlebitis, Ankylosis, indolent ulcers and infected sores, Uremia or Obesity, the Bake Oven eclipses all other treatments. The immediate local effects on the joints are at once obvious, especially in Chronic Rheumatism and Gout. They become less painful and much more movable after the first treatment, and continue to improve with subsequent treatment. The action is through active Hyperaemia, thereby explaining the cure, which is bound to follow the treatment. Loughney & Loughney Bake Ovens beats all the medicines in this wide world. It also beats mud baths or hot springs and all other rheumatic treatments, and, in fact, all doctors know, if they would only own up, that the Bake Oven treatment, with temperature from 350 to 500 degrees Fahrenheit, has no equal for relieving and curing the ailments I have mentioned in this letter to your paper. I am not prejudiced against any new treatment that has merit, as a great many doctors are, and I consider it only just to Loughney & Loughney to give them the credit they deserve. Some of my medical friends and associates have tried to call me down for acknowledging that the Bake Oven cured me and that it is such a great boon to suffering mankind, but I do not consider any doctor that will not recognize any other style of treatment but his own, either broad-minded or fair—Loughney & Loughney are making the cures and they deserve all kinds of credit. I strongly advise all who are afflicted with the above mentioned ailments to take Bake Oven treatments, and there can be no bad effects even in severe cases of organic or functional heart trouble. It takes the burden off of the overworked heart and in just that respect does even heart trouble good.

CHURCH TO BE REMODELED

Contract Let for Improvements to Swedish Episcopal Edifice.

McKenzie & Walker, local contractors, were yesterday awarded the contract for the remodeling of St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. About $3,000 will be expended on fixing up the structure.

The contractors will start a crew of men at work on the job at once. It is expected that the material will be on the grounds by the first of the week so that operations may be started without further delay.

The edifice will be remodeled and enlarged throughout and a stone basement built under it. The basement rooms will be used for Sunday school work, a kitchen and choir rooms. The interior of the church will be redecorated and the chancel will be enlarged. More room will be afforded as an addition will be built at the rear.

The improvements, which have been outlined by the church officials is a result of the union of the St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal and St. Luke's Episcopal churche sof the West end. The St. Luke's building will be abandoned and there is now a deal on for the sale of the property. The St. Peter's church, when remodeled, will house both congregations comfortably.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR.

Rev. Edward Erickson Welcomed on Return to Duluth for Year.

A reception was held last evening at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church for Rev. and Mrs. Edward Erickson, who recently returned from the annual conference in Chicago, at which Rev. Erickson was returned to the local pastorate for another year. John J. Moe, former alderman, made a speech of welcome on behalf of the congregation and there were several other short speeches and musical numbers. Rev. Erickson responded, thanking the congregation.

Pastor on Vacation.

Rev. J. J. Daniels and Mrs. Daniels are expected to return today from Litchfield, Minn., where Mr. Daniels has been spending his vacation. He was recently granted a two weeks' leave of absence by the congregation of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, and has spent the most of his time at Litchfield.

Annual Meeting.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church is holding its annual meeting and election of officers this afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. George Hanson of 2217 West Third street. Reports which were read, showed the society to be in a flourishing condition.

West End Shortrails.

Misses Helga and Hulda Halgren of Virginia, who have been in the city for the past few days, guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Wahlstrom of 2708 West Helm street, have returned to their home.

Miss Hannah Liden of 2029 West Third street has returned from a camping trip on Lake Tokegama.

The choir of the First Swedish M. E. church will meet at the church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, tomorrow evening for practice.

Miss Alice O'Toole, daughter of P. J. O'Toole of 3802 West Seventh street, is reported to be seriously ill of typhoid fever.

Miss Lydia Olesen of 320 North Nineteenth avenue west, who underwent an operation Tuesday at the Mayo hospital, Rochester, Minn., is reported to be recovering nicely. She will return in a few days.

Dr. and Mrs. Adolph Olson of 321 North Twenty-third avenue west have left for Niagara, N. D., where Dr. Olson will have his annual hunting trip.

The Luther League of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet this evening at the church parlors, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. A short business session will be held.

R. at the beginning of the present year had still 213,901 members in good standing, as against 220,600 at the beginning of 1909. The loss during the year was 6,781, of which 5,323 was by death. The commander urged that recruiting measures be taken up among the large number of former Union soldiers who are not enrolled as Grand Army members.

The speaker noted a better general observance of Memorial day than formerly.

"Let us insist and do all in our power," he said, "that Memorial day shall be devoted solely and only to the purpose for which it was created. Let it be the one day of the year devoted to honoring our 'deathless dead,' for in that way we will teach the rising generation love of country, without which our nation cannot long survive."

He also urged the general co-operation of G. A. R. members in inducing a general observance of flag day.

Praise for Auxiliaries.

Commander-in-Chief Van Sant had commendation for the work of all the G. A. R. auxiliaries, praising the excellent work being done by the Woman's Relief corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans. Of the Sons of Veterans, he said:

"This can be made a still grander organization. It is constantly increasing in numbers and influence. The Sons of Veterans, with proper encouragement, should soon be the largest patriotic body of men in the world. That it may be such is my earnest wish. The Sons of Veterans should have all the encouragement possible from the Grand Army of the Republic. It is a matter of great satisfaction that the Sons meet with us this year. I trust our national encampments may in the future be held at the same time and in the same place."

Of the more liberal pension legislation recommended by the last annual encampment and urged at Washington by its committee, Commander-in-Chief Van Sant said:

"I regret that nothing was accomplished, but it was no fault of the committee. Congress would not pass any general pension legislation. However, some 6,000 private pension bills were enacted.

Keep up Pension Work.

"The committee canvassed the matter industriously with senators and representatives, but to no purpose. The government was facing a deficiency in its revenues and retrenchment and the strictest economy was the watchword. This was the reason given for inaction. In my judgment, in view of the changed conditions in our country's financial affairs, if this encampment should again recommend this measure, it would likely pass.

"The Grand Army of the Republic has ever stood for the recognition of the services of its members, regardless of length of service—the ninety-day man as well as the veteran who served throughout the war. If the former did not stand in line of battle, he stood in the line of duty, and should have just consideration."

The commander-in-chief expressed himself as particularly gratified at the increasing fraternalization of the "Blue and the Gray." He voiced his pleasure at the cordial reception given him during his recent official visit to the Southern departments, not only from the former Union soldiers, but from ex-Confederates.

Blue and Gray Reunions.

"In all cities, when possible," he said, "I urged joint meetings of the Blue and the Gray. We had many gatherings of this character, and no more loyal and patriotic sentiments were ever uttered than by the men who fought on the other side.

"Are you not pleased to learn that our comrades are living in peace and harmony with our late enemies? This is as it should be. Both armies were composed of brave men and they should and do mutually respect each other. We of the North can testify that no braver troops were ever marshalled for conflict than our late enemies—and we now realize that no men ever made greater sacrifices for what they believed to be right than our former foes.

"Comrades, we were the victors, and we can afford to be magnanimous to our old foes. It is easy for the victor to forgive, but when the vanquished absolves himself from all bitterness he has truly gained the most cherished trait of a noble character.

Victor and Vanquished.

"We won—they lost. We returned to our homes with the shouts of victory ringing in our ears—our cause triumphant. They were defeated, their cause lost, and they returned to homes destroyed, barns empty, money worthless, slaves free and ruin all about them. Any but a brave people would have yielded to these adverse conditions—not so with them. Bravely as they fought during the war, they now fought the battles of life, and the splendid growth and development of the South since the close of the war is the South's grandest and most enduring monument.

"United as we are now, our country is destined to make a new era of progress. We have by our united efforts advanced to the highest pinnacle of fame, and become a mighty world power with our influence everywhere potential. Who does not rejoice that our Union is one and indivisible, and will remain so forever."

No Suffering From March.

The veterans did not show any ill effects of yesterday's long march and were about bright and early. Those not called into the business session of the encampment planned to spend the day in enjoying the many attractions of the city. Beautiful weather again favored the veterans.

Many matters affecting the welfare of the Grand Army veterans will come before the encampment. The question of pensions will come up, the veterans urging that the lowest pensions granted be considerably increased. From latest information there are about 562,000 names on the pension rolls. The government estimates there are 65,000 Union men not drawing pensions, making the total number of survivors 627,000.

When the representatives of the veterans went into executive session there appeared to be no doubt that John E. Gilman of Boston would be elected commander-in-chief.

The matter of incorporating the Grand Army of the Republic will probably come before the encampment. The commander recommends in his report that the national organization be incorporated under federal laws.

Lincoln's Name in "America."

The department of Kentucky wants the national hymn "America" to include the name of Lincoln. It has proposed as an amendment to the rules and regulations of the organization that the following lines be used in patriotic and memorial exercises in singing "America":

"A reunited land,
'Neat Lincoln's guiding hand,
Our love we give;
Land tyranny defied,
Land war can ne'er divide,
Land soldiers glorified,
For thee we live."

The Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Army Nurses and Daughters of Veterans hold business meetings today.

FIGHT FOR PHYSICIAL VALUATION OF ROADS IS BEGUN BY STUBBS

uation of railroads by the interstate commerce commission, and this should be done before any general reason why badly managed, badly constructed, poorly located and over-capitalized roads should prosper than a badly managed business of any kind.

"The general policies of the railroads throughout the United States to favor large centers and build up great cities at the expense of the rural community, is little less than a crime against civilization."

Court Order Disregarded.

A charge that Western railroads have violated the famous injunction secured by the government in the trans-Missouri rate case is made by Illinois delegates to the conference. The will urge the adoption of resolutions calling for the prosecution of the alleged offenders for contempt of court. The Illinois delegates are: U. G. Orrdorff, A. J. Street, C. B. Fox, H. C. Barnard, C. B. Gregory, J. B. Bartholomew, A. R. Elbi and John M. Glenn (secretary). The resolutions brought with the delegation were drawn by Clifford Thorne, attorney for the National Livestock association, the Corn Belt Meat Producers' association and other similar organizations.

The injunction referred to was issued in the case of the United States against the Trans-Missouri Freight association in the United States circuit court, Eighth district, Kansas, its issuance being upon direct mandate of the supreme court of the United States. It sought to enjoin the railroads of the Trans-Missouri Freight association from conspiring together or agreeing to fix freight rates.

timony in support of their contention that a raise of rates is needed at this time are the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, Iowa Central, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Chicago & Alton, Missouri Pacific, the Omaha road and the Great Western.

The remarkable financial returns of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad in the last ten years were brought out yesterday and additional testimony of a startling nature was adduced. The witness was Vice President Gardner.

Returned More Than Stock.

His testimony, elicted by cross-examination by Attorney Frank Lyon for the commission, was in short, that the company thought itself entitled to raise freight charges now in spite of the fact that in ten years it had returned to its stockholders in direct dividends and in unappropriated surplus more than the amount of capital stock.

The witness also controverted testimony of Illinois Central officers previously given, that the increase in cost of operation and maintenance was in a large measure due to higher cost of materials. Mr. Gardner's opinion was that the increase in cost of labor, and the restrictions put upon workmen by recent efforts of the unions, were the largest factors in cutting down net profits.

What Shippers Should Pay.

Mr. Gardner did agree, however, with the previous railroad officials who testified that a railroad ought to be permitted to charge shippers enough to pay dividends, fixed charges, cost of operation and maintenance, and in addition to return a yearly surplus. He, like they, believed that the surplus expended in improvements would increase the attractiveness of the investment.

"The Northwestern line will not go into bankruptcy next year, or the year after, or the one after that, unless it now raises rates," began Mr. Garner, touching upon this subject, "but I do say that regulation by the commission does not control the commercial conditions under which we get money, and unless we soon may get higher rates, we will, in the future, have to run out the red flag. We must be allowed a satisfactory cash surplus above everything each year, as a barometer of our surety for credit."

Revenue Estimates Low.

Attorneys for the shippers expressed surprise that railroad estimates of the increase in revenue called for by the advances scheduled and which have, because of their suspension by the commission, brought about this hearing, should be so small. The Illinois Central's estimate of its gain had the rates been made effective was approximately $37,000, that of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, was $567,990 for the coming year.

In a discussion it was explained by attorneys for these roads that while the present controversy hinges on proposed increases on only a few commodities, the roads were endeavoring to make it a broader question—one, in fact, that would embrace a general increase on all commodities because of the alleged poor financial condition into which the railroads claim they are drifting.

It was decided that this broader question would be entertained; that railroads should present testimony to this end, and that then the specific raises be considered.

More Trains and High Wages.

Asked about the nature of the company's freight, Mr. Gardner said the average train tonnage was low because of the large quantity of merchandise, or less than carload freight handled. He added that death and liability claims had increased against the road yearly, and the tonnage cost of transportation had grown, due, chiefly, he thought, to wages in the last instance, and to greater number of trains in the first.

Coal for fuel, costing the company $1.98 at the firebox, was a serious problem, he said, but he agreed it was not a cause which would so increase expenses as to form a basis for added freight rates.

tomobile riding and visits to wine rooms. The couple arrived at the roadhouse shortly after midnight.

Mrs. Singer was identified through her attorney, Frank Billman, who said that she had come to Cleveland from Detroit two weeks ago in order to escape Yates.

Until she is able to talk, the cause that led to the shooting will remain a mystery. At the jail the man gave his name as B. W. Yates.

Son to Identify Him.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—A son of Burton W. Yates, a well-known business man here, arranged today to leave at once for Cleveland to learn if the man who committed suicide in the jail there was his father.

Burton W. Yates has a wife and a grown family, one of his sons having just graduated from the University of Michigan. At his residence, 48 Alexandrine avenue west, his wife and family were overwhelmed by the report from Cleveland. B. W. Yates left here early in the week for a business trip to Canada, and his family understood that he would stop at Cleveland before returning.

Had Attempted Suicide.

The mental condition of Burton W. Yates had been causing his relatives and friends considerable anxiety for six months. About two months ago he threatened to commit suicide in the city ticket office of the Pere Marquette railroad here, but was overpowered by H. F. Moeller, general passenger agent of the railroad, who took Yates' revolver away from him.

Yates is said to have been left a fortune of nearly $500,000 by his father, but under conditions that gave him control only of the income from the property and not of the principal. He had lumber land interests in Canada and Ohio and among other business interests was secretary of the Point Aux Basques Resort assocoation, which owns a summer resort on Lake Huron. In athletics he was well known as an enthusiastic curler.

LYCEUM—Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures.
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville.

OLD SOLDIERS NIGHT.

Many to Attend Event in Honor of Fiddlers at the Orpheum Theater.

Tonight will be Old Soldiers' night at the Orpheum theater the affair being planned in compliment to the Old Soldiers' Fiddlers, who are appearing on the bill this week and of the members of Gorman and J. B. Culver post of this city. The fife and drum corps of the Gorman post will be the complimentary guests of the theater management and nearly 100 members of the two posts have made arrangements to attend. The old soldiers will be escorted from the hotel by the fife and drum corps and there is much interest being shown in the event.

The theater will be decorated in flags and the national colors and the spirit of the entire evening will be happily patriotic. The old soldiers of the city in whom the spark of patriotism burns a bit more brightly than perhaps is true of the younger generation, welcome an opportunity of seeing the spirit of patriotism they so cherish being emphasized.

The pleasure of the evening can not but communicate itself and the Orpheum bill tonight promises to be one of particular pleasure to the audience and the performers.

PIERCE PLAYERS TO RETURN TO LYCEUM.

An announcement that will carry a considerable degree of pleasure to a number of patrons of the drama is to the effect that the Pierce Players, who established themselves firmly with local theater goers by their presentations of "Strongheart" and "The Squaw Man" at the Lyceum recently, are to return here for an engagement of six nights' duration, opening Tuesday, Sept. 27. During that time they will present three well known, high class royalty bills. Opening Tuesday and continuing Wednesday, they will present Rida Johnson Young's comedy of military life, "The Boys of Company B," in which Jack Barrymore appeared with considerable success. Thursday and Friday they will offer Edward E. Rose's dramatization of Anthony Hope's famous masterpiece, "The Prisoner of Zenda." For the concluding two nights of the engagement Augustus Thomas' dramatization of Richard Harding Davis' well known novel "Soldiers of Fortune" will be the offering.

All of the above mentioned pieces will be presented with the exact replicas of the original scenic production.

IMPROVED BILL PLEASES PATRONS.

The improved bill, the first under the new system in vogue at the Bijou, is meeting with favor from the patrons of the house. Every performance has been well attended this week and, judging from the comment made, the innovation will meet with success. The Heim children are favorites with this week's crowds and the act is considered one of the best the vaudeville house has had in many months.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

Heartburn, Gas, Headaches and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort all of any kind of food you eat.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Of course, it's all right for everyone to make a fair living, and the designers and artists and things, of course, have to change the styles, but when it comes to getting into your new autumn gowns by first applying talcum powder and then using a shoe horn, haven't things gone far enough?

There are plenty of people who can respond with fervor in their tones, "I guess yes." Most heartily do they guess yes.

Weakly has woman contributed her share toward increasing the prosperity of the world. She has purchased hair when it made her esthetic soul shiver as she temporarily scalped herself every night. And why, forsooth? Because everyone expected it and when she appeared chaste and severely simple in nothing but her own locks, some male relation with the disarming frankness of male relations, inquired, "Why don't you fix your hair in some simple classy style like that," while he points out a billowy mass of purchased puffs that adorn a most artificial foundation even. But let it pass.

After weakly looking at the advertisements of the portion of attire that is always spoken of in the plural and which comes in boxes about two feet long, instruments of torture that compress and subdue, inventions that have made the sitting down a matter, in many cases, of a sudden rising up again; even this has been tolerated, but think of the bolster gown.

Words fail, hope expires, ambition ceases, independence dies when the bolster gown is contemplated. It is like unto the doll clothes of long ago, made by amateur fingers, straight and shapeless, the same size from neck to ankles with no material wasted in giving loose lines. Do you know what's going to happen when you attempt to sit down in a bolster gown?

If you don't know, can't you guess?

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

Splendid Exhibit at the Glen Avon Church.

A harvest home festival was held last evening at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church and all of the members of the community, where the avocation of everyone is growing such fruit and vegetables as can not be grown in any other portion of the city, according to the gardeners, brought samples of their season's work for exhibition. The whole exhibit was so praiseworthy that it was purchased by the men guests and will be turned over to the Commercial club for exhibition in the central part of the city that no one need remain in ignorance of the results that can be obtained from Hunter's Park soil.

Supper was served and covers were laid for 250 of the enthusiastic gardeners. Rev. J. C. Faries presided as toastmaster and he gave away the Hunter's Park secret of growing potatoes in a dry season such as the last one has been. "Plant onions with the potatoes," said Mr. Fairles, "and the close proximity of the onion will make the potatoes eyes water and the problem is solved." There was informal toasts by William Pryor, Arthur Hanford, W. J. McCabe and J. A. McGaughey, and they were much enjoyed.

Smith; lucious corn and tomatoes were from the garden of Lucius Whipple, and the largest pumpkin shown was from the garden of Albert Gillis. A fine Hubbard squash came from the garden of Mrs. John McLeod, and Italian squash in a fine specimen was exhibited by Como Pontilana. Gourds and immense cauliflowers came from W. C. Sherwood's garden, and H. W. Coffin sent apples, wonder berries and garden huckleberries. Wild plums, apples, grapes and cantaloupes were the offering of E. F. Alford.

Lack of Companionship Is Chief Handicap of Royal Children

CHILDREN OF THE CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY.

PRINCE LUITPOLD OF BAVARIA.

These little princes have a good time in spite of their restrictions. Other children might think it was all very fine to be princes of a reigning house or even heir of a grand duke. But not all royal houses are wealthy and little princes do not necessarily have all that their hearts crave.

Prince Wilhelm Friedrich and Prince Ludwig Ferdinand of Germany probably lack for few of the toys which please the childish heart and little Prince Johann Leopold of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha has a pony. Prince Leopold of Belgium, the heir to the throne, may sail a boat when he chooses and Prince Luitpold of Bavaria, who is the great grandson of the regent, enjoys life much like other children of his age. Little princes do not mingle much with other little boys and it is probably the lack of companionship which narrows their lives more than the lack of other opportunities.

The Myopic School Girl

By CARA REESE.

She belongs to the "myopics." That is where the trouble lies with the school girl who does not want to return to school.

The psychologists have been at work on the type for some time past and have now classified or grouped under a heading these sort of children. There are lots of boys who do not care to go back to their studies, but the boys are not really myopics, for they have certain well defined ideas concerning their own future. They want wages and jobs. With the myopic girls the case is different. They tell not, nor spin, nor dream of a future; it is coiffure, candy or chewing gum and nothing doing in kitchen or to eke out the family income.

The myopic girl is the girl who is never equal to an occasion, who plays sick at examination time, who gives no thought of the future and lules away the precious training which might become capital. The myopic girl rarely sees beyond her own nose, she stands in her own light, her mental vision is "short sight." The myopic girl shirks school tasks and home tasks. There is no effort made toward perfecting a training and raising values, domestic or commercial. There is no ambition. It is all a case of "near sightedness," of sitting around or of aimless inattention.

None of this applies to girls who have certain circumstances thrust upon them. There is many an ambitious maiden who would gladly "take charge" of home and kitchen, or who would joyously accept the advantages offered by a good education or who is eager to attain to a pictured future or some ideal, but the conditions are such that there must be inaction. The myopic type is of another sort entirely. It deals with the present and never takes into consideration its own capabilities or responsibilities. It is a short-sighted, inefficient type.

And the myopics do not include school girls only. They are found among the newly weds. They have given no thought to the cares and responsibilities of a married life; they have made no preparation; they are incapable of rearing offspring or making a home; they hang as an incubus about some good partner's neck. The myopics never have a bank account; they never make an investment; they never look ahead and they never plan futures for their family nor build up nor inspire toward broader outlook and far-reaching influence. They eat, drink corrected by proper measures the myopic condition is hereditary. Unless corrected by proper measures the myopic transmits the short-sightedness from generation to generation.

Now, this does not mean that a girl should be literally forced to a school room to which she has taken an unaccountable dislike. It does not mean a case where there is a possible physical ailment which dulls ambition and foreshortens the outlook. It does not mean the healthy, willful girl in the early teens who is unwilling to submit to any discipline and who insists on recklessly ignoring advantages that may never come again and who has not the slightest idea of self-helpfulness. Should the future bring even ordinary trials, alas for Miss Myopic.

Simple School Frocks

By MRS. GEORGE BRANDT WINTHROP.

"School outfits" is a legend prominently displayed at the present time in shop windows—a timely reminder to parents of the passing of the holiday season and the necessity of over-hauling their daughters' wardrobes and supplying them with the outfit that is to do duty until the Christamas holidays.

It is practically a new outfit from head to foot that the school girl needs for the winter term. Not only has she outgrown her summer clothes, but she requires to be fitted with warm winter clothing.

Simplicity is the distinguishing feature of the school outfit of the present day. Extravagance in dress is steinly discountenanced by girls' schools of the best class, and whatever might be the personal inclination of mothers it is kept in check by the decree of the principal. Elaborate clothes, they know, would be sent back. One might say the more fashionable the school the simpler the outfit. Frilled and lace-trimmed lingerie is not encouraged and rustling silk linings are tabooed.

One or more semi-evening dresses are required, which means an evening cloak and evening shoes. A gymnasium costume is essential; sometimes a swimming costume is needed, and at schools where gardening is included in the curriculum a gardening costume—a short-skirted overall—is worn.

THE EVENING STORY

How Jorkings Joined

By William Pollock.

Precisely at 7 o'clock the sergeant major's stentorian voice resounded through the big drill hall:

"Recruits, fall in!"

The babble of forty tongues instantly ceased, and there was a quick, solid movement towards the midde of the hall. For two desperate seconds a youth made frantic efforts to force his way out of the alert, hustling throng of recruits.

"Excuse me," he gasped to one in particular, swaying first to right and then to left.

"This way, you ass!" hissed a stern-faced, Sandow-like being, giving him a poke in the small of the back.

"Fall in there, smarter, and stand still," roared the sergeant major, eyeing the double line fiercely.

The meek-looking youth made a half step out of the place into which the Sandow-like being had pushed him, hesitated, shuffled his feet nervously, and blushed.

The sergeant major glared at him. "Didn't you hear what I said? Fall in!"

There was a half-suppressed snicker from the squad as the meek-looking youth, obviously sorely embarrassed and ill at ease, got into line.

"Shun, as you were. Smarter now. Shun; that's more like it. I'll take the roll," said the sergeant major.

About the middle of the rank he came to the meek-looking youth.

"Yes," he said shortly.

"I—I," began the meek-looking youth.

"I—what?" snapped the sergeant-major. "Hurry up, man."

"I—I only wanted to say—"

The sergeant major tapped his book impatiently with his pencil. "I've no time to listen to anything now; see me after parade. Come on, name, out with it."

The meek-looking youth made another brave effort at conversation. "But, really, if you will excuse me—"

"Excuse you," cried the sergeant major angrily. "I won't excuse you anything. It's time you learned that the first duty of a soldier is obedience. What's your name?"

"Jorkings," said the youth, rather indignantly.

"I Jorkings," repeated the sergeant major, writing it down.

"Next."

He finished the roll, and then faced the squad, mostly composed of first fortnight "rookies."

"Shun. Front rank. Number, from right to left—and keep your heads still. Number."

"One, two, three," snapped out the front rank, and "Nine," said the Sandow-like being in his turn. Jorkings had his mouth partly open, but remained dumb.

"Ten, you idiot," whispered the Sandow-like one between his teeth, giving him a surreptitious dig with his elbow.

"But I'm—" began Jorkings.

"As you were!" roared the sergeant major, fixing a ferocious eye upon him. "The same man at it again. Number."

This time Jorkings managed to bleat out a protesting sort of "ten."

"Now we'll go on to forming fours," said the sergeant major. "On the command, 'Form fours,' the odd numbers of each rank stand still; the even numbers take a pace to the rear with the left foot and a pace to the right with the right foot—now what's the matter with that man?"

"That man" — Jorkings—a nervous, bewildered look on his pale face, was holding up a rather ashamed-looking hand as a schoolboy does in class.

"Please, sir," he faltered, "may I explain?"

Explain? No!" thundered the exasperated sergeant major. "I can do all the explaining without your help. You'll get yourself into trouble if I have much more of it. As you were, form fours."

The Sandow-like being gave Jorkings a shove backwards and behind him. "Buck up," he growled softly.

"There's a man out of his place down there," said the sergeant major, walking toward the end of the line.

The instant his back was turned, Jorkings darted out of his place and made a dash for an opening marked "Exit."

But "the major" heard him. Turning round and striding rapidly after him, he roared: "Halt! Stop that man there."

Two men who were looking on at the drill immediately barred the way of the terrified Jorkings.

"How dare you, sir? What d'you mean by falling out without permission? D'you think you're playing at soldiering? Did you join for a game?" bellowed the sergeant major.

"But—but I haven't joined," stuttered Jorkings, almost weeping.

"Haven't joined? Then what are you doing here?"

"I came to have a drink with a friend in the canteen, but I don't see him about," explained Jorkings, desperately. "That's all."

Weighing the Stars

By JOHN WATSON WHYTE.

Before any computation can be made as to the character of a substance its specific gravity must be ascertained, and reference is often made to the specific gravity of a body without a clear understanding of the meaning of the term.

Everything must be arrived at by comparison, and we only learn with certainty that such an object is that which we take it to be from actual experience of objects which are different, and a comparison, of the differences enables us to be certain of our suppositions.

Therefore if we wish to determine the weight of a body we can only do so by taking a second body the weight of which is known and by comparing the two in a form of simple rule-of-three, such as by counterpoising it with known weights in a balance, obtain the weight which before was unknown.

Specific gravity is also governed by infinite laws, for it is found that where the magnitudes of bodies are equal their specific gravities run directly as their densities or weights. Those thirty-three bodies of which the weights are equal have their specific gravities inversely as their magnitudes while those having their specific gravities equal have their weights as their magnitudes.

Consequently the weights of bodies to each other must be in compound ratio of their specific gravities and magnitudes. It follows therefore that if any two of these three—weight, magnitude, specific gravity—can be ascertained, the other can always be found, be it of a body close at hand or of a distant star like the sun.

Instruments of known power of magnification enable the investigator to judge of size; others give substance, character, and so on, from which are calculated weight, distance, gravity, etc. with an accuracy little short of wonderful.

Thus from a average sample of earth, rock, sand, minerals, vegetables, etc., the specific gravity of the earth is ascertained; and as the magnitude is known, its actual weight can be arrived at. From these and other calculations can be found the power of its attraction on other worlds, and much that makes the mind marvel. All this may be obtained in various ways and compared for confirmation, so that a correct result is reached.

It is obvious that neither this nor any other planet or star can be weighed in balance, yet so accuraely is this done in effect by the scientist that were it possible to weigh any of them the difference between the actual and calculated weights would almost certainly be comparatively trifling.

What Every Husband Knows

By POLLY PAGET.

That it isn't safe for him to invite any old college chum home to dinner without sparring for time and the privlege a week or so ahead.

That it is wonderful how even the simplest gown has advanced in price, compared with what it was last year.

That it isn't safe to mention, even in a whisper, the altogether desirable and inexpensive place he has selected on his own account to have the family go this summer.

That it takes only one to make a quarrel.

That the day is coming when he will rise up in his might and assert himself, not suddenly and dignifiedly, but calmly and permanently.

That the household expenses could easly be cut in half if he only had the time to put his gigantic intellect and business experience upon them.

That one and one makes four or five.

That there is always one room in the house that simply cannot wait any longer to be decorated.

That the "little affair" in which a "few friends" are to be invited means in the end about two weeks' hard work, a house full of people, and an expenditure of many dollars.

That his own ideas about disciplining children are always too radical to be carried out.

That everybody gets the best of father.

Watch The Corner Windows

FRIDAY morning The Great Corner Windows [the Hub of phenomenal bargains] will be unveiled and the good people of Duluth will be formally introduced to our merchandising innovation—a departure that bids fair to revolutionize retailing methods.

Already the large department stores in the big cities have adopted and are successfully working this new advertising system. Under this new plan from 25 to 75 per cent of the amount previously spent for printer's ink is diverted into another channel—co-operative in its nature and distributing moneys that heretofore have gone to one or two publishers among the store's thousands of patrons.

This is done by selling certain merchandise at less than actual cost, and charging the loss to the advertising account. The goods so offered are displayed in the stores' most prominent windows—but other than directing the general attention to the windows, the special values are not advertised. No specific quotations of items or prices are made through the press. The good bargain news is disseminated abroad by the public, which is kept agog with interest by the phenomenal bargains offered. By word of mouth, the masses publish the gladsome news far and near, with greater effect and at less expense than we could do it with printers' ink.

The workings of this plan will be forcibly demonstrated in a practical way Friday morning by the throngs of eager buyers that will fill this store in response to the wonderful values offered for the day.

MANY TO BE PROSECUTED

Attorney General Takes Hand in Devils Lake Trouble.

Prominent Officials Are Said to Be Implicated.

Devils Lake, N. D., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney General Andrew Miller has taken a hand in the prosecution of the several cases of alleged law violations brought prominently to the front in the raids made by Sheriff Belford and a posse of citizens Tuesday morning, at the close of which Dan V. Brennan, a leader in the reform movement, was made the mark for a would-be assassin's bullet.

The attorney general of the state arrived on the ground yesterday and has been conducting a very thorough investigation of the situation. He is satisfied that there is sufficient evidence on which to base the charges that have been preferred against at least a few of the men accused of wrong doing and will remain on the ground to prosecute the actions, assisting the local officials.

For some time it is claimed that Devils Lake has been run on the "wide open" plan, and the conditions have not been entirely satisfactory to the law enforcing officials of the sinte. The matter was brought to public notice just a day prior to the raids made by the citizens, through resolutions drawn up by the pastors of the leading churches of the city, in which they protested against a continuation of the present situation.

Just how far the prosecutions to be launched by the attorney general will extend is uncertain, but it is claimed that the dragnet may get certain prominent officials.

Dan Brennan, the young newspaper publisher who was wounded by a bullet in an attack following the raids, has been made the victim of three unsuccessful murder attempts within a very short time. On one occasion he was held up while going to his home quite late at night, but he proved the master of his opponent and escaped uninjured. About a week ago he was made the mark for a heavy stone that was thrown at him in the dark, it only missing his head by a few inches. Since that time he has been armed with a revolver, and when attacked in his office early Tuesday morning did not hesitate to use it.

BURKE'S TOUR A SUCCESSFUL ONE

Governor Well Received in Cass County, N. D.

Casselton, N. D., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John Burke will complete the first step of his campaign for re-election in Casselton tonight, having made a four-day tour of Cass county with considerable success. At several of the towns the governor has been made the honor guest at banquets given by his enthusiastic Democratic admirers, prairie chicken menus prevailing.

The governor expresses himself as being well pleased with the conditions in Cass county.

MERRY'S CAREER A CHECKERED ONE

Attempted to Steal Trainload of Sheep at One Time.

Hettinger, N. D., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.) — Charles F. Merry, now in the custody of the Adams county officials to serve a sentence of eight months imposed on him in the district court and affirmed by the supreme court, will have a long time to wait for freedom if the plans of the authorities in several other counties in this state and in South Dakota are carried out. The present plan of action is to re-arrest Merry the moment he concludes his sentence in this county and the other charges against him will then be shoved, and should he be convicted, it will be a long time before he will be clear of the prison walls.

The prisoner, who was convicted here of fraudulent dealings, and who seemingly is entangled in much the same manner in other places, has had a decidedly checkered career within the past few years. One of the most spectacular stunts that he was ever charged with pulling off was a few years ago when he was accused of attempting to steal an entire trainload of sheep.

The trainload of sheep in question was being shipped from Montana to South St. Paul, and was unloaded in Dickinson for the purpose of grazing for a short time. At this point Merry is alleged to have reloaded the sheep, shipping them out under a bill of lading showing the property as his own, and it was not until the train had passed St. Paul that it was stopped and the rightful owners gained possession. He had billed the sheep through to Chicago.

Upham, N. D., Sept. 22—(Special to The Herald.)—Although one cheek had been almost entirely cut off, and with his jaw bone exposed for about two inches, Oscar Thorderson, aged 14 years, did not lose his nerve or presence of mind, but instead made haste to catch a team of runaway horses that had caused the injury, hitched them to a buggy and drove to town, entering the local hospital, where he fell exhausted to the floor from the loss of blood. The lad had been engaged in plowing when the accident happened, being caught under the plow when the team ran away. One cheek was almost entirely slashed off, a large piece of it being torn out.

Murder also is the charge against Guiseppi Sprgarelli, who is lodged in the Dickinson county jail at Iron Mountain. The victim in this case was Gust Johnson. The two men were miners and while waiting to be conveyed down the Pewabic shaft had involved in a scuffle. Johnson was impaled with a candlestick and died shortly.

FINDS WIFE DEAD.

Michigan Man Has Strange Dream With Startling Results.

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 22.—A remarkable story comes from Munising, Alger county. Along about 2 o'clock in the morning, it appears, Martin Anderson, a well known citizen, dreamed that his father, who has been dead many years, approached the bed and reached out and grasped the hand of his sleeping son. The touch awoke the man. So vivid did the dream appear that Anderson turned to his wife to tell her of the vision. He found the woman dead. She had retired the previous evening apparently in the best of health. Physicians summoned, pronounced the demise due to heart disease.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Mandan, N. D.—A record for quick prosecution of a criminal was accomplished by the Morton county judiciary when an absconding forger and thief was convicted and started serving his sentence in the penitentiary three days after he had committed the crime. The forger did his work at Glen Ullin by forging a check on Barnes & Nelson for $5 and incidentally stealing a suit of clothes.

No one slept in the building, and the visit of the burglars was not known until Mr. Turbis opened the store Monday morning. While search for the robbers is being vigorously made, no clew has been obtained.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Janesville — Detectives are investigating the mysterious shooting of Mrs. John Myers, 35 years old, a wealthy widow, who was shot down when she stepped from her home. Marinette — The use of a gun as a cane in scrambling over windfalls, cost the life of John Garb, 26 years old, resident of Maple Grove, Mich., twenty miles north of Marinette. A searching party came on Garp's body after it had been missing three days. The imprint of a gun trigger was found on the windfall near the body. Most of the head was shot away.

Chippewa Falls—While the balloonist was making ready to go up at the Northern Wisconsin state fair, a deplorable accident took place, which furnished an interesting spectacle for the big crowd. The big bag was being blown up, when a rope gave way or someone interfered and the blaze from the fire caught the material and away it went. It burned nicely until the final collapse.

Marinette—Edwin Ulseth, prominent merchant of Calumet, Mich., won a race against death from Marinette to his home Monday night. Postmaster E. W. Vorhees of Brooklyn and Michael J. Dady, also of Brooklyn, Republican leader of the First assembly district of Kings county, also visited Col. Roosevelt.

Col. Roosevelt, Representative W. W. Cocks and Mr. Dwight did some close figuring on the chances for victory at Saratoga, in the light of returns from the primaries. The colonel had not a word to say as to what he thought of his prospects, now that the primaries were over, but from what Mr. Dwight and Mr. Cocks said, it was gathered that they were all hopeful.

STEPHENS IS NAMED FOR COLORADO GOVERNOR.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 22.—State Senator John B. Stephens of El Paso county was nominated for governor by the Republican state convention, defeating Merle D. Vincent of Delta by a vote of 931 to 36. Vincent was the progressive caandidate. The progressive Republicans won a victory in the platform, however. In one of the sharpest fights in the history of the party in this state they prevented the adoption of a resolution condemning the initiative and referendum, securing instead a plank favoring its submission to the people and commending the action of Republican legislators who voted for such submission.

ONE KILLED IN WRECK.

Twenty-Five Other Persons Are Injured in Ohio.

Lima, Ohio, Sept. 22.—The Chicago & Erie railroad fast train No. 4, eastbound, was wrecked near Conant, nine miles west of here, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, killing an aged woman and injuring twenty-five persons. The smoker, day coach and two Pullmans left the track and were overturned in a ditch twenty feet deep. The track, at the point where the wreck occurred, had recently been raised several inches. Mrs. Straller of Brooklyn, N. Y., was instantly killed, while her son, seated by her side, escaped injury.

The cars were badly crushed, and from their position in the ditch the fact that only fatality is recorded is regarded as miraculous.

SPECIAL MEETING OF GILBERT COUNCIL

Board of Health Reports Epidemic of Typhoid Fever.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a special meeting of the city council last evening Lazarus Rubenstein was appointed a member of the light and water commission to succeed E. A. Haenke, who has resigned. The council drew up bonds for $20,000 that are to be voted on Tuesday at special election, which will determine whether a sewage system will be installed here this fall.

The board of health which consists of Dr. Francis, David M. Mouser, and Prof. Charles L. Newberry, appeared before the council and reported the town was in the midst of a typhoid fever epidemic and that five cases were now being treated. The board recommended that strenuous steps be taken to prevent the spread of the disease, and residents who fail to clean up their premises, and merchants who allow their stocks to remain in an unsanitary condition, will be arrested.

The bonds of David M. Mouser, who has been appointed city clerk, succeeding Clyde M. Campbell, who has resigned, were accepted. They are for $3,500. Mr. Mouser will take cargo of the office Oct. 1.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patrick Murphy, who has been up before Judge Brady four or five times on the charge of being drunk was given one moro chance Tuesday to straighten up and go to work.

Joe Smith was arrested on the charge of vagrancy and after being severely lectured was given twenty-four hours in which to leave town.

John Baka, a Pine street saloon keeper now residing at the Mahoning location, was arrested on the charge of being drunk and disorderly, and beating his wife. He was given thirty days in the county jail at Duluth without the customary option of a fine. This is Backa's fourth or fifth time before the court on the same charge and this accounts for the severity of the sentence.

Frank Stabo, who has been making his home with Alex Lesesky at Carson Lake was brought in today by Officer Cole charged with blind pigging. Lesesky is at the present time out on bail, himself charged with the same offense. The men have been a great source of nuisance to the Carson Lake residents during the past six months and it is the intention of the police to break up this manner of selling liquor in this district.

HILL CLIMBING.

Food That Makes It a Pleasure.

"I have a large amount of laborious brain-fatiguing work to do," writes a young lady from Richmond, Va. "After returning from the office, I have found myself so completely exhausted that I was unable to engage in any recreation or amusement.

"I tried several expensive tonics without effect, and finally noticing an advertisement of Grape-Nuts as a food recommended to brain workers, I purchased a package and tried it.

"I found it extremely palatable, and after a week's use (two meals of it a day) I noticed a general improvement in my condition. The feeling of extreme exhaustion was growing less, and strength visibly increased.

"I began to put on flesh and felt ready to enter into the amusements of the other members of the family, and now after using the food for eleven months, I am like a new person. I do not have the sensation of fatigue; my brain is clear; eyes bright; skin rosy and healthy and my muscles have strengthened to a marked degree.

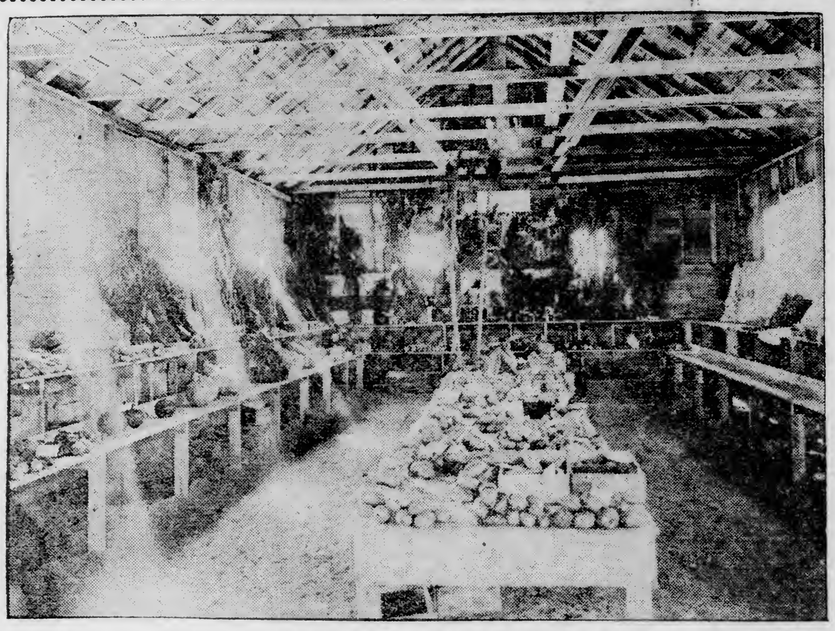

"I am now able to walk from the office home, a distance of 3½ miles, up one of the steepest hills for which our city is famous, and to engage in any amusements that may come in my way.

"I am also using Postum with excellent results. My sister-in-law, who lives in Norwalk, Conn., writes me that she use it also, and has not suffered from the distressing sick headaches she formerly had."

McMahon is ahead 17 votes, having 265, while H. F. Fowler has 248. E. church, Rev. J. F. McLeod officiating in the absence of Rev. T. S. Gadams. The church was filled to overflowing with sorrowing friends, and the floral tributes were many and beautiful, showing the esteem in which the young man was held in this city. The Maccabees were in charge of the funeral and a large number of them attended the funeral and followed the procession to the cemetery, and many members of the Machinists' union, of which the deceased was a member, were in atendance. Edward Sigler, Bert Robbins and Edward Larson of the Maccabees, and Arvid Bostrom, John Wallum and Alfred Elg of the machinists acted as pall bearers.

The funeral of John Strand was held from the home yesterday afternoon, interment being at Two Harbors cemetery. The body of Ingvald Aronsen, who drowned with the above two, has not as yet been found, although parties have been searching for the past few days.

MANY WOMEN VOTE IN GREENWAY TOWNSHIP.

Marble, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The election in the Greenway township held at Marble, was quite exciting. THE HIBBING FIREMEN PUT IN A BUSY DAY.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local fire department had three calls yesterday, the first being to the place formerly occupied by Fred Powell as a roadhouse at Nelson. The building, which was a big two-story frame structure, was entirely destroyed before the department could reach the scene. The home of Dan Ankerbrand on Superior street was also endangered by a small fire which originated in a shed in the rear of the building. The fire was quickly extinguished with but very little damage. The last call was for a small blaze in the rear of the Chinese laundry on Center street. The fire in this case, however, was confined to a fence and no damage was done.

WHERE HAIR IS GROWN

Peru Women Vie With Each Other in Growing Hair.

Washington, D. C., Sept.,—Dr. Harley Porter, globe trotter and medicoscientist, says Peruvian women have the most luxuriant hair in the world. "Hair below the waist line is a common sight among them," said the doctor, "and I saw several women whom it was claimed had hair seven and eight feet in length. That country," he added, "would be a poor market for switches and 'rats.'

"On investigation, I found this unusual condition was due to the universal use of beta quinol, a quinine product, which removes dandruff and excess oil, and that women vie with each other in growing long and glossy hair. The tonic is made by mixing a half pint each of alcohol and warm water, or taking a pint of bay rum and adding an ounce of beta quinol. When men and women in this country realize that beta quinol can be had from their own druggist, baldness and the use of switches and 'rats' will disappear."

EVELETH MEN ARE WELL FAVORED POLITICALLY.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth will be very well represented on the political map as the result of the favorable outcome of the primary election. Young, who will be superintendent of the county schools; Nell McInnis, who has been re-elected county commissioner of the Sixth district. At the November election Eveleth will be represented by Charles Jesmore, who is the Democratic candidate for sheriff. A total of 944 votes was cast here and in each ward the local candidates were given large majorities.

Running at its highest speed the empty "special" sped out from the woods on a curve and plunged into the "local," which also was running at great speed. There was no chance for either motorman to prevent the accident. The local was torn apart as one might burst a paper bag.

The south bound car seemed to take the right-of-way. Like a giant missile it ploughed its way through the traffic-packed car coming in the opposite direction. Its heavier frame cut like a knife a pathway half the length of the opposing vehicle. It cut off seats an inche above the floor and smashed and packed in one ghastly mass the whole interior of the car, seats, lighting fixtures, luggage and the bodies of two-score passengers.

Were Horribly Mangled.

The bodies were horribly mangled. Legs and arms were severed, heads cut off and strips torn from the flesh of the victims. Of all the sixty in the car scarcely one escaped.

One heroic act which will stand out in the annals of the wreck is that performed by Conductor Spiller of the north-bound car. Though injured severely he staggered back the track and flagged the limited only a short distance away.

Ross Nelson, a reporter on the Bluffton Banner, was sent out to cover the wreck. While he knew that many inhabitants of his home town were in the ill-fated car, he had no knowledge that a relative was in the wreck until he uncovered the body of his brother Harold, fatally injured. Nelson died while on the way to a hospital. Dr. T. H. Cook of Bluffton, was one of those summoned to aid the injured. In going through the debris he came across the corpse of his brother, H. D. Cook, a grocer, who had been crushed to death.

State Board Taking Action.

That the blame will be placed is made apparent by the action of the Indiana state board of railway commissioners. Within a very short time of the accident, Commissioner A. A. Shane, who also is the special investigator for the board, had reached the scene of the wreck and had begun interrogration of traction officials and witnesses of the crash. This morning Mr. Shane declined to make known the results of his investigation, saying that it would have to be given out by the state board.

The schools and local courts will be closed the rest of the week.

This morning Superintendent of Transportation Frank I. Hardy sat heartbroken in his office in Fort Wayne.

"In a very short time we will be able to make a statement," said Mr. Hardy, "placing, so far as we can determine it, the blame for the terrible wreck. The extent of the accident appalls us, yet we are doing everything in our power to care for the dead and injured and to alleviate so far as we may, the anguish of relatives of the victims.

Will Decide on Responsibility.

"We have begun the most carefully scrutiny of the train orders bearing on the case and on every bit of evidence to fix the blame. The public shall soon known where the responsibility lies."

Around the undertaking establishments in Bluffton and Fort Wayne and at the hospitals in this city this morning were gathered anxious men and women. For the most part the bodies have been claimed, but in some instances where mutilation made identification difficult, the victim was not actually related to any one in the district, there was delay and confusion.

Among the victims of the wreck was Miss Pearl Sayler, a daughter of Mrs. Clara Sayler of Bluffton and a sister of Banker J. B. Sayler of Watseka, Ill., who was shot and killed by Dr. W. R. Miller a year or so ago. For this crime, which attracted widespread interest, Dr. Miller and Mrs. Sayler now are serving prison sentences.

PHYSICIANS ARE NATURALLY PREJUDICED against proprietary or advertised medicines, as the sale of these remedies decrease their incomes.

However this may be, the general public is benefited by the use of such standard medicines as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, with its wonderful record of thousands of cures among suffering women. We are very glad to say, however, that there are hundreds of honest physicians in the United States who do not hesitate to recommend such medicines.

And Yet—Woman Must Be Beautiful

(From Woman's National Magazine.)

"Oh, the bother and trouble that accompanies washing the hair! The long hours in unpresentable condition waiting for it to dry—the danger of catching cold—and, most of all, the knowledge that too much wetting makes hair coarse, dull, dead and brittle! And yet—and yet one must get rid of dust and oil and dandruff, and keep the hair looking at its very best.

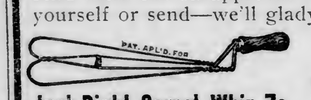

"If you would be beautiful, there is nothing so good as brushing the head with therox. It keeps the hair delightfully lustrous, light and fluffy, and promotes its growth. The scalp is made soft and pliant and immaculately clean. If you want abundant, glossy hair, mix four ounces of therox and four ounces of powdered orris root; keep the mixture in a sifter-top can, and sprinkle a little (say a tablespoonful) upon the head; then brush thoroughly through the hair. Do this once or twice a week."

MINNESOTA IN THE NEXT CONGRESS.

Minnesota at present has eight Republicans and one Democrat in the national house of representatives.

Of the eight Republicans three are out and above board in their stand on the vital issues of the day. Tawney is an out-and-out reactionary, and he has been defeated at the primaries. Lindbergh and Davis are out-and-out insurgents, and they were successful at the primaries and will be successful at the polls because they have no Democratic opponents. Davis had no opposition at the primaries.

The other five Republican congressmen are Clarence B. Miller of the Eighth, F. C. Stevens of the Fifth, F. M. Nye of the Fourth, Halvor Steenerson of the Ninth and A. J. Volstead of the Seventh. All of these were renominated, Volstead without opposition. All but Volstead have or will have Democratic opponents. The one Democratic congressman, Hammond of the Second district, has a Republican opponent, but his re-election is practically certain.

The five Minnesota Republican congressmen who have not definitely placed themselves can scarcely be classed as either insurgent or reactionary. They will not be insurgents, and they dare not be reactionaries. Yet there is doubt in each case as to the probable action of these men when issues arise in which the people have much at stake.

Minnesota has, to start with, Hammond, Democrat, and Davis and Lindbergh, proved progressives. It has defeated Tawney, and his place will be taken by either Anderson, insurgent, or Buck, Democrat. That will make four out of nine, anyway, that can be counted upon to vote with and for the plain people. Volstead is going back without opposition, and he must remain where he has placed himself, in the dubious column.

This leaves Miller, Steenerson, Stevens and Nye to work upon. If their places are gained, Minnesota's delegation in congress will be pretty nearly solid progressive. The insurgents have tried for all four of these places, and have failed. Steenerson at present has no Democratic opposition, but in all probability there will be an independent candidate against him. If there is not, he will join Volstead in the doubtful column.

Stevens is opposed by J. L. Gieske, a live and progressive Democrat. Nye is opposed by T. B. Dwyer, another live and progressive Democrat. Miller is opposed by Alfred Jaques, a good citizen, a square man, and a candidate who will make no promises that he will not keep, and break none that he has made.

The four votes that can be counted upon for government by and for the people—Buck or Anderson in the First, Davis in the Third, Lindbergh in the Sixth and Hammond in the Second, are so much to the good. In the present congress Minnesota has but three dependable votes—Hammond, Davis and Lindbergh. Four is better than three, but eight will be better still.

Nye, Stevens and Miller are able men, but they cannot be counted upon at all times. Miller's effusive promises have been proved to be broken reeds. He "listened well" as a candidate, but turned out to have a poor memory for his promises to the people. His renomination was no surprise in the circumstances; his re-election would be a great surprise.

THE SILLY FEARS OF BUSINESS.

We are glad James J. Hill read George Harvey's article in the North American Review on "The Conservation of Common Sense." It was a good article, and it was needed. Mr. Hill read it, and it prompted him to give out an interview approving it, as The Herald approved it several weeks ago, and calling attention to it, as The Herald did. As a successful financier and a competent manager of big business, Mr. Hill's word carries far, and it is to be hoped that it will carry as far as Wall Street.

Says Mr. Hill: "I can see no reason why the business men of the country should fear to engage in new enterprises, and no reason for the semi-paralysis that has crept over the country. It's only a senseless lack of confidence. And why this lack of confidence? Some man, somewhere, has grown timid over something or other, and has cried 'boo!' at his neighbor. His neighbor probably jumped and the next fellow took fright without knowing why he was frightened. And so on. It's just like a flock of sheep. If one starts to run, every sheep in the flock will follow, even if they die for it."

And then Mr. Hill quoted the Harvey article, and gave quite a bit of it wide circulation through his interview.

There will be folks who will say that Mr. Hill himself has cried "boo!" about as loudly as the next one; but at any rate it is good to hear him talking such excellent common sense and giving reassurance to his fellow-managers of big business.

There isn't, hasn't been and will not be the slightest hint of hurt to any legitimate enterprise in this country. To expect the American people to do harm to the industries that give them sustenance and that develop the riches of the nation is to give the people scant credit for good sense. There is no more reason to fear that the people will harm any legitimate industry than there is to fear that they will destroy their own homes, tear up the rails of the railroads, fill up the channels of their waterways, and set fire to their factories.

The people are going to insist upon a fuller participation in public affairs. They are going to insist upon reasonable regulation of industry. They are going to insist that people, not property, shall sound the dominant note in governmental action. But they are going to conserve property interests just as zealously as they ever did. The only difference is that they are going to make property interests servants to humanity, and not its masters. They are going to do all they can to foster every industry, but they are going to insist that the prosperity that grows out of their efforts shall be more widely distributed. Not less prosperity, but more widely distributed prosperity, is the present aim of the American people, and their insistence upon this offers no harm to any enterprise.

There isn't the slightest reason why industry should cease or even hesitate. The fear that has made business uncertain and slow is a stupid fear. There isn't a thing the matter anywhere that should cause any interruption in any line of business. The managers of big business must reconcile themselves to the fact that the people propose to conduct their own government in their own interests, and having mastered that task, they must realize that this new birth of government by and for the people means no harm to any honest enterprise.

TAWNEY AND THE DEMOCRATS.

Congressman Tawney, precipitated from his place of power in the Cannon organization by the outraged voters of his district, picks himself up after his tremendous fall and shouts that the Democrats did it, and that the fault lies with the primary election system.

If the primary election resulted in Tawney's defeat—which it most assuredly did—that is one long white score in favor of the primary election.

If the Democrats of the First district compassed Tawney's defeat—which is exceedingly doubtful—the result is a credit to the Democrats.

But Tawney's excuse for defeat, which blinks altogether the fact that it was the effect of the same revolt against the venal organization of his party that is sweeping the "old guard" out of power everywhere, does not square with the conventional criticism of the primary election made by those who long for the old days when nominations were made in back rooms and ratified later by boss-ridden conventions. That criticism is that the minority party goes into the majority party's primaries to nominate the weakest man in the hope of making victory easier at the polls. If the Democrats of the First district had been actuated by that motive, unquestionably they would have gone into the Republican primaries and voted for Tawney, because he would have been much easier for the Democratic candidate to beat than the insurgent candidate who defeated Tawney.

If any Democrats blundered into the Republican primaries in the First district and voted against Tawney, they did it because they were against him, against his methods and principles, and against the system of betrayal of the people for which he stands.

A PICAYUNE POLICY.

The threat to reduce the postal carrier service in the West end, if carried out, will give Duluth an excellent opportunity to judge the policy that prevails in the post-office department under Postmaster General Hitchcock.

For years there has been a deficit in the postoffice department. Because too much is paid the railroads for carrying the mails, and because the department does not count the immense amount of matter carried free for the various departments and for congressmen under privileges that are grossly abused, the receipts do not meet expenses.

A plain business man would look into the question of costs, in such a case, and overcome the deficit by reducing the rates paid to railroads, by cutting down the free mail privileges, and by charging the cost of carrying its mail to each department.

But Hitchcock isn't a business man. He is a politician, and he looks at such matters in a different light. His first idea, and that of President Taft, was to increase the cost of the people's reading matter by raising the mail rates on newspapers and magazines. That didn't prove popular, and now he is attacking the postal deficit by curtailing the postal service. In order to avoid the obvious remedies, he is making the postoffice less valuable to you and your neighbor than it used to be and than it should be.

Such absurdly unbusinesslike methods should be rebuked, and somebody with a gleam of business sense should be placed at the head of the postoffice department.

THAT ONEOTA DOCK SITE.

Even if it should require legislative action to transfer from the state to the city of Duluth the old state elevator site on the West end bay front, there shouldn't be the slightest difficulty about it, and the state should not attempt to make a profit by its sale.

The fight for a free dock system in Duluth is not a fight of the city of Duluth, but of the state of Minnesota. The railroads dominate the Great Lakes by their control of shipping and docking, and because of that fact every man, woman and child in Minnesota pays tribute.

The redemption of the Great Lakes waterway from this unthinkable hold-up—no other word will do—is as important to every other part of Minnesota as it is to Duluth.

The state, therefore, should be more willing to sell or lease this dock site to the city of Duluth on the most favorable terms possible.

STATE RATE-MAKING POWER ATTACKED.

In its session of 1907 the Minnesota legislature cut the maximum railroad passenger fare from 3 cents to 2 cents a mile, and reduced freight rates on various bulk commodities. The railroads appealed to the Federal court, and yesterday the master in chancery to whom the cases were referred rendered a sweeping decision against the state which, if upheld, practically denies the state any power at all to supervise railroad rates. It is held that the rate laws are unconstitutional because they are an interference with interstate commerce, and that they are confiscatory and unconstitutional again because they deprive the railroads of property rights without due process of law.

Of course this decision will be scrutinized by the higher courts, and they should consider it deeply. It is unthinkable that the courts should grant the railroads the right to fix rates without public regulation, and the law, whether it is constitutional or statute or judge-made, that grants them this privilege to prey, is un-American and insufferable.

Rhode Island is being swept by an epidemic of infantile paralysis. That is the kind of disease you would expect in a state that let Aldrich go back to the senate term after term.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SAYS PROPERTY OWNERS ARE IMPOSED UPON.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Referring to the action commenced against the board of education of the city of Duluth and Contractors Pastoret & Lawrence company, in The Herald of Sept. 20, under the heading "Pile of Dirt Causes Law Suit," only a very indefinite idea, if not an entirely erroneous one, is conveyed to the public of the character of the work which has been done, or the magnitude of the imposition upon the residents of the vicinity of the Nettleton school, and which has been the cause of the lawsuit in question. Our contention is that while the school board was sleeping, or at least had only one eye open, the contractor was making hay, and that notwithstanding the fact that the hillside residents were shouting in the ears of the school board to wake up and open the other eye, no action could be secured until the school building itself, although on one of the highest points in the city, was in danger of being covered.

The fact that the school grounds had been previously piled full of dirt by a benevolent contractor who saw virtue in a short haul, or that there was no wall there to keep it from washing down upon the surrounding property, seemed to have made no difference; so long as a team could climb up with a two wheeled scrapper full and do it quickly, that was all that was considered. There was not any other limit to the height to which it might be piled.

Perhaps it does not much concern the public and that the people of the district at large have not much interest in the manner of improving the school grounds and it may be immaterial to the general tax payers whether this half completed pyramid of dirt (a monument to its builders) is six feet or twenty-six feet, or whether it necessitates the expense of a seven-foot retaining wall where originally only an eighteen-inch wall was required; but we, who reside in its shadow and suffer from its presence, would be pleased to have it hauled down and removed. The great injustice to us and the permanent damage to our property and to the play grounds and surroundings, is so self-evident, that it is only necessary to see the condition of the play ground to appreciate it.

If the school grounds on the southerly side of the Central High school, on the upper side of Second street were filled full of dirt and raised to the level of the door steps, it would give some idea of the method employed to make a play ground at the Nettleton school, where it was only necessary in the first instance to spend a day or day and a half in grading it down and leveling it off. It was wholly unnecessary to import dirt from the grading on Sixth street.

Birds Are Public Servants.

New York Evening Post: An Oregon farmer last summer saw a bird hopping about on a bid in his vegetable garden in which a number of choice young plants had been destroyed. He promptly shot the bird, and then, to make sure he had got the real culprit, he cut open its stomach, only to find that there was no vegetable matter in it at all, while there were a number of insects and worms well known as garden pests. He concluded he would never shoot another bird; but he was only one of thousands of farmers who are not always able to distinguish their friends from their enemies. In response to numerous cries of birds in orchards and vineyards, the department of agriculture decided to place information on this point on an accurate basis by making a systematic investigation in California covering seventy of the most important birds of that state, from the farmers' and fruit-growers' standpoint. A careful study of the food habits of these birds showed that only four of the seventy species can be regarded as of doubtful utility. They are the linnet, California jay, stellar jay, and red-breasted sap-sucker; a reasonable reduction in the number of which may therefore be permissible when all the known methods of protecting fruit have been exhausted. Among the other species there are some, like the swallows, swifts wrens, and chickadees, which are so strictly insectivorous that they are extremely beneficial. Others may injure crops at certain times of the year, but the damage thus done is much smaller than the damage they prevent by eating insects. In Bulletin No. 34 of the Biological Survey it is suggested that farmers should look on birds as servants who have to be fed in return for the useful work they do.

Apple-Tree Hall.

There's an old spreading apple tree,
gnarly and wide,
In an orchard (I can't tell you where),
Where Dora and I can curl up side by side,
And nobody know we are there.
We go there on Saturdays—that is if it's fine,
And mother is willing—and all
Take our dolls and our dishes, and there we keep house
Till tea-time, in Apple-Tree hall.

There's the loveliest carpet, all wood-brown and gray,
And the walls have a pattern of green;
The windows are curtained the coziest way
That ever was thought of or seen;
And as for the ceiling, it's blue as the sky;
And we've crimson globe-lamps in the fall—
In the spring we have pink, and in summer use none
(Such a saving!) in Apple-Tree hall.

All the neighbors are charming—so musical, too!
Madam Thrush has a voice like a bird.
And the love songs she sings (in Italian, I think)
Are the sweetest we ever have heard.
Then the dryads and wood-nymphs dwell close to us, too,
Though they are too bashful to call.
The society really is quite of the best
When we're living at Apple-Tree hall.

O, I wish I could tell you one-half of our plays,
And the fine things we plan when we're there,
Of the books that we'll write and the deeds that we'll do
In the years that wait, shining and fair.
My mother says, sometimes—and so does Aunt Kate—
That these are the best days of all;
But we think it's just the beginning of fun,
Keeping house here in Apple-Tree hall.

Real Amusement.

The Delineator: Helen, aged 3, freshly dressed in white from head to toe, was left in her aunt's care on the piazza, while her mother finished dressing. "Auntie" was interested in her sewing, and looked up suddenly to find Helen missing. A minute's search revealed her on the walk, stamping her little feet in a shallow puddle left by a recent rain.

"Oh! Helen, Helen," exclaimed her aunt, horrified; "what are you doing?"

Without taking her eyes from the puddle, she replied, "I's just making the water wiggle."

AUNTIE DOLEFUL'S VISIT.

(By Mary Kyle Dallas.)

How do you do, Cornelia? I heard you were sick, and I stepped in to cheer up up a little. My friends often say, "It's such a comfort to see you, Auntie Doleful. You have such a flow of conversation, and are so lively." Besides, I said to myself as I came up the stairs, "Perhaps it's the last time I'll ever see Cornelia Jane alive."

You don't mean to die yet, eh! Well, now, how do you know? You can't tell. You think you are getting better! But there was poor Mrs. Jones sitting up, and everyone saying how smart she was, and all of a sudden she was taken with spasms in the heart and went off like a flash. But you must be careful and not get anxious or excited. Keep quite calm and don't fret about anything. Of course things can't go on just as if you were down stairs; and I wondered whether you knew your little Elly was sailing about in a tub on the mill-pond, and that your little Sammy was letting your little Jimmy down from the veranda roof in a clothes basket.

Gracious goodness? what's the matter? I guess Providence will take care of 'em. Don't look so. You thought Bridget was watching them? Well, no, she isn't. I saw her talking to a man at the gate. He looked to me like a burglar. No doubt she let him take the impression of the door-key in wax, and then he'll get in and murder you all. There was a family at Kobble hill all killed last week for $50. Now, don't fidget so; it will be bad for the baby.

Poor little dear! How singular it is, to be sure, that you can't tell whether a child is blind, or deaf and dumb, or a cripple at that age. It might be all, and you'd never know it.

Most of them that have their senses make bad use of them, though; that ought to be your comfort, if it does turn out to have anything dreadful the matter with it. And more don't live a year. I saw a baby's funeral down the street as I came along.

How is Mr. Kobble? Well, but finds it warm in town, eh? Well I should think he would. They are dropping down by hundreds there with sunstroke. You must prepare your mind to have him brought home any day. Anyhow, a trip on these railroad trains is just risking your life every time you take one. Back and forth every day, as he is, it's just trifling with danger.

Dear! dear! now to think what dreadful things hang over us all the time! Dear! Dear!

Scarlet fever has broken out in the village, Cornelia. Little Isaac Potter has it, and I saw your Jimmy playing with him last Saturday.

Well, I must be going now. I've got another sick friend, and I sha'n't think my duty done unless I cheer her up a little before I sleep. Goodby. How pale you look, Cornelia! I don't believe you have a good doctor. Do send him away and try some one else. You don't look so well as you did when I came in. But if anything happens, send for me at once. If I can't do anything else, I can cheer you up a little.

Killing the Birds.

London Standard: The havoc that is being wrought among birds to satisfy woman's vanity was pressed home by James Buckland in a striking speech at the annual meeting of the Selborne society.

"The whole volume of the bird life of the world is being reduced at an alarming rate," he said, and then he gave the reason—that, to obtain the feathers, the birds had to be killed in the breeding season.

At that time birds' natural fear of man disappears under the stress of providing for and protecting their young, and it is under conditions such as these that the old birds are shot and rifled of their plumes, and the young left to die of starvation in the nest.

Thirty years ago there were heronries in the United States which were estimated to contain about three million white herons, and at the same period these birds roamed widely over China in prodigious multitudes. But even these vast hordes could not withstand slaughter during the breeding season and now the white heron is practically exterminated both in North America and in China. Now the same havoc is being wrought in South America—in every country of the world, indeed, where the white heron is found.

The feeding grounds of the American jabiru, the largest but one of the storks, are also the scenes of slaughter during the very period when the birds should have respite. Thirty thousand quills of these birds are sold annually in London alone, and as the species was never very numerous, it will soon be wiped out.

So wary is the bird that it keeps beyond the range of a fowling piece, but said Mr. Buckland, the jabiru is shot today with a softnosed bullet from a Mauser rifle—a deadful missile, which often tears away a great piece from the body of the bird. Even in this sickening condition, unless the multilation be such as to prevent flight, the majestic creature will take wing in one last effort to escape. Of a sudden it falls lifeless to the earth—and woman's wish is gratified.

So far this year but three plume sales have taken place in London, yet in those three sales alone there were catalogued the skins of over 25,000 humming birds.

Even the law is set to defiance by the gangs of men who make a livelihood by the slaughter of the birds. Not long ago a gang was surprised on one of the islands which the United States had decreed to be a "bird reservation" and these men had in their possession the plumes of 300,000 birds.

There was no bird in the world toward which the eyes of the zoologists were turned in more admiring wonder than that pride of Australia, the lyre bird. Yet the rarer one bird became the fiercer grew the competition to secure its tail feathers, and not long ago a party of plume hunters surrounded a patch of scrub in which the birds were known to be breeding, and setting fire to it, shot down the birds as they struggled through one pitiless ring of fire to meet their death in another. Then the tail feathers were cut off and the bodies left to rot.

It was decided to organize a crusade throughout the country by means chiefly of lantern lectures and stir up the public sentiment in favor of the plumage bill, by which the importation of feathers would be prohibited by law, and an appeal was made for subscriptions.

What Whisky Is.

M. A. P.: The subject of alcohol and its effect on the human body has long been a favorite study of Sir Victor Horsley, and some years back he pointed out the little less than extraordinary way in which milk was taking the place of alcohol in the treatment of disease at the London hospitals. In 1862 Sir Victor pointed out that seven of the great London hospitals spent £3,000 on milk and over £8,000 on alcohol, while now the amount spent on milk reaches the sum which was recently expended on liquor.

A short time ago a friend waylaid Sir Victor Horsley in his club. "Hallos, Horsley," he said, "can you tell us what whisky is yet?" "Tell you what whisky is?" replied Sir Victor. "Certainly. It is the most popular poison in the world, my friend."

Correct.

Popular Magazine: Senator Curtis of Kansas tells the following story about a young man who sometimes drank more whisky than was good for him:

He had been making a night of it, but had forsaken his companions. He was acquainted with an undertaker named George, and got the crazy notion at 3 o'clock in the morning that he must see this particular man. Accordingly, he found George's undertaking establishment over which George had his sleeping apartments.

The intoxicated young man rang and rang George's bell, and at last awoke him. The undertaker put his head out of the third-story window, expecting to find that his funeral services were required immediately. Instead, he recognized his friend Frank.

"Well, Frank?" he exclaimed crossly, "what do you want?"

"I just wan' tell you, George," said Frank, "that you're the lash man in the world I wan' to do business with."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Many Are Pondering.

Winona Independent: Reflect upon it. A Democratic congressmen elected from the Dingley district in Maine. Dingley was the apostle of Republican protection who produced the second best tariff bill with which the country ever was blessed! The present one being the best according to the authority of President Taft as expressed in his Winona speech.

Who Voted for Him?

Austin Transcript: Cannon says defiantly that he will be a candidate for congress and expects to be elected overwhelmingly, whereupon he will again be a candidate for speaker of the house, and sees no reason why he should not be as successful in that candidacy as the other. An additional reason way all his slaves and tools should be defeated at the coming primary.

Charged up as Liabilities.

Red Wing Republican: The people are taking very careful account of their political stock and it is surprising how many men in public life, who have been considered valuable assets are now being discarded or charged up as a liability. At such a time, there is always danger that some really valuable material may be thrown into the rubbish heap, although the advantages of a national housecleaning will far outweigh any temporary losses.

Good Friends and True.

Ortonville Herald-Star: There is still something new under the political heavens. A local aspirant has declined to be a candidate "at the earnest solicitation of friends."

That Tariff Commission.

Rush City Post: All this talk of a tariff commission is only a retarder, putting off for a more convenient season for the manufacturers. The people say do it now.

An Extraordinary Result.

Cannon and the Gavel.

Princeton Union: Mr. Cannon has made unequivocal declaration that he will be a candidate for re-election to the speakership. His numerous enemies, including one Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, should not feel too cocksure that he will not land the job.

And a Glossy Stare for Some.

Ogilvie Sentinel: A New York man has a jawbone of gold. That is nothing. There are politicians in this state who have cheeks of brass.

No Easy Job for Them.

Mora Times: With Roosevelt assuming the leadership of Republicanism, ably assisted by such men as La Follette, Beveridge, Clapp, Dolliver, Cummins and others, the present system of monopoly control will receive its death knell and a government of the people by the people restored.

A Historic Flirtation.

New York Mail: It seems an awful thing, but here is the circumstances on record that Louisa M. Alcott, the sainted author of "Little Women," once publicly flirted with Edward VII.! The fact comes out in Mrs. Belle Mose's book, "Louisa May Alcott, Dreamer and Worker."

There is a passage in the book which contains Mrs. Alcott's personal account of the incident: It refers to the time when the late king, then prince of Wales, made his famous visit to this country.

"I went to Boston," Miss Alcott relates, and saw the prince of Wales trot over the common with his train at review—a yellow-haired laddie, very like his mother, Fanny W. and I nodded and waved as he passed, and he openly winked his boyish eye at us, for Fanny, with her yellow curls and wild waving, looked rather rowdy, and the poor little prince wanted some fun. We laughed and thought that we had been more distinguished by the saucy wink than by a stately bow. Boys are always jolly—even princes."

By the way, this incident occurred in 1860, when the prince of Wales was 19 years old, and consequently quite a broth of a boy, and consquently quite—we blush to record it—was 28.

The Moral of the Short Ballot.

Galesburg Mail: Once upon a time a Plain Citizen went to the polls to vote. The ballot contained the names of hundreds of candidates for scores of offices. "That ballot is not for me," said the Plain Citizen. "That ballot is for experts only. I'm as good as disfranchised by it!"

"You ought to go into politics and become an expert yourself," said the politician.

"I can't. Economic pressure keeps me hard at work to support my family. That's my first duty."

"Lucky for me!" murmured the politician.

"Why is politics so complex? Why are there so many picayune elective offices?" persisted the citzen.

"So that you will always need me," the politician replied, as Citizen without even reading the names of the candidates, helplessly voted the straight ticket.

Moral—The longer the ballot, the less the Plain Citizen counts in politics. The "short ballot" used in Des Moines, Galveston and abroad, is the right remedy. A "short ballot" carries only a few conspicuous offices and the citizens hold easy and effective direct control over their government.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The more the farewells the less sincere the parting.

There's hardly anything so opinionated as red hair.

The worse a man is himself the more pride he can take in the virtues of his ancestors.

It would be pretty hard on the inmates of an insane asylum to lock up a few engaged couples with them.

The Retort Courteous.

Harper's Weekly: "Now," said the suffragette orator, sweeping the audience with her eagle eye, "I see Mr. Dobbs sitting down there in the third row—a man who has condescended to come here tonight and listen to our arguments. He has heard what I have had to say, and I think we should like to hear from him, and get a man's view of our cause. Mr. Dobbs, tell us what you think of the suffragettes."

"Oh, I c-c-couldn't-m-m-ma'am," stammered Dobbs. "I rur-really c-couldn't. Thu-there are 1-1-lul-ladies pup-present."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Chicago Record Herald: "Pa, what's a jeu d'esprit?"

"Something that most people think they are saying when they exclaim 'Judas Priest.'"

Bocker—Yes, they are bracing up to discharge the cook.

Chicago News: Assistant Editor—Where is the foreman today?

Customer—He dropped twenty feet from his aeroplane last night and pied his form.

Pele Mele: Customer—I'm going to a masked ball, and I want something that will completely disguise me.

Costumer—Certainly, sir. I will give you something nice.

Kansas City Journal: "The census didn't give Plunkville borough population. Our congressman oughter git us a recount."

"He says it can't be did."

"It must be did. He got himself a recount when he was running for the job."

Louisville Courier Journal: "I once saw a couple married in a den of lions."

"Did the groom seem scared?"

"Not any more than is usually the case."

New York Sun: Maud Muller was raking the hay. "The crop will give me another motor car," she carelessly observed. Herewith the judge perceived that his case was hopeless.

Puck: Paying Teller—You'll have to be identified, sir! Do you know any person in this bank?

Police Captain (in plain clothes, dryly)—Shouldn't be a bit surprised if I did. Line 'em up and I'll look 'em over!

Chicago Tribune: "Hello! Is this the information editor?"

"Yes."

"Who is the president of Nicaragua?"

"Wait a minute and I'll——"

"But I want to know who's president now—not who's going to be president a minute from now!"

Boston Transcript: Singleton—I understand you had a pretty lively time at the club last night.

Wedmore—I thought so until I got home.

Chicago Record Herald: "Trackless trolley cars are being used in some of the English cities."

"How do the coal wagon drivers manage to keep them blocked?"

Human Life: Bill—This paper says that bees were unknown to the Indians.

Jill—Yes, I believe it was the traders who used to sting them.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Every good talker carries it too far.

It doesn't take a brilliant man to shine in society.

Optimism is sometimes due to lack of experience.

Only an active and muscular man can afford at all times his temper.

A good time doesn't always depend on the price you pay for it.

Shortly after a woman marries her ideal she discovers that she didn't.

Being run over by an automobile is apt to give a man that tired feeling.

When Eve told Adam just what she really thought of him that was the original rib roast.

Don't run for office unless you are willing to let the family skeleton escape from the closet.

Isn't it queer how the man who boasts of his intellectual independence invariably agrees with a pretty woman?

"DEAR MARIA" COMES BACK

Old Roosevelt-Storer Controversy Is Revived by Public Letter.

Archbishop Ireland Is Quoted to Disprove Ex-President's Claims.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 22.—The Republican today prints a letter from Mrs. Bellamy Storer, written in France Sept. 6, reviewing the controversy between the Storers and Mr. Roosevelt concerning the former president's alleged authorization of the former ambassador to Austria-Hungary to visit Pope Pius X, and ask him as a personal favor to the president of the United States to make Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul a cardinal.

In the stormy controversy of a few years ago Mrs. Storer gained considerable notoriety as "Dear Maria," the name being the form in which President Roosevelt addressed her in several letters he wrote to her.

Letters written by Archbishop Ireland in 1902 and 1904, hitherto unpublished, are quoted by Mrs. Storer to show that at repeated interviews in the White House between the archbishop and the president, Mr. Roosevelt acknowledged that he had commissioned Mr. Storer to act as his personal envoy at the Vatican in behalf of the archbishop.

Sharpens Issue of Veracity.

Mr. Roosevelt has hitherto publicly denied that Mr. Storer was ever authorized to represent him in this manner, and the Ireland letters now published by Mrs. Storer have the effect of making much sharper the issue of veracity between the Storers and the ex-president.

Mrs. Storer's letter to the Republican also seeks to prove, on the testimony of Archbishop Ireland, that President Roosevelt promised to make Mr. Storer United States ambassador either at Paris or London, and there is included still another letter alleged to have been written by Mr. Roosevelt to Mr. Storer just after the presidential election in 1896, in which Mr. Roosevelt asked Mr. Storer to see President-elect McKinley and urge him to appoint Mr. Roosevelt assistant secretary of the navy. This last letter seems to confute a recent assertion that Mr. Roosevelt never sought a public office, except when he sought a presidential nomination in 1904.

The first letter by Archbishop Ireland quoted by Mrs. Storer, written to Mr. Storer Nov. 13, 1901, is in part as follows:

"I have had two most pleasant meetings with the president at the White House. He is decidedly your friend and resolved to give you the best there is. 'Even' said he, 'if Berlin comes first and Bellamy wished it for a little while, pending Choate's retention of London, I would give it to him and change him shortly afterwards to London. Let him trust me.'"

Told Storer to Speak.

The next Ireland letter, dated Oct. 23, 1903, was written to Mrs. Storer in part as follows:

"I was in Washington last week and of course saw the president. I spoke with him of Paris and removed from his mind all suspicion that a Catholic would be there a 'persona non grata' as ambassador. He promised me that the next ambassador to Paris would be Mr. Storer, and furthermore expressed the belief that Gen. Porter would soon retire. He also told me that he had commissioned Mr. Storer to speak for him viva voce at the Vatican. He seemed rather proud of having done so."

A month later Archbishop Ireland wrote another letter in which he quoted the exact words of the president as to Mr. Storer's going to Rome as follows:

"The president said to me: 'Mr. Storer has told you what I said to him about you archbishop?'"

"'Well,' I replied, 'I do not remember.' 'About his going to Rome?' the president then asked. I said 'No.' 'Well' he said, 'I told him I would not write a letter to the pope asking for honors for you; but I said that he could go to Rome and say—viva voce—to the pope, how much I wish you to be cardinal and how grateful I personally would be to him for giving you that honor.'

Sure of the Words.

"I am most clear in my memory as to every word. I will write about American politics to Bellamy. With most affectionate regards to him and to yourself. I am sincerely

"JOHN IRELAND."

On Feb. 2, 1904, the archbishop wrote to Mr. Storer:

"Your two letters were read and burned. However, you need have no anxiety whatsoever about the whole affair, which was the chief subject matter of those letters. The president has no occasion to feel ruffled in the least, but you know his impulsiveness. When I saw him he of his own accord told me of his writing to you, and asked me how publicity was given to the matter. I said the Scripps-McRae agency had merely made a guess as to Mr. Storer's coming to Rome and that the few unfavorable comments that followed amounted to really nothing. He calmed down completely, remarked that he had every confidence in you and hoped that the outcome of your mission would be what all desired."

Roosevelt's Letter to Storer.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter to Mr. Storer, dated Nov. 17, 1896, concerning the desired appointment as assistant secretary of the navy, was as follows:

"Dear Bellamy: I have been thinking over that business and now will you let me write perfectly frankly? If I were to say anything for me, old fellow, I think you could say it better a good deal if I were away. So unless you think to the contrary, or unless there is some reason for change, I believe that it would be best for me to come and dine with you; and then you see McKinley by yourself, if you care to do so at all, which I earnestly hope you will. Give my best love to Mrs. Storer. Faithfully yours,

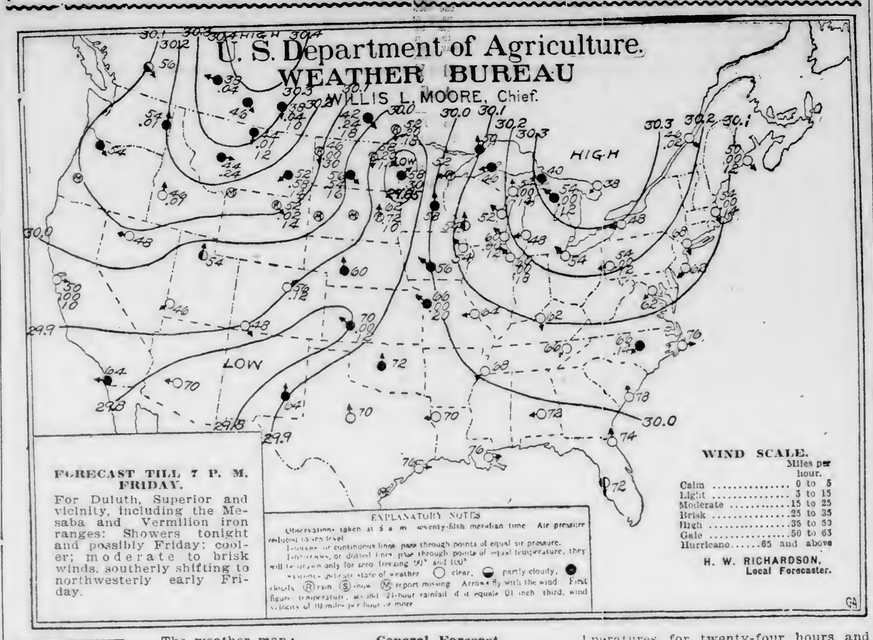

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

"P. S.—I hope you won't think this impertinent. I should rather have you speak in my behalf than any other in the United States—and I think you could do most good; but I rather hate to go there with you, for somehow, it does not seem to me that it would be a good thing for you to speak for me before me. "T. R."

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Narcotic.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar, in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

The weather man promised showers last night or today and he made good this morning by sending a series of showers that drenched the city. The clouds threaten and the weather man promises more rain tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today Duluth was recovering from a wet spell.

The sun rose this morning at 5:55 and it will set at 6:06, giving twelve hours and eleven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure condition central Wednesday morning over Alberta has advanced to the Red River valley. This disturbance—in connection with another which overlies the Southwest—has caused light to copious rains throughout the greater portion of the Northwest, besides somewhat warmer weather over Manitoba, the Eastern Dakotas and Western Minnesota. Much cooler temperatures have appeared over Northern Utah, Idaho, Montana, Saskatchewan and Alberta appending the development of a strong high pressure area over the latter district. This cooler condition will probably reach the Head of the Lakes Friday morning."

General Forecast.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

LUMBERJACK GETS A BULLET IN SIDE

"Trapp" Stewart Shot During Row in Cass Lake Saloon.

Cass Lake, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Trapp" Stewart, a lumberjack, was shot last evening by Fred Golden, during an altercation in a local saloon. Stewart is a well known character and when coming to town usually makes himself bothersome to those he meets. Stewart is a big man an all-round tough when he is drinking. He had some words with Golden when the latter pulled a gun and shot Stewart just below the right shoulder. He was taken to the Bemidji hospital, where he is resting easily. He refuses to prosecute Golden on the grounds that the trouble was brought on by himself.

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald)—Antone I. Solem, a young single man, left Cloquet for Norway, sent back to his native land by his countrymen, the local Sons of Norway raising a purse to pay his expenses to the old country. Solem came to Cloquet a year ago but has been ill with rheumatism almost since coming here, and had finally gotten so bad that he could not walk. Norwegians here took up his cause, and at a gathering in Columbia hall raised a considerable sum of money. A program of speeches and music was given. J. B. Baumann, the author of "Digte," delivered an address on "Universal Brotherhood."

Why Druggists Recommend Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. Frank C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." MUCH WORK DONE BY THE BETHEL Statistics Show That Institution Has Been Useful to Community.

Some conception of the work done at the old Bethel in one year may be gathered from a little table gotten up to give the maximum of information in the minimum of space. As a lesson in practical help for men, it is one of the most striking "exhibits" in the little booklet which is being sent broadcast in the interest of the new Bethel building fund campaign.

In the year 254,496 meals were served. Lodgings were furnished to the total of 37,325. Baths were given to the number of 1,930.

The attendance in the reading rooms ran up to 75,000.

The Gospel work attracted an attendance of 35,000 to the 450 meetings. Fifty meetings were held in the county jail. A number of open air meetings were also held last summer.

The number of conversions ran into the hundreds. Hundreds were turned from years of addiction to liquor.

The hospitals, the depots, the jail, houses of ill-repute and cheap lodging houses were visited regularly in search of young girls.

The Bethel also extended its visits through its workers and chaplain to the poor and the sick and the aged.

The work among children went on with greater progress than ever. The work among the boys' clubs showed a good, healthy growth. The girls in the sewing school continued to gain proficiency with the needle. The two Sunday schools showed an average total attendance of 350.

Nor were the social features of the Bethel work overlooked.

Chaplain Moody conducted the funeral services for a number of strangers who died within the gates of the city, for fallen girls and for some who were without church affiliations.

PRESSED HARD.

Coffee's Weight on Old Age.

When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others.

A superintendent of public schools in a Southern state says: "My mother, since her early childhood, was an inveterate coffee drinker, had been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach.

"Some time ago, I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I noticed a somewhat peculiar flavour to the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum. I was so pleased with it that, after the meal was over, I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal; the whole family liked it so well that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely.

"I had really been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time, she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us.

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but in a more marked degree in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

WORK IN NAVY MAY COST HIM $1,500,000.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The love of 22-year-old Horace Logan Keeler of Richmond, Ind., for life in the United States navy may cost him a fortune of $1,500,000. The young man, a son of Harry C. Keeler of Richmond, enlisted at a naval recruiting station in Chicago, Sept. 7. Two months previous his grandfather had died, but young Keeler was not told of the provisions in his grandfather's will. By its terms Keelor is left property valued at $1,500,000 provided he earns not less than $75 a month salary until he is 25 years old. Keelor enlisted as a medical apprentice in the navy for four years and will receive $22 a month for his services.

CLASS OF 1911 CHOOSES OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR.

Officers for the class of 1911 of the Central high school were chosen yesterday as follows: Stanley Lamb, president; Helen Smith, vice president; Marie Whipple, secretary; Walter Glass, treasurer; Joseph Boyle and Mortimer Bondy, sergeants-at-arms; Lloyd Le Duc, class mascot. Miss Margaret Taylor of the faculty was honored with election to the post of class advisor.

Sues for $25,000.

Marinette, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A deposition in a damage suit was taken by Court Commissioner Alvin E. Davis. The case is that of Frank Stoja, who sues the firm of Bates & Rogers, contractors of High Falls, for $25,000 for personal injuries. He alleges he was struck by a falling plank at the dam, while working for the company.

THE DOCILE CHEESE.

Andrew Carnegie, while eating with appetite and courage last month the dishes cooked by the young girls of the Margaret Morrison School in Pittsburg, said:

"I have no fear before these experimental dishes. He who has eaten in France learns to eat boldly.

"Think of the French cheese alone!

"Why, one afternoon in a restaurant in the Boulevard des Italiens, I heard a guest shout angrily:

"'Walter, look here; this cheese is walking all over the table!'

"'Ah, have no fear, monsieur. It won't escape,' the waiter replied. 'If it goes too far, just call "Jules, Jules!" It always answers to its name.'"

FACE AND HEAD AN AWFUL SIGHT

Eruption Broke Out when 2 Weeks Old—Itched So He Could Not Sleep—Hair All Fell Out—Cuticura Cured Him.

"I wish to have you accept this testimonial, as Cuticura did so much for my baby. At the age of two weeks his head began to break out with great sores and by the time he was two months his face and head were an awful sight. I consulted a doctor, who said it was nothing but a light skin disease which the baby would soon get over. But he seemed to get worse so I called another doctor. His opinion seemed to be the same. They both prescribed medicine that did not do a bit of good. A friend advised me to take him to the hospital, which I did. Two doctors there gave me medicine in a liquid form. It did him no good.

"Nearly every day I would read a testimonial in regard to Cuticura and my wife thought she would try it to see if it would help the baby. I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap and after using these he was entirely cured. Before Cuticura cured him he could not seem to sleep, as his face and head would itch so. What hair he had all fell out but soon he had a nice head of hair and his face was perfectly clear. It is now nearly five years since he was cured and there has been no sign of the eruption returning. Chas. H. Evans, 81 Flint St., Somerville, Mass., April 19, 1910."

A single set of Cuticura Soap and Ointment is often sufficient to cure, rendering it the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Mailed free, latest Book on Care of Skin and Scalp.

THOMPSON'S ROTURBINE ENGINE

An engine that stands the searchlight of investigation, and a proposition without a NIGGER in the fence. No parts that stop and start. Just a rotary motion, ideal as each moving part rotates around its own axis, the cylinders rotate around the shaft, the pistons rotate around the crank pin, and the valves rotate around the eccentric. In engines where the pistons reciprocate, all of the moving parts stop and start twice each revolution, while with the Roturbine the shaft stands still and all moving parts rotate.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: SEPT. 25. Galatians v, 15-26: Temperance Lesson.

THE CONNECTION.

We have left the life of Christ, to get our temperance lesson from one of Paul's letters. They were in a state of discord and great danger up in Galatia, and Paul was anxious and distressed. He had a right to be, for he and Barnabas, on their first missionary journey, had won those people to Christ. They were of the same nationality as the Gauls, the modern French, and had some of the characteristics of the versatile French. And the occasion of the trouble was the Jewish spirit of those Christians, who thought that all the Gentiles should first become Jews before becoming Christians. To be sure, the apostles at Jerusalem had decided that no such burden should be laid on the converts from heathenism, but a little spiteful crowd at Jerusalem took the opposite view and followed Paul into his work, to pervert his converts. They were specially active in Galatia, and their influence was disastrous to the harmony of the churches. The result was that, through the doorway of those dissensions, a tidal wave of vices swept into the flock. Those people who, at first, were ready to pluck out their own eyes and give them to Paul, were now arrayed against him. They were temperamentally fickle. The letter he wrote them unfolds the true doctrine of salvation, rebukes them for their inconstancy, and seeks to impart to them some very practical lessons. From that letter we get our lesson today.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Irrepressible Conflict. 15-18.

"But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another. But I say, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lusts of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; for these are contrary the one to the other; that ye may not do the things that ye would. But if ye are led by the Spirit, ye are not under the law."

1. FLESH.—That is a term that includes both the body and the bad things of thought and action; and we will get a list of them a little further along. To them all Paul gives the title "flesh." They are fleshly or carnal, because they utilize the body in depraved ways and are manifested very largely in physical ways. But the heart pours forth this stream, Jesus tells us. Satan spoils our powers and despoils us. Vice ruins the reason, hardens the heart, crushes the conscience and slays all nobility.

2. SPIRIT.—When the Holy Spirit touches and trains our spirits we do differently. Our spirits are capable of being influenced by God's Spirit. Paul contrasts the human spirit with its capacity for higher things against the flesh or our nature that sins; but he also contrasts the Holy Spirit with the flesh.

3. CONFLICT.—The Holy Spirit is at warfare with the works of the flesh. There is only one hope for any man—to live in his spirit rather than in his flesh and to secure the aid of the Holy Spirit, who will dwell in him. We are involved in the conflict. The evidence that the battle is going against us is that we get in conflict with each other. We help the devil consume his victims and for our reward, he helps them slay us. The biter always gets bitten.

II.

Fruits of the Flesh. 19-21.

"Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, sorcery, enmities, strife, jealousies, wraths, factions, divisions, parties, envyings, drunkenness, revellings, and such like; of which I forewarn you, even as I did forewarn you that they who practice such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God."

1. INTEMPERANCE. — Temperance means self-control. When one loses control over himself he lets go everything. Intemperance in speech is sure to lead to the same in deeds. Eating may be intemperate. The monster form of that vice is drink. It unfits a man for work and our great commercial and industrial institutions will not take or keep a man in their employ who drinks, even in moderation. It unfits for contests in manly sports. You can't get into the Marathon races or the baseball or football teams, if you drink. You can't get a policy in accident insurance or in any of the high grade life insurance companies, if you drink. You can't have the confidence of the people whose confidence in you is worth most, if you drink. You can't have the money for clothes and books and home that you spend for drink. You can't have the fullest respect of those who are close to you, if you drink. Lower efficiency, lower standing, lower prospects, lower power are the results. Study the whole black list and see if there is any of these "works" you would like to have to your discredit.

2. DISASTER.—Intemperance is fatal for this life and for the life herafter. One who takes himself in hand to work evil is lost to God. "And such like," is an ominous phase. It means that one who practices even one of these vices is apt to go on, in an endless series, and there are more than have been named. If only the pure in heart can see God, these are excluded. If only those who yield to God's Spirit can live in comfort with God, then there is no place for them in God's home. They cannot inherit the kingdom of God.

III.

Fruit of the Spirit. 22-26.

"But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness, self-control; against such there is no law. And they that are of the Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with the passions and the lusts thereof.

"If we live by the Spirit, by the Spirit let us also walk. Let us not become vainglorious, provoking one another, envying one another."

1. UNITY.—It is fruit, not fruits. Start wtih love and all the rest come for they are a part of the kingly virtue of love—developments from it. If one is led and fed by the Spirit of God, the characteristics of Christ reappear in him, under that Spirit's influence. They are the fruit because the product of the Spirit. These are a fascinating list, but possible only when we repudiate the works of the flesh by crucifying the flesh. These virtues enable one to embody the law in himself and they are what the whole law approves. Health is not under the censure of sanitary regulations nor a public spirited citizen under the criminal code. They never think of law. Paul assures those Galatians that, when the Spirit produces such fruit in their lives, they will not think of the Jewish rites and ceremonials.

2. DANGER.—The conditions are rigid. The Spirit must dwell in their hearts. The flesh must be repudiated as Christ repudiated sin on the cross. There is one great bright hope for the sinner—only one. That hope is grasped when Christ lays hold of us. That hope is realized on, when one sets himself in array against sin, laying aside the sin that most easily besets him.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The fact that none of the contestants (in the 1910 Boston Marathon race) used alcohol during the race, and that all but one finished in good condition, is another evidence that alcohol diminishes rather than increases bodily endurance and capacity for work, since in former years runners who have used alcohol have been the first to give out. The establishment of this proof alone, if its acceptance could be made general, would be sufficient justification of the Marathon race as a physiological experiment. — Medical Journal.

Physicians sometimes examine the blood of their patients and detect disease by the revelations of the microscope. Everyone who is beginning his work in the world should search his heart, if, perchance, there may be in it a poisoned drop which may corrupt and ruin his life.—Youth's Companion.

Have we not reason to suspect that these present graces of ours are most starved and meager; that our kindness, justice, truth, patience, purity alone, are the meanest of growths; that they are only as the wild fruits of the wilderness; as the coarse grass and dwarf blossoms of the prairie? Oh, how delicate and glorious they might be; how delicate and glorious we have seen them to be in our Master and in His consecrated disciples.—Walkinson.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. What is the effect of alcohol on the conscience?
2. What has physiology to say about the evils of intemperance?
3. What is the one subtle law by which one sin leads to another and one virtue to another virtue?
4. What is it that makes self-conquest so difficult?
5. What is the one only law of self-conquest?

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Rev. A. W. Ryan Heads the Duluth Humane Society.

Executive Agent Reports on Work Accomplished During Year.

Officers of the Humane society were elected last night as follows: Rev. A. W. Ryan, president; Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, first vice president; Walter Turtle, second vice president; Henry Taylor, secretary; J. P. Johnson, treasurer; Rev. Alexander Milne, Rev. N. L. Upham, Mrs. William Bates, Henry F. Greene, A. E. Prudden, C. B. Miller and Mrs. Marvin McLaren, directors. Mrs. McLaren takes the place of W. E. Magner.

George V. Fifer, executive agent, read an annual report that had some "hair-raising" features. He told especially of two instances of cruelty to children. A West end boy was beaten by his father so severely that both of the child's ears were torn and the scars of mistreatment were visible for several days. The parent was arrested and sent to the city's rock pile for thirty days. The boy was placed in the Children's Home.

An Eveleth mother died after giving birth to twins, one of which died. The father chastised the other, tore its ear and inflicted several abrasions on the infant's head. He made it drnik a not mixture of salt and water. The man was fined $90 and costs or ninety days in jail. The baby was sent to the state's school at Owatonna and will probably be made a ward of the state.

In the last fiscal year the society took fifteen children from their homes because the environment was not conducive to the making of good citizens of the little ones. At the request of the society the juvenile court sent eight children to the state's training school, one to the Children's Home society in St. Paul, seven to St. James' orphanage, six to the state's school for feeble minded, two to the city's hospital and five to the state's hospital.

The work in the animal division was large and the report presented many statistics showing what was accomplished by the society last year.

Mrs. Jacob Wilmert, Lincoln, Ill., found her way back to perfect health. She writes: "I suffered with kidney trouble and backache and my appetite was very poor at times. A few week's ago I got Foley Kidney Pills and gave them a fair trial. They gave me great relief, so continued till now I am again in perfect health." Sold by all druggists.

WATER POWER SITES HELD UP

President Withdraws Approximately 70,383 Acres in the West.

Washington, Sept. 22.—President Taft has withdrawn from entry approximately 70,383 acres of land in California and Colorado under the provisions of the act of congress of June 25, 1910, the California lands, approximating 1,327 acres and are situated along the East Walker river in California. They are believed to be valuable for power purposes.

Lands in Montana amounting to 290,036 acres within the primary limits of the grant of the Northern Pacific Railway company were brought into the taxable area yesterday when they were clear-listed by the department of the interior. The lands are in the Helena, Lewiston and Miles City, Mont., land districts.

TWELVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY BANKS APPLY.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Up to date 1,250 banks in the various states of the country have made application to the postoffice department to be designated as depositories for postal savings funds, and 648 postmasters have made requests for the establishment of postal savings banks in their offices. The greatest number of applications thus far have come from Pennsylvania, where 147 banks and forty-eight postmasters have applied. One application has been received from a postmaster in Hawaii. New England states have evidenced small interest in the postal banks system.

ARE INCLINED TO RAISE STEEL PRICE

Leading Men in That Industry Confer in New York City.

New York, Sept. 22.—A conference of the leading steel and ore interests of the country was held yesterday at the Railway club. The meeting was called by Chairman E. H. Gary of the United Steel corporation.

After the meeting Judge Gary said that there was a disposition on the part of some of the steel men to advance prices instead of reducing them. This applies especially to the district east of Pittsburg and probably will result in advances in the steel plates from $1.35 to $1.40 per 100 pounds. Judge Gary declared nothing in the nature of an agreement as to prices or questions of policies was entered into at the conference. He said such action in his opinion would be illegal and altogether unwise.

Those present at the meeting in addition to Chairman Gary and President W. E. Corey of the United States Steel corporation, were representatives of the following independent companies: Johns & Laughlin of Pittsburg, the Lackawanna Steel company, the Republic Iron & Steel company, the Cambria Steel company, the Lukens Iron & Steel company and Worth Brothers of Coatesville, Pa.

75,000 MEN TO DEMAND RAISE

Engineers, Trainmen and Conductors of Western Lines Involved.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Seventy-five thousand locomotive engineers, trainmen and conductors on all the railroad systems in the West are preparing to open negotiations with railroad managers for a wage increase of approximately 15 per cent. The engineers gave notice of their demands some time ago, and their general committee will arrive in Chicago Monday to meet the managers in conference.

The trainmen and conductors are now taking a referendum vote on their demands before formally presenting them to the managers. The vote will be completed Oct. 1, when the question will at once be submitted to the railroad officials.

Two Act Conjointly.

The demands cover every railroad system west of and including the main line of the Illinois Central. The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors are acting jointly in the wage movement, while the engineers are acting alone.

The firemen on the same roads presented demands last spring, which were settled by arbitration under the Erdman law, giving the men an increase of about 10 per cent in wages.

Railroad managers are said to have decided to endeavor to adjust the differences of the engineers, trainmen and conductors by direct negotiation.

BALLINGER IS BELLIGERENT

Says He Intends to Show Up Those Who Criticize His Actions.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 22.—"When I get a foot loose from public office I intend to devote a part of my time to giving to the American people some idea of the purity of the lives of my traducers," said Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger at a banquet given in his honor by the Denver Chamber of Commerce and the real estate exchange.

"The public is entitled to know the hidden springs of the inspiration which gushes in torrents of 'uplift' patriotism from these self-appointed moralists, and I shall heartily enjoy using the 'searchlight' when the proper time comes, he said.

The secretary asserted the efficiency of the interior department was never greater than today and continued:

"I have no apologies to make to the American people for any act during my public career, or in any private capacity.

Defies His Critics.

"Standing securely upon my conscious rectitude, I defy all my critics and all my enemies, and with deliberate purpose of fighting out the battle to the end, I propose to administer the interior department within the Constitution and the law as I conceive it to be under my oath of office.

"Perhaps unfortunately for me, but unfortunately for the American people, I have been the instrument through which the efforts of certain over-zealous persons have been thwarted in an attempt to convert the public domain into a great national preserve and to destroy the opportunities of the West for the useful and just development of its resources. While I earnestly believe in the conservation of our natural resources, I believe in the exercise of sanity in regard to this as well as every virtue."

CHARLTON LOSES FIRST SKIRMISH IN COURT.

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 22.—Porter Charlton, lost the opening skirmish yesterday in his fight to escape extradition for the confessed murder at Lake Como, Italy, of his wife, Mary Scott Castle Charlton. Judge Blair, before whom he was arraigned, declined to admit a plea of insanity and took the application for his return under advisement. An attack on the treaty with Italy under which extradition is asked thereupon became the main prop of the defense.

Several alienists who have had Charlton under observation, were in court ready to testify to his mental incapacity, but were denied a hearing under Judge Blair's ruling.

Crosby, N. D., to Have Celebration.

Crosby, N. D., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crosby business men are laying plans for a unique celebration, to be held on Oct. 8, being in the nature of a harvest jubilee. As features of the day's program, there will be a varied string of sporting events, while premiums are to be offered on exhibits of farm produce of various kinds.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR and we can

PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes: "As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Cut This Out

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this free coupon to the KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO., CHICAGO, ILL., with their name and address and 10c in silver or stamps to pay postage.

HOUSE MOVERS BUSY CLEARING THE CANADIAN NORTHERN RIGHT-OF-WAY

HOUSE MOVING OPERATIONS.

Housemovers, who have had a busy month at West Duluth, have nearly finished the work of removing the buildings in the path of the new Canadian Northern line, which is building into the city through West Duluth.

Although the specified time for the right-of-way to be clear of obstructions was given out as Sept. 20, there are still a few houses to be removed. However, in the vicinity of Sixty-fourth avenue west and Keene's creek, where work has been started on the bridge construction trestle work by Contractor Hauser, there are no obstructions. The other houses will soon be removed.

The trestle will be elevated for several feet in running through the residence district. At every street crossing steel will be used instead of the piling. T. B. Campbell, bridge engineer for the road, who has the plans for the trestle, is here to supervise the work.

Most of the material in the line of piling is already on the grounds, and active work will commence in a few days among the various railroads and the city.

Contracts Are Let.

At a meeting last evening of the board of public works, several contracts were let for the macadamizing and grading of streets and the construction of a sewer in the alley between Weeks and Lamborn avenue from Nineteenth to Twentieth streets.

Grass Fires Burn.

Grass fires, which have given the firemen at the South end much trouble within the past few days, still continue to menace property in that vicinity. Yesterday afternoon, a grass fire started near the Webster Manufacturing company's plant and later in the day at Sixty-second street and the Soo right-of-way. The first blaze for a time threatened the chair factory, but the firemen soon had it under control.

NEW DULUTH HAS FIRE SCARE

Brush Fires Threaten Suburb But Are Checked Before Doing Damage.

New Duluth had another fire scare yesterday afternoon. Although no actual damage resulted, brush fires threatened for a time to destroy a part of the residence district. The fires started in the vicinity of the steel plant and, fanned by a stiff breeze, crept toward New Duluth.

Officer Kruger of New Duluth and Postmaster Tower organized a volunteer squad of six men, who, after several hours' hard work, succeeded in heading off the blaze on a road just a block north of the residence district.

Two men were employed to watch and see that there was no fresh outbreak during the night. Rain which came early today put out the fires. It is said that they were started yesterday by laborers clearing away brush at the steel plant site.

TO INSTALL COURSE IN IRON WORKING.

Preparations are being made at the Duluth Industrial high school for the installation of the new course in iron working, which will be a feature of the course in manual training at the West Duluth course this year. The course is for high school students only.

Carl Halberg, a patrolman recently discharged from the Superior police force, will be given a hearing before the police commission tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Recently Halberg secured a writ of certiorari in superior court ordering the commission to produce the reason why he had been discharged and claiming that no formal charges had been preferred.

Yesterday Chief McKinnon filed formal charges before the commission. In a general way, they are that Halberg was insubordinate and failed to work in harmony with the department.

It is now probable that the case will not be dragged into court. Halberg will have his hearing and will either be reinstated or discharged. In any event it is understood, that Halberg will draw pay for time that he was not working.

BIG DAMAGES ARE ASKED

A. G. Smith, Son of Duluth Lumberman, Files Suit.

Charges Canadian Pacific With Causing Arrest Without Justification.

Further dispatches received from Winnipeg state that A. G. Smith, a Duluth traveling man and the son of a prominent local lumberman, is the man who has started a suit for big damages against the Canadian Pacific railway for alleged false imprisonment.

It is claimed that he was thrown into jail as a suspect in the $100,000 robbery at the Railroad hotel in Winnipeg and denied the right to see an attorney or communicate with the outside world.

"Smith is a traveler for his father's company, one of the oldest in Duluth," says the dispatch. "He is a member of the United Travelers' association and has been calling on the trade in Winnipeg five years. He was making his usual call here and had a room at the Royal Alexander next to the one occupied by Countess Antrim. When her jewels disappeared Smith was at the hotel. He discussed the case as did other guests. Pinkertons swarmed over the hotel and Canadian Pacific railroad trains. Last Thursday night one of them, Smith says, came to his room and casually asked him if he would go to the police station and identify a suspect they had there. Smith went and he says he was thrust into a cell. He declared that he had papers in his pockets showing who he was and that he told the police the name of his firm, their telephone and his bank at Duluth and urged them to telephone and verify his statements. He also demanded the right to see the United States consul.

"Monday he induced a prisoner who was being released to notify the United States consul. Consul General Jones at once went to the jail. He demanded to see the man and, hearing his story, demanded that he be permitted to see a lawyer. This was accorded and on threat of habeas corpus proceedings Smith was released. The police deny that he asked to see any person."

ROLLER SKATING ABROAD.

All Paris has gone wild over roller skating and the various rinks are gay all afternoon and evening with performers in various degrees of perfection. Even the parks and the streets have their skaters, and the broad asphalt walks of the Tuileries and the Luxembourg make fine practicing grounds for small boys and girls. The keenest of all skaters whether roller or otherwise are the English schoolgirls in Paris, and it is astonishing, says the Queen, to find how many there are of them.

In London the Olympia Skating club an exclusive organization for enjoying roller skating on Sunday afternoons, has aroused opposition among churchgoers, but it has come to stay, at least until Easter.

CURIOUS STREET NAMES.

London Chronicle: The list of curious street names is inexhaustible. Bermondsey possesses a Pickle Herring street. Near Gray's Inn there is to be found a Cold Bath Square. Most of the Nightingale lanes and Love lanes are hidden, ironically enough, in the slums of the East end.

But for really bizarre street names one should go to Brussels. The Short street of the Long Chariot, the Street of the Red Haired Woman and the Street of Sorrows are remarkable enough to catch the least observant eye. The Street of the One Person is, as one might guess, considerably narrower than Whitehall. But the cream of Brussels street names surely belongs to the Street of the Uncracked Silver Cocoanut. This in the original appears as one ponderous thirty-six letter word.

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED

Highwayman Beats Woman and Takes Purse Containing $12.

Sapalino Padillo Is Arrested Charged With Committing Crime.

Sapalino Padillo was arrested at 1 o'clock this morning charged with having robbed Mrs. Frank Columbo after he had cruelly beaten her almost to insensibility at Fourteenth avenue west, near the Point of Rocks.

The woman claimed to the police that she had been knocked down, choked, kicked and pounded shortly before 12 o'clock while she was on her way home alone. Following the assault she asserted that the highwayman took her purse, containing $12.

The street near the Point of Rocks is in deep shadow and at that time of night is practically deserted. Pedestrians are few and the only traffic consists of street cars and an occasional carriage. The police say that it is an ideal place for a holdup.

Mrs. Columbo told her story to Lieut. Drennan and Patrolman Mahlin when she had recovered sufficiently to be able to walk. She said that she recognized her assailant and caused Padillo's arrest. He was taken to headquarters, where she said she would appear to make a formal complaint against him. She did not show up this morning, but it was thought that she would do so this afternoon, if she was able. Her condition is said to be rather serious.

PRINCE IS VICTIM OF HIS MOTHER'S CAMERA CRAZE

SECOND SON OF THE CROWN PRINCESS OF ROUVANIA.

London, Sept. 17.—The crown princess of Roumania has been described by the ex-queen of Saxony as "the biggest flirt in Europe." She is the mother of this picturesque little prince, who is photographed in ancient armor. The crown princess delights in dressing herself in the picturesque costumes of old Roumania and posing before the camera. She delights no less in posing her children in peasant dress, in uniform and in other rather theatrical garments. Little Nicholas, who has just celebrated his 7th birthday, is one of her favorite subjects before the camera. He is the fourth child of the crown princess but the second son, and in the even of the death of his brother, Carol, now almst 17, he will become heir to the throne of Roumania.

ORRIS ROOT.

Most people know that orris root is one of the chief ingredients of violet powder; many others are well acquainted with the strangely shaped pieces of white root, that seem like dried ginger, which give out the delicate and subtle scent of the violet, and perhaps the privileged few know that it is made from the roots of a kind of iris.

"Never have I seen the cultivation of the iris and the preparation of orris root to such perfection as this summer in the Tuscan Apennines, where Vallombrosa lifts its pine covered head," says a writer in the Queen. "On the sunny side of the mountains lies the whole district of the Val d'Arno and between Saltino and Pian di Sco the entire neighborhood is given up to the cultivation of vines, olives and iris.

"Indian corn, wheat and millet find a place; but wine, oil and orris root are the three commercial industries. Pergolas of vines stretch along as far as the eye can see; vines with clusters of purple or white grapes, Olives laden with green berries, and under them and between them little plantations of iris dalmatica.

"The iris, or giaggolo as it is called in Italy, is planted thinly, and allowed to grow for three years, when the roots are dug up and tied into big bundles. These are then prepared. Nearly the whole of the tuberous root is cut off, leaving only a tiny bit with fibres in order that the plant may grow when replanted, as it is at once for another three years of peace.

"The tubers are then thrown into big basins of water, and the whole family of the contadine, or peasant, sitting on the doorstep of their house or under the pergolas in the shade of the vines begin the business of peeling them previous to their being dried in the sun for the market. Everybody is busy with the small stickle knives trimming the iris root. In its fresh condition it is sold for about 20 centimes the kilo, about 2 cents a pound. But after a few days exposure to the brilliant sunshine on large wicker work trays it loses two-thirds of its weight and is sold to the wholesale merchants at 9 cents a pound."

SALOMES, ETC.

Addison Mizner, the well-known New York viveur, discussed in a Broadway cafe the subject of the feminine toilet.

"A beautiful prima donna," said Mr. Mizner, "told me the other day that the less a woman wears, the longer it takes her to put it on.

"'Aha!' said I. 'In that case, I wonder how some of our—er—classical dancers manage to be in time for their turns at all.'"

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Judge Alfred Jaques opened his speaking campaign as a candidate for congress from the Eighth Minnesota district at Pine City last evening, addressing a Democratic rally in the city hall. There was a good attendance—almost 200 people—and Judge Jaques was given a flatteringly warm reception. He spoke during the day at the Pine county fair and later was informed that his friends had arranged a meeting for him in the evening. Although unprepared to address a political gathering, Mr. Jaques gladly acquiesced in the arrangements made and made a brief but telling talk. Judge Wilcox of the Pine county probate court presided.

Judge Jaques At Democratic Rally.

Congressman Miller's record was discussed by his Democratic nominee, it being explained that the present campaign must necessarily be along lines that will make Miller's record a distinct issue. Judge Jaques told his audience that he is firm believer in representative government and that he believes the people of this district realize that Mr. Miller has positively demonstrated that he is out of sympathy with the principles of representative government. This he demonstrated by his consistent support of and alignment with the elements and influences at Washington, which are inimical to true representative government.

Judge Jaques went into the question of Mr. Miller's votes on Cannon just enough to show the errant sophistry of the congressman's defense of those votes. He made a distinctly good impression and when the meeting closed was earnestly assured by scores of voters that he will have their support at the polls in November.

J. Adam Bede introduced Judge Jaques to the crowd when he delivered his address at the county fair in the afternoon.

Certain distinguished gentlemen known to fame as legislators have been extinguished by their constituencies. The primaries brought some joy to a minority of those vitally interested, but they brought grief — deep, heavy grief—to a very large majority. First and foremost, there is, or was, James A. Tawney, congressman from the First Minnesota district, who has been displaced on the Republican ticket by Sidney A. Anderson of Lanesboro, who, in turn, may be defeated by Judge Buck of Winona, the Democrat candidate.

Leading Lights That Have Been Donsed.

A. L. Ward began to loom up as some light in the Second district, where it was supposed he had been nominated for congress, but today word comes that as a light he has lasted very quick and that Franklin P. Ellsworth of St. James has won the honor of being a contender against Congressman W. S. Hammond.

Out in the Brainerd district Ole Erickson demonstrated that he wants a thing when he wants it and that even though it is necessary to displace a good man in the senate, Ole will get the senate seat he wants. He has the nomination, at least, and S. F. Alderman is lost in the shuffle.

And down in the region of Long Prairie, where the light of Rudolph Lee shed its county option radiance, there has been a sizzle and that night is out, Senator Johnston winning a renomination handily.

But in St. Paul, where they play politics all the year round, the blow fell heaviest. Thomas J. Brady failed to get a renomination. Brady is titularly a Democrat and has represented the Thirty-fourth district in the lower house. He was beaten for the nomination by H. W. McDonald, because, it is said, he fought against James F. Maloney, when that bonitace was a candidate last spring for re-election to the council, and who won. Before that there was some trouble about a job, which Brady could have dispensed to the advantage of Maloney, but did not. Therefore Maloney somewhat slaughtered Brady at the primaries.

Mr. McDonald is an unknown, but it is hopefully believed that he will be no less effective as a legislator than has been Mr. Brady.

H. O. Bjorge, who trimmed his congressional lamp with tonnage tax shears, will have no further reason for doing so. He's in the discard and Steenerson is renominated.

Congressman J. A. Tawney has given out a statement concerning the result of Tuesday's primary election in the First district, at which Sidney Anderson of Lanesboro was nominated for congress by a majority estimated at from 2,500 to 3,000.

Tawney Explains His Defeat.

"My defeat for the nomination cannot be charged to the bolt of Republicans. In seven of the ten counties in this district there was no contest for any Democratic nomination. One vote therefore in these counties, would normally go into the Democratic candidates. Throughout the primary campaign Democrats talked against me and worked for my opponent. They boldly declared they would vote for him in order to defeat me. Under our primary law tails could not be prevented.

"The Democratic vote in these seven counties two years ago was over 7,000. At the primary election yesterday in these counties there were less than 150 Democratic votes cast. In a single precinct in one county there were 70 more Republican ballots voted than were cast for President Taft in the same precinct two years ago.

"It was not the false representations of me made by my opponents nor the use of the name and popularity of Mr. Roosevelt to give color of truth to these representations that accomplished yesterday's results. It was simply the vote of Democrats in counties where there was no Democratic contest for the Democratic nominations."

James Gray of Minneapolis, Democratic candidate for governor, will get into harness without delay and men who know him well say that if the Republicans expect to see him make a spiritless campaign for election they are excessively mistaken. Mr. Gray is known to be a whirlwind campaigner when once he has started to campaign, and his natural equipment for a fight to the finish is relied upon to make his onslaught on the Eberhart-Smith machine an effective one.

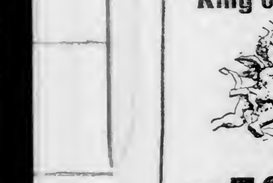

Gray Is About to Begin His Fight.

Mr. Gray's itinerary, arranged at Democratic headquarters, was announced last night to be: Sept. 22, Austin, afternoon; Sept. 23, Northfield, afternoon; Sept. 24, Long Prairie, afternoon; Sept. 27, Fergus Falls, evening; Sept. 28, Evansville, afternoon; Alexandria, evening; Sept. 29, Brooten, afternoon; Glenwood, evening; Sept. 30, Windom, afternoon, Worthington evening; Oct. 1, Luverne, afternoon, Pipestone, evening.

The Democratic speakers' bureau will have as its staff these orators: John Lind, John Jenswold, Jr., W. E. McEwen, Andrew Nelson, C. D. O'Brien, Pierce Butler, D. W. Lawler, C. M. Tifft, Edward Peterson, B. B. Gislason, J. M. Freeman, T. R. Kane, Harry Lund, T. J. Meighen, J. F. D. Meighen, A. L. Sorler, Judge M. C. Brady, Stan Donnelly, L. L. Brown, M. J. Daly and F. M. Larrabee.

DULUTH MAN ERECTS ONE OF THE FINEST CREAMERIES IN THE COUNTRY

B. E. BAKER'S CREAMERY.

One of the finest and best equipped creameries in the country has been built by B. E. Baker of Duluth, on his farm near Spooner, Wis. It is a gravity creamery there being no machinery to transport the cream which is moved by gravity from the loading platform to the agitator and then into the churns. The building is entirely of cement construction. It is equipped with the latest machinery for butter making. About 300 cows are in the district near Spooner of which Mr. Baker owns fifty. The building is lighted by electricity and a gasoline engine furnishes all of the necessary motive power for the machinery and drives the motor that makes the electricity. The building is equipped with running hot and cold water.

COPPERS NERVOUS CLOSING LOWER

The copper market was nervous today and closed lower than yesterday. The opening was strong as the coppers derived reflected strength from the rallyrends which opened strong on account of the St. Paul decision yesterday which invalidated the rate laws of Minnesota. Toward noon the market became weak and depressed and was subjected to some profit-taking. The activity was most professional although the East wired that the public was picking up scattered lots.

News in the steel world is conflicting and professionals are inclined to be pessimistic over general business conditions which they think will be materially improved after the fall elections, however. They are inclined to be cautious until conditions become more settled. Professionals generally were long and tried to bull the market today but it refused to be bulled. The close was strong chiefly because offerings were exceedingly light. Calumet & Hecla which has been soliciting business on a basis of 13c is said to have reduced its price to 12¾c. The market for electrolytic copper is nominally 12¾c at which some sales have been made as compared with 12¾c earlier in the week. Quotations probably will be readjusted on account of the decline of the copper quotations of the Calumet & Hecla.

Sales of several million pounds of copper are reported sold for export on a basis of 12½c. This is ⅛c to ¼c below so-called official quotations. Exports of the red metal on Wednesday were 375 tons. The total exports since Sept. 1 have been 20,472 tons.

The local market was dull except in Calumet & Corbin was extremely active, buying being heavy. Butte Balaklava sold here at $6.12½. Live Oak at $16.18¾ to $16.50. Shattuck at $24.12½, $24.75 and $24.50. Amazon at $2.50. Butte & Superior at $7.50, Calumet & Montana at 90c. Calumet & Corbin at 46c to 47c, 45c, 47c and 48c at the close. Chief sold at $1.50 and St. Mary's at 18c.

Amalgamated sold at $63.37½ to $62.75 to $63 to $62.25 to $62.62½. Butte Balaklava sold in the East at $6.12½ to $6. Calumet & Arizona at $59.50. Greene at 16.87½ to $6.75. Giroux at $6.62½. North Butte at $27.75 to $27. Superior & Pittsburg was $11 bid. Shattuck at $24.12½ to $25, $24.25 and $24.87½.

WILL BE ROW IN CASS LAKE

So Says Mayor Dumas in Talking of Liquor Troubles.

Official Appears Before Federal Judge at Minneapolis.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Expressing his belief that violence would be resorted to in Cass Lake should the government agents further attempt to enforce the old Indian treaty forbidding the sale of liquor in the northern part of the state, Dr. B. S. Dumas, mayor of Cass Lake, appeared before Judge C. A. Willard in the federal court at Minneapolis this morning.

Dr. Dumas went to the Mill City to attend the case of the two deputies under W. E. Johnson, government agent, who forcibly took a grip carried by A. A. Oliver at Bena, Minn., from him on Sept. 9 in an effort to determine whether it contained liquor. They were arrested and have been in jail at Cass Lake since.

Today the case was postponed until Oct 21, one week after the treaty becomes effective. Cass Lake residents want a decision before Oct. 15 or a delay in the time of the treaty's effect.

"Sure to Be Trouble."

"We are not trying to get permission to sell liquor in Cass Lake," said Dr. Dumas today, "but if the agents go to Cass Lake Oct. 15 and destroy any property there is sure to be trouble, as the people are incensed over the matter. We probably will make an appeal to have the time extended.

"The government deputies arrested were Norbert J. Sero and James Davis, special officers employed in the Northern Minnesota Indian cases. They found no liquor in the grip carried by Mr. Oliver, who is a member of the Cass Lake board of appraisers. Assault was the charge placed against them. We simply want to argue certain points in relation to what the rights of special officers in these liquor cases are and whether or not the procedure resorted to in the Oliver case is to be repeated."

CHANCE VS. CONNIE MACK

World's Championship Series to Strategic Battle Between Two Leaders.

(BY BRUCE.)

Baseball men the country over are anxiously awaiting the struggle between the Cubs and Athletics. Behind the physical struggle that will be mighty and tense between the players of the two great rival players, the students of baseball scent the battle that will be waged between those two great leaders, Frank L. Chance and Connie Mack, whose true name is a yard long and comes direct from the auld sod.

Mack looks and acts like a member of the priesthood. They say that three words is an extended conversation for the very shrewd manager of the Athletics. He is one of the very shrewdest men in baseball, as the development of his wonderful team in two short seasons, will eloquently testify.

Chance has proved his greatness as a leader of baseball players. As a player he ranks as one of the greatest first baseman in the game. His men admire him and will fight to the last ditch for him.. Like Mack, Chance does not talk a great deal, but every word he utters counts to the extreme.

Before Mack became manager he was a catcher. He used to catch for the Pittsburg Pirates, and while always a heady player, never set the baseball world on fire, like Johnny Kling or Archer. From the smoke of Pittsburg Mack went to the suds of Milwaukee. He was manager of the team there, and made good. Then came Philadelphia.

Baseball men say that any player Mack passes up is no good. So great the confidence of other managers in the shrewd judgment of Mack, that it is seldom that a player passed up by Mack is wanted by managers or owners of other teams. Mack has a fondness for college players, Eddie Collins, the brilliant second baseman of the Athletics, being an example of the college player. Collins didn't look good at first, but Mack said the boy was a ball player, and his judgment has been vindicated by the wonderful development of the Columbia college boy in the last two seasons.

Many close students of the game believe the fortunes of battle will hinge on the strategy of the two leaders. In 1906 Fielder Jones, the great leader of the Chicago White Sox, got the jump on the Cubs and beat them with an inferior team.

Both are great and shrewd generals of play. There is not much in baseball that is not clearly implanted in the brains of the two men. The man who can see the furthest ahead, anticipate the move of the other, and spring the right move at precisely the right time, will win the series, students of the game and judges of the two teams, believe.

Jennings proved inferior as a general to Chance. The Cubs continually outguessed the Tigers during the two series they played them for the highest honors of baseball. Te question as to which team will play the most brainy baseball, is one that is interesting the reading and thinking baseball public of this country.

Sitting on the bench, with a score card in his hand, dressed in almost clerical clothes, Connie Mack is the last man in the world one would take at first glance as one of the greatest students of the game that this country has ever known.

He looks sad, like a shy man that has lost his guiding wife in the noise and jostle of a great city. He rarely smiles, and he speaks in a voice soft and almost shyly subdued. This is Connie Mack, a man beloved by his players, and the man who has made the baseball world stand aghast by the wonderful achievements he has accomplished in the past two years.

In the American league these past three years, it has been all Jennings; today the name of the long-faced Irishman of Philadelphia is on the tongue of every rooter for the triumph of the Athletics. Great is Connie, and they are wondering, too, if he will prove greater as a leader and scheming strategist than that astute and resourceful leader of the Cubs, Frank L. Chance.

The series should be a great battle —a series in which the greatest brains of the most progressive age of baseball will count. A silent, thin and sad-visaged man, will match his brains against the large and husky man who directs the destinies of the Chicago Cubs. Will the silent bench student outguess the dashing leader of the Cubs.

If you knew, actually and finally, you could write you own ticket.

They will be great games, and underneath every play, every move, there will be the dep laid schemes of the two leaders. It is going to be a personal test of skill between the two most prominent men in baseball. The man who wins will be the most talked about leader that this country has ever known. Cigars and breakfast foods will be named after him. What an inspiration to win!

Connie Mack is more like Gen. Grant; silent, persevering; Frank L. Chance is dashing and brilliant, and yet a great and keen student, something on the order of Phil Sheridan.

Which will win?

He is considered the find of the season, and it is expected that he will face the Philadelphia hitters in at least one of the world's series games.

Under Ned Hanlon the old Baltimore Orioles played baseball that was far ahead of their time, and many of the regulation usages of the modern game were invented by those players. CONSTANTINE STOPS SAUNDERS Range Lightweight Scores a Decisive Victory in Three Rounds.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nick Constantine, the crack range lightweight, last night stopped Charles Saunders in the third round of a scheduled 15-round contest. After the opening round Constantine had the fight all his own way.

In the first round Saunders rushed and kept sending in uppercuts to the body and swings to the jaw. He had the best of the round and it looked as if Constantine had met his match. The second round was slow, the men being clinched most of the time. In the third round Constantine delivered three clean blows to his opponent's body and jaw, sending him to the mat, the fight being stopped at this point.

BOWLERS PREPARING FOR BUSY WINTER SEASON.

Duluth bowlers are already preparing for a busy season. The construction of the new alleys in the Oak Hall building will give additional facilities to the game that last winter made great strides at the Head of the Lakes.

It is the ambition of the Duluth bowlers to develop a team that will carry off one of the first prizes at the state tournament. Down at St. Paul and Minneapolis, where bowling has been in progress for some years before the alley game became popular here, the players have shown in the past a little more class than the players from the Head of the Lakes.

This winter it is the ambition of the local bowlers to develop players that will make a great showing at the state tournament. If the same progress is made as was achieved last winter, Duluth should send some mighty strong teams to the state meet.

MINNEAPOLIS MAN ON NEGRO'S TRAIL

GEORGE ENGLAND.

Another man who thinks he would have a chance to whip Jack Johnson, the colored champion of the world, is George England a native of Minneapolis. England is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 254 pounds. He possesses almost incredible speed and is very light on his feet. He has won several matches in private by the knock-out route in fast time. He has plenty of nerve and is absolutely fearless. England has already started to learn the fine points of the game and will soon have a try-out with some heavyweight boxer.

LAST BIG FIGHT SAYS CHARLES GERAGHTY

"There will, in my opinion, never be another big world's championship fight in this country," said Charles Geraghty, the man here with the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures. "The Jeffries-Johnson fight was the last big fight that will be held in this country, until at least there is a radical reform in the way fights are conducted. There will be limited round fights, and if these are well conducted, no one, not even the most squeamish, can have any objection to them. At the present time, Australia is the Mecca for the most prominent fighters. France, England and even Germany, are enjoying some very mediocre fights. If the people in these countries continue to show an interest in the game, it would not surprise me to hear of a world's championship fight being staged across the water. When the gamblers and fakers get out of the game, fighting, which is in itself a decent game when conducted decently, will come back into favor. The people want boxing, and under the proper supervision, it is a very decent and manly sport."

MOTOR BOAT EVENTS DECIDED

Edith II Wins Race From New York to Poughkeepsie.

New York, Sept. 22.—Three events were decided yesterday in the national motor boat carnival held on the Hudson river under the auspices of the Motor Boat club of America. Of ten boats sent away in the speed race of 115 miles to Poughkeepsie and return, only five finished, the first being J. G. Simpson's Peter Pan III, which covered the distance in 5:22:43 elapsed time. This boat, however, only won second prize, as the Edith II, owned by A. E. Smith, won first honors on time allowed. Her corrected time was 3:14:57. Vanish was placed third.

In the event for cruising boats of over 40 feet a run to Peekskill and back, sixty miles, the Avis and Edmee finished first and second respectively, five seconds apart. The Eronel, owned by Samuel Cochrane, won the event, however, neither of the leaders getting a place when the corrected time was announced. Eronel made the journey in 3:50:39. Caroline was second and Spendthrift third.

F. D. Giles' Elmo II was the winner of the under 40-foot class, the Kithmar being fifth. Elmo II's corrected time for the sixty miles was 4:26:19. Graceida was awarded second place and Dell third.

COLLEGIANS PLAY FOR GOLF TITLE.

Manchester, Mass., Sept. 22.—The intercollegiate golfers started today on the individual championship won last year by Albert Seckel of Princeton, whose home green is the Riverside Golf club of Chicago, and who defended his title this year.

The play was conducted on the usual lines, with an eighteen-hole qualifying round in the forenoon and match play for the best sixteen in the first round in the afternoon. Two rounds will be played tomorrow, with a thirty-six hole final contest for the championship on Saturday.

Carlisle Wins.

Carlisle, Pa., Sept. 22.—In the first game of the season under the new rules, the Carlisle Indian school football team defeated the Lebanon Valley college team yesterday by the score of 63 to 0.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

Charles L. Geraghty, the man here in charge of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures, has some very interesting things to say regarding the fight, the man who won the fight, and the general result.

For instance, Mr. Geraghty says that it will be a few years before there will be a fighter who will appear who will be strong and clever enough to beat the present holder of the title.

Mr. Geraghty was present at the Reno affair, has seen all the heavyweight champions since the days of John L. Sullivan, and has also seen all the contenders for the crown, who are taken in the least seriously.

He says that both Kaufmann and Lang look the necessary class, and that in his opinion Con O'Kelly, the big Turk in the hands of Tommy Ryan, is the only possibility.

This Ryan protege is about six feet four and built for rough weather. He never fought before Ryan took him in charge, except unconsciously, which is not scientifically. O'Kelly is just as Jeffries was when Ryan took charge of the coming Californian; green and very awkward, but very promising.

"Johnson is the greatest fighter we have had for years," said Mr. Geraghty. "I doubt if Jeffries could have ever beaten him. I saw Jeff fight Tom Sharkey, that fight occurring in Jim's prime, and I don't think he showed the class Johnson showed in the fight at Reno. No one knows how much Johnson can fight, for he has never been extended.

"We never dreamed, none of us at the Reno ringside, that Johnson would be as strong as Jeffries. In the very first clinch Johnson pushed Jeff's left clear up behind his back. If Jeff was not as strong as Johnson in close work, how in the world could he hope to win? He just couldn't, that's all.

"Taking everything into consideration, strength, speed and his marvelous boxing ability, I don't think we have had a champion in the past twenty-five years or more who compares with Johnson."

"They're Even"—Says "Cap."

Capt. Miser breezily hit the Duluth trail yesterday. Since shaking the mineral dust of the high hills from his ankles, "Cap." has seen some of the nice, big teams of the Eastern reservation play. How we all do envy the captain.

When he was in Duluth the captain used to yell his head off for the Sox. He had much to do with the winning of the pennant. He believes that the Mack men have an equal chance with the Cubs, saying the only advantage he could see in favor of the Chicago team, was behind the bat.

"Can Kling catch?"—the good captain repeated the query, just to be sure that he had that right straight. "He can. He is the niftiest and nerviest proposition since the days of Sockless Jerry Simpson from Kansas. He has 'em all glued to the bags. He knows the weaknesses of all the batters, and he has all the other fellows guessing. Behind the wind pad is where, believe me, the Cubs will have the big whip hand on the Athletics.

"I don't think the Chicago infield is any better than the four first defense men of the Athletics. The outfields are about the same. The result of the series, in my humble opinion, is in the box and behind the bat, for if the Cubs can get on and steal, they will have the jump on the Mack boys. The series should be very close."

As Harry Sees Them.

Harry Rood of the La Crosse Leader-Press has selected an All-Star Minny league team. He has given the Irish Orator the honor of managing the paper aggregation, stating that Darby is the very best little manager in the league.

Here is the selection of Mons. Rood: Johnson of Wausau, catcher; Baillies of Winona, Dahlgren of Superior, Watson of La Crosse, and Lakoff of Wausau, pitcher; Dolan of Wausau, first base; Koepping of Winona, second base; Breyette of Eau Claire, shortstop; Caldwell of Superior, third base; Malloy of Red Wing, left field; Callahan of Eau Claire, centerfield, and Klein of La Crosse, right field.

Difference of opinion makes the ponies gallop with profit to the bookies—and also makes people buy cigars for other people they don't speak too, when election isn't nigh. It is right and quite the exciting thing in this country of ours. But how Harry could put Klein in the field and leave George Anderson out—well, it is scandalous.

The "Stoige" Again.

Last season Joe Tinker and Mike Donlin were the star thesplans in the baseball brigade. The present season we are to have added starters. Christy Mathewson and Big Chief Myers, also of the New York Giants, are to tempt fate by going into vaudeville. The story of the two, says Mathewson, will show his curves on the stage. They are not the kind the chorus girls show, for Christy merely means that he will throw his fadeaway and some other stuff that is earning him about $5,000 per sunny annum.

The chief will probably do a war dance, and do an Indian chant. If the rest of us tried to get by with this stuff, the stage manager would get real ugly. But when you are famous, Bill—well, it's different.

Football, for Sure.

Next Saturday will usher in the football season. Interest in the race in the two leagues is waning somewhat. The Cubs have sewed up the pennant in the older organization, and there has been no doubt for some time in the sweet past as to the winner in the American.

The world's series will continue to excite and interest. The problem of picking the winner will keep several clerks busy tabulating different priced guesses.

But just the same football has signed the lease and will take possession of the sporting promises, beginning with Saturday. We will soon see the new rules in working order. At the present time most of us have a comprehension of them that is as clear as North Dakota alluveal. Some of the sharps may be able to put us right.

There is but one big college game in the vicinity of this part of the country the present season. That is the game between Minnesota and the Wisconsin Badgers. The other big games of the state university are with Chicago at Chicago and Ann Arbor at Ann Arbor.

The present year will be more or less of an experiment, and for that reason, if for no other, will be watched with interest.

NEW RECORD OVER HALF MILE TRACK.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 22.—Uhlan, the champion trotter today clipped ¾ of a second off the world's record when he went a mile in 2:05¼ over a half-mile track. This record was made despite the fact that Uhlan made a bad track at the first turn. The time by quarters: 32; 1:03¾; 1:37; 2:05¼.

CENTRAL HIGH SQUAD SHOWING GOOD FORM.

Hard scrimmage practice is the rule every afternoon for the Central high football squad, in preparation for the Two Harbors game of Saturday. The boys are showing up in good style, and though light, are fast and quick to learn the numerous complications of the new game.

After the Two Harbors game Colton will have more of a line on the worth of his material. Some of the new men will probably receive a tryout Saturday.

Boden and Carpenter, new men, are showing up well, and promise to make valuable men. Glass has been tried at half and Carpenter at end.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD SET FOR THE MILE.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Racing off the trotting division of the Kentucky stock farm futurity at yesterday afternoon's Grand Circuit races, brought forth a world's record mile by Colorado E., owend by George H. Eastabrook of Denver. This colt, holder of the world's record for 3-year-old trotters, voluntarily reduced his mark from 2:06½ to 2:05¾.

In the pacing division of the same futurity, backers of first choices were dismayed when Nell Gentry, owned and driven by Charles Cameron of La Crosse, Wis., won in straight heats and ordinary time from Baroness Evelyn. In the 2:17 trot Peter Dorsey was beaten by Maj. Wellington, the third choice. The favorite won the first heat.

YALE SUCCESSFULLY DEFENDS GOLF TITLE.

Manchester, Mass., Sept. 22.—Yale yesterday successfully defended its title to the intercollegiate golf team championship at the Essex Country club by defeating Princeton 5 to 1 in the single matches in the morning and 2 to 1 in the four-ball matches in the afternoon, giving Yale a total of 7 points to 2 for Princeton.

The amateur record for the course held by W. J. Travis and John G. Anderson was equalled in the four-ball matches by Albert Seckel of Princeton, the present individual title holder, and bettered by one stroke by Carl Moser of Yale, the latter making the eighteen holes in 74.

GOOD WEATHER FOR RACES AT SIOUX CITY.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 22.—Fine Weather and a fast track marked the third day's interstate fair race at Woodland park yesterday. The 2:20 trot was a hard fought race between Rhange L. and Joe Mento, the former winning the last two heats in a bruising finish. Foster had no trouble in dropping down the livestock exchange 2:15 pace in straight heats.

CHARLIE CARR HANDS IN HIS RESIGNATION.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 22.—Charles Carr, manager of the local American Association Baseball club, resigned last night. The resignation will not take effect, however, until the team disbands following the closing game of the season at Louisville next Sunday. Carr will engage in business. He came here from Cincinnati four years ago, and after winning the pennant in 1908, signed a contract to manage the Indianapolis team. The agreement still has three years to run.

Mike Gibbons Again.

On behalf of Mike Gibbins, the fast and clever St. Paul fighter, a challenge is sent to Curly Ulrich of Superior, Gibbins, according to his manager will meet Ulrich at any time that is agreeable and convenient to the Superior fighter, and will also agree to any conditions imposed by Ulrich.

LAKE FRONTAGE ON LONG LAKE.

On account of urgent demands for little pieces of land on a lake, I have recently platted the east side of Long Lake into ten acre tracts. Long Lake is located between Caribou and Grand Lakes and is reached at present via the Cloquet River Road, about sixteen miles from Duluth. The Canadian Northern runs through corner of land and station has been granted at crossing of the Swan Lake Road, one mile south. Price $25.00 per acre, easy terms.

Four ten-acre tracts were sold last Sunday and for those who cannot look land over during the week I have arranged to take out next Sunday morning, leaving Board of Trade Livery Barn at 7 a. m., back at noon, weather permitting.

PROPERTY OWNERS COMPLAIN OF DIRT ON SCHOOL GROUNDS

DIRT PILE AT NETTLETON SCHOOL.

Many residents have complained bitterly of the dirt which has been stacked on the grounds of the Nettleton school, First avenue east between Fifth and Sixth streets. They claim that it is unsightly and injures the appearance of the school building as well as damaging the property on the lower side of the street. It is alleged that heavy rains wash copious quantities of dirt across the street onto their lots. It is stated that it has been washed on property a block below the school.

MARINE

MEMBER OF CREW MISSING

Parry Milton Disappears From Deck of Sierra of Tomlinson Line.

A wire from the Soo tells of the loss of Parry Milton, a member of the crew of the steamer Sierra of the Tomlinson line. There is an air of profound mystery connected with the loss of the boy. Milton was but 18 years of age.

It is stated in the dispatch that he must have been standing on the deck alone. No one noticed the absence of the boy until he was wanted for some work, when a search of the vessel failed to reveal his whereabouts.

The members of the crew believe that Milton was lost some where between the Superior entry and Devils' island.

Milton was from Peoria, Ill. He was seen on the deck shortly before he was missed. There was no one on the deck at the time he must have fallen overboard. There was no sea rolling at the time it is believed the accident occurred.

RAILROADS

SCHEDULE IS BEING MADE

Running Time of Soo Fourteen Hours Between Duluth and Chicago.

President E. Pennington of the Soo line, G. R. Huntington, general manager, and Harry Lewis, assistant general passenger agent, are in the city today, together with W. F. Fitch, president and general manager of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, and W. R. Calloway, general passenger agent of the Soo, who came up yesterday afternoon.

President Pennington and President Fitch were in conference part of the morning. Both officials visited the depot, and later Mr. Pennington stated that the depot will be completed to the very last detail Saturday night. The finishing touches are being put on the station today, and President Pennington expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied with what has been accomplished here.

This afternoon the president of the Soo will go to Superior, where he will look over some of the work that has been done there.

The most important announcement made today by the officials of the Soo, was made by General Manager Huntington, who stated that the running time of the Soo between here and Chicago will be fourteen hours, and that the leaving time will be the same both in Duluth and Chicago.

The schedule has not been completed as yet, but information as to the final schedule decided upon by the passenger department of the Soo, will be made public the first part of next week.

Another important announcement, was the statement by President Fitch of the South Shore, confirming the story published in The Herald to the effect that the trains of the South Shore will run into the new Soo station.

"We will come into the new depot, but how soon I cannot say," said President Fitch. "When everything gets into running order in the new depot, it will be time to decide upon the South Shore trains coming in there. The decision to have the South Shore trains operate into the new depot, has been made."

"Everything is looking fine," said President Pennington. "There is nothing much to do before the opening of through passenger traffic between here and Chicago. With the depot about completed and the tracks awaiting the operating of the first through train, about the only thing remaining is to bring the train here and put you in direct touch with Chicago, via our new line. That will be done the third of next month."

Mr. Calloway and Mr. Lewis, with G. A. Sherwood of the local office of the Soo, were busy directing the final details of the passenger offices of the Soo. The sign painting of the regular Soo trade mark will start this week.

The Soo officials will leave the Head of the Lakes this evening.

C. M. & ST. P. GUILTY OF FEED LAW VIOLATION.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Sept. 22.—Representatives of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company appeared in the federal court here yesterday and pleaded guilty to a violation of the twenty-eight-hour feed law. The court assessed a fine of $100.

WILL HAVE RIDE IN WHEELBARROW

Gene Foucoult Is Loser of Unique Bet on Sheriff Contest.

As the result of a unique election bet, Gene Foucoult of 19 Twenty-eighth avenue west will be required to ride Theodore Daljelm, 2914 West Third street, from the Lenox hotel to the city hall and return in a wheelbarrow.

The time of the ride has not yet been definitely settled but it will take place about 7 o'clock some evening during the present week. Foucoult bet on William J. Bates for sheriff and Daljelm bet on John Meining.

The two men got into an argument as to who would win. Both were working hard for their respective candidates. Both became so hot that a mere money bet would have afforded but little satisfaction.

The suggestion by a bystander that the wheelbarrow be brought into play was no sooner mentioned than both had agreed.

TEDDY'S BUSY DAY.

Saratoga Speech and Political Callers Occupy His Time.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Sept. 22.—Theodore Roosevelt was busy this morning with his secretary in preparing in part the speech which he is to deliver at Saratoga next week. He refused to talk politics. Col. Roosevelt said he expected several visitors this afternoon, when one of the last political conferences at Sagamore Hill will be held before the Saratoga convention will be held.

TWO HURT ON THE MICHIGAN CENTRAL.

St. Charles, Mich., Sept. 22.—Conductor William Clements and his helper, O. G. Doty, of a Michigan Central switch engine were perhaps fatally injured today when their engine, which was standing at a switch, was struck by a southbound through freight train. The accident occurred in a dense fog.

Clements, who lost both legs in the wreck, and Doty both died several hours later.

ONE KILLED AND ONE INJURED IN FIRE.

Greenwich, Conn., Sept. 22.—Joseph Christopher, a porter, was burned to death and Sarah Stewart, another employe, was injured in a fire here early today which destroyed an annex of the Elms hotel. The Stewart woman jumped from a second-story window. The guests in the hotel proper left the building.

OFFERINGS ARE LIGHT

Wheat Advances When Small Export Business Frightens Shorts.

Country Sells Sparingly---Manitobas Sold Abroad---Flax Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 22.—Wheat advanced today in a strong market in which trading was exceedingly light. Values which weakened at noon firmed after noon and closed at the day's high prices. September gained ⅞c, December and May ½c each. Cash wheat was on a parity with September. Oats, rye and barley were unchanged. September durum advanced ⅛c.

Flax was stronger, offerings being light. September gained 2½c, October 4½c, November 3½c and December 3½c. Minneapolis crushers bought lightly, chiefly in the October option. Eastern crushers did not take much interest in the market.

Minneapolis reported that the flour trade improved slightly yesterday. One of the big mills reported large sales but most mills made only moderate sales at thin prices. This market this week has sold low grade flour for export to England and Scotland. Much larger sales on domestic account could be made if sellers were willing to meet requested bids from prospective buyers. The Eastern milling demand for wheat is dull being confined to sales of scattered lots.

Wheat values were strong until toward noon when some selling developed. Heavy country offerings forced down prices. After noon, however, the market rallied and was stronger.

At the opening values were fractionally higher than yesterday. News and statistics were mixed, but the bulls were favored by a preponderance of unfavorable gossip and by reports of export business. Cables were higher although Paris markets were lower on profit-taking. The Italian official report was bullish, the wheat crop this year being estimated at 158,000,000 bu. The revised estimate of last year's crop is 185,000,000 bu. The official report on last year's yield was placed at 144,000,000 bu, but the revised figures are said to nearer to the actual production.

Argentine shipments of wheat this week are estimated at 800,000 bu, compared with 864,000 bu last week and 160,000 bu in the corresponding week last year. The outlook in Argentina is favorable, copious rains having proven of much benefit to the growing plant. Indian shipments of wheat this week are estimated at 1,688,000 bu, compared with 376,000 bu last week and 32,000 bu a year ago. Shipments next week are estimated at 384,000 bu. The Argentine report was considered bearish and the Indian statistics concerning next week were regarded as moderately bullish.

The trade did not pay much attention to statistics, however. On the higher cables shorts covered and continued to buy in their wheat on reports of export business. The rumors of export trading were vague, but the shorts were frightened and covered freely. This market did a very small export business in Manitoba wheat. The durum market was from ⅜c to ½c out of line. The proximity of the durum market to an export basis was considered favorable by people friendly to the market. Receipts of durum wheat in this market have been exceptionally heavy, and the run promises to continue moderately large. Much of this wheat has come from Minneapolis. Duluth prices have been more favorable than the selling basis of the Minneapolis durum market resulting in heavy shipments from that market to Duluth. Exporters hope to ship most of this stuff abroad. The peculiar movement has resulted in some duplication of figures giving receipts at the two Northwestern primary points, which have not been as heavy as statistics indicate.

Seaboard markets reported that Rotterdam had taken forty loads of wheat for export. No particulars were given, but it is thought that most of the stuff was offered by Portland, Or., wired that 500,000 bu of Pacific coast wheat had been sold for export to France. French buyers it was reported were asking wheat quietly on quotations asked, but there not submitting bids. Winnipeg, which was weak yesterday, was strong today, reflecting the small export business that was being transacted in Manitoba and covering by shorts. Cash markets were strong.

In the face of what appears to be a bearish condition abroad the foreign markets displayed unusual strength. This firmness hinged the bulls with hope of export business from this country. The possibility of an export trade is an obstacle in the way of the bears who are somewhat timid about selling the market at current prices. The leading competitors of America continue to ship wheat freely. The feature of the export business to foreign countries is the heavy outgo of wheat from the Danubian states, which are shipping around 5,500,000 bu weekly, compared with slightly more than half a million bu last year. India is shipping heavily compared with last year, when at this time the outgo of wheat was almost negligible. Australian shipments are about double the exports at this time last year. Argentine shipments are also greatly in excess of shipments a year ago. Russian prices are firmer although that country is sending out wheat havily.

The country today sold wheat more freely, but offerings were well absorbed. Toward noon the market seemed to lose some of its strength on account of the heavy country offerings. This wheat appears to be coming in from farmers who need money to pay threshing bills and meet demands from country bankers. After forced sales are over the bulls think the Northwestern farmer will hold supplies for higher prices and the trade is generally of the opinion that the Northwestern farmer will obtain the increased values which he is seeking.

The cash demand is only moderate. It lacks the proportions which would make it a bullish factor. The bulls have depended lately on the possibility of export business for an argument and have not placed much reliance in the cash situation, although lighter receipts in the Northwest are expected to result in firmer cash markets eventually. On every decline to an export basis the shorts have run to cover and the pit element has helped them buy wheat, putting up rices and removing the possibility of an export trade. Exporters say that a week of good foreign business would put the market in an extremely healthy condition.

Primary receipts were much heavier today compared with last year, but the market was not in a mood to pay much attention to statistics. Bears were playing for an additional advance to put out wheat and in the face of a slight export demand the increased receipts at primary points did not have any market influence.

Wheat seeding is well under way in the Central and Middle Atlantic states. Spring wheat thrashing is in full blast and marketings are supposed to represent the regular fall movement, although they are much under the run of wheat last year. Excellent weather has helped thrashing. Elevators in the Southwest, especially at Chicago, are overflowing and Chicago is sending wheat to Buffalo for storage to make room for corn.

Flax offerings were scarce today and bidders were forced to raise prices. The trade was extremely light and did not represent prevailing conditions, being too insignificant in volume to be taken as a criterion of market crop or supply conditions. Flax in the country is being bought at stations generally on an October basis. Thrashing is backward and the supplies available appear to consist of broken lots which cannot be hedged. Sellers appear to be holding off until they can ship in car lots.

A wire to The Herald from Mondak, Mont., said that stations will produce 100,000 bu of flax this year, mostly on new ground.

Wall Street Journal: "At present indications the cereal crops will contribute not far from 5,000,000,000 bu to the country's gross agricultural income. The United States have never had an equally good oats crop, and but once before so large a corn crop as is now promised with no heavy frost up to the middle of the month. Our wheat yield this year is barely a ten-year average, and a showing of 67,000,000 bu below that of 1905 looks rather meagre for a population of over 90,000,000 people. But the average of the two crops of 1909 and 1910 exceeds 700,000,000 bu. A consumption of an average of 6 bu a head would require 540,000,000 bu, thus leaving an average of 160,000,000 bu for reserve, seed and export. Although that does not afford a large margin, it does relieve the country of anxiety as to its year's bread supply.

The Northwestern Miller said: The Minneapolis flour output week increased 43,360 bbl. This made the output, for the week ending Sept. 17, 339,830 bbl, against 356,685 in 1909 and 339,270 in 1908. About the same capacity is in operation again this week and the production ought to be about 340,000 bbl. In the corresponding week last year the output was 381,000 bbl. Minneapolis mills are doing a good steady business. Sales are not anywhere near as large as a year ago, but most every mill manages to dispose of more than its output. At times fair prices are obtained but, on account of the active competition for business, sales are usually made a very close margin of profit. Foreign inquiry was light last week.

Broomhall cabled: "Wheat—The steadiness in America yesterday caused lighter offerings here and the general undertone was steady and unchanged to ½d higher. Following the opening March was under pressure and eased ¼d due to the continued rains reported in the drouth districts of Argentine where the outlook is now favorable. With the exception of March, the general market developed pronounced firmness and prices showed an advance of ⅝d to ¾d during the morning with shorts nervous and some buying by yesterday's sellers. Support was due to an improved demand for cargoes which weer sparingly offered and a good demand for white sorts and the fact that off coast cargoes of Australian wheat were sold to Antwerp. Argentine shipments continue light and there is talk here of smaller Black Sea shipments this week. The Italian official report is bullish. At midday the market was firm ⅝d to ¾d higher than yesterday. Corn easy, ¼d lower in sympathy with the decline in America and the forecast of continued liberal shipments from Argentine. Following the opening the market was dull and unchanged."

R. H. Graham, who lives at Mondak, Mont., was a visitor on the floor yesterday. He said that the district will ship flax heavily, but that seed will not be forwarded until the Missouri river freezes over, as the seed must be transported across the ice to a railroad. The acreage, he said, is large near Mondak and most of it is new. The Herald wired Mondak, Mont., for confirmation of Mr. Graham's estimate of 100,000 bu for acreage near Mondak, and received a reply that the estimate was substantially correct. Mr. Graham was the guest of J. A. McAuley.

Price Current, Cincinnati, said: Situation of corn crop one of fair progress in betterment of general condition. Certainty and extent of production exceeding highest record of past years. Liability of some injury to quality of immature grain from hard frost. Considerable plowing in progress, some seeding done with ground generally in splendid condition. Continuance of evidence total area winter wheat will be increased.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Upward on News of Foreign Orders.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—With reports that Rotterdam had taken forty boatloads of wheat at the American seaboard and that a good deal was being put on ships for Havre, France, the market turned upward today. In addition, cash demand and flour sales were said to be inproving. Black sea shipments were also estimated to be lighter, a sharp contrast compared with yesterday. In consequence, the opening here was generally higher, the range being ½c up to ⅛@¼c off, December started at $1.00⅝@1.01, a shade to ⅝@½c advance. A rise to $1.01@1.01⅛ followed.

Portland, Or., also reported sales to France, but commission selling caused prices to become easier. The close was at $1.00⅞ for December, a net gain of ¼@⅜c.

Indications of colder and unsettled weather strengthened corn. Shorts were buyers. December opened ⅛@½c higher at 51⅛@51½c, and steadied around 51⅜c.

Because no frost was predicted, short selling set in and the market eased off temporarily. The close, however, was firm with December ⅝c up at 51⅝c.

The oats market, though inactive, sympathized with the firmness of corn. December started at 34⅜@34⅞c, a gain of a shade to ⅛@¼c, and sold later at 34⅞@35c.

Not much support was given to hog products. The first sales were at a decline of 15c to 2½c advance, with October at $19.32½@19.35 for pork, $12.45 for lard and $11.27½ for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Firmer But Prices Hold to Narrow Range.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 22.—The wheat market today was firmer but continued in narrow range. Trading remained light and of professional character. September closed at $1.09⅝, ¾c higher than yesterday; December at $1.11¾, ¼c higher and May at $1.15⅝@1.15¾, ¼@⅝c higher. Local elevator stocks increased 915,000 bu for five days. Cotton Market.

New York, Sept. 22.—Cotton opened steady with a decline of 1 point on September, but generally 1 to 5 points higher on buying, inspired by bullish cables, scarce accounts, talk of a holding movement among planters in the Southwest and the steadier ruling of Southern spot markets. DECLINES IN STOCKS

Opening Price Movement Narrow and Weakness Soon Appeared.

New York, Sept. 22.—The opening dealings in stocks today were quite active, but the price movement was rather narrow. Gains were in the majority, but the Northwestern railroad stocks showed the effects of the realizing sales. The metal group was somewhat irregular, United States Steel hardening a fraction, with other members of the group receding a fraction. American Maltung preferred dropped 2½.

Realizing was on a large scale, and a considerable part of yesterday's rise was wiped out by the end of the first hour. All the active stocks were sold freely and there was no apparent effort made to stop the decline. St. Paul, Great Northern preferred and Northern Pacific fell 1¼ and Union Pacific, Reading, Pressed Steel and Amalgamated Copper 1. Pacific Mail rose 1⅜ and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie 1¼.

The dropping tendency of prices followed revised estimates of the Minnesota railroad law decision. The failure of yesterday's advance to attract new outside interests in the market prompted selling of stocks. The decline in Union Pacific reached 1⅜ and Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio, Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred and Amalgamated Copper, 1. Bonds were irregular.

The market took on an appearance of strength and activity shortly before 2 o'clock. The movement started in Reading, which bounded up to 143½ and then spread to the rest of the important stocks. Practically all of the morning losses were recovered.

The market closed heavy and dull. The tone of the market became hesitating on the rally and the prices wavered within a fractional range and on light dealings. Amalgamated Copper weakened to 1⅜ below last night.

WARNS DEMOCRATS NOT TO DEPEND ON REPUBLICAN SPLIT

Champ Clark Makes Address at Illinois State Convention.

Points to "Internecine War" of Opponents as Cause for Hope.

Scores New Tariff Law as Dishonest to the People.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 23.—"The internecine war of the Republicans has enveloped the whole land, and to even the dullest mind, the evidences of Republican dissolution must be apparent," said Congressman Champ Clark to the delegates to the Illinois Democratic state convention here today.

Three candidates for trustees of the University of Illinois will be nominated and a platform will be adopted by the convention. The delegates number 1,140. The draft of the platform was offered to the resolutions committee for approval, but the different planks were kept secret. Congressman Henry T. Rainey was chairman of the convention and Congressman Champ Clark the principal speaker.

Must Have Program.

"We cannot depend upon Republican factionalism alone to win," continued the minority leader. "That may give us the house this fall without any effort on our part, but the chances are that Republican factionalism alone would not give us victories beyond this

NEW ARREST FOR SLUICE BOX THEFT

Marcus Johansen Accused of Part in Alaska Robbery.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 23.—Marcus Johansen, 22 years old, was arrested here yesterday on a charge of complicity in the stealing of $14,345 from the sluice boxes of the Pioneer Mining company at Nome, Alaska, several weeks ago. Johansen worked for the company with Johan Tyberg, who is held here in connection with the same case. Johansen and Tyberg came out on the same steamship, the Senator, from Nome last Friday.

PAYNE LAUDS TARIFF LAW

Admits Woolen Schedule Is Too High---Says He Is Sorry.

Denies Committee Was "Influenced"---Talks of Cost of Living.

Lyons, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Representative Sereno E. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives and author of the law bearing his name, made a warm defense of that measure before the congressional convention which renominated him today. He said in part:

"I have always been ready to give an account of my stowardship to my constituents There has been so much unjust criticism, so many mistaken statements made during the past year and a half, that it seems more fitting than ever to speak in detail of what has been accomplished.

"The platform promised a revision of the tariff that should provide a duty equal to the difference in cost of labor here and abroad, with a reasonable profit to the manufacture. It promised this as to each article whether it resulted in raising or lowering the tar-

FLIES OVER THE ALPS

Chavez, the Peruvian, Takes Monoplane Across Simplon Pass.

Accident at Domodossola Prevents Finish of Trip---American Fails Again.

Domodossola, Italy, Sept. 23.—To George Chavez, the Peruvian aviator, belongs the honor of being the first to fly across the Alps.

The daring feat was accomplished today in an attempt to win the prize of $20,000 offered by the Italian Aviation society of Milan for a flight from Brig, Switzerland, to Milan. Chavez, however, was unable to complete the trip, having sustained painful injuries when he alighted here. His machine, a monoplane, was overturned and he was buried in the wreckage. It is not believed, however, that his injuries are serious.

Chavez crossed the Simplon Kulm at 1:48 and thus accomplished what has been regarded as one of the most daring feats proposed for the airmen. He had waited patiently for favorable weather along the route, where strong winds are the rule. This morning both sides of the Alps reported clear weather, but the top of the Simplon pass was in haze.

Rose Nearly 7,000 Feet.

Chavez rose to a height estimated at nearly 7,000 feet. It was known that it would be necessary for him to attain to nearly this altitude to clear the Simplon pass, the summit of which rises 6,592 feet. He maintained apparently this altitude for at least a half hour, and followed over the road built by Napoleon in 1800 over the Simplon pass. He accomplished the eight miles that brought him over the top of Simplon and then sailed gracefully over the eighteen miles down to Domodossola.

Arriving at Domodossola he had left the hardest part of his journey behind him, having escaped the high peaks

CLAIMS CANADA IS BEING CHEATED

Dominion Officer Says Chinese Are Dodging $500 Head Tax.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 23.—Edward Foster, special officer of the dominion government, now here, believes he has discovered a scheme whereby the government is defrauded through illegal entry of Chinese into Canada by the avoidance of the $500 head tax. He has detained thirty out of about 400 Chinese arriving by the steamer Empress of China. It is believed that the scheme is being carried on by an organization working on both sides of the Pacific.

LABOR BOARD IN SAN FRANCISCO

Conciliation Body Is Organized to Deal With Differences.

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—Labor differences in this city hereafter will be submitted to the San Francisco industrial conciliating board, a permanent organization which was formed yesterday. The board consists of twelve employers and twelve labor delegates. William Matson was chosen president.

MORE ALASKA LAND FRAUDS

Ballinger Is Said to Be Working on New Set of Claims.

Situation Like That in Cunningham Affair Reported to Exist.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 23.—The Chronicle says:

"An investigation of suspected land frauds in Alaska, which may exceed in scope and startling developments the famous Cunningham cases, is believed to be in progress, guided by federal officers in the Northwest.

"This investigation, said to involve an entirely new group of claims in charges similar to those brought against the Cunningham entries, is believed to have been instituted and actively pushed by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger.

"The list of entrymen involved is said to include many men of prominence in Spokane and the inland empire, as well as others of national importance.

"Secretary Ballinger's recent visit to Spokane, according to the rumors afloat here, was made in furtherance of the investigation now in progress by officials of the land office and the department of justice."

Special Agents on Ground.

Lending color to reports of an investigation of suspected land frauds in Alaska is the presence in Spokane of Clyde Walker, former special agent at Spokane and now register of the land office at Juneau.

Two special agents operating out of the Seattle office are said to have been on the ground in Alaska, and to have conducted an exhaustive inquiry with thorough secrecy. Special Agent Christensen, the successor of Louis R. Glavis and Special Agent Carnahan are said to have been engaged on the cases for several months.

The developments expected in Spokane in the next few days are believed in some quarters to explain in some measure the long silence of Secretary Ballinger under sting of the Glavis charges as well as the attitude of President Taft toward his much criticised secretary of the interior.

STOKES LEADS IN NEW JERSEY RACE

Ten Counties Yet to Make Returns in Senatorial Primary.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 23.—Official returns of the Republican United States senate primary contest for indorsement were received at the secretary of state's office today from four of the remaining counties. There are ten more counties yet to send in their figures. A compilation of official returns already in and the semi-official figures of the other counties gives Edward C. Stokes a total of 39,027 votes; Charles N. Fowler, 38,833, and Franklin Murphy, 36,163.

Mr. Fowler, who is a conspicuous leader of the anti-Cannon forces in the present congress, was at the same time a candidate for renomination to congress, but was defeated by Judge Runyon.

MAY DISCUSS LEE'S STATUE

Grand Army Leaders Hope to Prevent Radical Action.

McCumber Pension Bill Expected to Find Favor.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 23.—The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will finish its business today and bring the reunion to a close. There have been no serious accidents and the health of the encampment has been excellent.

The principal business of today is the report by the committee on resolutions. Many subjects were referred to that committe, among them the question of the increasing of the pensions and the controversy over the Robert E. Lee statue. It is not expected that radical action will be taken on any subject. The leaders expect that some of the old soldiers who still have a lot of fighting spirit left in them will try to put through a resolution denouncing the placing of the Lee statue in the national capitol, but hope to prevent the encampment from taking any action whatever.

McCumber Bill Favored.

The encampment probably will confine itself to indorsing the McCumber bill now in congress, which grants pensions to widows of veterans, providing they were married to the old soldiers at least three years before they died. The McCumber bill, if passed, will let down the bars to about 20,000 widows and will increase the pension roll about $3,000,000 annually.

The Sons of Veterans selected Rochester for their next years' meeting. John F. Gilman of Boston for commander-in-chief, and Rochester, N. Y., for the next lace of meeting, was the winning combination in the G. A. R. The other officers elected were: Senior

TAFT PLANS FOR RATHER FULL DAY

Refuge Home and High School Will Get Some of His Time.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 23.—President Taft will be fairly busy today. He is to receive visitors at the home of his brother, visit Cincinnati's refuge home, motor to the new Woodward high school, and dine with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Anderson, at her home.

At the refuge home the president will be received by Mayor Schwab and Safety Director Scott Small. The home was founded sixty years ago today by Judge Alphonso Taft, the father of the chief executive. It is expected the president will deliver a brief speech. From there the president will go to the new Woodward high school, the cornerstone of which he laid the day after he was elected. He was graduated from the old school, and is president of the Woodward Alumni association. The girl pupils of the school will prepare lunch for him.

HURT WHILE "TUNING UP" NEW RACER

GEORGE ROBERTSON.

Mineola, Sept. 23.—George Robertson, the automobile driver, was injured and Stephen Reynolds, a fellow rider, was slightly hurt today when the new Benz car which Robertson was tuning up for the Vanderbilt cup race turned turtle as it struck the Massapequa curve at high speed. Robertson was picked up unconscious and taken to the Nassau hospital, where it was found that he had suffered contusions on the head and arm, and bruises on the body. His injuries are not serious. The car was going about seventy miles an hour.

It is believed Robertson attempted to take the dangerous curve at too high speed. It is not known whether anything went wrong with the mechanism.

Senate Committee Decides Not to Delay Lorimer Case.

Newspaper's Attorney to Take Part in Chicago Proceedings.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The senatorial sub-committee on privileges and elections which convened here to investigate the alleged fraud and corruption in the election of Senator William Lorimer, decided today to proceed at this time with the taking of testimony, and not to postpone the meeting until after the November elections, as urged by the senator's attorney, Elbridge Hanecy, at the first open session of the committee yesterday.

At the opening of today's session Chairman Burrows also announced that the committee would permit Attorney Alfred H. Austrian, representing the Chicago Tribune, and Former Judge Elbridge Hanecy, representing Senator Lorimer, to appear in the hearing.

This finding was arrived at in an informal conference of the senators last night and today the committee members were unwilling to discuss any phase of the hearing.

Hanecy Asked Delay.

Attorney Hanecy presented his for-

SMASH TARGETS AT SIX MILES

Navy Marksmen Do Great Work on the Drill Grounds.

On Board U. S. Battleship Kansas, at Sea, on Southern Drill Grounds, Wednesday, (by wireless via Portsmouth, Va.), Sept. 23.—The Atlantic fleet, the pride of the American navy, has demonstrated that no mark is too small for it to hit if it shows anywhere above the horizon.

Eight of the sixteen big battleships, forming the first squadron and headed by Rear-Admiral Schroeder's flagship, the Connecticut, peppered four targets, each one-fifth the size of an ordinary warship, at a range greater than 10,000 yards, or more than six miles. The Delaware, one of the two new American super-Dreadnoughts, cut away her target at the first salvo. The other ships of the fleet, including the Delaware, the North Dakota, the Connecticut, the Louisiana, the Kansas, the Michigan, the New Hampshire and the South Carolina, also found the range accurately.

Targets Were Towed.

The target floats were towed in single file by a battleship which was not shooting. Some of the shells dropped 500 feet astern and gave a realistic imitation of actual battle to those aboard. After the signal to commence firing had been given, the ships had four and a half minutes to fire. Nearly 500 shots, including 100 twelve-inch shells, were fired.

During the practice one of the big twelve-inch, fifty-ton guns of the battleship Georgia burst on the first range shot. The muzzle as far back as the forward end of the jacket was blown off. The crew miraculously escaped injury.

The big rifle was ruined, probably beyond repair. The Georgia was one of the battleships of the second squadron of the day target practice. She is commanded by Capt. William L. Rogers and is the flagship of Rear-Admiral Samuel P. Comly, commander of the third division of the Atlantic fleet.

Duluth Road Will Be Operated By the Soo System.

South Shore Trains Will Run Into New Depot Just Completed.

Move Long Expected in Railroad Circles About to Be Made.

That the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad will peacefully and quietly pass out of existence as a separate road, beginning with the operation of its trains into the new Soo depot in the very near future, is a story that today received confirmation from an official in a position to give the facts in connection with the oft-repeated statement.

For the past few years the South Shore has been considered a failure as a money-making railroad. Though the gross receipts of the road have been increasing, the deficit has also been increasing.

The bonded indebtedness of the road is large, and the interest upon this eats up the earnings of the road.

It is generally known that the Soo is the railroad child of the Canadian Pacific. It is also generally known that a very close affiliation exists between the South Shore and the great

WANT RINK ON PLAYGROUND

West Duluth School Children Will Petition Park Board.

A movement is on foot among the students of the Irving grade and Duluth industrial high schools to petition the park commission to turn the summer playgrounds at West Duluth into a free skating rink this winter.

The idea worked out well last year in the instance of the summer playgrounds at the West end near the Bryant school. The ground was flooded and was one of the most popular spots for children afternoon and evenings in the western end of the city.

Every effort last winter to secure a free skating rink at West Duluth met with failure. It is said that several sites were offered to the park free of charge to be used for a skating rink. However, nothing was done along this line.

The Western Curling club at West Duluth maintains a skating rink, which is not only open for members, but also for the general public, but admission is charged. Outside of this and a small rink at Oneota, maintained by the Oneota Boys' club, there were no other skating places at West Duluth except the river.

The children of the Irving school will probably bring the matter before the park board at an early date. The grounds, it is argued, might as well be utilized during the winter months as well as summer.

Alderman Barnes of the Eighth ward brought the matter before the council recently. He introduced a resolution in which the council requested the park board to look into the matter.

West Duluth parents who would not allow their children to skate on the river are also in favor of the free rink on the summer playgrounds.

Returns From Finland.

Rev. Gustaf Oberg, pastor of the Swedish Finnish Lutheran church, Fifty-third avenue west and Wadena street, is expected to return tomorrow from a trip to Finland and other Northern countries of Europe. He has been gone the greater part of the summer.

FORMER PASTOR TO VISIT HERE

Mr. Aldeen was very active in church affairs when in Duluth and he is said to be one of the most popular ministers of Jamestown.

FIRED AT POLICEMAN.

In an attempt to make an arrest, Officer Brouilette of New Duluth nearly lost his life last evening about 11 o'clock.

Three strangers, leaving a saloon, were creating a disturbance on the street, and when Officer Brouilette saw them and walked towards them they fired three shots at him and ran.

He was about 100 feet from them at the time and the shots went wild. The men have not been apprehended.

Contract Let for Car Sheds.

Work began this week on the steel frame car sheds of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad at Proctor. The sheds will be 400 feet wide, 600 feet long, and will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000. The contract for the work was let some time ago to the American Bridge company.

W. J. King has the contract for the brick work on the sheds. As soon as there is much headway made on the steel construction, a force of men will be put to work laying brick.

THIEF MADE A CLEAN SWEEP

J. D. Siegel, proprietor of the Keystone Loan company at 22 West Superior street, claims now that the value of the diamonds stolen from his place Wednesday evening will amount to $5,000 instead of $2,000, as the police were first informed. He states that the window containing the precious stones was completely cleaned out. The robbery was of the boldest kind, the thief working in full sight of hundreds of people who were hurrying along Superior street at 5 o'clock in the evening. The proprietor was in the back of the store trying to sell an overcoat, and it is thought that the customer was a confederate of the man who made the big haul from the window. Siegel says that he has small hope of recovering the diamonds.

JAQUES MEN ORGANIZED

Charles J. Hector Will Be Chairman of Campaign Committee.

Nine of Twelve Counties Are Represented at Conference in Duluth.

Imbued with a spirit of confidence and resolve that it is not frequently manifested at gatherings of Democratic leaders in Minnesota congressional districts, two score or more friends and supporters of Judge Alfred Jaques, volunteer members of his congressional campaign committee, held two conferences at the St. Louis hotel yesterday.

At these conferences all the phases of the situation as it relates to the probable outcome of the congressional election were gone over in detail; weak spots in the Republican candidate's fences were located; plans for concerted action in behalf of the Democratic candidate were discussed and agreed upon; and when the confreres adjourned they said they felt that there is every reason to look forward confidently to the election of Judge Jaques in November.

Frank Crassweller of Duluth called the meeting to order in the morning, with W. H. Skeimp of Cloquet, serving as secretary. Each of the twelve counties but three was represented by one or more friends of the candidate. In the morning those present devoted the time to a discussion of the situation and its possibilities, and in the afternoon the congressional campaign committee held an executive meeting. The committee is constituted as follows:

CHARLES J. HECTOR.

Anoka county—William A. Blanchard of Anoka.
Aitkin—Freeman E. Krech of Aitkin.
Carlton—E. S. Schiebe of Cloquet.
Cook — Thomas I. Carter of Grand Marais.
Isanti—A. P. Yngve of Cambridge.
Itasca—William Houlihan of Grand Rapids.
Kanabec—Thomas B. Vickery of Mora.
Koochiching—Duncan T. McPhee of International Falls.
Lake—John Dwan of Two Harbors.
Mille Lacs—A. M. Anderson of Mille Lacs.
Pine—Paul Perkins of Pine City.
St. Louis — Andrew Nelson of Duluth.

The committee organized by electing these officers:

Chairman—Charles J. Hector of Duluth.
Secretary — John T. Pearson of Duluth.
Treasurer—Bert Fesler of Duluth.

The chairman was authorized to appoint a committee at large and such other committees as may be necessary to the successful management of the campaign.

It has not been decided where headquarters will be established, but the intention of the committee is to find quarters and to open them without delay, as the campaign is to be pushed steadily and energetically in St. Louis and every other county in the district.

Officers Meet.

The officers of the committee held a meeting this morning and took up some of the questions of detail that must be disposed of before the campaign will be formally opened. As a matter of fact, however, the campaign has been on in earnest ever since Judge Jaques announced that he was a candidate, and the situation today finds the Democratic congressional nominee in a position of advantage such as few candidates enjoy at this stage of the fight.

Duluth Democrats are exceedingly well pleased with the start that has been made and feel that with Judge Jaques' interests in the capable hands of the officers selected by the committee yesterday, there is every justification for the faith that is in them.

Every member of the committee and every man who attended yesterday's conference, brought word to Judge Jaques that in the counties from which they came there exist conditions which promise well for him in the campaign. It was brought out in the remarks made by the visitors that in many communities where Miller received large pluralities at the primaries, the sentiment was strong against Miller, the explanation being that the voters cast their ballots for Miller for the purpose of beating him at the polls with a strong man like Jaques, rather than taking the risk of nominating an unknown on their own ticket.

Many Republicans, it was said—and the vote shows the truth of the assertion—did not vote on the congressional ticket at all, preferring to wait until the November elections, when they can settle the pending question with a direct vote for the Democratic candidate. The vote given Taylor represents largely the element in the Republican party that can't stand for Miller and didn't know enough about McKnight to give him a vote.

That Judge Jaques has already made good progress in his campaign was agreed among the visitors yesterday. He has been around the district quite a bit, quietly getting acquainted with the voters and letting them learn his attitude on public questions that are involved in a congressional candidacy—particularly this one. The general impression he has made, according to all reports, is that he is square and right on every issue that touches the welfare of the people.

Not only has Judge Jaques given the voters an opportunity to learn his views and convictions by personal interviews and by means of literature widely distributed, but friends have written hundreds of personal letters to their friends in all parts of the district. These letters are proving to be productive of good results, some of them surprising and indicative of a flood of anti-Miller sentiment that will sweep over the Eighth with tremendous force in November.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Chance to Elect a Democrat to the House From the Strongly Republican Fifty-Third District—"Tom" McKeon Returns From Vacation Trip, Eager for the Fray—Tawney's Defeat and How It Is Viewed—Minnesota Democrats Prepare for the Battle.

The Fifty-third legislative district is face to face with a post-primary situation that is extremely interesting. This district includes the counties of Hubbard, Wadena and Todd. It is long and slim, with a notch on its middle eastern boundary, where Cass county juts out. Rudolph Lee, son of William E. Lee and editor of the Long Prairie Leader, was defeated as a county option candidate for the senate by James Johnston, who is the incumbent. Johnston lives at Bertha, Todd county, and is opposed to the county option program. The vote was 2,057 for Johnston and 1,979 for Lee. In the legislative fight, L. H. Rice of Park Rapids, Hubbard county, an anti-option candidate, and W. T. Stone, also of Hubbard county, but an optionist, were nominated for the house.

Wadena County Has Mixed Situation.

This leaves Wadena without a legislative candidate on the Republican ticket, for John Marks of Long Prairie, an optionist, was defeated. Wadena has a Democratic candidate for the house, however, on the Democratic ticket. Although Wadena is a strongly Republican county, there is reason to believe that its vote will not be cast for a county option candidate. The alternative is to elect the Democratic candidate, who is either Frank F. Latta or J. D. Ressler, for Wadena will not be disposed to be without representation in the legislature.

L. M. Davis is the Democratic nominee for state senator.

Walter T. Lemon of St. Paul, one of the active workers in Ramsey county Republicanism, and who is city and county chairman of that organization, is in the city.

Thomas J. McKeon, who has returned from a vacation trip and is in fighting trim, says he is confident that he can win his fight as the Democratic nominee for judge of probate. Mr. McKeon will get into the game without delay and will let the Republican candidate know from start to finish that he has a fight on his hands. In all the years that he has lived in the county and in spite of his admitted popularity, he has never been a candidate for an office, but his friends say that's not a handicap—rather an element of strength.

McKeon Feels Just Like Fighting.

"I was in Chicago when the Cook county Democratic convention was in session," said Mr. McKeon yesterday. "There is a live lot of Democrats. They kept things stirred up every minute of the time and got some real enthusiasm started. In contrast to this convention, I found another Democratic county convention a very tame affair next day, when I was in West Bend, Ind. The Democrats of St. Joseph county were very tame Hoosiers. They didn't have any sort of a fuss."

The defeat of James A. Tawney in the First congressional district primaries is the most important indication of Minnesota sentiment on the issue of insurgency, in the opinion of the state press and politicians who have been quoted on the subject. What has happened to Tawney in the primaries is likely to happen to a number of other Republican representatives from Minnesota in the November elections, for the spirit of insurgency is expected to flourish and grow between now and election day.

Congressional Fights In Minnesota.

The following article, which appeared in the news columns of the Pioneer Press, bears on the situation in the First district, as distinct from the situation existing in the Fourth and Fifth districts:

The defeat of Congressman James A. Tawney of the First district by Sidney Anderson in the primaries Tuesday may result in the election of H. L. Buck of Winona, the Democratic candidate, who was nominated without opposition. The Democrats yesterday said they believed this would be the result, and many Republicans said the same.

Buck was in the field long before Anderson's name had been mentioned. Buck has been in politics for many years and although he has not been seeking office he has been well known. While the progressives were seeking a candidate, and even after Anderson had got into the field, it was a common saying among both Republicans and Democrats that if Tawney would be beaten at all it would be by the Democratic candidate. In the 1908 campaign Tawney had a smaller margin at the general election than at the primary.

It is believed that the Tawney organization will largely swing towards Buck at the election in November. If Anderson is elected it is probable that he would be renominated and re-elected two years from now. Four years out of public life would mean Tawney's political finish, that all his dreams of continued power in congress, of the speakership or of being senator would be shattered forever. But with a Democrat elected in a district which is normally heavily Republican there would be a possibility of Tawney's nomination and election two years hence, if there is a subsidence in the wave of progressivism.

The bitterness of the campaign has added to the chances of the Democrats. The campaign of the progressives was entirely a campaign against Tawney and his record, and the accusations against him have not been the most pleasant. The Tawney people will not forgive and forget at once.

That the defeat of Tawney is not a victory for Anderson, but rather an acceptance of Anderson as a medium by which to rebuke Tawneyism, is emphasied by the Winona Independent, which says:

The man James A. Tawney by training and natural equipment is so much better able to serve the district than Sydney Anderson that between the two men there could be no hesitation in choosing, if that is all that were to be considered. But that was not all.

James A. Tawney, the confidant of Taft, Aldrich and Cannon was not considered the proper person to represent this district.

The vote of Tuesday was a rebuke to Mr. Tawney, the reputed friend of the big interests and the champion of the standpat idea, rather than an indorsement of Sidney Anderson. Any other man running against Mr. Tawney, unless he was a nortorious scoundrel and blackleg, would have defeated Mr. Tawney as easily as Anderson.

It was simply an idea, and not a personification of an idea that defeated Mr. Tawney.

The Preston Times is convinced that the First district has been wiped off the map by the defeat of Tawney, whom it praises as a man faithful and mighty in the councils of the nation. As to the causes of Tawney's downfall, the Times finds the muck-rakers, place seeking demogogues, personal foes and powerful interests responsible. Continuing, the Times says:

Insurgency and Democracy are in the air. The fires have been lighted and must burn themselves out. The defeat of Tawney and other able men is but the capturing of the outposts by a species of insurgency which spells Democracy and which bids fair to sweep all before it in November.

The congressional vote in the First, which gave Anderson nearly 3,000 more votes than Tawney, seems to afford sound basis for the Times' November forecast.

The executive committee of the Democratic state central committee met yesterday at St. Paul and went through the formality of electing the officers chosen by the state committee at its recent meeting, when James Gray of Minneapolis was made the party nominee for the governship. These officers are: Chairman, Frank A. Day of Fairmont; secretary, Harvey W. Grimmer of St. Paul; treasurer, Fred B. Lynch. Members attending the meeting were besides the officers, D. D. Daly, Olivia; Martin O'Brien, Crookston; Tim O'Connor, St. Paul; H. A. Lund, Minneapolis; W. R. Hodges, Sleepy Eye; William Gausewitz, Owatonna; J. A. Rieter, Rochester; Fred Scheplin, St. Cloud; S. J. Mealy, Monticello.

Democrats Plan Campaign.

Mr. Gray was unable to be present, having accepted an invitation to make an address at the county fair at Austin.

Campaign plans were discussed and the executive committeemen left with the belief strongly fixed in their minds that James Gray will surely defeat Eberhart and maintain Democracy's prestige in the state. No obstacle to the inauguration of a strenuous campaign now remains and one of the very liveliest fights in the political history of the state is expected to occupy the attention of the voters from this time on.

St. Cloud's attempt to inaugurate the commission form of municipal government has met with the same fate as that experienced in Mankato at the first attempt, a majority voting in favor of the new scheme, but enough to give the proposal the necessary 60 per cent of the whole vote. There was a deficit of ninety votes. The other charter amendment, providing for the establishment of a municipal court, also failed to get 60 per cent of the full vote. Friends of the commission form in St. Cloud are confident that on the next trial enough votes will be cast for it to put it into operation. To that end a campaign of education will be carried on.

St. Cloud Falls at the First Attempt.

FLICKERTAIL POLITICS

Governor John Burke of North Dakota, who now has the support of the Grand Forks Herald, the Minot Reporter, the Fargo News, the Steele Ozone, the Williston State and the Grafton News and Times, among other Republican papers of the Flickertail commonwealth in his candidacy for reelection to the governorship, has begun an energetic campaign and is meeting with just such a favorable reception as has been accorded him by the voters in the two preceding campaigns.

Burke Making War on the Boss.

In a speech at Tower City Tuesday evening Governor Burke put the real issue of the campaign up to the people in these words:

Alexander McKenzie is making his last stand for the control of North Dakota. He has removed his headquarters from St. Paul to Bismarck and this a sure sign. He used to make the politicians come to St. Paul to see him; now he goes to them. If his candidate is elected to the office of governor, he will have control of his great machine again and you will have difficulty in getting rid of him. He will put state institutions back into politics and people will lose all they have gained in the past four years. You people can take your choice as to whom you want in the governor's office after the next campaign, a representative of Alexander McKenzie or a representative of the people.

Governor Burke is accompanied on his tour by Col. M. A. Hildreth, Democratic candidate for congress, who in his speeches devotes his attention almost exclusively to national issues and the record in congress of L. B. Hanna, who is in much the same position in North Dakota as C. B. Miller in Minnesota, for he "played ball" with the "old guard" in congress like a league player.

The North Dakota Democrats will center their attack on Hanna, as the other Republican candidate, H. T. Helgeson of Milton, is an out-and-out insurgent. T. D. Casey of Grafton is the other Democratic candidate for congress. His county adjoins Helgeson's.

Hanna is expected to make a stump speaking trip in a few days.

PUMPMAN TREED BY HUNGRY WOLVES

Ed. Quinn of Cloquet Has an Unpleasant Experience.

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Quinn, who looks after the city's pump house at Spring lake, about a mile from the city, had a very unpleasant experience a few days ago. Quinn goes out early in the morning and spends the day there alone, usually, unless his young son, Edward, Jr., or some one else happens to come out. Mr. Quinn has occasionally seen a wolf prowling around at a distance, but thought nothing of it.

A few days ago three of the brutes came sneaking upon him suddenly from the bushes, and he took to a hay stack and was treed there for three hours, or until the lean wayfarers tired of waiting for him to come down. He was unarmed and had not even a club. The forest fires this year destroyed about all the food that the bears and wolves depend upon, and it is thought that a scarcity of food is reason for both being seen quite frequently out in the clearings of late.

The Reason

The 3 Winners are doing such a big business is because they give you more style, more quality and more value than the high rent stores do.

GROWTH OF INDIAN RACES.

Washington Post: The Indian has at least paused in his passing from the face of the earth, if the statistics concerning births and deaths among about one-third of the Indian population of the United States, which have just been compiled by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, can be accepted as a criterion of the general condition of the red race. During the fiscal year 1909 there were 3,395 births and 3,175 deaths among 101,717 Indians.

It was estimated there were 300,545 Indians in the United States, exclusive of Alaska, during the last fiscal year.

WANT CAR LINE TO CEMETERY

Directors of Cemetery Associations Interview Street Railway Manager.

Street cars may be used in Duluth for funeral purposes in the near future, if the officials of the Duluth Street Railway company act on the sugestions made to General Manager Herbert Warren by a joint committee, representing two local cemetery associations.

The committee, which waited upon Mr. Warren Wednesday afternoon, stated that it was a difficult matter now to get to some of the cemeteries, especially the Union and Lutheran cemeteries at Hermantown and that with the street car, much better accommodations could be provided at considerably less expense.

A. Thorsen and C. G. Anderson, directors of the Union cemetery association, and A. M. Nelson and Axel Person of the Lutheran cemetery, comprised the committee which interviewed Mr. Warren in the interest of a new street car line to Hermantown.

They pointed out that with the completion of the new Hutchinson road, close at hand, a short cut to Hermantown would be provided, with a grade of 4 per cent, which would make the road suitable for trolley cars. The cemeteries are about four miles distant from the city and when the new Hutchinson road is completed this fall, there will be an excellent thoroughfare all the way.

The bridge over Miller's creek at Thirteenth street and Piedmont avenue will have to be repaired before street cars can run over it. If the Hermantown line is built, according to General Manager Warren, it will be an extension of the Piedmont avenue line, which now terminates at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

Mr. Warren told the members of the committee that he could not promise how soon the Hermantown line would be built, but said that the officials of the company have the matter under consideration, as well as a number of other extensions of the lines.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

COLDER

Much cooler weather prevails at the Head of the Lakes.

A cold wave from Northwestern Canada is following yesterday's rains. The cold wave will probably moderate Saturday, but meanwhile the wind is coming from the lake, and last night an overcoat was appreciated.

A year ago today it was cool and clear.

The sun rose at 5:55 and will set at 6:06, making twelve hours and eleven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much cooler weather prevails this morning in Minnesota, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Manitoba in connection with a strong high-pressure condition that has advanced to the latter province from Alberta during the last twenty-four hours. In the meantime light to heavy rains have fallen over the upper lake region, the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, due to the influence of the disturbance central over Western Mexico and another from the Red river valley to Eastern Ontario. This latter depression has also caused warmer weather over the eastern lake region and Upper Ohio valley. The rapid changes in pressure throughout the Northwest favor unsettled weather conditions at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours. The Northwest storm warnings (ordered at 10 o'clock last night) were lowered at 10 a. m. today."

General Forecasts.

Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper lakes—Brisk north winds; unsettled, with showers on Michigan and Huron tonight and possibly on south portion Saturday; partly cloudy on Superior.

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Saturday; frost tonight with colder in east and south portions; warmer Saturday.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy with probably showers tonight or Saturday; cooler tonight and in southwest portion Saturday.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight in south portion; warmer Saturday.

Iowa—Showers tonight or Saturday; cooler tonight.

North and South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; warmer Saturday and west portion tonight.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; warmer tonight in north and west portions.

SAYS BRANCH IS IN PROSPECT

Postmaster Declares West End Will Have Good Carrier Service.

West end residents, who have been aroused over reports that the postoffice department at Washington will curtail the carrier service at the West end, need not be alarmed, according to Postmaster A. P. Cook.

"The West end has been promised a postal station with ten or more carriers of its own and an efficient service," said Mr Cook, and stated that the matter was now in the hands of the officials at Washington.

Postmaster Cook, while admitting that four of the sixteen routes at the West end or west of Seventh avenue west, had been cut down to one delivery a day to provide for the carriers' vacations, stated that this was brought about because of the failure of congress to appropriate the $200,000 asked for by the postoffice department last year.

Several West end citizens have expressed their opinions on the plan of having the service cut down in some districts to one delivery a day. They say that the matter of a branch postoffice has hung fire for nearly two years and as yet nothing seems to have been done about it. They are growing weary of the delay.

NEGAUNEE NOTES.

Negaunee, Mich., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The blueberry shipments still continue from the lake shore, east of Marquette, but the average number of cases handled daily by the express companies here does not exceed fifty. The recent heavy frost did considerable damage to the crop.

The funeral of John Sagarlick, the young Austrian, who was killed at the Stephenson mine, when he ran his motor car through the gate of the third level and dropped eighty feet to the bottom, was held Tuesday with interment in the Negaunee cemetery.

Many of th farmers here expect to harvest a fair crop of potatoes, though it is reported from many sections of the country that this year's crop will be far below normal.

GRAFTON, N. D., ABOLISHES SALE OF FIRECRACKERS.

Grafton, N. D., Sept. 23.—(Secial to The Herald.)—An ordinance abolishing the sale of fire crackers in Grafton was adopted by the city council and will become effective immediately. The ordinance is drawn up along the same line as those already in effect in other cities of the state, and is the culmination of a long campaign against the use of the crackers on the Fourth of July, a number of bad accidents having happened in recent years.

POLITICS IN THE FUTURE

Will There Be New Progressive Party for Next Campaign?

Political Prophets Are Giving Serious Heed to the New Conditions.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Whether or not Col. Roosevelt has constructed a platform which is so radical, if not revolutionary, that the regulars will refuse to stand on it and whether this means that beside the two old parties there will be in the field for the next presidential election a new liberal or progressive party made up from the progressives gathered up everywhere, is a question which just now is giving the political prophets much concern.

It is one thing to attract the applause of the multitude, and it is another thing to garner in the votes of those same men who did the shouting. Col. Bryan found that to be true. And yet—

Without doubt there are a lot of progressive senators and representatives who will come out from under cover next December. In fact, they are coming out right along. They have felt that the party was not keeping up with the development of advanced thought among the people, but they have hesitated about declaring themselves as the recognized insurgents and progressives have done. Some of them philandered for a time, flirting with the liberal element only to be warned back into the ranks of conservatism by the demands of the regulars where the latter were in undisputed control of the party machinery. But the whole country seems to be in the mad rush toward a more radically representative system of government, and the former president is leading the movement. He is excelled by no one in making an accurate, shrewd estimate of the state of public opinion.

Col. Roosevelt has discovered what the people want. The acclaim which met his recent utterances apparently proved that, and he is the man to cast his fortunes with the powerful public, whose applause makes or mars the fortunes of those who appeal to it. The movement is bound to grow. It will gather strength daily, and there is little probability that anything can stop it. If the movement is one calculated to bring prosperity to the country, it will endure; if it be the lure of false prophets, it will pass away. But in any event, a large and perhaps controlling element of the people is determined to have a change. Perhaps it would be as well to recognize that this is their temper now as at some later time.

Senator Owen on Popular Rule.

Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma has issued what he is pleased to call The Code of the People's Rule. This was printed as senate document 603 (Sixty-first congress, second session). It consists of an introduction of "various statutes, etc., relating to the people's rule system of government, and for terminating the abuses of machine politics, viz.: An adequate registration system; secret ballot, direct primaries, publicity of campaign contributions, corrupt practices act, publicity pamphlets, initiative and referendum, recall, Des Moines plan of city government, short ballot, etc." Accompanying the code was a copy of Senator Bourne's speech on Oregon's system of popular government—"the best system in the world today."

Senator Owen declares that "the people's rule is not, or should not be, a partisan question. In Republican Oregon, South Dakota, Montana and Maine and in Democratic Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Nevada, the people have become already comparably free from machine control, or are about to achieve that distinction."

Forestry Profits.

Anyone who expects to get rich out of practical forestry, by planting trees and waiting for them to grow, will probably be disappointed unless he happens to be growing eucalyptus in California. The forest service has recently put out leaflets showing the cost, methods and profits of growing loblolly and short-leaf pine. It claims that loblolly will make a tree eighty feet high and containing seventy board feet of lumber at the age of forty years. The wood is "coarse-grained, knotty and largely sapwood." Shortleaf pine makes better lumber, but it is of slower growth. In crowded, unthinned stands, the pine will yield about 13,000 board feet of lumber to the acre in fifty years. At $7.50 per 1,000 feet on the stump, which is probably not too little to estimate it at, this would give $97.50 an acre, which is less than $2 per year per acre, not counting anything for seeding, transplanting, thinning and other work, beside interest on the money. From an economic point of view, the forest service should be able to find something more worthy of offering to the public as an investment.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. R. HUEY, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

MANY TONS OF LUGGAGE

Special Baggage Rooms Provided in English Country Houses.

Week-End Guests and Their Remarkable Wardrobes.

London, Sept. 23.—Like the rest of society, smart American women are flitting about here, there and everywhere just now and their luggage is a source of amazement to those uninitiated in the requirements of the mondaine. One morning not long ago at Charing Cross Mrs. John Jacob Astor had to pay $160 for excess on luggage. A conspicuous feature in the consignment was the number of hat boxes which arrived at the station in charge of a maid. Some were round, measuring three yards in diameter. All told there were a dozen or more.

Each box was insured. One which apparently contained an extra precious creation, the maid desired to carry into her own second-class compartment, but the officials had a word to say on the subject as its dimensions required the room of two passengers. After some considerable discussion, it was eventually placed in the van with the others. All these interesting boxes were of compressed cane in a lovely shade of blue, an entirely new idea, as hitherto compressed cane boxes have been turned out in the inevitable ginger tint. Mrs. Astor's had silver clasps.

Before going to Scotland, where they now are, Mrs. Batty and her family were at Trouville for a very brief holiday. Her luggage weighed something like a ton, but as it included her children's the amount was not so very excessive, though the excess fare was.

An Awful Catastrophe.

During June the Sackvilles had a pastoral play at their famous seat Knole Park. One of the amateurs taking part in it was Miss Clara Frewen, niece of Mrs. George West. On the morning of the festivity to the horror of everyone concerned in the performance it was discovered that Miss Frewen's shepherdess hat, an exquisite thing after Watteau, designed especially for the play, was not forthcoming. Telephoning was continued with almost uninterrupted vigor during the morning and a great deal that was unparliamentary was said. Eventually it was discovered that the hat had been sent to Miss Frewen's address in London. That it might reach Knole Park in time it was necessary to have it dispatched by a special train which was arranged for by telephone in less than a quarter of an hour by Lord Sackville himself, who happens to be a director of the railway company. The hat arrived at the identical instant it was required and though the festivity in question did not go off as smoothly as it should have done the hat was in no way responsible.

At various country seats in England and Scotland during the last year or two, special luggage-rooms have been built for the baggage of smart women folk. These are no jerry built or makeshift structures, but securely and substantially erected quarters, dry, warm and fitted with electric light in which with all safety the precious belongings of the wealthy social butterflies may be deposited.

Provision for Health Fads.

Not only does the baggage of the fashionable woman of the day include frocks, hats and toilette accessories galore, but provision has also to be made in it for the paraphernalia connected with her health fads. Nine out of every dozen mondaines, with or without the consent of their doctors, take the sourmilk cure. Everyone now concludes that the only safe way to proceed is to make it at home. This means a special apparatus with various utensils which further increase the things which have to be taken for even a week's visit. Besides, there are the physical culture instruments of torture, as they have been defined, the dumb bells, planks and rubber articles with which the fashionable matron and debutante of the day exercise day in and day out.

Arthur Balfour tells a good story against himself in connection with a recent visit he paid to a country house. At all times a light sleeper, he was awakened one morning during the small hours by stamping and pounding punctuated by an occasional groan from the room adjoining his. Thinking his neighbor was either a maniac or seriously ill, he got up and put his ear to the keyhole. The noise and the groans continued. It seemed advisable to arouse the household. He went to his host's bedroom and explained the situation.

Cause of the Noises.

"Good heavens, old chap, is that all you woke me up for," was the response. "That room is occupied by my wife's nieco and Lu (the hostess) tells me that the girl performs certain exercises to develop her throat and neck which necessitate her making the weird noises you no doubt hear. Lu never dreamed old man that the noises would reach you."

A year ago at the local railway station for Sunningdale park there were five tons of luggage belonging to prospective guests of Mr. Winans awaiting delivery. None of those who owned it was staying at the park more than a week.

The duchess of Roxburghe, who likes to do things differently from her country women, is said to have gone to Norway with one compressed can trunk and a handbag which she often carried herself. Perhaps, like the duchess of Maralborough, who wore such simple, inexpensive little gowns during the last season, she, too, is trying to set an example in the matter of economy and simplicity to her compatriots.

TAFT LAUGHS AT THIS ONE.

Beverley, Mass., Sept. 23.—President Taft is getting a lot of good laughs these days out of the following poker story:

"If I were playing poker I'd bet $10 on this hand," said Isaacson.

"Well," said the governor, "if you will give me a queen I'll bet you $100 on my hand.

Isaacson gave the governor a queen, smiling as he thought of the four kings he held. When the betting was over Isaacson laid down his four kings and reached for the money.

"Softly," admonished the governor, showing four aces and pocketing the stakes. Isaacson gazed sorrowfully at the governor, then asked:

"Say, governor, I don't mind the money, but I wish you would tell me what you wanted of that queen?"

HE WOULD RIDE HORSE TO A BAR

Ex-Husband of Grace Van Studdiford Proves a Bad Actor.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23.—Charlie Van Studdiford, whose divorced wife, Grace Van Studdiford, the actress, recently filed a bankruptcy petition showing assets of $1 an debts of $25,000, tried to ride into the Laclede hotel bar here on horseback. Policeman Murphy protested, but Van Studdiford refused to take the policeman seriously. The policeman then took Van Studdiford bodily off to jail.

Murphy was standing near the hotel when he saw a well groomed individual force his horse upon the sidewalk in front of the bar entrance. Murphy ran down to protest.

"Here, you can't do that!" shouted the policeman.

"Well, I don't care; the horse and I believe I can," replied Charlie.

"Well, I mean I won't let you do it," said Murphy.

"Oh, you got the number wrong," said the horseman. "I'm Charlie Van Studdiford."

"Any relation to the actress?" asked Murphy, as he grabbed the bridle.

"Oh, yes; I'm her cousin; only she is not an actress; she's a singer."

"Well, anyhow, you're getting to be a bad actor and whoever you are you had better get off the sidewalk with that horse," ruled Murphy.

"Nix," said Charlie. "I can't let my steed stand."

There was some further dialogue which resulted in an automobile patrol being summoned. Van Studdiford once was wealthy and married Grace Quive, the opera singer. She an Van Studdiford were divorced more than a year ago when she filed suit at Clayton, Mo., and was granted one of the famous "ten-minute divorces."

A REPUTATION SHATTERED.

Denver Post: Gordon Scott bought a new table for his office in the Symes building the other day. When it was delivered, he decided that it was too well varnished.

"It was too smooth," said Mr. Scott yesterday to a couple of friends. "Why the first day I had it a fly lit on it, slipped and broke its neck and three of its arms."

Heretofore Gordon Scott has borne a reputation for truth and veracity.

WILL BE HOT CAMPAIGN

Ohio Politicians of Both Parties After the Rural Vote.

Count Much on Impression Made in the Country Counties.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 23.—It seems to be pretty well settled to the Ohio view that the country vote is the thing. One doesn't need to hark back many moons to discover that it is quite possible for a man to be elected governor of this state without carrying the cities. And when the country vote is out and voting pretty much one way, the majorities are somewhat larger than when the rural persons are indifferent or splitting their votes and the cities are voting pretty much one way.

In 1908 the Democrats, on the state ticket, polled a healthy vote in the country, but made the biggest gains in the cities. Governor Harmon's plurality was about 20,000. Three years previous John M. Pattison didn't run well in the cities, but had the country vote with him and he was elected by about 44,000.

Both parties are after the country vote this year all right. Whatever time Governor Harmon had had from his efforts to settle the strike at Columbus has been spent at county fairs and farmers' reunions. His speeches have not been political, but his receptions have been most cordial. Not being a Governor, Mr. Harding has not attended as many of these reunions, but he is going to try to overcome that handicap by so fashioning the campaign as to make it possible for a large percentage of the rural vote to get under the spell of his oratory.

Tour in Back Counties.

The Republican managers have thought the thing out and have decided to extend Mr. Harding's roposed automobile tour in the back counties to within two weeks of the election. At least two speeches a day are to be made by the candidate, but he will not have the entire burden on his shoulders. For Mr. Harding is generous. He wants the other candidates on the ticket to have a chance to be heard and is going to take several of them along. Not that he is playing favorites, but he has picked four of the best speakers from the bunch for places on the program with him. The others will go along, but the speeches will be made by Mr. Harding, Granville W. Mooney, candidate for secretary of state; U. G. Denman, the most popular attorney general who has held that office since it was created; Lieut. Governor Francis W. Treadway, who has grown amazingly in public estimate during his public career, and Renick W. Dunlap, candidate for another term as dairy and food commissioner, who is especially strong on heart-to-hetart talks to farmers.

After campaigning in the country till two weeks before election day, Mr. Harding will turn his attention to the cities, taking time to run out to the suburbs in his automobile semi-occasionally.

The Democrats are preparing for just as hard a campaign as if they didn't have the Republicans scared at the start. Their press bureau has been at work for a long time. Their speakers are being coached to put in heavy licks. Governor Harmon, who has a splendidly developed talent for choosing words that make his utterances fairly stand out from printed pages, will be heard from. Atlee Pomerene, forceful, eloquent and popular, will travel with the governor much of the time. There are other good speakers on the ticket.

Democratic Speakers.

Within the last few days it has been announced that Champ Clark and Ollie James will speak, probably at the opening at Canton. Mr. Harding's announcement that the battle would be fought on the Taft administration and the new tariff law has led the Democrats to select some foreign speakers who are expert on both subjects.

For the first time in his life Brand Whitlock will make what can be termed political speeches. Whitlock, mayor of independent Toledo, will stump for Harmon. Newton D. Baker, who fought hard to have the Democratic state convention indorse someone for United States senator, has tendered his services to the committee.

An early September forecast gives the state to the Republicans. Harmon, Republicans declare, is not nearly so strong as he was two months ago. Inactivity in regard to the Columbus strike has cost him many votes. The unions are opposed to him because he has brought troops to this city and because he has not driven the local street car company into arbitration, which everyone ought to know he has no power to do. Then the bulsness interests are assailing him because he has not taken a more active part in putting down the lawlessness here.

Republican Charges.

The Republicans will charge that Harmon, who has been heralded as a patriot is as much of a politician as any man in Ohio. They say that he has proved this in his connection with the street car strike, which more and more every day becomes an issue in the state campaign.

The Democrats are planning a red-hot campaign. They are talking of bringing charges against the state board of public works, which has been in the control of the Republicans for years, and which has provided some nice soft berths for party workers. Chairman Nichols is also digging up a lot of editorials which have appeared in Hardinge's paper in recent years and are using them against him. Some of these editorials attack Roosevelt and others Taft. Foraker himself, his old friend, not escaping at times the shafts of the Marion editor. Harding is not alarmed about this, however.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders express the opinion very freely that the Socialists will poll a larger vote in Ohio this year than they ever have before

DIVORCE SUIT WHICH INVOLVED MILLIONS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23.—Twenty-five million dollars was involved in the divorce suit settled by J. G. Hutton, when he granted Mrs. Eleanor Milbank Anderson Tanner a decree and the custody of the most scientifically reared baby in the world.

Mrs. Tanner is heiress to the fortune amassed by Jeremiah Milbank, founder of Borden's Condensed Milk company, and is the daughter of Mrs. Abraham Archibald Anderson, in whose possession the fortune now lies. She married Tanner in 1904, and Betty Tanner, now 5 years old, was born here. Tanner loved the baby, and although he was charged with "wilful neglect," friends say that he gave up only when he found that he was not to be allowed to kiss his own daughter.

The reason the kiss was barred is because germs roost on lips, and Betty has never yet been kissed on her lips. The child is kept in a germ-proof, sterilized, antiseptic house, and other scientific precautions were taken to guard the child's health because her mother announced some years ago that if Mrs. Tanner died without children the Milbank millions would go to charity.

FOUND LITTLE VISITOR WAS NOT A WEASEL.

Danville, Pa., Sept. 23.—A little animal that found its way into the cellar and finally domiciled itself in the heating system in the home of B. F. Cohen of Danville, took in the whole range of pipe throughout the house, and created no end of excitement. Mr. Cohen decided it was a weasel and concluded to build a fire in the furnace and heat the pipes. But when the fire went out it was found the animal was still in the pipe, as frisky as ever.

It was here that Policeman Voris was called to the rescue, as were a number of Danville residents. The attack was well planned. By the light of the lantern, and far in the pipe, quite out of reach of a man's arm, the animal could be seen. Expecting something of this sort, the party had come provided with large mill tongs. Seizing these, Harry Hixon reached into the pipe and dragged forth the animal. As it fell to the ground, Frank Walker, by an agile movement, placed his foot upon its head.

The family moved out of the house. The weasel was a skunk.

WAS FIRST OLD PROBS

Original Weather Forcaster Now Getting Credit From Scientists.

Defined Theory of Storms and Gave Warning of Them.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 23.—In Harrisburg there dwelt and perfected his theory of forecasting storms, one James Pollard Espy, who is gradually getting the credit from scientists of being the first Old Probabilities—that is the first man to make observations of weather conditions, and from them reason out what kind of weather was due and likely to make its appearance in the next twenty-four hours, and to give the people warning of storms. Every scientist in this country and Europe is now willing to admit that Espy was the first man to define the theory of storms and from his observations predict the coming weather.

Mr. Espy was a young man when he came to Harrisburg from Ohio, where he was born, and took charge of the old Academy at Front and South streets, where he taught for years and resided in the house built by Maclay, one of Pennsylvania's United States senators. He was a scientist, a meteorologist and a student of conditions that produced changes in the weather. While in Harrisburg he was continually engaged in making calculations from his study of cloud conditions, and by some he was regarded as a trifle deficient in the brain pan. It was here that he wrote his book on "The Theory of Storms," the first step looking to a general study of weather conditions.

From Harrisburg Espy moved to Lancaster for a short time, and then moved to Philadelphia, and conducted a private school on Chestnut street, in one of two old frame houses that stood on Chestnut street, above Broad, on the site that was afterward occupied by the mint. One part of the house was his home, the other he used as a school. Espy's Harrisburg relatives say that the fence in the rear of his house was covered with chalk figures made by him in making his weather calculations.

From Philadelphia Espy went to Washington, but he never forgot Harrisburg, and he came back to this city and settled down after his Washington experience and married. The late Alexander Stephens of Georgia was the first one to extend a helping hand to Espy in Washington, and from 1854 to 1860 Espy, assisted and encouraged by Stephens, promulgated his discoveries to the world. As usual, in his own country Espy was coldly received by the scientists, but the French and English were more liberal and encouraged him to keep up his work. Through Stephens the Washington newspapers were induced to send out through the country forecasts of the weather, as made by Espy, and those were the first weather bulletins ever known.

Mr. Espy's work was practically done when the war broke out, and he moved back to Harrisburg and occupied a large brick mansion on Front street that is now being remodeled for a residence for Bishop Darlington of the Episcopal diocese of Harrisburg. In tearing out the partitions and removing the accumulations of years from the attic of the old house the workmen came across a number of examples of Espy's calculations, but, not knowing their value, they tossed them aside and they were lost.

RACE SUICIDE REPORTED FROM RURAL ENGLAND.

London, Sept. 23.—A new and graver turn is given to the race-suicide problem in England by the discovery that the decline in the birth rate is reaching down into the sturdy working classes in the rural districts. In the County of Essex, for instance, the rate of births is more than two points lower than it was only two years ago. The decline seems to be steady from year to year. An extended inquiry is to be made in all the country districts in the hope of finding out and, if possible, remedying the conditions.

According to the annual report of the county medical officer of Essex, Dr. Thresh, the birth rate last year was 22.85, as opposed to 25.1 a couple of years ago.

Dr. Thresh says he hopes "the common sense of the people will before long put an end to the decline, which is a serious menace to the prosperity of the country."

MINNESOTA AND THE GREAT LAKES.

When the Federal government spent millions to improve the Great Lakes waterway, and thereby made possible an enormous cheapening in freight rates, every part of Minnesota benefited through access to this cheap waterway by way of the port of Duluth.

When the railroads got possession of all the principal vessel lines, and by getting a monopoly of the dock facilities in Duluth achieved complete control of the situation, they immediately began raising lake freights. When that was done, every section of Minnesota began paying tribute to this monopoly.

Duluth has determined to break the monopoly by establishing a city dock system, where independent vessels can discharge their cargoes and thus give Minnesota the benefit of the low freight rates to which it is entitled and of which it was robbed by a railroad monopoly.

Duluth should be backed up in this project by the whole state. The state has a chance to do something tangible and effective by turning over for use as a part of the dock system that is to make Duluth a free port the old state elevator site in the West end which it bought many years ago and will never be able to use.

The state could well afford to give it free, considering the benefit it will be to all parts of the commonwealth; but Duluth isn't asking that. The state paid $11,000 for it, and it should sell it to the city of Duluth for that price. It is worth more, but the state oughtn't to try to make a profit on a deal that means so much for every consumer within its borders.

WHERE DOES THE CONSUMER COME IN?

Railroad men told the interstate commerce commission yesterday in Chicago that the more business they do the smaller is their margin of profits, and that therefore the greater the increase in their traffic the higher freight rates must go.

To which Commissioner Lane aptly replied: "As the country develops there will be more and more freight delivered to you, and as conditions are now the rates constantly must be increased, according to the argument of railroad officials. I regard it as a serious menace to the Western country, if the rates constantly are to be increased. We must work out this problem on lines other than by the proposed method of raising the tariffs. If not, there is no time when we can say the maximum has been reached."

According to the railroads, the more prosperity, the more business; and the more business, the higher freight rates must be: thus working it out so that prosperity is an injury to the consumer, who pays the freight.

Clearly, Commissioner Lane is right when he says that some other way of working out the problem than cumulative freight rate increases must be devised.

Meanwhile, Governor Stubbs of Kansas was addressing a meeting at Topeka, at which delegates from Middle Western states adopted resolutions declaring for the physical valuation of railroad property as a basis for fixing freight rates.

There is no other way to reduce confusion to order in the railroad rate situation. All attempts at adjusting freight rates without the physical valuation of railroad property are shots in the dark.

The railroads are entitled to earn reasonable dividends on a fair valuation of their property—no more and no less. If, as railroad men say, a valuation of railroad property would disclose a total greater than the amount of railroad capitalization, that would be a reason for increasing rates providing present rates could be shown insufficient to return reasonable dividends. On the other hand, if the valuation is less than capitalization, the valuation, not the capitalization, should count in fixing the dividends to which the railroads are entitled.

MAKING SCHOOL BUILDINGS USEFUL.

A schoolhouse, in which the people have a large sum invested, is used six or seven hours a day, five days a week, during eight or nine months of the year.

The dividends on that investment come through the education of the children, and in the past the people have been satisfied to accept that return without analyzing it.

But the business of education is the only business known on which satisfactory dividends can be earned with so little use of the plant—except possibly the churches, which are used but a day or two each week, and only a part of those days.

About the most interesting development of the realization that the school plant can be made to return larger dividends in public service is that of Rochester, New York, where the schools have been turned into public club houses. The process is described by Ray Stannard Baker in the American Magazine: "The greatest step of all, after 'boss' political control was eliminated in Rochester and the people really began to dominate, was the movement, originated in 1907, by which the people began to take possession of the schoolhouses for their own use as community and social centers, where the people of the neighborhood could meet in the evening, get acquainted, organize clubs, conduct social entertainments, plays, dances, concerts, banquets, fairs, and above all, engage in the free discussion of public questions. The schoolhouse thus became the public place owned by all the people, the common ground for the new sort of democratic association. The city was requested to open the public schools, and after much agitation the school board was given $5,000 to try the experiment. All sorts of people came into the clubs—people who could not be induced to come into a church or social settlement or any other private association. For the people felt that the schoolhouse belonged to them. Both men's and women's clubs were formed, and these not only held meetings, gave entertainments, organized ball clubs and the like, but entertained one another with concerts, plays and dances. The older women's club in one school contained among its membership old stock Americans, Jews, Irish Catholics, and even one negro woman. All of the clubs, of which there are now forty, are organized in a league of civic clubs, in the executive committee of which is a Jew, a Roman Catholic, two Republicans, two Democrats and three independents. One of the chief secrets of the success of the movement has been its platform of open and free discusion of all subjects, not even politics and religion being tabooed."

The schoolhouses are in use for school purposes about a sixth of the time. The rest of the year they are idle. Why isn't Rochester's plan a good way to make them yield their highest possible dividends in civic good?

SENDING HELP TO OHIO.

In response to an urgency call for assistance in Ohio, where Governor Harmon is threatening the Republican forces with an overthrow even more complete than that of two years ago, President Taft said yesterday that he would send into the state some of the prominent leaders of the party.

Cannon, Aldrich, Hale, Tawney and Smoot would make a good team for that enterprise. They are surely "prominent leaders" of the party, since they have had a ring in the elephant's trunk for some years.

And they ought to be powerful campaigners at this stage of the game—for Harmon.

POVERTY IN WALL STREET.

Wall Street is "pulling a poor mouth." It is sending out such stories as that brokers are not realizing in commissions a tenth of their office expenses.

That's pretty poor picking for Wall Street. It means less unbottling of champagne, less splurging with automobiles and steam yachts—all at the people's expense.

But what is Wall Street's loss is the people's gain. Wall Street's poverty does not mean that any of the nation's wealth has disappeared. It means that the people are using their spending money in other ways. They are not using it to bring prosperity to the nation's greatest gambling joint.

Wall Street, in so far as it is an exchange where securities are bought and sold for investment, is a legitimate enterprise. But it couldn't hold its present level for five minutes on the business that simple investment brings it. Gambling on a large scale, with the industries that support the people and that the people support as the pawns, is what brings prosperity to Wall Street—and the people are not gambling.

The sign is wholly good. If it is permanent, it is better still. Wall Street always has been a losing game for the people. It is true that while some have lost others have won, but the public has been the spoil of professionals, and in the end the public has lost heavily. Otherwise, there couldn't have been so many diamonds, automobiles and steam yachts, and so much champagne, as Wall Street has enjoyed in the past. If the game were "on the square," which it most emphatically is not, the "kitty"—commissions, in politer language—would still leave the people loser.

It is by no means wholly bad news, therefore, to read these saddened reflections from the New York Financier, a Wall Street organ: "We venture to say that on no form of investment in the United States is the present rate of return as low as on what may be termed 'Wall Street.' By that we mean the income derived from commissions on current transactions in stocks and bonds. Nobody has ever calculated how many millions of dollars are represented in the cost of seats on the stock exchange, or in the expensive office plants, heavy rentals, etc., but the total must be enormous, and the fixed charges in proportion. The office organizations of the majority of stock exchange firms represent years of patient and persistent work, and the expenditure of heavy sums of money in attracting a clientele. If we include as ramifications the numerous subsidiary concerns, and in fact the whole Wall street fabric and what is dependent on it, we have a sum which conservatively might run into the hundreds of millions. Hence when we begin to figure that the whole source of profit on which this huge branch of modern business rests is from commissions and the profit derived from the sale of securities, and that for months past the commissions earned on the stock exchange fall far short of paying a minimum interest on the cost of the seats, to say nothing of the running expenses, we begin to realize what a dull stock market means. Day after day the sales on the exchange fall below the half-million mark. Even with this ruinously diminutive total a large proportion at least represents professional trading, without tangible profits. The public is in the habit of clamoring against Wall Street and its influences, but Wall Street for the last year has been a mighty small factor in the life of the United States. If speculation and legitimate trading do not revive soon the map of the greatest financial center in the country is bound to undergo significant changes."

In other words, Wall Street cannot continue trying to live off itself. If the people do not resume contributing to its support, it will have to reorganize down to a basis that will care for legitimate investments. And that will be a great benefit to the country.

THE HELPFUL CONSUMER.

The Payne-Aldrich-Taft tariff increased the revenue taxes on tobacco. It sounded well when the provision was published. Tobacco is a good thing to tax, and the tobacco trust is able to pay heavy taxes and should be made to do so.

Word comes now, however, that the tobacco trust is up to its old trick of passing the burden on to the consumer. It's nothing new, of course; all burdens are passed on to the consumer sooner or later. But the incident is a pretty good illustration of the fact that when the people fancy that they have escaped taxation when they provide for revenues by indirect taxes they are grievously mistaken.

The tobacco trust is paying the new taxes, but it is reducing the size of tobacco packages so that while the consumer will pay the same price as before, he will get enough less tobacco to make up for the tax—very likely a little more. so that the trust will turn the new taxes into a source of profit for itself instead of an expense.

All of which, sooner or later, is going to convince a lot of people that the only just tax is an income tax that must be shouldered by the persons taxed, and that can't be passed on to somebody else.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the letter. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

AN UNKIND SUSPICION.

"EXPLAINING AWAY THE MAINE RESULT."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your editorial yesterday "Explaining away the Maine result," you quote "Opposition to Prohibition," as one of the conditions in Maine leading to the the defeat of the Republican party.

My judgment is that you are right in agreeing with the Chicago Tribune that the liquor question entered somewhat into the result; that without doubt it had something to do as one of the causes of the change from Republican to Democrats party rule. But to be strictly accurate we must place an adjective before the word Prohibition to designate its character, "Opposition to (Republican) Prohibition" would more exactly describe the state of mind of the people of Maine.

Maine will now come under Democratic Prohibition regime. The very sense of incongruity that comes to your mind as you read this term is the straw that shows the general drift of the current in Democratic ranks in relation to the enforcement of prohibitory law. It is a forecast of the failure of prohibition when left in the hands of an unsympathetic political organization, be it Republican as in the past, or otherwise.

In event of failure in Democratic hands there will be only one thing left to do in order to give a fair and complete trial to prohibition, and that is for a Prohibition party to take the reins of state government in Maine. If it should have the success that Sheriff Pearson had in keeping Kennebec county, Me., dry, all doubts as to the power of a party who really wanted to, make Prohibition prohibit would disappear. Yours sincerely,

GEORGE L. BRIGGS.

Maine!

O Maine!
Let's hear it again!
Sing it and shout it emphatic!
"Bully for Maine!
Maine, that has gone Democratic!"
Ran for the boys who have taken the stand,
Sending a thrill through this larruping land!
Oh, for to shake every man by the hand
From Sagadahoc
Clear to Wytopitlock;
From Cork to Tignish,
And old Antigonish;
We'd like for to pat every man on the back-o,
In Pugwash, Oquossoc, Aziscoos and Quaco!
We'd like for to fill up a temparance noggin
For old Androscogogin, Buctouche and for Joggin!
And to drink down great bumpers of two per cent grog
To Moselucmeguntic and old Umbagog!
And to whoop it up good with the balloting league
Of Togus, Katahdin and Passadumkeag!
As to Hirobsamcook, Welokennebacook,
We've only to soy that you sure used the hook!
And we wish we'd been there the excitement to see
When they heard the returns from old Parmacheneer!
But oh, as we weren't,
Let us chortle: Oh, what a
Slambanging you gave them
In Damariscotta!
And oh, what an antic
They cut in Megantic!
At Mattawamkeag we will bet they were frantic!
So Maine, good old Maine,
We are tickled with you,
From Kittery Point up to old Caribou!
Hurrah for Showhegan and Schoodic again!
Hurrah for you all down in bully old Maine!

It was a bad day for protection graft and grafters.
On with the Democratic dance; let joy be unconfined!
You cannot even fool all Maine Republicans all the time.
At this writing it looks as though Maine had gone "hell bent" again!
The Ricker-Fernald combination can now drown their sorrow in Poland water.
It has been a long, hard, up-hill tug, Brother Democrats, but we have got there at last!
Maine starts the Democratic avalanche. Now watch it go thundering along through state after state.
The Democrats of Maine send greetings to the national Democracy. Long live Jeffersonian Democracy!
The Republican party of Maine has got what it has long deserved—and thousands of Republicans say Amen!

GRAY FOR GOVERNOR.

Lind's Selection a Wise One.

St. Paul Dispatch: More significant than that and of first importance, perhaps, is the fact that Mr. Gray was the substitute tendered to the committee by Mr. Lind. Being unwilling to be a candidate himself, it was up to Mr. Lind to provide a substitute and relieve the party of its embarrassment as far as possible. In offering Mr. Gray he has undoubtedly made as wise a selection as could have been hit upon. Mr. Gray has qualifications that are not possessed by others of the candidates talked of. He is better known to the people of the state than any of them. He is favorably known, and he can make a good speech. While he may not be elected, and perhaps his supporters have slight expectation that he will be, he is a creditable candidate and will pull more votes in all probability than any other man who has been talked about since Mr. Lind's refusal to make the race.

Whirlwind as a Campaigner.

Crookston Times: James Gray, former mayor of Minneapolis, and who was named by the Democratic committee at St. Paul today as candidate for governor of Minnesota, to fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the refusal of John Lind to accept, is a whirlwind as a campaigner. He was elected mayor of Minneapolis when practically unknown.

Is a Pleasant Surprise.

St. Cloud Times: The nomination of ex-Mayor James Gray of Minneapolis as the Democratic candidate for governor, comes as a pleasant surprise. Since it became certain that ex-Governor Lind would not accept, it has been feared that no one could be found who would fill his place with reasonable hope of success. This fear has been dissipated by the nomination of ex-Mayor Gray, one of the four City's most popular residents. Every citizen of Minneapolis, no matter what his politics, respects James Gray, and speaks of him as an honorable, high minded gentleman. Some years ago he was prominently before the public, but of late has been engaged as editorial writer on the Minneapolis Journal—a fact of itself, which tells its own story of his ability.

Gray Should be Elected.

Willmar Journal: The Democrats have selected James Gray of Minneapolis as their candidate for governor. He is a well known newspaper man, was mayor of Minneapolis and gave the city its cleanest and best administration. Has the ability to be governor and should be elected over Eberhart, whom La Follette says is only the railroad errrand boy.

More Than State-wide Repute.

Lincoln State Journal: The Democrats of Minnesota never put up a cleaner or better man for governor than the man placed on the ticket last week by the state central committee, as a substitute for John Lind who refused to run. James Gray is a newspaper writer of more than statewide reputation. Some years ago he served a term as mayor of Minneapolis, and did a little graft-killing which greatly offended the "liberal" element, but won the respect of decent people everywhere. He is not a crank, but a man of sane moral convictions who would rather be right than hold any office on earth.

Abler and a Credit to State.

Winona Independent: James Gray, the Democratic nominee for governor, is said t be one of the best writers and most learned men in the state and is also a public speaker of extraordinary ability. If the gubernatorial contest is to be fought out on the question of which is the abler man and which will reflect the most credit on the state, Jim Gray will win over Adolph Eberhart without a struggle.

Is a Strong Candidate.

Moorhead Citizen: Mr. Gray was formerly mayor of Minneapolis and is on the editorial staff of the Minneapolis Journal. He is a strong candidate, a good campaigner and a vote getter. All Democrats and independent voters who believe in continuing the good government in this state that we have had for the past six years under a Democratic governor, should get together and boost for James A. Gray and not only elect him but every candidate on the ticket. Everything is in our favor and let the good work go on. Be sure to boost for our candidate for governor and every other candidate on the state ticket and while you are doing this, do not forget the county ticket. Mr. Gray's keynote speech will be made at Fergus Falls on Sept. 27.

Seeing the Great Blizzard at Sea.

William Inglis in Harper's Weekly: The roaring and shrieking of the tempest, the thunder of the waves, that jarred the whole fabric with a shock like earthquake, made fitting accompaniment for the gloomy thoughts that possessed me. Home, friends, life itself—all seemed lost. Only one thing remained: to meet the end quietly, without any cowardly complaint. I fell into a sort of mental stupor, while all my physical energies were concentrated in hanging on to my position on the windward side of the cabin, my feet braced against the deck, my hands hooked inside the edge of the berth. Now and then came a lull in the fury of the gale, and I could hear a faint, wailing cry like the call of little turkey chicks strayed from their mother—peep! peep! pee-ee-eep! Here was food for speculation. What in the world could it be that made a noise like little turkeys? To solve that riddle immediately became the most engrossing thing. After much search I discovered the source of the sound: the wind was blowing against the companionway, rebounding from that, and whistling through the keyhole of the cabin door.

A door in the bulkhead swung open, and in came Manuel, smiling affably and reassuringly.

"Ah-h-h!" he exclaimed, "ver' bad storm. Dees morning I begin maka da soup you lika so moch, Meest' Inglees. Ah-h-h! Loavely pea soup wit' hama-bone. All morning da soup pot on da galley stove she sim-mer, sim-mer, sim-mer. Den, a twenta minute a twelve, com da greata, beega blank-a-da-blank of a wave an' knock da sheep, an' all my bee-yootiful soup is gone to —, all over da galley wall!"

There is not enough room on this page to describe the long siege of horror that settled down upon us. It lasted for two days and a half. One by one the pilots came down into the cabin to put on dry mittens and hang up the wet ones that were freezing their fingers. No fire could be made for two days; for should another knockdown happen, the scattered coals might set fire to the ship. I don't think anybody ate anything from Monday's breakfast until next day; but my memory as to meals at this time is vague, inasmuch as fear (not seasickness) had driven away from me all ideas about food.

Unquestionably Guilty.

New York Press: Mrs. Harry Lehr, at a luncheon in Newport, ridiculed the assertion of a French novelist that men object to cigaret-smoking women because their sense of smell is so exceedingly delicate and keen.

"If man's sense of smell were really so extraordinary," said Mrs. Lehr, "he couldn't stand his rooms and clothes and mustache all saturated with stale tobacco and whisky fumes.

"Man's keen sense of smell! And yet how well the average man is hit off by the story of the tramp arrested for vagrancy.

"As the tramp stood up in the dock the magistrate said to him:

"'Well, my man, what is the charge against you?'

"'Fragrancy, your Honor,' the tramp replied."

Miss Mary Sercombe, having recovered from her illness, has moved from the Silberstein & Bondy building to the new Long building for the purpose of establishing a dressmaking school.

Pike Lake, or Canosia township, is entitled to the banner on account of the interest shown in the cause of education and the patriotic spirit of its citizens. They have just completed a neat little cottage for the residence of their teacher and have ordered a beautiful flag for their schoolhouse. This will be in charge of a color guard of boys who will keep it floating while school is in session and furl it when school closes. Patriotic lessons will also be taught in the school.

The property of the Empire Iron Company of Duluth, which filed articles of incorporation yesterday, with a capital stock of $200,000, lies four miles south of Ely and consists of 160 acres. There is a good outcropping of iron ore. The incorporators are: A. T. Scarlet, S. F. White, Neis Hall, W. A. Holgate, E. J. McLaughlin, R. P. Edson, T. C. Himebaugh, Daniel G. Cash and A. M. David Ogilvie has sold the row of six fine brick dwellings on Sixth avenue west and Fourth street, built by him last year, to George S. McManus. The price is understood to have been about $38,000.

A SHOCKING LETTER.

New York World: The most amazing letter that ever had the approval of an American president is that of Secretary Norton to an Iowa politician. It is at once a confession, an apology and a surrender. Worst of all it is a ghastly spoils proclamation, with a suggestion of bribery by patronage and with no avowal of principle whatever.

Mr Taft's confession is in these words:

"While Republican legislation pending in congress was opposed by certain Republicans the president felt it to be his duty to the party and to the country to withhold Federal patronage from certain senators and congressmen who seemed to be in opposition to the administration's efforts to carry out the promise of the party platform."

Mr. Taft's apology, surrender and promise of spoils are thus shamelessly stated:

"The president feels that the value of federal patronage has been greatly exaggerated and that the refusal to grant it has probably been more useful to the men affected than the appointments would have been. In the preliminary skirmishes in certain states like Wisconsin and Iowa and elsewhere he was willing, in the interest of what the leaders believed would lead to party success, to make certain discriminations; but the president has concluded that it is his duty now to treat all Republican congressmen and senators alike without any distinction. He will not follow the usual rule in Republican congressional districts and states and follow the recommendations made by Republican congressmen and senators of whatever shade of political opinion, only requiring that the men recommended shall be good men, the most competent and the best fitted for the particular office."

Here is an open avowal of the indecencies that scandalized the Buchanan administration and of the sordid favoritism that brought Grant's second term to a humiliating close. Yet bad as was Buchanan's Dahlte war upon the Douglas men and demoralizing as was the attitude of Grant's parasites toward the liberals, the country was at least spared on both occasions presidential penance like the above.

Written for Mr. Taft and presumably approved by him, this shocking letter nevertheless is signed by another. In such cases there is always the possibility of misunderstanding, if nothing worse, and for a day or two there will be ground for hope that there may be a disavowal. It has been found necessary during this administration to sacrifice one secretary to the president. Perhaps the fate of another has been sealed.

The Wonder of September.

The wonder of September—the hills so far and high
With trees that shoulder lazily against the glinting sky,
And little winds that romp and dance and whirl across the way
And fling the dust in gayest wise as rivers fling their spray.
O, one would go a-gypsying and sleep beneath the stars
And heal his heart of sorrowings and free his soul of scars.

The marvel of September—the reach of garnered fields,
The winds of morn that shake the corn with clash of mystic shields,
The fair sunshine like amber wine that drips from far above
As though 'twere poured from out a hoard of fellowship and love—
O, one would go a-gypsying, nor stay his truant feet
Till he had lost the shadowed wall and lost the city street!

The glory of September—the flowers near the wood
That flame all bold in red and gold and show what life is good,
The very weeds that burst to bloom, and each a wondrous thing
As delicate and full of charm as any bloom of spring
O, one would fain go gypsying and put his soul in song
And brother all the bonny blooms that see him trudge along!

The gladness of September—the joy of all the earth
When harvest lands and solemn woods stand in their fullest worth,
When peace is breathed across the world from shining East to West
And sleepy sighs come from the skies and lull the land to rest—
O, one would go a-gypsying and wander here and there
And never more have any thought of frettings or of care!

The stillness of September—that is the best of all,
The hush that comes across the hills and tells us of the fall,
With crickets piping in the dusk and golden stars above,
When night comes in on feet that tread as soft as those of love—
O, one would go a-gypsying and sleep beneath the stars

Some Echo.

Truth: An American and a Highlander were walking one day on the top of one of the Scotch mountains, when the Scotchman, wishing to impress the boastful "cousin," produced a famous echo to be heard in that place. When the echo returned clearly after nearly four minutes, the proud Scotchman, turning to the Yankee, exclaimed: "There, mon, ye canna' show anything like that in your country." To which the other replied, 'I guess we can better that some, stranger. Why, in my shooting lodge in the Rockies, when I go to bed I just lean out of my window and call out, 'Time to get up; wake up!' and eight hours afterward the echo comes back and wakes me."

Bulwer Lytton and the Medium.

Escott's Life: The possibility of communicating with his daughter's spirit attracted him to Home; the vulgarity of one of Home's female clients began to repel him. This lady, as Lytton used to tell the story, had been brought into converse with her departed husband's spirit.

"Are you," she asked, "quite 'appy, dear—as 'appy as when you were with me?"

The reply came; "Oh, far, far 'appier."

"Then, indeed, you must be in 'eaven," sighed the lady.

"No," returned the gentleman; 'I'm in 'ell."

ARE MAKING RECORD TIME

8,000 Piles Will Be Driven in Less Than Two Months.

Duluth Firm Doing Rapid Work on Soo Ore Docks.

One of the quickets jobs of pile driving for dock construction purposes that has ever been recorded, is being done at the present time, in the work on the Soo dock, east of Grassy Point, Superior.

The work began two weeks ago, and with 8,000 piles to drive, it is expected that the job will be completed by Nov. 1. The piles vary in length from eighteen to seventy-two feet, and are of norway pine and tamarack.

The Intertsate Dredge & Dock company of this city is doing the work, which will be one of the quickest jobs ever done in the country. There are five pile drivers at work, and the work is being rushed with all possible speed by Manager Whitney. As there was a delay in beginning on account of the objections to the Soo right-of-way through Billings Park.

RENDEZVOUS FOR MILITIA

O. H. Clarke Wants State to Rehabilitate Fort Ridgely.

Cow Stable Now Adjoins Monument to Fort's Defenders.

That Fort Ridgely, historic ground near Morton, Renville county, which has played an important part in the annals of Minnesota, should be acquired by the state and rebuilt for use as rendezvous for the state militia, is the opinion of O. H. Clarke of the Clarke-Wertin company.

Mr. Clarke is starting a movement which he hopes will result in the appropriation by the legislature of a sufficient sum of money to rehabilitate the fort.

"Old Fort Ridgely," said Mr. Clarke, "is historical ground and should be acquired by the state of Minnesota. The fort should be rebuilt. It can be used by the state militia as a post or rendezvous for its annual encampment. There is everything at the fort to make a first-class military post. It has artillery and rifle ranges and is one of the most healthful and the most beautiful places in the state of Minnesota.

"I believe the old fort can be rebuilt cheaply and substantially by the use of cement blocks. I do not know the owners of the land, but I believe the state is owner of five or six acres which formerly comprised a parade ground. The federal government is maintaining a cemetery at the fort and has spent some money in enclosing it with an iron fence and erecting a monument to the memory of those who were massacred at the lower Sioux agency in 1862.

"I believe that the state of Minnesota erected the monument to the defenders of Fort Ridgely. It is protected by an iron fence. When I visited the place two years ago it was not cared for and weeds had overrun everything. A cow stable was within forty or fifty feet of the monument. It certainly had a dismal appearance and was not pleasant to look upon by one who remembers the exciting incidents that occurred on the ground where the monument is erected.

"I intend to bring the matter to the notice of the newspapers in the counties near the old fort, to the Old Settlers' association and to the surviving members of the little band that vallantly defended the fort in the Indian outbreak of 1862. I believe that the Daughters of the American Revolution will assist in pushing the matter to a successful finish. We will endeavor to place our arguments before the representatives and senators from districts near the old battle ground and we hope for success."

FIRE DOES BUT LITTLE DAMAGE

Defective Wiring Causes Small Blaze at Pilgrim Congregational Church.

At an early hour this morning a fire which is supposed to have started from defective wiring in the Pilgrim Congregational church, Lake avenue and Second street, resulted in about $300 damage to that structure.

The fire department made a quick run and caught the fire before it had gained much headway. The blaze started on the first floor of the structure and rapidly ascended through the wall in which it started to the attic. It looked for a time as though the blaze would prove serious.

The chemical was first used, but it was later necessary to throw some water on the burning parts.

Electricians are doing some work at the church. In installing some new wire they are supposed to have left a short circuit last night.

The water thrown in the attic leaked down through the plaster and it was in this way that a greater part of the damage was sustained. The cost of repairing is estimated at from $200 to $300.

The fire will not interfere with the chicken pie supper that was planned for tonight. The regular services will also be held both Sunday morning and evening. Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Y. M. C. A. will preach.

Shoe Worth and Shoe Talk

The constant advance in the cost of leather has caused a similar advance in the price of most shoes. In many instances where the price has been advanced, cheaper materials are being substituted. Unless the manufacturer or the retailer bear the burden of the greater cost of production, the consumer must pay more for her shoes or wear less durable, less stylish, less comfortable shoes.

$2.50 and $3.00 were the original price of Kriss & Rose Company's Shoes, and these prices have never changed. Unless the cost of leather shall still materially advance, our prices will remain the same, so will the materials. The same excellent quality and workmanship will be maintained throughout in Kris & Rose Company's Shoes. Accept no substitute. Prices Always the Same..... $2.50 and $3

FIRST AMERICAN WOMAN AVIATOR

MME. FRANCOIS RAICHE.

Mme. Francois Raiche is the first American woman to take an aeroplane into the air. She is the wife of a builder of flying machines who is making his headquarters at the Hempstead Plains aviation field. Mme. Raiche has had the ambition for some time to go up in the little bi-plane which her husband had been constructing since August last. It is not the smallest bi-plane on the Hempstead field, but it looks very small beside some of the machines there. Mme. Raiche went out at 7 o'clock in the morning dressed in corduroy skirt with leather coat and cap. She wore goggles. After two preliminary runs across the field she lifted the front plane and rose into the air. She came down very quickly, a gust of wind having destroyed her equilibrium. The machine struck on the right skid and this was cracked. The forward plane was injured and Mme. Raiche was thrown from her seat, the machine passing over her. She scrambled to her feet and ran down the field after the aeroplane and shut off the engine. She was not hurt and not in the least discomerted. Mme. Raiche is a native of Illinois and much interested in sports.

The Doctor

To Cure a Bunion.

The pain of a bunion may be relieved by wearing a boracic acid poultice at night and a loose shoe during the day. The swelling should be protected by a circular pad with a central hole. Paint with liniment of iodine. In cases of extreme deformity the only thing that can bring about a cure is an operation.

Diet and Health.

A mere change of diet will often be enough in itself to save doctor's bills, and in summer more especially is it an advantage to vary the nature of the food taken, and to live to a large extent upon fruits and vegetables and cooling fare.

Those who find it difficult for one reason or another to obtain a summer holiday should at least give themselves the benefit of a change of diet, even if change of air is denied to them.

A simple thing recommended by doctors as an invaluable aid to digestion and a powerful helping to keep the system in order, is a glassful of very hot water sipped the first thing in the morning, and another taken late in the day. In making a temporary change of diet it would be a good plan to begin by substituting for the morning cup of tea a glassful of almost boiling water sweetened with sugar. This can be sipped from a teaspoon until the water has cooled down sufficiently to drink from the glass. Then, again, cold porridge or brown bread and butter and fruits might replace toast or white bread, potted meats, bacon, etc., on the breakfast table.

In many homes where food in relation to health is studied, a practice is made of drinking only before and after meals, not during the meal itself. In a doctor's household the early morning glassful of hot water is followed by breakfast without drinks of any kind, but afterwards more hot water is sipped. At lunch the beverage is hot or cold water flavored with the juice of a lemon.

THE EVENING STORY

More Than He Wanted

By G. T. Hart.

"Once, when I was leading a bunch of emigrants," said the old scout, "I picked up a feather headdress among the sage bushes. The baudy thing had been dropped by an Indian who'd been chasing elk, as I could see by the fresh hoof marks. It was really gorgeous, made of eagles' tail feathers, with a band of buckskin trimmed in weasel skins and red ribbons.

"I picked it up and carried it to camp. There was a young fellow who'd been buying Indian gear of all sorts whenever we struck a bunch of reds. I gave him the bonnet, and he spent the evening admiring it, and then packed it away in a chest in his wagon.

"The next morning, just as we were hooking up, a single Indian came riding into camp. He recognized me and came direct to me. He was a Sioux chief. He wanted that headdress. He told me that he had thrown the bonnet down when he was chasing elks. He had gone back for it, and found, by the tracks, that one of my young men had been there and carried his property away.

"I frankly confessed that I had picked up his gear, and told him I would get it for him. But when I went to Jones, the man who had it, told him the circumstances, and asked for the bonnet, he laughed.

"'I've got the war bonnet,' he said, 'and I'll keep it till the Injun can prove his property in court.'

"There was no use arguing with him; he simply refused to listen. Much disgusted, I was compelled to explain to the Indian, telling him the man who had it considered it lost property, and its ownership unproved.

"'Lost,' he exclaimed, wonderingly. 'My property lost on my trail. There is no man of my nation who would take up property so found.'

"I felt the sting of that all right. The Indian had seen me talking to Jones. He rode up in front of him and sat looking at the man for a full half minute, Jones returned his stare with a gesture of profound contempt, the Indian wheeled his pony and rode away.

"There was trouble ahead. For a time I kept a sharper lookout than usual, but as several days passed, and we were jogging along at twenty miles a day, the business passed out of my mind.

"One day we were moving along a flat, with the river here and there fringed with cottonwoods and young growth on one side and a low range of bluffs on the other, when trouble overtook us.

"We had twenty wagons and some fifteen horsemen in the party, about forty-five men in all; strung out as usual at midday, for distance of two miles or more along the trail. All were in sight of each other, though, when a bunch of Indians broke from the hills not far away and made a dash for the middle of the train.

"The leading drivers and horsemen were mostly soldiers recently discharged. They had been traveling in close order, as they should do, and the way they got into action was good to see.

"They wheeled their wagons into a circle. The drivers unhooked the horses, and nearly every man was mounted. When I and a number of others came galloping down to them from the extreme front, I found myself at the head of a troop of more than twenty men.

"As our party was nearly equal to that of the Indians, we did not hesitate to charge down the line. Two wagons, near together, but separated widely from any others, were plainly the object of attack. The Indians were lying on their ponies' necks and going for those at top speed.

"The drivers of the wagons, one of which was Jones, had stopped their teams, and seemed to be sitting paralyzed on their seats. We had muzzle loaders in those days, and a full minute before we got within rifle range of the wagons the reds had reached and surrounded the hindmost.

"That wagon was Jones'. We knew it by its black cover, and at that instant the incident of the headdress popped into my mind.

"Wanting to prevent useless bloodshed, I halted the men.

"'Those Sioux are after the feather jiggery,' I said to them. 'Come on, but don't fire unless fired upon.'

"The men agreed, and on we went.

"We were nearly within gunshot of the Indians, when they scattered away from the wagon, which they had pretty much demolished, and rode straight at the river. It was but a couple of hundred yards to cover, and they flashed into a thicket of young trees and were out of sight in a twinkling.

"But we had seen that they had horses with them, tied on one of his horses which they had cut loose from its traces. They had taken to cover prepared to fight, and though we wanted mightily to rescue our man, we should have been more than foolhardy to rush into that grove.

"We wanted to make some immediate move to save Jones, but the situation of the whole train was a grave one. I was uneasy and undecided what to do.

"Riding out a little way in front of my men, who were sitting on their horses ready for action, I halted, and waved my hat at the Indians as a signal that I wanted to talk.

"I got no response.

"Much concerned for the fate of Jones, I rode along the trees toward the mounted men. I believed that the captive had met death in some cruel fashion, and that we should find his body quickly.

"I beckoned to the men to come on, and was about to enter the undergrowth, when I heard the cracking of bushes and halted. A horse was coming—Jones—bestridden by a painted Sioux, whose hands were tied behind his back, and who was vigorously kicking the horse's ribs with his heels to urge it forward.

"'Hello,' called this Indian, in a familiar voice 'Come untie my hands.'

"Joyfully I recognized Jones in that toggery, and rode up to him. 'Are you hurt?' I asked.

"'No,' he grunted, spitting at the greasy red paint on his lips. 'They wanted that war bonnet—I didn't know enough to know it—too scared. They couldn't find the thing in time to get away from another band of reds that were on their tracks, so they did this to me. I spose they thought t'was funny. I wanted to holler, but I daren't.'

"By this time the men had come on, and hearing his last words, and looking at the comical figure he cut, they burst into yells of hilarity.

"Jones was a sight to behold. The reds had stripped him of every rag of his clothing. They had daubed his body in grease mixed with mud, painted his face in red and green, and sawed off his hair, except a tuft of scalplock. They had fastened a dirty buckskin band round his forehead, and stuck on a dozen crow's feathers. In imitation of a war bonnet. For clothing he had on a torn old buckskin shirt and a pair of moccasins. And they had done that artist job in fifteen minutes.

"When the fun was over we all acknowledged that we had had a lesson in dealing with the property rights of an Indian.

"Some months later I met the Sioux chief. He gravely reached out a hand. 'Your young man wanted to be an Indian,' he said. 'My young men made him one. Was he satisfied?'

"I answered that I thought he had indeed taken the lesson to heart."

Young Men and Maidens

By MISS EXPERIENCE

Don't Be Too Anxious.

Ella D.—Men are queer, obstinate creatures, to say the least, and where they are not obliged to court and win a woman's love they seldom ever take the trouble to do so. Now, since you have already invited the young man twice to call, do not invite him a third time under any circumstances. He is not too bashful to call upon other girls, so there must be a lack of fascination or entertaining qualities about you which the other girls of your set possess. Were I you and I admired the young man so I would study the charms, graces and talents of those girls until I, too, possessed them, and better.

I would not confine my hopes to this one young man, but rather to achieving some art or talent or fascination which would draw the attentions of many admirers, and girl friends, too. You can, if you truly are in earnest. Make your speaking voice gentle, soft and mellow, and never show by shrug, look, insinuation or word that you could possibly feel jealous of your girl friends. In fact, possess no jealousy. I truly believe you spend more time in showing the young men that you like them than in making such a success of your life, charms and talents that the young men would be only too eager to prove to you how much they liked you. I say this, not to hurt your pride, but rather to make your pride in proper tune with your desires. Nothing makes a girl appear more empty and foolish, nor a man more conceited than to have some girl run after him and give the attentions to him that he should be anxious to bestow upon her.

Jealousy Is Unprofitable.

Caroline—Don't emphasize to your friends before others the things you would not waste time doing. Why waste time talking about it, either? You perceptibly show you are jealous over the individuals who are doing things "you would not waste time doing." Why waste time talking about it, either? You perceptibly show you are jealous over the individuals who are doing things "you have not the time for." This does not injure the talented, but rather advertises their ability to the decided detriment of your own. The less you mention those who shine more than you do the sweeter you will appear, the less people will observe your painful jealousy and the fewer "knocks" you give the broader your mind will grow. If you can't give a considerate compliment don't expose your crippled state of mind.

Good Taste and Simplicity

By ALVA ARMSTRONG.

Taste is simplicity. One little fact which will, no doubt, give the word simplicity and what it means more value in your eyes, is that simplicity, to the uncultured eye, appears as nothing, while to those who know it is of priceless value. The perfection of taste to an artist in clothes is in good simple lines, and to make the simplest clothes on faultless lines is the aim of all good dressmaking.

Take, for an example, the fact that among the best dressmakers of the world, whose charges are highest, the more simple the clothes are made the greater the charge, as the value lies in their want of complication, and their freedom from an excessive amount of trimming. Simple clothes have a much higher art in cut, taste and knowledge of designing, and only workers with inferior taste use decorations in place of line. Simplicity means the harmony of one line with another.

I would remind you never to put on an unnecessary amount of decorations and furbelows. Always remember that simplicity in clothes is the very best thing to be had in the world of fashion. You can always cover up bad lines with trimming, what is left must be of the best and yet leave enough room for you to mean something in your clothes, and not look as though you had bought your good looks at the price of yards of cheap lace and shoddy ribbons.

I am going to tell you another rule of good taste which is constanly being broken. I do not want you to think that because a thing is fashionable in one place that people all over the world can wear it in the same way.

For example, let us take the one-piece dress adapted for the charming idea of the Moyen age dress. It grew in a few weeks to be a hideous fashion, shapeless and without one atom of gracefulness and simplicity about it, and became a kind of uniform worn by every one, because every one else wore it, whether it was becoming to the wearer or not.

Many of the designs were a disgrace to the original. Like all imitations it had lost all traces of original lines. Always avoid such styles and never wear a dress or hat because every one else is wearing it, but choose one that will suit you. If the style which is prevalent suits you, there is no reason why you should not copy it, providing that it is in good taste and has not been so used as to make it objectionable.

THE JEWISH HOLIDAYS

Rosh Hashanah Falls This Year on Oct. 3 and 4.

Day of Atonement Will Be Observed on Oct. 13.

On the evening of Oct. 3 and the day of the 4th the Jewish people will observe the Rosh Hashanah, or New Year's day of the year 5671.

The meaning and purpose of this festival is not set forth explicitly in the Bible; but readers are left to infer them from the Scriptural titles of the day, "The Memorial of Blowing of Trumpets (Lev. xxiii:24) and the Day of Blowing the Trumpet (Numbers xxix:1) as well as from the fact that the Jewish New Year is the seventh new moon of the Hebrew calendar. In the Biblical age every new moon was regarded as a solemn occasion, and the seventh, the sacred number, was especially so.

It became the day of the blowing of the trumpet—parexcellence—reminding the Israelite that a new period of time begins; and that no occasion could be more appropriate for the endeavor after a new life for amendment and reconciliation with God. It was the day of memorial, when Israel felt himself held by God in merciful remembrance. But if Israel would have God mindful of him, he must be mindful of his responsibilities, to Him and to man's higher nature. The symbolic act of sounding the Shophar, or ram's horn, which is performed in the synagogues in obedience to the scriptural precept is intended to bring home to the Israelite this aspect of the day's meaning.

The Day of Atonement.

The Jewish festival, the Day of Atonement Yom Kippur, the holiest day in the Jewish calendar falls this year on Oct. 13. The Hebrew date is the 10th of Tishri. The festival is ordained in Leviticus XVI 29-34 and XXIII 26-32. In both passages it is styled "A Sabbath of Solemn Rest."

The purpose of the Day of Atonement is clearly indicated by its name. It is intended to complete and crown the work of the penitential season, begun on the first of Tishri (New Year), by finally reconciling the soul with the Almighty. Implicity trusting in the Divine forgiveness, the Israelite believes that his contrition, if it be really sincere, will atone for him, will make him "at one" once more with his Heavenly Father. The day, then, is devoted to a supreme effort of penitence, to a mighty endeavor after communion with the Almighty. It is spent in prayer and meditation.

It is kept, too, as a fast, in obedience to the command given in each of the two passages above cited, where the expression "afflict his soul" must be understood, as it is throughout the Bible, as synonymous with fasting.

The chief, the real aim of the Day of Atonement is the reformed life. All the external elements of the day's observance—its worship and austerities—are intended to promote this supreme purpose.

The Feast of Tabernacles.

The feast of Tabernacles is to be celebrated by the Jewish community on Oct. 18.

It is called in Hebrew "Succoth" and falls upon the 15th of Tishri in the Hebrew calendar, and lasts eight days. The eighth day is called "The Day of Solemn Assembly."

This feast is ordained in Exodus xxiii, 16; xxxiv, 22, where it is called "The Feast of Ingathering," and in Levilticus xxiii, 34 and Deut. xv 13. In Levilticus it says, "Ye shall dwell in booths seven days—that your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt." This passage, it will be noted, sets forth the historical significance of the feast. Its agricultural character is suggested by its other name, "The Feast of Ingathering."

The Israelite who, in obedience to the Divine Command, left his house for the week of the Festival, and took up his abode in a booth or tabernacle, and lived through, as it were, an important epoch of his people's history, as thereby replenished the springs of Jewish sentiment. He was also thereby taught to remember that just as Israel in the wilderness was protected by God, so is he being guarded in his earthly pilgrimage. God's love is ever with his children like a protecting cloud.

The second name of the Festival, the Feast of Ingathering, almost explains itself. The holiday comes in the autumn, at a time when the husbandman in Palestine had safely garnered the produce of his lands. It was the time of the thinking of God as the giver. And so the lesson of gratitude for the blessings he had and of responsibility for the right use of them was each year written upon his heart.

Services on all of these holidays will be held at the Temple Emanuel, Dr. Lefkovits preaching at each service. Special music will be rendered by the choir, consisting of Mesdames Dworshak and Walsch, Miss Hyland and Messrs. Suffel and Kotzeny.

New Paving Job.
The board of public works will report to the council Monday night upon the paving and grading of Fifth street between Fourteenth avenue east and Woodland avenue, recommending that the work be ordered. The estimated cost of improving it with tar macadam is $10,527.85. A sanitary sewer in Wellington alley between Michigan and Grand Forks avenues, estimated to cost $1,167.50, will probably be ordered also. The work will not be done this year and the advance assessments will likely not be levied until late in the winter.

Case is Dismissed.
John Epple, arrested yesterday for an alleged violation of the pound ordinance, was discharged in police court this morning. It was claimed that he allowed his cow to run at large.

Fined For Blasting.
Andrew Berg was found guilty in police court yesterday afternoon of blasting without giving the required warning. He paid a fine of $20 and costs. Another charge against him was dismissed as were the charges against A. W. Carlson.

Youth is Arrested.
Ed Murphy, 19 years old, was arrested last evening on a warrant charging him with embezzling $33.36 from the Silberstein & Bondy company. It is alleged that he collected the money on C. O. D. orders and failed to account for it. He was not arraigned in court this morning.

Killed in Idaho.
The police received a telegram from Laclede, Idaho, this morning asking them to try to locate a brother of Dan Ryan, who was killed there yesterday by a falling tree. The wire stated that he is supposed to have had a brother who was employed on the police force here about four years ago. Chief Troyer says that he was not on the regular force, but that he may have been working as an extra. The dead man was 50 years old.

No Hope of Recovery.
Lucile Hutchins, 23 years old, the woman who tried to commit suicide in a St. Croix avenue resort by swallowing bichloride of mercury, is still lingering at St. Mary's hospital. It is stated, however, that there is no hope of her recovery.

His Talk Saved Him.
Martin Geraghty saved himself from ten days in the county jail by putting up a "spiel" to Judge Windom. He declared that he had not been arrested for fourteen months and on his promise to go to work he was allowed his freedom.

Cut Out Free Coupon Below and Mail Today.

These who have become prematurely gray or who are troubled with scalp or hair diseases, such as falling hair, dandruff, baldness, itching scalp, etc., know full well the humiliation that they cause. There is no need, however, of such conditions. These trouble can be quickly overcome by Crystolis, the new drug recently discovered at the Creslo laboratories at Scranton, Pa. Since its discovery, a little over a year ago, Crystolis has been found to contain marvelous properties for producing a new growth of hair. In subjecting it to various tests in the west cases of baldness, dandruff, itching scalp, etc., the results obtained by the experimenting chemists were exhibited almost miraculous. In every case it was found that where there were any hair roots left it would produce a new and luxuriant growth of hair in from four to six weeks' time. Gray or faded hair was often restored to its natural color in from 10 to 14 days' time. In minor cases of scalp and hair disease, such as dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp, etc., it was found that these unnatural conditions were corrected and often completely cured by two or three applications. The discovery of Crystolis will, without doubt, put an end to the troublesome scalp and hair diseases that are becoming so common with the American people. Women who have been forced into wearing false hair will greatly welcome this marvelous product, as, aside from its many other virtues, it adds a beautiful gloss and lustre to the old hair. Besides, it eventalns no oil and has a tendency to make the hair light and fluffy.

The managers of the Creslo Laboratories have such strong faith in Crystolis we have been authorized to make the following remarkable offer: They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if they fail to prove that Crystolis actually grows hair. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if any one can prove they were not the first discoverers of Crystolis. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if it can be proven that it contains any oil, dye or coloring matter of any kind. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which they publish is not absolutely genuine. Arrangements have been made with the Laboratories to furnish free information in regard to the new process to all Duluth Herald readers. Merely cut out and send in the coupon below, and you will receive free particulars of this marvelous new product by return mail.

ITASCA COUNTY FAIR IS OPENED

Grand Rapids, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The nineteenth annual Itasca county fair opened yesterday under a clouded sky, with rain threatening to spoil the attendance. In spite of the threatening weather entries have been coming in at an unusually fast rate, and in the afternoon streams of rigs from the country wended their way to the fair grounds with their loads of articles to be proud of. Quite a display of agricultural products is made. The live stock exhibits are coming in, but most of the stock will be brought in early today. Secretary Graffam of the association states that never in the history of the fair association have the exhibitors been so prompt in entering their exhibits as they have this year.

A most interesting program is scheduled for today and Saturday. A special train will be run from Kelly Lake, both today and Saturday, leaving that place in time to connect with the train leaving Virginia in the morning, and returning in the evening in time to connect with the same train going north, stopping at all intermediate stations. It is expected that there will be large crowds here from the range, especially that portion of it which lies in Itasca county. The program for Saturday will be as follows: Forenoon jugging exhibits and viewing exhibits; afternoon, 1 o'clock, baseball game, Grand Rapids Juniors vs a team picked from the best players of the Range Junior teams; 2:20 pace and 2:35 pace or trot; speaking by Mr. Hugh J Hughes and others; high trapeze performance by Prof. Benz; music by Grand Rapids band.

Saturday the gate will be free for all school children. Sept. J. A. Vandyke of the schools of school district No. 2 states that all the pupils of Bovey, Coleraine, Taconite and other schools will be brought to the fair in a body, coming on the special train which will be run on that day.

Only two township exhibits have been entered, one from Ardenhurst and one from the town of Deer River. Both have magnificent displays.

TROUT LAKE BOAT HOUSE DESTROYED

Disastrous Blaze Occurs Early Thursday Evening.

Coleraine, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ingalls boat house, refreshment booth and lake side cottage were burned at 5 o'clock last evening. Of the thirty-five boats stored, only one canoe and five boats were saved. The gasoline storage, the launch house and three launches were kept from the flames by the timely help of the fire department. The fire was caused by the bottom falling out of the soldering pot which Edward Ingalls was using in constructing a tool box. Insurance was carried to the amount of $2,000 on the building and the boats and $500 on the tools. The damage is probably twice the amount of the insurance.

This is the second time this company has lost their Trout Lake boat house by fire. A year ago last March all was lost in an incendiary fire. This company now proposes to erect a fireproof boat house and dock in the spring constructed of steel and concrete, and install a fleet of steel boats.

RAPID PROGRESS

Being Made on the High School Building at Gilbert.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much progress is being made on the high school building by Graham Young, the contractors of Hibbing, and the brick work on the first story is about completed. The work is being done under the direction of E. A. Graham, who has taken up his residence here. A crew of fifty men is being employed on the building and many more will be put to work as soon as the cold weather sets in, and the interior work is commenced.

VERY CLOSE CONTESTS.

Results in Several Itasca County Fights Now Known.

Coleraine, Minn., Set. 23.—(Secial to The Herald.)—The smoke of the primary election contest has sufficiently cleared away that results in several very close contests are known. J. P. Trebilcock, the present commissioner of the Third district in Itasca county, has one majority over E. Hanson of Bovey, his opponent. Every precinct has been heard from and the friends of the present commissioner confidently claim his nomination. Mrs. Whipple of Grand Rapids has gained the Republican nomination over Mrs. Booth, the present county superintendent of schools, by a small margin. R. A. McQuot of Coleraine seems to have won by a scratch over F. F. Price, the present county attorney. These are on the Democratic primary ballot. Glen Strader is being congratulated on his splendid race for the nomination for county treasurer. At last reports he was over 400 vote ahead of his competitor, Keo La Rue. M. A. Spang, the present popular county auditor, was renominated on the Democratic ticket. He will have for his opponent C. R. Gates of Coleraine, who was nominated on the Republican ticket without oppositlon.

GOOD OPENINGS OFFERED AT TOWER

Commercial Club Will Make Known Excellent Chances.

Tower, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A largely attended special meeting of the Commercial club was held Thursday evening at the Vermilion hotel. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and the matter of the club continuing in a grand effort for a club edition of the local paper to be especially strong as an advertising medium was discussed. A committee of three is to be appointed by the president to superintend this matter.

The secretary was instructed to advertise in the Duluth dailies and Minneapolis papers the fact that Tower offered openings for a tinner, taxidermist and cornetist band leader who has a trade.

A plan to interest the pupils of the high school in literary work and public speaking was carried, and a committee named consisting of N. J. Benson, J. W. Thompson and J. E. Robertson, with F. E. Kolb, F. C. Burgess and W. H. Congdon as alternates, to confer with Supt. Cartwright of the public schools to interest the students, and prizes are to be offered by the club for the best efforts. A public entertainment is to be given early in December, at which time this particular contest would close. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used for a public library fund.

Free delivery of express matter, telephone service, waterworks, etc., were discussed. The road from Tower to Biwabik has been traveled by a committee with an automobile, and the committee reports the road in good order for automobile travel, and the club's president, F. E. Kolb, will extend the glad hand to all automobile parties coming in, and the club will do its best to make the stay of such parties very pleasant. The road is reported passable from Tower to Ely, as machines from both towns have recently made the trip. An Ely machine this week made the trip from Ely to Duluth, 138 miles, in good time.

The club will hold its next regular meeting Oct. 3 at the Vermilion hotel.

FOWLER LIKELY TO BE NOMINATED

Appears to Have Won the Contest for Representative.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contest at the primary election between M. S. McMahon and B. F. Fowler, both of Two Harbors, for the Republican nomination for representative of Lake and Cook counties in the legislature, is having a very close finish. The complete returns from Cook county were received by wireless this morning and are: Fowler, 65; McMahon, 20. Counting all the precincts heard from in Lake county, the total vote now stands: Fowler, 287; McMahon, 281. This leaves Fowler with a majority of 6. Beaver Bay has not reported yet and while the vote there is small, it may decide the contest. It is believed, however, that Fowler has secured the nomination.

The Cook county vote on congressman was: Miller, 70; McKnight, 8; Taylor, 8.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sad death occurred at St. Benedict's hospital. James Arthur Barton, who had been pianist and cornetist with the Bob and Eva McGinley company, was taken ill with typhoid while the company was playing here, and they had to take him to the hospital for treatment. He died a few days afterward, his wife coming from New York to be at his bedside. The funeral took place from the Kremer undertaking parlors. He leaves his wife, two sisters and one brother to mourn his loss. Barton was a native of Northampton, Eng. While Mrs. Barton was here attending to her husband she received word that their baby, aged 2 years, had died suddenly in New York. Mrs. Barton herself is an orphan, and she is left without any relatives in the world.

CONCERT A SUCCESS.

Event Held at Eveleth Attended By Big Audience.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.) — The concert held last evening in the Monitor Hall, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, proved a huge success, many attending from the surrounding towns. The vocal solos rendered by R. M. Dungan, Mrs. E. K. Mellan, Miss Mulligan, all of Eveleth, and Miss Mary Shesgreen, Donna Louise Riblette, Mrs. E. A. Batson of Duluth, were well rendered and received much applause, the vocalists being compelled to respond to many encores.

The violin solos rendered by Henry L. Lavick of Duluth, were well received and he was forced to respond to encores. Piano solos were rendered by Miss Polly Bullard of Eveleth, and Miss Nell Brown of Duluth, and their efforts brought forth much applause.

EVELETH CITY BAND ISSUES CHALLENGE.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much rivalry exists between the Eveleth City band, which was organized about five months ago, and the Fayal band, which is an old local musical organization. Since the organization of the new band, the members of each have been having petty differences, and to settle the arguments that exist J. Moronl, leader of the City band, has challenged Prof. Scott, leader of the Fayal band, for a musical contest. The terms of his offer state that he will give the Fayal band, fifteen days to prepare for the contest. At the concert the bands are to play three pieces for a side of $200, the money to be deposited in a local bank. Much interest is being displayed by the residents in the rivalry that exists between the two bands and are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the City band's challenge.

GRAND ARMY NIGHT AT THE ORPHEUM.

Those who attended the performance at the Orpheum theater last evening will not soon forget the experience.

It was Grand Army night, and the reception given the Old Soldier Fiddlers was one to be long remembered.

The lower right-hand boxes were occupied by the members of the Gorman Post fife and drum corps, and scattered through the parquet and balcony were nearly 100 more veterans of the Civil war. From all of the boxes were draped huge American flags, giving the theater a holiday appearance.

The performers were given an ovation when the curtain rose on their act. Part of it was doubtless intended for them, but no small part of it was also meant for the grey-haired men who sat in the boxes and the parquet.

The playing of "America" was most impressive, and it is doubtful if the national anthem has ever been rendered with more real fervor than it was last evening. The theater was completely filled, and every man and woman in the audience stood reverently throughout the number, many of them joining in.

The fife and drum corps escorted the performers to the theater, where they were the guests of the management.

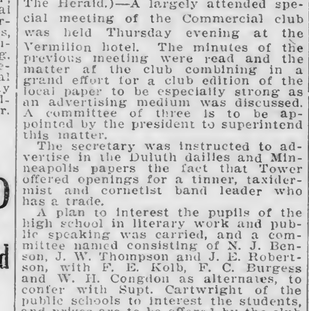

Grand Army night was a most successful event.

PIERCE PLAYERS IN "BOYS OF COMPANY B."

On next Tuesday evening the Pierce Players will return to the Lyceum for an engagement of six nights, during which time they will present three well known dramatic successes.

"The Boys of Company B" will be the initial offering, opening Tuesday and continuing Wednesday matinee and night. This charming comedy of military life will perhaps be best remembered as the piece in which young Jack Barrymore scored so heavily at the Garrick theater several years ago. It is by Rida Johnson Young, who is also the author of "The Lottery Man" and "Brown of Harvard." It is said to be screamingly funny and gives the various members of the company fine opportunity to display their individual talents. Thursday and Friday will be devoted to a revival of Anthony Hope's "The Prisoner of Zenda" and Saturday and Sunday will be given over to a dramatization by Augustus Thomas of Richard Harding Davis' famous story, "Soldiers of Fortune," in which Robert Edeson first achieved stardom. This should prove a most acceptable trio of plays for the week and the scale of prices will be the same as during the recent visit of this company to the Lyceum.

Fat Defeating Extraordinary

Margaret Knolly

SLENDER Margaret Knolly, now, if you please. The fascinating leading lady of the Bijou, now more fascinating than ever, astonished all her friends on Broadway the other day by presenting to their admiring gaze a svelt and willowy form in place of the plump, not to say fat, outlines with which she gaily sailed away to new triumphs and foreign shores last January. After a good deal of diplomatic cross-examination from interested fat acquaintances the secret was cautiously whispered to a few dear friends, with the result that everybody knows it now. It was not exercise, nor fasting, nor sea air, nor worry about her new venture that had brought about this wonderful willowy change in the charming Margaret; no, none of these; nothing but a simple mixture which all good druggists are familiar with and can supply at small cost, to-wit: One-half ounce Marmola, one-half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and three and one-half ounces Peppermint Water. "Grown folks need a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime," explained the now slender Margaret. "It is simply wonderful. It takes off the fat quickly, as much as a pound a day, and keeps it off. You can eat what you like, too. In that respect it is unlike anything of the kind I ever heard of, and besides it has another splendid feature—it is entirely harmless, and will not cause wrinkles. I think it is about as essential a toilet article for the woman who is fat and wants to get thinner as face powder. In order to get the best results, however, you should buy the Marmola in the original package and mix it in with the other two ingredients after you get home."

NEW BIJOU BOOKING ARRANGEMENT POPULAR.

The enlarged Bijou bill this week is delighting big audiences every afternoon and evening. The change made in the booking arrangements seems to have had a beneficial effect on the standard of the attractions offered. Lind, the impersonator, is making a big hit with the audiences this week. His act is ulque and different from any other act of its general type now playing the vaudeville circuits.

A Fall Opening of Special Importance.

Fall openings are a leading topic of interest in Duluth these days. The new fall styles in dress are enjoying widespread attention, and the best time to study them and to become posted is at the fall opening. An event of more than usual importance will be held tomorrow, when the Menter & Rosenbloom company, at 122 East Superior street, will hold its formal exhibition of fall styles in men's and women's clothing. The millinery will be a feature worthy of note.

The Menter & Rosenbloom company makes a specialty of a plan by which men and women who wish to dress well can do so without taxing their incomes. They do this by allowing customers the advantage of a charge account by means of which purchases are paid for on easy terms. The local store of this successful company has become very popular, and their plan appeals to more and more people every year.

year. We must have a program of our own, looking towards better government than the Republicans have given us.

"The Republicans abused their privileges and wasted their opportunities. In a little more than twelve months they were so utterly demoralized that on the 19th of March, 1910, after we clipped Mr. Speaker Cannon's claws, he angrily declared there was no longer a Republican majority in the house.

"The most potent cause of Republican dissension is the tariff question. The Republicans promised to revise the tariff downward in order to get in; having gotten in, they revised it up. They have given absolutely no relief whatever to the consumers of the land, but most of the increases were real increases, made by such skillful artists as Senator Aldrich, and placed every time where they would do the most good to the interests and most injury to the consumers.

"Straw" From Beverly.

"Some twenty-three Republicans in the house and seven Republicans in the senate revolted against the stupendous confidence game which the standpatters were attempting to play upon the American people and warned them of the consequences. Straws shows which way the wind blows, and a few days ago a very large straw blew out of Beverly in the shape of a letter announcing that henceforth and forever the insurgent Republican statesmen would have an equal chance at the pie counter with the regulars.

"Last spring, so I have been informed, when an insurgent asked for any place for one of his constituents, he was informed that he had no right to expect patronage unless he lined up for every legislative proposition emanating from the administration.

Prople "Taken" in.

"So the administration has come down off its high horse, and instead of bullying the insurgents, is tempting them back by offering them a share in the savory fleshpots of Egypt.

"The people of the United States deserve to be treated honestly and fairly, which has not been done in the matter of the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot tariff bill. On the contrary, they were taken in and done for."

The high cost of living is getting fiercer every year.

The tobacco trust has cut down the size of the packages of its "coffin nails." Packages which used to contain twenty cigarettes now hold only fifteen and sell for the same price. The first of the smaller packages have appeared in Duluth and internal revenue officers have been notified that the tobacco trust intends cutting the size of all of its package goods.

As usual the tariff is responsible. Manufacturers are forced to cut down their packages of "pills" in order to meet the increased revenue tax imposed by Mr. Aldrich's tariff. In the future only real plutocrats can afford the luxury of a "snipe." This will affect seriously the plots of lady novelists whose heroes usually are worthy young men but who have more looks than salary. No longer will Harold, the young stock broker, or Percy, the chauffeur, be able to dally with a "coffin spoke," while Angeline the glue trust's daughter, gazes into his limpid eyes and tells him what the world means to her. There's just one hope, however, for the lady novelist. The swimming school for scandal stuff is the latest thing in red blooded fiction, and it is somewhat difficult for a hero to puff at a "pill" while swimming ten leagues under water with the heroine on his back.

Some folk may regard this condition as coming under the adage that it's an ill tariff that doesn't bring anybody any good. In the meantime young men and old ones, too, are regarding the lady in the cigarette posters as a fickle jade. They think she has played them a scurvy trick. The cost of living and T. R. are two things that you can't beat. Somebody please pass me "makin's"

BASKET BALL TEAM.

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cloquet high school will have a good basket ball team this year, but no football team. Evelyn McKenna, the only man in school who played on last year's basket ball team, is temporarily managing affairs in this sport and the boys are practicing every night in the gymnasium of the Lincoln high school building and trying out prospective players. Last year the school had one of the best teams in this part of the state, and William Todd, manual training teacher, who coached the boys, will take up the work later on and looks forward to a successful winter for the Cloquet team, as there is some splendid basket ball material among the boys this year.

ROMANCE OF COURT LIFE

Long Search for Bavarian in United States Is Ended.

Inheritance for Man Who Is Now Old and in Need.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 23.—A romance of Bavarian court life has been brought to light by a devious search by Gustave Prince, an international lawyer of this city, who has just found Max Lutz in Iowa, and notified him that he is heir to $1,000 left by a maid of honor of the Bavarian court. The case is of more than passing interest, because of the sidelights it throws upon a famous European court and the romantic story entwined around the career of the poor hotel porter, who expects to have lightened his remaining days because of his inheritance.

Prince's long search for Lutz ended just a few days ago, and within a few days Prince will send to Germany proofs of the identity of Lutz and the inheritance will be sent to Lutz within a few months.

In his long search Prince discovered that Lutz was born of parents high in Bavarian court circles; his father was a German army officer and his mother's sisters were maids of honor to the queen of Bavaria. Lutz himself was reared in the palace of King Ludwig I of Bavaria, and entered Paris with the victorious German army when the Franco-Prussian war was ended.

Lutz is now about at the end of his career. He is 69 years old and poor. When told he would be given $1,000 he wrote in his letter to Prince: "I will be glad to get the money. It comes just when I need it."

Born in Munich.

Sixty years ago Lutz was born in Munich. His father and mother were separated, the mother living in Munich and the father commanding one of the detachments of the army that guarded the Franco-Prussian frontier. The child was bandied back and forth and the bitterness engendered in him still exists.

"When I was with my mother I had much work to do and was not treated well," he writes. "When I was sent to my father I had more work and was treated worse."

Things went from bad to worse. When still very young his aunt Rosa, whose family name he does not once mention in his deposition, took him to live with her.

He spent happy days then in the palace of King Ludwig, where his aunt had much influence. Another aunt was there much, and the two made the little boy happy.

The mother demanded the return of her child. He found home life unbearable. When still a youth he saw the Bavarians recruiting for the titanic battle with France.

His patriotism was stirred and he joined the colors. Long marches with the German army sapped his strength, but he doggedly stayed with his command until it camped under the walls of Paris. When that city capitulated Lutz was almost a physical wreck. He was no longer of use to Germany and he was dismissed from the army.

He did not wish to return to his home, for there he expected but little happiness. He was now too big to be the pet of women of the Bavarian court, and anyway he did not know in what circumstances his aunts were placed.

Came to America.

With other enthusiastic emigrants he embarked for America to seek his fortune in the West, which was then being opened. In 1873 he landed in New York and without writing a line to Germany he plunged into the frontier.

Lutz worked hard, but had little success. In 1889, after he had been married in America, he remembered his aunt in Bavaria who had treated him so well, and he wrote her, recalling his happy life at court.

She responded and told him she would not forget him. She said she did not have much money, but he would get a part of what she had. Lutz thought no more of the money, and in 1889 wrote his last letter to his aunt.

When she died several months ago this letter was found among her belongings. It was time-stained and blurred, and the executors could hardly read it. Yet it was the only clue to Lutz's whereabouts.

They wrote to Prince telling him Lutz had mailed the letter from Terrytown, Benton county. They did not even know what state the Benton county referred to was in.

Prince wrote to postmasters in every Benton county he could find mentioned in the postal guide. He even wrote to Florida. All replied that they never had heard of a Terrytown, nor a man called Lutz.

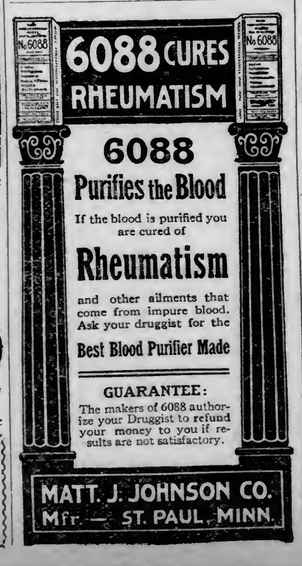

Found At Last.

Prince asked the postal department to aid. They went back to records of 1889, and there found that there was a postoffice called Terry in Benton county, Iowa, at that time, but that the office had been changed to Walford.

Prince wrote to Marengo. Marengo replied that Lutz was not there now, but was known and was probably working in Washington, Iowa, as a hotel porter.

The trail was getting so warm that Prince, when he wrote to the postmaster at Washington, enclosed a letter for Lutz. It was delivered. Lutz readily proved his identity.

He swore to numerous questions asked him, and every answer confirmed the theory of Prince that he had found the right man. Not a proof of identity was lacking.

ARE INSISTING ON COMFORTS

English Homes Slowly Being Americanized By the Women.

London, Sept. 23.—It is only within the last few years that the English matrons have so far relaxed their conservative attitude towards things American as actually to cross the Atlantic. As a result of the increasing numbers who do visit the United States, domestic architecture here is in the throes of Americanization.

One of the most prominent English architects confessed the other day that he was being browbeaten and bullied by a certain lady because after returning from a visit to New York she found that her new house in Park lane was not to be in the interior the replica of a Fifth avenue mansion.

Of course they quarreled most furiously over the bathroom. In his plans the architect had provided an ascent of three steps to this august chamber.

"I won't have it," said the lady. "Who ever heard of a flight of steps leading to a bathroom in America? They don't have them; I'm not going to. Furthermore, everyone there has a bath attached to every room. No, I am not going to have tiles half way up the wall; it is to be all tiled, up one wall, across, and down the other. No, I am not going to have white tiles; they must be green."

The architect turned white and green and then turned on her.

"But you can't buy green tiles here. If you could, you wouldn't be able to get enough of them to go round."

"Green tiles," she sternly commanded, "green tiles," and secure with the last word she dusted out of the architect's office.

That was three months ago, and she hasn't been able to get enough green tiles yet; nevertheless, she lives in hopes of some day emerging from her bath as a pink rose might peep from a bunch of green smilax.

But the most wonderful of the articles known in the domestic life of America is also being imported to England.

Not long ago a wealthy hostess who has a flat in Mayfair led her guests mysteriously, and in Indian file, to the back regions of her domicile. Suddenly, she threw open a heavy marble door and the guests peered within.

What was it that lay before them, glistening in the electric light? What was it that in size and color resembled the diamond pendant that hung from the throat of their hostess?

A horrible suspicion came to them. Perhaps their seemingly sensible friend was in secret a psychic, and the time she could spare from her social duties she spent in crystal gazing!

She finally relieved their anxiety. "This," she said, as she swayed the door gently, "is my new American safe. And that—that is ice."

Some day we may get flats with elevators—lifts they call them here—but the day is still afar off. Real comfort is considered not quite respectable, you know, in England.

WILL MEET IN SAN ANTONIO

Call for Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress Is Issued.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 23.—An official call has been issued for Trans-Mississippi commercial congress, which is scheduled to meet in San Antonio, Tex., on Nov. 22-25, and the announcement is being scattered broadcast throughout the Middle West. Commercial clubs, boards of trade, chambers of commerce and the various other civic organizations together with mayors of cities and governors of states are being importuned to get busy at once and select delegates to the convention.

The governor of each state has the power to appoint twenty delegates; the mayor of each city is empowered to appoint one delegate; each civic organization is entitled to representation on the scale of one delegate for every fifty members with a maximum of ten delegates, and each foreign country will be asked to send a delegate to the convention.

Among the men of not who will appear on the program at the coming convention are Philander C. Knox, secretary of state; Hon. John Barrett, director of the Pan-American bureau; William J. Bryan, Arnold Shanklin, counsel general to Mexico; governors of the various states and representatives from Latin-American countries. Every effort is being put forth by the executive committee to make the twenty-first congress a live practical session and to secure the desired results by free discussion.

Second only to the national congress in importance, the Trans-Mississippi congress has been a potent factor in Western development during the past twenty years. It constitutes a "free forum" for the West, where governmental policies, projects of commercial and industrial development and the best means for their utilization may be freely discussed. The organization represents at its meetings the crystalized commercial sentiment of the states west of the Mississippi.

"BUSINESS."

"Too many Americans of the twentieth century," said Jacob A. Riis, in an address in New York, "have a wrong idea of business. Now business is, really, honest service—honest service—nothing but that.

"But too many men look on business as a certain seaside shopkeeper did.

"A friend of mine visited this man's shop to buy a flannel bathing suit. The bathing suits were all a little too large for him.

"'They're marked unshrinkable,' my friend said thoughtfully. 'This one here might do if it would shrink. But'

"'I'll ask father about it,' said the young attendant.

"And then, behind the partition, my friend overheard this dialogue:

"'Father, a gent wants to know if our unshrinkable bathing suits won't shrink a little anyway.'

"'Is the suit too large for him?'

"'Yes, father.'

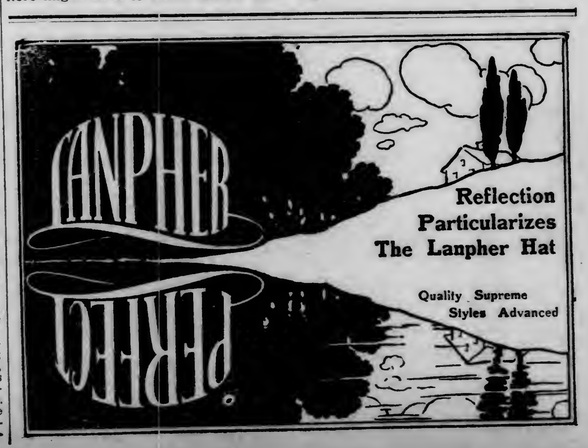

"'Then of course, it will shrink. Why don't you try and have some head for business, Willie?'"

The store that takes a lot of pains to make its advertising serviceable to you has earned your favor and interest.

THE IDEA!

Apropos of the unexampled extravagance and luxury of New York's multimillionaries, Mrs. August Belmont said at a dinner at Tuxedo.

"Then there's younk Knickerbocker. Look at young Knickerbocker now. He has nineteen regular servants at his town house, and yet since King Edward's death he has hired four extra ones—colored ones, you know just to bring up black-edged letters and to look after visitors dressed in mourning."

FARRELL TO CLEVELAND

Says He Will Investigate Stalling's Charges Against Chase.

Chase Says He Is Being Imposed Upon By Club Manager.

New York, Sept. 23.—The vapor of gossip that has surrounded the quarrel of Hal Chase, captain of the New York American league baseball team, and George T. Stallings, manager, was cleared yesterday by a statement from Frank J. Farrell, president of the club.

Stallings was in conference with Farrell yesterday in obedience to a telegram, summoning him from Cleveland, and took the opportunity to make grave charges. He accused Chase of withholding his best services on the field and of quitting when he was most needed.

President Farrell though the charges so grave that he took the first train for Cleveland, where the club now is, to make a complete investigation.

In explanation of the situation, President Farrell made last night the following signed statement:

"It is up to me to deal with Stallings as I see fit, as Chase is too great a ball player to have his reputation blackened by such charges.

"There have been recently many misleading reports about my club and a change in its manager. I desire to say now that George T. Stallings is still manager of the team, that while he is here in New York, the club is in charge of my secretary, Thomas Davis, and that I have not appointed Hal Chase to manage the team to succeed Stallings."

Mr. Farrell left for Cleveland last night.

"If Chase is guilty of Stallings' charges, there is no place in the American league for him. If he is not guilty, he should be promptly cleared of the charges, that he may stand vindicated before the public," said Mr. Farrell. Mr. Stallings denies he gave out the statements printed in the last few days, attributed to him or to the players of the club, in reference to Chase deserting the club in mid-season in Detroit. He also denies there was a row and mutiny in Chicago last Monday, as Chase never was in the game. Also that Chase never played with a semi-professional team in the time he was sick.

"In response to a telegram from me calling him to New York, George Stallings appeared in my offices yesterday morning to give his version of the reported trouble in the New York American league club of which he is manager. To my surprise, Mr. Stallings made grave accusations against Hal Chase, first baseman of the team, and its captain. Mr. Stallings charges that Chase has not been giving his best services to the club and that he has been guilty, in baseball parlance, of 'laying down,'" said Mr. Farrell.

"No ball player can afford to have this reputation and the reputation of his club smirched by such charges and I have decided to go at once to Cleveland, where the team now is playing, to make a thorough investigation of Mr. Stallings' charges, and, if I find they are true, I shall lay the entire matter before the national commission and ask that Chase be punished. I owe such investigation to the public and the players."

Chase Says He Is Sick.

Cleveland, Sept. 23.—Hal Chase, when shown the Associated Press dispatches from New York in regard to the complaints made against him by Manager Stallings, gave out the following statement:

"This trouble has been growing for some time. The first real break came in Detroit when our club came West. At that time I was not feeling well. I was troubled with dizziness when I started to run, and asked for a leave of absence, which was granted by Mr. Stallings. I started for New York and the papers the next morning carried stories to the effect that 'Hal Chase had deserted the New York team.' An interview was printed with Mr. Stallings in one of the papers.

"It was alleged that I had merely served notice on him a half an hour before my departure, that I intended to leave the team.

"I then joined the club in St. Louis. One day I dropped a ball, a thing which any player might do and I drew a roust from Mr. Stallings. If the roast had been brought on by a bone-headed play, I would have felt that I deserved it.

"The climax came in the first game of the series at Chicago, which our club lost. With Daniels on second and myself at bat, the signal was given for the hit-and-run. I swung at the ball, tipped a foul which the catcher caught. Daniels having started for third base, was easily thrown out.

"Noting was said by Mr. Stallings then or later. That evening I went to the theater. On my return to the hotel, I met one of the New York baseball reporters out on the way to the telegraph office. Having asked him what the excitement was, he answered: 'I have an interview with Mr. Stallings to the effect that you are laying down on the team.'

"Mr. Stallings later verified the statement, and admitted he was quoted correctly. Of course such events could not put one in a pleasant frame of mind.

"Stallings always has shown a tendency to go behind a man's back. I feel and know that in this trouble I have the support of every member of the New York team."

Asked if he knew when Mr. Farrell would reach Cleveland, Chase answered:

"I have heard nothing from Mr. Farrell in regard to the matter."

(BY BRUCE.)

Now that Sam Langford has the very bright prospects of a match with Johnson, fans over the country are wondering what chance the stubby Boston black has with the ebony title holder.

The best informed of those who follow pugilism do not conceda the Tar Baby a chance — except that chance that may come as the result of a lucky punch. Langford is a good little man, but Johnson is a very good big man, and there you are. You never did see a good little man that could beat a good big man.

Langford would probably beat all of the other heavyweights. This talk of him being afraid of Al Kaufman, does not sound in the least good. He ran out of the Kaufman match in Philadelphia, and deserves to be branded as a quitter or coward; yet, just the same, in Frisco Langford offered to bet a large slice of his own money that he would beat Kaufman, and seemed eager for the chance to get it on.

Johnson would cut the little man to pieces, at least so think those who have seen them in fight, and should be in a position to judge. Johnson is bigger in every way, has longer arms, can probably hit as hard as Langford, and in addition has greater science than the Langford boy.

Langford's courage is to be admired, and he can probably give the champion a harder fight than any of the heavies getting money under false pretenses. There are many who believe that Langford really believes he can beat Johnson. If Woodman and Langford really bet $20,000 on the result, they must have some confidence in the ability of Sam to beat the big black.

At that, there are a lot of people who want to see Langford hook up with the larger smoke.

Ketchel Very Bad.

It is rumored over the waves of pugilistic gossip that Stanley Ketchel is in worse condition than the general public wots of.

Here is a lad of 23, who should just be coming into his full power as a fighter. Well, if reports be true, he is nearer a hopeless physical wreck. Various press dispatches have told of the wine Ketchel has drunk, and of the late hours he has kept; but other reports hint at graver dissipations than the wee sma' hour habit and the big bubble thirst.

It is whispered that the middleweight champion has taken to the drug habit, and at the present time is but a shadow of the Ketchel that walked through the middleweight ranks.

This is not the first time, by any means, that there has been a story about Ketchel using drugs. The second time he fought Papke, and was soundly beaten, by the way, several stories were printed about Ketchel "hitting the pipe" during training time. Training and drugs hardly go very well together.

If Ketchel is as bad as they say he is, he will never be the dashing pugilist who astonished the public only a few years ago by his brilliancy. The world is old, but some will never learn. How many champions have gone by the dissipation route? This is a very busy afternoon, so we haven't the time to count. There are a lot.

With Steve Ketchel out of the way, there is hardly a man in sight, in this country at least, to dispute the prowess of Billy Papke. He is the very best we have, and there was always a dispute as to which was really the better man, Ketchel or Papke.

With Ketchel out of the running, interest in the middleweight division may lose some of its interest, unless Frank Klaus of Pittsburg develops, as some predict.

There is Tom Thomas, the English crack—but then, you know, we must always be shown in the case of the English fighters, especially when they are above the welterweight limit. Thomas may be all that is claimed for him, but it is dollars to bakery doughnuts, leaving mother and her cooking out of the argument, that Papke would polish the Englishman.

And by the way, Papke is on the high seas at the present time, bound for Australia. If he is successful in the bush country, he will probably return by way of England, and if the Thomas boy wants to fight, well, he will undoubtedly have the chance.

Tommie's Tender Knee.

Like Speed Boy Achilles of the Heel and Toe league, Tommy Burns has a weakness. We mention one to be charitable, as Thomas has more than that number.

His greatest physical weakness seems to be his bum knee. The other day he injured it further playing la crosse. The dope at the present time is, children, that Tommy doesn't care to mingle with Langford, not in the least, has all the money that is needed, and for the reason of not meeting the Tar Baby in London town, had the knee story sprung.

That may be all to the wrong, and after all Tommy may have been sincere in his offer to meet Langford. But if Burns fights Langford, he is mighty apt to get licked.

Burns at the present time is very fat. It would be very hard for him to get into condition. The chances are that he will never fight Langford, though you can't tell.

THE HARVESTER SETS NEW RECORD

Takes Quarter of Second Off Time Made at Pittsburg.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 23.—To the track that for nine years held the stallion trotting championship because of the 2:02¼ mile by Croesus, there came back the title yesterday when The Harvester went a brilliant mile in 2:01 flat and thereby took a quarter of a second off the time he made last week at Syracuse.

Driver Geers, a moment after he had dismounted declared his intention to make an attack next Thursday upon the record if the track can be made solid close to the rail.

Shortly before 5 o'clock, the champion was sent away rushing and went the first quarter in 29½ seconds. Over on the back stretch, one runner became a trailer. The second quarter was stepped in 30 seconds. In the third, there was but a slight slackening and the time for it was 30¼ seconds. A final quarter in 31 seconds made the mile a winning one as The Harvester had started to beat 2:01¼.

Bervaldo, Maj. Brino and Manuella won the regular events of the card. Bervaldo was favorite over all the other 2:12 trotters, but dropped the first heat to George Todd. May Day, the first choice in the 2:05 pace, was distanced by Major Brino in the second heat.

CATARRH

A SYSTEMIC BLOOD DISEASE

Catarrh is not merely an affection of the mucous membranes; it is a deep-seated blood disease in which the entire circulation and greater part of the system are involved. It is more commonly manifested in the head, nose and throat, because of the sensitive nature of these membranes, and also because they are more easily reached by irritating influences from the outside. The symptoms of Catarrh, such as a tight feeling in the head, nose stopped up, throat clogged and dry, hacking cough, etc., show that the tiny blood vessels of the mucous membranes are badly congested and inflamed from the impurities in the circulation. To cure Catarrh permanently the blood must be purified and the system cleansed of all unhealthy matter. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the disease at its head, goes down to the bottom of the trouble and makes a complete and lasting cure by PURIFYING the blood. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, the head is cleared, breathing becomes natural and easy, the throat is no longer clogged, and every unpleasant symptom of the disease disappears. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and for this reason is the most certain cure for Catarrh. Book on Catarrh and medical advice free to all who write.

GOOD GAME IS EXPECTED

Two Harbors Football Team Reported Very Fast and Unusually Strong.

Central Will Try Out Many New Men in Opening Game.

HIGH SCHOOL LINEUP.

Nolte	Left tackle
Kelly	Left guard
Solheim	Center
O'Brien and De Vey	Right guard
Johnson	Right tackle
Jeronimus	Right end
McClarnan and Boyle	Quarterback
Glass and Higgins	Left half
Le Duc and Ryan	Fullback
Waldron	Right half

The game with Two Harbors tomorrow promises to be very interesting, for according to the reports from the Two Harbors high school, the team is exceptionally strong the present season.

The Central team is in very good condition for the game, though the non appearance of Bondy and Nelson, two "D" men, who were expected out, will probably weaken the team that will be sent into the first game of the season.

With these men out, the strength of the line is, at the present time, much in doubt.

Boden, who played with the sophomore team last season, is making a corking showing for end, and will very probably finish the game tomorrow at one of the flank positions.

Johnson and Nolte look good for the tackle positions, and there is not much worry there. They are both heavy and can be relied upon to break up line plays.

Waldron is the heaviest man in the back field and the best ground gainer. Le Duc and Higgins are the fastest men on the team. Glass is probably the best defensive back in the squad.

At quarterback McClaren is running the team like a veteran, Wagner is also showing well at this position, his work of carrying the ball being especially classy.

JACK BEGGED FOR FIGHTS

Champion Was Formerly Glad to Fight for Fee Money.

"Not so very many years ago, Jack Johnson, the present champion of the world and probably the greatest fighter that we know of, hung around our club in St. Louis, begging to be put on in a preliminary. He didn't look good to any of us, and we never gave him the trial he almost begged for. Soon after this we began to hear of him from time to time, and then slowly he began to work his way to the top of the heavyweight division."

The above statement was made yesterday by Charles L. Geraghty, the man here with the Jeffies-Johnson fight pictures. He has followed Johnson's career from it's earliest beginning, when the present champion was a roustabout negro, hanging around boxing clubs and begging to be allowed to fight for "eatin' money."

"Johnson looked like a big, powerful negro then," said Geraghty, "but for some uncountable reason he had an awfully hard time getting on before clubs. He was very polite, one of the real typical southern negroes. He would take off his hat when he talked too you.

"Like Battling Nelson, Johnson was a very long time coming, and his path to the championship was impeded by many obstacles No one knows how great he is, for it is a fact that Johnson has never been extended. Burns gave him his greatest fight. Johnson will never be any better, and some man some day will come along and beat him."

FIGHTERS HEADED FOR HEAD OF THE LAKES.

Jimmy Brady, a fast featherweight of Illinois, and Harry Cobb and Kid Parker, from Toronto and Saginaw, respectively, are expected at the Head of the Lakes shortly, en route to Winnipeg, where the fight game is flourishing at the present time.

Brady will try to get a match with Constantine while here. Cobb and Parker will also try to get some matches at the Head of the Lakes.

Jimmy Barry, the fast and clever Duluth fighter, is ready to meet any of the boys of his class, and if a purse is offered by any club for a match between Barry and any of the little strangers, the Duluth boxer will be on the job.

Barry is one of the cleverest boxers in the Northwest, and he has also strength and experience in his favor. He is ready to meet the best boys in his class.

SAILOR JACK ANSWERS DICK SHEPPERD'S CHALLENGE

The winner of that match will meet Otto Suttor, and the winner of that match will meet the wonder of all the little men, Young Miller of St. Paul.

The Duluth boy is out for the world's welterweight championship, and with that end in view, is seeking matches with the best men in his class.

MINNEAPOLIS AND DULUTH IN GOLF COMPETITION.

ILL-FATED BENNINGTON TO BE SOLD BY NAVY.

Washington, Sept. 23.—It required six weeks to wipe the collier Marcellus off the naval list, although for that time she has been lying on the bottom of the Atlantic, sixty miles off Cape Hatteras. The ship was rammed and sunk by the Italian steamer Risario di Giorgio, but her crew was rescued by the collier Leonidas. The official order declaring the Marcellus defunct was issued from the navy department Monday.

Three other vessels also went on the dead list: The Siren, a yacht purchased for use in the Spanish war; the Eagle, a small gunboat, and the ill-fated Bennington. After spending several thousand dollars on the latter gun boat in the effort to repair the damage caused by the terrible explosion which wiped out so many lives at San Diego several years ago, the department has concluded the ship cannot be repaired within a reasonable cost and so the three vessels are to be offered for sale.

iff on that article. Of course, intelligent men generally familiar with the tariff believed that such a revision would be downward on most articles.

Wool Schedule Bad.

"The matter of preparation of a tariff bill is a most perplexing one. Under the definition of what the bill should contain in a platform as plain as that adopted at Chicago in 1908, the task is not easy. With a different wage scale in every country and with differences in wages in every part of each country, honest men, seeking the difference in labor cost here and abroad, will not agree in all their conclusions.

"To reconcile these differences, among twelve men selected for the task, was a part of the labor we had before us; and in the last analysis these differences have to be settled by a majority vote. The result of our deliberation was most satisfactory to me in general results, although there were other items, like those of the woolen schedule, which I was anxious to revise. It was a source of great disappointment to me, after two exhaustive and extended hearings, that I was not able to present any program that a majority of the committee would adopt for a revision of this schedule.

"Committee Not Influenced."

"The reason was not that the committee was unduly influenced by those interested, but that they could not agree upon the labor cost of producing wool and woolen goods in this country and abroad with a reasonable profit to the producer. Of course, this left the woolen schedule where it was in the Dingley act, with one or two small reductions in duties.

"Some of the amendments proposed by the senate were good amendments and improved the bill, and when it got into conference, so far as I was able, I endeavored to have such amendments agreed to, and nearly all of them were.

"The law, as it was signed by the president, has resulted in a general revision downward, and no amount of special pleading, no mis-statement of facts, and no suppression of material facts, will ever make it appear otherwise.

"The law has turned a deficit of $58,000,000 into a surplus of more than $22,000,000 in its first year's operation. It is a revenue producer. We put increased duties on wines, liquors and like luxuries. We have no apologies to make for it. These are the articles on which the revenues of the government should be raised as far as possible

Cost of Living.

"It is an easy thing to say that the present tariff law has increased the cost of living, but it is impossible to prove it. It is almost impossible to find a single item on which the tariff was increased, on which the price has shown a similar increase. On the other hand, on nearly every item where we reduced the tariff, or where we left it the same as under the old law, they have maintained the old price and sometimes increased it. We reduced the tariff on lumber from $2 to $1.25 and lumber brings the same old price. We increased the duty on shingles from 30 to 50 cents, and the price of shingles has been lower ever since the act became a law.

"I could enumerate these items by the hour, showing that the price has no relation whatever to the changes in the tariff act.

"The increase in price of articles is world-wide. No other country, during the last three or four years, has gone through a general tariff revision, and yet every country shows the same increase of the necessities of life."

LIKE GHOST OF BANQUO

"Regulars" in Town of Duluth Will Not Stay Downed.

The "Insurgents" Must Keep on the Job Every Day.

In the excitement of the general primaries the cub reporter did not forget to cover his assignment to watch the results obtained by the regulars in the township of Duluth, who were trying to get ten signatures to a petition calling an election to validate bonds which were issued several years ago for bridges and roads, and which were invalidated by the district and supreme courts.

The cub reporter was on the job, but he didn't want his "story" buried under the mass of primary statistics, so he held it until today.

The regulars seem to be getting it in the neck all over the country, and in this state the victory in Jim Tawney's district was not the only one that was won by the insurgents. The triumph of the progressives in the town of Duluth was sweeping, but the dispute is not settled. The regulars can circulate a petition every day in the year, so the fight is a part of the daily routine of settlers in the town of Duluth and those Duluth folk who own country homes there. The insurgents expect to have a continual fight on their hands for some time to come, as the invalidated bonds are as persistent as Banquo's ghost.

Whose Presence in the National Capital Has Aroused the Fighting Spirit in Some Members of the G. A. R.

Past Commander-in-Chief Torrance in the chair, was in session until early this morning. There was a strong fighting minority in the committee, but the conservatives won and the committee voted down all resolutions with reference to the placing of a statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in the hall of fame of the national capitol at Washington.

Besides indorsing the McCumber pension bill pending in congress the committee recommended that an amendment be made to the bill increasing from $12 to $15 a month the pensions of veterans 66 years of age; from $15 to $20 a month for those over 70 and from $20 to $25 for those over 75.

It is expected that a minority report will be presented.

DULUTH, SOUTH SHORE & ATLANTIC RAILROAD WILL BE MERGED WITH SOO LINE WHEN DEPOT IS READY

Canadian trunk line. Therefore the gradual taking over of the South Shore, its operation, its management and all the other details connected with its existence as a railroad, will not be so great a departure as the taking over of an outside road would be.

The change, that has been confirmed by The Herald, has long been looked for by railroad men who have been in touch with the true situation. For the past few years the resignation of President W. P. Pitch has been an annual rumor that has interested railroad men in these parts of the country. Nothing has ever materialized in connection with the oft-rumored dropping out of active railroad work by Mr. Pitch, and in the story of the taking over of the management of the South Shore there is nothing even whispered regarding what will be done in the matter of the present officials of the South Shore. Probably many of them will be retained.

Not only will the trains of the South Shore operate into the new Soo depot here, but it is stated that the offices of the South Shore will be transferred to the new depot.

There is a federal law that prohibits the consolidation of competing lines, but it is not believed that this will in any way interfere, as the two roads can hardly be called competing lines.

WILL HOLD INQUIRY NOW

mal motion for a continuance of the hearing until after the November elections. The reasons advanced were in substance similar to the argument made by him yesterday when he declared that Senator Lorimer would be handicapped through a disinclination of legislators now under indictment to testify before the committee.

The Tribune's list of witnesses was submitted and the committee began consideration of methods of procedure.

Reasons Not Sufficient.

The committee's decision overruling Senator Lorimer's pleas for delay was announced by Senator Paynter of Kentucky, who said:

"The committee has given due consideration to the presentation made for a continuance of this hearing until after the November elections, and has not found the reasons contained therein of sufficient weight to warrant the delay. The petition is denied."

No reference was made to the definite time when the hearing would begin, but after submission of the names of the witnesses by the newspaper, a short conference resulted in the announcement that the session would adjourn as a public meeting until Monday morning to permit Senators Bulkeley of Connecticut and Frazier of Tennessee, other members of the investigating sub-committee, to be present.

Wants Legislative Record.

The committee then went into executive session with Attorneys Austrian and Hanecy to determine upon the rules of practice that would obtain at the hearing. The committee has decided, it was announced, to ask for the official record of the Illinois legislature containing the balloting during the period preceding and up to and including the election of Lorimer.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Mrs. Anna Hietman Passes Away at Cloquet of Heart Failure.

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs Anna Hietman died here Tuesday from heart failure. Mrs. Hietman was 70 years old and had been in Cloquet about five weeks, coming here for the benefit of her health, and she was thought to be getting better when her death occurred quite suddenly. She was a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Anthony Koch, and the latter, with her husband, accompanied the remains to Davenport, Iowa, where burial will take place.

and the jumble of rocky gorges on this side of the summit. The remaining distance to this city offers less difficulty, but takes the aviator over Lake Maggiore and a succession of plains to the goal.

Case of Victory or Death.

The distance from Brig, Switzerland, to Milan is seventy-five miles and the prize was for the aviator who should accomplish the first flight, starting from a table land 900 feet above the sea level at the head of the Rhine valley. In addition to reaching a height that would bring him over the Simplon summit, and in doing which he must suffer severely from the cold, the aviator was required to guide his frail craft over wide chasms, notably the gorge of Ysette, where a safe descent would be quite impossible, and an accident must mean almost certain death. Aviation experts had predicted freely that the only alternative to a successful flight across the Alps was the death of the aviator.

Signal fires along the Napoleon road marked the way as far as Domodossola and the rest of the course was indicated by flags and buoys, anchored on Lake Maggiore. The summit of the pass at Monscera was illuminated with oxhydrique lights, and a captive balloon showed the finish line at the aerodrome here.

Fell Thirty Feet.

As the airman was seen slowly descending a great crowd gathered. Slowly and gracefully he neared the surface and was only about thirty feet above the ground when a gust of wind caught and overturned the monoplane. It fell heavily, carrying the aviator beneath it. Chavez was pinned under the motor. He had fainted on striking the ground and was bleeding profusely when released from the wreckage. The machine was ruined.

American Forced to Descend.

Brig, Switzerland, Sept. 23.—The American aviator, Mr. Weymann, ascended in his biplane at 1:10 o'clock this afternoon in an attempt to follow Chavez in his flight across the Alps, but was forced to descend after being in the air four minutes. The other aviators here are packing their things preparatory to leaving, as the time limit for the flight expires tomorrow.

COPPERS NERVOUS; UNDERTONE WEAK

Market Regains Early Decline But Closes at a Loss.

The copper market opened weak and values were excessively nervous. Amalgamated ran into a bunch of stop-loss orders at the opening and professionals sold on reports that a readjustment of copper prices would cause a reduction in the quotations on the red metal. The reduction in the prices quoted by Calumet & Hecla was the basis for the report that a readjustment in electrolytic prices would be made. Toward the close shorts covered and the market rallied to the opening or a fraction lower than yesterday.

It is reported that Tuolumne has made a settlement with North Butte and that a dividend in November is possible. The stock was strong and was $4.25 asked at the close of the local market.

The local market was dull and featureless. Corbin was the most active stock. North Butte sold at $26.50, Red Warrior at $2.90½, Shattuck at $24.50, $24.25 and $24.37½, Amazon at $2.37½ to $2.25, Calumet & Corbin at 46c, 47c and 48c, Calumet & Sonora at $8.50, Keating at 80c.

Amalgamated sold at $61.37½ to $60.87½, $61.37½, $60.87½ and then at $61.37½, Butte Ballaklava at $5.87½ to $6.12½, Calumet & Arizona at $57, Greene at $6.62½ to $6.50, Butte Coalition at $18.25 to $18.50, Giroux at $6.62½ to $6.50½ to $6.62½, Superior & Pittsburg was $11 bid, North Butte sold at $27 to $26.50 to $26.62½, Shattuck in the east at $24.75, $24.87½ to $24.50. Superior-Michigan was the strongest stock on the board. It opened at $58 and went to $60. It was exceptionally active.

RAILROADS

FIRST SIGNS OF RAILROAD WAR

Northwestern Road May Change Time of Its Chicago Train.

With the inauguration of the through passenger service of the Soo between Duluth and Chicago there will be a change in the leaving time of the Northwestern train, says a report coming from reliable sources.

The rivalry between the two roads is already being manifested. The Northwestern would like to know the time the Soo's Chicago train will leave this city. No announcement has been made by the Soo officials, for the very reason that they know the Northwestern officials are anxious to get this piece of information.

But when the Northwestern officials do find out the leaving time of the Soo, it is said that they will be ready to spring their new running time.

With a city and division passenger agent here, the Soo is going right after the passenger business from the start. There is going to be a lot of competition between the Northwestern and Soo from the time the first Soo train leaves for Chicago, and the first faint signs of the traffic fight are at hand.

Cut Down Your Coal Bill

A cheap heating stove with its leaky joints, loose doors and poor construction not only wastes fuel, but is a menace to your health. The Stewart Heater is no novelty, no experiment. For over seventy-five years it has been recognized as the best heater made. The Stewart heater has long been the most popular and widely used heater in the Northwest, where the rigorous climate demands quality, heat efficiency and long service. For simplicity of construction, beauty, quality and durability, no other heater is its equal.

If you have suffered the annoyance and discomforts caused by heaters with special freak construction [designed to overcome the deficiencies of cheapness], you'll better appreciate the simple, common sense construction of the Stewart Heater. The cold air is taken in at the center of the bottom of the stove and is heated so intensely that a match can be lighted by holding it twenty-four inches above the top.

Stewart Heaters

A Stewart Base Burning Heater will circulate every ounce of air entirely through the stove and into a room size 12x15 feet with a 12-foot ceiling in 50 minutes, so that you can readily see that by circulating this air through the stove in this time, it makes warm to a comfortable and even degree all parts of the room. Another important point, a Stewart heater will give one-fourth more heat with one-fourth less fuel than any other heater of equal size. These few facts explain why there are more Stewart Stoves in use at the Head of the Lakes than all other makes combined.

TICKET AGENT AT NEW DEPOT.

Don Cole has been made ticket agent of the new Soo depot. For the past six years he has been assistant ticket agent at the Union depot, being right hand man to Fred Ober, the general ticket agent of the depot. Mr. Cole is considered one of the best handlers of passenger tickets in the Northwest, and his promotion comes solely as a reward of merit. He will assume his new duties with the opening of the new Soo depot for business.

WILL TEST RAILROAD SIXTEEN HOUR LAW.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A suit has been begun against the Chicago & Alton railroad by United States District Attorney Sims to test the validity of the federal law restraining employes in the train service of railroads from working more than sixteen hours continuously, or from returning to work without having had ten hours of rest.

The declaration in the suit sets forth that on two occasions the Chicago & Alton company, kept the crew of a freight train running between Bloomington and Joliet, Ill., on duty more than sixteen hours. The case is looked upon as an important one because of the fact that the constitutionality of restrictions upon the rights of men of labor will be passed upon by the courts.

NEWSBOYS TO SEE FIGHT PICTURES

Special Performance at the Lyceum for Boys Who Sell Heralds.

"Hey, come on, kids, we'se goin' to see der big fight!"

And so they are, the newsboys of The Herald.

Charles L. Geraghty, the owner of the films that are being shown in Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, has not forgotten the fact that he was once a newsboy. Down in St. Louis he got his start in life by selling the papers of his native burg. Since he has drifted into bigger things he has never for one moment forgotten the little street merchants.

Because he remembers the boys, and because he is interested in them and likes them, he is going to give a special performance of the fight pictures at 9:30 tomorrow morning. The privilege the boys of The Herald will have is through the courtesy of Mr. Geraghty and Charles A. Marshall, the owner of the Lyceum theater.

"The average boy ought to know how to handle his fists," said Mr. Geraghty. "I don't believe in boys fighting, any more than a minister or a fond parent. But there are times when a boy who is a regular American boy has to fight or be called a coward. It is good that a boy know how to fight.

"When I was a kid, all the fighting I ever knew was learned at the expense of my facial features. And, at that, I never looked for trouble. I think boys who know how to box and handle their hands are healthier and happier and better boys for this knowledge. If I thought there was anything objectionable in the least about the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures, you can take it from me that I would not invite the boys to be my guests.

"Mayor Gaynor of New York city did the sensible act when he refused to stop the pictures from being shown in New York. He stated that if the fight pictures will teach the American boy how to defend himself, he was in favor of the pictures.

"The agitation against the pictures is foolish in the extreme. There is nothing in them that a woman could not view with the perfect assurance of not being offended in the least. For that reason, and because the newsboy is my friend, I want the boys of The Herald to see the fight."

Every newsboy of The Herald will be admitted to the fight pictures free at the special performance, and Mr. Geraghty is assured of one of the most enthusiastic and interested audiences of the week.

SUPERIOR

WILL SUE OWNER OF AUTOMOBILE.

H. B. Corey, who was arraigned in municipal court yesterday on a charge of speeding and whose case was set over until Sept. 29, will also be made the defendant in a personal injury suit brought by Jack Hayden and William Cavanaugh.

Hayden and Cavanaugh were struck Wednesday night by Corey's machine at Third street and Tower avenue. Cavanaugh was badly injured and had to be taken to the hospital. Hayden escaped serious injury, it is said.

Hayden said today, that in the event of the death of Cavanaugh, a manslaughter charge would be pushed against Corey. Corey is a well known Superior lumberman. Cavanaugh has a good chance for recovery.

Fast Game Expected.

The Big Duluth baseball team will play the Turnbull - Cameron - Degler teams Sunday at Hislop park. The Big Duluths stand high among the semi-pro teams in Duluth this year and the Turnbulls have cleaned up everything so far in Superior. The game Sunday is expected to be a fast one.

Local Cases Scheduled.

Local cases for the adjourned August term of the state supreme court are scheduled to come up Oct. 4 and 5. Among the personal injury suits that have been appealed is that of Matt Charron vs. Northwestern Fuel company, in which Charron was suing for $35,000. He was given a verdict in circuit court. There are several other personal injury and civil cases to come up for settlement.

PRESBYTERIANS ERECT NEW $40,000 EDIFICE.

Work on the $40,000 Hammond Avenue Presbyterian church will be started tomorrow by Contractor Dauplaise. The contract calls for the completion of the job in December. Contractor Dauplaise also has under construction the new City Bakery building on Ogden avenue between Broadway and Eleventh streets. It is to cost $10,000.

PROPERTY OWNERS WANT CITY TO STAND EXPENSE.

Property owners on Banks avenue are trying to avoid paying assessments for improvements on that thoroughfare and have organized to attempt to show that the paving expense should come out of the city fund. The movement is the result of an interpretation of the Green Bay paving case decision, handed down recently in the supreme court, which is holding up paving operations on Hughitt avenue and Belknap streets at the present time.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY FOLEY RESIGNS FROM POSITION.

District Attorney W. R. Foley has resigned from public office and while Governor Davidson has as yet named no one to succeed Mr. Foley, it is probable that Assistant District Attorney Archie McKay will be selected. Mr. Foley will accept the retainer of the Duluth Street Railway company.

Railroads Restrained.

Mandatory proceedings have been started in superior court against the Eastern Railway of Minnesota, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads to restrain them from doing any more filling along the Superior bay front and also requiring them to vacate where they have filled at street ends. The suit was brought as the result of a resolution taken by the council several weeks ago.

DECLINE IN DEATH RATE

Now Lowest on Record, According to Census Bureau's Bulletin.

High Death Rate Not Necessarily Found in Large Cities.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The death rate in the death registration cities and states of the United States dorpped to 15 per 1,000 of provisionally estimated population last year, according to the forthcoming United States census bureau's bulletin on mortality statistics for 1909, which has been submitted to Director Durand by Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, chief statistician for vital statistics.

In 1908 the death rate in the census bureau's registration area was 15.4 per 1,000 and in the bureau's annual report for that year, issued last spring, it was stated that it is evident an era of low mortality has begun.

The death rate for 1909 is, the bulletin states, lower than that for any previous year of registration and probably is the lowest that ever occurred in the history of the United States.

It is stated that the mortality was distributed with more than ordinary uniformity throughout the year 1909 and no epidemics of other than a very local extent were found to have occurred.

Lower in England.

It is a fact of much interest, the bulletin states, as showing the general prevalence in 1909 of extremely favorable conditions for human life, that the death rate of England and Wales for that year was 14.5 per 1,000 which was also the lowest on record for that country, while the rate of 14 for the city of London was even lower and demonstrates the fallacy of the belief that high death rates are necessarily found in large cities.

The total number of deaths returned from the registration area for 1909 was 732,638, an increase of 40,964 over the number, 691,574, returned for 1908.

Of the total number in 1909, there were 398,587 deaths, or 54.4 per cent, among males, as compared with 54.3 in 1908.

The largest number of deaths returned for any month in 1909 was 70,093 for March. With the great majority of the registration states and cities it is the month having the largest number of deaths, while June is the month of the lowest mortality.

The provisionally estimate aggregate population of the registration area of the United States in 1909 is 48,776,893 or 55.3 per cent of the total estimated population of continental United States.

The Registration Area.

The official death registration area is composed of those states and cities which require the registration of a death before the issuance of a burial permit and which have complied with other requirements imposed by the census bureau as conditions precedent to inclusion in this area whose death returns are annually collected, tabulated, analyzed, and presented in bulletin and report form by the census bureau. In 1909 the death registration area included the following states:

In addition to these, returns of deaths were received from fifty-four cities in non-registration states, in which the registration under local ordinances is considered satisfactory. The District of Columbia, which is coterminous with the city of Washington, is not included in the list of separate registration cities. For most purposes it is treated as a city, but in the table showing groups of registration states the District of Columbia is included as a state area.

IF ELECTED SPEAKER,

Champ Clark Will Drive Mules Down Pennsylvania Avenue.

Montgomery, Mo., Sept. 23. — Congressman Champ Clark, minority leader, objects to the "funny" side of the story in Eastern newspapers to the effect that he is going to drive a team of Missouri mules down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington if elected speaker of the next house to succeed Joe Cannon. He will be several hundred dollars richer and thereby departs the humor, he says.

Mr. Clark's private secretary, Wallace Bassford, gave out to the press here today the following explanation:

"It is not the desire of Mr. Clark to do anything that would appear freakish, and he has not been indulging in one of those bets of the class of the wager as to who would roll a peanut around the block. One day Mr. Clark was sitting at a table in the Cottage hotel in Bowling Green with Luke Emerson, the "Jack King" of Pike county, when the matter of the speakership came up. Emerson is a Republican who always votes for Clark. He said:

"'Champ, when you are elected speaker I will make you a present of the finest span of mules in the state if you will drive them down Pennsylvania avenue.'

"Mr. Clark thanked him and said he would certainly agree to the terms. This was not to be sneered at by a comparatively poor man, for that team of mules would be worth at least $600 cash, and while they are not usually considered proper for carriage purposes, those mules would look slicker and trot better than any team of carriage horses in Washington."

WEST TO TALK OF CONSERVATION

Governor Hay of Washington Issues Call for New Congress.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 23.—Governor M. F. Hay of Washington has sent to the governors of the Pacific coast and mountain states letters asking their views on the advisability of holding another conservation congress, at which there might be a freer discussion of conservation as viewed in the West than there was, according to Governor Hay, at the recent St. Paul meeting.

"Practically all the Western governors are in accord on the conservation of natural resources," said Governor Hay. "The so-called conservation congress at St. Paul expressed only the Eastern idea, which is the Pinchot idea of conservation. There was no open discussion of our side of the question. The West as well as the East wants to conserve our natural resources. We of the West desire to preserve from waste and to make proper use of things that belong to us."

ASK PERMANENT TARIFF BOARD

Association Would Attack Commission to Treasury Department.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Plans are announced here of a campaign to be conducted by the National Tariff Commission association to have congress enact legislation to make the tariff board a permanent body to be affiliated as a bureau with the treasury department.

Henry R. Towne of New York, treasurer and a director of the National Tariff Commission association, after a conference with Chairman Emery and members of the tariff board, issued a statement indorsing the work of the board in its effort to secure reliable information upon which to base tariff schedules, and emphasizing the desire of manufacturers to co-operate with the board in its work or to procure legislation which will assure its continuance.

The National Tariff Commission association grew out of the tariff conference at Indianapolis in 1909. It is composed of delegates from all parts of the United States.

WANTS TO FURNISH AN AERIAL NAVY

John B. Ryan Offers Uncle Sam Reserve of 1,000 Aeroplanes.

Washington, Sept. 23.—John Barry Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, the New York multi-millionaire, spent yesterday in the war and navy departments and succeeded in enthusing the officials over the proposition to provide the army and navy with a fleet of airships that would augment the powers of the twin services.

The attractive feature of Mr. Ryan's proposition was its economical side; he did not ask a dollar of government money in return for the creation of a reserve of about 1,000 aeroplanes that might be called immediately into service by the government in time of need.

The idea is to have an officer detailed from each branch to act with the aeronautical reserve, acting in an advisory capacity and to assist in the organization of the reserve on military lines. Plans for the campaign are to be mapped out and there will be maneuvers and drills to prepare for actual warfare. Efforts will be made to develop aeroplanes of greater size than those now in use, so as to transport a corporal's guard and to carry sufficient ammunition for effective bomb work. Mr. Ryan's proposition appealed very strongly to all of the army and navy officers with whom he talked.

HYENA IS EATING ITSELF TO DEATH.

The animal, a gift to the Zoo from Adam Forepaugh in 1895, began the process of self destruction several days ago, and before its keepers discovered the cause of the injury, it had chewed the flesh from the paw to the middle joint of the leg. It is now in a state of physical exhaustion and keepers at the zoo fear that it will be necessary to kill the animal. Dementia is believed to have attacked the hyena.

TAFT INDEBTED TO HARLAN.

President's First Federal Judgeship Secured Through Jurist.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Should President Taft send to congress the name of Justice Harlan for chief justice of the supreme court, a possible move which has been widely discussed, he would repay a debt of gratitude of long standing.

Friends of the jurist and the president recall that in 1892 when President Benjamin Harrison was at a loss to find a suitable man for appointment to the United States circuit bench for the Sixth district, he sought advice from Justice Harlan. Without hesitation Justice Harlan advanced the name of William H. Taft, and Mr. Taft, who shortly before had resigned from the superior court of Cincinnati to become solicitor general, received the appointment.

BOY BRAVES DEADLY CURRENT FOR MATE.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 23.—While an electric meat crusher was grinding off the hand of Raymond Guilfoyle, aged 15, Charles Tompus, aged 14, jumped on a butcher bench in the Diamond market yesterday and, tearing down the high voltage wires at the peril of his own life, broke the circuit and stopped the machinery. The wires swung about the floor, sputtering like a piece of fireworks, until electricians arrived. Tompus escaped injury.

Guilfoyle was feeding meat into a grinder when his hand was caught and his screams caused the crowds in the market to flee. The machine had to be cut in pieces with a hack saw to release the boy's hand.

ENGLISHMAN IS BEING DEPORTED.

Frederick C. Pearce, the Englishman ordered deported by the Federal government, left Duluth yesterday in charge of Inspector Daly of the immigration department. He will be taken back to England.

Pearce tried to get into the United States from Three Rivers, Que., but was turned back because he didn't have the amount of money required by law, and also because it was claimed that he had perjured himself. Later he smuggled himself to Michigan, where he was located by the government officials. Before he was apprehended he had made his way to this city, where he was discovered working in the Universal flour mill.

"DEAF MUTE" WAS ORDERING A MEAL.

Efforts are being made by the police to locate an alleged deaf mute who played on the sympathies of several women in a local restaurant last evening to get money enough for a meal. He passed them slips of paper on which he had written that he could not talk or hear, and was suffering for want of food. When one woman returned a few minutes later to get an article which she had dropped the "deaf mute" was ordering an elaborate meal and carrying on an animated conversation.

Ireland Will Not Talk.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 23.—Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, who is accompanying Cardinal Vannutelli, refused to receive newspaper reporters at the residence of Bishop Scannel unless assured that he did not wish him to talk on the Roosevelt-Storer dispute.

"I have nothing to say on that subject," he said.

BURDEN NOT FOR SHIPPERS

Commissioner Lane Says That Freight Rates Should Not Cover All Trouble.

Suggests Need of Remodeling Railroad Methods in Management.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Hope that the proposed increases in freight rates will be upset by the interstate commerce commission is felt among shippers today as a result of the declarations of Commissioner Lane at yesterday afternoon's hearing.

When the hearing was resumed today there was evidence of increased interest along the lines indicated by Commissioner Lane yesterday, when he intimated that the railroads could hardly expect the shippers to contribute the entire amount needed to make up what they claimed is a discrepancy between the incomes and expenses of the carriers.

Railroads must adjust their economical difficulties by some other means than by asking shippers to contribute the funds therefor, in the opinion expressed by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Franklin K. Lane.

Based on Testimony.

As railroad officers in testifying had agreed that there were only two factors in efficient railroad management—the amount of rates charged and the method of capitalization and financing—the elimination of the rate question by the commissioner aroused considerable interest among the railroad men and attorneys present. They sought to learn if the commissioner thereby implied that there must be readjustment of the method of financing big carrier systems, but Mr Lane ignored their efforts and continued to ask the witness to whom he had directed his startling remarks, pointed questions on the amount and disposition of earnings of the railroad in question, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Followed Ellis' Testimony.

The witness, whose testimony evoked this display of the commissioner's judgment of the merits of the railroads' present plea for higher rates, was William Ellis, commerce counsel for the St. Paul.

Mr. Ellis had testified his company was suffering from too much business, that the increase had meant an increase in the unit of cost which grew faster than the unit of income, thereby threatening the yearly surplus of earnings above payment of dividends, cost of operation and the maintenance. Commissioner Lane then said:

"As the country develops there will be more and more freight delivered to you and as conditions are now, the rates constantly must be increased, according to the argument of railroad officials.

"I regard it as a serious menace to the Western country if the rates constantly are to be increased. We must work out this problem on lines other than by the proposed method of raising the tariff. If not, there is no time when we can say the maximum has been reached."

This unexpected development in the rate hearing came as a result of the inquiry into the St. Paul's profits, particularly from the Puget sound extension acquired in recent years. Mr. Ellis denied the commissioner's suggestion that the roads' optimism when it built the trans-continental extension had turned to pessimism now.

Profits From Extension.

"If it had not been for that road, he said, "we would have had nothing from operation to aid to our surplus last year. That extension added about $2,500,000 to the surplus, in addition to $2,589,573 from other sources. Our total surplus is about $50,000,000."

He then told the commissioners that expense cost was overtaking earnings, and would continue so long as more traffic was hauled, as might be expected.

In answer to questions put to him, Mr. Ellis said that if the gross income next year were to be $79,000,000 from this year's figure of $64,000,000, the percentage of profit would be less.

"Do you mean to say the cost of doing the additional $15,000,000 in business would be equal to that sum?" was asked.

"I mean the percentage of profit would not be so great," said Ellis.

Attorney H. C. Lust, representing the Illinois Manufacturers' association, asked:

"Mr. Ellis, you say your gross income last year 'from other sources' than operating was $9,000,000. What are those sources?"

Paid $6,000,000 Interest.

"Chiefly the Puget Sound division," he answered. "The St. Paul owns all the stock and in 1910 received $6,000,000 interest on the bonds."

"What" interrupted Commissioner Lane again: "Do you mean to say the Puget Sound branch paid all its operating expenses the first year and in addition $6,000,000 interest on its capitalization?"

"Well, that was interest for a year and a half. However," continued Mr. Ellis, "it also earned a surplus of nearly $3,000,000."

"How was the Puget Sound division paid for?" asked Mr. Lane.

"By a bond issue of $100,000,000 sold to stock holders."

"And in addition to the surplus, a 7 per cent dividend was paid on that sum last year?"

"Yes."

"About $13,000,000 profit all told; that is for each $7,000,000 or so you paid out you received in this space of time $1,000,000?"

"That is not quite correct. You see the St. Paul owns the surplus of $2,200,000 of the Puget Sound line in addition."

Attorney Frank Lyon for the commission interrupted to ask:

"If that surplus were added to the earnings of the St. Paul, it would more than make up for the added cost of labor?"

"It would."

Omitted From Report.

"Then I would like to call the attention of the commission to the absolute failure of this company to include that sum in the surplus given in their latest report to the commission."

"Now," said Commissioner Lane, resuming, "we come to what I am beginning to call the 'mysterious cause' of the apparent increased cost of operation. What is it?"

"I'll tell you," was the reply. "Every resolution of congress or legislature has decreased the earning efficiency of the dollar expended upon labor. Eight-hour days, sixteen-hour telegraphers, limitations, restrictions in regard to eight-hour days—all these have cut down a dollar's efficiency. I still say labor is the big factor in increased cost."

Issued Stock at Par.

Previously Mr. Ellis had admitted his company, in the last ten years, had sold several millions of dollars worth of stock to stockholders at par when it was quoted in the open market at from 240 down to 180, and that the stock since had paid 7 per cent dividends. He maintained this was good business policy, however.

SAILOR DIES FROM INJURIES.

John McNenomey, a sailor about 22 years old, died last night at St. Mary's hospital from injuries received at the ore docks last Monday. He was attempting to jump from the steamer J. D. Morse to the dock, but fell on the dock, striking his head and fracturing his skull.

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan. Efforts to locate his mother at the address given by him before his death proved fruitless. Unless his relatives are found he will be buried by the Lake carriers' association.

LIFE IS QUIET IN FAR SAMOA

Rev. C. R. Patrick Returns and Will Be Stationed at Norfolk.

Rev. C. R. Patrick, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of this city is in the city after an absence of eight years, the last two of which have been spent in Samoa, where Mr. Patrick was the United States army chaplain.

Going to Samoa Mr. Patrick and his family were in a shipwreck, which came very near ending the lives of all the passengers.

"Nothing exciting has happened in Samoa for some time, and I don't think anything of very great moment will happen for some time to come," said Mr. Patrick today. "The country is quiet, the people are quiet, and life in Samoa is not exciting, although I enjoyed the two years I spent there."

This afternoon Mr. Patrick will leave for Bowling Green, Mo. Later he will probably be stationed at Norfolk, Va. While in Duluth Mr. Patrick was one of the best known and most active ministers in the city.

DISCREDIT THE HOLDUP STORY

The police secured information this morning which leads them to discredit the holdup story told them by Mrs. Frank Columbo, who claimed that she had been beaten and robbed near the Point of Rocks at Fourteenth avenue west early yesterday morning by Sabalino Padillo.

Andrew Lundgren of Superior and Charles Cuday of 2713 West Second street, told the authorities that they saw Mrs. Columbo and Padillo together about the time mentioned. They said their actions were not such as to lead them to believe that the woman had been robbed by the man. They did not hear any one scream and did not see Padillo strike Mrs. Columbo.

Padillo denied seeing the woman at all on the night she accused him of having held her up.

RETURNS TO ELY BY AUTO

Joseph Mantel Will Complete Trip Never Made Before.

Still bent on pioneering, Joseph Mantel of Ely, who made the first auto trip ever made from that city to Duluth two days ago, set out at noon today, accompanied by Joseph Skala and Anton Kotchevar, on the return trip.

Coming to Duluth, Mantel traveled over what is called the Pike river road, by way of Biwabik. Going home, he will follow the Virginia-Tower road, and go from Tower to Ely. He expects to reach his destination between 8 and 9 o'clock this evening.

"Coming to Duluth we found the road fairly good, except for a stretch between Tower and Biwabik that has not been completed," said Mr. Mantel. "The road is cut through, but it lacks surfacing. That was pretty rough, but we got over it all right, demonstrating that a careful driver can get over almost any kind of country in an auto.

"Many of my friends and acquaintances told me I was foolish to attempt the run down here, but they did the same when I told them I was going to make a trip to Tower some time ago. They said it was impossible, but I did it, and without any trouble, at that. That was the first time an auto had covered the road between those towns. When I was going home from Tower I overtook two hunters who asked where I was bound. I told them, and they laughed at me, saying I could never get to Ely over that road. When I told them I had come from there and must get back they changed their minds."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS

A New Department for the North Dakota University.

To Assist Young Women for Profession of Home-Making.

University, N. D., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next week will see the institution of a new department in the North Dakota university, a course of household economics, conducted in such a manner as to be available to juniors and seniors for credit. Two lecture periods a week, just twice the time that was allowed to the several lectures along this line delivered during the closing weeks of the last term, are to be allowed to this branch of work.

Prof. J. M. Gilette is in charge of the work, and in stating the purposes of it, he declares that it is not in any sense a course of lectures to fully prepare the young woman for the profession of home-making, but that it is only a beginning. An opportunity is given in these lectures to obtain introduction to a large field of knowledge. This course opens the way to a number of others which will be established later, and which will have to do with kindred subjects, and the university hopes that in time it will be enabled to offer to the young woman who expects to make a home the opportunity to become acquainted with the best knowledge upon household economics.

Eleven lecturers have been engaged for the work that will be done. These are Ernest Kennedy of Minneapolis, on "The Making of House plans;" Dr. E. F. Ladd of Fargo on "The Adulteration of Foods;" Mrs. C. B. Waldron of Fargo on "The Location of the House and Beautifying of Grounds;" Prof. J. M. Gilette on "The Development of the House" and "The Place of the Family in Modern History;" C. H. Crouch an "Heating and Lighting" and "Sanitation and Plumbing;" Mrs. F. L. McVey on "Floors and Floor Coverings;" Miss Daisy B. Treen on "Foods and Their Values," "The Preparation and Preservation of Foods," Serving and Supervision of Food," and "The Model Kitchen;" Miss Cornelia B. White on "Home Nursing;" Prof. James E. Boyle on "The Cost of Living," and Frank L. McVey on "The Business of Housekeeping."

FEARS FOR HIS LIFE.

Interpreter Would Be Safeguarded Against an Italian.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Camella Costella, who acted as interpretor for the local authorities when Francisco Galato was arraigned in justice court on a charge of assault with intent to kill, does not feel like taking chances at being made the object of vengeance at the hands of the defendant should he be convicted, and has asked the authorities to gain possession of a small note in the possession of Galato on which his name is written. Costella believes that Galato, should he be convicted, would commence a search for him upon being released. He also believes that the prisoner would not be able to remember his name and would be unable to find him if the note he now has is destroyed.

BRIDE DROWNED.

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 23. — G. A. Wright, a farmer residing near the city, received a telegram Wednesday evening from St. Cloud, Fla., stating that his son, William H. Wright, and wife were drowned there yesterday. Mr. Wright was married to Miss Estella House at her home at Stewartville, Minn., on August 1 this year. They had gone to Florida to spend the winter.

MAY LOSE LIFE.

Amateur Actor in Securing "Limp" Contracts Blood Poisoning.

Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 23.—The desire of Henry Paulson of Flasher to give a realistic reproduction of an old man with a halt in his step during an amateur performance last week may result fatally for the young man.

To secure a natural limp he put a nail through the heel of his shoe just long enough to prick his heel. He had a splendid limp, but after the show he found his stocking soaked with blood and a very sore foot. Later he was troubled with great pains and on going to a physician found he was suffering from blood poisoning. He was sent to a hospital and his foot will have to be amputated and possibly he may lose his life.

The proceeds of the performance which were to have gone to a local charity will be turned over to Paulson to help in his fight with death.

Methodists Ask Conference to Return Rev. C. H. Blake.

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 23. — (Special to The Herald.)—It is the request of the people in the Methodist Episcopal church in this city that at the close of the conference being held this week in Fergus Falls that Rev. C. H. Blake be returned to this city. At the business meeting of the church which closed up the financial affairs of the church for the year, it was found that the church is in the best condition that has prevailed for years. Old church debts have been paid and there is money in the treasury to liquidate all its obligations. The pastor's salary is all paid, and there is nothing due on church property improvements which have been considerable during the year. More improvements are contemplated and there is money on hand to get them well started. Mr. Blake says that he feels the success of the year is due to the way in which the trustees of the church have worked with and stood by him.

TO MAKE EXTENSIVE ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

North Dakota Counties Vote Large Sums of Money.

Dickinson, N. D., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.) — For the purpose of carrying on extensive improvement work on its roads during the coming year, an appropriation of $15,000 has been made by Stark county to cover the cost. There has been a general demand over the entire county for better roads within the past two or three years, the rapid manner in which the country has been settling up necessitating better means of transportation to and from market. A number of big jobs have already been completed which have materially bettered the situation.

Billings, Adams, Hettinger, Oliver, Mercer and Dunn counties, as well as Morton, are all contemplating extensive road work during the next season, and several have made provision in their appropriation bills for such work.

PORT HOPE FARMER HAS HIS TROUBLES

Desertion of His Wife the Last of Many Afflictions.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 23—(Special to The Herald)—Charles Fleshman of the town of Port Hope, near Tenstrike, who has applied to Judge of Probate Clark to send his four minor children to the state school at Owatonna, seems to be the most unlucky man in the state of Minnesota.

Mr. Fleshman is a prominent farmer, highly respected, was a member of the recent grand jury and despite the unpleasant tragic events which have interrupted his domestic happiness, has won a fair degree of succes in the financial world.

Here are some of the things he has had happen:

When his daughter, because of her youth, refused to marry a man who had become enamoured of her, she was shot and killed by her lover who then committed suicide. This was two years ago.

Last week, Lawrence Smith of Tenstrike was arrested and is now in the Beltrami county jail awaiting trial, having pleaded not guilty before Judge Stanton to the charge that he is the father of the weak-minded girl's unborn child.

On top of all this, when Mr. Fleshman returned to Tenstrike, from Bemidji, where he had assisted in securing the arrest of Smith, he found, he says, that his wife had stripped his home of the furniture and had deserted him.

It is because of the alleged action on the part of his wife that he appeals to the state to care for the four small children which he has under his care and who, he admits, cannot be given the attention they should have.

D., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hail losses in the state this year were exceptionally heavy according to the reports that are being made public by several of the insurance companies that operate here. In almost every instance the mutual companies have been obliged to assess to the full amount the policies that were carried. One company had a record of insuring 540,000 acres for $2,932,924.51, and that is probably the largest amount carried by any of the mutual concerns.

So thoroughly had the fire done its work that little was left except the stumps The potatoes were planted between the stumps and the few which have so far been harvested seem to justify the faith of the planter in an abundant yield. ROOSEVELT AND PINCHOT

To Address First Southern Conservation Congress at Atlanta.

Hoke Smith, Governor-Elect of Georgia, Will Also Speak.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 23.—Theodore Roosevelt, Hoke Smith, governor elect of Georgia, Gifford Pinchot, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Chief Forester Henry S. Graves and other leaders of the conservation movement of national reputation have accepted invitations to address the first Southern Conservation congress to be held in this city Oct. 7 and 8. The congress is the first one of the kind held to attack the definite problems of conservation in a large group of states.

E. L. Worsham, state entomologist and chairman of the committee on arrangements of the congress, has returned to Atlanta from St. Paul, where he attended the national meeting, and from Washington, where he conferred with government officials and officers of the National Conservation association. At both places he was promised the support of all the leaders in the movement who contributed to the success of the St. Paul congress.

Roosevelt's address will be made at the end of the last day's session, and the topic assigned to him on the tentative program which has just been prepared is "Conservation," which means that he will be at liberty to take any or all the phases of the question he desires. Hoke Smith, governor-elect of Georgia and former secretary of the interior under President Cleveland, will divide the last session's program with the former president, addressing the congress on the subject of "The Relation of State Governments to Conservation."

Pinchot's Address.

Governor Brown of Georgia will open the first day's meeting and the mayor of Atlanta, Robert F. Maddox, will follow with an address of welcome. Gifford Pinchot will address the congress on the "Principles of Conservation," and Charles S. Barrett, president of the Farmers' Union, who has been a leader in the movement in Georgia, will speak on the "Conservation of Farm Resources." Among those to address the congress at other sessions are the following: B. N. Baker, the retiring president of the National Conservation congress; Dr. C. Willard Hayes, chief geologist, United States geological survey; Dr. A. M. Soule, president Georgia State Agriculture college; H. S. Graves, chief forester of the United States; Dr. W. J. McGee, soil-water expert, United States department of agriculture; Frederic J. Paxon, president Atlanta Chamber of commerce; Paul Norcross, Atlanta; Dr. H. F. Harris, state board of health; K. G. Matheson, president, Georgia School of Technology; Rev. C. B. Wilmer and Rev. J. W. Lee, Atlanta; Mrs. H. M. Willett, Atlanta; Dr. Alfred Akerman, professor of forestry, University of Georgia; Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Atlanta; and Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, president, Southern Appalachian Good Roads association.

Other Speakers.

Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture; Henry Wallace of Iowa, the new president of the National Conservation congress; Governor Stubbs of Kansas; Former Governor Blanchard of Louisiana, and all the governors of the Southern states, various state officers and mayors of cities have been invited to attend and a number of them are expected to be on the program as finally made up to address the congress.

A number of states in the South now have organizations of one kind or another which are interested in the wise utilization of natural resources and the prevention of waste, cost of living, pure food and good roads problems, and it is expected that a number of state conservation associations will be formed the first day of the meeting. In fact, the congress is the outgrowth of the plan to call together state conservation leaders to organize an association in Georgia. The movement had not gone far when it was found that the interest of the other states was so great that it would warrant a congress to discuss the interest of the whole South, to which the national leaders in conservation would be invited to take a part in assisting the state officers in the work.

THEIR FREEDOM IS CELEBRATED

Duluth's Colored Population Holds Exercises on Anniversary of Emancipation Day.

The forty-ninth anniversary of Emancipation day was celebrated in Duluth yesterday by Duluth's colored population.

The chief celebration took place last night at Eagles hall. It was held under the auspices of the Afro-American league of Duluth.

More than 500 were present and the anniversary was fittingly observed with speeches by several of the prominent members of the organization. Mayor Cullum and Postmaster Cook made short talks.

Mrs. H. E. Johnson read a paper on "The Life of Lincoln." H. S. Merry delivered the Emancipation Proclamation and Levica Horn delivered Lincoln's favorite poem, "Oh, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud."

Following the literary program the floor was cleared for dancing.

CAT ATTACKS GIRL'S CHANTECLER HAT.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 23.—A handsome chantecler hat was almost destroyed and its wearer, Miss Lucy Livingston, severely injured about the face when a big cat, which had been hiding in a tree overhead, leaped upon her with the evident intention of eating the rooster on the hat. The services of a surgeon were required to close the wounds in the girl's face. Miss Livingstone is a freshman at Drake university and lives in Garden Grove.

Demands Tariff Revision.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 23. — A platform demanding immediate tariff revision downward, the passage by congress of the White mountain forest reserve bill, and revision of the tax laws of New Hampshire, was adopted at the Democratic convention here. Eugene Reed, mayor of Manchester and the party nominee for congress from the First district, presided, and the principle addresses were by Mayor Reed and Clarence E. Carr of Andover, the Democratic nominee for governor.

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Summer Specialties Growing Scarce, Trade Being Confined to Staples.

Prune Crop in California Said to Have Suffered From Rain.

The produce market is concerned chiefly with staples. The advent of cold weather has caused the market to swing back into the narrow channels in which it moves during the fall, winter and early spring. Specialties are slowly leaving the market and receipts are confined mostly to staple goods.

Dairy products were slightly easier this week. Fancy creamery butter, which was firm last week at 31c, was sold this week at 30½@31c. Receivers were forced to combat accumulating stocks and increased receipts. Before they could get the market on an equilibrium they were forced to shade prices slightly. Dairy butter was reduced 1c from 25c. Packing stock was difficult to find. Prices are slightly higher than last year at this time. The production of butter is showing a heavy increase. Stocks in storage are large and buyers do not think there is good ground for the disparity between this season's values and last year's.

Fresh eggs declined 1c to 24c a dozen. The atmosphere of uncertainty which has pervaded the butter and egg markets has been dispelled and receivers were forced to make reductions from which the market benefited. The brisk consumptive demand for eggs, which caused a sharp bulge in prices a week ago, fell off this week and values lost their advance. Speculators took advantage of last week's decreased supplies and higher prices to offer storage stock. Buyers discriminated against cold storage eggs and this stock was withdrawn from the market, as values declined this week. Holders of storage stock were unable to secure orders at their asking prices and the venture was not profitable.

Cheese prices were either steady or slightly weaker. Block Swiss lost 1c and limburger was excessively weak. The production of American cheese is of increased proportions. However, there is a large hole in storage supplies that must be filled and as storage men have not dodged prevailing prices, it has been easy for holders to dispose of their stocks. The consumptive demand which was brisk in the summer has fallen off.

Increased receipts caused a slump in potato prices. Values for the so-called new potatoes, the only kind on the market, fell from $1.00@1.10 to $5@90c. Jersey sweet potatoes are quoted at $4 a barrel, a reduction of 50 a barrel from last week and a concession of $1 a barrel from a month ago. Shipments from Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin are heavy. The quality of potatoes this year is excellent. Receivers predict higher prices for potatoes this winter. They say the world's crop is short. Foreign crops in many instances were failures. In various parts of this country the potato yields were disappointing and receivers believe that the entire available supply will be needed to satisfy the consumptive demand until the next crop is made. They think prices will soar next spring when the shortage in the general crop becomes apparent.

Michigan grapes are coming into the market heavily. The demand is good and supplies are moved freely. The market is in a healthy condition. Receipts of apples show a large increase and prices are easier. Peaches are selling at prices slightly lower but some of the new arrivals from nearby points are not as of good quality as arrivals from more distant orchards. Pears are meeting with a broad outlet and are held firmly.

The raisin and the prune crops are said to have suffered severe damage from recent rains in Fresno county, Cal. The precipitation came at the critical time in the curing of the prunes and raisins. Prices in dried fruits show an advance and a further upturn in values is expected. For two or three days quotations on raisins were withdrawn until the extent of the damage could be ascertained. Some people think raisins will go to 7½ cents coast, as a result of the untimely change in the weather. The damage to raisins and prunes will cause a shortage in the pack, wholesalers believe, and the higher prices will have a tendency to affect values in all other lines of dried fruits.

Wholesale men say that tomatoes and corn are steadily advancing in price on account of a short pack. It is probable that there will be a large reduction in the output of the canning factories on account of damage to the crops from unfavorable weather at various periods in the growing season.

Poultry dealers are enjoying a good trade and the demand has been exceptionally broad. Approaching Jewish holidays, with prospects of a brisk call for all descriptions of fat poultry between Oct. 4 and Oct. 25, spurred speculators to unusual efforts and both in the country and in the cities they furnished an outlet for all offerings, not taken by consumers or shippers. Prices held to a narrow limit. Cooler weather had a stimulating effect on the trade. Lower temperatures lessened the risk that receivers took in holding carcasses for satisfactory prices.

Cooler weather caused a better demand for some kinds of meat, especially veal and mutton. Veal prices were unchanged but mutton advanced ½@1½c. Beef was slightly stronger although there was no change in the more expensive cuts. Pork loins receded ½c.

STOLE ROPE TO MAKE LARIATS.

Six boys, ranging in age from 15 to 17 years, were rounded up yesterday by Detective Toewe for cutting the long rope on the flagpole of the Jackson school, Fifth avenue west and Third street. They were not brought to police headquarters but will appear in juvenile court tomorrow. They are George Vivian, Ed Vivian, Allen Richardson, John Flynn, Fred O'Donnell and Fred Skelton. The boys claimed that they wanted the rope for making lariats. The complaint was made by the principal of the school.

WATER WORKS MEETING TO GO TO CLEVELAND.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 23.—Cleveland, Ohio, was chosen as the meeting place for 1911 by the delegates of the Central States Waterworks association, which closed its fourteenth annual convention here yesterday. The following officers were elected: A. L. Holmes, Grand Rapids, Mich., president; W. J. Choggins, Wheeling, W. Va., vice president; W. A. Veach, Newark, Ohio, secretary; A. W. Inman, Masasillon, Ohio, treasurer.

Rev. C. R. Oaten Prefers Zenith City to Minneapolis.

Methodist Conference Continues Sessions at Fergus Falls.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Methodist conference met in business session again this morning. The class of candidates for the ministry was received, and the presiding bishop delivered his annual address to them. He spoke of the marvelous growth of the Methodist church. Next fall at the ecumenical conference, in which the Methodism of the world will be represented, there will be present delegates from a Methodist constituency composed of $9,000,000. Those admitted to full membership were A. E. Worman, F. A. Turner, H. D. Green and W. A. Rice.

For one year—J. H. Dewart, G. S. Innis, Andrew Gillies and M. S. Rice.

For two years—W. A. Shannon, E. H. Nicholson, J. B. Hingely, C. R. Oaten and T. W. Stout.

For three years—J. W. Powell, J. R. Davies, S. M. Dick, Robert Forbes and M. P. Burns.

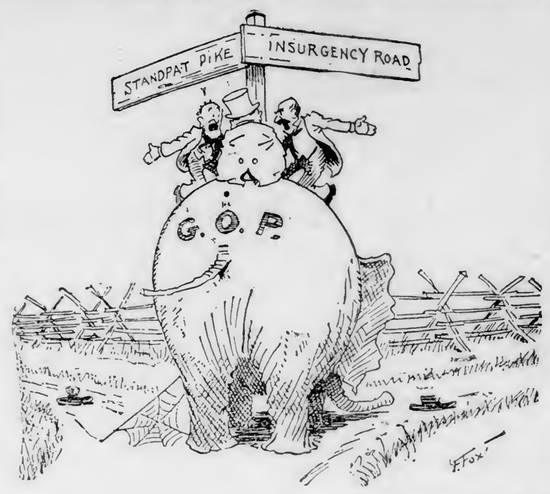

Rev. Charles R. Oaten, secretary of the conference and pastor of the Lester Park, Duluth, church, has been suggested as the pastor of Olivet M. E. church, Minneapolis, but he has decided to remain in Duluth.

The work of the conference committee was begun in good earnest Monday afternoon, the final reports from which will be presented on Saturday, or Monday. The work of the cabinet, which makes the stations for the ministers for the coming year was also commenced. It is almost certain that few changes will occur this year.

Two important anniversaries were held yesterday afternoon. That of the Methodist Brotherhood, at which Rev. Dr. Jordon, pastor of First church, Minneapolis made a stirring address in outlining the splendid opportunity and great responsibility of men in the church. The brotherhood idea is successfully awakening new interest over the country in the work of the church. There followed the anniversary services of the Freedmen's Aid society, an organization whose work is among the colored people of the South. President J. S. Hill of the Morristown university, Morristown, Tenn., spoke in the interests of this cause.

Wednesday evening at the anniversary of the board of foreign missions, the Rev. Andrew Gillies, pastor of the Hennepin Avenue church, Minneapolis, brought the conference to a high pitch of enthusiasm in a characteristic address delivered on the subject of foreign missions. He was followed by Judge Charles A. Pollock of Fargo, N. D., who spoke in the interests of temperance.

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANISM?

—From the Chicago Post.

POPULATION IS 89,000

The Duluth Directory company, which will put out the twenty-ninth annual edition of the city directory next week, estimates the population of Duluth at 89,000.

In the 1910 directory there are 56,163 names. When the federal census was taken in 1900, Duluth had a population of 52,060. At that time, the directory contained 29,013 names. The number of names contained in the directory this year is an increase of 27,150 names. According to the ratio of increase in the names as compared with the population, Duluth would have 49,775 more people than in 1900.

This brings the figure to 102,000, which is the estimate of the directory publishers of the number of people now living in the city proper and its suburbs and other small settlements close by. With a liberal allowance of 13,000 for adjoining suburbs, it leaves the estimated population of the city at 89,000. The estimate last year was 85,321.

John Wanamaker could not make a success of a store in Duluth—either a big or a little store, and in either case with adequate capital—unless he advertised! (And he wouldn't attempt it.)

CANVASS NOT COMPLETE

Official Returns on Primary Election Are Not Yet Available.

Totals Not Expected to Materially Differ From Those Published.

While the county auditor's office has received all the ballots cast at the primary election, and the canvassing board has examined and tabulated all of those cast in the city and in many of the outlying precincts, no totals have been prepared that show any change from the main results announced in The Herald last evening.

The complete story that the ballots have to tell will not be available until tomorrow, when the official figures will be given out. Whatever changes may be made in the unofficial returns, it is not in the least likely that the results will be altered. However, there are possibilities and those candidates who were winners by narrow margins hope that these possibilities will not materialize. Not so their discomfitted opponents, however.

S. W. Gilpin of Virginia, Republican nominee for the probate judgeship, was entering the court house yesterday afternoon, when, in the vestibule, he came face to face with Judge J. B. Middlecoff, his defeated opponent.

They greeted each other cordially, if not affectionately, and beamed upon each other. As a beamer, Gilpin had Middlecoff beaten a sun and two moons.

"Well, I'm going out," said Judge Middlecoff, meaning that he was headed toward Superior street.

"And I, Judge, am going in," replied the still beaming Mr. Gilpin, meaningly and optimistically.

That Judge Middlecoff accepts his defeat gracefully, however, is made very apparent by dis demeanor and expressed sentiment. He gave out the following statement:

"I wish to assure the voters of St. Louis county who supported me during the present campaign that I fully appreciate their vote and everything they did for me. I am defeated by a small majority, but as some one had to lose I take my defeat gracefully and wish to state that I have a very warm spot in my heart for the many loyal supporters who voted and worked so faithfully for me."

John Norton, victor for the third time in the primary race for county attorney, said he was not surprised at the result but had felt certain that the voters would indorse his administration of the office, adding:

"I sincerely thank every one who worked for my election and voted for me. I am also indebted to the press for the consideration which has been given me. I shall make it my endeavor for the coming two years, if I am elected in November, to render the most efficient service possible as county attorney."

There is the usual crop of election bet stories, most of them doleful or exultant, as the identity and luck of the relator may dictate, and some of them amusing to everybody concerned.

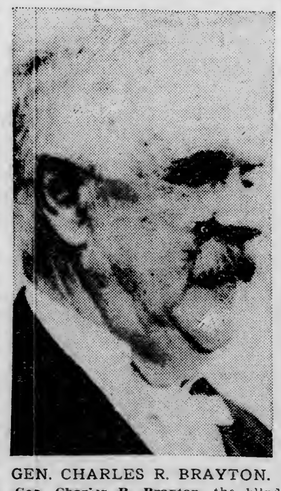

One proposition that was the basis of a bet involved mothers-in-law. One of the parties to the contract was a traveling man; the other a Duluthian, name suppressed by request. The traveling man offered to kiss his mother-in-law every time he met her should Middlecoff win; the Duluthian agreed to be similarly affectionate to his own mother-in-law should Middlecoff lose. The agreement was written out and signed in the presence of witnesses. After losing (or winning?) his bet, the Duluthian learns that his traveler friend, who has cautiously left town, is not married.

Gene Foucoult, 19 Twenty-eighth avenue west, and Theodore Daljelm, 2914 West Third street, had an argument about the respective vote-getting powers of Bates and Melning. The controversy led to an arrangement in accordance with which Daljelm will have a wheelbarrow ride from the Lenox hotel to the city hall and return, the Bates enthusiast supplying the motive power.

Two newspaper workers—not referring to candidates—had a bet on the Norton-Adams fight. As a result, one of them will wear a straw hat on election day, and if walter F. Dacey is not elected county attorney, the other man will eat it for breakfast next morning. At least, that's the bet. And he says he's not used to eating patent breakfast foods.

A whisky salesman offered to bet 200 to 1 on Vail against Boyle, and the saddest man in Duluth is the chap who overheard the boast and didn't have a cent in his jeans or a friend in sight.

LONG TRIP IN A MOTOR BOAT.

Duke Holcombe of Chicago arrived in Duluth today in his thirty-foot gasoline power launch after a run from Chicago. He came here from Calumet and Houghton, Mich., where he visited relatives. He made the run from Chicago to Houghton in ten days. Mr. Holcombe was accompanied by a companion. He built his boat, which probably has established a record for motor boat trips on the Great Lakes. Stormy weather was encountered on almost the entire journey.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM BEING CREMATED.

Ferdinand Wilhelm, an eccentric man who drives a dog team about town and who buys and sell rags, went to sleep in a shack near Twenty-sixth avenue east and Greysolon road last night. The shack caught on fire and was destroyed. Wilhelm escaped without injury except to his whiskers, which were said to have been scorched.

TOP-HEAVY AT THE CLOSE

Wheat Refuses to Be Bulled on French Report and Corn Upturn.

Receipts Light, But Stocks Pile Up---Flax Dull and Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 23.—Wheat, which advanced early in the day in sympathy with corn, the bullish French report and partly because of efforts of the pit element, refused to be bulled and toward the close the market sagged. The current contract closed unchanged at $1.14⅝. December ⅛c off at $1.13⅞ and May was ⅛c off at $1.17⅜.

Flax was weaker. Country offerings were only moderately liberal. Trading was light. September lost 3½c, closing at $2.12½. October closed at $2.67½, 1½c off. November at $2.67 bid, 1½c off and December closed at $2.58 bid, 1½c off. May lost 1c, closing at $2.64.

Cash wheat was on a parity with September. Oats lost ¼c, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum advanced ⅛c.

The trade was extremely narrow today and prices were easily influenced. Values advanced after a nervous opening and the market was strong. Offerings were small and receipts at Northwestern markets were comparatively light. Supplies in the Northwest are increasing rapidly. Stocks at Minneapolis will show an increase of more than 1,000,000 bu and stocks here will show an increase of about 450,000 bu. The cash markets were strong but the volume of trading was comparatively small. The elevators bought moderately. The mills did not appear in need of much stuff and the Eastern milling demand was dead.

Reserves are light in the Northwest and the wheat movement does not promise to be larger than at present. The farmer is holding for higher prices, some people think, and others say that he has very little stuff to hold but that as soon as his fall work is done he probably will complete his thrashing and sit back to await the higher prices that he believes are inevitable.

The French official report was bullish and was one of the principal causes of the firming of prices. The crop of wheat is placed at 262,889,748 bu compared with 355,575,062 bu last year. It is figured that France will be compelled to import 82,000,000 bu of wheat to meet domestic needs.

Weekly Argentine shipments are estimated at 1,128,000 bu against 864 000 bu last week. Arrivals from the interior are liberal but the quality is said to be unsatisfactory. World's shipments as estimated by Broomhall will be heavy this week. He places shipments exclusive of North America at 13,600,000 bu against 11,632,000 bu this week. Of this he estimates that Europe will take 12,800,000 bu. A belated Russian report was an estimate on the Russian crop of 884,000,000 bu for this year, 100,000,000 bu more than a year ago. This estimate is contrary to every report that has been given out on the Russian crop and the trade is at a loss to account for it. The accuracy is doubted. Shipments from Russia have been heavy and continue in a large volume so that there may be more fire than smoke in the report.

The wheat market was bulled by speculators today in the face of news that was generally bearish with the exception of the French report. This report, however, did not tell the trade anything other than they already knew. It is said that the people who are trying to bull the market are holders of most of the cash wheat at Chicago. This theory got some attention from traders who commented on the strength of the Chicago market today. There is not much probability of large receipts from now on and the control of the cash supplies will be an important factor in any bull campaign that may materialize.

There was a little export business in Manitoba but bids on durum wheat were out of line. There has been no export business in durums form this market for some time.

Cash Sales Friday.

Handling charges for all kinds of grain will be higher after Oct. 1. Elevators have posted a change in charges. Including the first fifteen days of storage, the charge will be 1c a bu; after the first fifteen days the storage will be 1-40 of 1c per bu a day. The old charge, including the first fifteen days, was ½c. The advance, say elevator men, is necessary as the receipts promise to be light, and the elevators would not make any money this year at the old rate.

The state weighing and inspection bureau has advanced charges. The state makes the bureau pay for itself, and it expects a light movement of grain this year. After Oct. 1 a charge of 75c will be made for inspecting a car or lot of flax "in" or "out" of store. Inspection of other grains will be 25c. Inspection charges on flax in vessels will be 75c per 1,000 bu, and 40c for other grains. Weighing charges will be 40c for grain "in" and "out" of store, and 40c per 1,000 bu for grain into vessels.

Chicago Tribune: A significant development in regard to the export outlook for wheat is that wherever vessels from Atlantic seaports are chartered to Havre, France, wheat tonnage is obtainable without trouble. The lots of wheat loaded have not been large in all instances, but there have been many loads taken in the aggregate. This would indicate there is a market in France for our wheat.

The enormous shipments of grain from Black sea ports has required a large percentage of the available boats in the ocean carrying business. It is stated that there are few vessels available from our ports during October and none during the remaining weeks in September.

Broomhall cabled—Wheat was ¼@⅝d lower at opening. Strength in America was offset by the fact of Broomhall's forecast of heavy world's shipments this week and that favorable private reports from France. Following opening was very dull, irregular with near months selling slightly lower while distant month was well supported. There was an absence of pressure although there was poor inquiry for parcels and with exceptions of larger arrivals some outside support was in evidence. At mid-day the market dull ⅛@⅜d lower than yesterday. Corn opened unchanged, later advanced ⅛@¼d on strength in American and less pressure to sell distant plate. Australia shipments, 744,000 bu against 1,072,000 bu against 24,000 bu. Weekly world's estimates wheat and flour shipments Monday next, exclusive of North American, 13,000,000 bu against 11,632,000 bu last year, and of this total Europe will take about 12,800,000 bu. Total shipments last week, 14,192,000 bu.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Go Down on World Shipment News.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Predictions of big world shipments pulled down wheat prices today. Cargoes from India, Argentina and Australia made a total of 3,560,000 bu against 216,000 bu for the three countries a year ago. Reports that France was buying on the Pacific coast seemed to have lost effect as a bull influence. The opening was ⅛c lower to ¼c up. December started ⅛c to ¼c down at $1⅝ to ¾, touched $1⅞, and fell to $1⅛.

The French crop report and the strength of corn acted as bullish factors in the wheat market for a while but offerings increased and prices sagged. The close was easy with December ⅜c net lower at $1½.

Wet, rough weather made corn firm. December opened ½c to 5⅞c higher at 51¾c to 52c, reacted to 51¾c to 51⅜c, and rallied to 51⅝c to 51¾c.

Additional strength was attributed to decided falling off in country sales and to reports of export business. The close, however, was weak with December at 51⅝c, precisely the same as last night.

Oats were lifted a trifle by the strength of corn. December at the start was a shade up at 34¾c, receding later to 34⅝c.

Products of hogs weakened under October liquidation, brought on apparently by a little upturn in prices at the opening. First sales were 2½c to 10c higher with the January option at $18.05 for pork, $10.65 for lard and $9.60 for ribs. All of the grain and considerable more disappeared in the ensuing decline.

WOMAN ARCHAEOLOGIST'S WORK.

Mexican Herald: Mrs. Zelia Nuttall, the archaeologist, left last night for Vera Cruz en route to the Isla de Sacrificios. This little island, or coral atoll, lies about three miles from the shore, off the port of Vera Cruz. It is but one mile and a half long by about one-eighth of a mile wide, and its sole vegetation consists of two cocoanut palms. On this dot in the ocean Mrs. Nuttall will reside for some weeks in furtherance of a scientific mission which she has been asked to undertake by the Mexican government.

On a casual visit which she made some years ago to the island Mrs. Nuttall discovered a fragment of an old wall, and upon uncovering it saw that its surface was covered with mural paintings done in red on a white ground. Broad steps were also discovered, buried in the sand, and indications that the buildings extended further.

This find Mrs. Nuttall immediately reported to the government, who showed its interest in the discovery by asking her to continue in the investigations under her own personal supervision and by allowing her a small sum toward defraying the necessary expenses of labor, etc. Mrs. Nuttall, on account of the interest which she feels in all matters pertaining to Mexican archaeology, consented to remain on the island until the ruins have been completely laid bare or until it is proved that the fragments already discovered are the sole remains of what originally was doubtless a large temple.

The only buildings on the island are a lighthouse and a lazaretto, the latter, however, being unoccupied, and in the detached portion of which, formerly, the doctor's quarters, Mrs. Nuttall will live, attended by one maid and a moze. Laborers will be procured from the mainland, and it is hoped that by next week work will be under way.

SHARP DROP IN STOCKS

Feeble Rally After Opening Decline, Followed By Another Break.

Selling Pressure Is Most Effective in the Railroad Group.

New York, Sept. 23.—Prices of stocks relapsed sharply on the opening dealings today, losses registering as much as a large fraction in all the most important issues. Amalgamated fell 1¼ and Southern Pacific, St. Paul and American Beet Sugar 1. Railway Steel Spring sold at an advance of 1¼ over the preceding sale. There was only a meager volume of dealings.

There was a feeble rally after the opening dip, following which there was another severe break in which all of the principal stocks scored losses of a point or more. Selling orders were well distributed, and the pressure was most strong in the railroad group. St. Paul gave way 2, Amalgamated Copper 1⅝, Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Reading 1⅜, Northern Pacific and Tennessee Copper 1¼ and Chesapeake & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, United States Steel and Brooklyn Transit 1. The market hardened a trifle and became dull on the rally.

The depression of the market was ascribed principally to the views by Commissioner Lane at the railroad rate hearing against allowing increases in freight charges. Also disappointment was felt over the insistence by foreign bankers upon guarantees by banks of cotton bills of lading. The weakness of Amalgamated Copper grew out of reported reduction in the asking price of Lake Copper. The market was almost stagnant at the recovery of the second hour. Reading first preferred rose 1½ and the second preferred 1¼. Great Northern Ore certificats fell 1 and Atlantic Coast Line 2. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy and dull. When Reading reacted Amalgamated Copper fell off to below 61. American Sugar lost 1. Interborough Metropolitan preferred was then marked up 2⅝ and Common, 1. United States Pipe preferred rose 1½ and American Telephone, 1. The general list was but little affected.

CROOKSTON MEN USE KNIVES AND IRON BARS; WOMEN SWING CLUBS

Riot Among Assyrians May Result in Death of One Man.

Bloody Fight Follows Weight-Raising and Wrestling Contests.

Third Similar Outbreak That Has Occurred in That City.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—One may die and four others are badly injured as a result of a bloody fight with knives, iron bars, cudgels and other implements, in which men and women in the local Assyrian settlement joined last night.

Five men are in jail, two of them the principals in the fight that started the riot. They are Marshal Soloman, Albert Joseph, Tony Soloman, Joe Harjis and Q. Haded, the first two being the principals in the fight and the most seriously wounded. Marshal Soloman may not survive, and the rest of the prisoners will be held pending the result of his injuries.

Started in Contests.

Excitement in the Assyrian colony is intense and no coherent statement of the affair can be secured, but it evidently started in a weight-lifting contest, in which all the men participated. This led to a wrestling match, and a quarrel and blows quickly followed. Members of the colony took part in the fight, and knives and other weapons were used freely.

Archie McKinnon, a brother of Mayor McKinnon, heard the fighting and shouting and sent in a riot call, and Chief of Police Creamer reached the scene in time to prevent certain murder. All the prisoners are frightfully cut and beaten, but Marshal Soloman is the only one whose wounds seem likely to prove serious.

It is said that the outbreak grew from a feud that was begun in Assyria. It is the third such demonstration in this city, and vigorous prosecutions are promised by the authorities.

TWO NEW DISEASES NOTED BY CENSUS

Infantile Paralysis and Pellagra Appear in the Reports.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The mortality report of the census bureau covering investigations for 1909 takes cognizance of infantile paralysis and pellagra as diseases to which flesh is heir. The record shows 569 deaths of the former and 116 of the latter disease.

The statistics cover only slightly more than half of the population, extending only to states or cities which require the registration of deaths. As comparatively little of the area in which Pellagra is most prevalent is included in the registration section it is suggested that the report on that malady gives an inadequate idea of its real ravages.

Owing to the fact that the deaths from infantile paralysis were widely distributed the inference is drawn by the report that the disease exists either in epidemic or endemic form in many parts of the country.

FRAUD IS LAID TO RAILROAD COMPANY

Revocation of Charter of Chesapeake & Ohio Is Sought.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 24.—Suit was filed in the Cass county circuit court here today asking that a receiver be appointed for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad company and that the charter of the company be revoked and the corporation be dissolved. Fraud is charged in the filing of a recent mortgage.

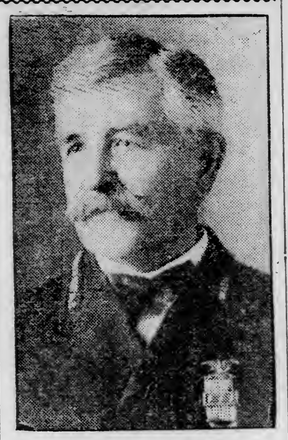

CUSTOMS FRAUD JURY HUNG UP

Judge Refuses to Accept Disagreement Report in New York.

New York, Sept. 24.—After having tried in vain all night to arrive at a verdict, the jury in the customs underweighing fraud case came into the United States circuit court this forenoon and reported a disagreement. Judge Martin declined to accept such a report at this time and sent the jury back for further deliberation.

The defendants in the case are Former Federal Customs Officials Charles N. Wardell, Charles Dewitt Drew and George E. Bedell, charged with having conspired to defraud the government through systematic underweighing of Italian imports.

CHARGED UNFAIRNESS TO OLD SOLDIERS

COL. JOHN McELROY
Of Washington, D. C.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 24.—Col. John McElroy of Washington, D. C., caused a stir in the recent G. A. R. encampment here by charging that misrepresentation and fraud had been used to defeat him as commander-in-chief. He withdrew after making the charges, but some friends insisted on voting for him against John E. Gilman of Boston, who was elected.

HADLEY NOT A CANDIDATE

Declines to Fight for Senatorship, Expecting Democratic Success.

Republicans May Possibly Elect an Insurgent in Kansas City.

By Willis J. Abbot.
(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 24. — (Special to The Herald.)—Out in Jefferson City, which I have just left, there is a decidedly live wire in the person of Governor Hadley, the present Republican incumbent. There are few men in public life who impress one who has studied public men as he does. If he were the candidate or had permitted himself to become the candidate for senator on the Republican ticket, I would not be quite so confident as I am today that the Democratic party will win Senator Warner's seat.

I asked him why he had refused. "For two reasons," said he. "First, I agreed to undertake a certain piece of work in the state of Missouri which involved a four years' contract. It does not seem to me that it would be proper for me to retire before completing that contract. Second, I doubt very much whether with the apparent sweep of Democratic sentiment throughout the country, we could elect a Republican senator this year. I am not wedded to the governor's office, but it would seem to me the part of folly to retire from it to undertake a

NEW REGENT FOR PERSIAN THRONE

Nasir ul Mulk Chosen to Rule for the Boy Shah.

Teheran, Persia, Sept. 24.—The Mejlis national council today elected Nasir ul Mulk, former premier and minister of finance, regent, to succeed Azad ul Mulk, who died on Thursday.

The present shah of Persia, Ahmed Mirza, is a youth of 13 years. He succeeded to the throne July 16, 1909, on the dethronement of his father, Mohammed Ali. Being a minor, it was necessary to appoint a regent, and this post was given to Azad ul Mulk, who had been minister of education in a previous cabinet. Azad ul Mulk was head of the well-known Kajar family.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED.

Shock Is Reported to Have Been Felt in Arizona.

Washington, Sept. 24.—An earthquake was recorded by the seismograph of the seismological observatory of Georgetown university last night. The preliminary tremors began at 10:36 o'clock and continued until 10:46. There followed a series of shocks lasting until 11:01. At 11:28 there was a shock of one minute's duration. The earthquake was probably that reported from Arizona, as the instruments indicated a distance of about 2,000 miles to the southwest.

AIR IS NOT CONQUERED

Aviators Say Problem of How to Land Safely Is Not Solved.

Chavez's Accident Discussed By Bird Men---He Is Badly Hurt.

Paris, Sept. 24—Darius Green's statement that "lighting" is the hardest part of flying holds good today, according to aviators here. The old problem of how to come down safely is yet to be solved by navigators of the air. This is emphasized by the accident to Chavez yesterday. The French aviators and constructors are intensely interested to discover the exact cause of the Peruvian's mishap which they consider is proof positive of a weakness of construction in aeroplanes which must be corrected.

According to the accounts of experts printed here today, a wire snapped, permitting the wings to collapse as Chavez re-started his motor after having planed down a distance of more than half a mile. His speed as he approached the aerodrome is estimated at fully sixty-eight miles an hour.

Caused Three Deaths.

The constructors agree that the glide earthward after the motor had been stopped subjected the stays of the wings to a tremendous strain, and they believe Chavez's machine gave way when suddenly put to the extra tension caused by the restarting of the

WILSON'S OPPONENT AT NEW JERSEY POLLS

VIVIAN M. LEWIS.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 24.—The Republicans nominated Vivian M. Lewis, banker and insurance commissioner, to oppose Woodrow Wilson for governor of New Jersey. Mr. Lewis' nomination was unanimous.

PRIMARY DAY FOR OREGON

Republican Ballot Is Divided Among Many Factions.

Democrats' Only Contest Is on Nominee for Governor.

Portland, Or., Sept. 24. — Republican and Democratic primaries are in progress today for the nomination of complete congressional, state and county tickets, but the Democrats offer candidates for but few offices and over only one, the governorship, is there any semblance of a contest. The Republican ticket is a hodgepodge of so-called "assembly," "anti-assembly," "uninsurgent," "statement No. 1" and other unclassed candidates.

The "assembly" candidates are the avowed enemies of the "statement No. 1," who have declared war on the so-called "Oregon system" of pledging legislative candidates to vote for the United States senators regardless of the candidates' party affiliation. These

ASK PARDON FOR WALSH

Thousands Appeal to President Taft---Bank Depositors Among Them.

Aged Chicagoan Is Said to Be Liable to Die Any Moment.

Washington, Sept. 24.—A petition to President Taft for the pardon of John R. Walsh, the former president of the Chicago National Bank, from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., was filed at the department of justice today by Attorney George T. Buckingham of Chicago, on behalf of Mary L. Walsh, Richard W. Walsh and John W. Walsh, the wife and sons of the prisoner.

Accompanying the formal application were thousands of letters from individuals in Chicago and throughout the Middle West, urging President Taft to grant the petition.

Besides letters from personal friends and business associates there were others from the bank's stockholders and depositors and from the jurors who found Walsh guilty of misappropriating funds of his banks.

Walsh is 73 years old and the main motive in the appeal to President Taft is based on the prisoner's failing health. He is reported as suffering from acute heart disease and physicians affirm in the petition that he is likely to die at any moment.

PATTERSON DENIES HE HAS "MACHINE"

Tennessee Governor Issues Reply to Hooper's Charges.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 24.—In an interview published today, Governor Patterson replies to the charges recently made by Capt. B. W. Hooper, Republican candidate for governor in East Tennessee. The following extracts are taken from the interview:

"He (Hooper) repeats the charges about a machine, when there is not an election officer or commissioner in the entire state under my control, a fact which he and others well know.

"I now state that he (Hooper) proffered a petition for pardon to me as governor to release one Knowles, convicted of manslaughter, and placed it upon the ground that Knowles had been unjustly convicted and was, in fact, innocent of any crime."

SIX SWEPT TO DEATH WHEN AUTOMOBILE IS PLUNGED INTO WATER

Car Plunges Into Canal Beside Road at New Orleans.

Three Bodies Have Been Recovered---Workman Tells of Accident.

Perfumery Salesman and Unknown Woman Two of the Victims.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 24.—Six persons are believed to have been drowned when a large touring car returning from West end, a lake resort, to New Orleans this morning ran off the road, crashed through a fence and fell into a canal. Three of the bodies have been recovered and two have been identified as those of John Freeman of New York city and Thomas Boettler of New Orleans. The third is that of a woman apparently about 25 years old. Freeman was a traveling salesman for a New York perfumery manufacturing company and had been stopping at a local hotel for several days.

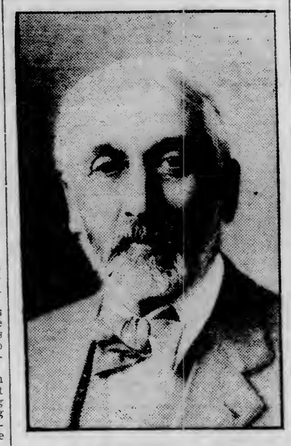

The car left West end shortly before daylight and is believed to have had six or seven occupants. Waiters at a West end restaurant said the car was driven by Boettler, an automobile dealer, former proprietor of the Oak hotel in New Orleans. He had two women and three or four men as his guests.

Running at High Speed.

A workman passing along the shell road which connects New Orleans with West end and which runs parallel with what is known as the New Basin canal, said the car was running at such a high speed that he could not see how many occupants it contained. A few seconds later he saw the car swerve to one side of the road and plunge into the canal. He ran toward the spot and made out the figure of one man attempting to swim ashore, but before he could reach the bank the man sank.

Apparatus belonging to a wrecking company was taken to the canal. The car will be hoisted to the surface and divers sent down in an effort to recover the other bodies. The bodies recovered were taken to the morgue, but Freeman's was immediately claimed by friends and probably will be shipped to New York.

THIEVES SET HOUSE AFIRE

Steal Jewels, Silverware and Rugs and Then Burn $50,000 Home.

Force Owner to Lie in Bed While They Put Loot in Wagon.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Burglars burned up the $50,000 home of W. E. Muse, a Hinsdale attorney, early this morning, after stealing thousands of dollars' worth of silverware, jewelry, and expensive rugs and tapestry, according to the owner's report to the police after the fire.

The thieves loaded the plunder into an express wayon, he claims, then set fire to the house and prepared to fire an adjacent barn, but fled without having done so. Muse was alone in the house, the domestics having gone with Mrs. Muse on her summer's vacation.

The attorney claims he was forced by one of the burglars to lie in bed while the others carried out the property. The flames had such headway they could not be extinguished when he finally called the fire department.

GERMANY HAS THOUSANDS IDLE

Serious Industrial Situation From Strikes and Lockouts.

Berlin, Sept 24.—German industry is seriously disturbed by strikes and lockouts. Unless the disputes can be ended within the next few days 700,000 workmen will be idle.

Announcement was made today that negotiations would begin on Monday between the Association of Metal Employers and the Metal Trade Workers. The total number of metal workers is close to 600,000. They have been financially assisting the striking shipbuilders, and in order to cut off this aid the Association of Metal Employers recently decided to lock out 60 per cent of its men unless the ship builders returned to work prior to Oct. 5. In retaliation the employes voted to declare a strike of the other 40 per cent in the event that the threatened lockout was enforced.

Textile manufacturers of several cities have notified 25,000 employes that their mills will be shut down on Oct. 5 unless the striking spinners at Forst return to work next Tuesday. The 40,000 striking ship builders show no signs of weakening. The managing committee of the Socialist party is aiding in the support of the idle men.

THE YEAR'S WORK IN THE DULUTH JUVENILE COURT

Annual Report Shows What Is Being Accomplished There.

Parents Learning to Look Upon Judge as Adviser and Friend.

That the Duluth juvenile court is doing a big work is proven by the annual report just completed. The report covers the year past, up to June 1910.

During the year 141 cases have been brought before the court. In all there have been 235 children in court for various causes.

Judge Ensign, who has presided over the court every Saturday morning since the court was established, five years ago, believes in reforming the children without sending them to state institutions if possible. In other words he believes in making them behave without the severe lesson they get at the state school.

By having them report to him each Saturday morning he has done wonders in this line. The state school is now tried only as a last resort.

The court, too, is being looked upon differently by parents. There was a time when both the children and their parents dreaded and feared it. They thought it was organized to make them trouble. Now they see things differently. They realize that it was organized to help them. They no longer fear it. Parents bring their children into the court and talk calmly over the troubles of the children. They ask the advice of the judge and he is always willing to devote time to the case no matter how small it happens to be. The parents meet with Judge Ensign and the children as well as the parents find that he is their friend. Many boys and girls who have been discharged from parole after having demonstrated that they can and will make good, go regularly to visit Judge Ensign because they wish to tell him their troubles and desire his help.

A Meeting Place.

The juvenile court, at the present time, is a meeting place for parents and the court to discuss cases and determine the best way out. There is a thorough understanding and an absence of fear.

No child is send to the state school who has not been given every chance to make good at home. Judge Ensign is strongly against action of this kind until all other resources have been exhausted. Many girls and boys are required to bring to court each Saturday morning written statements from their teacher telling how their attendance and lessons have been. If the report is good they are warmly congratulated by the judge and encouraged to continue the good work. If the report is poor the reason is determined and the student extended help and encouraged to do better.

During the present year there have been 136 on parole. Of this number 128 have been boys. The other eight were girls. Twenty-eight boys have been sentenced to the state training school. Twenty-one of these children were boys and the other seven were girls. Sentence has in a great number of instances been suspended during good behavior.

Some of the charges on which the youths of Duluth have been brought before the court follow: Incorrigibility, larceny, disorderly conduct, assault, sweeping wheat, truancy, destroying property, placing obstructions on street car tracks, trespass, burglary, associating with immoral persons, breaking into box cars and breaking into buildings with intent to commit a wrong.

Duluth children are good school attendants. During the year only two were before the court on a charge of truancy.

During the last five years 715 cases have been handled by the juvenile court. In all there have been 1,158 children in court.

MEET NEXT IN MINNEAPOLIS

Northern Minnesota Methodists Indorse County Option.

Hear the "Vatican Incident" and Other Matters.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Methodist conference in session today gave its most hearty endorsement to Asbury hospital, Minneapolis and pledged its hearty support to this institution.

Rev. E. C. Clemans, D.D., one of the representatives of the anti-saloon league addressed the conference and spoke of the rapid strides being made in the interest of temperance. This is the first time in the history of the conference that its sessions have been held in a dry town. He repudiated the report that the anti-saloon question had met defeat in the primaries and predicted a victory for the county option bill.

Rev. Dr. Forbes, who is now the oldest effective member of the conference made an address referring to the great advances by the M. E. church in this territory since he entered it forty years ago.

By a rising vote the conference unanimously pledged its support to the county option measure in the following resolution: Resolved, That this conference hereby express its indorsement of county option and that we urge all our people to maintain the principlo by their ballots at the coming election.

The following class of young men were admitted on trial in the conference—Henry Holme, John W. Schenck, L. L. Litchfield, R. B. Walker, C. I. Mason, J. H. Sollon, George C. Fenske. The conference unanimously voted to meet next year in the Hennepin Avenue M. E. church, Minneapolis.

Vatican Incident.

At a session of the conference Chancellor Hamilton of the American university at Washington, D. C., delivered a most remarkable address. He made a clear statement of the controversy over the now well known "Vatican Incident." The conference was stirred under his words as it has not been since the session began. He said in part: "The American university has ninety-five acres on one of the most popular avenues in the city of Washington. It has property valued at over $2,000,000. It is seeking to raise $2,000,000, $500,000 of which is to be used for the immediate opening of the university. The unique opportunities open for this great university at Washington are being appreciated more and more. The head of one of the chief bureaus of the government at Washington declares that the possibilities for educational work at the capitol through the existence of these government bureaus, institutions, museums, etc., are greater than would be possible in a university with an endowment of $100,000,000. These collections of the government at Washington have cast it over $900,000,000, and each year from six to eight millions additional. By act of congress these educational resources have been thrown open to the free use of every student who shall matriculate under the charter of the American university.

It is also being seen that there is an increasing need for the foundation at Washington of a university which shall be distinctively under Protestant influences. Education in this country today is confronted on the one hand by the influence of secularism, and on the other by the Roman church theory of education, and it behooves us to maintain between these two extremes a system of education which shall uphold the Christian ideals. There is poetic justice in the fact that some schools which have been reared by the Christian church, should have failed in their effort to get secular money. Under the lure of such money they have "tinkered" their charters and sold out the church and then found when they have come forward to get the money through secular channels that they were unable to secure it, but this institution which the Methodist church is founding there will never, for the bribe of secularism, haul down the sign of the cross.

Recent events have forced the Methodist church in the position as the protagonists of Protestantism. This has not been of her seeking. The Roman Catholic people maintain that the struggle for the spiritual leadership in America has narrowed down to the Roman Catholic church on the one hand and the Methodist Episcopal church on the other. They have now a well defined plan for securing the headship in this country and of Romanizing America. Proofs of this are multiplying every day, as Prof. Fisher of Yale university declares. "The only church which they fear will block their plan is the church which has the three things they most dread, number, organization and aggressiveness, and these things are marks of Methodism."

Two recent gleaming illustrations of the attitude of the Roman church toward Methodism are seen in the case of Mr. Fairbanks, late vice president of the United States, who was refused an audience with the Pope unless he promised not to meet with the Methodists in Rome. But Mr. Fairbanks refused any such dictation and left Rome as a noble representative of Methodism and also of true Americanism. Later, another man was told while on his way to Rome that unless he kept away from the Methodists he could not be received at the Vatican. It was intimated that he might meet with the other Protestant bodies of Rome, but not with the Methodists, and the reply of this man was a fulfillment of his own spirit of Americanism, and he has been lifted thereby to a yet higher level in the love and admiration of the American people. The Catholic people are seeking to recoup themselves in America for their losses abroad. The various countries of Europe are registering the loss of influence of the Papal church. To offset this they have found America an open door, and they are concentrating for this at Washington. But, our purpose is to plant at the national capitol an institution of learning that shall stand for the light and learning once delivered to the Reformers, and which has inspired Protestant America.

Dr. Forbes Talks.

At the evening session the address of the occasion was made by Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D., of Philadelphia, corresponding secretary of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension. Dr. Forbes is probably one of the best known clergymen in the country today. He is a member of the Northern Minnesota conference, although his present headquarters is in the East, on account of the responsible position which he occupies. Under his administration of the affairs of the board of which he is the secretary, it has made great strides of advancement. In his address the doctor, among other things, said: "The Board of Home Missions and Church Extension is an organization which exists for the purpose of forwarding the interests of the Methodist Episcopal church everywhere under the flag. Its benefactions are in every state and territory of the Union, and in Porto Rico and Hawaii. The Methodist Episcopal church is the greatest branch of Methodism in the United States. It has aided in the erection of 15,000, or more than half, of the churches in the denomination. It is now aiding in the support of about 4,000 missionaries. The providential call is for the evangelization of America in the interests of patriotism, Christianity, as well as world-wide evangelism, for the evangelization of America means the evangelization of all nations. If we should fail in the evangelization of the home land, in vain would we attempt the evangelization of the foreign lands. In America there are three people outside the evangelical churches for every one within. The time has come when we must think in continents and speak in millions. The day is past when we can any longer depend on mite boxes and 10-cent contributions. Methodism has a creed which needs no apology, and doctrines that need not to be explained away, and a polity that adapts itself to every condition. It is at home among the scholars, and alike perfectly at ease among the humblest and most illiterate. It has no quarrel with any sect, but has a league offensive with every one who believes in Jesus Christ. Judging the future from the past, America's redemption will speedily be accomplished. When this is realized every Board of Home Missions in the country may surrender its charter and go out of business, and then we shall have only begun the evangelization of the other nations through the different Boards of Foreign Missions of the Protestant church. Missionary enthusiasm should not expend itself on far-off fields and distant lands, but should give special emphasis to the work at our own doors. God in His providence is sending 1,000,000 foreigners to this country every year, so that the problem of the evangelization of foreign lands is thus simplified. The public schools, the secular press and the religious press are in full fellowship with the church. The children of these foreigners become good American citizens, and speak our language, and they and their children will be the best missionaries to the lands beyond the sea."

Alfred Merritt and J. Wells Smith of Duluth have sold 240 acres of iron lands in Lyons and Storey counties, Nev., near the California boundary, to the Western Steel corporation for $200,000.

Mr. Merritt and Mr. Smith were equal owners of the property which contains 14,000,000 tons of hematite ore averaging about 60 per cent iron. DOWNFALL DUE TO LOVE OF FINERY

Young Woman Charged With Stealing to Buy Clothes.

Gertrude Warnberg, arrested yesterday afternoon for the Virginia authorities, who hold a warrant charging her with the theft of $34 from her former employer, was taken back to the range city today. She is 21 years old and has been working as a cook.

Becoming tired of what she considered a humdrum existence, it is claimed that she took the money to try a change, not realizing that her act might result seriously to herself. The chief cause of the theft is claimed to have been a love of fine clothes. She reached Duluth yesterday morning and about the first thing she did was to visit several of the larger stores for the purpose of fitting herself out with finery. She purchased goods of bright colors, pretty ribbons and other articles that appealed to her eye. Among other things she had a large hat of bright blue, trimmed with long plumes and shiny metal pieces. She was arrested on Superior street by Patrolman Oscar Olson, who recognized her from the description furnished by the range authorities. Except for the hat, her wearing apparel was unchanged, the time having evidently been too short.

GIRL'S DEFENDER IS ASSAULTED

W. H. Norton Beaten While Protecting Young Woman From Insult.

W. H. Norton of 24 East Second street alleges that when he interfered to prevent John Rickard from forcing his attentions upon Miss Rose Weiler of 120 East Third street, at the Lincoln park roller rink, Rickard and his brother, Ernest, assaulted him.

Norton swore out a warrant for the brothers' arrest yesterday and this morning they were arraigned in police court. The complaint states that they beat and bruised him without due provocation. The defendants were arrested by Lieut. Wilcox of West Duluth at their home, 3723 Oneota street.

John Rickard endered a plea of guilty and Ernest Rickard denied the allegations. The latter's case was set for trial Tuesday afternoon and that of his brother will be disposed of at the same time.

It appears that Norton, who is a well known young man in the city, had escorted Miss Weiler to the rink. It is claimed that he had just left Miss Weiler to skate with another friend, and that she continued alone. Shortly afterwards it is asserted that John Rickard approached her and attempted to induce her to continue the skate with him, despite the fact that he had never met her. Norton noticed her resent his attentions and went to her assistance, whereupon it is claimed that the brothers assaulted him.

A VERDICT FOR INJURED MAN

A jury in district court this morning returned a verdict of $1,200 in favor of Robert Lehikoinen, who has been suing the Duluth Crushed Stone company for injuries alleged to have been sustained while he was in the employ of the company during the summer of 1909.

Lehikoinen sued for $5,000. He claimed that he was employed in the company's quarry. A fellow employe who was working on top of a huge pile of stone loosened a huge boulder which Lehikoinen claimed fell upon him.

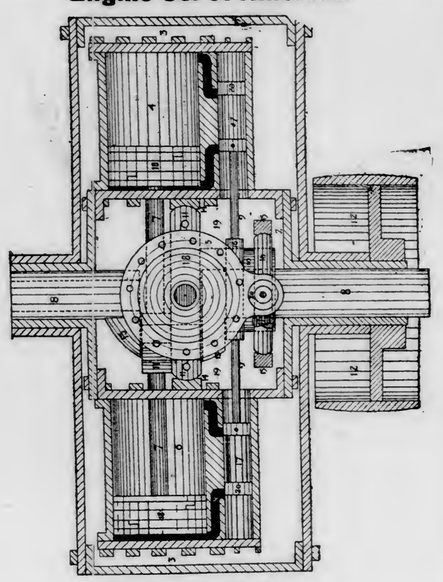

His leg was broken in two places, he claimed, and he suffered other injuries.

The case has been on in district court for several days past.

Figure 1 is a vertical sectional view taken on a line with the shaft (8), (1) is a outer cylindrical casing. Arranged in the outer casing (1) is a stationary shaft (8) in which is formed a crank (13), one end of shaft (8)) is tubular and its outer end is connected to steam supply whereby steam is admitted to cylinders from space (19) through steam chest (17). Revolubly mounted on shaft (8) is an inner casing (2) which is rectangular in form and provided on its opposite ends with tubular extensions or hubs (21) which project through, and are revolubly mounted on bearings (23) formed on the opposite sides of outer casing (1) on the end of extended hub (21) is fixedly mounted a drive wheel (12). Secured to the opposite sides of inner casing (2) is a series of cylinders (4, 5 and 6) are shown there is another cylinder directly opposite (5); the cylinders are arranged in pairs directly opposite each other. In each cylinder are piston heads (18) which are connected by piston rods (7) to links (11), which are slidably engaged to links (14) arranged on inner side of casing (2). Steam enters through hollow end of shaft (8) and fills space (19) and passes into steam chest (17) and is there cut off and expanded in the cylinders and when the exhaust escapes from the exhaust outlet (B) it is converted into POWER. Now we go farther than that. We have alternately arranged BLADES on the Casing (1) and cylinders, so arranged that when the exhaust escapes from the outlet (B) it strikes a stationary blade (X) and is diverted to moving blades (XX), which are mounted on Cylinders. Therefore it is plain to see that we have A HIGH-CLASS AUTOMATIC ENGINE which has NO RECIPROCATING PARTS and a LOW PRESSURE TURBINE ALL IN ONE UNIT.

OLD WHEELER HOME, BUILT IN 1855.

What is claimed to be Duluth's oldest house is at Oneota, and is now being used as a place of residence by the family of Charles Johnson, who four years ago bought the property. It is located on Magellan street near Forty-fifth avenue west and was built first in the fall of 1855. Later it was rebuilt in 1860.

Associated with the history of the house is the story of the hardships of pioneer life at the Head of the Lakes. The old structure for a number of years was the home of the Wheeler family. H. W. Wheeler, one of the earliest settlers of Oneota, built a log house on the site in 1855 and in the 60's tore it down, saved the logs and with the lumber, rebuilt the frame house, which is still standing.

Having been erected before the townsite of Oneota was platted, and when there were only two other houses in that vicinity, the structure had to be moved a few feet when the streets were laid out, because the ten-foot line ran through the house. The lumber and the shingles in the house were sawed at the old Oneota mill.

All but three of the Wheeler family of Oneota were born in this house. Bert N. Wheeler, the youngest of the boys, says that he can remember an old trail which used to lead down to the bay front through the pine trees, which were plentiful at Oneota at one time. He also recalls that the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Merritt took place in this house.

It is a debatable question, according to Mr. Wheeler, whether the first settlement was on Lake avenue, then known as Duluth proper, or at Oneota. Old residents, who lived here in the 50's, say that there were two or three grog shops and a couple of residences on Lake avenue about the same time that the first Oneota houses were put up.

AVENUE IN BAD CONDITION

Commercial Club Will Try to Have Grand Avenue Repaired.

M. J. Murray, secretary of the West Duluth Commercial club was last evening instructed by the club to call attention to the city officials in a communication to the council of the disgraceful condition of Grand avenue and West Third street, the main thoroughfare between West Duluth and the West end.

The club claims that the street has been neglected by the city during the past few years and will request that the council take some action in having it repaired.

That the officials of the Western Curling club are not standing in the way of a free skating rink at West Duluth was clearly emphasized last evening at the Commercial club meeting by George J. Mallory, a prominent member of the curling organization.

He spoke in favor of the free skating rink proposition and a number of other speakers favored.

A committee comprising P. H. Martin, Louis Ramstad and E. J. Zauft was appointed to interview the officials of the Soo road with the idea of ascertaining just what the intentions of the company are in the matter of living up to the terms of the Wisconsin Central franchise, which calls for a station at West Duluth.

In line with the efforts of two West end cemetery associations to secure a funeral car on the street railway lines and the extension of the street cars to Hermantown cemeteries was the request made last evening of the Duluth Street Railway company.

A resolution was passed asking that the company put on a funeral car. It was pointed out that the distance to the cemeteries is great and the expense of carriages heavy. The cars are used in other cities. A committee comprising Rev. H. J. P. Selinger, W. H. Richter and A. H. Merriman will bring the matter to the attention of the traction company officials.

Youth Is Incorrigible.

E. B. Young, 18-years-old, couldn't resist the temptation to make disrespectful grimaces at the officers who warned him off the elevator property in the West end, where it is alleged he made a practice of sweeping wheat. The special policemen said that they couldn't do anything with him, and they claimed that he was beyond the control of his parents. It was stated that his father had reported to the juvenile court that he could do nothing with him. He pleaded guilty to trespass and was fined $5 and costs, or ten days in the county jail.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

MOTOR BOAT RACES ARE RESUMED.

New York, Sept. 24.—The National Motorboat carnival on the Hudson river was resumed today and the race committee this afternoon will figure the winners in each class of the three days' series on points. Many accidents were caused yesterday by boats colliding with drift logs and there was plenty of floating timber in evidence again today.

On points up to date in the seven classes, the following boats lead: Tartar, Restless, Edith II, Avis, Spindrift, Kathmar and Imp.

FIRST COLLEGE FOOTBALL GAMES.

New York, Sept. 24.—More than the interest ordinarily attending the opening of a football season attached to the playing today of the first games by representative college elevens. How the new rules would work out in practice was a question that followers of the sport expect to be answered.

Pennsylvania was the only one of the large Eastern colleges with a game on its schedule. The Pennsylvanians were scheduled to play Ursinus at Philadelphia. Another game in Pennsylvania was between Carlisle and Villa Nova at Harrisburg. Other games scheduled are: Syracuse vs. St. Bonaventure at Syracuse; Bates vs. Exeter at Exeter; Bowdoin vs. Ft. McKinley at Brunswick, Me.; Aggies vs. Rhode Island State at Amherst, and Virginia vs. William and Mary at Charlottesville.

CHICKEN THIEVES HELD RESPONSIBLE

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.) — Chicken thieves are thought to be responsible for a fire which occurred here late last evening when the chicken house with 225 fine chickens and the milk house on Louis Leimers' farm three miles from town were destroyed. The milk house was ten feet from the farm house, which is one of the finest homes in this locality, and had it not been for the private system of water works on the farm the home would have gone up in smoke. Just before the fire Leimer's dog made a furious disturbance, but investigation disclosed nothing. Ten minutes later they smelled smoke. Chicken thieves have been bothering the farmers considerably.

RAILROADS

ANNUAL REPORT OF C. B. & Q.

Net Operating Revenue Given as $22,481,836.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The annual report of the condition of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad for the year ending June 30 last snows a total operating revnue of $87,869,517, a total operating expense of $63,010,964 and a net operating revenue of $24,856,552.

Outside operations, including losses in restaurant and dining car services and taxes, cut the net operating revenue to an operating income of $22,481,836. The total operating revenue is more than $9,250,000 greater than that of the year ending June 30, 1909.

GRAIN RATES SUSPENDED.

Washington, Sept. 24.—An order has been issued by the interstate commerce commission suspending proposed advances on grain rates from points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Minnesota, destined to stations in other states along the line of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway company.

MAY DELAY CANADIAN MOVEMENT OF WHEAT.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—Conditions which threaten seriously to delay transportation for this year's wheat crop from Northern Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan are the subject of conferences being held between officials of the Dominion government and the National Trans-Continental railway. Difficulties have arisen over completion of that railroad's Winnipeg-Superior junction branch 250 miles in length, to link the Grand Trunk Pacific branch line westward from Fort William, with its main line through the prairies.

HOW IT WAS.

Congressman Hobson, at a dinner in Washington, said of the Japanese spies captured in the Philippines:

"Their explanations are ingenious, but not quite satisfactory. Their explanation reminded me of young Jones.

"Young Jones was accosted in front of the Greenboro drug store by the minister, who said,

"'Mr. Jones, I noticed that last Sunday you got up and left the church in the middle of my sermon. This pained me deeply. I hope you have some suitable explanation to offer?'

"'Oh, yes, sir,' said Jones, with an easy smile. 'I thought you knew, sir, that since infancy I've been a somnambulist.'"

OF COURSE NOT, BUT—

Henry E. Dixie, apropos of the recent insurance scandals at Albany, said with a smile:

"Have you heard the yarn they're telling about President X of the Y Insurance company?

"Mrs. X came home the other night, slapped his hat on the table, did a double shuffle, and cried to his wife:

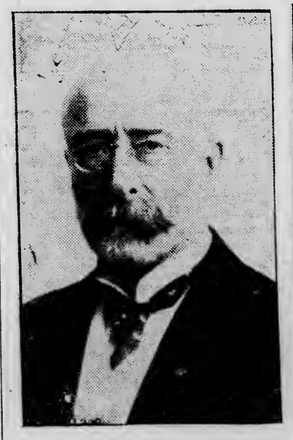

"'My dear, our fortune's made. That piece of insurance legislation has at last been passed in Albany.'

"'Honestly?' excalmed his wife, overjoyed.

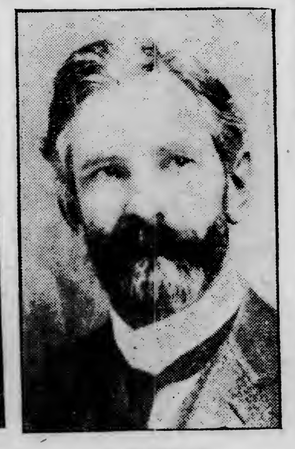

"X frowned.

"'What's that got to do with it?' he growled."

HARMON HITS THE TARIFF

Ohio Governor Denounces Republican Action as Plain Deceit.

Refuses to See Sufficient Remedy for Evils in Commission.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 24.—In his speech at the Democratic state campaign opening here today Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio spoke in part as follows:

"Congress is now appropriating a billion dollars at each session, every cent of which is levied on the people of the country by taxation in some form. And it is confessed that extravagance and mismanagement cause a waste of not less than $300,000,000 each year in the ordinary conduct of the government, which is more than the combined expenditures of all the states in the Union.

"It is surely time the people should bestir themselves in this matter, for every one of them is compelled to pay federal taxes on almost everything he buys, for consumption or other use, whether he owns property subject to state and local taxation or not.

Result of Tariff.

"And every one is not only compelled to contribute to this enormous outlay of the federal government, but is made to pay a much greater amount in the shape of increased prices on goods made in this country, because of a tariff law framed for the express purpose of making him do this to swell the profits of manufacturers.

"The people were long deceived about this, but they were so aroused by the awakening, which came at last, that the Republican leaders were forced to promise prompt relief by reducing the tariff taxes. A special session of congress was called to make the promise good. How they did it has been told by many Republican members of high standing and authority.

How Promise Was Kept.

"These men have shown how slight reductions were made where they would give the people no relief, but furnish a basis for the misleading use of figures; how, by artful phrases, whose meaning and effect were not generally understood, pretended reductions are a real increase, especially on the cheaper qualities of goods used by citizens of small means; how the performance was evasion and deceit dictated by the very interests from whose opposition the people of the country were led to expect release.

"After vain attempts to pass off the new tariff bill as the keeping of faith, by bad argument and stout assertion, it is virtually confessed that it was not. And the promise to reduce the tariff taxes so as to give relief has now been referred to a commission, to decide at some future time whether it shall be kept or not.

One Course For Voters.

"There is plainly but one way opened to the voters, either to administer a rebuke or to secure a redress, and that it is by electing Democrats to represent them in the making of national laws."

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Some of the Senate Leaders Fare Ill at the Hands of Their Constituents—Among Them Being Peterson, Campbell, Canfield, Seward, McColl and McGowan—Meining Fails to Consult Jesmore's Wishes.

As the returns come in, it is learned that a number of men prominent and powerful in the last state senate will not be members of that body next January. Among them are: C. A. Johnson of St. Peter, F. H. Peterson of Moorhead, A. S. Campbell of Austin, S. F. Alderman of Brainerd, Virgil B. Seward of Marshall, E. H. Canfield of Luverne, John T. McGowan of Minneapolis and Henry McColl of St. Paul. McGowan and McColl are Democrats and were defeated for renomination by N. A. L'Herault and James Handlan, respectively. Handlan has been a member of the house several terms, but L'Herault is new to the legislative game. Handlan will be opposed by Dr. Carl Wirth, who several years ago was a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor of St. Paul and was defeated by Joseph McKibbin.

Senate Leaders Let Out by Their Districts.

Seward was beaten by Olal A. Lende of Marshall, a county optionist.

J. D. Sullivan of St. Cloud displaces J. E. C. Robinson as the Democratic candidate for the senate in the St. Cloud-Benton county district after a spirited contest, which became so bitter that a Republican entered the field. He is A. C. Cooper.

By his defeat in his contest with A. D. Stephens for the Republican nomination for the senate, John Sougstad has been eliminated from the legislative who's-who, and Albert Berg, former secretary of state, who had been picked to win against A. L. Hanson of Ada, lost his fight, although it was at first reported he was the winner. Clearwater county came to Hanson's rescue and put Berg out of the running.

Elmer Kling of Little Falls, who was considered a strong speakership possibility, failed to land the nomination, but H. H. Dunn of Albert Lea, J. N. Johnson of Canby, John G. Lennon of Minneapolis, and J. A. A. Burnquist of St. Paul landed. G. Erickson of Canby, formerly a member of the house, may file as an independent against Johnson, it is reported, and Dunn will be strongly opposed by the county option candidate.

Benjamin Taylor, nominated in Blue Earth county for senator on the Republican ticket, is being hailed at Mankato as the Moses who will lead the Republicans of the district into senatorial power, but as his opponent is S. D. Works, Democratic candidate for re-election, his task is a difficult one. It is said of Mr. Taylor that he stands without hitching. He is a native of Minneapolis and his father once was a partner of C. A. Pillsbury.

S. B. Bedford of Rushmore, Nobles county, in the Fifteenth district, will have as his Democratic opponent A. J. Schaeffer of Adrian, who is conceded to be one of the ablest and most thoroughly informed men in the field for legislative honors in the state.

Eveleth is about the chestiest burg this side of Three Oaks, Mich. Of course, Eveleth has a lot to be proud about, and civic patriotism is commended by all who run across some specimens of it. There comes to the state press desk a nugget of civic pride and exaltation that is 100-plus per cent pure, and it was mined in the primaries of Tuesday. The Eveleth News, in startlingly large type, makes this proclamation:

Eveleth News Does Some Crowing.

A SMALL DOT ON THE MAP.

In the Imperial and Grand Old County of St. Louis Is EVELETH.

But There Is More Than Reasonable Ground to Believe It Is the Home of the Next State Treasurer, State Senator, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners and County Superintendent of Schools.

A TRIBUTE TO CITY'S PERSONNEL.

Definite Known Winners Are Miller for Congress, Boyle for the Senate, Knapp and Healy for Representatives, Halden for Auditor, Melning for Sheriff, McCuen for Coroner and Young for Superintendent.

Vote for Boyle Will Be Two to One Over Senator Vall—Miller Will Have 3,000 majority in This County, Nearly 10,000 in District—McInnis Has at Least 500 Plurality, and Young Has a Walkaway.

Had Eddie Helps Won—But What's the Use?—He Carried the Range Handsomely, But Duluth Swamped Him and Loves Us Still, If You Should Ask Them—McCuen Has Popular Range Deputies.

There Is Little Joy in the Fact That the Range Grabbed the Two Representatives, Giving Us the Whole Delegation From This District—And It Is a Delegation to Be Proud of, a Good One.

The "story" under the above quoted head is rather cramped for space, but in the smaller type are found these sentences:

"It would seem our cup is full to overflowing. Hail to our good neighbors of the range that made this possible!"

"Some class to the News, for a greeny. With a ticket of its own choosing, eight of its candidates out of ten were elected."

"Commissioner McInnis won on its merits."

"Helps ran a good race. He has no use to feel bad."

"Some class? Well, yes."

Without consulting Charles Jesmore of Duluth, John R. Meining, Republican nominee for sheriff, has gone ahead with the task of selecting a new staff for the office of sheriff of St. Louis county, Mr. Meining had a whole lot of trouble getting the Republican nomination, while Mr. Jesmore just naturally glommed the Democratic indorsement for the office without any trouble at all. So Mr. Jesmore is fresh for the fray, while as a political battler Mr. Meining is somewhat frayed, even though not afraid. It is the Jesmore opinion that Meining is still a long way from having a clear title to the honors and emoluments of the shrievalty, and it is said that he looks with some amusement on the forehandedness of the Republican nominee in parceling out the spoils of war as he is reported to be doing at this time.

Meining Takes Time By the Forelock.

Current report has it that Former Mayor Haven is slated by Mr. Meining to be chief deputy after the first of the year. The plan is dependent, of course, upon the success of Mr. Meining at the polls in November.

Mr. Jesmore has not been sounded as to whether the selection meets with his favor.

COPPERS IN RUT; BULGE IN LAKE

Market Dull and Listless---Bank Statement Fair.

The copper market was in a rut today, but toward the close it took notice of the sharp advance in Lake and a small amount of buying from the public in a few specialties and reacted, closing slightly higher than the opening. Values were nervous and the trend was uncertain. There was very little news to influence the market.

The bank statement, which came toward the close, was better than expected and exerted a good effect on the market. The bond market is said to be considerably improved.

The demand for copper is small and foreign sales have been only moderate. There have been sales of electrolytic copper at 12½c. Some of the big dealers are holding firm at 12⅝c. The reduction in the price of metal by Calumet & Hecla is said to have been only for a small lot and that too much importance was attached to it by speculators.

Amalgamated sold at $61.62½ to $61.25 to $61.75. Butte Ballaklava was $5.87½ bid and $6.50 asked. Butte Coalition sold at $18.50, Calumet & Arizona at $57.50 to $57. Giroux at $6.62½. Greene at $6.50. Superior & Pittsburg at $11, Shattuck at $24.50 to $24.37½. North Butte at $26.25, $25 50 to $25.75, Lake at $33.50 to $37.50 to $36.50.

She writes: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar, in which I have great faith. Red Wing, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three of the girl inmates of the Minnesota State Training school escaped from the institution at dusk last evening and are still at liberty. The girls were given the use of the school campus on honor and at once took leave of absence.

Officers of the boys' department as well as local authorities have come to the assistance of Mrs. Morse and made an all night search of the woods and railway yards for the runaways.

READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Bethel Workers Open Headquarters in Commercial Club Building.

Prominent Business Men Offering Their Services to Cause.

Campaign headquarters, from which the movement for the raising of $130,000 for a new Bethel and Rescue Home will be carried on, have been established in the Commercial club building, Fourth avenue side. It will be a campaign headquarters in every sense, with volunteer clerks in attendance for the giving out of literature describing the work of the Bethel and its plans for the future, and for the giving of general information to the public about the building movement.

There the directors of the Bethel, who include some of the best known business and professional men in the city, will meet with the various teams of workers every noon and check up the lists. The books carrying the record of the pledges turned in will be open so that anybody who cares to subscribe to the fund at the headquarters may do so.

As fast as the pledges are turned in each noon during the period from Oct. 1 to Oct. 29, inclusive, they will be tabulated, in that way each team will know what the other teams are doing, and the directors will know just what each part of the city is doing toward the establishment of a self-supporting basis, the work which has been carried on in Duluth for thirty-seven years.

The pledges do not require the immediate payment of the sum pledged. Any person pledging his or her support toward the new building movement may have a year in which to meet the obligation with cash. Acceptable as cash contributions will be pledges no less welcome.

The directors of the Bethel expressed gratification this morning at the way the appeal for workers has been responded to. Some of the most prominent business and professional men in the city have asked to be enrolled on the teams, saying that they would be responsible for the collection of a certain sum. From such workers the results are bound to be very large. Each worker is asked to give from two to three hours a day during the seventeen working days of the campaign and it is felt that when prominent men in the life of Duluth are willing to give that much time from their business affairs that such attitude should show the general public the standing of the work of the Bethel with the representative men of the city.

That there are people in Duluth who stand ready to raise the total of $130,000 the directors of the Bethel have no doubt. The only problem is to reach these people at the right time. Every indication thus far would appear to show that the sum will surely be realized if the people who are willing to give can only be reached.

The Commercial club building headquarters will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m., throughout the entire campaign.

On Friday, Sept. 30, a business men's dinner will be given at the Spalding hotel. No funds will be solicited at that time, but the work will be discussed by Melvin E. Trotter of Grand Rapids, U. V. Sillaway of Milwaukee, and Rev. M. S. Rice, C. S. Mitchell and Judge Page Morris of Duluth.

FEAR KILLS AUTO DRIVER

Minneapolis Man Dies of Shock at Impending Collision.

Unguided Machine Hits Wagon and Chases Boy Until Wrecked.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the strangest automobile accidents on record in Minneapolis occurred early today when the shock of an impending collision brought on heart failure and killed a man at the steering wheel.

The machine after its collision, and with the dead man still at the wheel, by a weird trick of fate turned a corner and pursued a boy half a block up the street before a struck a tree and came to a stop, battered and broken.

H. A. Cleveland, 55 years old, 2549 Clinton avenue, was driving the machine. He was alone, and was going leisurely out Third avenue when a farmer's wagon came across Twelfth street in front of him. Cleveland did not appear to see the wagon until a collision was almost inevitable. He grasped the steering wheel more tightly, shouted to the farmer, and instantly sank down in the machine, still holding the wheel.

Car Chased Boy.

The automobile struck the wagon, glanced, and swerved into Twelfth street. Bernard Erickson, 13 years old, 725 Eighth avenue south, was crossing the street, when he saw the machine almost on him. He ran down Twelfth street, but the machine went after him, its course keeping it directly on the boy's heels. Finally Erickson dodged behind a tree. The automobile struck the tree with a crash and stopped.

Fireman of Engine Company No. 6, nearby, who witnessed the accident, ran to see what could be done. Fireman E. T. Benjamin was the first to reach the dismantled machine. He saw Cleveland in a heap on the floor of the car. The man was dead.

The farmer's wagon was not seriously damaged.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SOME DRAWBACKS BUT SUCCESSFUL

Exhibits at Itasca County Fair as Good as Ever.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second day of the nineteenth annual fair of the Itasca County Agricultural association proved to be a great success, in spite of the fact that the weather was cold and that half of the race horses which were entered in the races failed to show up.

The exhibits were every bit as good as they were at former fairs, this being true in all departments, but particularly in the agricultural departments. This fact is very gratifying to the Itasca county boosters, as in other parts the quality and quantity of the agricultural exhibits were much curtailed by the severe drouth of the past season. There were many people present from out of the county and state, whose eyes were opened to the fact that this is a great agricultural section.

Two of the features of the fair were the exhibits of school children's school work and agricultural achievements and the township exhibits, of which there were two, one from the town of Ardenhurst and one from the town of Deer River. Both had very creditable displays, either of which would make any Southern Minnesota township proud to possess.

In spite of the disappointment caused by the non-arrival of the horses entered for the races, some good heats between the horses which were there were pulled off. The regular program of races for the day and a race arranged among the horses which were present were gone through. The following horses were entered: American Count, owned by Charles Jesmore of Eveleth; Exception, owned by Dr. Flapper of Hibbing; Long Jim, owned by J. N. Butchart of Hibbing; Simon Pure, owned by Con Shannon of Chisholm. Donald H., belonging to J. H. Sheldon of Superior, was entered, but his cart broke down before the race started and he did not go. Two heats were run, both resulting the same, as follows: First, American Count; second, Exception; third, Long Jim; fourth, Simon Pure.

FOWLER NINETEEN AHEAD OF McMAHON

Several Independent Candidates to File at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to the returns received from Beaver Bay and the unofficial returns from Cook county, B. F. Fowler, candidate for the nomination for representative of the Fifty-first district, is 19 ahead of M. S. McMahon. McMahon carried the city but lost in the rural districts of Lake and Cook county. McMahon has 285 while Fowler has 304. There are several independents out now. J. G. Jelle has signified his intention of running for county attorney as has also John Olson, and petitions are being circulated for the signatures of the required number to place them on the ticket. It is rumored that Nels Hillman will run on the independent ticket for representative.

SILVER CUP FOR THE ELY SCHOOLS

Win First Prize for Exhibit at the State Fair.

Ely, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Barnes of the public schools received word today from Secretary Cosgrove of the state fair that the Ely schools had been awarded first prize on their recent exhibit and will be given the silver cup by the fair board.

When it is considered that these schools came in competition with such places as Minneapolis and St. Paul, the showing is most excellent.

Gilbert Churches.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. E. A. Turner will conduct regular services at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow, taking "The Light of the World," and "Did the Whale Swallow Jonah," as his subjects.

No regular services will be held at the Methodist church as Rev. Palmer is absent, attending the annual state conference of his church at Fergus Falls.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney disease, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Duluth testimony:

Thomas G. Thompson, 624 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says: "I was in poor health for several months and suffered a great deal from pains in the small of my back. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills recommended as a cure for such trouble and believing that my kidneys were disordered, I decided to try this remedy. After using one box, my health improved in every way and since then I have had no need of a kidney remedy. As I have found that Doan's Kidney Pills live up to the claims made for them, I do not hesitate to give them my indorsement."

DRAY RUNS OVER A TWO HARBORS GIRL

Florence Olson Injured While Attempting to Cross Street.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Florence Olson, 3-year-old daughter of Nels Olson of Second avenue, was injured last evening by being run over by one of Beckman Bros. drays. The little girl was attempting to cross the street in front of one of the drays and slipped, and before the driver could stop one of the horses grazed her head with his hoof, inflicting a severe cut, and the wheels passed over the lower part of her body. She was picked up by the driver and carried to the hospital where her cut was dressed and she was taken to her home. She is resting easy this morning, and will no doubt recover unless complications set in.

A COW CASE.

Eveleth Court Hears Stories in Suit for Value of Lost Bovine.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cows were the principal figures in the civil suit case brought against Mrs Etta. Leppanen yesterday by Kaner Bros., cattle dealers, before Judge Prince in the municipal court.

The evidence showed that the Kaner Bros., had sold Mrs. Leppanen, a cow for $60, and that for the same she paid $32.50 and also gave a cow that she owned. The woman has lost the cow in question, and the Kaner Bros., claim $28.50 still due them. The evidence in the suit occupied the entire day and the judge reserved his decision until next week.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.) — George Wherry, a bachelor, who resides on Fayal road, and who it was reported had been unconscious for a day and a half, and whose ailment could not be diagnosed, recovered consciousness yesterday morning and is now reported as having good chances of recovery. The physicians now believe that he is affected with a la grip. He is about 50 years of age, a Cornishman, and is well known here.

Kelsey, Minn., Sept. 24.—A southbound ore train on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad was wrecked here at 10:30 o'clock last evening and sixteen of the ore cars piled in a heap twenty feet high. The conductor and rear brakeman had a narrow escape from serious injury, sustaining only some severe bruises.

Hibbing Tribune Has Fire.

candidates are espousing a plan for an "open assembly" of voters of different parties to suggest for nomination candidates for different offices.

The "anti-assembly" faction objects to what it terms a self-chosen "assembly" and its ideas on the choosing of United States senator, and asserts that the assembly is a direct attempt to thwart the direct election of senators.

Second District Congressman.

Individually the chief contest is over the nomination for congressman in the Second district, "Portland and Eastern Oregon." There are four Republican candidates for the office. Jay Bowerman is the assembly candidate for governor on the Republican ticket. Other candidates are Albert Abraham, Grant B. Dimick and E. Hofer.

On the Democratic ticket, the race for governor lies between Jefferson Myers of Multnomah county and Oswald West of Clatsop. Both men are supporters of statement No. 1 and the issue between them is their personal popularity.

Chavez Badly Hurt.

Domodossola, Italy, Sept. 24.—George Chavez, the Peruvian aviator who thrilled the world yesterday by a flight over the Alps at an altitude of a mile and a half and then lost control of his monoplane when he had descended 500 within thirty feet of the surface, passed a fairly good night. The physicians stated that except for a disturbing lethargy the condition of the patient was satisfactory.

The broken legs, fractured thigh and many bruises, the price, in addition to the mental shock, which the 23-year-old aviator paid for the glory of being the first to fly from Switzerland to Italy, will keep him in the hospital for some time. He is being showered with messages of mingled congratulation and condolence, but is in no state to appreciate these or discuss his exploit.

Worked With Folk.

You will find few public men in the United States who will talk with that much frankness about the possibilities of their party's success. I suppose my readers will remember that for four years the present Governor Hadley was attorney general under Governor Folk, and that while the two men represented the two antagonistic parties in Missouri, they nevertheless co-operated in the work for good government and reform through which Folk made himself a national character.

It is my judgment that if Governor Hadley had not assumed the position he now maintains, there might be some doubt as to the situation politically in Missouri. But at present there are seven candidates on the Republican side for the United States senatorship. On the Democratic side there are but two, David R. Francis and James A. Reed. If you ask a Democrat whom he is going to work for or vote for he knows at once he is either for Reed or for Francis. But if you ask a Republican whom he stands for on the senatorial contest, unless he happens to be actively in politics, the chances are he does not know. The situation would have been entirely different had Governor Hadley seen fit to become a candidate. His nomination by the Republicans would have been unquestionably assured.

One Republican Chance.

I have found in Kansas City no reason to change the opinion I expressed in an earlier letter, that this state will be solidly Democratic. Out of the sixteen congressional districts fifteen are almost certain to be carried by the Democracy. The one exception is the district of Richard Bartholdt in St. Louis, which is impregnably Republican. If I were going to qualify my assertion about other districts, I might do it by saying there is one here in Kansas City that might possibly be picked up by the Republicans. The Republican nominee, Howard F. Lea, is one of the few members of his party in Missouri who has recognized the trend of the party voters towards what in Washington we used to call insurgency, but which I find here to be denominated progressivelsm altogether. In the recent state convention progressivelsm had hardly a voice. It was standpat from beginning to end and as the result, the Republican voters in this state are discontented and practically hopeless. Kansas, on the other hand, is absolutely insurgent Republican, and the effect of that tremendous sentiment in that state which is separated from Mr. Lea's district by the mere space of a single street, is hard to estimate. It may do in Kansas City, Mo., what it is unquestionably accomplishing in the state of Kansas, namely, eliminate for the moment the Democratic vote and substitute the insurgent Republican vote. This district is the only one in Missouri about which I think either the Democratic or the Republican congressional committee need entertain any doubts.

Faulty Representation Law.

Missouri is cursed with a bad law for representation in the state legislature. Every county has one representative, except the three great counties in which are the cities of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph. The effect of this is that a county in which there are scarcely 1,200 voters, has as much to say in the choice of a senator as one in which there are 25,000. And they tell me that if Senator Warner were not physically unfit, it would not be impossible for him to be re-elected this year. It is plain that his strength in the country districts, is such that he might possibly pull through if he made a fight. But lacking Warner and Hadley, there seems to be no thoroughly well known man in the Republican party who is in the field, and with the unquestioned trend toward the Democratic party, it does not seem probable that any Republican can carry the legislature and thereby go to the United States senate.

Democratic Gloom in Kansas.

A man prominently identified with the Democratic national committee in two campaigns, called on me yesterday. His home is in Kansas. I told him that in the Northwestern states, Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota, I had found that the Democratic organization had lost heart and the Democratic voters had gone over to the progressive Republican ranks. "Well," said he, "You'll find the same thing when you go into Kansas. We have practically no organization left. The Democratic national committeeman, John T. Atwood, has moved out of the state and most of our fellows down there think that Victor Murdock is the best Democrat in sight." This opinion I offer without comment, for I go to Kansas tonight to study that situation for myself.

WANT HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY

Trades Assembly Favors Municipal Relief for Needy Sick.

The Trades and Labor assembly passed a resolution last night favoring the building of a municipal hospital, the purchase of a city ambulance and the establishment of a free medical dispensary. The resolution was presented by the unions of painters, carpenters and paper hangers.

Miss Jean Poirier told the assembly why the two institutions should be municipally owned and why the city should operate an ambulance. James Walsh, superintendent of the state's local labor bureau, thought an ambulance and dispensary could be obtained immediately.

The cigarmakers of Tampa, Fla., sent a communication to the local assembly asking for financial aid. Henry Perrault explained that about 7,000 cigarmakers are trying to establish their union on a firm basis and are meeting with opposition from the manufacturers. Many of these cigarmakers, he said, are in want of necessities of life. The assembly decided to send some money to the needy cigarmakers.

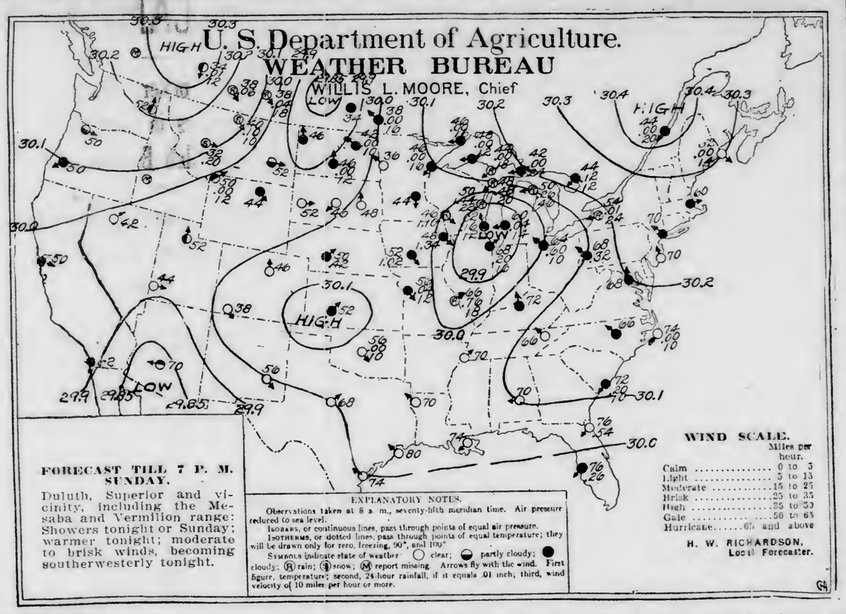

Mr. Walsh said the assembly should co-operate with the labor organizations in the Twin Cities next year in preparing a labor exhibit for the state fair. The exhibit at the fair this year, he said, was favorably commented upon.

A. C. Mendell, organizer of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America of Chicago, told the assembly what the union is doing.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

RAIN

The little pastime in life's dreary recesses of sternly duties of shaking down the fire and putting on the fuel, and seeing that the drafts are closed or open or in combination has come for seven months and wise folks are hunting up their furs and flannels and such is the weather.

A year ago today it was fair and chilly, just like today leaving out the fair.

The sun rose today at 5:58 a. m. and will set at 6:02 making twelve hours and four minutes of daylight.

Forecaster Richardson says:

"During the last twenty-four hours light to heavy rains fell throughout the lake region, and the Ohio, Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys mainly due to a disturbance central over Lake Michigan. Rather brisk easterly winds also prevailed last night and this morning in the lake region. Another depression central over Southern Saskatchewan has caused rain or snow in that province and in Alberta and Western Montana, besides somewhat warmer weather over Southern Saskatchewan, Eastern Montana and the Western Dakotas. The barometer remains high over northeastern districts. An increase in pressure over Kansas, Oklahoma and Iowa is attended by cooler weather in those states. A strong high pressure condition that has developed over Alberta is causing colder temperatures in that section. The easterly movement of the Lake Michigan and Saskatchewan low barometric areas will be attended by more or less rain at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Iowa—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

Upper Michigan—Rain tonight; Sunday partly cloudy.

Minnesota—Unsettled with probably showers late tonight or Sunday; warmer tonight.

North Dakota—Unsettled with probably showers tonight or Sunday.

North Dakota—Unsettled with probably showers in east portion tonight or Sunday; cooler tonight in east portion.

Upper lakes—Winds shifting to northwest this afternoon and tonight, becoming high except on Western Superior and Southwestern Michigan; rain followed by fair weather.

WILL REFORM RULES IN CUSTOMS SERVICE.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Acting upon the common knowledge that the government loses large sums every year by improper appraisement of imports, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury J. F. Curtis has called a conference of local customs appraisers in New York, Nov. 14. The call directs the officer of the port who actually appraises imports shall be present. Every port of entry will be represented.

Officials who will attend will prepare questions for discussion and submit them to the treasury department by Oct. 1. Where it is possible to present samples of textiles and other imports which may be difficult to appraise, officers are asked to do so.

The conference will be the first effort in a movement to insure uniform applications of customs regulations.

SAYS GAYNOR WILL NEED NO OPERATION.

New York, Sept. 24.—Dr. William Arlitz, visiting surgeon at St. Mary's hospital in Hoboken, where Mayor Gaynor was a patient, made this statement on the mayor's present condition:

"Mayor Gaynor is in perfect health. There will be no operation now on his throat for removal of the bullet, nor will there ever be. The wound caused him no trouble to speak of. What little irritation is still there will disappear in a few days."

CAR SHORTAGE IS PRONOUNCED

May Result in Coal Scarcity, Says Trade Journal.

The Black Diamond, the official organ of the coal trade, in its issue of Saturday says:

"The expected car shortage has appeared ahead of schedule time to bother the Western coal shippers. The labor trouble started in the East and spread to the West, clearing up in the same fashion. The coal and car shortages moving in the opposite direction, being most pronounced in the West and gradually backing up upon the East. So far the coal shortage has only reached Columbus, Cincinnati and Cleveland, but it is expected to overflow the territory East of those points.

"The explanation for the coal shortage at the minute is an absence of railroad facilities. Of course, as a background, there is a genuine coal shortage as the direct resultant of mines having been closed down five months in Illinois and the Southwest. As previously explained and as understood by the trade, the shortage is not so actual as it is prospective being expressed in an absence of storage piles, intended as a protection against the period of interruption of transportation which usually follows the arrival of cold weather. Knowing the necessity of storage piles for such periods the railroads, manufacturing concerns, retail dealers and householders have been struggling within the last week or ten days to get some coal in storage.

"At a time when this effort is most pronounced and also at a time when the mines generally have just resumed active production, the car shortage on the railroads sets in in malignant form. Cars are not only hard to obtain for loading at the mines, but the railroads actually lack the motive power with which to haul those cars to market. As a result, the mines which are struggling to get back to full capacity, are handicapped. Not only can they not make much progress against the disposition of men to work, and not only are they delayed by the necessity to clean up the mines long idle, but they also are hampered by not having enough cars to load the product into when it comes above ground. These things, which annoy the coal producer, are transferred instantly to the coal consumer and the coal dealer in the form of a shortage of coal.

"Just where the present situation is going to lead, as far as prices are concerned, is a matter that we would not like to speculate upon. It is enough to say that the situation does not look altogether promising from the standpoint of the coal consumer. Our original forecast of the shortage of coal and exceptionally high prices this year, is being more than verified and borne out by current developments."

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Registration in All Departments in Excess of Last Year's.

Five-Year Course in Mines Offered for Certain Students.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Regular work began in all the departments of the University, on Wednesday, Sept. 14. Treasurer Bren is unable as yet, to give any figures regarding the number of registrations. According to the receipts, however, the registration appears to be in excess of last year, as $80,000 has been received up to the present time. There is a large registration in all departments. Although two years of academic work are required of students in entering the college of law, the attendance is even better than before, both the night and day classes being well filled. The various courses have been lengthened, the courses in Evidence to twelve weeks and the others proportionately.

About 400 students are enrolled at the college of agriculture this year, making a total of 120 more students than there were last year. Dean Woods' has announced that he expects more old students to register during the coming week.

In addition to the regular four-year course in mines, a new five-year course is offered for students entering without the required solid geometry and higher algebra. Failure in preparation in these studies has often turned otherwise accredited students away from Minnesota. The five-year course is offered in order to keep up the high standard of the school by admitting capable men and giving them an opportunity to combine the regular four-years' work and the ground work of higher mathematics.

Spanish has been added to the curriculum of the school of mines, taking the place of French or German as a cultural subject. It is also being required in the new five-year course. Former students have found themselves handicapped upon their arrival in the South American republics, because they had had no preparation in the Spanish language. While not very comprehensive, the new course will present a working knowledge of Spanish, which will save much time in a Spanish-speaking country.

The dental department of the university cannot supply enough room for the applicants for this profession. More than a score of men had to be turned away this year. The demand for dentists has even spread to the Indian reservations. As yet, however, there are still less than half a dozen indians engaged in dentistry. J. M. Gordon, a Chippewa from Superior, has entered the dental department at Minnesota this year.

Plans for the Mandolin and Glee club were announced yesterday by Ralph Knight, manager of the club last year. Last year's successful season wiped out the debt which has been a burden to the club for many seasons. With this out of the way, the coming season promises to be the most successful the club has enjoyed for years. The Christmas trip of the club, as now planned will begin on Tuesday, Dec. 27. They will leave Minneapolis then and will give their first concert in New Ulm. The other towns to be visited are: Marshall, Tracy, Sleepy Eye, Redwood Falls and St. Peter. From all of these towns a money guarantee has been secured, thus insuring the financial success of the trip.

The first training school for nurses, under university control had its opening session, Sept. 13. The course covers a period of three years, of which, the first four months are devoted to academic work at the university, after that comes two months' probation. The entrance requirements are the same as to other departments of the university.

University students who wish to become teachers are finding opportunity to prove their ability at the university model school. This school is connected with the college of education and is under the direction of Dr. Alice T. Mot*. The purpose of the school is to give girls training in both the grammar and high school departments in order that they can obtain better positions after graduation. It is conducted along somewhat the same lines as similar departments in the state normal school. The total enrollment of pupils is between sixty and seventy making an average of eight or ten pupils in each of the upper classes and twenty-five in the lower grades.

The new branch of chemistry, that of photo-engraving, which was installed last year, has been progressing wonderfully well. This department occupies the entire third flour of the chemistry building and is as thoroughly equipped as anything of its kind in the country. Three large dark rooms, completely fitted out with the most modern apparatus, are part of the equipment. Another room used for photographing contains one of the largest reducing cameras in the state and also the machinery for mounting and trimming the finished plate. The only thing the department lacks is an instructor who has a good knowledge of chemistry as well as being an expert in the trade.

The Elliott Memorial University hospital, the first of a group of new medical buildings, is rapidly nearing completion. The building will be ready for occupancy about Feb. 1. Dr. D. I. Baldwin, an alumnus of the college of medicine and surgery, has taken up his work as the director of the University hospital. Up to this fall Dr. Baldwin has had charge of the State Hospital for the Insane at Jamestown, N. D.

Two more temporary buildings have been added to those already in use for hospital and training school purposes upon the new campus.

At a recent meeting of the medical faculty, strenuous objections were made to the proposed plan of the board of regents to locate the two new anatomy buildings on the same block with the Elliott hospital. It was contended that in a few years, if Minnesota was to have anything like a sufficient hospital service, it will be necessary to build a large number of new buildings and that there would be every reason for locating these in close connection with the Elliott hospital. It was moved therefore that the anatomy building be relocated on the block by Union and Church streets, Delaware street and Washington avenue. At the last meeting of the board these resolutions were adopted.

The engineering college is offering a course in aarchitecture this year which is being greatly patronized. A large number have registered and more names are being handed in every day. The work offered this year will cover the work of the freshman year only, additional work being added eac hyear until the full college course is offered. The work will be carried on this year by the faculty of the engineering college, though probably one or two more instructors will be engaged. Some of the best architects in the United States live in the Twin Cities, and it is hoped that some of these can be induced to lecture to the classes. Four years in the department of architecture will grant the degree of bachelor of science and five years the degree of architect. There are a few good colleges of architecture in the East but almost none in the West. Dean Shenskon feels that there is a need of a new first-class college at Minnesota and he hopes to make the college of architecture one of the best in the country.

Dr. Mullen of the college of medicine reported yesterday that at a recent meeting of the committee on awards for scientific exhibits from the American Medical association, the University of Minnesota was awarded the first certificate of honor. This is the first contest of this kind that Minnesota has ever entered.

WEST END

WEST ENDERS ARE AROUSED

Carrier Service Will Be Considered at Special Meeting.

The West end Commercial club will investigate the curtailing of the mail service at the West end, and a special meeting has been arranged for Friday evening, next, when Postmaster A. P. Cook and Congressman Miller will be asked to attend and explain why the service has been cut down.

West end people have been aroused by the long delay of the postoffice officials in installing the proposed West end sub station and the announcement that four of the sixteen carriers would have only one delivery a day instead of two, has met with much unfavorable criticism.

Postmaster Cook has explained, however, that it is no fault of the local office. He has received orders from the officials at Washington for a cut of $144 a month in the running expenses, and requested to carry out the inspector's recommendation that the cut be made in the West end service. The money, which it is planned to save, is for the letter carriers' vacation fund.

Congress did not appropriate the $200,000 asked for this purpose at the last session.

IS GIVEN CALL TO SECOND CHURCH.

Rev. W. T. Hughes of Hannah, N. D., has been extended a call to the pastorate of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, and will arrive in the city this evening. A number of the tracts face the Morris-Thomas road and several front on the new Hutchinson road on which the proposed extension of the car line will run.

The suburban tracts are located from twelve to twenty blocks from the Piedmont avenue car line and the firm is making an attractive offer to laboring men, mechanics and others, who want to secure a garden tract within easy reach of the city.

The tracts are selling at from $125 and $300 on small cash payments. The sale of the tracts will begin Oct. 1, but they can be reserved this week in advance of the sale.

Rev. Hans K. Madsen of Chicago, former pastor of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third sreet, who was expected to arrive in the city today to address the members of his former flock tomorrow, has wired that he will not be able to come.

Rev. Mr. Madsen expressed his regret in not being able to come to Duluth. However, he will endeavor to get away some time in October. Rev. Mr. Madsen is now serving his second year as superintendent of the Chicago district of Norwegian Danish M. E. churches.

Dr. MITCHELL

325 West First Street, Is Making New Cures Every Day.

Statements grounded upon facts and facts that have startled the entire medical world as the marvellous power to heal the sick and relieve the suffering has been revealed. It seems that people must believe. It is not a question of mere statements. The proof is in the reach of every man or woman who is suffering today. Look up any or all of the cures Dr. Mitchell has published during the past fifteen years in the daily papers. They are all true and you can be convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt.

This week we present some cures for the benefit of our readers, made by Dr. Mitchell. Mrs. Alex Ekberg of 206 West Sixth street, Duluth, says: "To all whom it may concern: I feel that I want the world and suffering women to know what Dr. Mitchell, the Magnetic Healer, has done for me. His treatment is the greatest blessing ever given to bring sure relief to every nervous, broken down, discouraged, dispondent and suffering women caused from womb trouble, even when given up as incurable. I believe from my own experience that they can be cured. When I went to Dr. Mitchell I was almost a physical and nervous wreck and it seemed as if fate was against me as everything I tried failed. I did not know what a good night's sleep was and was as tired in the morning as at night. Dr. Mitchell after making an examination, said he could cure me. I could hardly believe it as I had doctored for two years, had one operation performed, which nearly cost me my life without doing me any good. Hearing of a lady in the West end who had been cured of trouble similar to mine, by Dr. Mitchell, I took his treatment and am thankful I was directed to Dr. Mitchell. I cannot say enough in praise for him. While taking treatment I saw many, and talked with them, and they were all getting better.

"My husband is now taking treatment and is improving. Had been doctoring for over a year by other methods without getting relief. We will be glad to see and talk with any one to substantiate this statement."

Mr. Oscar Waden, 2820 West Huron street, Duluth, cured of a tumor by Dr. Mitchell.

Mr. John Parker of Alabaster, Mich., treated for stomach, heart and kidney trouble and recommends Dr. Mitchell's treatment.

Mr. O. D. Bennett, 2513 Twenty-second street, Superior, Wis., says: "I recommend Dr. Mitchell's Magnetic treatment to any one suffering from stomach and bowel trouble. My wife went to him as a last resort and I consider he saved her life."

Dr. Mitchell consulted at 325 West First street, one block east of postoffice. 'Phone, 579.

Tommy Patten's Vacation Experience.

BY MAUD WALKER.

WHEN Tommy Patten came to school on the first day of the fall term, his old-time comrades greeted him joyously. "Hello, Tom!" they cried. "Where have you been hiding all summer? We had come to the conclusion that you had invented an airship and gone exploring Space."

Tommy shook his head, a smile of contentment on his bronzed face. "I've been having the greatest summer, kids, that a fellow could have," he explained. "But—there goes the second bell and I can't even begin to tell my story till noontime. It is such a long one—and wants no interuption during the telling. So, wait till we get at our lunch."

"Oh, then you brought your luncheon, did you?" cried Harry Heart, smiling in anticipation of a good time during the noon hour. Harry always carried his luncheon to school, living too far from the schoolhouse to go home for that meal. But never before had Tommy Patten brought his luncheon with him, for the Pattens lived only five blocks from the schoolhouse, and he could run home in a few minutes.

"Yep, I fetched something to sustain the inner man during the day," laughed Tommy. "I knew you'd all want to hear about my summer vacation."

Then conversation stopped, for the boys had entered the schoolroom where order was being called. At recess Tommy would say nothing about his summer vacation, for, he declared, he would have to quit before getting well launched in the story, for the recess lasted for 15 minutes only. The boys—Harry Heart, Jack Wilson, King Danby and Arthur Jones, were boys of Tommy's own age and his pals at school. They had grown up in the town together and were like brothers, so, when Tommy went slipping away after the first week of vacation in the spring, without telling one of them about his plans, there was some wonder and question. "Where could he have gone? And why had not he taken his 'pals' into his confidence?" Then a committee had been appointed to wait on Mrs. Patten, Tommy's mother. All the boys knew and loved her. She was one of the dearest women—so they all declared—in the world. So to her they went to ask particulars concerning Tommy's sudden and mysterious disappearance. It was known that Tommy had been seen by several persons as he boarded the westbound passenger train one fine morning several days after school had closed for the summer.

For three whole days the boys had awaited developments, expecting each morning to receive a letter from their run-away chum explaining his secret leave-taking. But after that day, suspense became too great (Tommy not writing any of them), and the committee was sent to inquire for particulars from Mrs. Patten.

When Mrs. Patten welcomed the boys she began at once: "Now, my dear boys, I want you to ask me nothing about Tommy's whereabouts nor his plans for the summer. He made this request of me on his departure. 'Say noth'ng to any of the boys, Mamma; keep my secret till I return in the fall.' And, really, I am not quite sure as to his plans yet," she continued. "I have just had one letter from him since he went away, and nothing had fully developed then."

So the weeks had worn away, and the boys had ceased to bother themselves regarding Tommy Patten's summer vacation "doings." "If he wanted us to know," said Harry, "he'd write us about himself. So all we can do is to wait."

"Sure," the other boys had agreed.

And so Tommy was put out of mind as much as possible, till the first day of the fall term of school, when into their midst he walked, looking as bronzed as an American Indian and as strong as Hercules, and as happy as a boy could look.

When the noon hour arrived the boys gathered about Tommy to hear his story. The place selected for the luncheon was beneath a big tree in one corner of the spacious playground. There, their luncheons spread on a newspaper between them, the boys sat, awaiting their hero's "adventures" from his own tongue.

"Well, kids, I suppose I owe you an explanation for having run away in the spring without so much as saying ta ta. It was this way, you see. I was not sure of succeeding in my undertaking, and thought the wise way was to keep my plans to myself till I saw how they would develop. Only Papa and Mamma were in my confidence, and they both approved of my scheme. Well, here is me life's story," he went on in mock dramatic style.

The boys laughed heartily, then quieted down, awaiting the narrative. "It was this way," resumed Tommy in natural tones. "I conceived the idea of roughing it during my vacation—that is, I wanted to have a summer out next to nature, away from home, town, my friends. When I broke this to Mamma she said she'd ask Papa to give me enough money so that I might pay my board at some wild mountain resort, where I could fish and hunt and be as wild as I liked, sleeping in a tent or a rude camp. But I would not agree to that. 'I must make my own way, Mamma,' I said. 'I want to feel that I can be independent. Papa is not rich enough to squander money on my idleness for a whole summer. He needs a vacation from his business, but can't have it.' Well, you know how mothers are—these darling, good mothers like ours. At first Mamma shook her head. No, she could not consent to my going out into the world—for all the world like some poor orphan, hunting for a place where he might work for a crust to eat and a pile of straw to sleep upon. She must know that her boy had comforts and enough money in his pocket to pay for them.

"Well, I had a hard time winning Mamma to my way of thinking; but once it was done, I had easy sliding, for you know Papa depends on Mamma's judgment regarding all things, and when she told him about my plan, and that she quite agreed to it, he gave his consent, but he insisted that I take five dollars with me in case of need. And he also said I must write for money if I found myself in a tight pinch.

"I started right out to see how I could manage to work my way on the train to the country. I had decided on my destination—the hill-country off toward the Grand River. So I went to the train officials and asked if I could work my way on the train. They only laughed at me and said a curt 'No.' But I did not give up. I kept a weather eye open. One day as I was walking down the street behind Mr. and Mrs. Gates—you know the very rich Gates—I overheard Mrs. Gates saying: 'I just can't make up my mind to send poor Minto in the baggage car. I think I shall be obliged to hire some boy to carry him through. You know they do not object to a dog riding in the day coach if in company with some person.'

"I waited round that place from six o'clock to nine."

"Well, here was my chance. I had no idea where Mrs. Gates wanted to send Minto, who was doubtless her pet doggie. But it was evident he was to be shipped somewhere and that a companion—or keeper sounds better—was desired to pilot him through. I knew Minto was not to go on a 'through train,' for they won't allow dogs even in the day coaches in the 'throughs.' Evidently he was going on some local, or on the little branch running to the coal mines. So I steps up beside Mrs. Gates—she had once been my Sunday schoolteacher and knew me—and asked for particulars. I'll not consume time by explaining how I opened the conversation and what was said. Sufficient to say that I found Minto was a dog for sure, and that he was being shipped to Mrs. Gates' sister in the very locality that I longed to reach. A bargain was struck at once. Mrs. Gates was only too glad to pay my fare to Adamsville to have me carry along her pet dog. The journey, as you know, covers a day, so, with Minto in a basket—he isn't larger than a kitten—I made my journey to Adamsville safely. Once only was I obliged to feed the little fellow, and I gave him water several times during the trip.

He behaved nicely, too, slept all the time in his basket. In the evening Mrs. Gates' sister met the train and relieved me of the animal. So I had made my journey to the Land of Promise without spending a cent of the $5 Papa had insisted I should take with me.

"That night being as fine a one as I ever saw, I slept in an empty house near to the railroad station. I got permission to do so from the stationmaster, who had the key to the building. In the big empty storeroom was a counter which served admirably for a bed. I used my overcoat—which I had carried in my traveling case—as a cover. My short coat was a good pillow. I slept till daybreak, when I awoke and went forth to find what I might do.

"The village was full of summer cottagers, and I inquired of several high-headed gardeners if I might find some employment about the spacious grounds attached to each cottage. But nothing in that line seemed waiting for yours truly. I was about to decide to break the $5 bill for some breakfast when my eye caught this sign in front of a building: 'Boy wanted to pack eggs.' I waited round that place till 9 o'clock—I had reached the spot at 6—till the proprietor came. He engaged me at once at $1 a day. I had worked that day till 6 o'clock, stopping only to eat my dinner at noon. I went breakfastless. Well, I proved a good egg packer, and was kept as long as I cared to remain, which was three days. That gave me $2 clear, for I had spent just $1 for my meals at a little five-cent restaurant on the street nearby. The egg dealer allowed me to sleep on a couch in his office. He was a very nice man and wanted me to remain with him during the summer. But I knew that adventures lay farther afield. So I fared forth and walked to the gardening country at the foot of the hills. There the land is as rich as cream and gardeners send all their produce to the city 100 miles distant, and to the city also go the crates of packed eggs that my first employer shipped out every morning.

"Well, to shorten a long story, I got a job with the very first gardener I came to. He was what we call a 'truck farmer.' My duties were manifold, which gave me a variety of work and saved me from monotony. There I remained during the entire month of June, saving up my wages, which amounted to $2 per week. Of course, I got my room and board, and of the best, too.

"A little more money in my pocket, I fared forth again. I had heard of a hunting party that had camped on the river, just a mile from us. I went to them and at once engaged myself to them as general utility man. Well, then my real vacation began. It was a glorious time from day to day. We hunted and fished, moving our camp about every fifth day. We explored all that region of the hill country. The woods are full of game, the streams full of fish. I cooked, helped with the camp work in general, and became well acquainted with three of the finest city men one could wish to meet. And they have invited me to be of their party again next summer.

"Well, of course, I kept Papa and Mamma informed of my whereabouts, but decided to keep you fellows in the dark till I should return home. It would interest you more to get it all at once, you see."

The boys laughed and agreed that Tommy had had a fine summer of thrilling adventures. And each declared he meant to try being independent during the coming vacation. "It proves that one can get on and make both money and friends, if he only tries," declared Harry.

"Yes, I brought back the five dollars Papa let me have and about twenty besides," said Tommy. "And I had a fine out-of-door summer to boot. And you should see my muscles. Gee! how I have grown, and as strong as a lion." Then the bell called them to books, and the story was finished.

Kittie and Lettie. A Story for Girls.

GRANDMAMMA Smith was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wilkes. Her two little granddaughters, Kittie and Lettie (twins) had been so happy when the dear old lady arrived. But after she had been with them a few days, Lettie began to wish her away. Not that Grandmother did not love her two little granddaughters with a deep love; not that she did not give them each pennies every day; but because, being a very old lady, Grandmamma often asked one of the twins to fetch her a drink, or to get for her her workbasket, or to please fetch her slippers from her bedroom. Now, Kittie did not mind doing these little things for her old grandmother, but Lettie did. Lettie was inclined to be a bit lazy, and loved her play so much that she did not like being called away from it to do some errand for Grandmamma.

One day, while the mother was from home, Kittie and Lettie were alone with their grandmother. "Now, dearies," Mamma had said to them on departing, "you must look out for dear old Granny while I am away. See that she wants for nothing. You know her knees are lame from rheumatism, and it hurts her to rise from her chair very often. So, stay near enough to the sitting-room to hear her if she should call to you for anything. She loves her ice-water often, so do not fail to carry a glass of it to her whenever she asks for a drink."

Kittie said: "Oh, yes, Mamma, we will." But Lettie said nothing. She was thinking: "Grandmothers are a lot of bother when their knees get stiff."

Well, soon after their mother had departed, Kittie said to Lettie: "Suppose we carry our things into the sitting-room where we can play near to Grandmamma. Then she will not have to call us if she wants anything. She is not well, Grandmamma isn't."

"Oh, no," cried Lettie. "If we go in there she'll be wanting first one thing and then another. Let's play on the back porch. Then she'll not call to us so often, for she will have to halloo out so loudly. So she'll not ask for so much waiting on."

Kittie looked her disapproval of what her sister had said. "For shame, Lettie. Grandmamma is so old, and suffers so much from rheumatism. We should wait on her as though she were a baby."

"Oh, the idea of waiting on an old person as though she were a baby," laughed Lettie. "Well, if you want to run about waiting on Grandmamma all the time, you may do so. I'm going to call to Alice Peters to come and play house with me on the back porch."

"Well, I mean to stay in the house with Grandmamma till Mamma returns home," declared Kittie. And she carried her doll to the sitting room and stationed herself close to Grandmother's chair. Grandmother was reading her bible when Kittie entered, but she put the book aside and began chatting with her little granddaughter. She had been an unwilling listener to the conversation between Lettie and Kittie, and felt very much as if she were a burden. Pretty soon the poor old lady asked Kittie what she was doing.

"Oh, I'm making my dollie a new dress, and I don't know how to get it out of these scraps. See, Grandmamma, how small the pieces are—and how big Dolly is!"

Grandmother looked over the pieces, and seeing them insufficient for the purpose said: "Dearie, run up to my room and fetch me a box from the top drawer of my dresser. I think I have something in it that will make a dress for Dolly."

Kittie ran upstairs on the errand, and as Lettie heard her feet pattering on the stairs she said: "Aha, I just knew Granny would keep us running if we were near her." And she was thankful she was on the porch, playing with Alice.

As Grandmother emptied the box on the floor beside Kittie, the little girl's eyes opened in admiration. There were great pieces of pretty plaid silk; other great pieces of brown silk. A roll of soft creamy lace was undone. Then some squares of fine linen. Why, the box contained stuffs enough to make Dolly a complete new wardrobe! "You are a dear, kind-hearted little girl," said Grandmother to Kittie, "and I shall give you all these pretty silks and lace and ribbons and linen for Dolly. And, if you'll let me, I shall enjoy helping you fit Dolly out. And—isn't her face very badly battered? Wouldn't you like a new dollie?"

"Oh, I should love one, Grandmother!" cried Kittie. Then she and Granny fell to work, and before the afternoon had passed, Dolly had a fine new frock made of plaid silk, trimmed in lace, and a love of a cape—lined with white silk—made of the brown brocade. And a dainty petticoat of the white linen was almost finished. Grandmother could work so fast and knew just how to make a piece of cloth go a long way.

After the work was almost done, Lettie came in to ask if her mother had returned. She beheld what was going on, and found Grandmother and Kittie so engrossed in it, and in a story Grandmother was telling of her own young days, that she was not observed by them till she spoke. "What are you making?" she asked, running up and grabbing the new plaid silk frock of the doll's. "Where did you get this, Kittie?" she asked.

Then Kittie told her of the box Grandmother had given her. And Lettie, her face full of shame, knew that Kittie deserved all the pretty things, and that she, selfish, lazy Lettie, deserved nothing. Not one kind word had she spoken to Grandmother all afternoon, fearing she might be called upon to perform some little errand for the dear old lady.

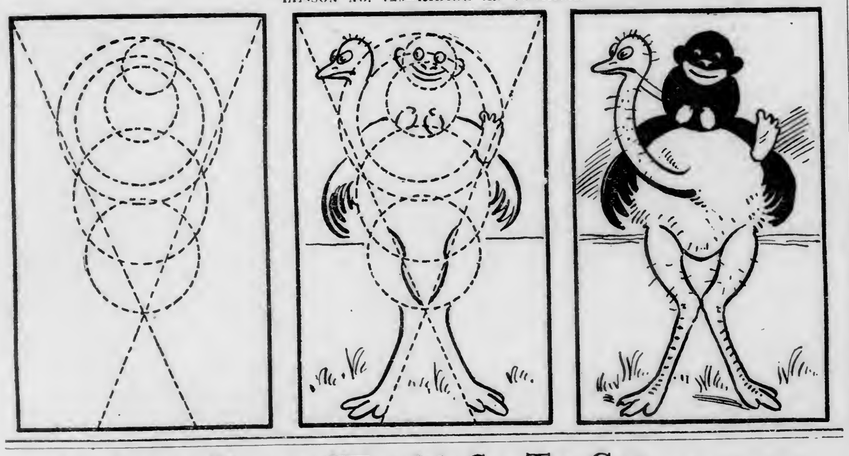

"Here are some for you, too, Lettie," said kind, forgiving Grandmamma, holding up some pieces of silk. But Lettie, her heart accusing her, replied: "Not till I have become a better girl, Granny. I have been so naughty, while sister has been kind."

"Oh, I'm making my dollie a new dress."

LESSON NO. 120—RIDING AN OSTRICH.

Speckle Trout Would Go To Sea. A FISH STORY.

NOW, my son, you should be content with your own happy surroundings," said Mrs. Trout, speaking to her young son, Speckle. The Trout family were lying in a deep, cool pool, near to the bank of a fine mountain stream. The warm September sun shone through the water and brought out the dainty tints of the Trouts' pretty coats. There were Mr. Sharpfin Trout, head of the family; Mrs. Mamma Trout, Miss Brighteyes Trout, the daughter, and Speckle Trout, the son.

"But I do get so tired of just a mountain stream," said Speckle, scowling. (Did you ever see a fish scowl? Well, they do when displeased, just like naughty children or bad-tempered grownups.) "I want to go into big, deep waters, I do. I want to see something of the world."

"Many another fish has had the same desires," said Mr. Sharpfin Trout, "and they paid the price of their adventures—some with their life."

"Oh, nothing ill could befall me," declared Speckle. "I would be too cautious for that. If I went exploring in deep waters I should beware of any signs of danger."

"But danger does not always send out a sign before coming," said wise Mr. Sharpfin. "It is the unheralded danger that befalls us mostly."

"Why not be content in our happy home, brother?" asked pretty little Brighteyes. "I am very, very contented here. We have our parents and each other, and all around us are our dearest friends. Were you to go into a strange world you would be so alone, not knowing a single fish to befriend you, should you fall ill or in danger."

"I would not fall ill, nor would I run into danger," declared Speckle, emphatically.

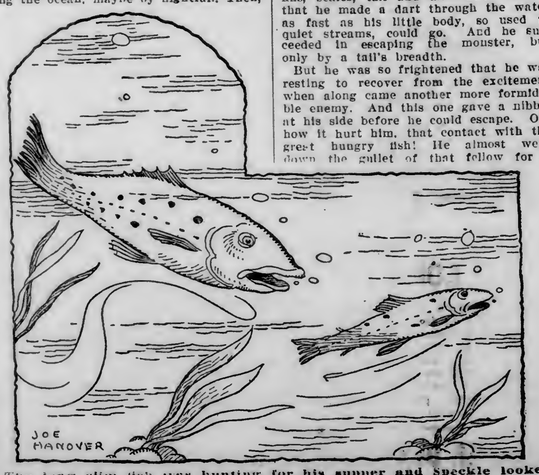

"No, my son, but danger might run into you," warned Mrs. Mamma Trout. "Now, let this wild notion of rushing headlong into strange waters be banished from your mind. Wait until you are of certain age; then, if you still wish to fare forth from your own stream, you will be wise enough to understand the risks attending your venture."

But Speckle only yawned wearily, and swam lazily down stream, looking for a fly.

The others of the family went on about their morning duties. Mrs. Mamma, assisted by Brighteyes, tidied up the pool which was their home. Mr. Sharpfin went in quest of food for dinner. Speckle, the wayward, discontented son, kept on floating down stream, not caring how far away from home he might stray. Like many youths among human beings, Speckle felt he had outgrown his own community and that the big wide ocean was calling to him. Little did he know what that same ocean held. He fancied it was like his own mountain stream, save on a much larger scale. And he thought all manner of friendly fish would be ready to welcome him, and to direct him on his way, pointing out to him the various safe ways to journey through the deep waters.

About noontime Speckle roused himself sufficiently to observe his whereabouts. He was astounded somewhat to find he was amidst very strange surroundings. He had been swimming all forenoon, going down stream. And he was many, many miles from his own home. The water was beginning to be thick and very, very deep. And now and again he met giant fish of a strange kind, such as he had never seen before. He had doubtless gotten into the Great River which his father had told him was toward the ocean. Into the Great River his own home stream flowed, as he knew. But he had always imagined the Great River to be farther away—maybe a whole day's fast swimming.

Once he thought of turning back. But why do that now, since he had reached the borders of the Desired World? No, he would go on a little further, reaching the ocean, maybe by nightfall. Then, after swimming about for a short while, he would return home and tell his stay-at-home family all about the wonders he had seen.

The long slim fish was hunting for his supper and Speckle looked good to him.

So on and on, into still deeper and heavier waters, did Speckle go. But he soon became very, very tired, for swimming in this heavy water was not the easy pastime of swimming in his own mountain stream. It was real work here propelling his little body, which was not equipped for great river swimming.

Had Speckle only realized that the farther he went the harder it would be for him to make headway through the turbulent water he might have turned back. But he was not a wise fish. He was a very wayward fellow, who had a mighty fine opinion of himself and his own ability. So he went on till the Great River swelled into something still greater—oh, so very, very great! He had reached the bay which led into the ocean!

Then came the dangers he had been warned of. And to make matters worse, immense flat things rolled noisily over his head every few minutes, creating veritable cyclones in the water. Speckle had no way of knowing those monsters overhead were boats of various kinds, filled with men and merchandise. He supposed they were some sort of surface fish.

But he had little time to conjecture about strange things, for of a sudden he found himself being pursued by a monstrous fish with a great open mouth. The open mouth was for the purpose of taking in poor Speckle. The big fish was hunting for his supper, and Speckle looked good to him. He seldom got hold of fresh water trout—a genuine mountain stream greenhorn! Here was a youth from the country and would prove a delicious meal. So thought the great fish in pursuit.

And Speckle knew that he was in great danger of being swallowed whole, fins, scales, tail and all. Then it was that he made a dart through the water as fast as his little body, so used to quiet streams, could go. And he succeeded in escaping the monster, but only by a tail's breadth.

But he was so frightened that he was resting to recover from the excitement when along came another more formidable enemy. And this one gave a nibble at his side before he could escape. Oh, how it hurt him, that contact with the great hungry fish! He almost went down the gullet of that fellow for a certainty! And he was badly wounded and in pain.

Then it was that Speckle remembered his good, wise parents' warning; remembered his happy home, and wished with all his fish heart that he was there once more.

"I'll go home as fast as I can," he resolved. And he turned tail toward the ocean and head toward home. But going in that direction was much more difficult than going down stream had been. The waters battled against him, and he began to realize that to go down the forbidden way was simple enough—till you struck the Danger Line! But that returning was a different matter. Oh, the way of the transgressor was hard!

All that dark evening and night did the wayward Speckle fight his way, making slow progress. Occasionally he was obliged to sneak into some curve in the bank and gather strength by resting. But even there lurked dangers by the score.

It was nearly a week before Speckle, all worn and ill, arrived at his own home pool. He found his parents and sister in deep grief, for they feared that he had met with death. They realized he had been disobedient and had swam away into forbidden waters. And they had no hope of his ever returning. Few did who went away like that.

Like all prodigal sons, Speckle was greeted warmly by his good, forgiving parents. Oh, where is the mother or the father who is not ready to receive the penitent son or daughter at any time? And though the naughty fish had brought the deepest anxiety and suspense on the loving members of his family, they all swam around him welcoming him home. And Speckle, fully ashamed of himself, hung his head and asked for forgiveness.

"I have had my lesson, Papa and Mamma," he confessed. "Now I should have my punishement. I do not deserve your kind treatment. I have brought trouble to you—caused you to pass through a most wretched week, and I can't express my shame and sorrow over it. I repent of my wrongdoing, and shall never, never offend you again. Oh, home, sweet, restful, happy home! It is better than all the rest of the Great World. Here I shall stay in future, and be happy."

And there was great rejoicing in the Trout family that day. Their wayward son had turned over a new leaf, and from that day meant to be loving, obedient and content. His lesson had cost them all dear, and none realized it better than did Speckle.

Jack and Kate.

OFF to school goes little Jack;
Books in satchel o'er his back;
Whistling gaily down the street,
Hair well brushed and clothes so neat.
Walks beside him Sister Kate.
They're always early—never late.
They study till the clock strikes four,
Then off towards home they go once more.

And at the supper table they
Do tell their parents of the day;
Then in the eve they sit and chat,
Their papa reading this or that.
But when the clock strikes half-past eight
Their mamma says, "Ah, it grows late!"
So off to bed they quickly go,
For early they must rise, you know.

HAL CHASE IS EXONERATED

Evidence of the New York Players Shows Stallings Up.

Cleveland, Okio, Set. 24.—An unofficial exoneration of Hal Chase, the New York baseball player, of the charges made against him by Manager George Stallings, was issued late last night by President Ban Johnson of the American league, following a conference with Frank Farrell, owner of the New York team.

"Stallings has utterly failed in his accusations against Chase. He tried to besmirch the character of a sterling player. Anybody who knows Hal Chase knows that he is not guilty of the accusations made against him and I am happy to say the evidence of the New York players given Vice President Somers this morning, showed Stallings up."

The official decision will be issued tomorrow or Sunday by Mr. Farrell.

DULUTH HAS FAST SKATER

Frank Bryant Has Defeated Every Opponent in the Northwest.

Though it is not generally known, Duluth has one of the fastest roller skaters in the Northwest—a boy who has been brought up in this city and who learned the game in the rinks of this city. Frank Bryant is the skater referred to, and the coming winter he will aim to meet the fastest skaters in the Northwest, on the Lincoln Park roller rink, where Bryant won every race he started in last winter.

Though Bryant is just a youngster, he has beaten all the skaters in this part of the country. He is a protege of Carl Mainella, the manager of the Lincoln Park rink, who has backed Bryant in all of his races.

From a raw beginner, who showed fair promises, Bryant has developed into one of the very fastest men in the country, and today is open to meet any man in the country, from one to five miles.

This winter Bryant's ambition is to meet Joe Munch, the fast Milwaukee man, who formerly lived in this city. Munch is conceded to be about the fastest skater in the Northwest. It would be a great feather in the young skater's cap to defeat Munch.

A race between William Grimmer of Minneapolis and Bryant will probably be arranged for next Friday night. Grimmer has been a persistent challenger of the Duluth boy, and as Bryant has answered the challenge of the Minneapolis man, it is likely that the race will be pulled off Friday.

After that Bryant will meet Munch, if that gentleman will come to the Head of the Lakes for a race.

FAST TIME MADE IN 2:07 PACE.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 24.—Faster than any race this week of Grand circuit racing, was yesterday's 2:07 pace, which Independence Boy, winner Monday and again Tuesday, took in straight heats He did 2:04¼ the first time and repeated in the second heat, the third one being in 2:04¾. Ruth D. beat W. A., the original favorite for the place. Scienta, from Hartford, Conn., was favorite for the 2:15 trot. Fred F., first choice over Dirl, and the other 2:13 pacers, went in 2:06¾ in the first heat to lead Miss Peeler home. Fred F. took the third heat in slow time and the race was forced to go over until Saturday afternoon.

Bowling for Women.

The Majestic bowling alleys have been put in condition for the winter. The management proposes to give the patrons the same service that pleased last season. Many ladies have inquired regarding dates at the Majestic, and the present season more attention will be paid ladies' bowling than has been the practice heretofore.

QUARRELS AND QUERIES

Grammar is an invention to embarrass political speakers, baseball players and prize fighters.

A few years ago Charles Webb Murphy, the portly prosperous owner of the Chicago Cubs, was a clerk behind a soda water fountain, doing errands on the side. Now he has a residence worth $60,000 and has change for newspapers and the current magazines. The only one we know, who has been more successful in such a short time, is a horse jockey. In these days of political investigations and difficulties in the professional, why not point out the openings in baseball for your loving son, even though he be a delicate boy?

Mary Ward of Detroit, Mich., after being arrested thirty-eight times, was again jugged the day before yesterday. Mary was one who could "come back" strong.

YALE AND HARVARD IN GOLF FINALS.

Manchester, Mass., Set. 24.—Harvard and Yale are battling tomorrow for the individual inter-collegiate golf championship, F. C. Davidson of Harvard, and R. F. Hunter of Yale, being the survivors of play on the links of the Essex Country club Hunter came through to the final round by defeating the present inter-collegiate champion, Albert Seckel of Princeton, 3 up and 2 to play. Davidson won his place by defeating G. C. Stanley of Yale, 1 up.

WILL DISCUSS LEAGUE PLANS

Fate of Organization May Be Threshed Out at Eau Claire.

At the Minny league meeting, to be held at Eau Claire early next month, the matter of the proposed new league, to include St. Paul, Minneapolis, Winnipeg, Duluth, Superior and one other city, will play an important part in the deliberations.

The towns of the Minny league that have not been included in the paper proposition, are holding their chins in the air and saying things that are not in the least nice. For instance, one down-state paper remarked: "It was not a question of whether Duluth and Superior would leave the league, but whether they would be allowed to remain in it."

It is very probable that some of the owners will demand to know just what the magnates at the Head of the Lakes are going to do about baseball next season. If there is any definite assurance of the proposed league being a go, and the Minny league disbanding, there will be a lively scramble for players among the men who plan to get in the new baseball venture.

The meeting at Eau Claire will be a very important one, as there are some magnates who want to know the future of the league that came perilously near going up the past season.

CENTRALS PLAYING TWO HARBORS TEAM.

Central and Two Harbors will meet in the first football game of the present season this afternoon. The game will be interesting from the fact that it will give some idea of the new rules. The game will be called at 3 o'clock. A large crowd of rooters is expected.

Caponi Gets Decision.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 24.—Tony Caponi of Chicago got the better of Kid Ashe, in a 15-round bout here last night. Caponi outclassed Ashe in every way.

Play at Superior.

Tomorrow afternoon, at Hislop park, Superior, the Big Duluths of this city will play the Turnbull-Cameron-Degler baseball team of Superior. The Superior team has won all the games in its class, and as the Big Duluths have a very strong team, the contest should be a very interesting one. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

(BY BRUCE.)

Ladies and gentlemen, we have here Jack Johnson and Sam Langford, two brunettes of a decided tendency. Both have a grievance, so let us bring them together and start something.

Well, they got together, the day before yesterday in a Boston newspaper office. Did they make a match? They did not. Money and conversation were mixed, and diamonds and rolls flashed, —but there was no match made.

Johnson says Langford does not really want to fight; that this talk of the $20,000 side bet is all wind, the kind that blows in Kansas and turns out Populists. Langford says he sure do want to fight that Johnson man, and that any time a club offers a purse, he will put his money up.

Woodman, the manager of Langford, has been doing a great deal of talking. He has been telling how he would follow the champion around the world, and would resort to every device to force Johnson into a match. The chance seems to have presented itself, and yet Langford was the dark-skinned gent who did not have the lucre.

There are few who think either Langford, who never was accused of having any brains in that queer shaped head of his, or Woodman, would be so foolish as to place $20,000 real money on the chances of the stubby one and the long black. Real money, too, is the kind that Johnson likes most to fight for.

We will probably be treated to a lot of talk before the thing is over with. The fight should be a good one, and Johnson should win handily. Langford is one of the greatest, but he surely lacks the class of the present champion.

Athletics Have the Flag.

There is no doubt of the pennant race in the American league. That sounds strange, now doesn't it? The Athletics could lose every game from now on until the end of the season, and still win the flag. They are galloping home. There is nothing to the race, that earlier in the season was conceded to the Tigers by the majority of writers around the big circuit.

What a great fight Connie Mack made for the flag last year, and this too with a bunch of youngsters who had not become acclimated to the storms of adversity that all young players in the majors must face.

Hughey Jennings even went so far as to say that the Athletics were not game. He has probably regretted saying this a number of times the present season. By defeating the Tigers in the big majority of the games played the present season, and at a time when games counted most, the Athletics have shown whether or not they are yellow.

What a wonderful trio of players Mack has developed in Barry, Collins and Baker. These men have come to the front since the opening of last season, when the Athletics were hardly given a chance to finish in the first division. The playing of these three infielders, steadied and made confident by the cool presence of Harry Davis, is what has made the Mack team such a hard proposition to beat.

There are many students of the game who will say that the Athletics of today are a better team than the Tigers the best day the Jennings crew ever had.

It is the weakness of man to kick the swiftly departing tobogganists.

Those on the run for the deep slide, are very liable to get a kick in a place that will hasten their departure for the has-been home.

The Tigers are not has-beens by any means, but they are not the team they were last year—not the way they have been playing all through the present season. They may say that the Cubs are not the team that they were three years ago—yet they are good enough to win, and baseball is getting faster all the time.

But returning to the Athletics. They are a great team. They are probably the greatest team in some ways that the American league has yet produced. The great chance for the American league to dispell th idea that the older organization is the faster of the two, is here.

Boston, the Comiskey White Sox, the Detroit winners—can you truly say that any of these teams were as great as the Mack machine of today? There are few who will stick a safety pin in that.

With the Mack men as great as the best, the world's series should furnish the best baseball of any of the interleague clashes. They will be games worth going miles to see, and the team that wins—that team will be good enough for Sweeney.

He's Coming Back.

Just to show that this anti-come back dope is all to the fritz, Fielder Jones, one-time leader of the White Sox, will come back next year and manage the club, according to the story that is being told in the corner cafes of Chicago.

Mr. Jones doesn't know whether he can make a success of the team after being out of the business such a long while, as time goes these days, so he is only going to accept $20,000 a year and 10 per cent of the profits of the club. He won't take another cent.

The present season Comiskey built a new park, bought a new team, hired a new manager and made arrangements for a great season. The new park was the only feature that played according form; the team and manager and consequently the receipts fell down.

With Fielder Jones back in the game, Commy is very sure that he can produce a winner. He ought to at $20,000 and peanut privileges.

What Kind of Catchers?

Outfielder Zimmerman of the New York State league stole 107 bases during the season that has just closed. Little Zimmerman may be awfully fast and very clever at getting away with the motion of the pitcher—but one is prompted to wonder deeply at the quality of the catchers in the league.

THE FERRO AND CAPT. LARSEN.

Capt. Klaus Larsen demonstrated on Sept. 18 that a motor boat could pass safely through the Whirlpool Rapids and the Whirlpool of Niagara. Larsen's Ferro is the second engine-propelled craft to navigate successfully the Whirlpool Rapids. Peter Nissen of Chicago, took an ordinary boat through in 1900 and C. A. Percy of Niagara Falls went through in 1887 and in 1901 in an engineless craft. Larsen's feat was witnessed by an enormous crowd of spectators, to whom the tiny craft, for the most part, was lost to view. Just after he left the pool the engine stopped and Larsen had many narrow escapes before the boat ran near enough to shore for Larsen to be taken off.

FIRST TRIAL OF NEW FOOTBALL

Gophers Are Meeting Lawrence College on Northrop Field.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 24.—The new football rules will be tried out for the first time this season by a Western conference team, when Minnesota meets Lawrence college in the first game of the season on Northrop field. While Minnesota will have seven veterans in the game and a likely bunch of new men to fill the other four places, the Gophers do not look for a walkaway as Lawrence players have shown a disposition to give a good account of themselves in the last few years.

The Minnesota veterans in the lineup today are: Capt. Johnston, ex-Capt. McGovern, Rosenwald, Stevens, Walker, Pickering and Young. The latter did not play last year but was a member of the team two years ago. Pickering, last year's fullback, will be played at end.

The working out of the new rules will be watched with a great deal of interest despite the fact that only the simplest formations will be used by Minnesota, as the Maroon and Gold men have been practicing for only a week. Four ten-minute quarters will be played.

KARL LEHTO MAY MEET ROLLER HERE.

Karl Lehto has evidently decided to go after some of the best men in his class. Yesterday, through a close friend of the famous Flun, came the announcement that Lehto was anxious to meet Dr. Roller in this city some time the present winter.

Lehto's manager has been here on a quiet bit of business the past few days. He wants to get the Copper Country man on here, and he wants Lehto's opponent to be a man well known in the wrestling game.

From the friends of the Flun's manager, comes the statement that Lehto will go after the best of the heavyweights the present season, with the hope of showing his many friends in the Northwest that he is one of the best wrestlers in the business.

Adams Vs. Bryants.

The Adams and Bryants will meet at Athletic park tomorrow. The Adams are out for the Head of the Lakes championship the present season, and with that ambition in view, will try to win all of the games played here the present fall. The Bryants also have ambitions, so that the first clash of the season promises to be filled with interest.

Bowlers Will Meet.

Bowlers of the city will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at the Majestic bowling alley for the purpose of reorganizing the Commercial league, determining what shall be done with the money left over from last season, and also to appoint a committee to draft a schedule for the coming season. The season will open in a short time, and the Duluth bowlers desire to get started as soon as possible.

SAYS CATTLE TICKS LED TO SETTING FOREST FIRES.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Cattle ticks are declared to be indirectly responsible for the forest fires in the West which already have cost scores of lives and property losses of millions. The bite of this pest is believed to produce a malignant fever, and in an effort to rid the forest, as well as their stock, of the insect, settlers have been setting fires to the woodlands, according to H. H. Chapman, assistant professor of forestry in the Yale forest school.

FINDING JOBS FOR CRIPPLES

Employment Bureaus for the Handicapped—Need for Special Industrial Training—Learning Stenography Without Hands.

By JAMES P. HEATON.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

A beggar holds out in mute appeal two haunting stumps of arms. Miserable apologies for arms; both hands are missing. "Poor fellow! he'll never be able to do anything," people think, and he reaps a toll from the passing crowd.

Well, what can he do? More things than at first seem possible. He can learn stenography. This is not a flippant joke. August Grembel of Munich, Germany, was born without hands. With the aid of special apparatus he writes with a pen and has become fairly proficient as a stenographer. Other kinds of possible work are tending news-stands or serving as time keepers and watchmen. If the man is intelligent he could answer questions at the information window in a railroad station.

When it is realized that every minute some one in the United States is being killed or injured, the need for an agency to find suitable jobs for the disabled is obvious. Approximately half a million people a year are injured in factories, mills and foundries, by accidents on railroads, trolley cars, and boats, and in mines and in other industrial catastrophes.

How are we to help the handicapped to earn a living? The Special Employment Bureaus for the Handicapped in New York and Chicago partially answer the question. A porter who has lost a foot must change his work. The bureau finds him a position minding a private telephone exchange.

A typesetter lost his right hand from blood poisoning. His friends pitied him and thought he would never be able to work again. It did seem so. He could not dress himself or cut his own food. His self-reliance was gone. At the bureau he was met with a bracing contempt. "You've got two legs and two eyes and strength. Why, you might have lost both hands. Then you would have been in a fix."

The typesetter was sent to a farmer on trial. A month later he was seen by the manager of the bureau driving a four-in-hand.

Often it is difficult to get a man into a self-reliant frame of mind. If he is suing some company for damages he believes that he will get more if he can plead he is unable to work. While waiting weeks, months, and even years for the trial, he is acquiring the habit of not working.

A man who loses an arm is industrially more seriously handicapped than one who lacks a leg. Almost any trade calls for two hands. There are possibilities open, however. Such a man can serve as a telephone operator in a small private exchange, or as a theater usher or messenger, not to mention tending a news-stand or serving as time-keeper or watchman. A one-armed man is one of the telegraph operators on a great daily paper in New York; receiving newspaper copy is one of the hardest tasks in the telegrapher's trade outside of work in Wall street.

The disability of old age is the heaviest handicap of all. Two years ago many men who had held steady jobs for decades lost their work. A clerk who has labored for thirty years in a house dealing in wool is practically unable to get out of the rut.

For such men places as errand boys, elevator operators, or hall porters are sometimes secured. The choice is limited and it is depressing to see men who have held responsible posts reduced to work that is such a contrast to their past.

Special employment bureaus are not a sufficient solution of the problem. The man with one leg, the woman with hip disease, the girl with heart trouble—these cannot compete on an equality with the able-bodied. Yet they may often be capable of good work and worthy of more than the economic waste of mere dependence. To overcome the handicap of physical and mental defects special training is needed. By becoming expert in some trade they will not have to earn a precarious living as newsboys or drift into institutions.

Two years ago 200 factories were canvassed. Many excellent openings were found for the handicapped in work which permits the operator to labor while seated and does not require unusual strain. Institutions for training the blind, and the deaf and dumb have already shown their usefulness. Similar methods will succeed with the handicap. Factory work may seem undesirable, but the drudgery of fixed hours is offset by the number of light tasks that can be performed while seated.

Among occupations open to the handicapped apprentice, the artistic jewelry and leather trades are foremost. The work is done while seated. The materials are light. The shops are well lit and sanitary and the wages and hours good. The artisan has an opportunity to use creative talent. The manufacture of flowers and feathers is not so highly paid, unless the worker becomes expert at making roses or ostrich feathers.

In a piano factory the small parts of the machinery can be made by one who is handicapped, as the work, though requiring skill, exacts no physical strength. In the "action department" hammers are cut and covered with felt, keys overlaid with ivory and valves made, all of which is light work. Hand-folding is another possibility. In bookbinding "case-making," or gluing and setting the covers into the binding, requires little physical strain. Candy dipping is another skilled task that does not require strength.

A number of occupations can be pursued either at home or in a small shop by those who are unfit for factory life. Rugs, sofa cushions, piazza mats, etc., can be made on small hand looms. The manufacture of flannel and woolly toy animals or of jig saw animals are other callings that can be developed.

The training necessary to fit cripples for these callings must be furnished in special schools. The school should conform in hours and regulations as far as possible to those prevailing in factories of a high standard. Wages must be regulated by the pay given in the trade. The step to the factory must be marked by an appreciable increase of pay. Wages may be covered partly by sale, but before the student can make saleable articles the remuneration must come from philanthropic sources. In some cases special machinery adapted to the worker's deformity must be devised. Such a school would teach several trades in the city where it is located, and the pupil would be taught those for which they are best suited. By such methods much can be done to restore the handicapped to the great race of life and to relieve the community of a large part of its burden of charity.

CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE CUYUNA RANGE

THE CROSBY BALL TEAM.

The Crosby baseball team claims the championship of the Cuyuna range. The Crosby team has played steady and consistent ball the past season, making a fine record. The players are all Crosby boys, and in another season they are confident that they will stand a very good chance of winning the championship of the two ranges.

Manager A. E. Brink of the Crosby team has made the following selection of what he considers the all star team of the Cuyuna range: Catchers, Parker of Brainerd and Peterburg of Aitkin; pitchers, Sager of Crosby, Bush of Brainerd, Latimer of Crosby and Rhodes of Cuyuna; first base, Hollister of Crosby; second base, Richards of Deerwood; third base, Bowman of Crosby; shortstop, Bobbie of Cuyuna; right field, Loydahl of Crosby; left field, Rice of Deerwood; center field, Hudson of Crosby; utility, Wilson of Aitkin.

G. A. R. TAKES NO ACTION ON STATUE

"Dollar-a-Day Pension" Plan Is Voted Down By Encampment.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 24.—After a debate of more than three hours, the national encampment of the G. A. R., at its final session, indefinitely postponed action on the controversy over the statue of Robert E. Lee in statuary hall in Washington. The vote was 133 to 102, small compared with the vote of 827 cast for commander-in-chief Thursday.

The encampment rejected the proposition recommending that congress be asked to grant each Union veteran of the Civil war a pension of $1 a day for life, but indorsed the McCumber bill now in congress relating to the provision of widows.

Following the debate the encampment installed the newly elected officers. Before "taps" was sounded, bringing the encampment to a close, Commander-in-Chief John F. Gilman of Boston announced the following appointments: Adjutant general, E. B. Stillings, Post No. 113, Massachusetts; quartermaster general, Col. D. R. Stowitz, Post No. 9, New York; assistant quartermaster general and custodian of records, J. Henry Holcomb, Post No. 51, Pennsylvania; senior aide and chief of staff, William M. Olin, Post No. 26, Massachusetts.

The headquarters of the G. A. R. for the next year will be at the State house, Boston.

DR. COOK HAS CHANGED HIS NAME ONCE MORE.

New York, Sept. 24.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the vanished explorer, has been sighted again, this time in a Munich hotel, under the name of "Mr. Coleman and family." Michael M. Ryan of Bridgeport, Conn., has informed the New York Times, which today publishes his account of how he met the doctor.

"I arrived in Munich on Aug. 13," said Mr. Ryan, "and on entering the dining room of my hotel, I was amazed to see Dr. Cook, his wife, son and daughter, sitting at a table. There was no attempt at disguise.

"I am acquainted with the doctor, and on recognizing him, I immediately walked over to him, addressing him by name. He knew me. There was not the slightest sign of embarrassment or nervousness in his manner."

Mr. Ryan's circumstantial positive account would seem to dispose of the reports from Copenhagen that Dr. Cook is now on his way to the Artic with John M. Bradley, his former backer, to search for the proofs he said he left at Etah.

READS PRISONER LECTURE ON KINDNESS.

Judge Cutting read Matt Suojanen a severe lecture in police court yesterday afternoon in finding him guilty of making threats against his father-in-law, Thomas Johnson of Midway, and placed him under bonds of $100 to keep the peace for six months.

It appears that Suojanen and his wife have been living with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who claimed in court that Suojanen had been cruel to them. It was also said that he was trying to drive the old people from their home.

Judge Cutting stated that he did not think that Suojanen had been terribly harsh towards the aged couple, but had vented a mean temper upon them. He told Suojanen that in the future he must be kinder and have more patience, even though his father-in-law did occasionally imbibe more alcohol than was good for him and fuss around because he thought he wasn't well treated.

MANY INFLUENCES AFFECT BUSINESS

New York, Sept. 24. — R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

With crops aggregating large in quantity and value, in spite of the reduced yield of spring wheat, with politics becoming so intense and uncertain as to make enterprise timid, and with the railroads and shippers in a dispute over rates, the business outlook is mixed, trade reaction being very plain in some important directions, while at the same time there are streaks of progress and activity.

Interest in iron and steel has centered chiefly in production of an early general reduction of prices on finished steel products which have been frequently discussed, and the effect has been disquieting, notwithstanding denials from well-informed sources.

New business has diminished, but aside from railroad material, a good production continues in finished lines. Some increase in the volume of pig iron orders for this year's shipment is noted. The wire trade reflects considerable activity, but demand for rails is not brisk.

In the drygoods market the improvement noted in silks and ribbons is continued and a few mills are running full and overtime. In woolens and worsteds, the demand as a whole is better and yet orders are so small and irregular that mills are not yet able to resume operations in a large way. Cottons are generally in moderate demand and throughout the trade, there is a desire to confine orders to actual requirements.

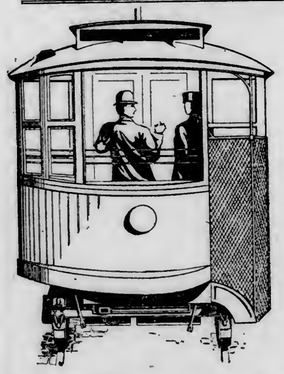

Footwear conditions show a slight improvement, but the actual volume of trade continues moderate. The amount of new business, however, is somewhat larger.

CANADA IS TO HAVE AGENT AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The state department officials believe the appointment of a representative of Canada at Washington, to which post George H. Gall has been appointed, will expedite negotiations between the Washington and Ottawa governments. While the state department has not been officially advised of Mr. Gall's appointment, the creation of such an office was determined upon with the knowledge of the United States government. The title the representative will have has not been made known. He will be the mouthpiece of the Canadian government with wide discretion in his intercourse with the state department. Theatles, however, can be signed only by the usual diplomatic officers.

Mrs. Jacob Wilmert, Lincoln, Ill., found her way back to perfect health. She writes: "I suffered with kidney trouble and backache and my appetite was very poor at times. A few week's ago I got Foley Kidney Pills and gave them a fair trial. They gave me great relief, so continued till now I am again in perfect health." Sold by all druggists.

PEOPLE'S DIALOGUES No. 3

"Well, Jim, how's the old boy tonight?"

"Oh, so-so! I put in a good hard ten hours today, believe me. Was mighty glad when it was quitting time. Been feeling weak and dizzy all day."

"You feel weak, eh? Say, Jim, I know what you need. I've got something up to the house that will 'kill' that dizzy feeling of yours, that you get after working hard all day. Come up now and have some."

"If you mean booze, none for me, thank you."

"I tell you it's a drink that is not intoxicating, I know, because I have used it at home for years. It's made by the People's Brewing Company, who operate the most completely equipped plant hereabouts, and have a system of brewing as nearly perfect as can be. The utmost care is practised in the preparation of all the materials used in the brewing of PEOPLE'S BEER, and when it has gone through their great sterilizing plant, it's purer than water. You try some now and see if it won't make you feel right."

Jim is now ordering PEOPLE'S BEER by the case. He thinks it's great!

BROWNE REBUFFED IN PARTY MEETING

Illinois Democrats Have a Stirring Session at East St. Louis.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 24.—Lee O'Neill Browne, recently acquitted of bribery in connection with the election of United States Senator Lorimer, was refused recognition twice on the floor of the Illinois Democratic state convention here yesterday. As a member of the resolutions committee, he was told by Roger C. Sullivan, national committeeman of the Democratic party in Illinois, not to assert himself.

The platform adopted was different in many planks from the draft which the committee took into its room. Loud words were heard from the room. These were from Browne, who called some members of the party who recently met at Peoria "blackmailers."

Browne was named on the resolutions committee by members of the Twelfth senatorial district delegation. His name was hissed and cheered by delegates.

The Democratic party, according to the platform, admitted that Senator Lorimer was elected by the votes of some of its party, does not assume that it has any political interest in Senator Lorimer, and it does not clear him as representing the principles of the party. The election is deplored.

NORA LEAHY.

This is the day of the girl swimmer. Rose Pitonof has swum to Boston Light, Alsie Aykroyd has led a foreign battalion of swimmers through part of a race on the Thames, the Due sisters have dived seventeen ways into the East river. No doubt Annette Kellerman is responsible for this sudden effusion of young women disporting themselves like mermaids in the waters of the Atlantic coast.

Now comes Nora Leahy, who is slim of figure and strong of arm, who has been through Hell Gate in a nine-mile swim and who says she is going to jump from the Brooklyn bridge some day. Nora is only 17 and lives in New York. She was born on an Atlantic liner while her mother was coming from Ireland and learned to swim by falling into the East river at the foot of Twenty-fourth street. She has saved many lives and received many rewards.

AT THE THEATERS

THE COMING WEEK IN DULUTH THEATERS

LYCEUM—Monday, "The Lottery Man;" balance of week, Pierce Players in Repertoire.
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville.
ORPHEUM and LYRIC—Motion Pictures.

This is the season of mourning in New York theatrical circles.

The last sad rites are being said over the early season failures, and the corpses are being laid away, some of them to be revived later, perhaps, with a new title and some new lines and scenes.

"Miss Patsy" ended a brief and inglorious career. "The Brass Bottle" has finished its run. "Love Among the Lions" has been withdrawn to give way to a more popular attraction. "Bobby Burnitt" failed to draw and "The Fortune Hunter" has been replaced by "Get Rich Wallingford."

This has been a season of farce and scores of more or less funny farces have appeared. The majority of them have been failures. "Love Among the Lions" was hailed as one of the best of the new farces, and was claimed by the New York critics to deserve a better fate than befell it. It is still too early to select the real successes of the New York season.

One of the New York producers recently received a one-act playlet called "Roosevelt" from an aspiring author. There were but three characters, Teddy, Kermit and a wild boar. The death of the wild boar at the colonel's hands is graphically told and then Theodore, repentant, wraps an American flag about the body of the animal and declaims: 'Thus, my son, you see, the spirit of mortal should not be proud." In an explanatory note the author says he intended to convey by symbolism the fact that Teddy is still the dominant figure in American politics. Delicacy would forbid inquiring just who was intended for the boar. The play, needless to say, was not produced, but it is strange that the symbolism idea didn't catch one of the New York managers.

The reformer who selects the popular song as a field for his labors should make a big hit with a long suffering public. In the song foundries there seems to be a fixed set of rules that are iron clad. "Moon" must always rhyme with "June" or "croon;" "love" with "turtle dove;" "sighs" with "eyes" and so on through the old weary rigmarole. The sentiment is not always too delicate, and in these modern days it is not uncommon to hear little misses of 8 and 10 years of age humming "I Love My Wife, But Oh You Kid" or some such classic instead of the discarded nursery tunes. One Duluth father got a rather rude shock last week by hearing his 7-year-old hopeful shouting "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" in a boyish soprano, as he dressed for Sunday school.

The local theatrical season is running along quietly with nothing of particular note happening. "The Blue Mouse" at the Lyceum proved to be a funny and rather enjoyable farce. It was followed by the much maligned fight pictures. "The Lottery Man," will be seen for one night only, Monday, owing to the fact that the company could not catch a train out of Winnipeg in time to reach here for Sunday night, and the Pierce Players will return for the balance of the week. Both the Orpheum and Bijou had excellent bills last week and the popularity of vaudeville continues unabated.

THE STORY OF "THE LOTTERY MAN."

Imagine the feelings of an old maid who finds herself in possession of a coupon which entitles her to 50 per cent of a $300,000 fortune and a young and handsome husband to boot, and then being suddenly disillusioned!

In "The Lottery Man," Rida Johnson Young's comedy, which the Shuberts will send to the Lyceum theater for an engagement of one night next Monday evening, Sept. 26, after its eight months' run at the Bijou theater, New York, "Jack Wright," a newspaper reporter, persuades his paper to start a lottery, offering himself as a prize. The returns are even greater than anticipated. Before the scheme is begun, Wright declares that he will surrender himself without reserve to the woman who gets the lucky number, regardless of nationality. He does, however, draw the color line. He falls in love afterward with an attractive girl, whereupon he realizes the impossibility of the match unless, of course, he can get possession of the winning coupon. He enlists the aid of his friends to start a crusade to "corner" the market. When the attractive young lady in question, however, learns of the plan, she is properly indignant, for in her opinion, the matter resolves itself into an attempt on the part of her finance's friends to buy her a husband.

The final day of the lottery arrives. The winning number—1323—is announced. Lizzie, the old maid companion of Mrs. Peyton, mother of the proprietor of the paper, is found to be the winner, and naturally, to her will go half the fortune as well as the husband. Immediately she plans for a "nest in the Bronx." Wright suggests giving her his share of the winnings. She refuses, declaring that she wants the aforesaid "nest in the Bronx." Quite unwittingly the reporter discovers that Lizzie has stolen the coupon having the number 1323, and when she is threatened with arrest gives up, being promised, however, in return for her great sorrow, that they will, by hook or crook, get her another husband.

The play had considerable vogue in New York where it played to excellent returns throughout its engagement. A cast of Broadway favorites will be seen in the local presentation, including Nettie Black, Carolyn Lee, Helen E. Davidge, Lenore Halstead, Clara Coleman, John W. Lott, Joseph Yanner, Ernest Shield and Grant Clark, all of whom have been prominent in the casts of a number of New York successes in recent years.

"MIDGET CHARLIE" AND EDWARD PANTZEE.
Of the Pantzer Troupe at the Orpheum Next Week.

TWO BIG FEATURES ON ORPHEUM BILL.

Two well-known vaudeville acts will be featured on next week's bill at the Orpheum theater.

The diminutive comedian, Arthur Dunn, is known in almost every large city in America. He and his associate, Marie Glazier, have been featured with numerous musical comedies and comic operas both in the East and the West. Arthur Dunn is a creator of comedy parts, and owing to his size and his genuine ability as a comedian, he has always been in great demand by producing managers.

He and Miss Glazier have a condensed musical playlet known as "The Messenger Boy." Mr. Dunn plays the part of a messenger boy, and it gives him plenty of opportunity for his fun making. The playlet is claimed to be full of action, fun and melody.

The other big feature act for the week is "The Six Musical Cuttys." There are many musical acts in vaudeville, but none have a greater reputation than this. The six performers are brothers and sisters, and for many years they have been top liners in the vaudeville world. They have held one of the pemiere places in America for years, and have but recently returned from an European tour, where they played in the largest music halls in Berlin, London, Paris, Vienna and St. Petersburg. They are again swinging around the Orpheum circuit, and they have been a tremendous hit in other cities, judging from the press notices given them. Aside from the attractiveness of the feminine members of the troupe, and the skill of the Cutty brothers, they always have a repertoire that is strictly up to date. They probably keep in closer touch with the music-publishing houses than any other troupe of performers, and their act is constantly changing. The 'cello solo by Miss Cutty, which is one of the big features of the act, is about the only number that remains unchanged.

Decidedly out of the ordinary will be the performance of "Jolly Fannie Rice" in her original conception of a miniature mimic stage. In a unique kind of Punch and Judy show she presents a number of characters and several caricatures of men and women who are in the public eye. The jovial Fannie is a favorite among the performers, and is one of the best known and most popular actresses in "the profesh." She has been in vaudeville for many years, and her "merrily, cheerily, verily yours" is as familiar a trademark as the "fifty-seven varieties."

Few vaudeville performers have appeared as many times before royalty as Midget Charlie Pantzer, the leading member of the Pantzer troupe of acrobats, who will present a new acrobatic turn next week. The Pantzers themselves are a family of aristocrats, the forefather of the present generation having been knighted, and Ernest Pantzer of the present troupe is a baron. Charlie, the remarkable little acrobat of the troupe, was born in Hamburg, Germany, and although he is 17 years of age, he looks like a lad of 8 or 9. He is three feet six inches in height and weighs only sixty-five pounds, but he is claimed to be a phenomenal acrobat.

Goff Phillips is a well known minstrel, who has forsaken the sinking ship of minstrelsy for the sound, young bark of vaudeville. He has a new line of songs and stories and some impersonations of other famous burnt cork stars with whom he has been associated in the earlier days of minstrelsy, when the famous black face comedians were in their prime.

The intricacies of the art of hoop juggling will be shown in all its phases by the five Alphas. As the curtain rises scores of brilliantly colored hoops are shown on the stage, and the entire troupe gets down to its juggling without delay. The tricks follow each other rapidly, and a comic juggler does his share to entertain.

Bert and Lottie Walton are probably better known along Broadway than in any other part of the country. They are both former musical comedy stars, and they are claimed to have one of the newest and best singing and acrobatic dancing acts on the vaudeville circuits. They were very popular in New York, and while their act consumes but ten minutes, it is claimed to be bright and snappy for every second of that time.

The kinodrome, showing the latest motion pictures, and the overture by Bradbury's concert orchestra will complete the bill. The first performance of the new bill will be given Sunday afternoon, and it will hold the boards all week with daily matinees. The matinees open at 2:15 and the evening performances at 8:15. Seats may be reserved by telephone, but they are not held after 1:30 o'clock for the evening performances.

PIERCE PLAYERS RETURN TO LYCEUM.

The Pierce Players, who are well and favorably known locally by reason of their past performances in this city have been booked for a return engagement at the Lyceum opening next Tuesday, Sept. 27, and continuing for six nights with matinees Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

During this time they will present three popular and well known high-class royalty bills, two at least having never before been seen in this city. The plays announced are Rida Johnson Young's comedy, "The Boys of Company B," which will be seen Tuesday and Wednesday; "The Prisoner of Zenda" will be put on Thursday and Friday; and the dramatization by Augustus Thomas of Richard Harding Davis's famous novel, "Soldiers of Fortune," Saturday and Sunday.

"The Boys of Company B," which opens the engagement Tuesday evening, is a comedy of the "Brown of Harvard" type in which Rida Johnson Young has again dealt with the romance of "salad days." The "boys" are members of a New York militia regiment, and wear brass buttons enough to fill the average young person with awe and admiration.

The piece is produced under the auspices of H. E. Pierce & Co., and had a long run in New York with Jack Barrymore at its head.

THE WEEK'S BILL AT THE BIJOU.

Harry Leonhardt's "Polly Pickles' Pets," which is an elaborate vaudeville extravaganza which includes fifteen people, mostly girls, will be the feature of next week's bill at the Bijou It is produced on the lines of the great pantomimes which have long been so popular with London theater-goers. The scene is laid in Petland, where Miss Polly Pickles entertains her friends, the Elephant, the Cat, the Dog, the Parrot, the Teddy Bears and the Four Buster Browns. Petland is the refuge for all lost pets, and the sketch tells of the search of Polly Pickle for her lost kitten, with all the other animals helping her to find him. The four Buster Browns assist Polly in singing, "Has anyone Seen a Kitty-Cat," "The Feline Flirt," and "The Jack O'Lantern Man." The act is beautifully costumed, and the special electrical and scenic effects with the fifteen artists go to make it one of the biggest things in vaudeville in the musical comedy line.

The following is a recent notice from the Philadelphia Record: "It is some time since the patrons of vaudeville have been treated to so genuine a novelty as is presented in Harry Leonhard's pantomime, "Polly Pickle's Pets in Petland," which is appearing at Keith's this week. In the legitimate theaters the musical comedies have been presenting something like it, but these efforts always extended over several hours, while in the present instance all the tiresome features have been eliminated and the dross separated from the pure metal. The various members of the cast are more than capable, led by pretty and winsome Polly Pickle, and the impersonations of the various animals are at once unique and entertaining."

A singing comedian who has become a vaudeville favorite is Billy Chase, who looks and dresses the part of a beau-brummel, but his songs contain genuine laughter. He is known in vaudeville as the Tip-Top Songster.

A clever gymnastic novelty will be presented by the Two Rials, who come direct from the Oxford theater, London, to the Sullivan & Considine circuit in this country. Their offering is a combination of gymnastics and comedy creations. The woman of the act is a wonder. Her evolutions in midair cause much wonderment. Both are talented entertainers, being good singers, artistic dancers, clever jugglers, acrobats and comedy artists.

A very interesting number will be by Beatrice Turned, who is billed as "Just a Joyful Jollier," with an abundance of good stories and a list of topical songs. Miss Turner has had a world of experience in musical comedies, comic operas, and her vaudeville act is comprised of choice bits from the different productions she has starred in.

A feature that will be one of the principal offerings for the week will be the Four Herschhorns, who are Alpine entertainers and who have one of the most gorgeous scenic singing acts that has ever been produced in vaudeville. The curtain goes up on a beautiful sunrise in the Alps. Singing is heard in the distance and then nearer and nearer one hears the singers, when finally they come gliding into view in a canoe. It is very realistic and the picture is one of beauty and interest. These singers render selections in both German and English and their Tyrolean songs are sung with perfect harmony. The yodling of the ladies in the act is said to be very good. There are also some instrumental numbers introduced in the act.

The added feature for the week will be May Nannary and company in the powerful labor playlet, "The Hand That Rules." The piece was written by Al C. Joy, the well known critic of the San Francisco Examiner. Miss Nannary is one of the most popular of Western actresses, and says that every wife, mother and daughter of the laboring man should see "The Hand That Rules." Its style is a markedly novel one, as it presents the sensational features of melodrama, together with the absorbing theme of the extremely intense drama. The story deals with the wrongs heaped upon a struggling working girl who had previously been robbed of her heritage by the wealthy employer. In the existing conflict between the labor union and the employer, she takes a decided stand in the defense of the struggling masses A particularly impressive and realistic stage effect is shown during the action, when the doors are thrown open and a working mill revealed.

The moving pictures will conclude the bill.

Matinees are given every day at 2:45 and performances every night at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone, one week in advance. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Coming Attractions.

Slander and its far reaching effect on the innocent is the theme of "The World and His Wife," which William Faversham will present at the Lyceum early this season. "Slander" one of the characters declares, "pronounces and judges, and there is no logic that can convince it, and the honestest has not a rag of honor left, and the terrible thing is that while it begins in error it generally ends in truth." Unusually to modern drama, the big stirring climax comes where it rightfully belongs—at the end of the play. Mr. Faversham will be supported by a particularly able company including Julie Opp, H. Cooper Cliffe and Harry Redding.

Harry Bulger in "The Flirting Princess," his latest success, which had a run of one year in Chicago last season is coming soon. "The Flirting Princess," is by Adams, Hough & Howard, the successful autnors of "The Prince of Tonight," "The Goddess of Liberty," and "Miss Nobody from Starland," which should act as a guarantee itself. The Apache and Vampire dances and the barefoot chorus may be mentioned as a few of the sensational novelties of the show.

De Wolf Hopper in his most recent success "A Matinee Idol," in which he recently concluded a record breaking engagement at Daly's and the Lyric theater in New York, will be seen here soon. Mr. Hopper will be supported by that most delightful of all comedienes, Louise Dresser, and the original New York company.

Among the more important engagements that have been scheduled for the season at the Lyceum will be that well known stage picture of optimism, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which will make its appearance here soon.

• • •

Among the notable acts due for an early appearance at the Orpheum are: Lionel Barrymore, McKee Rankin and Doris Rankin in a sketch called "The White Slaver;" William Farnum in a playlet; and "La Pia," the famous Spanish dancer, who has recently come to this country, and is now with the Orpheum road show.

AT THE MOTION PICTURE HOUSES.

At the Orpheum next week an excellent moving picture bill has been arranged. "A Summer Tragedy," is a dramatic film and "An Indian Girl's Awakening" is a highly interesting tale of an Indian girl's love. "The Vagaries of Love" is a comedy film. Miss Maddox will sing, "Night Brings the Stars and You."

At the Lyric "The Two Sisters," is a dramatic story told by films. "Unconscious Heroism," is a thrilling tale unrolled by first class films. "He Met the Champion, is a funny film "Whist" is a humorous story. Fred Merritt will sing, "On Mobile Bay."

DOG AND PONY SHOW COMING

Duluth Will See Another Tent Performance This Season.

Andrew Downie and his company of educated dogs and ponies will be one of this season's attractions. They will exhibit under canvas at Twenty-ninth avenue west and Superior street next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Andrew Downie is favorably known as a trainer of animals, and it is said that his company this year is even superior to that seen here before. There are 100 dogs and ponies in the company, all of which have been trained to a remarkable degree of intelligence. In fact, it is claimed, it would be almost impossible to devise a more pleasing and instructive exhibition than the one given by Downie and his talented dogs and ponies. The seventy-three dogs which form such an important feature of the entertainment are said to be unusually attractive, most of them being snow white. The ponies are the East India breed, and are much smaller and more shapely than the Shetlands. There are twenty-two of them and they all perform some unusual act. All of the little animals will appear in the street parade, which will be given Thursday, starting about noon.

Mr. Downie's dog show comes well recommended, and it is said to be well worth a visit. The dogs and ponies travel in a special train of cars which will arrive in the city early next Thursday morning, and will be open for inspection during the day. The show is especially attractive to ladies and children, who will no doubt take advantage of the opportunity to see the talented little animals together with many new added features.

"L'Enfant Prodigue" was revived recently at the Liberty theater. Inveterate theatergoers will remember that fifteen years ago this pantomime was produced at Daly's theater. The chief part was played then, as it was recently, by Mlle. Pilar-Morin.

The play in which William Brady is to star Holbrook Blinn is entitled "The Boss," and is by Edward Sheldon, the author of "Salvation Nell," in which Blinn made his greatest impression in support of Mrs. Fiske. Another play by Sheldon, called "The Murder," will be produced by the Shuberts.

Frank Lacy, a well known London actor, has been imported by Henry W. Savage for "The Little Damozel." This will be Lacy's first professional visit to the States.

Charles Frohman has entered into an arrangement with Liebler & Company whereby Richard Bennett comes under the management of the latter firm for a term of years. Mr. Bennett, about the beginning of the new year, will become a Liebler star in a comedy-drama now being written for him. Meantime, and until the new play is ready, he will appear as William Lake, the hero in "The Deep Purple," the new Paul Armstrong-Wilson Mizner collaboration.

Gladys Hulette will play the role of Mytyl in "The Blue Bird." Miss Hulette has been in the support of Bertha Kalich and Madame Naximova, and during the past two years has been with Henry Miller.

A road company in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" will be organized to allow the original company to remain in New York.

Liebler & Company have entered into an arrangement with Harrison Grey Fiske, whereby Emily Stevens is to create the leading role in a new domestic drama temporarily called "William." The play is by Bayard Vieller, a new author, and will be presented early in October. Charles Balsar will also be in the cast.

Klaw and Erlanger will star N. C. Goodwin in "The Captain," by George Broadhurst and C. T. Dazey, opening in Indianapolis in October. Mr. Goodwin will play the role of a globe trotter and clubman who has been an officer in the National Guard. He impersonates the regular officer who was the hero of the march to Pekin. In the action of the play he is called upon to live up to the hero's reputation for daring and bravery.

Elsie Janis opened in "The Slim Princess," the Charles Dillingham comic opera, at the Studebaker theater, Chicago. This piece is an adaptation of the George Ade novel, with book and lyrics by Henry M. Yena Ashwell, who has been in this country but once, has accepted the offer of Liebler & Co., to create the title role in "Judith Zaraine," by C. M. S. McLellan, author of "Leah Kleschna." Miss Ashwell, on the occasion of her only engagement in this country, played "The Shulamite," and alternated with Margaret Anglin in "Mrs. Dane's Defense," one player appearing in the emotional, the other in the comedy role, on succeeding nights. The novelty attracted wide attention at the time. "Judith Zaraine" will receive its first performance during Christmas week.

William Morris, the independent vaudeville magnate, made an important capture last week. Elgie Bowen, late star of "The Love Cure," has deserted the forces of Henry W. Savage for a lucrative vaudeville engagement. With Charles J. Ross, Miss Bowen opened in vaudeville last week in a sketch called "Kisses," as the headliners of the American Music hall, Chicago, program. Miss Bowen and Ross will doubtless be seen at the Orpheum this winter.

Although she has not graduated from the conservatory Mlle Faber has appeared successfully in vaudeville and now she is making a sensation in the ingenue role of "Les Precieuses Ridicules" at the Comedie Francaise. This brilliant young actress was not awarded the grand prize at the conservatory, because she broke the rules of the institution by playing a short engagement at the Palais Royal, but she was given an honorable mention by the jury of judges. She has also played engagements at the Porte Saint Martin and the Odeon. The Paris critics proclaim her another Rejane.

Arrangements have been completed between David Belasco and Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger by which "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," by Kate Douglas Wiggin and Charlotte Thompson will be brought into Mr. Belasco's theater in New York on Monday evening, Oct. 3. This will enable "The Country Boy" to continue its run uninterruptedly at the Liberty theater.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" had the unique distinction of opening its season last year in Springfield, Mass., and scoring a success so instantaneous and so unequivocal that it never got out of New England during the whole season. In fact it played the Tremont theater, Boston, for nearly five months.

The title role in the play will be assumed by Miss Edith Tallaferro, younger sister of Mabel Tallaferro, whose youth and physique are said to be peculiarly adaptable to this role, her age, in fact, just narrowly escaping the jurisdiction of the Gerry law in New York. Others in the cast will be Ada Deaves, Marie Day, Viola Fortescue, Violet Mersereau, Eliza Glassford, Lorraine Frost, Etta Bryan, Kathryn Bryan, Archie Boyd, Mahlon Hamilton, Sam Coit and Ernest Truex.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will again head the list of independent dramatic attractions. Their repertoire will include, in addition to the list of Shakespearean offerings with which they are familiarly associated, a new mammoth production of Shakespeare's "Macbeth." This production will be made during the height of the season, Mr. Sothern for the first time assuming the role of "Macbeth" and Miss Marlowe appearing in the famous role of "Lady Macbeth."

Madame Macbeth will add two new plays to her repertoire—"The Fairy Tale," by Arthur Schnitzler, which she will present for the first time in the English language, and Sudermann's "Johannisfeuer." She will also be seen in two of her Ibsen successes, "Little Eyolf" and "A Doll's House." Madame Nazimova will make a tour to the Pacific coast before returning to New York for her annual season at Nazimova's Thirty-ninth Street theater.

Miss Maxine Elliott will inaugurate her season at her own New York playhouse—Maxine Elliott's theater—presenting "The Inferior Sex," (in which she scored a great success last season at Daly's theater), for a limited engagement of only two weeks. She will then go on tour until the holidays, when she will return to New York to be seen in a new play. Miss Elliott will go to London to play there next spring.

Madame Bertha Kalich will open her season in a new American drama by Samuel Shipman, entitled "The Woman of Today," with a supporting company including Walter Hale, Isabel Lamon, John Findlay, Frances Nordstrom, Earl Ryder, Edward McWade, Emily Wakeman, William Henderson, J. K. Hutchinson, Harry L. Barker, Frederick Roberts, Joseph P. Winter, Mathilde Boring and Frank Dawson. Later in the year she will be seen in "Youth," translated from the German of Max Halbe by Herman Bernstein, and in "Sold," translated from the Russian of Georg Erastov by Mr. Bernstein.

Marietta Olly, who has been abroad seeking a new play, has cabled the Messrs. Shubert that she has found an ideal vehicle. She will be seen in this new play and also in Henri Bernstein's "The Whirlwind," in which she made her English-speaking debut last winter.

Harry Conor and Mabel Barrison will go on tour in "Lulu's Husbands," surrounded by a company including Margaret Sayres, Fanchon Campbell, Sophie Tucker, Mae Carlisle, Edward Heron, Riley Chamberlain, Thomas Delmar, James Wright, H. S. Sargent, Henry La Nott, Frank Daniels, Jr., and Harry Sargent. This is the farce in which they were seen last spring at Maxine Elliott's theater. "Lulu's Husbands" will also be presented by a second company, which includes Julie Ring, Louise Dempsey, Charlotte Hicks, Myra Bacheler, Owen Baxter, James Norval, Charles Willard, Charles Eastwood and Neal Burns.

Florence Roberts, Theodore Roberts and Charles Richman are among the stars who will appear in "Jim the Penman," the revival of which created a great sensation in New York last spring, for a limited road tour. Miss Roberts will then be starred in a new play by Edward Sheldon, entitled "The Murder."

George Fawcett goes on tour in "The Great John Ganton," and a new play entitled "The Fighter." The latter piece is dramatized by Hilliard Booth, from Albert Payson Terhune's novel, "Caleb Canover." His supporting company will include Ann Cleveland, Louise Marshall, Florence Glenn, Frank Wilcox, Royal Byron, Lucius Henderson, George Warrington, Louis Bresson, Charles A. Gay and Samuel Godfrey.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

NORTH LAKE MAY BE DRAINED

Marquette Range for Miles West of Ishpeming Being Tested and Some Companies Have Met With Much Success in Explorations.

Ishpeming, Mich., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Marquette range for miles west of Ishpeming, extending the Michigamme and beyond, will be thoroughly tested with diamond drills the next few years now seems certain. Some of the mining companies owning lands in that region have met with such success in the exploratory work already conducted that continued and more extensive operations are being planned. It is no secret that satisfactory results are being obtained. Ore has been encountered in many diamond drill holes.

It is expected that in time the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company will undertake the draining of North lake, upon the east shore of which the North Lake mine is now being opened. This lake is three miles west of Ishpeming. In view of the fact that ore bodies have also been found on the west shore, it is thought that the deposit extends from one side of the basin to the other. The lake is three-quarters of a mile across. Thus there is indicated an ore body of truly vast extent, particularly since diamond drilling has determined the mineral to penetrate to very considerable depths.

Further west of North Lake the Cleveland-Cliffs company is testing lands near the old Dexter Hematite mine, has built up a little village of neat dwelling houses, and has a shaft well along towards the ore deposit, a steel head frame over it and substantial buildings holding adequate machinery. This property—the Barnes—will soon be in condition to open up the ore.

West of the Dexter location the next active spot is the American mine, where the Hanna interests are now fairly ready to develop the property. The American was operated many years ago. The shaft has been deepened, new levels added and the mine splendidly equipped with the necessary machinery. The property has been opened up most satisfactorily in ore, the vein showing greater dimensions than at any former time in the mine's history.

Directly west of the American, and in a great swamp that stretches away in that direction, George J. Maas of Negaunee and several associates have been operating diamond drills the past two years. A vein of fine hard ore and an immense deposit of soft hematite of commercial value have been found. There is in addition a large area of ores of low grade which it is planned to concentrate. The property is now to be developed by the North Range Mining company. The tract will be supplied with what it needs in the way of a surface plant and with a substantial shaft to be sunk at least 700 feet before the ore is sought by connecting drifts.

The Maas interests control a large acreage in the vicinity, and intend doing work on other lands than those embraced within the corporation now being organized. It will take a year to get the first shaft down to the high-grade deposits. The lean ores will not be given any attention at this time. They are considered in the assets as being valuable when the market may need them, but the higher grades will first be attacked. The Steel corporation is exploring just west of the Maas holdings. It has two diamond drills in commission, and it intends to put down a series of deep holes. The exploratory work is well located on the iron formation and much is hoped to result from it.

ENCOURAGING AT LIVE OAK

Churn Drill Work Proves Satisfactory in Blocking Out Good Ore Body—Mining Company Likely to Be Organized Soon.

Globe, Ariz., Sept. 24.—At the property of the Live Oak Development company three churn drills are being kept in operation with most encouraging results. The latest favorable development has occurred in churn drill hole No. 22 where chalcocite ore has just been encountered at a depth of 414 feet, the capping here, as in most other places on the Live Oak property, being Schulze granite. Hole No. 22 is located 100 feet north of the shaft and 100 feet west of it, the shaft referred to, being, of course the vertical one in which copper sulphide or chalcocite was first discovered at a depth of about 200 feet.

Churn drill hole No. 20 is now being put down at a location 300 feet south and 100 feet west of the vertical shaft. At the present depth of 382 feet, this hole is still in schist which at present contains no copper. Hole No. 21 located 500 feet south of the shaft and 100 feet west of it is also in nonmineralized schist at a depth of 299 feet. It is expected that the two holes last mentioned will pass into ore within a few days. The formation penetrated in nearly every case in prospecting the Live Oak property with churn drills consists of Schulze granite, non-mineralized schist and copper-bearing schist occurring in the order named from the surface downward.

As has been the case for several months, the Live Oak Development company is directing all its attention toward determining by churn drilling prospection the extent of the ore body in different directions from the vertical shaft where development began. No work, consequently, is being done underground, as the management desires, first of all, to know the exact shape of the ore body, so that blocking out may be continued intelligently and at a minimum expense.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Live Oak Development company, held in Bisbee, Ariz., Sept. 13, certain minority stockholders made an ineffectual attempt to use their influence to transfer the control of the Live Oak mine to the Lewisohn interest which already control the Miami Copper company in the same district. The balloting, however, resulted in the re-election of Henry B. Hovland of Duluth, Minn., Hoval A. Smith of Bisbee, Ariz., and Samuel F. Kaufman of Chicago. In this way the management maintains its control of the company's business affairs and will probably soon take steps toward organizing mining company to take over and further develop the property now held by the Live Oak Development company.

TO CLOSE COURTLAND MINES

First Step in Curtailment by Calumet & Arizona—Retrenchment Temporary, Says Management, But Camp Feels Gloomy Over Its Action.

Courtland, Ariz., Sept. 24.—The first step in Calumet & Hecla curtailment was made here last week. Arrangements were made by General Manager John C. Greenway, who arrived here from Bisbee which will result in the shutting down of the local Calumet & Hecla properties.

The announcement was received with dismay by the business of the city, as the action means that the mines' payroll will practically be reduced one-half.

Consternation reigned in mining and mercantile circles a short time after the news was made public.

Although the report was given out that the shutdown would be merely temporary and that the work would be resumed on the properties as soon as the price of copper would make such operation profitable, there are many here who take the gloomiest view of the situation and fear that a few months more will see Courtland, but a few months ago a noisy and prosperous mining camp, nothing but a location on the map.

Later developments were regarded as tending to confirm this belief, when the announcement was given out that the Courtland branch of the Citizens' Banking & Trust company of Bisbee would soon follow in the steps of the Calumet & Hecla, and abandon its business here as the result of the shutdown. This would be another staggering blow to the struggling camp.

Supt. W. E. McKee and H. S. Curry, chief clerk, were closeted with Mr. Greenway on his arrival here. The pair were seen on the streets a few minutes after the interview, but they declined to add anything to the formal announcement of the proposed shutdown.

It is reported that Manager Young of the Great Western, which is shipping fifty tons daily to Douglas, has said that the Calumet & Hecla curtailment will in no way affect the present plans of his company. He expects to continue active operations.

THE NEVADA CONSOLIDATED

Extending Its Stripping Operations at Copper Flat and Increasing Its Ore Reserves—Thorough Overhauling Given Concentrator Near Ely.

Ely, Nev., Sept. 24. — The management of the Nevada Consolidated company is taking advantage of the lessened demand for ore tonnage to extend its stripping operations at Copper Flat and to increase its ore reserves.

Both of the new steam shovels recently received by the company have been placed at work in the old pit at Copper Flat, while one of the older and smaller machines has been transferred to the new pit on the Liberty claim, removing the thousands of tons of over burden which must be disposed of before the ore deposit is available for steam shovels. One churn drill from Copper Flat has been taken to McGill and from there will be taken by means of its own traction engine to the head waters of Duck creek, where the Steptoe company is still further extending its system of storage reservoirs.

An important development to the Steptoe Valley Smelting & Mining company is the discovery of a strong flow of artesian water at a depth of only a few feet from the surface on the hillside just a few hundred feet from the officers' quarters in the company town of McGill. The flow, which amounts to about 400 gallons a minute, will be directed into a reservoir and from there pumped to all parts of the town of McGill for domestic use. All of the water from the Duck creek pipe line formerly used for domestic purposes will be available for the Steptoe concentrator, where it will come in very handy during the weeks that must yet elapse before fall rains will replenish the water supply in the mountain streams.

The fourth unit of the Steptoe concentrator, which has been shut down the last few weeks, apparently with a view to curtailing production, has undergone a thorough overhauling and will be started up again in a few days. Where the fourth unit is started up another one will be shut down and put in the hands of the repair men for several weeks. In this way the company will doubtless make up to some extent in increased efficiency the amount that is lost by shutting down a portion of the plant.

INTEREST IN THE VERMILION

Expected That the Coming Months Will See Great Activity—Knife Lake Slate Belt With Unusual Surface Showings Has Bright Prospects for Thorough and Practical Operations.

Tower, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—An exceedingly strong current of interest is setting in towards the Vermilion iron range. The present outlook here is that the coming months will see a great activity. This view is supported by the very heavy travel, the numerous exploration enterprises, the negotiations for options and the strong demand for fee interests. Much of this activity is so quiet that knowledge of it is not general but to those who observe closely in touch with the situation, the facts are most apparent.

In the Ely region, for example, the volume of activity is as great as ever and much stronger interests are slowly entering the game. That broad belt between Tower and Ely holds its popularity. Right around Tower the outlook never was brighter.

East of Tower there is a very decided activity. There is a strong and attractive belt of Knife Lake slates with very unusual surface showings. This belt was not touched during the exploration activity twenty to twenty-five years ago, aside from a very few superficial pits. Today, no area of equal extent on the entire range is more active or has brighter prospects for thorough, practical, serious operations.

This belt begins on the west with Pine Island, where the Vermilion Iron Exploration company is sinking a shaft. Eastward, on the mainland is a substantial tract under option to the Chicago-Vermilion Iron company. With forty acres in between, next comes the Rice Bay Iron company's option. Adjoining that on the east is the state lease of the Scott-Bevier Iron company.

Alfred Merritt Buys Fee.

It is stated that Alfred Merritt has acquired the fee to forty acres in section 35, on the northerly side of Rice bay. He bought it on the representations of D. V. Scott as to results on the Scott-Bevier property. Mr. Scott was with Alfred Merritt when many of the first discoveries on the Mesaba range were made and his honesty and opinions are held in high esteem by Mr. Merritt. Report has it that the forty was acquired from Iowa owners and that the consideration was $8,000.

J. E. Jopling, representing the Cleveland-Cliffs company, recently was over this Knife lake slate belt and he was much pleased with the showing. He stated that it would arouse deep interest if on the Marquette, Mich., range, and he expressed the opinion that iron would be found very close to the surface on some of the properties if results come up to surface indications.

Capt. Jarchow, who is connected with the Pickands-Mather interests, has been over this belt a number of times during the year past and he not only has said that it will bear close watching, but is credited with saying that certain property on the belt has the best iron showing on the Vermilion range.

Speaking of David Scott, he and his associates must be credited with starting the first exploration work on the Vermilion range in connection with the present revival. With the "shot drill," invented by A. M. Bevier, work has started on the Scott-Bevier state lease even before T. J. Walsh started any of his now noted operations. W. A. Holgate, county treasurer, identified himself with the enterprise and others joined it from time to time. Work has been in progress for nearly three years now. During that time not only has much work been done, but the Scott-Bevier Iron-Mining company has been organized, rounded out and shaped into effective condition.

Good Surface Showings.

The state lease controlled by this company embraces the southwest quarter of section 36, 63-15, East and west, through the tract, extends a broad and deep basin or trough, more than a quarter of a mile wide and over 1,300 feet above sea-level. This basin is bounded on either side by greenstone bluffs, from 1,450 to 1,500 feet above sea-level, which break off sharply and dip precipitately downward, thereby forming the sides of the trough and walls of the ore-bearing formation. Through the center of the trough are two ridges, or islands, separated by a transverse break, or gap, which islands consist of iron-bearing jasper and slate. The southerly ridge rises to a height of 130 feet above the lower ground and the northerly one to about fifty feet. The topographical and surface geological features on this property are most impressive and interesting.

Exploration work, consisting of shafts, pits and trenches, demonstrates a very kindly ore-bearing formation of sufficient commercial ore to make the sponsors for the enterprise feel amply warranted in undertaking heavy development work. Competent engineers, skilled in the Swedish method of prospecting for iron with magnetic instruments, have worked out details that back up surface showings and plans for further work.

The iron-bearing formation consists of ferruginous jasper, chert and slate. From these mother rocks the iron has

EARLY TRIAL OF SMOKE CASE

Attorney General Wickersham's Inspection of Conditions Believed to Indicate Action Soon—Probability That Parrot Suit to Upset Merger Will Be Withdrawn—Barnes-King Resumes Work.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the so-called smoke case suit is being rapidly got ready for trial is evidenced by the fact that Attorney General Wickersham, the special prosecuting attorney in the case, Lygon Johnson of New York and District Attorney Freeman have paid a visit to the smoke zone and made a thorough investigation of conditions to be found there. The government representatives were accompanied by President John D. Ryan of the Amalgamated Copper company. Head Counsel Kelley of the Anaconda company and representatives of the Deer Lodge ranchers. The party traveled in automobiles and inspected the soil, trees and grain growing in the valley and said to be effected by the smoke and gases from the smelter. On the return trip Anaconda was visited and the party went through the Washoe smelter, spending several hours in a close inspection of the entire works and viewing for some time the big stack from which issues the alleged poisonous fumes. The attorney general was shown every possible courtesy by President Ryan and the Anaconda company officials, and he is believed left the state very much impressed with the immenseness of the Washoe plant and its modern equipment. During the attorney general's visit he was entertained by Lieutenant Governor Allen on one occasion and by President John D. Ryan of the Amalgamated Copper company at a dinner on the eve of his departure for Washington. Senator Carter was a guest on both occasions.

Suit Against Heinze.

Attorney L. P. Donovan was appointed receiver of the Hypocka Mining company some time ago for the purpose of endeavoring to secure a judgment rendered against the Hypocka Mining company for $12,575 in a suit for personal damages. This company was organized several years ago by F. Augustus Heinze and whatever property it possessed was disposed of to T. F. Cole for $25,000, which money is said to have been paid to Heinze. It is claimed that Heinze appropriated this money to his own use. To recover the amount of the judgment the receiver has brought suit against Heinze and the papers were served on him since his arrival here. The total amount asked with interest is $15,407.25, together with an attorney fee of $5,000 and $1,000 additional to pay for the expenses of the receivership.

May Drop Parrot Suit.

The belief seems to grow that the suit brought by Boston stockholders against the Parrot Copper Mining company for the purpose of having appraisers appointed to value the property of the company, with a view to its being that the sale to the Anaconda company under the merger term was considerably below the real value of the property, will die a natural death. Three times the consideration of the petition has been deferred, the last continuance being made at the request of the petitioners until Oct. 31. At the Anaconda meeting the offer of the Anaconda company to purchase the Parrot property for 90,000 shares of stock was accepted, there being 167,382 shares voted in favor of the sale out of a total issue of 180,000 shares. There were 3,575 shares voted against the sale. Those who voted against the sale and who are asking that appraisers be appointed to value the property represent 3,510 shares and are all Boston people, as follows: Mary C. Knight, 225 shares; Louis Foss, 200 shares; Isaac Bradford, 150 shares; Henry B. Jackson, 300 shares; William E. Wall, 1,000 shares; B. Heber Richardson, 1,125 shares; Benjamin P. Richardson, 10 shares. Under the laws of Montana, it was necessary for these shares to be voted at the meeting in order to petition for the appointment of the appraisers, and they were all voted according to law. The law provides that the owner of the property must accept the findings of the appraisers when rendered through the court, and, in addition, all the expenses incurred with the work of the appraisers. Before the sale to the Anaconda company was effected, an appraisement committee was appointed consisting of Jas. Galloway, superintendent of the Parrot, and E. P. Ardicks of New York. They recommended the purchase under the terms offered.

Barnes-King Resumes.

After being idle for about two months, the Barnes-King Gold Mining company at Kendall has started up work again with a crew of about thirty miners, under the direction of J. L Bright, who is acting for the company. It is believed by the management that sufficient ore can be raised to pay development expenses and do even a little better. The ore bodies are to be thoroughly explored, and whatever ore can be blocked out will be done. Experts have made a very complete examination of the mine and have reported so favorably that the management believes that the Barnes-King may yet be made a profitable investment.

Butte-Ballaklava.

The application of the Butte-Ballaklava company for a modification of the restraining order secured by the Anaconda company has been granted in part and the hearing has been continued for an indefinite date to allow the Butte-Ballaklava company to make

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Exploration By Algomah Company Revealing Considerable Copper Ore—South Lake Drills Into Very Rich Ground—Franklin Opening Much Better Grade of Copper Rock at Depth.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The exploratory operations of the Algomah Mining company continue to reveal considerable copper ore both in the shaft and in the surface trenches. The ore in the shaft has been opened to a depth of about 60 feet, and in the last 20 or 25 feet is shown to carry small nuggets of native metal imbedded in the ore and amygdaloid with which the ore is streaked. No native copper was noticeable nearer the surface. In the first cross trench, 500 feet north of the shaft, and in the direction of the Lake mine copper ore carrying fine specks of native copper has been exposed at a shallow depth. This trench which is the first of a series that will be run across the lode in which the shaft is sinking, will be followed by other cuts in an effort to determine the identity of this formation generally presumed to be an extension of the famous Lake bed. In the diamond drilling of this lode the No. 1 hole just completed discloses a width of 60 feet with between 30 feet and 40 feet showing copper ore, though not of apparent commercial value at a depth of about 500 feet from the surface. A second drill hole has been started 1,000 feet west of the shaft and will be carried deep enough to cut this lode about 500 feet below the No. 1 hole. The ore and which is expected to give way to native copper at depth, is a black oxide of copper assaying as high as 60 per cent copper, with the average nearer 30 per cent copper.

South Lake.

The South Lake diamond drill sinking in the No. 5 hole has drilled into a 22-foot bed of very rich copper ground at a depth of something over 500 feet from surface. This deposit is presumably the upper of the four encountered in drill holes Nos. 3 and 4 all of which disclosed mineral in exceptional quantities. The results obtained in the No. 5 hole indicate a nearly north and south trend in the several formations cut in this exploratory work. Paralleling the Lake lode to the westward these lodes apparently have their several outcrops or apices in the Lake Copper company's tract, and to reach them it will be necessary to sink through a heavy clay overburden quite 800 feet thick and then through a trap rock formation for a distance of 200 to 400 feet additional. The No. 5 drill hole will be pushed through the underlying lodes and trap before shaft sinking, which is expected to follow shortly, is begun.

Franklin.

Franklin continues to open a much better grade of copper rock at depth than was revealed in the laterials driven higher up, and above the twentieth level generally. The thirtieth level crosscut from the No. 1 shaft has just come into the lode and a very fine showing of copper is there exposed. Drifting is in progress both ways on the levels immediately above. The north drifts from this shaft several of which have entered the old Rhode Island tract now controlled by the Franklin company, are in commercial copper ground for the greater part and below the twenty-fourth level this condition is noted in either direction generally. The No. 3 shaft is temporarily bottomed at the sixteenth level awaiting the installation of heavier hoisting machinery. Only a limited amount of opening work has been done at that end, and little in the way of commercial copper ground has been exposed. The Franklin tract, including the old Rhode Island property carries approximately two miles of the strike of the Pewabic lode and for the greater part can be mined to almost unlimited depth. Present activities are centered in development work and no attempt is being made at production, the small output of copper yielded by the mine being merely incidental to the opening work in progress.

Indiana.

The Indiana drill holes, Nos. 7 and 9, which have for some time been in felsite continue sinking in this formation without revealing the degree of mineralization generally exposed though more or less native copper is in evidence. Both drill holes are sinking only a short distance from the famous No. 2 drill hole, in which the extraordinary rich copper deposit was encountered last January, and though they are in the felsite bed in which the rich deposit was found to occur neither has yet entered anything like comparative richness. That the enriched zone may lie deeper in this felsite bed at different points is possible and even more probable. It will be remembered the No. 2 drill hole was in a mixed felsite and amygdaloidal formation for quite 250 feet of which, however only about sixty-five feet carried good values in two separate deposits of twenty-five feet and forty feet, the ground intervening for a distance of about 100 feet and that just above and below these deposits showing little or no values.

La Salle.

There is little that is encouraging in the more recent development work in the Tecumseh mine of the La Salle Copper company. The No. 1 Tecumseh shaft has been temporarily stopped at the twentyfieth level, owing to inadequate hoisting facilities. At this depth and in the levels immediately above, drift stopes are being run both ways on the Kearsarge formation. The ground is below average grade though variable and occasional rich spots are met with, but these are few and far between. The lode too is rather narrow which tends to make costs higher per pound of copper produced, the distance between walls frequently narrowing to less than ten feet. In the No. 2 Tecumseh shaft, which has just reached the tenth level, little else than shaft sinking is in progress, and conditions there, so far as can be judged, are no different than what were had in the older No. 1 shaft, only a short distance north. More or less copper was found in the course of shaft sinking and in cutting plats at the various levels, but no laterals have been run out upon the lode. The Caldwell shaft nearly a mile south of No. 2 Tecumseh shaft, continues "feeling" for copper ground without much success. Considerable crosscutting and drifting in all directions failing to locate commercial ground. The stock pile accumulated in the course of opening work at the No. 1 Tecumseh sheaft has been cleaned up and shipments to the mill are now made up of rock coming directly from underground at that point. This shaft is as yet the only producer on the property and is yielding 200 to 240 tons of rock daily. The output in refined copper hovers around 60,000 pounds monthly.

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

Mine in Position to Begin Shipment of Ore—Transportation Rate From Ely to Smelter at Tooele Not Satisfactory.

Salt Lake, Utah, Sept. 24.—The Giroux Consolidated mine is in position to begin shipment of its ores at almost any time, yet there is no inkling as to when shipments will be started. When the extension of the Nevada Northern railroad to the Giroux main working shaft was made, it was understood that the mine would be shaped up for production at the earliest convenience, and that shipments would be started to the International smelting plant at Tooele. The smelter is operating with four furnaces, and could be made to handle a large tonnage from the Giroux mine at an early date, but it is claimed that the transportation rate from the mine in Ely to the smelter here is not acceptable to the Giroux company. The rate proposed was $5 a ton, but later it was claimed that it was reduced to $2 a ton. Whatever may have been the proposal for hauling the ore, it does not appear to have been satisfactory to the Giroux people.

A few days ago it was learned that some surveyors were in the field going over the route through Deep Creek to Ely. Yesterday it was rumored that some surveyors who were identified with the International Smelting company had started out overland from a given point on the Salt Lake route, and that they would make a survey through Dugway, Deep Creek and on to Ely. The proposed route is said to be very short, with an easy grade that would make the cost of construction not to exceed $10,000 a mile. As the route would only be a few hundred miles in length it is claimed that it could be built within a very short time, and thus give an outlet for the shippers of Ely and the intermediate points, including Dugway, Deep Creek and Fish Springs.

No one at the local offices of the smelting company appears able to throw any light on this matter. However, it is evidently the opinion of a number of mining men that Ely is to have another railroad, and that the Giroux and International smelting people may have a hand in the construction of the line. The Giroux will have its ores smelted at this point for a time at least, and the International smelting people propose to tap new fields where ores can be obtained for its mammoth plant at the head of Pine canyon.

NEW PILOT BUTTE COMPANY

Will Take Over Property of the Old Corporation—Interests of Stockholders to Be Protected—P. H. Nelson Is Chosen President.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 24.—The Pilot Butte Mining company has been organized in Butte to take over the Pilot mining claim, owned by the Pilot Butte Copper Mining company, the organization having been completed recently. The old company had a capitalization of 1,000,000 shares at the par value of $5 per share. The new company has a capitalization of only $1,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares having a par value of $10 per share. The old company will transfer all of its property to the new company, and the latter will pay off all debts and obligations of the old company, thus securing clear and absolute title to the property.

Some exceptionally strong interests will be found in the new company, as indicated by the new list of officers and directors. William P. Jahn of Milwaukee, president of the old Pilot Butte company; Thomas E. Murray of St. Paul and J. W. Pratt, a well-known business man of Butte, appear as the Incorporators of the new company, and the board of directors is made up of P. H. Nelson of Duluth, Edward Hickey of Butte, John A. Percival of Minneapolis, William P. Jahn of Milwaukee, A. O. Trostel of Milwaukee, N. J. Bielenberg of Deer Lodge, Patrick Sheehan of Butte, Thomas E. Murray of St. Paul and J. W. Pratt of Butte.

President Nelson is president of the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company and Mr. Hickey is vice president of the Tuolumne Copper company. Mr. Percival is secretary of the Butte-Ballaklava. Mr. Jahn is a Milwaukee capitalist, and was president of the old Pilot Butte company. Mr. Sheehan is superintendent of the Tuolumne, and Mr. Jahn announced that Mr. Sheehan would also be superintendent of the Pilot Butte and would have charge of all operations, which will be started up as soon as the reorganization and refinancing plans are completed.

The Pilot claim has been considerably developed already, the shaft, of three compartments, is 530 feet deep, and every one acquainted with the property and the developed mines in the neighborhood is confident that the Pilot will become a good producing mine. The Pilot and the property owned by the Badger State of the Anaconda company, the Elm Orlu and Poser owned by W. A. Clark, the Butte & Superior company property and the Berlin group of the North Butte company.

The interests of all the stockholders of the old company will be protected in the new company through an exchange of stock in which all shareholders will share equally on a pro rata basis.

ORE SHIPMENTS AT WARRIOR

One Hundred Tons of 8 to 10 Per Cent Ore Being Sent to Smelter Daily—Development Continues With Satisfactory Results.

Globe, Ariz., Sept. 24.—The shipment of 100 tons of 8 to 10 per cent ore is continuing daily from the property of the Warren development company. The ore is being hauled to the railroad siding near Miami by teams from the mine and shipped to the Old Dominion smelter. Development work is still being carried on west on the three-foot level by a westerly drift in the foot wall side of the vein. This drift is at present fifty feet ahead of the last crosscut that was run across the ore body, and this crosscut is ten feet abead of the forty stopes from which the ore is being extracted.

There are three claims which control the apex of the ore bearing trough running from east to west, the Dadeville, the Montgomery and the Winnie. These claims represent past, present and future as far as ore extraction goes, as the first ore was taken out of the eastern end of the Montgomery and from the Dadeville principally, the present ore extraction is being done on the Montgomery and the Winnie, the westermost claim is as yet practically untouched. There is a shaft down some eighty feet in about the center of the claim which is in the same type and grade of ore that is being shipped.

The probabilities are that when the Warrior mine is worked out in that one locality the westermost workings will be on the Inspiration line.

The other group of claims called the Lost Gulch group belonging to the Warrior people is detached from the main Warrior group and lies a few hundred yards north. This territory is practically unexploited at present, but gives promise of worth that is very encouraging. The main geological feature of the group is a contact between the so-called Lost Gulch monzonite on the south and diabase on the north. This contact is easily noticed for miles around on account of its vivid red color due to heavy iron stains, and when examined thoroughly is found to be the leached gossan of iron that overlies copper se frequently. Small bunches of carbonate may be picked up along this contact and its future in the event of exploitation to some depth is very favorable for the productions of large tonnages of copper ore.

TO ERADICATE A MINING EVIL

American Mining Congress Seeks to Protect Investors in Mining Stocks, by Making It Difficult for Fakers to Operate.

For the protection of the mining investors of the United States, the American Mining Congress has instituted a plan which seeks to rid the mining industry of one of its worst evils—the fake mining promoter.

The mining congress is a national organization of mining men, the directors and officers of which are men of the highest standing in their own states, whose only interest in the matter is the general uplifting of the mining industry. To this end the organization is working for the enactment of legislation which will so effectually curb the operations of those promoters who resort to misrepresentation and dishonesty to sell mining stock, that it will almost entirely rid the industry of this detestable evil. It is aiming to place mining more and more upon an investment rather than a speculative basis. It aims to prevent ill-advised mining ventures, particularly those which are palpably dishonest, and even to assist in the prosecution of mine fakers. It believes that every dollar improperly invested is a damage to all legitimate mining and is hurtful to honest enterprises, of which there are many.

In order to keep in touch with the needs of the mining industry the mining congress holds annual sessions, at which are discussed problems affecting mining. For several sessions past, the mining congress, through committees and general discussion, has been attacking the problem of how to eliminate the mining faker, and it is believed that a law which it has now drawn will have great effect in this direction. This subject will be taken up at the Los Angeles session of the mining congress, which will be held in Los Angeles Sept. 26 to Oct. 1, and steps will probably then be taken to have this law adopted by all mining states. The mining congress has already succeeded in getting this law enacted in seven states—Iowa, Connecticut, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana. California has also adopted a similar law, also Nevada.

"Any person who knowingly makes or publishes in any way whatever, or knowingly permits to be so made or published, any book, notice, report, statement, exhibit or other publication of or concerning the affairs, pecuniary condition or property of any corporation, joint stock association, copartnership or individual, which said book, prospectus, notice, report, statement, exhibit or other publication shall contain any statement which is false, or which is wilfully or fraudulently exaggerated, or which is intended to give or which shall have a tendency to give to the public generally or to any person a less or greater apparent value to the shares, bonds or property of said corporation, joint stock association, copartnership or individual, than said shares, bonds or property or any part thereof shall really or in fact possess, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned for not more than five years or fined not more than $5,000, or shall suffer both such imprisonment and fine."

HENRY WALLACE EXAMPLE OF HEALTH CONSERVATION

By R. W. Pullman.

Washington, Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The transformation of a [illegible] man, entering sick, broken-down clergy... his forties, and in the incipient stages of tuberculosis, to a man of health and vigor and untold helpfulness to the community is the present day miracle told in the life story of Henry Wallance of Iowa, the new president of the national conservation congress.

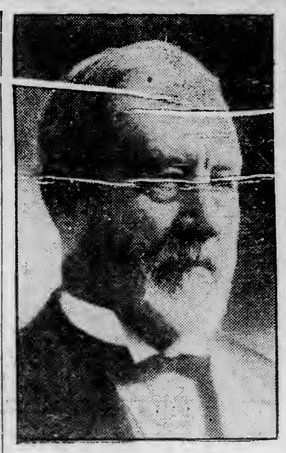

Today, at 74, the Iowa farmer and editor, healthy, and as strong and as active both mentally and physically as he was twenty years ago, is held up by his friends as a fine exmple of what can be done in the line of human conservation. That no one could have merited the recognition given him at the great gathering at St. Paul the first week of September more than he, is the view of "Tama Jim" Wilson, secretary of agriculture, Senators Dolliver and Cummins, and hundreds of others of his life long friends.

Mr. Wallace's story is simple, and as told by his friends shows that what he has done in the line of conservation of health others may do. Born on a farm in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, in 1836, he was educated for the ministry in the United States Presbyterian church, and during the ten years from 1866 to 1876 he preached in Illinois and Iowa. Tubercular trouble ran in the family, and from it he lost seven of his brothers and sisters, not one of whom reached the age of thirty years.

The family physician said that the minister, who was then approaching middle age, seemed destined to go the way the rest unless he immediately sought an out door life. A child of the farm and retaining a sincere love of agriculture after growing to manhood, Mr. Wallace gave up his pastorate, and again turned to the soil, purchasing a number of farms in Western Iowa, putting in his time driving from one to the other and giving them his close personal supervision. Early in the 80's he began writing on farm topics, and finally became editor of an agricultural paper. His work attracted widespread attention throughout the Middle West, and soon he became a force in the movement for bettering conditions on the farm. In 1895, with his sons, H. C. and J. F. Wallace he established Wallace's Farmer, a publication which has worked with the motto, "Good Farming, clear thinking, right living."

The Iowan editor was one of the first, if not the first, to put in practice the special train idea as relating to agriculture, "corn specials," as they are sometimes called. This was in 1896 when in company with dairying and agricultural experts he made a trip through his state for the purpose of stimulating an interest in dairying throughout Iowa.

His appointment by former President Roosevelt as a member of the Country Life commission came unsolicited and was entirely unexpected. He knew nothing about the movement to create a commission until one day when he received a letter from the White House requesting that he serve as a member. One of the first announcements which he made after his unanimous election as president of the national conservation congress was that the commission's report, with its enormous amount of new information of value to the agricultural interests of the country, will be published privately. The commission was broken up by the Tawney amendment to the sundry civil bill of

HENRY WALLACE,
President of National Conservation Congress.

The new president of the national conservation congress is past three scores and fourteen years of age, and his friends and associate say that he has shown that there is hope for sickly men if they will learn the secret of right living. He keeps young, he explains, by keeping the mind young, by exciting moderately, and taking a sufficient amount of physical exercise. The men in Iowa who know him best insist that his other conservation policies are just as sound as his theories on conserving health.

Mr. Wallace has not confined his writing to a mere discussion of better methods of farming and how to make more money out of the farm but has left free to discuss every subject that touches the life and welfare of the farmer of the West. A few years ago he overheard a quarrel between a father and a son on one of his farms, and the thought was furnished for a series of "Uncle Henry's letters to the Farm Boy," in which he dealt with the relations which ought to exist between the farm boy and his father, following with another series on the subject of the farm boy and his mother. The letters were continued in his paper for almost a year, and the demand was such that he was compelled to put them in book form. His was perhaps the first agricultural paper to publish each week an exposition of the Sabbath school lesson by the editor. This feature of his work has always pleased his friend Secretary Wilson, who wrote on the occasion of the "Uncle Henry's" seventy-fourth birthday, "I appreciate the great work he has done in his day and the great work he is doing now in the line of agriculture——work that is on a higher plane than that of any other writer of his day." The letter from the secretary of agriculture was one of 2,500 congratulating Editor Wallace at the time.

AT THE SUPERIOR & BOSTON

Sinking of the McGaw Shaft Continues and Opening of Lower Levels Will Be Awaited With Interest. Seventy Men Employed.

Globe, Ariz., Sept. 24.—Sinking of the McGaw shaft of the Superior & Boston property was resumed Sept. 10, following the return of Supt. J. D. Wanvig from a trip to Chicago and other Eastern points. The bottom of this shaft is now twenty-seven feet below the newly established eighth level and its total distance from the surface is 847 feet. Just below the eighth level station, which was cut at a depth of 812 feet, the shaft in sinking passed through a zone of shatered limestone which had prevailed for a considerable distance above and encountered a zone of quartzite in which the work is now progressing.

The station at the eighth level has now been completed and timbered, and following the completion of this work, a crosscut was started from the station toward the Great Eastern vein from which so much ore has been shipped during the past few months This crosscut is already 60 feet long. The opening of the Great Eastern vein at this depth should, in the light of its great productivity on the sixth level, be attended by noteworthy results and past development in the Copper Hill region has shown that the best ore deposits may be expected at great depth. It will be remembered that the Superior & Boston Copper company extracted and shipped daily from its stopes on and above the sixth level from the ninety to 100 tons of ore averaging about 9 per cent copper for a period of fully six months, so that there is no room for doubt that the deposit on the eighth and lower level will be of high grade and of great extent, thus making the future of the Superior & Boston mine one of great promise.

At present the company is not undertaking any further development work in other ports of the property remote from the McGaw shaft as it is necessary to concentrate operations on the McGaw and its laterial workings before the rest of the mine is made ready for ore extraction. However, as soon as the McGaw is sunk to sufficient depth and the eighth and ninth levels are well established, steps will be taken to make the valuable ore body at the Gardner shaft ready for production. The company has seventy men engaged in underground and surface work.

IRON MOUNTAIN TUNNEL CO.

Opens Up Great Body of Ore—Mill May Be in Operation Nov. 1—Supt. Davis Enthusiastic Over Property's Future.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 24.—Robert C. Davis, superintendent of the Iron Mountain Tunnel company, near Missoula, has been in the city for several days buying supplies for the fall and winter. He states that splendid progress is being made in the reconstruction of the old mill on the property and that the mill will be in operation by Nov. 15 at the latest and possibly Nov. 1. In its rehabilitated condition Mr. Davis says the mill will be practically a new one, as much new machinery has been installed. The property, he stated, will be on a producing and paying basis before the first of the new year.

On the 1,850-foot level Mr. Davis has opened up the ore body for a distance of 125 feet, showing a width of from ten to thirty feet. Scarcely any stoping has been done up to the present time, but the ore body has been proved to a satisfactory extent by a number of raises. Some of the higher grade ore has been shipped to the East Helena smelter and has netted a return of $125 to the ton in lead and silver values. The low grade ore is being placed on the stock pile and will be treated in the mill as soon as the latter is ready for operation. The mill will have a capacity for treating 200 tons a day. As it is mined the ore will average 6 per cent lead and about twelve ounces of silver to the ton, and the concentrates will carry 45 per cent lead and seventy-five ounces of silver. The middlings will be cut out and on later treatment will give a return of about 50 per cent zinc.

Last week Mr. Davis made a visit to the Blue Bird mine in the Corbin-Wickes district and gave directions for placing the property in shape for the winter by the building of houses for the mine employes. The mine has been cleaned up recently and some development work has been done, although only a limited amount of ore has been taken out.

OIL STOCK IS BROKERS' LURE

Want Holders of Goldfield Consolidated to Swap for Midway Oil Company in California—Oil Makes the Proposition Smooth.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 24.—Many investors who hold stocks of the more reputable mining companies such as Goldfield Consolidated, Tonopah Mining, Nevada Consolidated, Utah Copper and others are constantly receiving circulars from cut-rate brokers advising them to take their profits in these stocks and invest the proceeds in a cheap line of penny securities, mostly oil, at ridiculously low prices. Investors receive these circulars largely because somebody has been able to get hold of their names, which are registered on the stockholders' lists of these other companies, and in that way their names and addresses make the round of a lot of get-rich-quick schemes which they are constantly receiving.

An attempt was made last week to get stockholders of the Goldfield Consolidated to exchange that stock for a proportionate amount of stock in a company called the Midway Union Oil company. The letter is addressed to the stockholders and requests them to make this change by sending in their certificates, which, of course, the promoters of the oil scheme will quickly sell on the market and devote the proceeds to buying the oil stock which they are recommending. The circular says that those who bought the cheaper Goldfield stocks in the early history of Goldfield for a few cents and later managed to turn them into the consolidation made fabulous profits.

The same operation, they say, is about to be repeated in California oil stocks, and then goes on an attempted comparison between the value of oil and gold mining. The comparison sounds so smooth that it shows how hard oil promoters must be up to how to sell stock.

An oil well, according to this circular, can be sunk for between $30,000 and $50,000 against many times that amount for sinking a shaft in a mine.

"Oil wells have produced enough on the first day to pay for sinking the entire well, while mines take years. Oil cannot be stolen by employes.

"Oil wells are drilled in from three to six months. Mines require years."

Promoters of this kind of penny stocks fail to state that most of the oil projects in which the public have been asked to get into have cost it millions of dollars. Ask anyone who went into the Texas oil boom and who actually owns stock in the properties where the wells were gushing from 10,000 to 15,000 barrels of oil per day. They received a few dividends and have never heard anything of the enterprise since. Compare this result to what stockholders have received who have goen into the better and more reputable stocks of mining propositions. Here the investor has ore reserves assured for years and where the property has been placed on a dividend-paying basis, an assured income basis on the selling price of the metal can be depended upon for many years ahead.

been, at some time, oxidized and released, then taken up in solution, then precipitated, reformed and crystalized. It is the hope and belief that this process went far enough in the ages gone by to leave a broad and deep body of high grade hematite. It is proposed to use men and money freely to prove that belief.

The property, by the way, has large numerous and comfortable camp buildings. Three mining and lumber companies have operated in that neighborhood and their old camp buildings, in fine condition, now are available for the use of this company. Good trails lead here and there and Tower is reached by boat through Rice creek, Rice bay and Lake Vermillion in about an hour's time. A trip to the Scott-Bevier property is a pleasure trip.

The main shaft is down fifty feet. At that depth a crosscut was driven southward for seventeen feet but water was too abundant to handle with a hand pump and the work was suspended. High grade blue hematite ore was encountered at a depth of seventeen feet and the shaft is bottomed in material consisting almost wholly of commercial ore.

Several Drill Holes.

South of the shaft, several drill holes have been put down. One of them is 600 feet deep and will be made deeper when heavier machinery is secured. Most of the rock encountered in this hole was slate but the bottom shows iron and the company is confident that the bottom of the hole is not far from rich iro more. Anyway, there is a fixed purpose to find out. There are tunnels, open cuts and pits that show splendid ore and a very friendly and promising ore-formation when commercial ore is not in evidence. Depth is expected to show quantity and quality.

A large company of officers and steckholders visited the property a few days ago. Among them was W. A. Holgate, A. M. Bevier, Dr. Mitchell, E. A. Thompson, Walter M. Staudt, Ben Elmon and E. J. Collins, It was Mr. Elmon's first visit to the mine and he expressed great surprise and satisfaction. He said that he had not given proper credit to the representattions of his associates. The party took back a large quantity of high grade hematite ore samples.

Among the officers and directors of the company are W. A. Holgate, A. Bevier, David V. Scott, T. H. Hawkes of Duluth; C. Swanson of Superior; and Henry B. Wellenkotter of Tower.

The Rice Bay Iron company has been working on the Max Shapiro fee in the southeast portion of section 35, 63-15 ever since last March. Albert Kitto has had charge of the work. Associated with him in the deal are Thomas Owen, J. C. McGreevy, L. S. Loeb and H. J. Grannis.

This property is equipped with a hoisting engine, boiler and air compressor. A shaft has been sunk eighty-five feet and it is the intention to cross-cut the formation, southward, from the shaft. Several old pits, sunk twenty years ago, lead to the belief that something very satisfactory will be found by cross-cutting.

The trough found on the Scott-Bevier property also is found on the Rice bay property, but it is much narrower. There seems to be two veins of ore, but they are separated by about twenty feet of soap rock and Capt. Kitto considers the chances very good that the two ore bodies will unite with depth. Further west the veins grow wider apart, as shown by pits and trenches Capt. Kitto has dug. Several prominent mining men have made most favorable expressions concerning the probabilities on this property.

The Rice Bay Iron company has comfortable and convenient camp buildings near the shore of Rice Bay and a good dock for boats. So far, the cost of exploration work has been met by the members of the syndicate, but if the results from the proposed cross-cut come up to expectations, it is likely that operations will be greatly increased and the enterprise financed heavily.

The Grierson Land.

Westerly from the Rice bay property the Chicago-Vermilion Iron company has an option on the Grierson land. A good camp building has been erected near Lake Vermilion and some test-pitting done. Among those interested are Albert and Sam Kitto, A. A. Hobbes of Duluth, and Banker Maxcy of Bayfield, Wis.

On Pine island the Vermilion Iron Development company is keeping up work in fine shape. The shaft is down about eighty-five feet now and some good ore showings have been made recently. The shaft was started in greenstone, therefore no ore was expected for several hundred feet. This sudden appearance is, therefore, both unexpected and interesting.

The Pine Island roperty is equipped with a fine machinery plant and everything is running smoothly. Paul Chamberlain is consulting engineer and Fred Merrill of Tower superintends the work. Among the better known members of the company are Tilton E. Lewis and James Cardle of Duluth.

Easterly and just a trifle south of the Scott-Bevier property, are 120 acres owned in fee by the Irona Mining company of Duluth and Minneapolis. This land consists of lots 2, 3 and 4, section 5 62-14, north of T. J. Walsh's Vermilion Steel & Iron, and west of Vermilion Steel and & Iron Extension. It originally belonged to Charles Nelson of Virginia, but he sold it to Fred Rossom who, in turn, deeded it to the Irona Mining company. Mr. Rossom is president of the company, Er. C. J. Ringnell of Minneapolis, vice president; Gustavus W. Allen, secretary, and Johan E. Allen, treasurer, both of Minneapolis; Charles Nelson is a director. The company not only owns the fee outright, but has a capitalization of only $200,000.

This property embraces an iron-bearing formation of brown jasper, situated in a trough with greenstone walls. About 65 of the 120 acres bear this formation. The outcroppings from the very surface are strong in iron contents. Ore from very shallow pits assays 40 per cent in iron.

The Irona Iron Mining company expects to begin exploration work at an early day. The property is easily accessible, both via Rice Bay and Lake Vermilion or via the fine road from Mud Creek bay.

Mr. Walsh is drilling on the Vermilion Extension property and sinking a big shaft on Vermilion Steel & Iron. He has commodious camp buildings and a very neat power house with picturesque surroundings. He has installed a fine boiler, hoisting engine and air compressor. He has a large quantity of machinery on the ground for heavier work in the future, a good coal supply and a road from Mud Creek bay that well might be used as a model by the county commissioners. The Duluth & Iron Range has surveyed a line to the Walsh properties, and beyond. Mr. Walsh promises to have ore ready for shipment next season.

proof of ownership in the ground in question, when the case will again come up for argument. For the defendant company the attorney asked that the court modify the restraining order so as to allow the Butte-Ballaklava company to enter the mine to look after their property, timber where necessary and have the same privileges as enjoyed by the Anaconda company—in other words that the order be made reciprocal. It was stated that the Anaconda company employes had entered the Butte-Ballaklava mine through the High Ore workings and had inspected the property. The judge granted the request for modification of the order by allowing the defendants to timber where necessary, but declined to grant the request to make the order reciprocal for the reason that beyond a verbal statement of attorney, there was nothing to show ownership or trespass. The Butte-Ballaklava is shipping about 100 tons of ore each day and work is proceeding in other parts of the property cutside of the ground in dispute. It is claimed that there are four veins belogging to the Butte-Ballaklava company which have their apexes within the Burke and Ballaklava claims, the property owned by the Butte-Ballaklava company. The disputed ground is known as No. 3 vein or the Edith May vein, and on this of course, all work has been stopped since the injunction order was issued. On No. 4 vein the different levels are being opened and ore is being taken out, sent to the smelter. Secretary Percival, President Nelson and Supt. Newton are confident that the Butte-Ballaklava is a great property even without the disputed ground.

Butte & Veronica.

The Northern Pacific Railway company has secured a restraining order from the United States court against the Butte & Veronica company prohibiting the company from proceeding with development work in the railway yards. The mining company admits doing work in the railway yards, but claims that it is only for the purpose of proving its claims to certain ground over which the Butte & Veronica company is engaged in litigation. The railway company sets up the plea for its action that the mining company is digging pits and trenches which are dangerous to life and limb.

The Parrot's Dividend.

The Parrot Copper & Silver Mining company stockholders, as a result of the merger are to receive a dividend, news which has been received with delight by the holders of the stock in this city. It is the first dividend since September, 1907, when the amount declared was 25 cents a share. The 15-cent dividend just declared is payable Sept. 26 to stockholders of record Sept. 12. On June 30 of last year the profit and loss account of the company showed a deficit to date of $288,000. There is no bonded debt. The Parrot company owns twenty-seven mining claims, amounting to 236 acres, and a part interest in two other mining claims, all in this district.

Keating Gold Mine.

Information has been received here that the properties of the Keating Gold Mining company are steadily improving and the mine is producing greater values on the 300 and 400-foot levels in the north end of the property, than ever before in its history. The last two rounds opened into a splendid ore body, more than five feet wide, all solid ore, and the values run from $20 to $25 to the ton. In this portion of the mine two new stopes are to be started at once and the ore will be shipped at the rate of a car a day. Two stopes have been started on the north side of the property on the 500-foot level, showing a full eighteen-inches of high-grade ore and the average width of the ore body is from twelve to fifteen inches. It is stated that there is sufficient ore in sight to warrant continuous shipments at the rate of from 35 to 40 cars a month. The new electric equipment is all installed and in operation and the company is now in a position to thoroughly develop extensively and economically and at its present rate of earning should be in a position to declare a dividend before the close of the year.

Big Sapphire Found.

Montana for some years has enjoyed a national reputation for the excellence of its sapphires, and therefore it was not surprising when word reached the city the other day that a stone weighing five and three-fourths carats had been found in the Yogo-American Sapphire company's mines in Fergus county. It is claimed that the stone is the most valuable ever found in America and among the largest and most valuable in the world.

WHAT FAMOUS AMERICANS ARE DOING FOR FATHER AND MOTHER

rear of the house. Let's try it, anyhow."

So saying, he raised the ponderous iron knocker and let it fall with a thud. Almost immediately a neat maid servant admitted them and, in response to the senator's polite inquiry, informed them that they were welcome to inspect the premises from cellar to attic. Under her guidance the party made a thorough inspection of the place, which they found admirably supplied with modern conveniences so arranged that the historic appearance of the interior was unchanged. They were all loud in their approval of what had been done, none more decided than the senator.

As they stood again in the broad hall and the old couple had turned to get the parting glimpse of the house of their dreams, the senator asked: "Like it as well as you used to, father?"

"Even better," sighed the old gentleman. "It is my ideal of a home."

It was the senator's opportunity to launch his surprise and he did it.

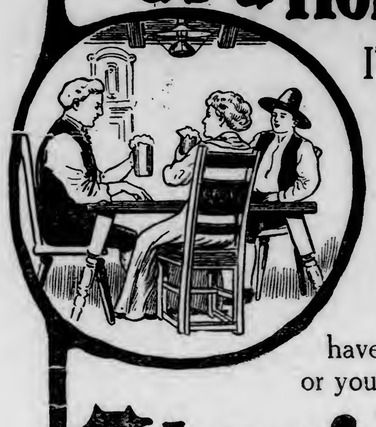

"Take off your things, mother. Take off your coat, father. This place is yours. Henry and I wanted to do something to show you how much we appreciated all you have done for us and how dear you are to us. We remembered how much you liked Long Meadow and this house and here you are you to remain just as long as you live, with nothing to worry you and every want supplied. Live here and be happy just as long as you possibly can."

Further Evidence for Li Hung Chang.

Were there not more or less substance in the clever old Chinaman's accusation that the sons and daughters of American parents indulge in premature worship, it might never have occurred to Senator Beveridge of Indiana to exploit his beautiful old mother as his most highly-cherished treasure. His unflinching devotion to her has long excited the admiration of all those who know of the long and unbroken affection which has united them so closely. No gallant of antiquity was ever more absorbed in the business of promoting the fair fame of his lady love than is this Indiana senator in anticipating the wishes of the stately and lovable old dame of 87 years, who has never been separated from her son longer than a few weeks since he was born.

Perhaps a similar explanation will account for the otherwise conduct of George Ade, humorist and playwright, who has become the proprietor of a thousand-acre farm in his native state of Indiana. No one who comprehends the wide gulf which lies between this prosperous funmaker and the purely bucolic life understands why he did it—even for a joke. That he did it to add to the happiness and comfort of his country-loving father and mother (the latter now dead)—which he does not deny—is but another strong argument to strengthen the contention of Li Hung Chang.

The Growth in Popularity of Beer as a Home Beverage

IT WAS the old custom to take one's family to the wayside inn or tavern for a treat of beer or ale. This was inconvenient many times, and the strictest cleanliness was not observed. Now-a-days all you have to do is to notify the brewery or your dealer and a case of pure delicious

HUMANITY'S DREAM OF JUSTICE.

Humanity has never had splendor enough. The fault lies in that its glory has been based upon injustice. Kings and nobles feasted while peasants starved. Millionaires now live in luxury while workmen live in penury. But those who think that democracy will mean a dead level of commonplace are mistaken. There has been no magnificence in the world comparable to what will be the magnificence of the people when once we get society upon the foundations of justice. We shall have parks vaster than any royal preserves, art galleries richer than any ducal collection, municipal theaters and concert gardens more costly and perfect than any millionaire group ever dreamed, besides food, drink and clothing more delightful than the past has ever known. Luxury, display, finery and all brave show need only be produced in terms of democracy and justice, and they cease to be wrong. Some day we shall beautify the whole city instead of merely the quarters of the rich. —Rev. Frank Crane in Chicago Evening Post.

So dreams the dreamer who has hope in democracy for the future of humanity.

It is only a dream—but what keeps it only a dream? Nothing but the intangible bonds of custom, which seem harder than steel until that moment when the people break through them and find them flimsier than gossamer. Nothing but custom keeps the many working in penury and hardship that there may be a shameful vastness of luxury for the few. Nothing but custom keeps the many slaves and subjects to the few, whether the few calls themselves kings, emperors, dukes or captains of industry.

That custom can be changed any moment, whenever the many determine that justice shall be the enduring foundation of society, and pure democracy its framework.

Is it wrong to dream of the coming of such a condition as this idealist describes?

Is it wrong to work to the end that it shall be realized on earth?

Is it wrong to cheer the heart of humanity with the hope and promise that such things shall come to pass?

Yet those who dream these dreams and those who devote their lives and thoughts and actions to their realization are called harsher names than they would be if they spent their lives in harsh self-seeking. Indeed, the world often seems to honor more the successful self-seeker than it does those who seek the uplifting and ennobling of humanity.

If humanity may not dream of the ultimate triumph of justice, of the time when the splendors of the earth shall be for all, and not alone for the few, of the time when the vast wealth that the producers create shall be used for the common good instead of for the selfish appetites of the few, then life is a mockery, existence is vanity, and the creation is a monstrous joke.

OVER THE ALPS TO ITALY.

There have been various ways of crossing the Alps, from Napoleon's grueling work of building a road as he went along to the modern way of tunneling through mountains, but never has there been anything more spectacular and thrilling than the trip made yesterday by Chavez, Peruvian aviator, from Brig, Switzerland, over the snow-clad peaks of the Alps to Domodossola, Italy. It is very stimulating to the imagination to picture what the result would have been if the tumble the aviator took at the end of his journey had happened in its middle. Then, at a height of more than a mile and a quarter, his flimsy craft hovered over jagged peaks, beetling precipices and forlorn abysses. A fall meant certain death, and very likely an eternal tomb among the snows of the Alps. Fortunately, Chavez postponed his fall until he was safely over the ridge, and the worst that came of it was temporary insensibility and plenty of bruises.

That was a stirring story of this daring Peruvian's thrilling flight which The Herald printed last night, and one that appealed powerfully to the imagination.

UNSEEMLY ADVERTISING.

What can be more dreary than the pictures of candidates, after an election, which make a billboard of every pole and siding in the city? It isn't so bad with the pictures of the candidates who were successful. One can almost imagine in them a smirk of complacent satisfaction. It is hard, however, to imagine any such thing in the pictures of the men who sought office and found it not.

At any rate, these advertisements disfigure the landscape, and will continue to disfigure it until the elements dislodge them from their places, which will not be for some time to come. It appears to be nobody's business to go around and pull these advertisements off the nails that fix them where they are, and the job is left to the rain and the wind.

But it is somebody's business to see that the disfiguring advertisements are not put there, and that is what we have been coming at. Unless we mistake, there is an ordinance against posting signs on posts and poles around the city, and it is the duty of the officers of the law to enforce it. It seems to be pretty well enforced most of the year. It is only in campaign time that it is ignored, and then, apparently by common consent, the law against it is temporarily repealed and candidates are free to plaster their cards wherever they can find places to plaster them.

It is bad enough, in all conscience, to have a city disfigured by billboards, but they are erected for that purpose and dedicated to that use, and they are better than the system of fixing advertisements wherever a space offers itself. The telephone pole that is covered with pictures of candidates may even be interesting when the campaign is on, though it is an interest that doesn't last long after election day. But the pictures do last. Long after every whit of interest in them has departed, they remain to make the landscape hideous with their soiled and streaked and tattered faces. It will be well along into the winter before most of them are gone, and some of them will still be dismally holding their places when the spring comes again.

There are communities where this practice is not allowed. There is a law against it in Duluth. The difference is that the law is enforced in the other communities, and not enforced in Duluth. It is no greater matter, of course, and there are many things more important; but it will be just as well if this law were enforced in Duluth, too, in time to save the city from another inundation of campaign placards—especially as it is almost pure waste to the candidates, so far as results are concerned.

A REFORMER WITH TACT.

May we direct your attention for a moment to Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane of Kalamazoo, Mich., civic expert?

Unless we have misread the reports of her doings in other places, she will have your attention presently, whether you wish her to have it or not, and it may be as well to be prepared in advance with the knowledge that you are going to be interested in her. Mrs. Crane comes to Duluth for a visit of five days beginning next Friday. During that period she will supplement by personal research the investigation she has already made of Duluth by correspondence. Then she will make two public addresses, in which she will tell Duluth what the matter is, and how to remedy it.

Does that warning tend to start the bristles of irritation? Maybe your idea of a woman reformer is embodied by Carrie Nation, and in that case the picture you will form of Mrs. Crane will not be flattering to her. Be assured, however, that such a picture is wrong. It isn't even a proper caricature.

For the difference between Mrs. Crane and some other "reformers" is that she has tact—tact and with it ability and shrewdness and good nature and common sense. These things make all the difference in the world. Again, she knows what she is about, and makes sure where she is before she moves. That makes a lot of difference too—and differentiates her from many other reformers.

Judging from the reports that have come to us from her operations elsewhere, Mrs. Crane always manages to be interesting. Her method is to look into local conditions of sanitation, beautification and other details of city housekeeping, and then come out and tell just what she finds and just what needs to be done. In many cases careless public officials who have attended her meetings have sat in red confusion while she grilled them without mercy, to the delight of her audiences. But she isn't a muckraker, rioting in municipal scandal for the love of it. Her efforts are wholly constructive, and her attacks are upon evils, not individuals. She says what needs to be said, and says it without mincing words; but she doesn't say it to be sensational or to hurt anybody's feelings, and she does her duty tactfully, in a way that gives the least possible offense consistent with the utmost possible results.

Co-operating with health officers, medical associations and public officials—when they would co-operate—Mrs. Crane has worked wonders in other places, and nobody need fancy that she will not find something in Duluth to say piquant things about. Her formula appears to be very simple. She applies to city affairs the principles of good housekeeping,—the city is only a sort of large family,—and that's just what city affairs call for—that and good business judgment. Debris that litters a city's streets stirs her to action as the mud you track into a neat home stirs the good housewife to action. Insanitary conditions call her to arms as a defective sewer would call the housewife to arms. Lack of economy in city government interests her as waste and shiftlessness in the household interests the capable housewife.

Mrs. Crane appears to be a very interesting woman, and she is doing an interesting and helpful work. Her coming to Duluth can be nothing but a benefit, and we bespeak for her a large and attentive hearing.

BY THE EVENING LAMP.

The dread of "old age" is human and natural, but it ought not to be.

Old age should be a time of rest and reflection, of comfort and ease. It ought to be like the evening of a well-spent day, when you sit down by your home fireside to enjoy the rest you have earned by doing your full share of the day's work and meeting bravely and manfully your full share of the day's responsibilities.

There is something precious and delightful about the evening of your well-spent day that nothing else on earth can compensate for. You went to your labors early in the morning, whatever and wherever they were. You did your level best at whatever your hand and mind found to do. You go home in the evening full of the sweet content that comes of the knowledge that you have done your best, and that so far as you are concerned the world is moving ahead as it should.

Over the evening meal you forget the cares and trials of the day, and they are all smoothed out and covered over by the sense that now it is over for the day, and that you are ready to enjoy the rest you have earned. The table cleared away and the family gathered 'round, you spend your evening according to your tastes—with a pipe and the evening paper and then a book; with a romp with the little folks, and perhaps a bit of story-telling or story-reading before they go to bed; with a chat over the day's affairs at home and abroad with the wife of your bosom and the mother of your children; perhaps with plans for the future, with hopes from the budding promise of the children. Perhaps the neighbors come in for a little talk about wholesome things, from the latest political questions to the affairs of your lodge, your union or your city. Those were tender old times, too, when folks had family prayers; it's too bad they're lost.

That time is yours. It is the most blessed and most hallowed epoch of your day. By the cheerful light of the evening lamp, with your loved ones gathered around you, you enjoy the precious minutes as they pass, and during tomorrow's toil you will look forward to its coming again in the evening.

That's the way your "old age" ought to be—the pleasant evening of a well-spent life. It is peace after turmoil, reflective leisure after anxious endeavor, rest after toil. If your day has been spent so that your conscience approves, your evening's rest will be sweeter. If your life has been spent so your conscience approves, your old age rest should be sweeter, too. It will not lack sadness. Many of the dear ones who started out with you along life's trail have fallen by the wayside. Though you will have achievements to your credit, you will think of many things that you might have done, and their omission will reproach you. You will wish that in the days of opportunity you had as keen a sense of right and justice as you have when you sit down in the evening of your life to rest after life's labors. But if your life has been spent in steadfast endeavor to do as best you could that which it fell to your lot to do, there will be far more sweet than bitter in your cup.

DULUTH'S POPULATION.

Following a much more conservative method of computation than has been their practice, the publishers of the Duluth city directory figure that the present population of Duluth is 89,000.

And that's not far from the truth. The census report will not show so many people, but it would hardly be possible for the census enumerators to get everybody. Besides, there are certainly more people in Duluth today than there were when the enumeration was made by the government. Of course the directory's figure is only an estimate, and the census figure is supposed to be an actual count. But when it is so obvious that it is impossible to get a full count in a city a large part of whose population is employed outside though their homes are here, the estimate is about as reliable as the count.

Any where from 80,000 to 90,000 is a good showing of gain for Duluth, and makes a good point from which to start the new growth that is surely coming. It should be no trick at all to get past the 100,000-mark by the time the state census is taken in 1915, and in view of the developments in and around Duluth, prophets who are figuring on the result of the census of 1920 in Duluth need not be at all bashful in their figures.

PARTIES AND THE PRIMARIES.

The Duluth News Tribune echoes Congressman Tawney's wail that the Democrats beat him by participating in the Republican primaries, and supplements it by the additional wail that the Democrats always go into the Republican primaries to nominate the weakest candidates in the hope of defeating them at the polls.

Nothing more absurdly inconsistent could be imagined than this complaint. According to both Mr. Tawney and the News Tribune, the Democrats of the First district voted against Tawney; yet if they had been voting for the weaker candidate with a view to improving their own prospects in November, beyond any question they would have voted against Anderson and for Tawney.

The charge that Democrats participate in Republican primaries to help weak candidates whom they expect to slaughter at the polls is ridiculously untrue on its face. The same charge is often made in the many Minnesota counties that are as overwhelmingly Democratic as any other counties are Republican, but in those counties it is made against the Republicans. It is not true in either case.

The fact is that party lines are so thoroughly demoralized these days that hardly one man in ten counts himself a partisan. By custom he is nominally a Democrat or a Republican, but in practice he is looking for results, and he is voting for men, not parties.

If every man who is not sure that he wishes to count himself a Republican or a Democrat were to be barred from the primary election, not a handful of votes would be cast.

Party lines are all but obliterated on national issues, and in state issues they no longer have any existence at all. The voters, regardless of politics, are seeking the best men for local offices, from governor down to coroner. In most counties of this state nomination is equivalent to an election, whether these counties are Democratic or Republican. There are a very few counties where the parties are nearly balanced, and there each party's primary is well attended. In most of the counties, however, the real fights are at the primaries, and if voters go into these primaries without regard to party names, they go in to vote for the men they want to see win and the men whom they believe should win. If the Democrats of the First district helped to beat Tawney, they did it for their district and their country—not for their party. If they had been working for their party they would have nominated Tawney, not Anderson; for while Judge Buck, the Democratic candidate for congress, stands a good chance of beating Anderson, who bears the Republican emblem, he would have had a better chance still to beat Tawney, who not only bears the Republican emblem but the stamp of servitude to the interests against whose tyranny the people are in revolt.

In these days when men hold party ties so lightly that they weigh nothing whatever, to confine the primary elections to partisans would limit the voting to officeholders, officeseekers and the serried remnants of ramshackle political machines.

Perhaps there is merit in the assertion that the primary law ought to be changed to do away with the hypocrisy of having to call for the ballot of parties with which the voters do not affiliate, in order to have a word in public affairs. If there is any change, it should be toward putting all the candidates on one ballot, Republicans and Democrats alike, and letting the voters use their good judgment to pick for office the best men in the field without regard to party.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FREE RINK NEEDED FOR WEST DULUTH

To the Editor of The Herald:

I trust that the park board will have two free skating rinks at West Duluth the coming winter. The one asked for in the lots opposite the Irving school is very desirable, and another ought to be placed in what is known as the old brick yards, above Ramsey street, in the vicinity of Fifty-third avenue west. Both would be used by hundreds of children and furnish them an opportunity for pleasure which they could otherwise enjoy at only occasional intervals. When the bay is covered with snow they have only the rink left, and many of them cannot use it for the very good reason that they have not the money. There is no doubt but that West Duluth has more "kids" than any other part of the city, and this ought to be taken into consideration by the park board. Further, they should bear in mind that the parents of these children in many instances cannot afford to give them an allowance, every cent being needed to make both ends meet.

WEST DULUTHIAN.

Duluth, Sept. 24.

POETRY, VERACITY, SUICIDE.

By Mark Twain: I am suffering now from the fact that I, who have told the truth a good many times in my life, have lately received more letters than anybody else, urging me to lead a righteous life. I have more friends who want to see me develop on a high level than anybody else.

Young John D. Rockefeller, two weeks ago, taught his Bible class all about veracity, and why it was better that everybody should always keep a plentiful supply on hand. Some of the letters I have received suggest that I ought to attend his class and learn, too. Why, I know Mr. Rockefeller, and he is a good fellow. He is competent in many ways to teach a Bible class, but when it comes to veracity, he is only 70 years old. I'm 70 years old. I have been familiar with veracity twice as long as he.

And the story about George Washington and his little hatchet has also been suggested to me in these letters—in a fugitive way—as if I needed some of George Washington and his hatchet in my constitution. Why, dear me, they overlook the real point in that story. The point is not the one that is usually suggested, and you can readily see that. The point is not that George said to his father, "Yes, father, I cut down the cherry tree; I can't tell a lie," but that the little boy—only 7 years old—should have his sagacity developed under such circumstances. He was a boy wise beyond his years. His conduct then was a prophecy of later years. Yes, I think he was the most remarkable man the country ever produced—up to my time, any way.

Now, then, little George realized that circumstantial evidence was against him. He knew that his father would know from the size of the chips that no full-grown hatchet cut that tree down, and that no man would have haggled it so. He knew that his father would send around the plantation and inquire for a small boy with a hatchet and he had the wisdom to come out and confess it. Now, the idea that his father was overjoyed when he told little George that he would rather have hime cut down a thousand cherry trees than tell a lie is all nonsense. What did he really mean? Why, that he was absolutely astonished that he had a son who had the chance to tell a lie and didn't.

I admire old George—if that was his name—for his discernment. He knew when he said that his son couldn't tell a lie that he was stroking it a good deal. He wouldn't have to go to John D. Rockefeller's Bible class to find that out. The way the old George Washington story goes down it doesn't do anybody any good. It only discourages people who can tell a lie.

BEHIND TIME.

From McGuffey's Fifth Reader: A railroad train was rushing along at almost lightning speed. A curve was just ahead, beyond which was a station where two trains usually met. The conductor was late—so late that the period during which the up train was to wait had nearly elapsed, but he hoped yet to pass the curve safely. Suddenly a locomotive dashed into sight right ahead. In an instant there was a collision. A shriek, a shock, and fifty souls were in eternity; and all because an engineer had been behind time.

A great battle was going on. Column after column had been precipitated for eight hours on the enemy posted along the ridge of a hill. The summer sun was sinking in the West; reinforcements for the chestnate defenders were already in sight. It was necessary to carry the position with one final charge, or everything would be lost.

A powerful corps had been summoned from across the country, and if it came up season all would yet be well. The great conqueror, confident in its arrival, formed his reserve into an attacking column and ordered them to charge the enemy. The whole world knows the result. Grouchy failed to appear; the imperial guard was beaten back and Waterloo was lost. Napoleon died a prisoner at St. Helena because one of his marshals was behind time.

A leading firm in commercial circles had long struggled against bankruptcy. As it had large sums of money in California, it expected remittances by a certain day, and if they arrived, its credit, its honor and its future prosperity would be preserved. But week after week elapsed without bringing the gold. At last came the fatal day on which the firm had bills maturing to large amounts. The steamer was telegraphed at daybreak, but it was found on inquiry, that she brought no funds, and the house failed. The next arrival brought nearly $500,000 to the insolvents, but it was too late; they were ruined because their agent in remitting had been behind time.

A condemned man was led out for execution. He had taken human life, but under circumstances of the gravest provocation, and public sympathy was active in his behalf. Thousands had signed petitions for a reprieve. A favorable answer had been expected the night before, and though it had not come, even the sheriff felt confident that it would yet arrive. Thus the morning passed without the appearance of the messenger.

The last moment was up. The prisoner took his place, the cap was drawn over his eyes, the bolt was drawn, and a lifeless body swung revolving in the wind. Just at that moment a horseman came into sight, galloping down hill, his steed covered with foam. He carried a packet in his right hand, which he waved frantically to the crowd. He was the express rider with the reprieve, but he came too late. A comparatively innocent man had died an ignominious death because a watch had been five minutes too late, making its bearer arrive behind time.

It is continually so in life. The best laid plans, the most important affairs, the fortunes of individuals, the weal of nations, honor, happiness, life itself, are daily sacrificed because somebody is "behind time." There are men who always fail in whatever they undertake, simply because they are "behind time." There are others who put off reformation year after year, till death seizes them, and they perish unrepentant because forever "behind time."

Aeroplane Regulation.

London Times: In the very infancy of navigation it was found essential that every ship that sailed the sea should have a home and possess its papers to prove its identity and ownership. Those vessels that could produce no sea letters or ship's papers were treated as pirates or presumed to be engaged in no lawful business. That was the first stage in the law of the sea. It stands to reason, and it will involve no hardship to insist, even in the infancy of aerial navigation, that there must be some similar registration to that in use as to vessels. Each aeroplane must have a domicile or home port; its captain must, when he comes to ground, be able if required to produce his papers. The roving, homeless aeronaut who has no credentials must be viewed as a sort of pirate of the skies.

TAWNEY.

An Answer to Taft.

Sioux City Tribune (Rep.): When the president of the United States puts his approval upon a man it should count for much with common people. It should count for more than the criticism of a man who is only an ex-president. It ought to outweigh the adverse criticism of such a doctrinaire as Pinchot and the shafts of even a Heney should be hurtless. But we have fallen upon evil days and the common people have lost reverence for those who sit in the seats of the mighty. Not only do they turn from Taft to Roosevelt, but they turn backs upon even their favorite son. Senator Nelson who wrote a letter for publication in aid of Tawney.

Mr. Taft has had much to humble whatever pride of opinion he may have entered upon the presidency with. But in no other instance has the rebuke of the voters been so directly personal. It is the answer of the Republicans of the old First Minnesota to that defense of Tawney, rather, as Mr. Taft put it, to that "support" of Tawney, which he went to Winona to make. Really, it is getting pathetic.

Everybody's Support But the People's.

Kansas City Star (Ind. Rep.): Tawney has been the boldest of all the exponents of Cannonism and Aldrichism. His defiance began early. He was the leader of the movement in congress to discredit Roosevelt and his administration in the last session preceding Roosevelt's retirement. It was he who managed to hamper the Roosevelt policies by congressional abolition of the several Roosevelt commissions investigating farm life, water ways and general conservation problems. It was he who introduced the resolution to "censure" the president for intimating that certain members of congress wished to confine the work of the secret service to the detecting of counterfeit money because those congressmen feared investigation of themselves. All in all Tawney has been the most aggressive enemy of Roosevelt in congress.

In this policy Tawney felt safe, because he had been nominated and elected for seventeen successive terms from the First district of Minnesota. His normal plurality was large. He had the support of all the corporations and other special interests. He knew that if signs of real opposition developed he could have distinguished champions. It was at Winona, in Tawney's district and home, that President Taft delivered his first public address defending the tariff law. Speaker Cannon never lost an opportunity to praise Tawney, one of "his boys." Senator Nelson, who has had great influence in his state, especially with the Swedish population, gave active support in the Tawney primary campaign. Everything that money could do for Tawney was done for him.

Only Another Chapter.

St. Louis Times (Ind.): The passing of Tawney in Minnesota fits definitely into the prevailing plan of deposing those politicians of whom nothing more can be said than that they are "good party men." His defeat merely provides another chapter in the stirring story which has to do with the awakening of the public and the placing of national interests, broadly considered, on a higher plane than organization.

"The Times Are Out of Joint."

Des Moines Capitol (Standpat Rep.): Minnesota is another state which is gaily tripping along the insurgent highway toward the Democratic camp.

Under present conditions the post of honor is the private station. Our congratulations are extended to Hon. James A. Tawney.

"Very Properly" Indeed.

Indianapolis News (Ind.): Mr. Tawney has been a worthy representative, and every one knows that he is a man of ability. Many of his ideas are sound. As chairman of the committee on appropriations he had at least begun to see that something must be done to check governmental extravagance. It was Tawney who upheld the dignity of congress against the assault made on that body by Theodore Roosevelt during the closing days of his administrations. But he had stood for Cannon, and had voted for and defended the tariff law. As the people were opposed to both Cannon and the tariff law they very properly refused to renominate Mr. Tawney.

Sic Semper.

Toledo Blade (Rep.): James A. Tawney has been more than a skillful politician. His career in congress, eighteen continuous years, has been illuminated by hours in which he was a statesman—strong, resourceful, energetic and moved by a spirit of patriotism. But Mr. Tawney has chosen to devote the undoubted strength which is his, the energy and the experience, to those citizens of the republic who are called the special interests. He has labored for them in Washington while he told the constituents at home that his heart was with the people.

Primaries Make People's Victories Possible.

Lincoln State Journal: Down they go. With the fall of James A. Tawney in Minnesota, Walter I. Smith of the Council Bluffs district is the only midwestern member of the Cannon cabinet now left on a ballot. It is a new procedure the country is now passing through, this fighting out of great issues at the primaries. Landslides at elections have been common, but landslides at primaries such as the current revolt against the Republican national machine is yielding, could occur only after direct primaries had given the voters a chance to clean a house without setting fire to it.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The man who thinks he does the marrying is easy game for any woman who sets out for him.

The way a hero makes love on the stage is cold blooded sanity to the way any man writes a love letter off it.

There are more sumner fools than winter fools, only more of them are outdoors where they can be seen.

The most wonderful thing about how natural a young woman can be is how different her naturalness always is with different men.

If a man can be lucky enough to inherit a house to live in, he can be unlucky enough to have the taxes and repairs amount to more than the rent he used to pay.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Not the End.

One of the commonest of mistakes is to think that a thing is over, when in reality we cannot see the real end of the matter. Nature is constantly fooling us in this respect. We imagine in childlike reliance on the calendar only that a given season has run its course. But lo and behold winter lingers in the lap of spring. Just after we have packed away our summer clothing and are in a mood for the bracing air of autumn an unseasonable hot day in late September or early October tells us that Dame Nature is a coquettish old damsel and that we must learn not to consider one season entirely gone even when for the moment appearances would favor that hypothesis.

In the realm of pleasure we often err in thinking that a past delight is an ended delight. Prone we are after an exceptionally fine time, a charming house party, for example, or a trip to Europe, to say: "Well, that's over, entirely gone. Oh, woe is me. Now I've got to come down from the clouds and live in the old ruts again." But wait, you have not mastered the science of happiness if you have not learned to hold on to your sources of joy, even though detached from them.

Here is memory, for example, ready to store away the sensations that are worth keeping and to repeat them for you, as a faithful phonograph would, provided you will only call upon your various recollections to come out into the open and allow you to live over those golden days on the Rhine or in the Adirondack camp, that charming afternoon with the friend you had not seen for years, that morning when you visited a historic shrine associated with heroes of other times.

Are we going to be so foolish as to go into the future unenriched by what we have learned and enjoyed already? Or are we sensible and shrewd enough to incorporate into the very fibers of our natures the experiences which from day to day make life sweet and interesting and worth while. A man ought so to link the years together that neither disaster or the flight of time or the event of death shall rob him of what he has already had.

A similar attitude ought to be cultivated toward the opportunities of life. Middle aged people need to remind themselves that not all the prizes dangle before the eyes of youth. To be sure it is not pleasant to reach 40 or 50 without having "arrived" to quote the language of the street. But non achievement may not always be due to shiftlessness or wrong-doing. At any rate never say, my middle aged and somewhat unsuccessful friend, that the end of the road has come that you never can amount to anything, that younger men are crowding you off the stage. Read the invigorating story of men who comparatively late in life have recouped their fortunes or done something else of real worth to themselves and others.

Nor need we thing that we have exhausted the good-will and forbearance of others, however much we may have tried them. A little girl the other day helping in the kitchen dropped some dishes and ran weeping upstairs to her mother sobbing out as she went, "Oh, mamma, I've broken all your best china and I guess you are through with me." But a pitying look and a reassuring word from that same patient mother put her at ease again. There is on end to the stores of tenderness and compassion laid up in the heart of a true parent. There is no limit to a real friend's consideration and love. Never think you have reached the vanishing point so long as there is a spark of manliness left in you.

In the sphere of religious faith we sometimes think we have arrived at the end of the way. The opponents of righteousness have more than once thought that they had disposed not only of its exponents, but of the thing itself. Many a Herod has exclaimed in surprise: "John I beheaded, but who is this." Even the friends of religion in dark days have despaired of its ultimate conquests. Peter sat down in deep gloom in the judgment hall "to see the end." His betrayed and arrested Master, had in Peter's judgment, come to the end of his career and of his influence. Peter lived to see that same Master a potent force in the Roman world and Christianity a crescent religion.

Let us never think the way of goodness, of aspiration of human usefulness is arrested by an impassable barrier. It must be thorugh it and over it into a everbroadening thoroughfare. THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Philadelphia Record: "I don't know whether to accept this testimonial or not," mused the hair restorer man.

"What's the matter with it?" demanded the advertising manager.

"Well," explained the boss, "the man writes: 'I used to have three bald spots on my head, but since using one bottle of your hair restorer I have only one.'"

New York Sun: Knicker—What is Henpeck's state of mind?

Bocker—He hasn't any; it's a territory.

Judge: Gramercy (aroused from sleep)—That isn't a burglar you hear in the room. It's only a mouse.

Mrs. Gramercy—Gracious! Isn't that just as bad?

Chicago Tribune: "Mr. Skimmerhorn," inquired the landlord, "how did you sleep last night?"

"Like a top," answered the guest.

"I thought so. I could hear you—aw—humming all night long."

Cleveland Leader: Her—Do you like my biscuits, dear?

Him—Well, they're fair, but you should have seen the ones my great-grandmother used to bake.

Her—Why, you never saw your greatgrandmother!

Him—No, but I've heard grandfather mention those biscuits to grandmother.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "What form of summer amusement pleases you most?"

"Staying at home and writing to people at summer resorts about how cool it is in the city."

Washington Star: "You are sure that prize fight was on the level?"

"Absolutely," replied the politician. "When the referee counted ten the defeated candidate for the championship was too much exhausted even to demand a recount."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Do you know anything about the people who have moved in next door to you?"

"No."

"My goodness! They've lived there three days, haven't they?"

Puck: "Papa," said little Harry, "I believe that the man in the moon is a policeman."

"Why?" inquired his father.

Has Minnesota the "Near" Habit?

Sioux City Tribune: Minnesota holds its primaries tomorrow. They are only "near" primaries, extending to congressmen, judges and legislators. Minnesota has the near habit. It came the nearest ever to the full one when all its delegation, except the ineffable Tawney, voted against the PAT. Then it had a relapse. Its governor became a near conservationist. Senator Nelson got cold feet and hovered between insurgency and regularity.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

There passed through Duluth last night a party of timber experts who represent a Detroit syndicate, at whose head is Governor Alger of Michigan. The syndicate has opened negotiations with Canadians for the transfer of the timber rights on Hunters island, a piece of land that has figured largely in the Canadian timber market for the past few years. The island contains 800 square miles, and the pine on it is variously estimated at from 500,000,000 to 1,000,000,000 feet. It will cost the syndicate at least $500,000 to purchase the timber

The resignation of Alex Hartman from the position of local agent of the Northern Pacific company has been sent to headquarters and has been accepted. Mr. Thomas, the present cashier, may be appointed to the vacancy. Mr. Hartman will engage in business in Duluth.

The Northwestern Automatic Register company has been organized with a paid up capital stock of $300,000. The president is L. H. Maxfield of St. Paul and the Duluth directors are Col. W. H. H. Stowell and M. B. Harrison. The other Duluth stockholders are Col. C. H. Graves, R. S. Munger, Henry H. Bell and John C. Robinson.

A. Ruyter of the firm of Freeman & Ruyter, large mill and elevator owners with headquarters at River Falls, Wis., has arrived in Duluth for the purpose of securing a site for the erection of a large flour mill which the firm have had in contemplation for some time. Their largest mill, located at La Crosse, was burned down several weeks ago and they decided not to rebuild there, but to erect a large mill in Duluth.

The Duluth Street Railway company has decided to extend the electric line to West Duluth.

AS YOU LIKE IT

By SAVOYARD.

This country is now confronted with a case of "exaggerated ego" such as would have put Benvenuto Cellini aghast. There never was before and never will be again such a tremendous boaster and sublime braggart as Theodore Roosevelt is now become. He is not only the honestest man in the world, but he is the only honest man in the world. He says that, and in his opinion the supreme court of the United States is a tool or a knave, and he is not quite sure that it is not both.

What does he say? Plainly this, and only this: "Come unto me, every one that is in distress and every one that is in debt and every one that is discontent, and I will be captain over you, put joy in all your hearts, money in all your purses, melody in all your throats, and if ye will only hearken to me, virtue will issue out of me to fill you to the full. But you must change the Constitution and give me full sway. I am the only one who can turn the trick. All the others are fakirs compared with me."

If that is now what this Caesar, without a scar, says, what is he driving at? Look at this miserable platitude: "I am for you when you are right and against you when you are wrong." That is what he tells everybody. All of us say that, but Col. Roosevelt sets himself up to determine what is right and who is wrong. He is infallible. He is a judge to say who is of Canaan and who is of Egypt. No other than he can have an opinion in this country, and if anybody else should be so insolent and reckless as to venture political speculation, he is a liar, and a scoundrel, and guilty of lese majesty. Indeed the colonel is the one of our citizens who is endowed with the prerogative to flank the truth, as in his quarrel with the New York Evening Post.

It is announced that Col. Roosevelt is angry because what he calls his "policies" have not been carried out by his successor. Where is there constitutional warrant for a "policy" formulated by a president of the United States? What is it but an insolence and an impertinence for him to ape a Richelieu, a Bismarck, or a Ximenes, to shape the decrees of a state?

This is not a monarchy, as Theodore Roosevelt interprets it, nor is it a democracy, as William J. Bryan views it. It is a representative republic, partly national and party federal, and nobody in the country but congress can legally or decently have a "policy," and if Roosevelt has got such a thing in his possession, he is guilty either of outright larceny in politics, or he stands convicted as the receiver of stolen political goods. The office of the president is executive, and the only "policy" he is legally entrusted with is to see that the laws are executed. If I had my way I would choose a president for life, strip him of every atom of political influence, and make him subservient to the concensus of a cabinet chosen every two years from the majority side of the house of representatives, by the house of representatives, and then I would sum up an amendment on the Constitution destroying the gerrymander. When you do that you will conserve liberty in this country and again drink deep at the wells dug by the Saxon fathers in the old world and in the new.

Well, what are "this man Roosevelt's "policies," as he calls them? First, he is a standpatter. For seven and one-half years he was president and the idol of the people. In theory he looks on the tariff precisely as I do, and I got my tariff politics from John G. Carlisle, William R. Morrison, Henry Watterson, Henry G. Turner, William C. P. Breckenridge, and that set. All the while he was president, Teddy was as mute as a fish on the subject of the tariff, and for practical purposes, so far as that issue went, he was the incarnation of Hannaism, Aldrichism, Cannonism and Dalzellism. He was as subservient to the tariff octopus as a basket of chips going to Tophet to be burned.

And now the G. O. P. with the approval of both Taft and Roosevelt is going through its biennial grand stunt of tariff hypocrisy. The tariff is a rascal all right, out they all now say its stealing can only be prevented piecemeal. Instead of snatching at once the thief away from the crib he is cracking, it is proposed gradually to reduce his stealings.

That idea was invented by a Democrat, the late William M. Springer. In 1892 the Hon Springer, then chairman of ways and means of the house of representatives of the Democratic Fifty-second congress, put Napoleonic tactics in practice and proposed to reform the tariff "in detail." He passed one bill putting wool on the free list and my good friend Joe Bailey voted for it. Another bill put lumber on the free list. Yet another added salt to the free list. Coal, pig-iron, and other raw materials were so dealt with in separat bills.

Th Republicans were furious. They called them "pop gun" bills, and nothing came of them, and now that is become Republican policy, set forth by Taft, indorsed by Roosevelt, and accepted by the G. O. P.

How long will it take? At least twenty years, and then it will not be half baked. What is the proposition of the president? It is this: Schedule "K," which is wool, is infamous, and must be kept from stealing, while cotton, lead, and other things there are fifty of them—are left undisturbed to rob with both hands. That is the proposal.

When congress sets to work in that line, Wool will be there, and aligned with Wool will be every other "protected" industry in the land. Grafters must stand together. What will be the result? Just what it was in 1909. The thing will be "revised," all right, but revised up. As for that tariff commission, when every Democrat was excluded from it, it amounted to this: "Set a thief to catch a thief," and no thief will be caught.

No, there will be no tariff reform until the work is done by the friends of the tax-payers.

When old Ben Butler looked at the election returns showing that his life ambition had been achieved, and he, a plebeian, had been chosen governor of the aristocratic commonwealth of Massachusetts, he exclaimed, "This is a damned bad year for the wicked!" This is what the colonel said the other day at the historic town of Freeport, Ill., in a speech in which he virtually announced himself a candidate for president of the United States and Pope of the Church of Universal Morality:

"The last legislature of Illinois was guilty of the foulest corruption, and therefore, of the most infamous treason to the republic. No matter how many acquittals and mistrials there are in the attempt to clean up this scandal, the indicted men are guilty and they should be retired speedily."

There is virtue for you, and patriotism thrown in. It is, or will be, a devilish bad time for the corrupt when Teddy again becomes colonel of the United States. But like all despots, he has his favorites, and he excluded poor Lorimer from the table at which he was an invited guest, a piece of pure insolence, as though he could be contaminated by environment, and a confession that the political chastity must not be exposed to temptation. Read Matthew 9:10. Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with Him and His disciples.

But how about Paul Morton, self-confessed malefactor? Would Teddy have excluded him? Nay, nay, Pauline. It all depends on the point of view.

Humbug, humbug! You made Barnum's millions!

THE FIGHT FOR CONSERVATION. By Gifford Pinchot. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. 60 cents net.

"We, the American people, have come into the possession of nearly 4,000,000 square miles of the richest portion of the earth. It is ours to use and conserve for ourselves and our descendants, or to destroy. The fundamental question which confronts us is: What shall we do with it?"

There is the issue of conservation, squarely placed by the man who, next to or before Theodore Roosevelt, is chiefly responsible for raising the issue and pursuing it until it has penetrated deeply into the consciousness of the American people.

What we have done with the heritage needs no answer. We have wasted it, and are still wasting it. We have let it go into the hands of a few who have abused their priceless privileges, and we are still, though with less complacence, letting it go into such hands. The problem is to stop waste, to begin repairing the damage already done so far as it can be repaired, and to keep the remnants of the people's heritage for the benefit of the people and not give it away for the profit of a greedy few.

In mining our coal we greedily seize the choicest, letting half go to waste. In using it we get but 5 per cent of its potential power, the rest going up chimneys or elsewhere as waste. Though oil and gas fields are becoming exhausted, we still let oil and gas go to waste in vast quantities. We waste by poor and greedy mining methods, and we waste priceless soil by soil wash.

Here is the issue stated again: "Equality of opportunity, a square deal for every man, the protection of the citizen against the great concentrations of capital, the intelligent use of laws and institutions for the public good, and the conservation of our natural resources, not for the trusts but for the people; these are real issues and real problems. Upon such things as these the prosperity of this country as a nation of homes really depends. We are coming to see that the simple things are the things to work for. More than that, we are coming to see that the plain American citizen is the man to work for. The imagination is staggered by the magnitude of the prize for which we work. If we succeed, there will exist upon this continent a free, strong people, living through the centuries in a land subdued and controlled for the service of the people, its rightful masters, owned by the many and not by the few. If we fail, the great interests increasing their control of our natural resources, will thereby control the country more and more, and the rights of the people will fade into the privileges of conscienteless wealth."

Again: "I stand for the Roosevelt policies because they set the common good of all of us above the private gain of some of us; because they recognize that the welfare of the small man as more important to the nation than the profit of the big man; because they oppose all useless waste at present at the cost of robbing the future; because they demand complete, sane and orderly development of all our natural resources; because they insist upon equality of opportunity and denounce monopoly and special privilege; because, discarding false issues, they deal directly with the great questions that really make a difference with the welfare of us all; and, most of all, because in them the plain American always and everywhere holds the first place."

It is simply a matter of national housekeeping, and a question of whether it is to be for the whole family, or whether some are to be starved that others may grow fat on their bones is plenty for everybody. That is all there is to conservation, the square deal, the new nationalism, and the new birth of government by and for the people.

It's a "bully" book. Every American citizen can read it with satisfaction and profit. S. H. B.

UNCLE REMUS AND THE LITTLE BOY. By Joel Chandler Harris. Pictures by J. M. Conde. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.

Hardly need more be said than to mention that "Uncle Remus" and Joel Chandler Harris to command this book. SALLY ANN'S EXPERIENCE. By Eliza Calvert Hall, author of "Aunt Jane of Kentucky," etc. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. 50 cents net.

This amazingly human little story has had an interesting story of its own. It was written about thirteen years ago to show the iniquity of the old common law of England, still in vogue then in Kentucky, in regard to the property rights of married women. It wasn't a tract, but a delicious story. Nevertheless, it traveled the weary round of the magazines until the Cosmopolitan published it in July, 1898. Its popularity was so great that that issue of the magazine soon went out of print, and the story was reprinted in many places all over the world. It was followed by other "Aunt Jane" stories, which were published in book form under the title of "Aunt Jane of Kentucky" in 1907, and met with wide popularity. "Sally Ann's Experience" was republished by the Cosmopolitan and also was published by the Ladies' Home Journal, a unique experience for a story. President Roosevelt publicly recommended it from the White House as "a tract in all families where the men folks tend to selfish or thoughtless or overbearing disregard of the rights of their womankind." In an introduction to the book the author tells in full the interesting story of this charaming story.

Incidentally, in putting out this tale in a little volume by itself, the publishers for the first time disclose the identity of the author, who is the wife of Prof. M. A. Obenchain, president of Ogden college at Bowling Green, Ky.

DOWN HOME WITH JENNIE ALLEN. By Grace Donworth, author of "The Letters of Jennie Allen to Her Friend Miss Musgrove." Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.50.

Those who read the exquisitively funny Jennie Allen letters will be glad to have more of Jennie Allen's sweet, wholesome cheerfulness and content, her unfailing kindness, and her unconscious but delicious humor. In the sequel she appears as Edward Spinney's wife, and back home where she had longed to be during her city life, when she was cheerfully "making rappars for Clapp and Parmer and helping with the work besides." Shocking grammar, marvelous spelling and all, it is good to hear again from Jennie Allen. The author's happy vein holds out very well indeed under the usually fatal test of producing a sequel. Sequels have a way of disappointing, but happily this is an exception to that rule. Nevertheless, Poly Blittery and his tall stories seemed to us just a little overdone, and a little out of keeping with the sweetly humorous story of pathetic Jennie Allen.

Out of a good plot and a wealth of material that are capable of anything from a dainty and pleasing romance to a perfect scream of good farce comedy, the authors have woven an impossible tangle and, unfortunately, have told it in an impossible style. The text, dialogue and description alike, is of an unvarying monotony in expression; it bristles with a proportion of capital I's that would put Kipling to the most vindictive of burlesques on a Roosevelt speech; and it is sprinkled with futile attempts at the most pointless and most thoroughly abominable near-puns one could imagine. What makes it worse, every such effort is rubbed in by a barbarous use of senseless italics. On the title page one of the authors is credited with several scientific works. He had better stick to his science, and his collaborator had better find something to keep her busy and out of any more such mischief as this "Hearts Atour."

FRITZ IN GERMANY. By Etta Blaisdell McDonald, author of "The Child Life Readers," etc., and Julia Dalrymple, author of "The Make-Believe Boys," etc. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. 60 cents. Same.

GERDA IN SWEDEN. Same.

DORIS IN SAMOA. Same.

BETTY IN CANADA. Same.

These little books seem to offer a very pleasant method of giving useful instruction to the children in a form that is highly attractive to themselves, and at the same time not unliberally sugar-coated with story. They form part of a series entitled "Little People Everywhere," and in each volume a native boy or girl is the hero or heroine. For instance, in "Fritz in Germany" is told the story of a German boy's life in his ancestral home in the country and while a student of music at Berlin. The rural life in Germany, with its frolic and feasting, work and play is well described, and so is the pomp of the emperor's review, a walking tour in the Black Forest and a trip along the Rhine are among the incidents treated. Prominence is given to the customs and various ways of life likely to be interesting and instructive to the little folks. Russia, Sweden and Canada are similarly treated in the other volumes.

Of Books and Writers.

It would fill much space to name all the distinguished authors associated with the house of Cassell & company but especial mention should be made of its connection with Robert Louis Stevenson. It shares with Longman's and Chatto and Windus the chief honors as Stevenson's publishers, but it was Cassell & Company who introduced him to the novel reading public by first issuing "Treasure Island" in book form, after it had run its serial course in Young Folks. Stevenson's delight on receiving Cassell's offer is best described in his own way: "How much do you suppose?" he writes in one of his letters at the time, and then after keeping back the answer in his teasing fashion, adds—"well, a hundred pounds, all alive, O! A hundred jingling, tingling, golden, minted quid. Is not this wonderful?"

It was just mere chance that Cassell & company also published the first book of Sir A. T. Quiller-Couch—who, in spite of his knighthood, will probably always be better known as "Q."—for "Dead Man's Rock" was a legitimate offspring of "Treasure Island." "I began as a pupil and imitator of Stevenson," the author has himself admitted, "and was lucky in my choice of a master." Many other books both by "Q." and "R. L. S." came from the same publishers, who also published Rider Hagard's "King Solomon's Mines" and some of the best tales of J. M. Barrie, Stanley Weyman, Warwick Deeping, and other popular novelists too numerous to mention.

On Sept. 15, this house issued "Whirligigs," by O. Henry—the last collection of O. Henry stories of which he had the personal selecton; "The Shears of Destiny," by Lercy Scott; "The Caravaners," by the author of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden;" a second volume of "Presidential Addresses and State Papers," by William H. Taft; "Children's Diet," by Louise E. Hogan, and "Wild Flowers," by Chester A. Reed.

On Sept. 22, two important contributions to the literature on hygiene were published in the shape of "Making Life Worth While," by Herbert W. Fisher, and "The Healthful Art of Dancing," by Luther H. Gulick. Nellie McClung's "The Second Chance," a sequel of the popular "Sowing Steds in Danny," appeared on this day, and also "The Red Magic Book," by A. & E. B. Knipe; "Mountain Adventures," by George S. Abrahams; "The Hollow Needle," by Maurice Leblanc, and two other outdoor books in new editions by Chester A. Reed, entitled "Water and Game Birds," and "The Flower Guide."

With the exception of "The Hollow Needle" and "The Caravaners," all of these books go on retail sale at fixed net prices, following the policy lately established by this firm.

Harry Payton Steger of Doubleday, Page & Co. is the literary executor of W. S. Porter (O. Henry). He would like to have copies of any letters or documents from the famous short-story writer, or to hear from anybody who is interested in a biography of "O. Henry." Communications should be addressed to Mr. Steger, in care of Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, New York.

As soon as Winston Churchill, the English home secretary, had seen the play, John Galsworthy's "Justice," just published by Charles Scribner's Sons, he declared his intention of investigating in the actual prisons of England the conditions that Mr. Galsworthy had depicted in his imaginary prison. The conclusions from this investigation are now before parliament. Mr. Churchill and the prison commissioners have implied in their proposals that the dramatist's view was only fair and sensible. They ask for changes which Mr. Galsworthy himself has notably defined as one and all inspired by imagination, without which reform is deadly, and by common sense, without which it is dangerous.

Mr. Galsworthy is well known in this country as author of the play, "Strife," the novels, "Fraternity" and "A Country House," and a volume of his sketches called "A Motley," published last summer by the Scribners, has roused deep interest and high praise from the reviewers.

In view of the approaching centenary of the birth of Charles Dickens, the first three volumes of "The Centenary Edition" have just been brought out by Charles Scribner's Sons. They are "The Adventures of Oliver Twist," in one volume, and "Sketches by Boz," in two. Other volumes will follow at the rate of three a month until the entire works are complete.

Charles Scribner's Sons are bringing out this addition, in which illustration is a special feature, in conjunction with Chapman & Hall Ltd. of London.

In these volumes all the prefaces, dedications and notices which appeared in the various editions during the author's lifetime will be given, together with all the original illustrations to which he gave his approval. The illustrations are being reproduced by a special new process from the original steel plates and wood blocks, and will number close upon 700, forming in themselves a unique gallery of the finest examples of the work of Hablot K. Browne (Phiz), George Cruikshank, John Leech, Daniel Maclise, R. A., etc. The type used is new and artistic, the paper of extra superfine quality, the binding handsome.

The Dodge publishing company announces for publication on Sept. 26, "A Land of Romance," by Jean Lang, a story of the border-land between England and Scotland, in history and tradition.

When Herbert Croly's "The Promise of American Life' was published a year ago by the Macmillans, it was at once taken up as a new and stirring presentation of the present day political situation, with a definite and practical program well worked out—a program which would result in the fullest possible realization of democracy. The book created quite a sensation and was the subject of no little discussion by students of government and politicians. On Theodore Roosevelt's return from Africa his attention was called to the work and he soon became one of its most ardent supporters. It is even asserted that on his recent Western tour he carried a copy of it with him recommending it on all suitable times. That many of the theories which he has advanced in his doctrine "The New Nationalism" are also Mr. Croly's theories is evident when the two programs are compared.

Mr. Croly points out that the fundamental requisite of political theory is the "proposeful and conscious use of national power for realizing essentially Democratic ends." That is, he believes that questions of national importance should be left entirely to national decision. Similarly Mr. Roosevelt declares that the New Nationalism is "impatient of the confusion that results from local legislatures attempting to treat national issues as local issues."

Perhaps even a more striking example of the way in which the doctrine of New Nationalism lines up with Mr. Croly's outline is contained in the latter's discussions of the different departments of government. Mr. Croly believes that the executive, legislative and judicial departments are so divorced from one another that each has lost its "genuine independence and efficiency," or in other words he declares that the constitutional depositories of power have become paralyzed, the result being the rise of the boss. In this same connection the New Nationalism of Mr. Roosevelt takes a stand against the importance which has sprung from the division of government powers.

And of this fill with comparison might be found in the manner in which both men regard Democracy. Neither looks upon it as a machine working out a reform automatically but both see that behind reform there must be a stable government consciously seeking an end. "American Nationality," Mr. Croly says, "is a living principle." "The New Nationalism, Mr. Roosevelt echoes, demands that the judiciary be interested primarily in human welfare."

'Too Many Women, A Bachelor's Story," a novel to be published anonymously in September by Frederick A. Stokes company, is said to be written by a young bachelor, a member of parliament and a favorite in exclusive London society. He writes an entertaining story, which like Shaw's "Man and Superman" begins by the portrayal of the pursuit of man by woman. How the bachelor defies manifest destiny in the person of womanhood is said to result in a novel that is, he tells with alternating frivolity and seriousness, but always candidly.

Baroness von Hutten, the author of "Pam" and "Beechy," is expected to arrive at New York in the course of the autumn to renew her acquaintances with this country. She is by birth an American. She has just completed the manuscript of a new novel, "The Green Patch," which Stokes will publish in October. It contains no characters familiar to readers of her previous books. The plot is more complicated than any this author has before treated, and the situation is as ingenious as most of those in her other novels. The scene shifts from England to an Italian villa and from there to tropical Ceylon.

Among the Magazines.

The October Harper's presents a variety of interesting articles along with eight short stories by notable writers. "Dear Annie,"—a delightful two-part story by Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman—begins in this issue, accompanied by illustration in full color by Howard E. Smith. "Keeping Up With Lizzie," by Irving Bacheller, will be found an amusing satire on some present-day methods of living and the high cost thereof. Arthur Sherburne Hardy contributes another of his charming "Diane" stories. W. D. Howells, Norman Duncan, Brander Matthews, Clare Benedict, are among the other story writers represented.

Among the articles, "The Making of a Great Telescope," by Prof. G. W. Ritchey of the Mount Wilson observatory, describes one of the newest and largest telescopes in the world. "The Soil as a Battle-ground," by A. D. Hall, F.R.S., presents the very latest discoveries in the great agricultural problem of making the earth more fruitful. A quaint bit of out-of-the-way Scotland is described in "A Royal Scottish Burgh," by E. Charlton Fortune, with drawings by the author. Louise Closser Hale in "We Take the Cure" has some amusing experiences to recount while doing the French watering places by motor car, with sketches by Walter Hale. "Some Difficulties in Bible Translation," by Prof. A. F. Chamberlain of Clark university, discloses many curious problems and interesting facts that are continually confronting the translator in turning the Bible into the speech of primitive peoples.

The October number of Scribner's Magazine has a brilliant frontispiece in colors representing a sportsman in the field on "An October Day." There is also a colored cover and many beautiful illustrations by George Wright, F. D. Steele and F. C. Yohn. Gen. Frederick Funston continues his romantic adventures in the Cuban insurrection with an account of the siege of Cascorra, in which he had his first experience as a commander of artillery in charge of several Hotchkiss guns. The vividness of his pictures of actual fighting would make the fortune of any novel of adventure. He has the graphic style of Archibald Forbes and the accurate touches of a man who has been in the battle. Mr. Yohn's pictures have been made under the supervision of Gen. Funston. Herbert Ward will be recalled as one of Stanley's lieutenants in his later explorations, and he subsequently had long experience on the Congo. Since then he has achieved remarkable success as a sculptor, his subjects being in most cases the native savages of Africa. He has written an article on "The Real African," which is a revelation of the character and habits of these simple people in a land of strange and fatal enchantment. The sculptures by Mr. Ward reproduced with this article are striking. Madame Waddington, a friend of the late King Edward from the days when she was the wife of the French ambassador in London, was present at the king's funeral as an honored guest who saw the series of impressive ceremonies near at hand. She gives her impression of it with great vividness and picturesqueness.

The leading feature in the October McClure's is the opening of a new series entitled "Working Girls' Budgets: A Series of Articles Based upon Individual Studies of the "Self-Supporting Girls in New York." It is announced that these articles are based on an investigation conducted by the National Consumers' league, and covering the earnings of working girls, their expenditures for shelter, food, clothing, etc., and their uncertain struggle to preserve health and vitality. The series opens with an article on New York department store girls, in which the stories of individual workers are given in detail. The second installment of Goldwin Smith's reminiscences deals with the founding of Cornell university, and his introduction to Washington society, and contains many reminiscences of Agassiz, Lowell, George William Curtis, Dizra Cornell, and Xavier Paoli's reminiscences of the kings and queens of Europe is continued in an article on King Edward VII. An article on John and Simon Newcomb is a most curious and interesting study of heredity. John E. Redmond, the leader of the Irish party in parliament, tells in a short and striking article, "What Ireland Wants."

A highly interesting illustrated article appears in the October Wide World Magazine entitled "A Remarkable War," which is descriptive of the way in which the Indian government is fighting the bubonic plague. For some time it has been believed that the plague was carried by the rats and as a consequence every effort is being made to get rid of the infested vermin. Some remarkable statistics are published regarding the number of rats destroyed annually. Other articles of interest include "Where Men Ride Birds and Pigs," a curious account of breaking unusual creatures to saddle; "Reminiscences of an African Pioneer;" "An American Gipsy Queen;" "The Evolution of a Bandit;" and "My Adventures in Unknown Arabia." Many other articles and stories of a "live" character, all of which are founded on fact, render this magazine of exceptional interest to all who have a fondness for adventure, sport and exploration.

The October issue of 10 Story Book is out under the most classy cover ever produced by this clever magazine, which has long been noted for the attractiveness and audacity of its covers. This one is well worth framing. The stories are well up to the standard and range from a tale of the relapse of a Scotch major of very mature years into the long-forgotten follies of his youthful and ardent days, entitled "Major Hampton Gordon's Renewal of Youth" by Garrard Harris, to a tale of the absolute innocence of another elderly gentleman who could not recognize sin when he saw it. The latter is by Nellie Cravey Gillmore and is entitled "The Queer Old Man's Strange Experience'—a most interesting and pathetic story full of the charm of goodness and ingenuousness.

In the Strand for October, Conan Doyle returns to one of his best known characters—Brigadier Gerard. In the present story the famous author relates in the Brigadier's own words how Etienne Gerard came to get married and the account is written with all Conan Doyle's customary facetiation and humor. Besides "The Marriage of the Brigadier" there are ten other stories by such writers as E. Phillips Oppenheim, E. M. Jameson, Richard Marsh, A. T. Quiller-Couch ("Q."), E. Temple Thurston and other well known authors. The articles are as interesting and "unusual" as ever. Bernard Darling writes on "Some Curious Wagers," which is illustrated with facsimilies from the betting book of the Bachelors' Club, while Elizabeth Lonergan contributes a lavishly illustrated paper on "Well known American Sportswomen" and Prof. Ward tells "The Life Story of a Dragon Fly." Eight "Portraits of Reigning Monarchs" constitute the color section, the very fine drawings being by Joseph Simpson, R. B. A., who painted the best portrait of the late King Edward.

Boys will run for first chance at the October St. Nicholas when they know that Mr. Walter Camp, who knows more about football than any man in America, writes in that issue on "The New Rules in Football," and further, that Edward H. Coy, captain of the Yale football team of 1909—by many thought to be the greatest football player who has ever carried a ball—has also an article, in which he discusses "Football—A Game for Gentlemen." Walter Camp explains the new rules in detail and the effects which they are likely to have upon the play and players, while Edward H Coy pleads for a fair and patient test of football under the new rules, as 'a game for gentlemen." This article of "Ted" Coy's will be followed by others in the November and December St. Nicholas, in which he will suggest certain special plays for boys to "try out," and offer suggestions and side lights upon the strategy of the new game.

The October number of Popular Mechanics—that speedometer of Progress—contains no less than 258 articles and 267 illustrations relating to the developments in science and mechanics that have divulged themselves within the span of a month. Some, it is true, describe methods and processes, but always these are improvements over the old ways of doing things. A summary of a months's events in aeronautics is given, with a picture of a prominent aeronaut; and an important illustrated article, by Victor Lougheed, discusses the feasibility of crossing the Atlantic in an aeroplane. That the feat will be accomplished before long the writer does not doubt and points out some signal facts to justify his sanguinity. H. F. Windsor, in his editorial, has something to say about aeroplane speeds; discusses the tutelage of Liberia by the United States, the lack of zest of American manufacturers in pushing export trade, the postoffice department's small deficit, and other subjects of popular interest.

In the Delineator for October Erman J. Ridgway uses the words, "Mein Freund," spoken by the kaiser to Mr. Roosevelt, as a text for editorials that reveal the strong personality which is shaping the magazine on broader lines each month. The leading article of the month is a description of "Woman's Fight Against Graft in San Francisco," by Elizabeth Gerberding, who was one of the leaders of the Women's League of Justice. Mrs. Gerberding's startling story of what happened to the Californ-ia reformers is really a tale of a modern inquisition in which many an advocate of civic righteousness suffered social and commercial martyrdom. Such a daring and circumstantial arraignment of corrupt government never has been published in any magazine that makes a direct appeal to women. "The State Fair," by E. W. Randall and William Kirkwood is a study of the development of the educational possibilities of the annual events that once meant a combination of vegetable exhibits and horse races.

In the first October issue of the twice-a-month Popular Magazine, now on the stands— a special Western number—Emerson Hough begins his new novel, which he calls "The Grapes of Wrath." It is a story of the days of slavery—a striking narrative, in which you will find intrigue, love, adventure, and a great deal of interesting information about this great country of ours which will be new to you. Emerson Hough's "Mississippi Bubble" and "Fifty-four Forty or Fight" were instant success. His latest novel is better than either, and the publishers of the Popular are to be congratulated on securing it.

The New Magaine, published by the La Salle Publishing company of Chicago, contains a choice collection of humorous stories in its October issue, now on sale. There is "Per Contract," by Preston Ward, a sequel to "All Along of Mrs. Yuma Jake." The readers of the latter story will recall the humorous difficulties that beset Matt Peters in his earnest endeavor to supply Tonca with fifty-nine alkali-loving wives. Only fifty-seven are now needed, but the trouble is doubled. "The Passing of the 'Sprinting Sal,'" by Vale Downie, will appeal to every owner of a gasoline engine.

People's Magaine for October contains twenty stories of wide variety, including adventure, romance, politics, humor, by the best writers of spirited magaine fiction. A regular feature of People's Magazine is the publication of complete novels in each issue. This month the number opens with a stirring story of adventure by Chauncey C Hotchkiss, who relates how "A Man of Nerve" and another made a daring airship flight from New York to the Isle of Pines and fought a great battle with a submarine manned by conspirators against the construction of the Panama canal. In sharp contrast to this, Edgar Franklin narrates briskly the humorous adventure of Watson's Bruce's Brood," which has to do with snakes, some crooks and a bunch of money.

Top-Notch Magazine, the latest product of a big New York publishing house, is chock-full of just the sort of stories that many thousands of people will enjoy reading. They are of the bright, clever sort, with lots of dash. Action is regarded by their authors as a quality well worth while. Judging from the first October number, which contains sixteen yarns, short and long, it will be one of the liveliest story magazines of the day.

Thrilling in its dramatic intensity, swift and relentless in its action, "The Passing of Diana," by H. Von Wentzel, opening novelette of Young's Magazine for October, grips the imagination from the moment "Cleo," the wonderful model, enters the studio in the beginning and holds one enthralled until the breathing climax of the inevitable tragedy. It is a poignant story of a woman's passionately wayward heart told quickly, without a lagging line, and contains one of the most unparalleled situations in modern literature. "The Pillar of Salt," by Austin Phillips, is a study of a mother's devotion to her dead son's memory, a devotion which in the end all but forces her to choose between starvation and public charity. "Needs Must," by Ben Blow shows a father's devotion to his living children, for whose sake he abandons his most cherished convictions and faces death.

While Smith's Magazine is always full of bright and entertaining material, the October number is especially strong. The sixteen portraits of theatrical celebrities, a feature of Smith's, are this month exceptionally well selected. The novelette, entitled "Journey's End," by that clever writer, Anne O'Hagan, and tells in a sparkling manner the story of the reconciliation of a husband and wife who, through a misunderstanding, had long been separated. Charles Birkell Loomis has one of his admirable sermons, which are both witty and instructive—this time on "Imaginary Evils." "At the Junction of the Branch Road," by Dorothy Canfield, is a capital little theatrical yarn with an unexpected ending. Edward Boltwood is at his best in the humorous Western story, "Rule, Britannia!"

"The Haunted Pajamas" is the title of a highly diverting novelette in the October Smart Set. The title itself tickles one's fancy at once—and the story does not fall short one bit of expectations. It's a tale of New York bachelor apartment houses, clubs, summer homes up on the Hudson—and the most cheerfully irresponsible, addlepated, but devilish likeable hero ever injected into the midst of a jumble of surprising adventures. This author sends a friend out in China some cigars—by mistake the clerk wrapped up the wrong kind—a choice brand of roperino maduro—so the friend in China reciprocates with a present of a suit of fine silk pajamas, possessing a marvelous magic quality of making each successive wearer assume the shape of some other person. Then the fun begins. And such a succession of mirthful wraiths of defunct Chinese mandarins, English governor generals, pretty girls, policemen, janitors and learned "bugologists" flit through the pages till suddenly, the mystery is solved and the romance that has wound its way in and out of the tangles of the story comes to its logical conclusion. In this novelette Francis Perry Elliot furnishes something quite original and deliciously breezy and entertaining.

Few people can fail to be interested in the explicit and entertaining exposition of psychic phenomena appearing in the series of articles by H. Addington Bruce, now running in Ainslee's Magazine. The second of these papers, entitled "What We Know About Telepathy," occurs in the October number, and is assuredly worth reading. The facts of the cases stated there will parallel many of our own rather vague and unclassified experiences, and raise in the mind of all of us an intense desire to explore farther into this land of intimate and living mysteries.

The issue of Harper's Weekly for September 17 contains a number of interesting articles. William Inglis contributes some further "pages from the note-book of a New York newspaper reporter" in a story entitled "Through the Great Blizzard on Pilat Boat 13." Col. Roosevelt's tour of the West is shown pictorially. How Peterboro honored the late composer, Edward MacDowell, by a musical pageant, is told by Louise Collier Willcox. Francisco Cocina, reviewing Zane Grey's new book, "The Heritage of the Desert," tells of the wonder and charm of the Mormon country.

Amateur theatricals with the Daughters of the American Revolution as the sponsors, promise to be one of the interesting events of the autumn season and the caste for "A Night Off," a famous farce of other days has been chosen and the work of rehearsals is going forward with great promise of a thoroughly entertaining afternoon and evening, Oct. 15. The cast of characters has been chosen from among the amateur actors who shone brilliantly in "The Amazons," "Up and Down Broadway," "Charley's Aunt" and "The Sleeping Car." The leading woman has not been seen in Duluth amateur theatricals before but was formerly prominent in the state university dramatic efforts.

A special feature is to be made of the dressing of the parts and each one is promised to be a model of elegance for the particular sphere in life.

The proceeds of the affair will go toward restoring and maintaining Sibley Mansion, at Mendota, Minn. The property has recently come into ownership of the Minnesota organization of D. A. R., and the local chapters have chosen this manner of raising funds as their contribution toward the upkeep of the former residence of the first governor of Minnesota, whose memory is dear to many Minnesotans who are familiar with his service to the state. It is hoped to make Sibley house "the Mount Vernon of Minnesota."

Two New Workers in Duluth Y. W. C. A. Circles

MISS VERA CAMPBELL,
Extension Secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

MISS ADA C. CAMPBELL,
Secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Ada Campbell, who came to Duluth in September as general secretary of the Young Women's Christian association to succeed Mrs. Wesley Feetham, will be joined here in October or early in November by her sister, Miss Vera Campbell, who will become the extension secretary for the association. In recent years the work that the local association has most desired to do, is to bring the benefits of the institution to the young women and girls in the industrial centers, far away to receive the benefits from the central building. But the campaign for the building and the time and energy necessary for that has made the extension work impossible until this time. Miss Vera Campbell has done volunteer work, and she has had experience that will be valuable to her in the Duluth work.

There are several hundred young women who can be easily reached and helped through the many offices of the Y. W. C. A. and in November the campaign will start to make every equipment of the institution valuable to these young women.

Miss Campbell as general secretary, hopes to have great interest this year in Bible study and eventually to have the association a center for Bible work. Classes will be organized soon for study of the Bible as literature and as history as well as the spiritual uplift of the study. Miss Campbell is especially equipped for this instruction, having been graduated from the New York Bible Teachers' Training school. The classes in domestic science and physical training are being organized and classes in both departments for matrons, business women and juniors are being planned.

THE EVENING STORY

"GRANNIE"

By D. G. Sinclair.

"There is no new thing under the sun!"

I wonder! The thing that happened to me a few years ago seemed quite new then—does even now, for that matter!

My grandfather had been a big land owner. His first wife died at the birth of their second child—my mother—and in his old age he had taken it into his head to marry again. My cousin, who was the recognized heir, expressed immediately such a very decided opinion of his grandfather's impudence in daring to marry at all that he set the old man's back up. A year after the event I got a letter from the family solicitors announcing my grandfather's death. They informed me that in a will, made directly after a particularly stormy interview with his elder grandson, he left me the whole of his property except a jointure of five hundred a year to the young widow.

I was pig-sticking in Bengal when the news reached me, having the rarest or real good sport; so, as Surley Hall couldn't run away, and my grandfather's agent, who had managed the estate ever since I could remember, must know a great deal more about it than I did, I determined not to hurry home, but just get as tipping a time as I could out of my totally unexpected inheritance.

When that came to an end I still delayed my home home-going, taking a leisurely trip through Greece and Italy—until, one evening in October, I found myself at the Hotel Biron, Villeneuve.

I was dimly conscious of a feeling that I'd been knocking about long enough.

I got up at last and strolled down to the pier, from where I saw presently the green and red lights of an approaching steamer. She came alongside with a deal of unnecessary fuss, and I watched her few passengers disembark. Three tourists, in dirty coats, with the regulation knapsacks and alpenstock; a dozen or so working men; a few peasant women; the most erergetic little French maid I have ever struck, full of hustling anxiety, coupled with an abundant variety of gesture about a pile of boxes—and then, last of all, her young mistress, dressed in black.

I've often since that evening tried to describe her—tried, and failed miserably! It should be easy enough, big wistful eyes, golden hair, parted in the middle and brought low over the white brow, the soft tremulous lips; all these things should paint some sort of word picture, out they utterly fail to convey the subtle "something" that made her different—so different—from all the other women I had ever met.

She dropped something, a wrap, I think it was, and when I gave it to her, her "thank you," murmured in a soft, sweet voice, strengthened the extraordinary effect her personality had created, and that accidental dropping of something, combined with the fact that we were both strangers in a strange land, led to the next few days being quite the best I have ever experienced.

Mrs. Smith—when I learnt her name, I wonder why I had hitherto looked upon Smith as common?—was a widow, she told me; and that was all I knew, or wanted to know. I was supremely happy until at last those days of wonderment came to an end, as I had to leave for Paris. When I said "goodbye" I felt the little hand tremble in mine, as she asked me to call upon her in the Rue de Rivoli, when she reached the capital, which she hoped would be quite soon.

Madame was fatigued with the long journey, and was lying down, I learnt from Suzanne, when at last the long days of her absence were over, and I called in answer to the softly spoken invitation by the Lake of Geneva, feeling that I could not longer delay asking her the question that would make me either the happiest or most miserable of men.

I was sitting lost in delightful reveries when the door opened and Mrs. Smith came into the room with a smile of welcome on her dear lips, and, was it fancy, a look of something warmer in her soft eyes.

"How good of you to come—to have remembered me," she murmured.

"I've remembered very little else," I rejoined, holding the hand she extended much longer, I am afraid, than I ought.

"I was fearful you might not have been able to stay," she went on; "now sit down and tell me all about yourself, but first you must listen patiently to the perfectly horrible traveling experiences I've been through since we parted all these months ago."

How sincerely I sympathized with her, and how full I was of wishes to make traveling and every other thing that might trouble her easier in the future. But alas! as I listened to that soft, sweet voice, I found myself becoming more and more stupid.

The conversation dragged—I simply couldn't talk commonplace to that radiant woman—and the words I longed so desperately to say, resolutely refused to be uttered.

She must have guessed the thoughts that were crowding through my mind, I think, for she began to look uneasy—but alas! more beautiful than ever—then she recovered herself and said brightly.

"I must show you the new photos I've taken. You knew what an enthusiastic 'snapper' I am! I had them developed directly when I got to Paris, they only came in this afternoon, and there are a lot I took to England, too, before I came away; it won't bore you, will it?"

I looked into her eyes—full—and a delicate flush spread over her face as she read the answer to her simple question. Our heads were very close together as we bent over the pictures, and I'm afraid I still kept silence; but I think I managed to convey without words how willingly I would spend the rest of my life looking at photos—in her company.

I turned the photographs over, staring at them blindly, what I had come to say must be said sooner or later, why not this instant! I rose unsteadily, and her eyes dropped half-fearfully, as I blurted out:

"We may never meet again!"

Her breath came more quickly, as she looked up, with a smile curving her full red lips. What I thought I read in those wonderful eyes made me reckless, and I blundered on.

"I—I can't go back to England without telling you that I—I——"

Again the words refused to come, until she herself attempted to speak, then I went on quickly:

"No, no; don't say anything yet. I didn't tell you—indeed I couldn't. I was so afraid of spoiling the good time we were having; but I think—I'm sure—you must have known, Ella, I'm going home to take possession of my place in Shropshire, and I—I—want——"

And then, as the utter impossibility of such a brilliant creature caring for such an ordinary individual as myself came to me, and I again stopped dead.

There was a moment's silence, then she said softly:

"Do you come from Shropshire; perhaps we shall be neighbors; I'm going back again in a few months; I wonder if you know what used to be my home—Surley Hall?"

"Dear, dear, Mr. Ruscoe, what is the matter? Are you ill? Please, please, speak to me! Tell me what is troubling you?"

I looked at her steadily. What was the matter? Nothing! Surely nothing; a man's heart broken, that's all!

"What used to be my home—Surley Hall!"

Great heavens! This woman was my granfather's second wife, whom I had never seen.

And a man may not marry his grandmother!

I hung on in Paris, unable to lose the chance of just seeing her, even in the distance; but the opportunity didn't come until one day, as I was passing the Bon Marche; she came out of the place with a woman I had never seen before, a woman of about her own age and singularly like her.

I turned away, afraid to speak, afraid to do anything but leave her in ignorance of the fatal barrier that separated us so inexorably.

Suddenly I felt the light touch of a hand upon my arm—heard Ella say in almost a whisper:

"Why did you leave me so strangely the other afternoon, Mr. Roscoe, and why have you never been near me since then?" Without waiting for a reply, she went on quickly: "A namesake of yours has been staying with me for the last few days—Mrs. Roscoe. She wants to meet you, I know——"

"A namesake!" I interrupted, as the possibility of a mistake which seemed too wildly good to be true flashed through my mind, "A namesake of mine—and—and yours?"

"Of mine?" with a puzzled frown. "You know my name, Mr. Ruscoe, as well as I know yours."

"But Surley Hall," I gasped, "which used to be my home!"

"You are its owner. How strange that thought shouldn't have occurred to me. But even now I don't see——" She stopped abruptly, her eyes full of enlightenment; she laughed softly, gladly, I thought, and the laugh ended with a half sob.

"You poor dear, I see now. May," she went on, turning to her sister, "Mr. Ruscoe wants me to introduce him."

I bowed to my grandmother gravely and spoke with more truth than she knew, of the pleasure it was for me to know her at last.

And Mrs. Ruscoe, with a tact that did her infinite credit, suddenly remembered an appointment she'd quite forgotten, and hurried away, with many apologies, leaving Ella and him to stroll back to Rue de Rivoli together.

Ella insists on calling her sister grandmother whenever she stays with us at "Surely Hall" and I cannot for the life of me help calling my little wife "Grannie."

THE KITCHEN

Hints for Making Jam.

Use only perfectly fresh, dry fruit, not over or under ripe.

Choose a large pan, if possible of copper.

Have a steady, quick fire, but not a fierce one.

Do not let the pan come in direct contact with the flame, and if necessary use a trivet.

Stir the jam often and remove all scum as it arises.

Cook the jam till it jellies when a little is allowed to get cold on a plate.

When it is cold cover it with parchment and write the name of the jam and the date distinctly on each jar.

Allemand Sauce.

Melt two ounces of butter in a clean saucepan. Stir in a dessert spoonful of flour and about half a pint of boiling veal or chicken stock. Add a little grated lemon peel, a small grated onion, a grate of nutmeg, a tiny lump of sugar, salt and pepper to taste. Simmer very slowly for half an hour. Stir, replace in a saucepan. Stir in the yolk of an egg beaten in half a cupful of milk, hold over a gentle heat and stir briskly until the sauce thickens.

Cure For Rat Plague.

Soak some newspapers in water till reduced to a pulp, then dip into a weak solution of oxalic acid. While still wet, plug the holes made by either rats or mice with it, and the occupants will soon retire.

Little Pointers for the Cook.

Olive oil should be kept in a cool, dark place.

Slamming the door of an oven makes a cake fall.

Dried lemon peel sprinkled over coals will destroy any disagreeable odor about the house.

Drop a little lump of sugar amongst the turnips while cooking; it improves them wonderfully.

Chopped chicken mixed well with mayonnaise and served in green pepper shells is very tasty.

In the Women's Clubs and Musical Circles

During the month of October Duluth will entertain a group of interesting women. The club activities will begin the first week of the new month and the preliminary announcements prove that during that month Duluth will have the opportunity of being entertained and instructed by coming in contact with a group of women who have national, and in two cases at least, international fame.

In the world of artistic endeavor there will be the peerless Melba, who will sing a concert engagement at the Lyceum, and whose coming will be one of the most important features of the autumn. There will be a series of three lectures by Frances Squire Potter under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. Mrs. Potter is known in England and America as a brilliant and accomplished woman. She has been identified with the suffrage movement, a professor at the Minnesota state university, is the author of a novel, "The Ballingtons," and of three plays and is a lecturer in demand. She will give three lectures, which will be free to members of the Twentieth Century club.

Then there will be Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, who is in a class of her own. She is known as a municipal expert, but that is of comparative recent accomplishment. Before that she was a teacher, a journalist, a Unitarian preacher and a founder of a People's church.

Such a group of women and their work cannot but be of interest to the entire city and particulary to Duluth women.

TELLS OF WORK OF DEACONESSES

More than 200 Duluth women were told of the progress of the Deaconess movement in England and America, Wednesday afternoon at a reception at the home of Mrs. Chester A. Congdon, at which Miss Henrietta Bancroft was the geust of honor.

Miss Bancroft is the general superintendent of deaconess work in America and her visit this week was her first to Duluth. Mrs. Congdon received in her honor, the women of the three societies of the First Methodist church.

Miss Bancroft held the chair of English literature in Cornell for many years before she took up the deaconess work, and it was while doing research work in England that the first insistent demands were made upon her to direct part of this work. She did not enter into it actively in America until some time later.

The Duluth deaconess home has been established for three years. While in the city Miss Bancroft was a guest at the home. The local workers are: Mrs. M. J. Kreidler, superintendent of the home; Miss Millicent Corps, evangelisc deaconess; Miss Bertha Ridge, Miss Pina Thompson, who also do evangelistic work; Miss Agnes Martin, travelrs' aid worker; and Miss May Trimble, pastor's assistant of the First Methodist church.

At Wednesday's meeting Miss Bancroft told in detail of the growth of the deaconess movement and its powers for good. She was heard with great interest. Although she is the director of the work throughout America, Miss Bancroft has never been an active deaconess herself. She was called to superintend the work in the United States conducted by the Womans' Home Missionary Society and this position she has occupied for twelve years. During these years the work has grown rapidly, there being now about seventy deaconess institutions in the United States and about 900 deaconesses. The property held by these institutions is valued at $3,200,000. Nowhere have the workers increased rapidly enough to supply the demands for their services.

Miss Bancroft went from Duluth to Fergus Falls, on her tour of inspection, and will later go to St. Paul. From there she will go to Philadelphia to attend a large meeting of the workers, before returning to her headquarters at Detroit.

MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

Annual Meeting Will Be Held in Duluth Next Week.

The Minneapolis branch of the W. F. M. S. will hold its annual convention in Duluth, beginning Sept. 29 and continuing until Oct. 3. The "branch" comprises all the Methodist churches, including not only the English speaking, but also the German, Swedish and Norwegian-Danish in the states of Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

A large number of delegates are expected.

The convention will open with an informal reception to the delegates, Friday evening, Sept. 29, in the First Methodist Episcopal church, where the regular sessions will be held. During the evening, Miss Jennie V. Hughes will deliver a short address on China. The address on Sunday, Oct. 2, is to be delivered by Bishop W. F. Oldham, his subject being "Malaysia and the Philippines." The members of the local society have been busy for a number of weeks making arrangements for the meeting.

"Who's Who in America" on Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane

MRS. CAROLINE BARTLETT CRANE.

Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane's work has become familiar to readers of The Herald through many extracts from papers and magazines telling of her work. She will visit Duluth from Sept. 30 to Oct. 4. Of her "Who's Who in America," writes:

"Caroline Bartlett Crane, minister, born at Hudson, Wis., daughter of Lorenzo D. and Julia A. (Brown) Bartlett; graduate Carthage, Ill., college, 1879; post graduate of University of Chicago; married Dr. Augustus Warren Crane of Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 31, 1896. Teacher, 1879-83; newspaper writer and city editor, 1883-86; pastor All Souls' church, Sioux Falls, S. D., 1886-89, called to First Unitarian church, Kalamazoo, Mich., and there ordained as a minister of liberal religion, 1889, out of the Unitarian church organized and built, 1893, the new creedless institutional People's church; resigned pastorate, 1889; since then engaged in literary work and social and sanitary surveys of cities, under local or state auspices; made sanitary survey of twelve cities in Kentucky under auspices of the state board of health and state federation of women's clubs, in 1909. Active as lecturer and preacher."

Reception to Mrs. Potter Will Open Duluth Club Season

Asido from the instruction and pleasure which the members of the Twentieth Century club will receive from the series of three lectures by Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, she will be the honor guest at the reception which will open the club year, Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 5 Also on that evening she will present her first lecture on "The Prophets of Israel." During her visit in the city Mrs. Potter will be the guest of Mrs. J. L. Washburn.

Prof. Potter is not unknown to Duluth, for she visited and lectured here before. It was about a year ago that she left the professorship in the Minnesota university to become corresponding secretary of the National Women's Suffrage association, but after one year's service she resigned, in June of this year. Her visit to Duluth next month will be the first since actively taking up the suffrage work. She was associated with the Rev. Anna Shaw, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont at whose famous suffrage meetings at her Marble palace at Newport, Prof. Potter was a speaker, with Miss Julia Marlowe and many other of the interesting prominent women working for the progress of the suffrage movement. Her series of lectures will not be prominently upon the suffrage question, but in her last lecture she will speak of recent developments in the movement.

Frances Squire was born in Elmira, N. Y., and was graduated from the Elmira college where she afterward taught. She received the degrees of B. A. and M. A. from that institution and later from the University of Minnesota. She began her work in Minnesota as a teacher in the East Side high school. Later she became the teacher of Anglo-Saxon at the university, and later was made assistant professor and finally advanced to a full professorship.

The The World's Work, in speaking of her career, writes:

"It was while doing research work at Cambridge university that Prof. Potter attained her international reputation as a speaker. Dr. Emil Reich, the historian, had been attacking American women and the Americans in general. Dr. Reich was invited to attend the international banquet given by the Society of American Women in London, at the Hotel Cecil, and repeat his views before a distinguished audience. Mrs. Potter was invited to respond to his attack. Her reply was commented upon widely by the press of two continents, as the best speech ever made in London by an American woman, and the English papers were universal in their opinions that 'Frances Squire Potter corrects the impression that American women are superficial.' She is a student and an author whose work is distinguished by thoroughness and originality.'

"'Strong, simple, direct, her style sends the truth home like arrows.'

"The eloquent address of the Hotel Cecil brought Prof. Potter an invitation to speak at the American embassy, at the banquet given in honor of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. The only other woman speaker was the famous English suffragette, Mrs. Henry Fawcett"

Mrs. Potter's book, which is in the Duluth library, "The Ballingtons," was used in the sociological department of the University of Chicago as a reference book, Prof. Zeublin considering it the best handling in fiction of the economic dependence of women.

Mrs. Potter's lectures will doubtless be largely attended in Duluth by women of the Twentieth Century club and by men who may become associate members of the club or purchase single tickets.

MRS. FRANCES SQUIRE POTTER.

Executive Board Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the executive board of the Twentieth Century club will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the club room of the library. The attendance of every member is urged as matters of importance will be decided before the opening of the club year.

MUCH INTEREST IN MELBA CONCERT

The subscription list for the Melba concert, the Russian dancers and the St. Paul Symphoy orchestra concerts will close on Thursday of next week, and orders for seats will be immediately mailed to all who have subscribed.

The box office at the Lyceum theater will open at 9:30 a. m. next Saturday when coupon seats will be issued to subscribers holding orders signed by Horace W. Reyner. The public sale for Melba will commence on Monday, Oct. 3 at 10 a. m.

The visit of Melba is the one topic of conversation in musical and artistic circles. There is no question but that Duluth will turn out en masse to greet the famous songstress. May 30 of this year, Melba made her re-entree at Covent Garden opera house after two years' absence. She sang the role of "Mimi" in Puccini's "La Boheme."

On May 31, the London Standard, said:

"Of all the eulogistic terms applied in the past to Mme. Melba's voice, magic would seem to be the one that most truthfully describes it. Small wonder that the famous prima donna met with a reception of unwonted cordiality when she made her re-entree at Covent Garden last night, after an absence of two years. Pride, astonishment, and delight found expression in a scene of singular enthusiasm at the end of the first act, and as the evening advanced excitement grew.

"Time after time Mme. Melba was summoned before the curtain and given a welcome, the spontaneous heartiness of which was beyond question. English opera-goers owe Mme. Melba a debt not easy to repay, since her transcendent voice has done not a little to silence the sneers of those who never lose an opportunity of pointing the finger of scorn at the musical genius of the British race. If the great soprano's sympathies and outlook havo not been so wide as the range of her voice, she has never tied herself to one particular form of opera; her voice has certainly never been cast in favor of reaction or a return to the sad, bal operatic ways of our forebears. Nor has she won her way to fame by the exercise of vocal gymnastics alone, wonderful coloratura singer that she is. It is the bird-like purity of her notes and the total absence of effort with which they are produced, rather than the agility of her vocalization, though that is second to none, which have made her name familiar all the world over.

"Never this season has Covent Garden held so brilliant an audience, certainly never one that has showed itself so demonstrative. It was, to employ a conventional—but in this case inevitable—phrase, a triumph from beginning to end.

"Hurricanes of applause marked the final fall of the curtain. In fact, it was a typical Melba night."

Christian Endeavor societies throughout the city which are engaged in raising money for the new headquarters building in Boston report considerable activity. The Glen Avon society held a social last week at which the members collected enough so that they feel that they are well started in the race for the banner which is to go to the society making the best per capita showing. As all the societies have not yet made reports as to the amounts collected it is impossible to figure who is ahead. The Westminster, Lakeside and Union churches are well to the front, with Woodland crowding them closely. No returns are in from the First and Second Presbyterian churches or from the Christian society, but it is expected that there will be some surprises sprung on the evening of the rally, Sept. 30, when the final figures are announced and the banner awarded to the winners.

OSCAR "BATTLING" NELSON

GEORGE ADE

(Copyrighted, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

WHEN that astute Oriental statesman, the late Li Hung Chang, was in this country, absorbing western civilization in huge chunks and radiating far eastern drolleries in exchange, a Columbia university professor—never mind the chair—said something to him apropos of the out-of-dateness of that feature of Confucianism known as ancestor worship.

"It wouldn't work in America," the college man declared.

"That is because you have no ancestors," the keen-witted old Mongol rejoined, with an expression of child-like innocence in his saffron-tinged countenance. And when he added promptly: "In America you do not wait until your fathers and mothers are dead: you worship them while they are still alive."

It was a very neat way to dispose of rather a delicate subject, and the wily Chinaman probably knew it. That he had mistaken filial devotion for actual worship was not strange in view of the exalted treatment some American fathers and mothers are receiving at the hands of their children at the present time.

"Battling" Nelson's bright example of filial remembrance.

All the more forcible because it comes from a quarter in which the filial virtues might not be expected to flourish is the instance of Oscar Nelson, former lightweight champion and dubbed "Battling" for reasons that are obvious. However learnedly the scientists may theorize over the brutalizing influences of pugilism, here is an exception in which years of fistic activity have left unaltered all the tender filial sentiment of childhood.

The first financial return that came to the husky Norwegian lad who at the age of 16 had made the choice of pugilism as his life work was $10 half of which he sent home to his mother. At the time his own need was very real, but it did not lead him to forget the poor little home of two rooms at Hegewisch, Ill., in which his family was struggling for a foothold in free America. Agonizing as the acceptance of that filial tribute must have been—the fighter's mothers had exhausted all her parental resources in a vain attempt to dissuade her son from his purpose and was heartsick and bitter over her failure—her own need was so great that even the pittance thus acquired lightened the burden temporarily.

Her athletic son pummeled his way to fistic success with unusual rapidity. His inherited Norwegian thrift never forsook him, nor did he permit the memory of his toiling parents to be replaced by the more agreeable suggestions his increasing prosperity put forward. From the first the lion's share of his winnings found its way to Hegewisch and he retained only enough to supply his few personal needs. The first considerable sum that came to him was when he defeated Herrera at Butte, Mont., in 1904. His share was $2,500, and after paying his manager $625 of this he sent $1,500 home, retaining $375 to pay his expenses until more could be secured.

Thereafter Nelson's chief object in life seemed to be the emancipation of his parents from the bondage of toil and poverty. During the past seven years he has conducted himself toward them in a manner that would almost justify old Li Hung Chang in his charge against the sons and daughters of American parents. He has accomplished his purpose after his own fashion and in the face of the continued protests of the beneficiaries, who are still unreconciled to his choice of a profession. He has rescued his father from the shops and his mother from the washtub. After the elder Nelson had been instructed in the ways of business, his son put him in charge of his own real estate holdings, which now amount to a property worth upward of $250,000.

The hustling athlete cares little for money itself and less for what it will buy for his personal gratification. It is his hobby to uplift his family, and he rides it at its fullest speed. He has presented his father with eleven houses in their home village of Hegewisch and has given his mother the most pretentious residence in the place, with all her surroundings conducive to comfort and freedom from care. To his sister, whom he took from the mill, and his five brothers he has been the traditional good fairy. One of the Nelson boys, now a student at the University of California, is a candidate for the ministry, and "Battling" encouragement and cooperation have helped not a little to dull the sting of his mother's regret over his own choice of a profession.

Senator William Alden Smith Another Devotee at the Parental Shrine.

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan has not yet outlived his boyish habit of "looking out for father and mother." In the days of his affluence and distinction he has made no effort to forget the time when his parents and himself toiled side by side in the struggle for mere existence. That community of labor made them comrades, and comrades they have remained through stress of time and circumstance, drawn closer by adversity, still united in prosperity.

The senator's biographers never fail to call attention to the fact that he is a self-made man, but he repudiates the statement. "Such as I am," he maintains loyally, "I stand today the product of the joint effort of three determined and ambitious plodders, my father, my mother and myself. Of the three, I accord to my mother the chief credit for my success in life. It was she who taught me the trick of believing in myself and in my capacity to make my way. From the very first she never permitted me to doubt my ability to climb the ladder successfully. She managed it so skilfully that it never once occurred to me that failure in my case would be possible."

It was a humble beginning, with absolutely nothing to presage a victorious outcome but the strong hearts and willing hands behind the movement. The Smiths were poor even for Dowagiac, Mich., in the '50s, too poor to keep their son in school even during his boyhood days. He had to leave his books and join his parents in the struggle for existence. Fortunately he was a lad of abundant resource and accepted anything that offered honestly. At one time he contributed to the family support by selling popcorn at county fairs and other rural gatherings. The business prospered and in time the services of the entire family were enlisted in the enterprise. The little kitchen at Dowagiac was converted into a factory and the father and mother popped the corn by the bushel, using the family wash boiler to mix the flaky product into the syrupy mass from which the appetizing balls were molded, part of them treated to a delicate pink vegetable dye, which made them especially seductive to the youthful palate. In time the business became so flourishing that William took a partner and it was not long before the boys were able to expand into the horse and wagon stage. With this made gay with streamers and flags of all nations, the enterprising young popcorn merchants made a business tour of the county fairs, and for several weeks in the autumn drove a thriving trade.

Young Smith was a fair singer of popular songs, and he conceived the idea of using his talent to attract the crowd. It proved to be a great success, and he soon added a small cabinet organ to his equipment. Thereafter all the boys had to do was to stop their wagon at some convenient spot, open the cabinet organ and burst forth into melody—the crowd and the almost universal taste for popcorn would do the rest.

It was inevitable that such a youngster should make his way in the world, and he did. He climbed right upward, and he saw to it that father and mother were with him in the ascent. Their comfort and personal welfare were never out of his mind and they were always a part of his plan to "get there." When the harvest was ready they came in for their share, a portion so generous that their every wish is anticipated. A few years ago their son removed them from the trying winter climate of the Middle West into the more equable temperature of the Pacific coast. There in a home built with especial reference to their comfort they are entering placidly upon the sunset period of their lives, a striking realization of old Li Hung Chang's declaration that in America ancestor worship precedes the passing of one's forebears.

Albert G. Spalding and His Remarkable Mother.

No one who has followed the career of the man who after having been the dominant figure in the baseball world for so many years is now a candidate for United States senator from California can be entirely ignorant of the part played in his upbuilding by his mother and of his devoted care of her. Before he was 17, while he was a student at a commercial college at Rockford, Ill., Spalding's fame as a ball player had passed beyond the boundary of his native state. The professional game was then in its infancy and no one could have foreseen the amazing future which awaited it. The boy who was trying to absorb the principles of a business education fell a victim to its fascination and announced his intention to enter the professional ranks.

When he told his mother of his determination she was dismayed, but she was too clever to deal with it lightly. "It doesn't seem to me to be a regular profession—a thing to which anybody could be called," she temporized. "It may go entirely out of fashion in a few years, and then you would be without a regular occupation. It's only an experiment so far."

"It's come to stay," he declared, with all the positiveness of a very young man. "It's going to be the biggest thing that ever struck the country. Why, I can get a bigger salary right in the beginning than I could in the ministry after five years."

His mother would have preferred the ministry for him even with its less flattering financial prospects, but she was too wise to say so. What she did was to caution him against being precipitate. "You are so young that you can afford to take plenty of time," she counseled. "Before you commit yourself let us investigate a little more and be sure it is something really worth while. Let us take six months to study it."

The six months probation did not cool the young man's enthusiasm; he was convinced still that he was born to pitch baseball. He was overjoyed to find that his mother had come to the same conclusion.

"I don't know what it is going to come to, Albert," she said, "but I know you well enough to see that nothing will satisfy you until you have given it a trial."

The friends of the family protested and advised her to use her authority. There could be no future, they maintained, for such a hazardous experiment save failure. They prophesied certain shipwreck and urged her to reach forth and snatch this brand from the burning.

"Why, it's about as bad as horse racing," asserted a scandalized relative, "and not half so certain."

"I'm not so sure of that," said Mrs. Spalding. "One thing I do know—Albert will never go wrong as long as I am living."

That was more than forty years ago and the keen-witted old lady is still of the same opinion. Once convinced that her son had made no mistake in his calling—unpromising and peculiar as it undoubtedly was in those pioneer baseball days—she went into the business with all the enthusiasm of a modern "fan" of the most pronounced tendencies. By the time her son had developed into the most famous pitcher in America and the game had become "meat for millionaires," she was one of the best known expounders of its mysteries in the country.

After Spalding joined the Boston team, in 1871, he and his mother were practically inseparable. She accompanied him on several of his professional tours and he always regarded her as the most reliable mascot in the world. He has done much of his best work under the inspiration of her presence, and so well understood was this that it became proverbial in baldom. "What's the matter with Al today?" one critical fan called out to another. "Seems to be a little off his job."

In 1888 Mr. Spalding organized the historical round-the-world baseball tour, taking with him for exhibition purposes the Chicago team and an All-American nine selected from among the top-notchers of the profession. Dominating that star assemblage of baseball talent, "with every man a cavalier, her very seat a throne," was the stately mother of the promoter, and she was the most popular member of the party. At all the festivities arranged in honor of the Americans she took precedence and was the center of attention. At Honolulu the late King Kalakaua gave the ball players a native feast in the garden of the queen's palace. The last of the Hawaiian kings stood beneath a spreading royal palm tree and received his guests one by one as they were presented by Mr. Merrill, the American minister, but when he came to Mrs. Spalding he showed her the special distinction of saluting her with a respectful kiss after the native fashion. Afterward, when supper was announced, the king offered his arm to the lady and together they headed the procession to the table, which was spread on blocks elevated about six inches from the ground in the form of the letter U. The native pie was served in huge calabashes, each guest introducing a forefinger and conveying as much of the mixture as adhered to it to his mouth. As the highest possible evidence of royal esteem his majesty proffered the vessel containing the savory dainty to the American lady who sat beside him. After this concession to native custom the banquet was conducted on the Caucasian plan.

And now, past the 90 mark and in full possession of her remarkable mental faculty, this mother on a pedestal is looking forward to the political triumph of this son whom she surrendered to baseball when it was a proposition still to be proved.

The Federal Judge Who Idealized His Parents.

No American who has achieved an honorable position among those who have risen by sheer force of intellect into national prominence showed less sign of coming greatness in his early life than Peter Stenger Grosscup, the United States circuit judge whose decisions have perhaps made him more famous than many another worthy of even higher degree. Judge Grosscup's boyhood was passed on an isolated little farm in Ashland county, Ohio, and his parents, honest Pennsylvania Germans of the most primitive type, Amish in their religious tendencies, were too poor to send their five children away from home to school, even had they been willing to expose them to close contact with the world's people.

Peter's chief distinguishing feature as a boy was his ability to escape work. The tradition still survives in the neighborhood that no man ever saw him lift his hand to assist in the tilling of the farm, which was of the sort that did not give up its treasures without abundant encouragement. His mother and his sisters toiled in the field from morning till night, but Peter had no taste for agriculture, choosing rather to roam the woods in search of whatever came to hand.

Of course, the scandalized neighborhood attempted to adjust the matter according to its own ideas of such things, but the effort met with scant encouragement from those who might have been expected to welcome it. "If the Lord don't feel to make Peter work, I don't feel to do it either," declared his mother, in her quaint Amish plain speech. She may have prayed that the heavenly influence might not be delayed too long, but she did not attempt to interfere with what her simple faith regarded as a matter beyond her reach.

At the little district school, in session not more than five months of the year, Peter was practically ostracized by the others. He was most unattractive in his personal appearance, tall and gaunt for his age, barefooted, a mop of inky black hair, left untrimmed in the Amish fashion, half concealed his homely face, with its prominent nose and thick lips, and his attire consisted of the formless suit of brown jeans, which is a mystery to those who are not Amish. His habitual condition in those early school days was perpetual disgrace—he did not study, or even pretend to do so.

"That boy of yours'll have to do a lot of catching up some day," one of the teachers observed to his mother.

"If the Lord feels to have him catch up it will be very well," was all the good woman had to say on the subject.

The time came when heaven seemed to "feel" that way, but it was not until Peter had reached manhood. Then he disappeared from the neighborhood and nothing much was heard of him for several years. It was rumored that he had gone to college, but his parents were reticent when asked, and no one appeared to be wise as to young Grosscup's whereabouts or occupation. It came almost as a shock to that remote corner of Ashland county when the county paper made public the fact that Peter Stenger Grosscup had been graduated from Wittenberg at the head of his class and was going to study law.

"If the Lord feels to have Peter a lawyer it will be very well," his mother said, when she was congratulated. Then she added pathetically: "We once knew a lawyer in Pennsylvania that was a man of God. He went plain."

Young Grosscup's transformation was as radical as it was phenomenal. From an uncouth and misunderstood boy, without friends outside of his family, he became a highly prosperous lawyer, a polished man of the world and a famous judge. But long before his fame as a jurist had been spread abroad he went to the rescue of that father and mother who had not interfered with his making over. He established them in one of the best homes in the county seat and as long as they lived surrounded them with an atmosphere of luxurious ease that must have seemed novel to their simple Amish tastes.

"It is not for me—all this expense," said his mother to one who had seen her doing a man's work in the field. "If Peter feels to do it, I feel to let him."

Senator Wolcott's Debt of Love.

Had the benignly-observing old Li Hung Chang known of the little filial trick once played by the late Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado and his brother, Henry, on their parents he would have been more than ever convinced of the truth of his theory of American ancestor worship. After the sons had become rich and famous the senator wrote to his parents, then living in Cleveland, Ohio, that he and Henry—who in 1898 ran for governor of Colorado on the Republican ticket—were going to take them on a visit to Long Meadow, Mass., a village in which the father had once served as pastor of the little Congregational church. The old folks were delighted with the prospect, for they regarded Long Meadow with especial affection and had always wanted to revisit it.

When the party arrived at the pretty Connecticut valley village, which the Wolcotts found to be even more beautiful to them than when they left it long years before, the church was visited first and an hours was spent in reviving old memories of the time when the father had charge of it. As they were leaving, the senator asked in a matter of fact way: "Father, do you remember that old colonial house you used to like so much—I mean that one over near the park?"

"I do, indeed," replied the venerable minister. "I used to think I'd rather have it for a home than any place on earth. I don't know taht I have changed my mind to this day. Let us go over and take a look at it before we see another thing. I wonder if it has changed as much as we have."

A little later they stood before the entrance to the place. The old folks were delighted to find that the property was even in better condition than when they lived in Long Meadow. Everything was as trim and shipshape as good taste and loving care could make it.

"How'd you like to go inside the grounds and walk about a little? I don't suppose any one would object," suggested the senator.

With the love of the spot still strong in his heart the old minister opened the gate and the party entered. After they had strolled leisurely through the grounds and all the old beauties had been examined and many new ones discovered the senator led the way to the front entrance of the mansion.

"I wonder if we couldn't see the inside of the house," he said, stepping on to the white pillared veranda and peeping cautiously into one of the wide, small-paned windows. "There doesn't seem to be anybody living here. Perhaps there is a caretaker in the

JURY FIXING IS ALLEGED

Sensation Sprung in Akerberg-Mayo Suit at Bemidji.

Court Orders Coroner to Summon a New Jury.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sensation was sprung here Friday when it became known that men had been designated as members of the jury which is now trying the Akerberg damage suit, an affidavit alleging prejudice on the part of Sheriff Hazen in making up the jury list, being granted by Judge Stanton, who ordered Coroner Ibertson to prepare a special venire of six. These men were in court yesterday and as a result of questions put by E. E. McDonald, who defends F. A. Mayo against Matilda Akerberg's effort to colect $5,000 as the result of an alleged mistake on the part of a drug clerk for Mayo, the facts develop that they were extremely friendly to the Akerbergs. Coroner Ibertson admitted to the court that three men had approached him and requested that they be selected as jurors. He also said that one of the Akerberg boys had approached him regarding the trial but denied any attempt at jury fixing. The court made it plain that it did not consider Ibertson to blame for any of the peculiar circumstances in connection with the case, the intimation being that the irregularities, if any there are, exist in the sheriff's office.

The interest in the case is heightened by the fact that in the primary campaign just closed Chester McKusick, who sought to be nominated as county attorney, charged, in an open letter, that Sheriff Hazen had made a practice of preparing improper jury lists.

Judge Stanton has ordered Coroner Ibertson to furnish him with the names of three men who approached him and when they are reported additional details of a still more sensational nature are expected. Senator Peterson of Moorhead has charge of the case for Mrs. Akerberg.

HIGH PRICE PAID FOR DAKOTA LANDS

Three Quarter Sections Are Sold at $80 Per Acre.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remarkable price of $80 an acre was paid for three quarter sections of land in Rye township, just eight miles northwest of Grand Forks. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith sold the land, 480 acres in all, to O. E. Hunt, and the amount changing hands in the transfer was $28,800. This is one of the largest prices ever paid for farm land in the county, setting a new high water mark, and it is also indicative of the fact that investors have not lost confidence in the ability of Red river valley farm lands to produce abundantly.

HUNDREDS OF TONS OF HAY DESTROYED

Prairie Fires Prove Disastrous in Kanabec County.

Mora, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports show that fire has destroyed hundreds of tons of hay in swamps of Ann Lake, Kroschel and Pomroy townships. One single swamp of Kroschel township, on which 100 tons of hay was stacked, was burned over. Two farm houses have also been burned and it is feared others have also burned. Fires are also burning in the vicinity of Knife Lake township, and unless rain comes to the aid soon the condition will become serious. Many of these fires, no doubt, originate through somebody's carelessness.

MINNESOTA MAN FOULLY MURDERED

Cigarmaker of Rochester Is Killed in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—The mutilated body of Harry A. Paine, a cigarmaker of Rochester, Minn., was found in the woods back of the Burnham brickyards near Center City.

The head was covered with deep gashes made by a heavy bar taken from the rear end of a brick wagon.

The body was found by Peter Miller and James Belante, employes in the brickyard. The blood was fresh on the man's body and on the ground.

The ground about the scene of the crime was trampled as if a violent struggle had taken place and the police and deputy sheriffs were sent to the place of the murder last night to obtain clues to aid them in finding the murderers.

Paine came to Milwaukee from Watertown in search of work. He applied at the office of John Reichert, secretary of the Milwaukee local of the Cigarmakers' union. The position offered him did not suit him, and he left the office after borrowing $4.

The police and the sheriff's office are unable to suggest a motive for the murder. The man did not have any money and was not known to have any enemies.

SPECIAL INSPECTOR IS INVESTIGATING

Chief Johnson Would Know More About the Indian Agents.

Cass Lake, Minn., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Special Inspector Gentilly of Ashland, Wis., is here looking into the situation in regard to the recent trouble in this vicinity with the Indian agents. Mr. Gentilly is sent here by William E. Johnson, chief special agent of the Indian department with headquarters at Denver, Colo., and is making the rounds with a view of getting at the facts in the recent cases. In conversation with Mr. Gentilly he stated that he did not believe Mr. Johnson has been presented with the main facts whenever the agents have sent in reports regarding their actions, as the ideas obtained on his visit here and in conversation with the people of Cass Lake in regard to the matter leads one to believe that the reports sent in by the sub-agents are all colored to suit the agent sending the report.

The recent trouble at Cass Lake over the attack on A. A. Oliver at Bena was practically the first instance where the impartial report reached the chief agent at Denver, hence the visit of Mr. Gentilly here today. It seems that whenever any trouble occurs with the Indian agents the only report received by the chief special officer is that sent in by the agents themselves, the citizens never taking the trouble to send in their side of the case, until the trial here ten days ago when Mr. Oliver sent in the full particulars of his side of the case explaining the matter.

Halvor Steenerson of Crookston, Minn., and member of congress from the Ninth district in that state, will be the principal speaker at a big celebration that will take place in Lankin on Oct. 6. The coming of Congressman Steenerson will be quite an event and will result, also, in bringing Congressman L. B. Hanna and H. and A. J. Gronna of North Dakota, as well as H. T. Helgeson and T. D. Casey, prospective congressmen. Congressman Steenerson, it is understood, will not talk politics during his visit here.

LANGDON, N. D., PASTOR TO QUIT THE MINISTRY.

Langdon, N. D., Sept. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. E. S. Benjamin, the pastor of the Methodist church in this city, who achieved a remarkable building record last year when the edifice was destroyed by the tornado, is to quit the ministry. Rev. Benjamin, within a few weeks after the tornado, had been successful in securing enough cash to rebuild the church and leave it clear of indebtness. Throat trouble is responsible for his decision to quit the ministry, and his resignation goes to the North Dakota conference at Bismarck next month.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton — Deputy Sheriff Vivian brought in a young man from a farm near Osceola who had become insane on religious matters. Deputy Vivian says that on a car en route to Houghton he was considerably muddled by some of the expressions that the young man used, such as "Anti-Christ" and "Hypo-Christ." Vivian said he thought that he was being told he was a hypocrite, but though he refutes this charge, he owns up to the fact that the young man's ideas of religion and the way he interpreted the scriptures went over his head.

Calumet—A two-story dwelling owned by Esau Esamo of Ahmeek was totally destroyed by fire early Thursday morning. The loss is approximately $2,000. The fire is thought to have originated from an explosion of a kerosene lamp in a bedroom on the second floor. An alarm was turned at the Ahmeek engine house, and the Ahmeek village fire department responded. The water supply was inadequate and the flames burned through the roof and the first floor before a stream played on the blaze. Attention was directed toward saving adjoining property. The furniture in the Esamo building was saved. The burned building was occupied by three families.

Laurium—Andrew Johnson, charged with cutting away the outside casing of a tire on an automobile owned by Joseph R. Reed of Laurium and stealing a portion of the inner tube, confessed the guilt this week to Marshal James V. DAKOTA BRIEFS

Devils Lake, N. D.—Chief of Police Barnes committed a young man who gave his name as Ray Wilson to the county jail on the charge of petty larceny. The complaint was made by another hobo and pal of this man, who said that Wilson stole $100 from him.

Ashley, N. D.—Thursday afternoon Dr. Maercklein and Messrs. Hite, Walberg and Harry Johnson were out chicken hunting, southwest of town. They unhitched the horses and tied them to the two-seated buggy, near some trees. When they were returning to the rig after an absence of a half or three-quarters of an hour they saw smoke rising from the buggy. The fire is supposed to have originated from fire that possibly was in the bowl of the pipe that was placed in one of the coats. The hunters bagged very little game, but gained some experience.

Minot, N. D.—The difference existing between Mr. and Mrs. John Wolff were settled in an amicable manner at the city jail and the couple left on the east-bound through train for their home, near Winnipeg, in company with their two children.

CERTAINLY ENDS STOMACH MISERY

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia go in Five Minutes.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Biliousness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

COMES TO DEFENSE OF CITY LIFE.

Rabbi M. Lefkovitz of Temple Emanuel said in an address last night that he disagrees with those who constantly criticises the city against the country. He declared that in the cities there are 1,000 possibilities for growth, education and culture to one in the country, enabling one to bring out the best that is in him.

He did not deny that it has pitfalls, but said that a man had not become full master of himself until he had had an opportunity to face temptation.

The sermon was based on the play "The City," seen here recently.

PRIMARIES CAUSE A LULL IN REALTY BUSINESS

Only Activity Noticeable Is in Suburban Residence Lots.

Duluth Is Rapidly Becoming "a City of Homes."

The recent primary election had its effect on the local real estate market During the past week there have been no large sales and while there has been considerable inquiry for the cheaper residence lots, the market as a whole has been as quiet as a serene and beautiful summer's day.

"What do the other fellows tell you?" is a common query among the realty dealers when they are visited in turn. "We have had some small sales, but no really valuable property, either business or residence, has changed hands during the week." In spite of this fact the Duluth men look for a winter that will bring with it plenty of business.

Just at the present time it is the cheaper lots that are attracting the greater amount of attention. The lots being put on at $1 a week are going fast. There seems to be an absence of money, however, and while people can find a dollar each week to invest, they don't seem to have the money for the larger deals.

Centrally located residence property is in demand. There is always a demand for residence sites near the business district and they are becoming more scarce every year. But few of those who own property close to the heart of the city are willing to give it up at any price. A great many have the hunch that Superior and First streets are not going to be sufficient for business purposes when the town gets a little larger and avenue property is held at a premium. One real estate dealer says that if he could list property of this description, he could sell it at almost any time.

To the north, east and west, Duluth is spreading out. The people are drifting to the suburbs new and old, where they can own their own homes. That "own your own home" cry has been felt in Duluth for a long time and it gains in strength every day. "A city of homes" Duluth is becoming in every sense of the word.

Real estate men say that of late they have been surprised at the number of strangers who have purchased property, showing that they have determined to stay. It is not the more expensive property they buy, but the suburban lots that are being sold on easy terms. In this way the home costs more money, but it is the only way a man working on a small salary can get one of his own.

A trip to Lakeside, Woodland, West Duluth, Duluth Heights and the other more recently opened places will convince almost any one that the "Own Your Home" cry has been heard and followed by hundreds. Pretty little bungalows are going up in every part of the city. This kind of a house is cheaper to erect, is comfortabe and when it is finished, the owner is proud of it. The homes being built at the present time are not pretentious, but they show the movement that is under way.

Richardson, Day & Harrison report a good sale in Chamber's addition. The property lies close to the boulevard and the lots are finely laid out.

N. J. Upham is still selling Home Acres. Home Acres lie close to Duluth Heights on the Maple Grove road. The city, many think, will in time extend over the hills and the sales have been brisk during the week.

In all the outlying parks the inquiry has been brisk and the sales many during the week past. In almost every instance of a property sale, the purchaser makes known the fact that he intends to build.

The L. A. Larsen company will soon put on the market cheap acres near the city. The tract will be known as Lakewood tract and lies just one mile North of Lakewood. The land will be sold in five-acre tracts. This is another movement for truck gardens located close to the city. The land is said to be of the best.

Very shortly the Getty-Smith company will open up a truck garden tract to be known as Farmington Place. This land is said to be of the best and is located very close to West Duluth. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad runs through one corner and the Thompson road runs through the entire eighty acres. The land will be sold in five-acre tracts or less and will be sold on the easy payment plan. The land will be easily cleared, but little bush being contained thereon and the soil is at the present time almost, ready for the plow.

The Lakeside Land company reports a number of sales in Lakeside. In each instance the purchaser will erect a residence. George Tucker, Leonard Moe, Martin Vold, Mrs. Agnes Poole, and many others have of late purchased residence property in this section. The company will erect for M. Delvin a residence to cost in the neighborhood of $4,000.

During the week L. S. Loeb who recently built the new Sixth avenue hotel at Sixth avenue west and Superior street announced that he is about to build a business block on the southwest corner of Lake avenue and First street. Mr. Loeb recently purchased the property through the offices of William Prindle.

The Western Realty company announces that it will soon put on the market garden tracts close to the most densely populated portion of the city. The addition is to be known as the Suburban Garden Tracts. The land lies on the Morris Thomas road. The purchaser gets a Torrens title, no interest is charged, and the land is sold on easy payments. The land will be placed on the market Oct. 1.

IF you're a man who has always paid rent, then you're the man to look up this delightful little home, which is situated in the midst of ideal surroundings, in one of Duluth's choicest residential suburbs.

This house is carefully designed and finished in oak downstairs and maple flooring throughout. Has six rooms and bath. There is full concrete basement under entire building. Full lighting and plumbing fixtures are also supplied.

UNIQUE HOME WHICH WOULD COST $6,000 TO BUILD IN DULUTH

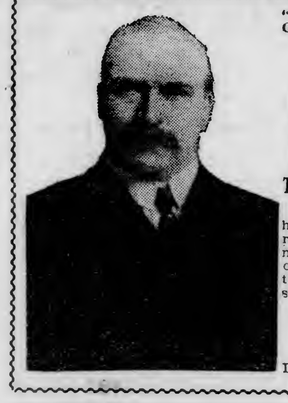

The above sketch is for a house, designed for an owner who is not satisfied by the sterotyped plans that resolve everything into the square, or oblong, with the straight gable or hipped roof and tack on to the sides dormers to give it some characteristic feature. But moreover the owner desired the pleasure of seeing his house from many points of view, and wished that each view would be different and at the same time interesting. These views are adopted in the above sketch; the large chimney gives a dignified charm which is lost in most modern houses.

The interior, though built for a small family, is roomy and convenient. The living room, a large spacious room is paneled and has a beamed ceiling with inglenook. The dining room, kitchen and pantry are conveniently arranged. There are two large bedrooms on the second floor and two in the attic with large closets and bathroom.

The living room, dining room and hall would be finished in stained oak, the kitchen and pantry in birch, the bedrooms in white enamel, and all floors in maple. The cost inclusive of plumbing and heating would be $6,000 in Duluth or vicinity.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Greysolon Farms Company Organizes and Chooses Its Directors.

Steady Progress Made in Clearing Land and Securing Settlers.

At a meeting this morning of the Greysolon Farms company, A. M. Marshall was elected president; John G. Williams, vice president; C. P. Craig, secretary-treasurer. The directors are: C. A. Condgon and J. B. Cotton. Among the stockholders in this company are J. L. Washburn, C. A. Duncan, Luther Mendenhall and T. F. Cole.

The Greysolon Farms company is the company that was organized about a year ago. It was the first company organized to further the interests of market gardening close to the city. It has the approval of the Commercial club and the state university.

In speaking of the enterprise this morning C. P. Craig said:

"We have not been doing much talking lately, but we have been sawing wood. We have already established several people on the land and others are coming in each day. We have now about 120 acres cleared and the rest of the land is being cleared as fast as the men can do the work. The land is a plot of nearly 1,300 acres and lies at the end of the Woodland car line.

"We have had experts here from all over the country and they pronounce the location ideal. Our aim is to get the better class of farmers on the land so that there will be no failures."

The company has been going ahead of late in the matter of getting the land ready for cultivation. A man may buy from one to forty acres and when he begins work everything is ready for him. The land has been cleared and the company at the present time has plows tearing up the ground for the first time. All the farmers has to do is plant his seed and take care of his plants.

An experiment plot to be in charge of an expert and run at the expense of the company is now being prepared. A man who thoroughly understands truck farming will be employed and he will try out products that the farmers may not be able to risk on account of the expense. This experimental farm will be a feature of the whole plot. Farmers may there learn what does well and what to grow to make the most money.

The district will ultimately be served by a suburban trolley line.

From the great amount of inquiry and the fact that the company is doing its best to get the better class of settlers on the land, the success of the venture now seems assured.

HOMEWOOD WILL GO ON MARKET

Choice Sites Above the Boulevard Offered to Home Builders.

Homewood, the tract of land above the boulevard will soon be placed on the market by the Whitney Wall company.

Of late many fine residences have been erected on this driveway and many people will undoubtedly take advantage of the chance to buy property in the new tract.

The fine view of the lake and harbor makes Homewood an ideal residence location. Strangers have remarked on the fact that so few dwellings were located in this district. They say that if Duluth were their home, they would choose a site on the hilltop.

Tomorrow there will be men on the ground to show the property and the sale will open Oct. 1.

SUBURBAN GARDEN TRACTS!

This will be a splendid opportunity for the laboring man, the mechanic, the clerk, the janitor, the office man, in fact, men and women in every walk of life, to secure one or more GARDEN TRACTS on which to live, away from the noise and bustle of our big city and yet near enough to be able to reach the downtown district in twenty to thirty minutes.

SOIL and LOCATION

The soil consists of from eight to twelve inches of rich sandy loam, with clay bottom. It is comparatively free from stones so that it is excellent for all garden purposes, being very easy to work.

A HOME with plenty of ground where you can raise all your table vegetables, and have a cow and some chickens and be virtually INDEPENDENT, and still be able to work in the city at your regular occupation.

These SUBURBAN GARDEN TRACTS are located from twelve to twenty blocks from the Piedmont Avenue car line and IMMEDIATELY ADJACENT TO THE MOST THICKLY SETTLED portion of Duluth, the WEST END. A number of these tracts face the Morris Thomas road and several face the new Hutchinson road, on which the proposed extension of the car line will run. Roads will be laid out in front of all other tracts, so that every tract will face a road. Look for our sign on the Morris Thomas road.

PRICES and TERMS

Prices range from $125.00 to $300.00 per tract, according to location and desirability. Terms, $5.00 to $10.00 Cash and $5.00 to $10.00 per month. No interest charged at any time. No taxes until 1912. Torrens Title.

The sale will be held Saturday afternoon, October 1st. But you can reserve your tract in advance of sale by deposit of $5.00 at our office. Our office will be open every day from now to date of sale, from 7:30 in the morning until 9:30 in the evening. BE SURE TO MAKE AN APPOINTMENT with us to show you these tracts this week.

LAKE FRONTAGE ON LONG LAKE.

On account of urgent demands for little pieces of land on a lake, I have recently platted the east side of Long Lake into ten acre tracts. Long Lake is located between Caribou and Grand Lakes and is reached at present via the Cloquet River Road, about sixteen miles from Duluth. The Canadian Northern runs through corner of land and station has been granted at crossing of the Swan Lake Road, one mile south. Price $25.00 per acre, easy terms.

Four ten-acre tracts were sold last Sunday and for those who cannot look land over during the week I have arranged to take out next Sunday morning, leaving Board of Trade Livery Barn at 7 a. m., back at noon, weather permitting.

LOCATION

Homewood is located on the upper side of the Boulevard, between Fifth and Tenth avenue east. To reach same, walk up either Seventh or Eighth avenues east.

EVERYBODY WHO IS ANYBODY CAN OWN A LOT IN HOMEWOOD ADDITION

PRICES

Prices are now very low for such high-class, centrally located property. They will surely advance. Hence, an early selection will mean money saved. Prices range from $150 to $400, (a few choice lots a bit higher).

SALE OPENS SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1st, 1910

HOMEWOOD

Is beautifully laid out. Every lot fronts on a sixty-six-foot street. The whole property is covered with a fine growth of shade trees.

HOMEWOOD is platted so that the cost of sewers will practically be one-half as much per lot as in any other part of the city.

HOMEWOOD lot buyers will be protected against loss if out of work, on account of sickness, and are unable to meet their payments.

A Bank may fail and Savings go,
And Stocks may melt like drifts of snow,
But when YOU have a little Land,
The Deed to it within YOUR hand,
It cannot disappear or melt--you know.

HOMEWOOD

Is high and dry, has a gradual slope back from the Boulevard. It is away from all smoke and dirt, yet within walking distance of Duluth's business center.

HOMEWOOD commands a view of the lake, city and surrounding country, that is unsurpassed in the world.

HOMEWOOD offers the best investment proposition for saving small sums of money that was ever presented to people of Duluth.

Every Capitalist, Banker, Merchant, Doctor, Lawyer, Clerk, Mechanic, Housemaid or Laborer should own a lot in HOMEWOOD, as it is the best proposition ever offered to the public.

It is buying centrally located property at suburban prices and a lot in HOMEWOOD ADDITION is bound to increase in value.

There have been more opportunities lost by "putting off" important things—waiting for "something better"—than there have been successes.

The man who does not start in to get a home certainly will never have one. He is the everlasting rent payer—the grumbler about his hard lot. The one who is waiting for "something better to turn up" will never realize his expectations. He spends his time envying his neighbor who was awake to the good things offered.

WE WANT TO STIR YOU TO ACTION ON THIS HOMEWOOD PROPOSITION!

SIZE OF LOTS

Boulevard lots at 40x140 feet deep, all other lots are 30x120 feet deep. All lots face on a graded street and run back to a sixteen-foot alley.

BUSY WITH BUNGALOWS

Demand for Moderate-Priced Homes Keeping Architects Hustling.

Prospects Are Bright for a Busy Season This Winter.

Prospects for a busy building season never looked brighter to Duluth architects.

At the present time they are all busy and expect to be for some time to come.

The bungalow craze that is on in Duluth, would keep them busy if there were work of no other kind. No large buildings are being planned at the present time.

Daily the architects' offices are being visited by men in moderate walks of life, asking that plans for a bungalow be made. The architects have been busy on bungalows for some time and instead of decreasing the business is constantly on the increase. Duluth has at the present time some of the finest homes of this class that are to be found in the country.

A few years ago winter building was unknown. Now houses are erected all the year around in Duluth. The experience of trying to hire a carpenter will convince almost anybody that things in a building way in Duluth, are rushing.

From one end of the city to the other residences in large numbers are being erected and the desire of Duluth's citizens for homes is noticeable even to the strangers who visit the city.

"Take this block for instance," said a local architect yesterday as he pointed out a block in the Eastern section of the city on a huge map that hung in his office. "When I erected a house in that block about a year ago, there was not another house in the entire block, with the exception of one that had been there for years. Now there are but two vacant lots in the block. Does that mean anything to you?"

Some time ago the outlook for a busy winter was very discouraging. Just now it never looked brighter.

Radcliffe & Price have completed plans for a new building for the Gogebic Boiler work. The building will be located at the company's plant on Lake avenue and will replace the building that was destroyed by fire some time ago. It will be 40x85 feet and three stories high. The cost will be about $15,000.

Michigan Man Honored in Navy.

Washington, Sept. 24.—For gallant conduct which doubtless avoided a disaster aboard the torpedo boat destroyer Chauncey in the run from Tsing Tau, China to Nagasaki, Japan, Aug. 16 last, the secretary of the navy has commended Clement King of St. Joseph, Mich., chief water tender James P. Pierce of Macon, Ga., boilermaker, and Maximilian R. Irrgang of Chicago, water tender. The Chauncey was steaming easily in formation when a tube in one of the boilers blew out.

MARINE NEWS

NEW BOAT MAY GO ON DULUTH RUN

Allegheny of Anchor Line Ready to Go Into Commission.

The new steamer Allegheny of the Anchor line will be entered into regular package freight service the coming week. The Allegheny is the latest boat built by the Anchor line people, and is one of the best package freighters on the Great Lakes.

It has not been learned whether the new vessel will be placed in service between Buffalo and Chicago or Buffalo and Duluth. It is believed at the present time that the Allegheny will be put on the Duluth end of the service. In that event the new vessel will be seen at the Head of the Lakes in a very short time.

The Octorara of the Anchor line left the day before yesterday on her last scheduled passenger trip of the present season. The Tionesta leaves today on her last passenger run of the season, and Wednesday the Juniata will come to the Head of the Lakes on her last passenger trip of the present season.

These boats will continue to run until the close of navigation but they will be on a package freight schedule, and will only take what passengers happen to be at the dock when the boats are ready to leave.

According to the statement of the Duluth office of the Anchor line, the present season has been a very good one for the passenger business, though figures are not ready yet on the number of people carried.

LAKE FREIGHTER RUNS AGROUND.

Glen Haven, Mich., Sept. 24.—The steel steamer Bethlehem ran ashore on the head of South Manitou Island yesterday. She is out two feet, six inches forward. No. 1 tank is full of water on the port side and twenty-three inches on the starboard side. There are twelve inches in No 2 tank. The steamer is in a very exposed position. The wind is fresh from the northwest. The Bethlehem, 2,638 tons, belongs to the Lehigh Valley Transportation company of Buffalo, N. Y., and is commanded by Capt. Everett Klock.

IMPROVEMENTS AND CHANGES IN HARBORS.

The following notices relative to improvements and changes in Lake Superior harbors, have been received at the Duluth branch of the United States Hydrographic office.

"Duluth-Superior harbor—The operating mechanism for the draw of the Interstate Transfer railway bridge, which crosses the St. Louis river at Duluth, has been installed, and the channels are now clear in both draw openings. The time required to open the draw is stated to be 2½ minutes. The whistle for giving return signals required by the rules, has not yet been installed, but it is expected it will be in operation early in the month of September.

"Wisconsin—A survey of the government dredged channel along the harbor front at Ashland, Wis., made Aug. 27-29, 1910, shows no shoal that would obstruct the passage of vessels, and it now seems probable that the steamer Wiley M. Egan, which grounded on Aug. 3, 1910, was out of the channel to the northward between red buoys Nos. 2 and 4.

The first four red buoys, Nos. 2, 4, 6 and 8, are properly placed on the north bank of the channel, but three of the channel buoys are out of place. Black Buoy No. 3 is in the channel forty feet to the northward of its station, and the two buoys at the extreme western end of the government channel are much out of place, the red buoy being on the southern bank instead of the northern and the black buoy being eighty feet southward of the southern bank.

"Southern shore—About Sept. 9, 1910, Sand Point Gas-buoy No. 1, showing an intermitten white light every twenty seconds, thus light ten seconds eclipsed ten seconds, will be established in about twenty feet of water on the northwestern edge of Sand Point shoal, eastern shore of the eastern entrance to Grand Island harbor, southern shore of Lake Superior.

"Southern shore—About Sept. 9, 1910, the gas-buoy moored to mark the wreck of the steamer Manhattan, sunk in the eastern entrance to Grand Island harbor, southern shore of Lake Superior, will be permanently discontinued, the wreck having been removed.

"Southern shore—The wreck of the steamer Chauncey Hurlbut, which went ashore off Vermillion Point, about ten miles westward of Whitefish Point, southern shore of Lake Superior, was removed on Aug. 21 and 22, 1910, and the wreckage sunk in deep water.

"Some further work has been done on the wreck of the Nimick, about eleven miles westward of Whitefish Point, for the recovery of salvage. An examination of this wreck, made Aug. 23, 1910, showed that nothing was left but the boiler, over which the least depth was seventeen feet."

CROP NEWS IS BEARISH

Foreign Countries Report Improved Conditions--- Wheat Lower.

Flax Yields Better in Northwest---Big Argentine Crop Predicted.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 24.—In a narrow trading market wheat declined today. September lost ⅝c, December ½c and May ¾c. Cash wheat was on a parity with September. Durum lost ½c, oats lost ⅛c. Rye and barley were unchanged from yesterday.

Flax was stronger. September advanced 2½c, October 1½c, November 1½. December 3c and May was unchanged. Cash flax was 2c over September.

Wheat opened easy and declined on lower cables and bearish foreign news.

Liverpool was ½@⅝d lower. The market was a narrow scalping affair with a weak undertone.

Arrivals of grain at Roumanian ports continue heavy and the outlook is for heavy exports next week. The world's shipments next week promise to be large. A cable from Argentina said that the weather is favorable and prospects for the growing crop are favorable. Australian crop reports are excellent, and if the crop outlook continues the same, the exportable surplus of the Australian crop will be larger than previously estimated. Estimates of the crop are now placed at 50,000,000 bu against 80,000,000 bu last year.

There was a little profit-taking today after the bulge in the latter part of the week. Trading was extremely light and the market was featureless.

Flour business shows a slight improvement. Both Southwestern and Northwestern millers report a better demand. Buyers are inclined to stand pat on bids under the sellers' asking prices, but many who are in immediate need of supplies are making larger than hand-to-mouth purchases. While the individual accounts are comparatively small, yet the total volume is of moderate proportions.

The domestic cash demand was slightly improved, but not in sufficient volume to attract the notice of the professionals, who had the pit to themselves. There was no outstanding trading. Receipts at winter wheat markets continue larger than last year, but the receipts at the Northwestern primary markets are exceedingly small. Despite the small receipts in the Northwest, the stocks are almost as large as at this time last year.

Snow wired from Saskatchewan that the extent of the loss to wheat from frost before harvest is becoming apparent. He declared that the estimate of 100,000,000 bu for the crop of the three provinces are misleading. The quality loss, he thinks, will reduce the crop to an equivalent of 75,000,000 bu of milling grain. Large amounts, he said, will go as "rejected."

Country offerings of flax were small. Receipts are increasing, but are being shipped out almost as fast as the seed arrives. The yields are larger than were expected, and the government's estimate on the Northwestern flax crop appears to have been too low as in former years it was too high.

A New York special to The Herald said: "There has been quite a little Argentine seed sold here. Argentine exporters are asking higher prices now, and there is not as much seed offered. Recent rains permit the assumption of flax sowing, and if the weather conditions are favorable there may be a big increase in the crop over that of last year."

Broomhall cabled: "Wheat market opened ¼@½d lower, being influenced by lower American cables yesterday. Later the market showed a period of firmness and prices reacted. Shorts covered on an improved continental demand and reported sales of Pacific coast cargoes to France. Cargo arrivals off coast were nil and awaiting orders very light and rather more firmly held. Toward the close, however, there was selling to realize and the advance was lost and more too, and prices showed a decline of ⅛@¾d from the opening. Pressure was due to bearish statistics and rather more liberal Australian and Indian offers. At the close the market was easy, ½@⅝d lower than yesterday. Corn, unchanged to ¼d lower. The decline was checked by an improved inquiry for parcels. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast nil and awaiting orders, 2. In distant position firm, with a fair continental demand. Corn steadier and less offered.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bearish News Causes Depression in Prices of Wheat.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—An increase of nearly 2,000,000 bu in the week's shipments of wheat from Russia and the Danube took the starch out of the market here today, additional pressure of Australian and Indian offerings formed a further bearish factor. Prices opened easy following the cables, and were ¼c to ⅜c lower. Selling became somewhat spirited as the decline continued, December started at $1.00⅛ to $1.00¼, a loss of ¼c to ⅜c and fell to 99⅞c.

Week-end liquidation by tired longs and more aggressive short selling than usual kept prices down. The close was steady, however, with December at 99⅞c, a net loss of ⅝c.

Pit traders were sellers of corn and seemed to have captured control of the market. December opened unchanged to ¼c off at 51⅜c to 51⅝c and declined to 51¼c.

Support continued to be poor. The close was easy with December at 51⅛@¼c, a net loss of ⅜@½c.

Oats eased off in sympathy with wheat and corn. December starting ¼c down at 34½c and sold at 34⅜c.

Liberal purchases of October lard made hog products firm, first sales were unchanged to 10c up with January pork at $19.00; October lard at $12.42½ to $12.50 and January ribs at $9.52½.

Cotton Market.

New York, Sept. 24.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 2@11 points in sympathy with easier cables and reports of freer spot offerings in Liverpool. Later business was very quiet and the market ruled irregular at a net decline of about 2@5 points on the active months. DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Price Movement Listless and Wavering Outside Few Minor Issues.

Light Selling Causes Late Decline But Close Fairly Steady.

New York, Sept. 24.—Orders were scarce at the opening of the stock market today and the movement of prices very narrow. A decline of ½ in United States Steel and an advance of ⅝ in Reading measured the maximum movement.

Local traction stocks were a trifle firmer when Brooklyn Transit rose a point but the rising in the Interborough-Metropolitan issues invited profit-taking and they receded to below yesterday's closing. The rest of the list was without special movement. Union Pacific preferred, Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred, the St. Louis Southwestern stocks and American Linseed preferred gained a point, Virginia-Iron droppped 8 points, United Railways and Investment 1½ and National Biscuit 1.

The market closed fairly steady. The movement of prices was listless and wavering outside of a few minor issues. Chicago & Alton rose 2½ and Wheeling & Lake Erie, Chicago, Great Western preferred; Great Northern Ore certificates, General Electric, Interborough Metropolitan preferred and American Cotton Oil 1. Light selling caused a decline at the last. Sloss-Sheffield Steel declined 1.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

"WE LACK VOTES AND SO DOES ROOSEVELT," SAY THE OLD GUARD

Sherman Expects to Win Fight at Saratoga, However.

Both Sides Will Present Platforms and Refuse to Compromise.

Regulars Are on the Field and Ex-President Is Traveling.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 26.—With the coming today of Vice President Sherman on the scene of political battle, the old guard forces redoubled their energies to secure control of the Republican state convention and prevent Col. Roosevelt and the progressives from naming the candidates and writing the party platform.

Mr. Sherman had scarcely alighted from the train before he was in conference with William Barnes, Jr., who frankly stated that neither side had a majority of the delegates.

"No, there is nothing to say," said Vice President Sherman. "And there won't be anything to say later, as I look at it."

"Who is going to be temporary chairman of the convention?"

"I am," was the reply. "That's what I came here for."

"Doesn't it look rather gloomy?" asked an up-state newspaper man.

"Oh, no; perfectly delightful."

Sherman in Good Humor.

Mr. Sherman was in great good humor and was cordially greeted by the leaders of both sides. One of the first to greet him was Cornelius V. Collins

TAFT'S OFFICIAL FAMILY MEETS

Cabinet Will Spend Its Afternoons in Social Functions.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The first of the series of cabinet meetings that will mark the stay of President Taft in Washington this week was held today in the cabinet room of the executive offices. It had been just three months since the official family was last together.

Incidentally the president's house party also began today, its formal opening being luncheon scheduled for 1:30 p. m. It was the president's own idea to give impetus to the fall and winter work in all of the departments. The cabinet days will be busy ones. A long program of subjects to be considered has been made up by the president. While the cabinet will meet each morning, the members will have their afternoons free.

Work for the Cabinet.

In a general way the cabinet discussions are to be on the subject of forthcoming judicial appointments by the president; foreign affairs, including the readjustment in progress in Nicaragua; reports, estimates and economy plans from the various departments; the inauguration of the postal savings banks and the extension of the civil service to include assistant postmasters and permanent clerks in money order offices.

SITUATION IN KANSAS

Willis Abbot Finds Drift Among Business Men to Democracy.

Insurgents Confident and the State Likely to Go Republican.

By Willis Abbot.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state of Kansas is just as political in these days as it was in the gala days of Populism. There is as much talk about radicalism, and progressive Republicanism, as there was at that time about the vital necessity of "keeping in the middle of the road," but whereas, in '94 and '96 the Republican party was emphatically on the run, afraid for its ultimate existence, it is today confident even though to some extent disorganized.

That this situation would not exist had it not been for the vigor and courage with which a small group of radical Republicans calling themselves insurgents, pressed the radical cause in the last congress, is unquestionably true. The chairman of the Republican state committee, and also Governor Stubbs admitted as much to me. True, both of them are exponents of progressivism, but even among the old time standpatters, I do not find all those evidences of revolt against the

The former banker reported at the desk for duty this morning having entirely recovered from a temporary illness.

This information has been communicated to the Italian embassy at Manchester by the governor.

SENATORIAL INQUIRY INTO HOW LORIMER WAS ELECTED BEGINS

White Is First Witness Heard By Committee in Chicago.

Room Is Crowded to Its Capacity With Spectators.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—State Representative Charles C. White of O'Fallon, Ill., was the first witness to take the stand today in the investigation into the election of United States Senator William Lorimer by the senatorial subcommittee on elections and privileges. Six of the seven members of the committee were present when his examination was begun by Attorney Austrian, representing the Chicago Tribune, which, in printing White's story several months ago brought on the investigation.

White, after giving his name and address and saying he was a duly elected member of the Illinois legislature, identified letters he said had been sent him by Lee O'Neil Browne asking White's help to establish Browne's position as minority leader in the lower house of the legislature.

Relations With Browne.

The witness then began to tell of his relations with Browne.

Senator Lorimer was on hand early with his attorney, Elbridge Hanecy. Attorney P. H. O'Donnell, who represented Browne in the latter's two trials on charges of bribery, sat beside Attorney Hanecy. Attorney Austria and Clifford W. Barnes of the Legislative Voters' league sat on the opposite side of the room.

Among those in the small clubroom of the Congress hotel, where the hearings are being held, were Mrs. J. C. Burrows, wife of the chairman of the Hainer of Tulsa, Okla., announced that the government was ready to proceed, and urged that the work of selecting a jury begin at once.

MINING CONGRESS OPENS SESSIONS

Address By Gifford Pinchot Will Be the Big Feature.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—Can the conservationists draft a law that will not work hardship upon the mining and oil interests of the West or in some measure at least arrest the development of the treasure fields of California, Nevada, Montana, Colorado and Arizona?

This is the great question before the delegates who began the 1910 session of the American Mining congress in Temple auditorium today. Everyone is awaiting the address of Gifford Pinchot tonight. Mr. Pinchot will talk on conservation as it relates to the oil industry particularly, but doubtless before his address is concluded queries will draw him out regarding the restrictive effect the proposed federal enactment will have upon the mining industry as well.

Wildcat mining propositions and other abuses discussed at the last congress as demanding immediate measures for correction were dealt with in the annual address today of President Buckley.

RAILROADS FURNISH GREATEST HINDRANCE TO WATER TERMINALS

So Says Commissioner Herbert Knox Smith in His Report.

Conditions at All Principal Ports of the Country Are Shown.

Says There Is Much Room for Improvement at Duluth.

Washington, Sept. 26.—"Probably the greatest single deterrent to water terminal advance in the United States is the present adverse attitude of rail lines toward independent water traffic, in their exclusive control of frontage, in refusal or neglect to co-ordinate with general water traffic and in refusal to prorate generally with water lines in through movement of traffic."

This is one of the conclusions of Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, in part 3, just made public, of his report to the president on water transportation in the United States. After an exhaustive inquiry into the harbor situation of the country and analysis of conditions, Commissioner Smith deals in this section of the report with water terminals and he finds five salient facts regarding them:

That terminals are as important as channels.

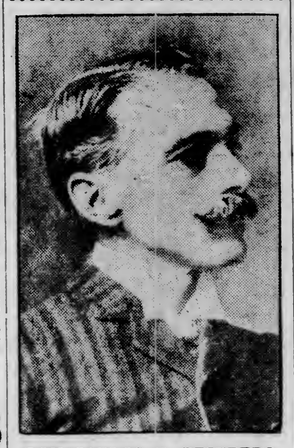

That the harbors of the country have not fully developed their terminal frontage, nor are they properly organized or controlled.

Control By Railroads.

That railroads largely control water

Three Walk Twelve Miles From Red Wing---Hide in Belfry.

Red Wing, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Far up in a tower in the little country church on the Prairie Island Indian reservation the three girls who escaped from the state training school Friday evening were found in hiding by officers of the school late Saturday evening. The church is located about twelve miles from the institution and the girls had walked the entire distance during the night.

After their escape the officers traced the trio to the church and to their surprise located them in the tower. The girls have been taken back to the school.

They had been given the freedom of the school campus on honor when they made their escape. What punishment will be inflicted is not made public.

DISPLEASED WITH MAYOR OF ROME

Vatican Urges Foreign Prelates to Protest Against His Speech.

Rome, Sept. 26.—Reports that the holy see has dispatched official protests to the foreign governments against the anti-clerical speech delivered by Ernesto Nathan, the mayor of Rome, at the celebration Sept. 20 of the fortieth anniversary of the fall of the temporal power of the church are denied in Vatican circles.

It is understood, however, that the foreign nuncios and bishops have been instructed to encourage a world-wide protest against the mayor's address. Many messages protesting indignantly against the insult to the holy vicar are pouring into the Vatican.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—William I. OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

The equinoctial storms are a few days late, but they are here and are being served to Duluthians with all the sauce and trimmings. J. Pluvius has been working steadily since early yesterday afternoon and his offerings to a thirsty earth have been especially copious at times. The wind howled and drove the rain ahead of it last night and a spot near the fireside was just about as comfortable as anything that could be found.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6 o'clock and it will set at 5:58, giving eleven hours and fifty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The northeaster is confined to the western end of Lake Superior, and is caused by a slight barometric depression overlying Southeastern Minnesota, the main disturbance being centered over the extreme Southwest. Light to copious rains have also resulted throughout the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys, Southeastern states and over Western Lake Superior. Much cooler weather prevails over the Rocky mountains, Eastern slopes, the Dakotas and Manitoba in connection with a high pressure condition that is central over Wyoming and South Dakota. Freezing weather prevails in Western North Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. A disturbance that has developed over Alberta is causing much warmer temperature in that section. Clearing skies are indicated for the Head of the Lakes during Tuesday."

UNHERALDED ACT IS A HIT

Milch Sisters Minus Costumes and Music Please Orpheum Audiences.

Going on the stage without their own customes, without their own music, without the assistance of the orchestra and without even the advantage of the audience knowing their names and reputation, the Milch sisters of St. Paul scored a distinct hit in two performances at the Orpheum yesterday.

Arthur Dunn of Dunn & Glazier was taken ill in St. Paul and was unable to accompany the other performers to Duluth. The local manager didn't want to curtail the bill and he didn't know what to do. He learned that the Milch sisters, who live in St. Paul, had signed on the Orpheum circuit and were waiting to open at Louisville. He got into communication with them and they consented to come to Duluth. They caught a train at St. Paul yesterday morning and arrived in Duluth at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, just when the performance at the Orpheum was about to begin.

Their trunks did not arrive on the same train and they were without costume or music. The orchestra could not have used their music had they had it, for there was no time for an orchestra rehearsal.

The girls were plucky. They borrowed costumes from two of the Cutty sisters—customes that were made in uniform style for a musical act—and went on the stage to play without music and without having their names on the bill.

They didn't need any advance notices. The first of the sisters to appear sang to her own accompaniment and the audience knew she was an artist. Then the younger girl appeared, placed her violin in position and played as it has never been the good fortune of audiences to hear few violinists play on the vaudeville stage in Duluth. She had the gratification of hearing numerous outbursts of applause and calls for encores that proved that one doesn't need costumes and stage settings to make a hit with a Duluth audience. Talent will do that.

Jolly Fanny Rice, the Six Musical Cuttys, the five Alphas and Ernest Pantzer and Midget Charlie are the other big features on the Orpheum bill this week.

Fanny Rice, who is well known to the vaudeville stage, can always find something new and catchy to spring on the dear public. Her impersonation of notable characters of real life and of fiction by a clever arrangement of a miniature stage is well done and her handling of dialects is excellent.

The act of the Cuttys has nothing new about it but ability, and all six of those in the act have that to an extent that polishes up the act until one may easily forget that the same ceiling has been seen and the same instruments have been heard hundreds of times in Duluth. Schumann's "Traumerei" is played on the 'cello by one of the young ladies with an artistic finish, and the violin solo that follows it is a work of real art. The playing on the cornets and trombones is also good, especially the finale to the act.

Midget Charlie is the big success of the act of Ernest Pantzer and company. The little fellow isn't as big as a few ticks of a clock, but he has phenomenal strength and wonderful agility. He is easily one of the big features of the bill, and considering the fact that Mr. Pantzer is a giant in stature, the little fellow's feats of strength are all the more remarkable.

The Five Alphas do some wonderful hoop rolling and juggling, and they made a distinct hit with yesterday's audiences. All seem to handle the hoops with facility, but the work of Eugene Adams stands out and he is easily the star of the group.

Bert and Lottie Walton open the bill with an act in which Bert does some great rough and tumble clown work, but in which he talks too much. Miss Walton can dance, and her dancing with roller skates is especially good.

Goff Phillips, "The Minstrel Man," has some clever parodies, and his imitations of McIntyre and Heath, Sam Bernard, Joe Welch and others were also good. Goff seemed to be peeved last night because some of the ancient jokes he got off in his monologue didn't meet with more approval, but his disappointment was not well founded.

On the whole the bill is a good one. It is mixed enough to please everybody, from the boy in the gallery who laughs uproariously at Bert Walton's funny falls to the music lover who can appreciate the Milch sisters and the Cuttys. The Five Alphas are clever, Fanny Rice is amusing and Ernest Pantzer and his little protege cause wonderment that one so small can hold such great strength.

UNIQUE "SCOOP" IN "THE LOTTERY MAN."

Nothing could ingratiate a reporter more in the eyes of the managing editor than a "scoop." Since the first newspaper there has been every kind of "exclusive story" but in the comedy of "The Lottery Man," a new comedy by Rida Johnson Young, which the Shuberts will present at the Lyceum theater tonight, use is made of perhaps one of the most novel "beats" ever found in the columns of the press.

The central figure in "The Lottery Man" is Jack Wright, a newsgatherer who is a warm friend of "Foxey" Peyton, who owns the paper, and when he gets a Wall street tip, Wright goes to his chief for money, promising as security in the event of failure, his pledge to turn into the paper one of the biggest stories New York has ever known. As the tip fails, Wright is compelled to make good. This he does by offering himself as the prize in a lottery which is to be conducted by the newspaper. Naturally the coupons appeal mostly to women and the campaign among the thousands of contestants waxes warm. Shortly after Jack has offered himself as the human prize, he falls in love with Helene Heyer, which fact causes him to deeply regret his entry into such a foolish scheme.

An unexpected turn of affairs takes place when the lucky coupon is won by the old maid companion to Mrs. Peyton. The maiden lady being very much, as she thinks, in need of a husband, eagerly holds on to the lucky number, only giving it up under the most extraordinary circumstances.

This in main is the thread of the delightful story that Rida Johnson Young—author of "Brown of Harvard," by the way—has woven in "The Lottery Man," which after its long run at the Bijou theater, New York, comes here with a capital company.

MUSICAL COMEDY AT THE BIJOU

Elaborate Musical Act Is Feature of Good Vaudeville Bill.

There is an unique act being presented at the Bijou this week as the big feature of an attractive bill.

The act is known as "Polly Pickle's Pets," and it is presented by Harry Leonhardt's company featuring Eulalie Young and a company of thirteen.

The act is a condensed musical comedy. The little plot, if it can be called a plot, deals with the visit of Polly Pickles to "Petland" a mythical country where all the lost pets congregate. The other characters in the story are the lost pets, and they include a cat, an elephant, a dog, a paarrot, a teddy bear, a trainer, Pierpont and Perkins two feline policemen and Peter, Paul, Patsy and Phillip Peck.

The stage setting is quite elaborate, and there are several big musical numbers in the cat. It was highly appreciated by yesterday's three big audiences, and it should prove a big hit with the children during the balance of the week.

"The Hand That Rules" is a labor playlet presented by May Nannary & Company. It was another strong feature of the bill. The play deals with the present day labor problem, and it has no small dramatic interest. John W. Patterson, a mill owner, and Mabel Allison, daughter of the man he had wronged, are the principal characters in the playlet, which should appeal strongly to labor union men. It presents the wrongs of the laboring men in a forceful manner.

The climax of the playlet shows the interior of a rolling mill with the men at work. It is a clever piece of stage craft.

Bill Chase contributes no small amount of comedy to the bill. He is billed as "The Tip Top Songster." His act consists of comic songs, several of which are very clever, and all of which are well sung.

The Four Hirschhorns are billed as Alpine entertainers. The scene of their act is placed in the Alps, showing a lake at the foot of the mountains, and the performers glide on to the stage in a canoe. They sing a number of songs, and the yodling of one of the women members of the company is a distinct feature of the act, and an entertaining one.

Beatrice Turner is billed as "The Joyful Jollier." Her act is an amusing one of a rather conventional type. Her singing was more enjoyable than her monologue, and her songs were more original than her jokes. The audiences yesterday seemed to like her, however, and that is the final test of a vaudeville performer.

The Rials are European acrobats and jugglers. Their act consists of tricks on the flying rings and some novelty juggling work. They proved a big hit with yesterday's audiences.

The moving pictures are up to the standard, and complete an excellent bill.

"BOYS OF COMPANY B" AT THE LYCEUM.

The Pierce Players with William Jossey and Miss Blanche Douglas, will open their return engagement at the Lyceum, Tuesday evening, in Rida Johnson Young's comedy of military life "The Boys of Company B."

"The Boys of Company B" is a farce along the lines as "Brown of Harvard," but with a military atmosphere the first act showing the "sun" parlor of a New York residence, the second disclosing the camp of Company "B" a crack New York regiment of the militia. The piece is screamingly funny throughout the entire three acts and affords Mr. Jossey and the various members of this excellent company plenty of opportunity to display their individual talents. Wednesday matinee and night will also be devoted to "The Boys of Company B," which will be followed Thursday by a most pretentious revival of "The Prisoner of Zenda."

CHRONIC ULCERS INDICATE BAD BLOOD

Where the blood is pure any wound or laceration of the flesh heals "by first intention." This is true because nature has provided a constituent to the circulation known as Plasma, which joins and holds the place together until the fibres and tissues can permanently knit and interweave. Whenever the ulcer becomes chronic it is because this healing quality of the blood has been impaired by some impurity in the circulation, and the place remains open, infecting all surrounding flesh, until the character of the circulation is changed. No sore can heal where the blood is bad; because the morbid impurities on which it thrives are constantly deposited into it by the burdened circulation. Cleanse the blood and the sore will heal of its own accord, because then its very source and foundation will have been destroyed. S. S. S. cures Chronic Ulcers of every kind for the one great reason that it thoroughly purifies the blood. It goes into the circulation and removes every particle of infectious or morbid matter, enriches the corpuscles, and assists nature in the formation of the necessary plasmic qualities of this vital fluid. No matter from what source the impurities of the blood came, S. S. S. will remove them. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

AUTO TURNS ON WET PAVEMENT.

A big yellow delivery auto was running east on First street this morning and turned down Fifth avenue west. With the brakes set tightly, the auto skidded on the wet pavement and to the wonderment of driver and spectators, it turned directly around without throwing the driver. The movement was like that a youngster might make in coasting down a hill and turning at the bottom to avoid street railway tracks.

NINETY-SEVEN CAUSES.

Fires in Minnesota Start in Varied Ways, Says Fire Marshal.

There were 1,750 fires in Minnesota last year, of which 519 were from unknown causes and the others were from ninety-seven different known causes, according to the annual report of State Fire Marshal Edward Peterson.

Forty-eight fires were caused by children playing with matches, rats or mice gnawed into matches and caused seven other fires, and about 100 were caused by other careless handling of matches. Carelessness of smokers caused twenty-eight fires, thawing out water pipes was responsible for thirteen, tramps caused six, kerosene lamps accounted for fifty-one, gasoline stoves exploded and set nineteen fires, two were caused by coffee urns and two by chicken incubators.

Spontaneous combustion caused fifty-seven of the blazes reported and there were only seventeen incendiary fires. Eleven fires were started for fraud, two for mischief, and four for spite. It is likely that a number of incendiary fires are included in those of which the cause could not be discovered.

WANTS PROBE OF POSTOFFICE

Congressman Miller Claims Enough Money Was Appropriated for It.

Representative Clarence B. Miller of this city thinks the postal department should be investigated.

Mr. Miller says the postoffice department is not spending the money allotted to it by congress for purposes stipulated. He thinks there is enough money for legitimate purposes and views the efforts of the department to cut down the service in this city as good ground for an investigation by congress.

"I propose to give this question my personal attention," said Mr. Miller, "as soon as congress convenes. I think there are many other members of the same mind. Unless there is a change in the attitude of the department I believe an investigation should be held to determine whether the sums appropriated by congress are being expended for the purposes designated and if not, why."

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Sept. 26.—The result of the conference of the steel interests at New York last week was to counteract to some extent the baneful influence of Wall street rumors. Fundamental conditions in the trade are sound, although recent developments have been unfavorable and prices of finished material, which have been declining for months, are still tending downward because of keener competition for orders and great idle mill capacity. The trade is essentially the victim of the railroad policy. Exaggerated reports of depression, however, at such a critical time are to be guarded against. Recent sales of plain structural material were made at $1.35 basis, but plates were reported in the Philadelphia territory on the basis of $1.30 Pittsburg. Since the conference one or two mills have advanced outstanding plate quotations $1 per ton and in consequence bids based upon such quotations have been withdrawn. Thus the result has been to check some business. Beyond this the situation is the same as it was a week ago. Orders for fabricated structural steel used in buildings and bridges have been taken since the conference as well as before on the lowest levels in two years; that is, on the basis of $1.25, if not less, for plain material; but there is great variation in prices made on such contracts.

The railroads placed more contracts for rails last week—about 40,000 tons—and the aggregate this month will be the largest since June. Otherwise, railroad buying continued light.

Manufacturers and building contractors are exercising the same hand-to-mouth policy as the railroads. Orders for fabricated steel last week were only 11,000 tons and since the first of the month less than 40,000 tons; September will develop the smallest monthly tonnage this year.

In raw material, notably pig iron, conditions are more unsatisfactory than in finished material. Business is spasmodical and the lowest prices in two years are being made, with orders falling off and stocks still accumulating. Last week sales in all districts were less than 40,000 tons.

GRIP LOSING ITS GRIP, BUT PNEUMONIA GAINING.

Washington, Sept. 26.—There was a falling off in 1909 in fatalities on account of grip amounting to almost one-third, when compared with the figures for 1908, according to the census bureau's mortality report. In the area covered, slightly more than half of the United States, the deaths were 6,649, as compared with 9,989 deaths in 1908. On the other hand there was a marked increase in deaths due to pneumonia, the number enlarging from 61,259 to 70,033. This was an increase of more than nine in each 100,000 of population. The pneumonia deaths came within seven of the number credited to tuberculosis of the lungs, which was 70,040. Tuberculosis remained at the top of the list, but only by this narrow margin.

NEW STORE IS A "HUMMER"

The Globe Is Inspected By Thousands of Pleased Customers.

The new Globe store, 105 and 107 West Superior street, is one of the best equipped institutions of its kind in the United States outside of New York city.

The Globe does not display garments and articles on open tables where the dust collects daily, but everything is shown under glass covers, in cases and in cabinets, but always in full view of the purchaser. Garments are not piled one upon the other. Globe clothing, say the Globe managers, is so kept in stock that it cannot become wrinkled.

Thousands of people know these facts about the Globe because they called at the store Saturday when the institution was successfully opened.

The Globe will make a specialty of ready-to-wear clothing for men, women and boys. The Globe will import and buy direct from manufacturers and in most instances they are inveterate foes of the high cost of living and that by abolishing the middleman's price and a sereis of profits now paid in the selling process of goods at other stores, the Globe will be able to undersell its competitors. The Globe will sell everything at prices approaching wholesale values, except contract goods and furnishings. These will be sold as reasonable as is consistent with progressive business principles.

On the main floor will be clothing and furnishings for men, boys and women. The second floor will not be opened to the public immediately on account of the delay in the arrival of the fixtures. It will be opened in the winter, probably in February, and will hold the cloak, suit and millinery departments.

The Globe will be a cash store. The majority of patrons will not be forced to pay the unpaid debts of the minority. The proprietors of the Globe are Charles P. Meyers, general manager, and D. C. Casmir, advertising manager and buyer. Both are well known in Duluth business circles.

"Our specialties," said Mr. Casmir, "will be ready-to-wear clothing for the entire family. "While prices in wholesale markets are high and seem to have a tendency to advance further, yet patrons of our store will not have to pay in the same proportion as patrons of other stores. We buy for cash and we sell for cash. We deal directly with manufacturers and importers and the fact that we pay cash for our goods gives us an advantage over our competitors. Not only are we enabled to take advantage of all discounts but we can obtain special terms which are denied to the average merchant. Of course this condition does not affect the so-called contract goods which are heavily advertised throughout the country at one price. We are bound by contract not to sell such goods below the advertised price."

The sales force of the Globe has been selected for its ability. The store has been so thoroughly systematied that patrons can easily find departments desired and they lose no time in hunting them. Even on the darkest days the store will not need artificial light on account of the arrangement and construction of the windows. In the evenings it will be brilliantly illuminated.

new regime on which the Democrats have been so confidently relying.

Chairman Dolley of the Republican state committee, announces, of course, that the state will be carried by the Republicans by more than its normal majority. Every chairman says that, so that it was not surprising for me to find half an hour later that Chairman Martin of the Democratic state committee was equally positive that it would be carried by his party, by a majority of 25,000. As a matter of fact, the outcome will hinge upon the one question as to whether more Democrats will vote the Republican ticket, because of the domination of that party by the progressive elements, than there will be Republicans who vote the Democratic ticket, because of resentment at the setting aside of old time party leaders.

Democratic Drift in Topeka.

I tested this proposition to some extent, by talking with a number of business men, on the main street of Topeka. The result was somewhat of a surprise. While there is not the degree of resentment against the abandonment of the long time party idols in Kansas, that some of the Democratic leaders have been asserting, there is nevertheless apparent a drift toward the Democratic party, which mirrors to some extent that seen in the East. For once the Democratic party seems to be regarded among business men here, not merely the bankers and financers, but the ordinary retailers in the city, as the business men's party. Furthermore, this opinion has been strengthened mightily by the action of the Democratic voters in the primaries in nominating a ticket composed pre-eminently of men of financial and business standing.

At the office of the Democratic chairman I was shown letters from county chairmen throughout the state declaring that there was no longer observable much tendency on the part of Democratic voters to drift into the Republican ranks on account of the insurgent triumph. In the state capitol tenanted, of course, by Republicans, I gathered from several officials the admission that while this drift was not as pronounced as it was a few weeks ago, they still believe that it will be sufficient to overcome any Republican disaffection.

Governor Stubbs on Conservation.

Governor Stubbs, who leads the Republican ticket, is a man of force and conviction. He is a most enthusiastic admirer of Roosevelt, and thinks that the latter's recent visit to the state has so cemented the party that there can be no danger of disaster to it in the coming campaign. An enthusiastic conservationist, the governer made rather a name for himself at St. Paul during the recent convention, by expressing himself in behalf of that cause, in terms more vigorous than parliamentary. In fact, he was reported as nearly coming to blows with the chief executive of a Northwestern state.

I asked him what Kansas had to conserve. "Nothing," he replied, "We have no forests, our coal is all in private hands, but we are interested tremendously in the improvement and development of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, and we hold that work of that sort to a certain degree proper to rank with the conservation policy. I believe that the Alaska coal lands, in which Kansas has an interest equally, with all other states in the Union should be saved for all of our people and their descendants. I believe that no man has done more to accomplish this end than Gifford Pinchot, unless it be Theodore Roosevelt. Pinchot, among our people, is regarded as the practical man; Roosevelt as the apostle who will put through the political work necessary to accomplish the ends of conservation."

Over at the Democratic headquarters they are not talking national issues. Their campaign for control of the state will be waged on the issue of economy, charging that Governor Stubbs has already increased the expenditures and therefore the tax levy, by over a million dollars, and that his pet project of a public utility board, on which he is making his campaign will add another million should it be enacted.

But Kansas is nowadays a Republican state, and while I can see that Henderson Martin of Marion, Democratic chairman, is prosecuting a vigorous campaign, it seems to me the part of only ordinary political common sense to say that the state will probably go Republican by a heavily reduced majority in November.

SAYS SHE WANTED TO LIVE IN MORAL DAYS.

New York, Sept. 26. — Miss Vera Fitch, the young Californian, who shot herself while in the Hotel Astor, on Aug. 27, gave her reasons last night in an unusual interview. She said she hoped for reincarnation in a more moral world.

The case has been surrounded by much mystery. The young woman's relatives first refused to admit her identity and the only hint of her motive was gleaned from a letter to her mother, in which she wrote:

"The fourth estate has proved too strong for me. It is really deplorable that a girl cannot succeed honorably in New York. In some things, I might have succeeded had I conceded to the wishes of men, cultured usually, moneyed usually, but minus morals. Death is preferable."

It was known that she had literary ambitions.

Lying in the hospital, where she is convalescing, Miss Fitch said last night:

"I dreamed of a better day when such men would be unknown, when the world would have one moral standard for both men and women. In the belief I might live again in that purer time, I tried to kill myself."

Miss Fitch was born in Oakland, Cal., twenty-three years ago. Her father was Col. Henry S. Fitch, at one time a millionaire.

BUSY SEASON IN LUMBERING

Considerable Activity Manifest in Michigan Peninsula.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lumber boats have kept moving during the past week in spite of the heavy weather on the lakes. There are plenty of boats and the lumbermen are glad to avail themselves of their bottoms as great difficulty is experienced in securing large cars or gondolas, the grain trade making a demand on the thirty-six and forty-four boxcars and the coal movement absorbing the gondolas.

Inquiries for crating lumber are more numerous and there is an increased demand for shingles of extra quality. Other grades are not moving with much freedom and collections in the lumber business are slow.

The lumbering season in the upper peninsula promises to be a busy one. Camps are being built in many quarters and there are signs everywhere which indicate the return of the lumberjack to the woods.

It is expected that the main drive of the Menominee river will reach the sorting gaps of the Twin Cities this week. There is about 69,000,000 feet in the drive, but owing to low water in the river it is impossible to get all the logs down this fall. The clean-up will be deferred until next year.

NEGRESS STABS HER EMPLOYER TO DEATH.

New York, Sept. 26.—James Myden, a hotel keeper, was stabbed in the heart and instantly killed Sunday by Florence Lovett, a negro chambermaid, when he attempted to discharge her for insolent language. When the police came they found her dying with a stab wound over her heart.

"She killed herself," said Mrs. Myden.

"She done it, she done it," gasped the girl, pointing at Mrs. Myden. "When she saw what I done to her husband, she grabbed the knife."

Mrs. Myden was detained pending an investigation.

WEST END

"WHITE WAY" MAKING PROGRESS

West End Property Owners Putting in Ornamental Standards.

Another fresh start has been made on the "white way" at the West end. Some time ago the matter was first agitated, but nothing assumed a definite form until the Great Northern Power company installed three standards in front of its distributing station at Fifteenth avenue west and Superior street.

This week two more standards will be erected at the other end of the proposed "white way." The standards arrived last week and will be installed in front of the Nelson Bros.' knitting mill and the Salter building, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street.

Similar standards will be erected in front of the new Anderson & Thorsell building which is being erected by Jacobson Bros. on the southeast corner, and it is said that J. J. Moe will also follow suit. Other business men along the street have also signified their intentions of putting in the lights.

The Commercial club committee, which has the proposition in hand, has met with much difficulty on account of the fact that much of the Superior street property is owned by outside owners who are indifferent to improvements. Now that the movement has taken actual form, it is expected that many more will follow suit and that the "white way" may be complete.

POLICE STATION BADLY NEEDED

West End Quarters Are Unfit for Use in the Winter.

West end people are again agitating for a new police station at the West end, and it is probable that the matter may come in for some consideration at the next meeting of the West End Commercial club.

It is pointed out that the rooms used for a branch station at the West end are undesirable, and in the winter are cold and unfit for use. They are situated in the upper story of a shack at 1928 West Michigan street.

West end people who want an officer in a hurry have to call headquarters station and then wait until headquarters can locate a policeman through the patrol box alarm system. This is unsatisfactory, it is said.

This section of the city is rapidly growing, and the present system is not up to the times, it is argued. Besides, there is a strong feeling of discontent among the policemen over the accommodations provided at the West end.

BRANCH WELDING PLANT WILL COME HERE SOON.

E. H. Smith of the Northern Welding & Manufacturing company of Minneapolis was in the city this morning as a guest of his brother, Edward A. Smith of 2311 West Third street. Mr. Smith, who is on his way to Ishpeming, Mich., is stopping in the West end to make arrangements for the location of a welding plant as a local branch of the Minneapolis concern. Mr. Smith holds the exclusive rights of the Davis Bournonville patents for the Northwest territory. The secret of the business is welding metals of all descriptions by heating alone.

RECEPTION BY EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The Epworth League of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church will hold its annual reception for prospective members and the young people of the church, tomorrow evening.

The affair will be held at the church parlors, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. A good program has been arranged for the occasion, after which refreshments will be served.

West End Shortrails.

Carl Tiseth of the West end, who has spent the past four months in Norway on a visit with relatives and friends, returned yesterday noon to Duluth.

Oscar Christianson of 2218 West Tenth street has returned from a trip to the Western coast, where he spent the greater part of the summer.

The Calendar Circle of the Second Presbyterian church will give an entertainment in the church, 1515 West Superior street, Wednesday evening. A good program has been arranged.

Mrs. Gust Carlson has returned to her home at Spring, Wis., after a visit at the home of Mrs. W. F. Humerichous of 17 North Twentieth avenue west.

Mrs. Page of 1117 West Second street will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Presbyterian church at her home Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Rose Churchill and son, Claude, of Portland, Or., are guests at the house of Ernest Churchill of 3823 Grand avenue.

Miss Cora Costello of Gillett, Wis., is visiting at the home of Mrs. W. F. Humerichous of 17 North Twentieth avenue west.

Mrs. Thomas Murphy of 2606 West Huron street is at St. Mary's hospital, where she will undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Verna Sybel of Fort William, Can., is the guest of friends in the West end for a few days. She was formerly a resident of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carter of 2831 West Huron street are the parents of a daughter, born Saturday.

Ed. Downey of Minneapolis, formerly of the West end, is visiting with relatives at 2111 West Huron street this week.

Rev. C. A. Aldeen of Jamestown, N. Y., former pastor of the Third Swedish Baptist church of West Duluth, spoke yesterday afternoon at the young people's meeting at the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street.

The members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held an athletic entertainment last evening at St. Jean Baptiste hall for the benefit of St. Clements' church building fund. It was well attended and there was an enjoyable program. Next week a fair will be held at 2110 West Superior street for the benefit of the same fund.

Trotter Bound Over.

Towner, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the second charge of embezzlement preferred against him, F. J. Trotter of Bismarck was bound over to the district court following a hearing in justice court here Saturday. The first charge against him was dismissed because of the lack of evidence. Bond has been furnished and Trotter will be at liberty.

Everything from the most conservative idea to the progressive "last word" will be found in this exhibit.

And that indefinable something—individuality—so essential to every smart outfit, is emphasized here in a way most pleasing to those in quest of original ideas. Every article of apparel shown at this opening has a distinctive character about it, an out of the ordinary air, so different from anything you'll see elsewhere.

IN DULUTH CHURCHES

EXCUSABLE, BUT NOT JUSTIFIABLE

Penal System Wrong, But Necessary Under Present Conditions.

"Does the End Justify the Means?" was the subject of a sermon by Rev. George R. Gebauer, at the First Unitarian church, corner First street and Eighth avenue east, yesterday.

"Nature stands outside of good and evil," he said. "For her there is neither a right nor a wrong. She only recognizes weakness and strength and all means are fair to her if they bring about the desired end. But man by his moral nature must recognize good and ill. And in obedience to this law he endeavors to fight evil and promote the good. But as soon as ever he puts his endeavors in practice he becomes perplexed. He finds that in carrying on war against evil, he uses evil means. The question faces him, can a true man use evil that good may come? Immediately there come to him illustrations which plainly support this theory. The surgeon uses the cruel knife that health and new life may come to his patient. Then there is the entire criminal code sanctioned by the ages which proclaims, 'we must fight evil with evil, murder with execution, theft with imprisonment that society on the whole may live peaceably and happy.'

"But again there comes doubt to us in regard to this theory when we look at the cruelties committed in the name of justice and truth and for the good of society. We think of the inquisition and the burning of witches and the treatment of political offenders and we say, 'by fighting evil with evil, only greater evil ensues, society suffers more than ever, and justice and love are crucified.' Yet on the other hand comes the admonition to us, 'if we deny pain a place as a corrective, if we denounce capital punishment and the entire penal code, then we must also do away with correction and chastisement in the education of our children. If it be wrong to put a fellow in jail, it is also wrong to keep a boy in school after the others are dismissed. Shall we then say that the only true principle is to let everybody do as he pleases and do away with all government? This too seems wrong and above all foolish under existing conditions of life.

"What then shall we say? Is a wrong right under conditions, may murder be justified, may stealing be considered proper? Is our way of reforming society and safe guarding it, good and in accord with Christian principles? Certainly there will be but a few who will not at times do the wrong thing in order to shield and protect some one. In self-defense in defense of others men are every ready to lie and even kill. But while such acts may be excused, I doubt if they may be justified. Excusable and justifiable are two different things. We do not congratulate the man who killed a fellow in self-defense, but rather pity him, and the slayer in self-defense will take no pride in his act. Killing remains an evil deed even if it be excusable. And so it is in smaller things. We may punish our children with the rod, but that rod will testify against our own weakness. Our chastizing may be excusable and even unavoidable under the conditions, but is it a thing to be proud of? And so our penal code may be a thing that can be excused, but it cannot be justified. It testifies against our whole civilization and our excuse of it becomes an accusation. We still have to revert to barbarous methods of correction, because we are as a whole, still barbarous and have not learned the great lesson of overcoming evil with good, criminality with education of mind, soul and body. The kingdom of God will only come down to us when we use Godly means and Christly ways for divine ends."

CONVERTS TELL THEIR STORIES

Men Whom Bethel Helped Speak for Campaign Fund.

Charles Hoffman, who was a bad actor before he became reformed, told the story of his life in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium yesterday afternoon at a meeting held in the interest of the Bethel building campaign.

Hoffman, a few years ago, was one of the best patrons of the saloons in Duluth. He failed to support his grandmother and she went to the county farm. He got mixed up in a few minor misdeeds and then pulled off a burglary for which he was sent to the state's reformatory at St. Cloud. He was released after a few years and he went to the Pacific coast. The devil had a firm grip on him, he said, and he boarded around at the jails and penitentiaries of several Western states.

Hoffman came back to Duluth. He saw his grandmother and he had a desire to be a better man so he went to the Bethel to talk it over with the Rev. Mr. J. T. Moody. He met an old friend who gave him a dollar. He got drunk and didn't see Mr. Moody. He wound up on a platform of a freight house. He got back to Mr. Moody, though, and the Bethel put him on his feet.

Connie Martin said he was no good and had taken four "cures" for the liquor habit until he went to the Bethel which reformed him. He now has a wife, four children, owns his home in Duluth and is happy.

Daniel Munroe, 80 years of age, said he was on his way to the lake to end his life last January when he passed the Bethel. He heard some men at a religious meeting singing, "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" He went into the Bethel and he has been walking in the straight and narrow path since then. He said he wished he had met the Bethel sixty years ago.

Among other speakers, all Bethel converts, were Rev. Harry Milford, Joseph Kelley, Joe Minikin, and Axel E. Schar. Rev. J. T. Moody, superintendent of the Bethel, presided at the services.

LOW WATER SHUTS OFF STREET LIGHTS

Users of Electric Power at Thief River Falls in Trouble.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red Lake river has fallen so low that the electric power is shut off all the time and the street lights cannot be used evenings. Several concerns that use electric power are put to much inconvenience as a result and gasoline engines are in demand for the time being. The Red Lake river is the only outlet of the great Red Lakes drainage basin, covering many thousands of miles of wooded territory in Beltrami county, but in spite of this fact and also that this section is cedar and spruce swamp, very little water seeps through into the lakes and the river. The latter has dwindled down to a mere creek and can be waded in many places. The boats have ceased running and the log drives are hung up for good, or until heavy rains occur.

IMPORTANT CASE FOR LUMBERMEN

Question of Right to Charge Tolls Comes Before Court.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most important cases which will come before the October term of the circuit court will be that of the Menominee River Boom company vs. the A. Spies Lumber company. The action involves the right of the boom company to charge tolls for the use of the booms, channels and other improvements and facilities for the driving of logs. The suit against the A. Spies Lumber company involves $7,000, but the case is of greater importance than the figures indicate, as it will serve as a precedent for the collection of tolls from other companies to an estimated amount of possibly $50,000. Cary, Upham & Black, attorneys, of Milwaukee, will represent the Menominee River Boom company. The A. Spies Lumber company will be represented by Eastman & Martineau.

Rolla, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—By shooting a coon, Charles Wagner of this place gains the unique distinction of killing the first of that species of animal life ever found in this section. Old timers and Indians who have lived in this country a great many years contend that there has never before been a coon in this district.

POISON IN STOMACH.

Expected State Chemist Will So Testify in Mayo Case.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Ira B. Derby, state chemist, is here from St. Paul as the most important witness in the suit brought by Matilda Akerberg against F. A. Mayo for $5,000 damages for the death of her son, which she alleges resulted from the error on the part of a drug clerk employed by Mayo in filling a physician's prescription. Senator Peterson of Moorhead has charge of the case for Mrs. Akerberg, and E. E. McDonald, the former St. Paul attorney, defends Mr. Mayo.

Dr. Derby is expected to testify that, when the stomach of the dead boy was sent to him for examination, that an analysis of the contents revealed the presence of strychnine.

ALBERT BERG BEATEN.

Senator A. L. Hanson Is Renominated By a Small Majority.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The final results of the primaries in the Sixty-first district are as follows: For senator, Senator A. L. Hanson won out by a small majority over his opponent, Albert Berg, ex-secretary of state; D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls won by a majority of 800 against three other candidates for representative. Senator Hanson carried four counties, while Berg carried but one, Beltrami. O'Neill had the lead everywhere.

For Red Lake county officers the following were nominated: County auditor, A. H. Latendresse; treasurer, H. Kindseth; register of deeds, Frank Jeffers, sheriff, A. H. Fellman; superintendent of schools, H. F. Anderson.

FISHERMEN BUSY.

Nearly 200 Nets Set Between Menominee and Fox, Mich.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fish and Game Warden A. B. Be Dell reports that there are sixty fishermen operating plants along the bay shore between this place and Fox. They have put out 175 pound nets and believe that there is a promising season before them. The nets are lifted three times a week and usually contain from one to two tons of herring.

FAMOUS AULD DANA WILL CASE DECIDED.

Bottineau, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.) — The famous Auld-Dana will case, involving the legality of the will in which Laura M. Dana and Gertrude G. Dana were made beneficiaries of their foster mother, was decided by the supreme court of the state in favor of the defendants, Robert Auld and Bertha McGaffney, legal heirs, failing to carry their point.

DULUTH IS DRENCHED

Two Uncomfortable Days of Wet and Windy Weather.

Clouds Will Pass and Fair Conditions Are Promised.

Duluth is slipping and sliding and wading around in the longest and sloppiest spell of wet weather it has been the pleasure (?) of the city to receive from the beneficences of the weather man for some time. In addition to the wetness, which is pronounced, the hand that switches the lvers of the weather machinery has turned loose a wind that tosses the rain drops about with light touch at times and at others blows a moderate breeze of about thirty miles an hour.

Umbrellas are no protection in this kind of weather. Duluth and Duluthians are drenched, but there are a few rays of hope behind the clouds. Mr. Richardson, who is the ambassador to Duluth from the kingdom of the weather, says he has received advices that after a few showers this evening, His Royal Highness will let up on Duluth and put his forces at work in drying up the city.

After threatening all of Saturday night and Sunday morning, J. Pluvius got into action about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and since that time, he has been active. One and one-quarter inches of rain had fallen on Duluth at noon today, and this afternoon Mr. Pluvius had not yet let up on his activities. The rainfall from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon up to 7 o'clock this morning was .74 inch. This morning, up to noon, .54 inch fell and before the rain ends, the total is expected to be fully two inches.

The storm is confined to the western end of Lake Superior. The wind is from the northeast and it is expected to shift to the northwest tonight, driving the storm away and giving the sunshine a chance tomorrow.

This storm is usually taken as an equinoctial storm—somewhat delayed, but still attendant on the equinoctial period. Be it known that the weather bureau of the United States government knows no such thing, officially, as an equinoctial storm. Mr. Webster, who compiled an excellent dictionary, says that any storm in any part of the world during the equinoctial period is an equinoctial storm. Mr. Richardson, representing the weather bureau of the department of agriculture of the United States government, says that a real equinoctial storm would be simultaneous over the entire world.

Hence, Mr. Webster says there is such a thing as an equinoctial storm. Mr. Richardson says there is no equinoctial storm.

Which, brought down to the last analysis means there is a storm of some kind.

BATTLESHIPS TO GO TO DRY DOCKS

Atlantic Fleet Will Be Divided Among Several Ports.

Washington, Sept. 26.—All is ready for the drydocking of the sixteen battleships constituting the Atlantic fleet, which has just completed target practice on the Southern drill grounds.

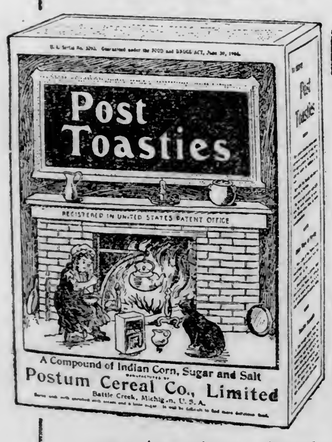

The fourth division is understood to have finished firing Saturday. The Georgia, on which the recent gun explosion occurred, North Dakota, Kansas, Louisiana, New Hampshire, Delaware and South Carolina will dock at Norfolk, and the other vessels of the fleet will dock at their respective home ports. The Georgia will have its forward turret guns replaced at once at Norfolk.

The Washington navy yard tomorrow will ship one of the big modern fifty-ton twelve-inch guns for the Georgia and the other will be sent as soon as possible from the Boston navy yard.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Jaques Forces Rapidly Organized for the Congressional Contest—Aftermath of Senatorial Fight in the Forty-Ninth—Anti-Optionists Sweep the Boards in the Sixtieth District—"Jim" Gray and His Fergus Fal's Date.

The work of organizing the Jaques forces for the impending struggle between Judge Jaques and Congressman C. B. Miller is proceeding rapidly, only a few minor details remaining to be fixed up, and in a few days Jaques headquarters will be opened in this city, from which the work of "putting the voters wise" to what is the issue will be directed, with every expectation of convincing them that Miller has demonstrated his unfitness longer to serve the Eighth district as its representative.

Jaques-Miller Fight To Be a Hot One.

The direction of the political wind is indicated by such paragraphs as these, from the Eveleth Enterprise:

Judge Jaques and Jimmy Gray appear to be getting a sound hold on the editorial columns of several Eighth district exchanges, which are Republican in every other particular.

The defeat of McKnight puts the issue squarely before the people of the Eighth district to either support Miller, a standpatter who attempts to travel under the guise of an insurgent, or vote for Judge Jaques, the Democratic candidate. And in consideration of the fact that Judge Jaques has a reputation as an honest, honorable man, there are many who will vote the straight Republican ticket on all but this point.

The Aurora News takes this shot at the incumbent:

Now it is up to Miller to defeat Judge Jaques. He is going to have some trouble in turning this trick. The people are in revolt and there will be some merry times before the so-called radicalism will be compelled to take a back seat.

All through the district there is reflected a feeling of dissatisfaction with the present congressman, and men who have been identified with the Republican party for years as leaders in their communities have openly declared that they will work and vote for Jaques rather than see Miller returned to congress. Some of these men gave a helping hand to McKnight during his pre-primary campaign, but faint-heartedly, having already determined to pin their faith to the Democratic candidate. Rather than waning, this sentiment has grown in strength since the defeat of McKnight, and it is remarked wherever Miller spoke during his fight against McKnight that he never once dared attempt a straightforward defense of his votes for Cannon.

It is upquestionably true that Miller is on the defensive and that Judge Jaques has the better of it in the controversy so far, with ground for the belief that he will gain steadily as the campaign progresses and the voters learn the true inwardness of the situation and the record of the Republican candidate, as compared with the record, abilities and sound principles of his opponent, Judge Jaques.

"The Duluth Herald seems to wield a greater influence in the Forty-ninth senatorial district than it does in the Eighth congressional district—that is, with the Republican electors," remarks the Mesaba Ore, which was a supporter of P. R. Vail in his candidacy for renomination as the Republican candidate for the senate. The Ore also prints a line paragraph, asking: "Has anybody here seen Raab?" The Hibbing Tribune remarks that Vail's reputation as a campaigner is nothing compared to that of Boyle, of whom the Eveleth Star says:

That Senatorial Contest In the Forty-ninth

"Boyle undoubtedly is one of the most forceful and brilliant speakers that had been heard up here for many a long day and if he practices what he preaches we predict a progressive career for him as soon as he gets 'on to the ropes.' His reference to the 'rope' business last week and the strong manner in which he condemned those that were to tie the ropes was a fine climax to a fine speech and brought down the house. Success to you, Jimmy."

Mr. Boyle has made public the following statement to his fellow-townsmen of Eveleth:

"I wish to thank the citizens of Eveleth for supporting me so strongly in my fight for state senatorship. Owing to the size of the district I found it impossible to spend much time in the city and had to devote all my attention to securing the support of the voters outside Eveleth. Being my home town I trusted that I would secure a large amount of support and I am deeply gratified to find that confidence was not misplaced."

The victory of Charles S. Marden of Barnesville over H. F. Peterson of Moorhead for the Republican senatorial nomination in the Sixtieth district, is distinctly a victory for the opponents of county option, for a desperate fight was put up for Peterson by the leaders of the anti-saloon movement. Local, district and state officials of the option organization took a hand in the struggle, addressing meetings right up to the date of the primaries. While Mr. Marden did not come out flat-footed as an opponent of county option, he did say that he refused to be bound on that proposition, preferring to remain a free agent as the representative of his constituency. P. S. Converse of Beeker county, Lee of Clay and Edwards of Wilkin were nominated for the house, defeating the option candidates, Akre of Becker, McGrath of Clay and Peet of Wilkin.

County Optionists Lose The "Whole Smear."

James Gray, the Democratic candidate for governor, will deliver his keynote speech at Fergus Falls Tuesday night. Mr. Gray and Elmer E. Adams, Republican editor of the Fergus Falls Journal, were students at the university together. Adams went to Fergus Falls and started in the newspaper business and gave Gray the first newspaper job he ever had, except for irregular work in his student days. When Gray was nominated for governor, Adams sent him the following invitation to come to Fergus Falls and make his opening address:

Fergus Falls and James Gray.

"Dear Jim: I do not know of any more fitting place for you to make your keynote speech for governor than Fergus Falls. This was the first town in Minnesota you were ever in, outside of Minneapolis, and although that was twenty-six years ago, and you did not stay very long, they have not forgotten you yet.

When a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket makes a keynote speech he naturally wants to go some place where the opposing candidate hasn't very many friends. If there is any place in Minnesota where Eberhart has fewer friends than in Fergus Falls your majority should exceed that of Governor Johnson when he ran against Cole.

Under ordinary circumstances I would hesitate to ask a Democrat to visit Fergus Falls this year. But Democrats as well as Republicans in Fergus Falls are progressive.

I recall a most painful and distressing incident which happened in connection with the visit of a Democratic candidate for governor about the time you resided in Fergus Falls. Judge Thomas Wilson, a former chief justice of the state, was the nominee of your party. He was to arrive at 5 o'clock in the morning. C. O. D. Schmitz, chairman of the local Democracy, and Mike Glennon, the only Irishman in Otter Tail county, selected on account of Judge Wilson's nativity, were designated a committee to meet him. In order to be up on time they staid up all night. As soon the judge had registered at the local hotel, Mr. Schmitz, who was of the least shrinking nature of the committeemen, approached and with that cordiality and hospitality which has always characterized Fergus Falls, asked him if he would have a drink. The judge declined. With disgust expressed in every feature of his face Schmitz returned to where Glennon was waiting and exclaimed, "He's a Hell of a Democrat."

In case you should decide to visit our city for the purpose of delivering your keynote speech, no such untoward circumstances will happen to mar your visit.

At the present time in Fergus Falls a plain clothesman with a search warrant could find nothing but ginger ale or sarsaparilla pop, and these have never been considered any kind of a before-breakfast drink for any kind of a Democrat.

Times have changed and Democrats have progressed. When you visit Fergus Falls, the cordiality and hospitality of the Democratic committee which greets you will be as warm as that of yore, but instead of asking you to have a drink, they will hand you an ice-cream cone.

I hope you will accept this invitation to come. Your welcome will be cordial and non-partisan to the city where you started your unfortunate career. The press, regardless of party affiliation, will treat you kindly where here, no matter what it may do to you after you leave. The plowing is all done and every one will listen to you patiently while you give the reasons why you should be elected governer.

The state press is giving much space to comment on the candidacy of Mr. Gray and that comment is all favorable to the Democratic nominee. Of course, a large number of the Republican papers, while conceding the truth of all the good things said about him, aver that no Democrat has a chance of election this year. However, they are not a unit in saying this; many staunch Republican editors welcome the appearance of Mr. Gray in the field and apparently hope he will be able to put the Indian sign on the Smith-Dunn combine that is represented by Eberhart.

Senator La Follette recently made a reference to Governor Eberhart that is being very generally commented on in the press of the state, the Litchfield Independent remarking:

"Senator La Follette in his magazine says Governor Eberhart is merely an errand boy for the railroads. He says that Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern is the actual governor. Pretty hard slap for Adolph Olson Eberhart, coming as it does from a member of his own party."

And the Mahnomen Pioneer says:

"Senator Clapp has been over in Wisconsin making speeches for La Follette. La Follette's magazine says that Adolph O. Eberhart is but an errand boy for Louis W. Hill. Now where do Clapp and Eberhart connect?"

One of the most attractive and soundest platforms enunciated by any candidate for the legislature so far this campaign is that of A. J. Schaefer, editor of the Adrian Democrat, who is the Democratic nominee for the senate in the Nobles-Murray district. This district has been represented in the upper house for the last four years by S. B. Bedford, a Republican, who succeeded Daniel Shell of Worthington. Mr. Schaefer's platform is as follows:

Good Platform of a Good Candidate.

Believing the people are able to govern themselves and that the majority should rule, I favor the adoption of the initiative and referendum. Under the initiative a minority—say 8 or 10 per cent—of the voters of the state may by petition propose, and the majority may by ballot enact, any desired law. Under the referendum a small proportion—say 5 per cent—of the voters may by petition compel the legislature to submit to a popular vote any measure passed by that body, or the legislature may voluntarily refer to the people any measure upon which it may desire an expression of public opinion. Concisely, the initiative and referendum places directly in the hands of the people the power to propose, approve or reject ANY law.

I stand for the election of the United States senators by popular vote. Congressmen are so chosen and there is no sound reason why the people should not have a direct voice in the choice of their senators, nor why senators, like congressmen, should not be directly responsible to the people.

Holding the best governed state to be that which has none but necessary laws, I am opposed to all legislation whose purpose is merely to gratify the pride, recognize the fads or further the political ambitions of legislators. We have too many laws and too much law-making. Foolish or unnecessary laws are soon disregarded, and such disregard tends to lessen respect for good laws.

I favor the conservation and early development of the natural resources still left to the state. Such resources should be long to the people, not to the corporations, and be used for the benefit of this and succeeding generations.

I believe in compulsory education, within reasonable limits, but shall, if elected, advocate and vote for an amendment to the present compulsory school law that will soften its drastic and eliminate its unfair features, thus rendering it more just and acceptable to the patrons of rural schools.

Concluding with a broad generalization, the object of all law should be to make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong.

It will be noticed that there is no reapportionment plank in this platform, but as Mr. Schaefer's district is in the far southwestern part of the state this fact is not surprising, but should not be taken to mean that he is against reapportionment. Mr. Schaefer is so well and widely known as a man of just impulses and sound thinking that it is safe to assume that his attitude toward questions effecting Northern Minnesota will be fairer, more logical than has been that of the incumbent.

There is said to be a chance for the election of Mr. Schaefer because of dissatisfaction with Senator Bedford.

WILFUL MURDER CRIPPEN CHARGE

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict on Belle Elmore's Fate.

London, Sept. 26.—The coroner's jury today returned a verdict of wilful murder against Dr. Hawley H. DIRECTORS TO BE CHOSEN

First Annual Meeting of Duluth Teachers' Association Called.

Great Interest Aroused in Workings of Anunity Plan.

Early in October, the Duluth Teachers' Retirement Fund association will perfect its organization. The first annual meeting of the association will be held Saturday, Oct. 8, when five directors will be elected from among the teachers. At its meeting, Oct. 7, the board of education will elect three directors from its membership and Supt. Denfeld will be the ninth member of the board, acting ex-officio.

Delay in launching the association will cause a change to be made in the by-laws at the annual meeting. In the by-laws as they stand, it is provided that teachers shall join before June 1, 1910, in order to get in without extra charges. The association was not fully organized by that time, so that the date will be changed to Jan. 1, 1911. Those who join now may pay on the basis of the years they have taught, thus allowing them to receive the annuity provided when their years of service are up.

The board is authorized by law to levy a tax of one-tenth of a mill annually, the sum to go into the retirement fund. It is expected the board will levy the tax, thus giving an additional source of revenue, the principal source being the membership fees.

There are 350 teachers on the rolls of the Duluth schools and it is expected the greater number of them will fall in readily with the retirement fund plan. Payments into the the fund may be made monthly. The smallest payment must be $10 a year, or $1 a month for each of the ten school months in the year. The payments will continue on that basis for five years, the payments to be $20 a year for the next five years and $25 a year for each year following, the whole time not to exceed thirty years.

The temporary directors of the association have worked hard to effect its organization and they have succeeded in arousing a great degree of interest among the teachers. A good attendance is expected at the annual meeting and it is thought the association will at that time be definitely launched.

POPE AUTHORIZES MEETINGS IN SPAIN.

Madrid, Sept. 26.—The central committee of the Clericals has received a message from Pope Pius X through Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, authorizing the holding of open air masses and Catholic demonstrations next Sunday. The message also contained the apostolic blessing.

Utah Republicans Meet.

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 26.—The Republican state convention met in this city today for the purpose of nominating a representative in congress and a justice of the supreme court. There was no indication of insurgency.

A Word About Selecting the Fall Apparel

THIS store occupies a very unique position in its usual apparel leadership this season. The market conditions have made it so. While other stores are showing but a few sizes in models that have received scant favor from fashion arbiters, our lines present a remarkable state of completeness, showing every authentic style of the accepted fabrics in the most wanted colorings—and these in every size.

The prolonged strike of the garment makers in New York has resulted in an appalling shortage of women's apparel and caused a scramble among most stores to get whatever garments they could—good, bad and indifferent. Not so with us, however—and herein lies the uniqueness of our leadership.

In the first stages of the strike three manufacturers from whom we buy heavily, perfected arrangements with their help and moved from the congested factory districts of New York to nearby towns, where environments were conducive to the production of highest grade garments—and do it at less cost than the city manufacturers could.

This fact is responsible for the superior style, tailoring, finish and lower prices of "P. & W." garments for Fall. It means much to you.

Women who wish to make sure their clothes will not "go wrong" had best select from our lines and get garments that measure up to the highest standard in every detail of their construction. Much of the clothes to be had at other stores are garments rushed through in any old way just to fill somebody's order.

Inspection and comparison will tell the true story. Investigate!

Marvelously Beautiful Millinery

THE highest ideals of millinery art that demonstrate rare ability and unusual artistic temperament are in strong evidence in the Millinery Salon.

The absence of the bizarre effects and the omnipresence of models with distinctive becomingness places our millinery in a class of its own.

For the tailored suit there's the jaunty turban of plush, felt or silk—resembling oftimes the true outline of a huge bell and in every instance drooping over the head. For street wear there's the medium-size mushroom shape as well as larger models. Trimmings vary widely, but beautiful wings of undulating contour are in strong vogue among the better designs, though plumes and aigrettes are quite popular.

Unusual choosing is presented in our extensive showing priced from $5, $7.50, $10, $15 and up to $75.

Viennese Actress Is Coming to America

EMMIE WEHLEN.

Another beautiful Viennese to visit the United States is Miss Emmie Wehlen, who has made such a hit in London for the past season in musical comedy. She will take a prominent part in "Marriage a la Carte," by C. M. S. McLellan and Ivan Caryll. Friends of Miss Wehlen say that she could step from her airy, fairy role in "Marriage a la Carte" to that of one of Ibsen's heroines without injury to the drama. She will bring to America some gowns which will open the eyes of the women in this country. She will appear under the management of Liebler & Co.

Fads of Fashions

On many of the lingerie dresses broderie Anglaise is being employed. The rough homespun linens do not wrinkle so badly as the smooth ones. This is an important factor to remember when purchasing linen for a dress or coat and skirt.

* * *

Two materials are in many cases used upon one summer gown.

* * *

Cloth top shoes are made in colors to match tailor-made gowns.

* * *

Crystal fringe and embroideries of crystal beads are used a great deal on evening frocks.

* * *

Scarlet cloth is used for extremely short jackets belted with patent leather, in anticipation of the seaside season.

* * *

Black net made up over silver gray satin is a handsome harmony for evening wear. Silver embroidery gives a smart effect to the garment.

THE EVENING STORY

CAUGHT IN THE SWIRL

By George Hart.

"Some years ago, when I was learning business in a factory town," said the athlete, "we had a big freshet in the spring that forced us to shut down for a couple of weeks, and cost the community a whole lot of expense and trouble.

"One Sunday afternoon, when the water was at its highest, a chum of mine, named Smith harnessed his horse into a light trap and came to take me for a drive. The roads were in fearful condition, but we soon took one which followed a gravelly ledge and came out upon a bend of the river where it formed a ford. We had an idea that the river at the ford might present a spectacle worth the trip, and, sure enough, upon our arrival we were not in the least disappointed.

"We fastened the horse to the last available tree and walked on the remaining two or three hundred yards to where the ridge made out into the river a considerable distance. A short way upstream to our left two branches of the river joined and a tremendous volume of water was being hurled down upon the shoal at the ford.

"Bearing innumerable cakes of ice and vast quantities of slush, this torrent came roaring and grinding and frothing through the narrows, awe-inspiring in its suggestion of irresistible power. Below the ford the water spread over a wide area of low land, and at our immediate right hand lay in a comparatively quiet cove, under the lee of the point.

"Smith's great St. Bernard accompanied us, and he immediately plunged into the water with his wonted enthusiasm. We amused ourselves by throwing bits of driftwood farther and farther out into the edge of the flood, to be promptly retrieved by the big fellow, after a battle with the current, which often carried him down stream.

"Suddenly, to our dismay, he was swept into a clump of half-submerged alders, the tops of which rose above the flood about eight feet, just at the edge of the quick water. The way that dog struggled to clear himself was enough to turn a man sick; but the twigs had entangled his long hair or his collar and held him fast.

"I believe that I was as fond of that dog as Smith, himself, and we both became rather excited, shouting and throwing sticks to encourage him in making greater struggles, but it was all futile.

"'I can't stand this!' I said. 'I'm going after him.' And without stopping to think the matter over I slipped out of my overcoat, threw off all the rest of my clothing except my shirt, which I rolled up high round me, and ran splashing into the icy water.

"The water grew a bit deeper than I had expected; but it was far too cold to waste time in stopping to think, so I pushed along until I was about to reach my extended arm to the dog, when I slipped into a hole, lost my footing, and was sluiced into that bunch of alders in a way which told me too late that I had quite misunderstood the conditions. But even then I was aware of nothing but a feeling of annoyance, and I at once set about freeing the dog.

"He was so badly fatigued that when I succeeded in pushing him clear of the clump, he dropped downstream like a derelict dog, landing somewhere far below, without life enough to rejoin us until after we had started for home.

"I didn't wait to see what became of the dog, however, for quickly turned my attention to myself. I was thunderstruck to find that I could not touch bottom—having so far supported myself by the tangle of alders—and when I headed into the current to swim for it, I found that I was unable to make one stroke of headway; my feet braced against the alders, clung fast, as if bound with cord.

"I climbed as high as I could in the swaying shrubbery, and threw myself with a mighty splash, thinking that I might bridge the gap between me and the point where I could get my feet on bottom and wade; but I was swept back instantly into the clump.

"Finding that I was fast becoming chilled, I climbed into the branches once more, and warmed one benumbed leg after the other by holding it out in the meager warmth of the April sun, while I tried to collect my wits and decide what I could do about it.

"I won't deny that I was considerably frightened. I was such a ridiculously short distance ashore, and yet the way was so effectively cut off! Yet it seemed sheer suicide to attempt a long swim across the current.

"The vicious cold was creeping into my very marrow, and a tremendous rage took possession of me. Fiercely I threw myself into the water for another effort, but the deadly cold had taken my strength, and I stiffly made my way into the shrubbery again, where I was at least able to keep a part of my body out of water.

"Meanwhile Smith had been running back and forth at the edge of the water manifesting great excitement and shouting things which were unintelligible to my preoccupied mind. Presently I saw him turn and run up the bank as fast as his legs would take him. There wasn't man or a boat for miles, and I was too numb with cold to comprehend what he was about.

"After what seemed an age, I heard the stout little pony coming on the run and the sound of the trap bouncing over the rough road. Smith quickly swung in a circle, pointed the rear of the trap at my perch, sprang on the horse's head and backed him into the water. Anxiously I watched those wheels approach me.

"'The horse is going off his feet! Can't you make it?' I heard Smith shout excitedly. I threw myself forward and clutched. As I felt my fingers close over the felloe of the wheel I gasped.

"'All right!' and caught the end of the trap with the other hand. Smith, wet to the waist, sent the horse out with a rush.

"I never released my hold on the back of the trap until I was dragged over stubble and stones high and dry on the bank. It did feel good to have solid earth under me!

"What with the exposure and the nervous reaction. I was very nearly exhausted. If there had been an ambulance waiting, I suppose it would have meant being put in bed in warm blankets. As it was, however, I had to pull myself together as best I could.

"After what seemed an interminable time, I managed to get my clothes on, all the while shaking with the worst chill you can imagine; my legs, clear to my body, were without one faint suggestion of sensation; they were absolutely numb.

"Smith wrapped his wet legs in the carriage robes and drove slowly; I gripped the back of the trap and allowed myself to be towed along at a dog trot. I was horribly tired, and swinging those dead stumps seemed an impossible task; but after we had gone a mile I found the feeling coming back into my legs, and I began to grow warm at last. Before we reached the village we got in beside Smith, and we hurried home for a rubdown.

"That evening we were both on the street as tranquil as if nothing had happened to us out of the ordinary, but when I got to bed that night, and for several nights thereafter, I found myself back in those alders, and somehow, I like to remember that I did not get the dog."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To Wash Black Cashmere Stockings.

Make a good lather with soap and water, with one teaspoonful of liquid ammonia to each three quarts of water. Shake all the dust out of the stockings, turn them the wrong side out and wash them. Rinse in tepid blue water, put them lengthways through the wringer several times and hang them to dry in the sun, separately, or near the fire. When nearly dry, mangle them lengthwise and hang up to air. The water must not be hot, but just warm, so that the stockings may not shrink.

To Bleach Linen.

Dissolve one tablespoonful of borax in a little boiling water, add to it four quarts of warm water and soak the linen in this for twenty-four hours. Next wash the sheets as usual and boil them for twenty minutes. Take them out of the copper, leaving the soapy water in them, and hang on the line to dry in the sun, or, if it is a cool day, they can be laid on the grass. This process, if repeated when the linen is washed will soon give unbleached linen a delightful snowy appearance, and it is much stronger for ordinary wear than buying linen ready bleached.

Helps for the Housekeeper.

To clean a greasy range, rub it well over with a cloth dipped in turpentine before blackleading.

To thread a machine needle easily hold a white cloth behind the eye and it can then be threaded.

To sugar fruits dip the fruit in the white of an egg well beaten, then roll it in sifted sugar. When well covered, dry well in a stove or before the fire.

In cooking custards or in beating anything required to boil quickly, do not leave the spoon in the liquid or much of the heat will be conducted away by it.

Pudding cloths should be scalded and floured. Before serving the pudding let it stand a minute on removing it from the basin to allow it to shrink from the sides; this will insure its turning out easily. The using of clarified dripping in preference to butter for greasing the basin will also facilitate this.

Millinery Opening Days

Usher in the "Season of New Hats"

Fresh from the leading style centers---just lifted out of their bandboxes; plumage gently shaken and preened after the travail of a long journey.

Large and Small
Grave and Gay

Small and medium sized hats—preferably cloche (bell) and Greuze effects—for tailored wear.

Large (all the way to enormous) Hats in Empire and Watteu styles for dress occasions.

Tapestries of many colors, embroidered in gold and dull metal tones are the talk of the hour in Paris today. Turban shapes, mostly with the mystic look of the Orient about them.

Great Hats that droop down on one side till the face is hidden and flare up at the other side until the wearer's features are set off—like a cameo.

Another unique Paris treat. They call it the "Chapeau Combinaison" for folks with a box at the opera.

Mourning Hats, Children's Hats and Toques and Bonnets for the older women.

Exquisite hats made by the greatest of all creators are "at home" Tuesday and Wednesday on our third floor.

Styles were never lovelier—never more varied; never more utterly "different."

The vivid innovations this season conspire to make the charm of the new hats utterly irresistible.

You are welcome to study this fashion exhibit at its best.

The rest of the story is best told by your own eyes—as you see the hats.

Besides the resplendent brought-in models there are glorious S. & B. Hats—no two alike.

Hats that reflect Paris in its varied moods—gay, gracious, coquettish or serene.

Formal Opening Displays

SHOWING CORRECT MODES OF THE SEASON

In Millinery, Gowns, Wraps, Dresses, Suits, Coats, Furs

Also Accessories and Smaller Articles of the Wardrobe.

PREPARATIONS for the New Fall Season have been carried into execution, until now the city's fashion store steps forth in autumn array, correctly portraying the season's accepted styles. ¶ We have endeavored to make this a style exhibition so authentic, instructive and interesting that women who have regard for proper appareling, will make serious endeavor to familiarize themselves with the many clever styles which we have brought together for their inspection.

Millinery

Hats this season are as usual, divided and sub-divided into various classes, suited to all tastes and occasions. Prominent among modish types are the close-fitting Thimble Hat, the high Box Turban, the Clocke Hat, the Charlotte Corday and large and effective Picture Creations. The Gidding Presentation of Fashionable Headwear, embraces exquisite examples from such renowned foreign Artists as Georgette, Marie Louise, and Suzanne Talbot, as well as representative American Houses as, for instance, Burby, Josephs, Lichenstein, Burgesser and Gage—But the major portion, are correct and becoming styles created from the alert ideas and deft fingers of our own competent Designers.

Gowns and Dresses

Our Buyers have expended special care in the selection of Gidding Gowns and Dresses, for the present season. Selections are now replete with exclusive and individual models, in Evening Gowns, Bridge and Dinner Dresses, and Trotteur Frocks, including many exact copies and original models from noted designers, such as Paul Poiret, Redfern, Paquin, Callot Seurs, Doucet, Mdme. Louise and Francois, as well as charming styles from the best New York houses. The rare grace of design and exquisite color combinations, mark the styles we show, distinctly exquisite and equal to any occasion; whether the wearer be at home in Duluth or matches her gown against the ravishing creations of larger cities.

Suits

Faultless Tailor-mades are perhaps our strongest line of specialization. Quality of material, exactness of line, and correctness of detail, are the telling features that stamp the "Gidding" impression upon a suit. This season we are showing Original and Copied Models from renowned tailor geniuses, among which are numbered the names of Benard, Bishop, Greenwald, Francis and Mayer. But the tailor-mades labeled by noted names are scarcely more correct or fetching than the numerous styles from our own reliable makers.

Stylish materials of the season includes fine lightweight Corduroys, Velvets, Velveteens, plain and crystal Broadcloths. Zibeline Cheviots, Boucle, Matasse Suitings, Scotch Mixtures and Camel's Hair Materials.

Coats and Wraps

The Gidding assemblage of Luxurious and Sturdy Coats; is indeed large and varied—all types are embraced, from the Rich Long Coat of Hudson Seal, with Wide Coon Bands, or the Handsome Cape of Satin or Velvet, to the Practical Military Style or the Swagger and informal Polo Blanket Coat for Auto wear.

Coating Materials are practically a repetition of the Suiting Cloths, with Velvet, Velour and Caracul, well to the fore. The call for coats is unusually large this season, but variety here, is correspondingly abundant.

Furs

The long Fur Coat is Queen of Fashion among Furs this season; especially those with wide borders of contrasting Fur. The Hudson Seal Coat is the coat par excellence, with Caracul Coats coming next in rank and Pony Coats as popular favorites. Natural Fisher-Coon is a Fur that has suddenly risen to great prominence among the well-dressed class, and Black Furs are, if anything, more prominent than ever, especially the fashionable black Lynx, and fine black Foxes, are popular favorites on account of their near likeness to black Lynx. Mink holds its perenniel place of honor—and white Furs are as usual reserved for evening wear, while many of the scarcer pelts, such as Sable, Chinchilla, Ermine and Broadtail are reserved as novelties.

Grace of proportioning is a feature that we emphasize regarding our furs, as well as the fact that the skins are personally selected, one by one, for their quality and rich lustre. The fine down fillings and linings are other matters of detail that receive particular attention.

Waists

The Costume Blouse is an item of great fashion interest this season; for the season's blouses are rare and beautiful. Chiffon-veiled effects, over Persian silks, Dresden nets and other novelties, are among the most tempting of the new styles. Dainty confections in white or cream Voile and Marquisette, handsomely hand-embroidered and trimmed in real Irish or Cluny laces, are very beautiful for evening wear, for in many instances these blouses are made entirely by hand, and are as choice and individual as Milady of Leisure could possibly hope to make.

Tailored and Demi-Tailored Silk Waists in plain colors, new shades and novelty effects are waiting to complete the suit of any shade, while the dainty Wool Taffeta Waists, Tailored Linens, and exquisite Lingerie Waists, offer their services for all manner of "in between" uses.

Latest Styles in Plain and Fitted—in fashionable shapes, sizes and leathers—also rare selections in India, Mocha and Paisley Cordeliere Bags.

Leather Bags

And Beaded Purses.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VALUATION OF GILBERT

Some Criticism of Figures Which Are More Than Tripled.

Bearings on Bond Issue for Sewers Are Considered.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some dissatisfaction has been aroused here over the board of equalization's action in placing the valuation of this village at $125,000, with a 20-mill tax rate, so that a $20,000 bond issue for a sewerage system could be made possible. The chief objection against the large valuation, which is nearly triple the size of last year's, which was only $118,000, is that the bond would not be large enough to pay for a system that would cover the entire town, and that some taxpayers would be without sewers, but nevertheless would be compelled to pay for the other man's improvement. Many of those who are objecting to the large increase in the valuation are considering the advisability of sending a written protest to the county tax board so that a reduction may be made in the valuation.

Those in favor of the large valuation, which will make the water bonds possible, argue that the entire city will be supplied with a sewage system, inasmuch as $15,000 is still due from the Oliver Mining company and that with the $20,000 from the bonds a very adequate system can be installed. About 20,000 feet of pipe, which includes 4,000 feet of 12-inch pipe, 2,000 feet of 10-inch pipe and 11,000 feet of eight-inch pipe, roughly estimated, will be necessary to cover the entire village, and it is figured out that the same can be installed at $1.25 per foot, or for about $30,000. But one hitch has been found in the plans made by Engineer Bowman, and that is of the outlet detail. As first planned the outlet was to be in the direction of the Ely lake, but inasmuch as it is though Gilbert will have to secure its water from the lake in about a year, because of the decrease in the water supply at the Genoa mine, the present source, it has been decided to have the outlet in the direction of the St. Louis river.

Should the bond issue fail, the $15,000 that is forthcoming from the Steel company by the Sparata people, will be issued to install a sewer system in the Sparta end of town. Work will be started on the system this week, and should the bond issue carry, the system will be installed all over the town, otherwise work will only be done in the Sparta section. It is believed that the entire system can be installed this fall, and at tomorrow's special election the voters will be given the opportunity of voting on the proposition of bonding the village for $20,000 for the installation of a system. The election will be held at the city hall and City Attorney W. H. Radamacher, Judge Oliver and Judge C. C. Welch will act as judges.

Assistant Manager John H. Hearding of the Oliver Mining company, Mr. Smith, Capt. R. Trezona, Dr. C. W. More and Dr. W. E. Harwood of Eveleth were here Saturday conferring over the proposed sewage system, and seemed decidedly in favor of the installation of a system this fall, and suggested the change in the outlet of the system from the Ely lake direction to the St. Louis river.

AS AN INDEPENDENT.

Friends of Gilbert Mayor Urge Him to Run for Sheriff.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The many friends here of Mayor Peter R. Cosgrove, who made a very good run for the county commissionership of the Sixth district against County Commissioner Neil McInnis of Eveleth, and Axel Carlson of Virginia, are trying to induce him to enter the race for the county sheriff's office as an independent candidate. They are at present looking up the legality of the matter and if he can logically enter the race, much pressure will be brought to bear upon him and it is believed that he would make the race. Mayor Cosgrove has had considerable experience as a policeman, having been marshal of old Sparta for a number of years.

OPERATIONS OF THE "LID" ARE EXTENDED

Saloon Keepers of Eveleth Get Busy With Other Places.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth experienced a near "blue" Sunday, as the result of the activities of local saloonmen, on Saturday evening. The "lid" has been forced on the local saloonkeepers for some time, and they Saturday evening decided to extend the size of the lid by forcing it on to other forms of business here. The first places attacked were the poolrooms, and in each case, the proprietor was instructed to close up, it being after 11 o'clock, and furthermore to keep closed Sunday, and in each instance the request was complied with.

After disposing of the poolroom evil, the saloonkeepers marched in a body to Rev. P. A. Schwarz's residence on Jackson street, where they attacked the exterior of his home, and sang hilarious melodies. The crowd then moved to the Urania hall, where a Finnish Socialist weekly Saturday evening dance was in progress, and proceeded to stop the entertainment. The clothing stores that happened to be open at the time were also closed, but no orders issued in regard to Sunday closing, inasmuch as the local clothiers have always remained closed on Sunday, by mutual consent.

Talk of closing liveries, confectionary stores and amusement places circulated about, but no efforts were made yesterday to close any livery, candy store or theater.

LAKE COUNTY FAIR VERY SUCCESSFUL

The Display of Farm Products Was Exceptionally Fine.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The closing day of the fair was well attended and many remarks were made upon the display of vegetables, grain and animals in the farm line, and needlework and cooking in the household line. In vegetables, the display was large and varied. Potatoes of all kinds, carrots, beets, tomatoes, huckleberries, ground cherries, wonder berries, wheat, rye, oats and other vegetables and small grain. W. J. Thrasher had a fine collection of corn, sweet corn and flint corn. The flint corn was ripe and of good quality.

L. D. Rose and William Pepperling had some Lake county honey on display, the latter having a section of a hive with the bees.

In flowers there was a display that has never been equalled in this city, but most of it came from homes in the city.

The farmers' wives had a special department, and home-made cheese, butter, plum cake, coffee breads and other delicacies were evident.

There was an excellent exhibition of paintings, Miss Hazel Oadams getting three firsts and one second on her work, and Miss Laura Stark getting one first and one second. Miss Stark took all prizes in china painting, as did Miss Svea Peterson in water colors.

Much of the success of this fair is due the women of the Agricultural association, who acted as judges and superintendents.

VIRGINIA GROWING.

Estimates for 1911 Much Larger Than for Previous Years.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to the estimates of City Clerk Bickford for the year commencing April 1, 1911, the sum of $375,000 will be required to run the city of Virginia. This is a much larger sum than has been required in any previous year, but the rapid growth of the city is making the expenditure necessary. Two of the large items are $115,000 for permanent improvements, principally in paving streets and $30,000 for the erection of an up-to-date incinerator plant. The maintenance and improvement of Olcott park will also require in the leighborhood of $20,000 and the rest of the sum is made up of numerous smaller items incidental to the management of a city. The receipts for the current year totalled $3366,000 and with the natural increase due to the city's growth it will be seen that the amount estimated for next year's expenditure is not excessive.

EVELETH TEAMS WIN TWO GAMES SATURDAY.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The range football season opened very auspiciously for the two local high school teams, Saturday, they each winning their game by decisive scores.

The first team journeyed to Biwabik, where they defeated the strong high school team of that place, 30 to 0, three touchdowns by Cerveny, one by Levant, and one by Turnquist, followed by some accurate goal kicking by Sharpe, accounted for the locals' large score.

The second team played the Aurora first team on the local grounds and defeated them by a score of 24 to 0. Massoucci, Levant, Owens and Sherman scored touchdowns and Owens and Sherman each kicked two goals. The locals showed much clever open play and the successful execution of forward passes and long end-runs, accounted for the large score.

of Troy, Col. Roosevelt's up-state lieutenant.

Mr. Sherman then retired for his talk with Mr. Barnes and the old guard leaders, who had been summoned for a counting of noses and a final drafting of plans.

"The fight for the temporary chairmanship is far from settled," said William Barnes, Jr., the old guard leader, earlier in the day, "and until it is settled I am not going to talk. There is much to be done. I can tell you this—that the progressives at this moment have not a majority of the delegates; in fact, neither have we.

Stand Pat on Platform.

"Until the chairmanship fight is over there is no use talking candidates. We are going to present a complete platform to the resolutions committee and will not submit to any amendments whatever. I have nothing to say about the planks in our platform."

Mr. Barnes' statement that the "old guard" would present a whole platform was a complete surprise, it having been expected that Col. Roosevelt's opponents would confine themselves to an active opposition to certain planks of the progressives platform with which they were not in sympathy.

Roosevelt on the Way.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Ex-President Roosevelt left Sagamore Hill by automobile early this morning for New York, to take a train for Saratoga.

Col. Roosevelt is confident that he will be elected temporary chairman of the convention by a majority of at least 100.

The former president's declaration of yesterday that he would accept no compromise on the direct nominations plank will, it is believed, bring up that issue, which was the chief cause of the present contest, as the principal point to be fought out, aside from the struggle for the control of the convention itself.

committee; Mrs. R. J. Gamble and Mrs. Joseph T. Johnson, who are with their husbands, Senators Gamble and Johnston of the committee. The room was crowded with newspaper men and as many spectators as could be seated.

Executive Session First.

After an executive session, the hearing opened and Chairman Burrows was informed counsel had not agreed on submission of the legislature's voting in lieu of summoning the house clerk, but would do so shortly.

Another Democratic state representative, H. J. C. Beckemeyer, is expected to be the second witness. It is understood that State Senator D. W. Holstlaw of Iuka, Ill., has been summoned as the third witness. Holstlaw is credited with having confessed that he was paid $2,500 for his vote for William Lorimer. His confession was made to the state's attorney and the grand jury of Sangamon county.

Was Promised $1,000.

While on direct examination by Attorney Austrian, he declared that he had been asked by Browne to vote for Lorimer, and that Browne told him he would receive $1,000 for his vote. The testimony was the same as had been given by White in the two trials of Browne.

The first severe clash of the hearing came when Attorney Austrian asked what money was promised White. The representative replied:

"I asked Browne how much I would get 'from other sources,' and he replied, 'Oh, about as much more.'"

Senator Lorimer's attorney objected to this answer, arguing that the "other sources" were entirely outside the case.

"This brings up," he said, "what has been referred to as the 'jackpot.' By the words of the witness, 'other sources,' it is shown that it has no connection with the election of Senator Lorimer."

"General State of Corruption."

Attorney Austrian replied:

"We claim that this line of testimony is relevant, because we will show that the Democratic state senators and representatives who voted for Lorimer voted for him as a part of a system in which their votes on other measures and their vote for Senator Lorimer were corelated. We are trying to show there was a general state of corruption in that legislature, and that men there were trying to bribe others."

The committee retired into executive session to consider admissibility of this line of evidence.

RAILROAD FURNISH GREATEST HINDRANCE TO WATER TERMINALS

terminals, often to the disadvantage of general water traffic.

That there is almost no linking up of the rail and general water systems at the water's edge, but rather the opposite tendency.

That there is little co-operation by localities with the federal government, which improves their channels.

Relating to railroad co-operation, Commissioner Smith says:

"Until this underlying relation of rail to water system is adjusted on some common sense basis of harmony, there is little hope of great advance in water terminal conditions."

Lack of co-operation between localities and the federal government in water terminal development, he says, is in marked contrast to those continental countries whose waterways have been most highly developed.

The report says:

Terminal Weakest Link.

The terminal is the weakest link in our water system, the commissioner says, widely nullifying the advantages of cheap water carriage. Our waterways are important, not as a set of static conditions, but as a dynamic transportation system. Channels alone do not give transportation; they should have adequate terminals, properly controlled, in harbors effectively controlled.

"Our harbor organization, as a rule, is faulty. A harbor has two prime features, 'commercial' and 'industrial.' The commercial function deals chiefly with through freight, with the transshipment between rail and water lines (or between waterlines) of freight not destined to or originating at the harbor itself. The industrial function, on the other hand, deals with local freight. It affords rail-water connection and wharf storage for local industries and distributing houses. It affects local interests far more deeply than the mere passage of through traffic.

"The commercial use of our water front often interferes seriously with its industrial use. Great railroad terminals, largely used for through freight, extend along our most active frontage, crowding out its use by the local industries. In general, good harbor organization would place the through freight terminals at relatively outlying parts of the harbor, leaving the central portion more free for local business. Many habors could do this with much local benefits, especially the important lake ports, with their inner (river) harbors and their outer lake frontage potected by breakwaters—an almost ideal conformation."

Requirements of Terminals.

"In aaddition to harbor organization, there are four prime factors in a good water terminal: (1) Adequate wharves; (2) warehouse space; (3) transhipping machinery; and (4) belt line railway connection between general water traffic, the adjacent railroads, and, if possible, the local industries. (The depth of water is a matter of channels, not terminals.) Furthermore, these vital factors should not be under adverse or exclusive private control, especially the belt railway, which should be the public servant of the whole port.

"Probably the greatest single deterrent to water-terminal advance is the present adverse attitude of rail lines toward independent water traffic, in their exclusive control of frontage, refusal or neglect to co-ordinate with general water traffic and in refusal to prorate generally with water lines in through movement of traffic. Until this underlying relation of rail to water systems is adjusted on some commonsense basis of harmony, there is little hope of great advance in water-terminal conditions."

Great Lakes Ports.

"Most of the important Great Lakes ports were originally, and, as a rule are still, primarily river harbors. Those rivers are always small, usually winding, and are especially adapted for local industrial terminals rather than for the commercial function of through traffic. As a matter of fact, the industrial function is crowded upon and hampered by the use of much of this congested river frontage for through commerce.

"Although the government (as well as state and municipal authorities) has expended large sums for breakwaters which protect extensive strips of the lake front at the various important ports, there is surprisingly little terminal use of such protected lake front. This, too, notwithstanding the fact that the original river harbors are now much congested, and that increasing draft and length of lake vessels have made the rivers still less serviceable.

"The reason for this singular condition apparently lies mainly in the adverse ownership of much of this protected lake frontage, usually by railroads; in the long established growth of cities along the rivers; and, in many cases to uncertainty and litigation of lafe-front titles."

Duluth-Superior Harbor.

Commissioner Smith devotes seven pages of his report on water terminals to discussing conditions of the Great Lake ports, starting with Duluth-Superior thence down the lakes to Buffalo.

"The chief function of the Duluth-Superior harbor," Commissioner Smith writes, "is commercial. Especially important are its coast bound ore and grain traffic and west bound coal traffic. In harbor organization there is much room for improvement. Much of the frontage especially desirable for local industrial use is controlled by railroads for through traffic.

"Duluth has a large number of wharves, a considerable amount of warehouse space for interchange of rail and water traffic, mainly owned by railroads, and very highly developed, and extensive transhipping machinery for handling ore, grain and coal. The most important frontage and wharves belong to railroads, largely ore carriers. Next important are the terminals of coal companies. The city of Duluth owns four wharves. There is some use of the lake front protected by the natural breakwater of Minnesota Point, but the general tendency has been toward the development and use of the inner harbor."

The Milwaukee Harbor.

In reporting upon the Milwaukee harbor Commissioner Smith says:

"This a river harbor with exceptional advantages and with about equal commercial and industrial use. In organization it is somewhat above the average, though the advantageous conformation allows of a still better arrangement. There are large number of wharves, about fifteen railroad warehouses for the accommodation of water freight, and considerable transshipping machinery, mainly for coal. The city owns no frontage of commercial importance. The railroads own a large portion and much is also held by industrials, especially coal companies. The lake lines usually lease their terminals.

"Here again appears the neglect of an extensive protected lake front. There is a government breakwater about 7,200 feet long, protecting an area of 270 acres, which is used as a harbor of refuge, but the protected front is not commercially used. Suggestions have been made for the development of Jones Island, a long unused strip near the harbor entrance, which has large possibilities, especially for through terminals."

At Smaller Ports.

"At Two Harbors, Minn., Ashland, Wis., Marquette, Mich., and Manitowoc, Wis., the lake front is protected by breakwaters, and, in contrast with the larger ports, there is a considerable use of this protected lake frontage.

"In the case of the Great Lakes harbor, there is comparatively little efficient public control of the water front, which, in the main, is in the hands of railroads or industrial interests."

HOMESTAKE MINE AT LEAD CAVES IN

Makes Big Hole in Heart of South Dakota City.

Deadwood, S. D., Sept. 26.—The firing of a blast at the 300-foot level of the Homestake mine at Lead, S. D., early yesterday started a cave-in, which continued to the surface, making a hole in the heart of the city fifteen feet wide and forty feet long. When the dust had cleared away, the Bertolero boarding house was seen hanging over the edge of the crevass, and the Campbell hotel's back steps led into it.

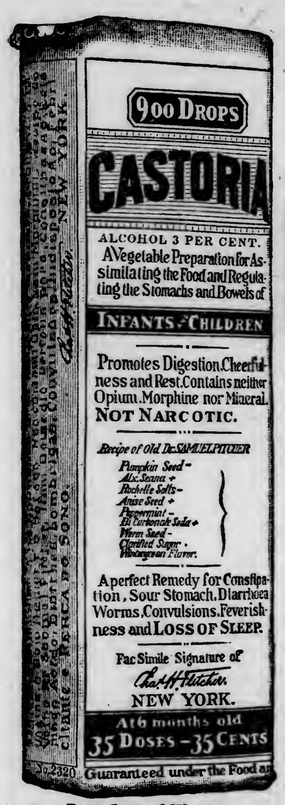

Dickinson to Have Hospital.

Dickinson, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Final assurance has been given by Bishop Wehrle of the Bismarck diocese that a new Catholic hospital will be erected in Bismarck, funds sufficient to determine that point having finally been raised.

A Practically Perfect Preparation.

Years of experience have enabled Mr. Fletcher to make Castoria a practically perfect preparation. These years of labor: the amount of money required to introduce its merits to the public: the investment in its manufacture, including the most modern machinery, mean a vast amount of invested capital. It follows that the greatest care is exercised in the selection of each ingredient, and the greatest attention is paid to every detail of its preparation. The result: The practically perfect preparation in the finished product; Fletcher's Castoria.

Herein lies the guarantee of the absolute safety in the use of Fletcher's Castoria for the baby, and the warning against irresponsible makers of imitations and counterfeits. The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher that is printed in black on the wrapper and red on the bottle is the mother's safeguard.

D. J. Smith Discards Crutches

Bake Oven Is Boon To Suffering Mankind

D. J. SMITH.

"From bedridden for two weeks and suffering indescribable pain, to instant relief, that is my experience with the Loughney & Loughney Bake Oven, and now, after four bakes I can walk without crutches, and am entirely free from pain. Is the Bake Oven alright? Why it's the greatest boon to suffering mankind ever invented. No sufferer from Rheumatism or anything that brings on severe pain should fail to take the treatment. I feel that I can't make my recommendation too strong. Loughney & Loughney do all and more than they claim with their odd Bake Ovens. I was carried from a taxicab to the Bake Oven for my first treatment by the Hon. Charles Stolberg, Register of Deeds of Carlton, Minn. Mr. Stolberg was re-elected this year without opposition. The other man who helped Mr. Stolberg carry me to the Bake Ovens was W. M. Cain, a contractor and lumberman of Carlton, Minn. These men will vouch for my critical condition and intense suffering. I am a resident of Carlton, Minn.; have lived six years in Carlton and fourteen years in Cloquet, Minn., and I tell my experience with the Bake Ovens that other sufferers will know where to go to get immediate relief.

Yours Truly

Loughney & Loughney have all of the offices on the third floor of the Christie building, between First and Second streets on Fourth avenue west. They give free consultation. Their hours are 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. Sundays, 9 to 12 only.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

THE FIRST IN MANY YEARS

Fergus Falls Methodists Give Banquet and Conference.

A Representative Gathering of Prominent Churchmen.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two hundred and fifty clergymen, prominent Methodist laymen and about fifty ladies were banqueted at the Grand hotel, Saturday evening by several laymen of Fergu sFalls and the Northern Minnesota Methodist Episcopal conference.

It was the most representative and largest gathering of prominent Methodists held in the Northwest. Col. William H. McBride was toastmaster and Rev. Noah Lathrop, D. D., gave the invocation.

First Banquet in Twelve Years.

Bishop John W. Hamilton, presiding bishop, gave the first address, saying that Fergus Falls had the honor of having given the Methodist conference the first banquet he had attended at any annual conference for twelve years. This was a most remarkable social gathering, and a generous and helpful banquet. A Quaker said to him in Boston: "Do you know the difference between a Quaker and a Methodist? A Quaker is always a Quaker and the Methodist is an earth-quaker. Fergus Falls has done a great thing for Morality in voting out the saloons. Methodist preachers were made to lead or be swept off the face of the earth.

Thomas Owens Talks.

Col. McBride in introducing Thomas Owens of Two Harbors said, "You have heard of a soulless corporation, but we have a man here who represents that corporation which voluntarily had its lands placed on the tax list." Mr. Owens, superintendent of the Iron Range railway, then said, that the act of the corporation which he depresented had cut the tax of the farmers in two in the state of Minnesota. At this the preachers loudly applauded. He had spent thirty years of his life with that so-called soulless corporation and it ran in connection with its operation plant a Y. M. C. A., and had just given $8,000 to enlarge the building. The time would come when the iron ore and timber would be all out and off the land, but in Minnesota there would be dotted over the land the farms and homes of its beautiful men and women. The best products of our land. Only in the church did men get the things which were worth while on earth and eternal. Business of the church belongs to the laymen led by the pastors. He hoped to be found doing his part for God and the church.

Address by Powell.

Rev. John W. Powell of Duluth gave an eloquent address, saying the times were here when men didn't ask what church do you belong to, but what things are you doing for God and man. Methodists were to spread Scriptural holiness throughout the land. It was to quicken conscience and do away with sin and exalt righteousness. Roosevelt sm and Methodist doctrines are the same in votal action among men. Methodism should help masters and men to love each other and make righteous the big corporations.

Frank O. Gold of Minneapolis was represented by Frank Tift of Long Prairie, who spoke as layman of personal salvation, what it was and did for men, making them honest, courageous and righteous.

Rev. Andrew Gillies, Minneapolis, said the Christian church was the best asset that the banks and business people could get on the earth and the brotherhood of Christ is larger than one denomination or one church. The world wants the preacher to be a man of one thing, an ambassador for God. Methodism was to get many things done and to interpret God to the world and bring the world to God. Preachers can only give the people what they have got of God and of Christ and of righteousness.

Dr. Franklin Hamilton, chancellor of the American University at Washington, gave a glowing account of the work of its pastorate and said $30,000,000 was spent for lawyers, $12,000,000 for criminals, $10,000,000 for dogs, and a lonely $6,000,000 for preachers in the United States.

There was a grand total for benevolent purposes of $51,483.

Assisted by the district superintendents and several elders he ordained as elders, Jesse T. Dodds, John T. Kettlewell, H. W. Parkinson. He also consecrated as deaconess Matilda Warrington of Becker.

NORTH DAKOTAN UNDER ARREST

Denver Woods Is Charged With Deliberate Murder.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 26.—Denver Woods is in jail charged with the deliberate murder of Dell Crowe at Concord, Bowman county. Woods is from Marmarth. He and Lafe Woods, Fred Hickey, Henry Miller and James Kelly went to C. A. Lowe's farm for a horse which Lafe Woods claimed. Lafe Woods was in the barn when Lowe arrived and Lowe shut the barn door with Woods inside. Dell Crowe, father-in-law of Lowe, started from the residence to the barn to assist Lowe, when his daughter called to him that Denver Woods was about to shoot. Crowe turned around just in time to receive a bullet in the breast and fell dead. Woods and his friends remained near the scene for several hours an intimidated homesteaders until the latter were afraid to send word to the sheriff. Finally T. B. Green and Frank Taylor informed the officials. Sheriff Moore started after Woods and met him coming to town to surrender.

SAW FILER SHOOTS HIMSELF AT CAMP

Peter Johnson, Said to Be From Duluth, Fatally Wounded.

Ashland, Wis., Sept. 26.—Peter Johnson, a saw filer in Wier's camp on the Bad River reservation, was found lying in a shed, Saturday, near the camp, mortally wounded. He was brought to Rinehart's hospital at Ashland, where his wounds were pronounced fatal. During the forenoon, a shot was heard but little attention was paid to it. When Johnson was discovered a rifle was lying by his side, and there was every evidence of suicide. Evidently the muzzle of the gun had been placed under Johnson's chin, the bullet tearing off a part of the lower jaw, destroying one eye, and passing through the brain. Johnson has been in the employ of the Stearn's Lumber company about three months. He is said to be from Duluth.

LITTLE GIRL KILLED.

Eva Flora of Berthold Crushed Under Heavy Wagon.

Berthold, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eva Flora, aged 3 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Berry, was crushed to death under a wagon loaded with filled water barrels. She was playing about the wagon, which had been stopped on a small knoll, and in some manner it gained a start down hill. The child fell under one of the wheels and the wagon stopped just soon enough to pin her down. When found the wheel was resting across the child's chest and abdomen, and she evidently had died an instantaneous death, as no intimation was given the parents of the child's fate until the body was found. The accident occurred only a few yards from the residence.

D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow the opening session of the annual convention of the North Dakota Congregational conference will be held in this city, pastor delegates being expected from every church in the state. WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Berlin—Ray McKinney, Janesville, while making the "slide for life," Friday afternoon at the Green Lake county fair, fell fifty feet to the ground before an audience of 5,000 people. He is in a serious candition.

Racine—Racine county, with an assessed valuation of all property at $43,659,872 has but six persons owning watches valued at over $50 each, according to returns made by the assessors. These watches are assessed at a value of $400. Last year the assessors found ten watches in the county.

La Crosse—Delass Roth of Mauston, Wis., aged 45 years, second boss of a steam shovel gang on the Milwaukee construction work, touched a live wire while working near West Salem and was electrocuted. He leaves a wife and six children.

Racine—George W. Morris, formerly superintendent of the J. I. Case Thrashing Machine company, has perfected a four-cylinder gasoline traction engine which is declared by manufacturers of farming implements to be the best ever built.

Stoughton—J. B. Converse, Fox Lake, and his force of carp seiners on Wednesday at Lake Kegona made a haul of 4,504 carp, weighing about 50,000 pounds and valued at about $3,000. It is the largest haul they have made at this lake.

Wausau—C. C. Parlin, principal of the Wausau high school, has adopted a unique plan of instructing students in spelling. For some time the school has been criticised because enough attention was not paid to the "three R's." Principal Parlin says that more attention is paid to these rudimentary branches than is the case in most schools and to prove it he has opened a "hospital" for poor speliers. When a student exhibits a weakness in spelling, he is sent to the "hospital" where special training is given him by a special teacher.

Appleton — Earl Murphy and John Genal, charged with being implicated in the Hortonville railway robberies, have been bound over to municipal court for trial.

Evansville—The 2-year-old daughter of Fred Woodstock, town of Magnolia, drowned in a water tank. The child had been absent from the house nearly an hour and the body was found by her little sister.

Glenwood City — The town of Glenwood voted against raising the liquor license fee to $500, leaving the fee at the minimum of $200. The village of Downing voted in favor of a $500 fee. Glenwood City did not vote, the fee here being $500.

Menasha — Mrs. James Kelley was nearly suffocated by a burglar whom she found in her room early in the morning. The man held a pillow tightly over her face when she attempted to call for help. He escaped before Mr. Kelley and others in the house were aroused.

Mauston — In circuit court George Kern and Thomas Daly were sentenced each to three years in Waupun for burglary at Camp Douglas. Peter Dolan pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was sentenced to three years in the same institution.

Marinette—Miss Mattie Dalziel, Big Rapids, Mich., has been employed as teacher of domestic science in the Stephenson Training school.

Neenah—Mrs. A. H. Miller was badly bitten by a mad dog while defending her children from the animal. She was taken to Madison for treatment.

Rhinelander—Mrs. Charles Flago and Miss Hughston shot and killed a large black bear at Tomahawk lake. The women were hunting partridges with Arthur Flago when brain was sighted. Mr. Flago blinded the animal with a charge of shot and the women followed and killed it.

Madison—Mrs. Ellen Glennon, town of Fitchburg, a few miles south of here, on Monday will celebrate the 105th anniversary of her birth. She was born in the county of Poscommon, Ireland, and came to America with her husband in 1847. She settled in 1858 in Dane county. She was the mother of seven children, one son who died in childhood and six daughters, five of whom are living and reside in this county. There have been forty grandchildren and twenty-six great grandchildren. At the present time, she is still able to get about unassisted.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Dickinson, N. D.—For the purpose of carrying on extensive improvement work on its roads during the coming year, an appropriation of $15,000 has been made by Stark county to cover the cost. There has been a general demand over the entire county for better roads within the past two or three years, the rapid manner in which the country has been settling up necessitating better means of transportation to and from market by numerous. Big jobs have already been completed which have materially bettered the situation.

New Leipzig, N. D.—The steel of the Northern Pacific railroad was laid into New Leipzig last week. A great crowd of townspeople, as well as farmers, with their families, gathered beside the grade and watched with interest and wonderment the laying of track by machinery. All remarked at the speed with which the track is laid, and all were happy that the first of New Leipzig's railroads had really come.

Bismarck, N. D.—The supreme court, has announced that the hearing in the case to test the "30 per cent" clause of the primary election law would be postponed until Thursday afternoon, Sept. 29, at Grand Forks. It was impossible for the attorneys to be present here today and it is likely that the entire bench will be at Grand Forks on that date to attend the installation of President McVey of the university.

Deadwood, S. D.—When the Butte county fair at Belle Fourche was called off on account of rain those who had bet in the racing pool found that Tom Hubbel, a gambler, who made the books, had fled with the receipts. A warrant was issued for his arrest and officers of three counties are after him. About $500 is missing.

Flandreau, S. D.—N. P. Pitsenbarger, a farmer, has been indicted on the charge of arson. His 16-year-old son, Beach, confessed that he was compelled to set fire to a granary and was told to say it was set on fire by lightning or tramps. Pitsenbarger collected insurance on the granry and a harness.

Deadwood, S. D.—Part of the tusk of a mastodon was unearthed between here and Whitewood by William H. Williams of Crook City, and is now on exhibition here. Twenty years ago the tusk from which this same piece now found had fallen was discovered a few feet away from the location of the latest discovery.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—Charged with murder, Samuel Robinson of Northland is in the Marquette county jail awaiting trial in the circuit court. He is alleged to have shot and killed Clement Smith, a neighbor.

Dickinson—The West Branch Cedar company, which has been operating on a large scale near Ralph for several years, has decided to discontinue operations and will sell its logging outfit. The company owns 6,000 acres of land in Dickinson and Marquette counties, which will be held for future operations. During the past season the company has cut 3,000 cords of pulpwood, 60,000 railroad ties, 750,000 feet of shingle timber, 1,500,000 feet of mixed timber, 50,000 posts and 5,000 poles.

Sault Ste. Marie—Married for fifty years, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farr of Sault Ste. Marie have just celebrated the event. Half a century ago they were wedded in the ancient and historical Plumstead church, about ten miles out of London. Since that time the city has grown so that Plumstead is now a portion of the great metropolis. Mrs. Farr was at that time 20 and Mr. Farr 23 years of age. Ten years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Farr went to Hamilton, Ont., where they stayed until moving to the Soo in 1882. At the time of their arrival the Soo was a little village on the water front and they have seen it grow to the city of over 12,000 inhabitants.

Bessemer—Gladstone already is a bidder for the 1912 tournament of the Upper Peninsula Firemen's association, which next year will meet at Bessemer. To furnish sinews of war, a ball will be given Thanksgiving night at the opera house. Gladstone has urged her claims year after year in a half-hearted way, always coming in at the last minute. Now the department means business and is making an early start.

Iron Mountain—Miss Lucile Graffit of Iron Mountain and Edwin Percival Otterbein of Grand Rapids were in the city last week. The bride until recently was employed as long distance operator by the Michigan State Telephone company at the Iron Mountain exchange. Mr. Otterbein was formerly in the employ of the Iron Mountain Light & Fuel company and is at present a resident of Mount Clemens, where he holds a position with the Mount Clemens Gas company.

Stambaugh—John Swiatek and George Bruczynski are dead at Stambaugh in consequence of an accident at the Baker iron mine. It appears that they had pushed a loaded ore car onto the cage preparatory to its being hoisted to the surface, but had neglected to put the guard rail in position, so that when the cage started upward the car fell from it and plunged directly on top of the men. The lives of the pair were crushed out. The men were natives of Austria.

Ironwood—In the neighborhood of 2,500 pupils are enrolled in the public schools at Ironwood. This is somewhat more than the number at the corresponding time a year ago, and the enrollment is expected to show a still larger increase. The high school registration is 250, of which number thirty-five students are taking the commercial course.

Escanaba—Charged with being incorrigible Mabel and Bessie Winters, 14 and 12 years of age, respectively, were arraigned before Juvenile Judge Judd Yelland at Escanaba. The mother of the girls, who is a widow, admitted that she was unable to control them and made no attempt to interfere with the disposition of the cases by the court. Bessie Winters was ordered committed to the home for dependent children at Coldwater and the older girl was ordered sent to the state reform school at Adrian. The arrest of the children resulted from evidence collected by the police.

Crystal Falls—Investigation has disclosed the apparent fact that John Garp, a Crystal Falls man, found dead in the woods near that city, was a victim of his own carelessness. The deceased had gone on a hunt in the territory of the Bristol mine. He failed to return that night and the following day a searching party was sent out. The body finally was found. The upper portion of the head had been shot off. Examination of the surroundings showed the imprint of the gun trigger on a windfall near the body. Three windfalls lay a few feet apart. It is the theory that the man was jumping from one windfall to another, holding the gun near the muzzle and using it as a sort of a walking stick, when he slipped and brought the trigger so forcibly against the fallen tree that the cartridge was exploded. The deceased had been married a few years and leaves a wife and a child.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Stillwater—The present members and the former members of Company K, First regiment, propose to organize a social club with the armory as a meeting place and have billiard and pool tables as a feature. An adjourned meeting will be held the night of Oct. 4 to formulate the organization.

Rush City—C. M. Hanson, a farmer 70 years of age, living two miles west of town, was found dead in the road near Rush lake. The body was brought here and Coroner Zein pronounced it a case of heart failure.

Crookston—Game Warden Munch has returned from Plummer, where he brought two Indians who belong to the White Earth reservation, Joe and Adam Lacey, uncle and nephew, before Judge Palen, who fined $14 each for trapping muskrats out of season. They had enough snakeroot to pay the fine. They had been trapping along the Clearwater river, and had no business off the reservation.

Winona—Judge Snow sentenced John McCoy to a year and two months in the penitentiary at Stillwater for passing a forged check for $27 on John Pfalzgraf. McCoy pleaded guilty without being tried.

Farmington—Failure to see an incoming northbound Rock Island train nearly cost the lives of H. K. Jones, a retired farmer, his wife and 12-year-old son, George, on a crossing one-half mile south of here, when the buggy in which the family was riding was smashed to splinters. Mr. Jones, who is 60 years old, was driving a spirited team and, in attempting to keep his horses under control, paid no attention to the train. The rig was struck squarely in the middle and the occupants were hurled on both sides of the track. Frightened by the impact of the collision, the team ran away and were caught a mile from the scene of the accident.

Stillwater—The German Catholic Benevolent societies of Minnesota and the Dakotas will hold their annual convention in Stillwater, beginning Monday. More than 1,000 delegates are expected. A parade on Sunday through the principal streets to the German Catholic church was a feature. Citizens have decorated the streets and their homes for the occasion.

PANIC TALK MERE MYTH

Money Will Be Plentiful in This Country, Say the Officials.

Treasury Department Makes Estimate of Coming Conditions.

Washington, Sept. 26.—It is unlikely that there will be any shortage of money this fall anywhere in the United States. This is not to be construed as a promise to any particular individual, but is the large, impersonal view of the treasury department. In the opinion of the officials, the danger mark, if there actually has been one during several months past, has been left astern. They give as reasons for their prediction of plentiful money:

Primarily, the banks saw what looked like a money shortage coming several months ago. They knew they could expect no help from the United States treasury such as they got in 1905, and prepared themselves. They have piled up gold, built up reserves and cut down risky loans, and other securities which might not be easy to sell have been turned into money. New loans have been carefully scrutinized.

Banks Fortified Themselves.

By doing all that, the banks have fortified themselves against an emergency. How well they did it was seen last week when $10 000,000 was moved out of New York to other banks and done very easily. Panics foreseen never come, financiers say.

Money is plentiful in England and in the continent of Europe. That is always said to be a good sign in making a prediction for this country.

Nearly every crop in this country this year is reported to be in a good condition, and the chances for frost are slight. The cotton crop will be 1,000,000 bales greater than it was last year. Nearly all other crops are reported very large.

Next month it is estimated, investors all over the country will receive nearly $170,000,000 in dividend checks from industrial, railroad and other corporations, adding to the money generally in circulation.

Crops a Big Factor.

The record crops are one argument against a money shortage because they mean that the United States will have a great amount of food and manufacturing materials to sell in Europe. Europe, in the meantime, will be selling material to America, but undoubtedly not to the extent it did last year and therefore will owe Americans money. This will be paid in gold, which will come across the ocean in bars. The banks will take it to the United States mints or sub-treasury to be stored away in the vaults and notes will be issued to represent it. Thus several more millions of dollars will come into circulation for business.

The question may be asked why the treasury department could not help the banks now as it did in 1908. Because it has not the money. The expense of digging the Panama canal is from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 a month and is a great drain on the nation's ready cash.

Canal Owes Treasury.

It was the intention to build the canal with borrowed money obtained from sales of Panama canal bonds. But for many reasons bonds could not be sold out favorable to Uncle Sam and he has been paying his canal workers out of his cash drawer until the canal owes the treasury $125,000,000.

One of the best reasons why the treasury officials believe there will be no money stringency is that the national banks are preparing themselves to issue $500,000,000 extra money as the emergency currency law provides, if they have to. Secretary MacVeagh believes that the larger banks have prepared themselves and others are getting ready. Mr. MacVeagh believes the common knowledge that such an immense sum is available would stop any general movement to take money out of banks and hoard it in stockings.

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH

I am glad to say that now I look and feel so well that my friends keep asking me what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend your Vegetable Compound."—MRS. TRAPPERS' CONVENTION.

Convention to Devise Ways to Protect Fur-Bearing Animals.

Sabula, Iowa, Sept. 26.—The first annual gathering together of the Brotherhood of American Trappers for the purpose of organizing the American Trappers' Protective association, will occur Oct. 15, on the Highlands of Big Island, at Sabula.

The purpose of this meeting is to formulate a feeling of brotherhood, good fellowship and a mutual interest in all things pertaining to the welfare of the trapper. Second, to devise ways and means for the protection of the trappers' rights in the hunting field and on the trapping grounds. Third, to formulate plans and outline laws for the uniform protection of fur bearing animals in all states, to have a uniform open and closed season in all states, with such regulations as are deemed necessary in various counties or sections where fur game is scarce or plentiful, and to transact such other business as may come before the Brotherhood at that time.

THIEVES LAY IN WINTER CLOTHING.

Thieves broke into the second-hand store of Litman Bros., at 328 East Superior street late Saturday night and stole a quantity of heavy winter goods valued at about $100. The losses include mittens, sox, trousers, underwear and a corduroy coat. Entrance was gained by smashing in a panel of the rear door.

WILL TEST STATE LAW IN MUNICIPAL COURT.

The test case of W. L. Leonard, arrested on the charge of selling produce in the state without a license, as he is not a resident, will come up in municipal court, Oct. 4. The arrest was made on complaint of A. A. King, a local commission man.

It is claimed that outsiders have greatly injured the business of Minnesota dealers by shipping in cars of produce and selling them in different towns. The license fee is $150. The case involves the constitutionality of the law requiring the payment of the fee, and will likely go to the higher courts for final settlement.

DONALD STUBBS SHOT; SAYS IT WAS ACCIDENT.

Cleveland, Sept. 26.—In a weak whisper, Donald Stubbs, general agent of the Union Pacific railroad, told his father that the probably mortal wound that he received above the heart Saturday night was accidental. The father, John C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Southern Pacific railroad, came here on a special train as soon as he learned of the finding of his son in the railroad office, apparently dying of a bullet wound.

"My son seemed anxious for me to know that he shot himself accidently," said Mr. Stubbs. "He seemed discouraged, however, and did not appear to care whether he lived or not. His only fault was a weakness for drink, and I am convinced that this was responsible for the accident. There was no reason for him to attempt self-destruction."

Married in June.

Young Stubbs was married to Miss Marguerite Wheeler of New York last June, and after the honeymoon trip came here to accept the newly created position of general agent for the Union Pacific for this territory.

Physicians say he has only a fighting chance for life.

DOCTOR BACKS AUTO IN FRONT OF FAST CAR.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 26.—Backing his automobile across a country road in an attempt to reach a private driveway, Dr. Morris D. Stepp, a prominent Cleveland surgeon, drove the machine directly before a speeding electric freight car late Sunday. The machine was hurled high into the air, and in a moment the dying bodies of Mrs. Stepp and her two small children lay beside the unconscious form of the husband and father on the ground. Death came in a few moments to the woman and the little ones, Morris, aged 8, and an infant daughter. Dr. Stepp was removed to a hospital, where it was found that he had sustained three fractured ribs and internal injuries.

Rebuff Senator Dick.

Cleveland, Sept. 26.—A rebuff was administered to Senator Charles Dick here when the Republican candidates to the legislature from Cuyahoga county pledged themselves to vote against the senator's re-election.

DIETZ AGAIN VISITS WINTER; IS UNMOLESTED.

Couderay, Wis., Sept. 26. — (Special to The Herald.)—John F. Deitz and his son, Clarence, the famous Cameron dam defenders, were in Winter Saturday afternoon for their mail and also did some shopping. Both kept very close together and their automatic revolvers were worn in plain sight and handy for action at the least sign of arrest. They left town unmolested, leaving early. Deitz saying he did not like to travel through the woods after dark. This is his third trip to Winter since the Horel shooting affair. No news of Sheriff Madden's plans for capture are yet heard.

UNION MEN TO UNITE VOTES

Railway Orders Will Abandon Partisanship in Politics.

Catechism on Proposed Legislation to Be Sent to Nominees.

New York, Sept. 26.—For the first time in the history of railway unions, members and delegates representing 308,000 men of the four great divisions of railway employes in the East voted unanimously at a meeting here Sunday to take concerted action in national and state politics.

"The proper place to settle questions affecting labor is at the ballot box," said Warren S. Stone of Cleveland, Ohio, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. "Whatever your political affiliations, do not let party lines blind you to your true interest, or provent you from doing what you think is best and right. See that the men you vote for stand for the right principles, regardless of party, and support them, and you will not only be doing the best thing for yourself, but for the public.

"Not Political Move."

"This is not a political move, but a move to get away from the old lines of partisan politics."

In pursuance of this plan, the meeting voted to send out a series of eight questions to state and national candidates, particularly to candidates for the legislatures and house of representatives, asking for a definition of attitude on the universal adoption of safety appliances and employers' liability laws—where such are not already in existence—company pensions for superannuated employes, hours of labor and other matters of kindred interest.

This catechism will be drafted by W. G. Lee of Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and G. R. Garrettson of Grand Rapids, Iowa, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and will be distributed to all the executive officers of subordinate unions and locals.

Favor Rate Increase.

There were 8,000 members and delegates at the meeting yesterday, representing the Brotherhod of Railway Trainmen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Lcomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors. They defined their general attitude toward the application of railway laws, now before the interstate commerce commission, and as has been expected, they passed resolutions favoring an increase in freight rates.

It was decided that "this representative meeting of the railway brotherhods request our chief executive to appear before the interstate commerce commission during the pending rate hearing and state our case and support the proposals to reasonably increase the existing rates."

JOHNSON STATUE MODELS COMING

Plaster Cast and Sketches Forwarded to Memorial Commission.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.—C. W. Ames, secretary of the commission for the erection of a monument to former Governor Johnson, who has recently returned from a European trip, where he saw Andrew O'Connor, sculptor, received a letter from the artist recently stating that plaster models and paintings of the proposed statue had been shipped. Immediately after their receipt by Mr. Ames, a meeting of the commission will be held to study the sketches and accept or reject Mr. O'Connor as the artist to execute the statue.

The models which are now on their way to this country consist of a plaster cast of the former governor six feet high, erected on a pedestal, with two slabs, containing designs in bas-relief and benches to either side of the central figure. There is also a plaster model of the head in full size. Accompanying the casts are two lineal illustrations, one in oil and the other in water colors.

When the commission was chosen to select an artist to execute a statue of the former governor it undertook the work without any stipulation for a competitive tryout between artists. The plan was for the elimination of ineligibles and the selection of one from the remainig high class. Even then the order was not given, but the commission requested that models and sketches be submitted. It reserved the right to accept or reject the work, or to offer corrections.

After deliberation and study of the work of the most famous of American sculptors Andrew O'Connor was chosen as best fitted to execute the memorial.

Those who have seen the work of Mr. O'Connor on the statue have praised his efforts. On a recent trip to Europe, in company with Mme. Frepstad, the prima donna, Mrs. Johnson, widow of the former governor, expressed herself as fully satisfied with the preliminary work.

At night he was the guest of honor at a banquet tendered by the St. Louis club.

EARLY YALE GRADUATE DIES IN ALMSHOUSE.

Ballston, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Albert J. Perkins, who was one of the oldest Yale graduates and later served as instructor of chemistry at that university, died in the county almshouse here Saturday. He was 84 years old. In his early life he accumulated a fortune, but reverses swept away his savings, and for thirty years he had been an itinerant umbrella vender.

MINNESOTA AND A FREE PORT.

There ought not to be the slightest difficulty about transferring from the state to the city of Duluth the dock site in the West end bought by the state years ago for an elevator site, but never used because it was discovered that the state couldn't engage in the elevator business under its Constitution.

As The Herald has said, the people of the state of Minnesota, in whatever part of it they may live, are as deeply interested in this matter of making Duluth a free port by breaking the railroad monopoly of its docks as are the people of Duluth.

While Duluth is denied the benefits it should have as an open port through which should stream the enormous commerce created by the cheap freight rates of the Great Lakes, the people in every section of Minnesota are forced to pay tribute to a railroad monopoly that has gripped the Great Lakes waterway by its control of the docks, and uses its power to take for itself profits that belong to the people.

These are reasons enough why the state of Minnesota should turn this site over to the city of Duluth, as a nucleus for the system of free docks it is planning as a defense against railroad monopoly, on terms as reasonable as may be. The state paid $11,000 for the property, and though it is worth more, the state shouldn't make a profit on it. It should be as anxious as Duluth to help in this attack—nay, it should be more anxious, because the individual citizen of Duluth pays no more tribute to the railroad monopoly of the lakes than does the individual citizen of Luverne or Hallock or Stillwater or Winona.

But, if these reasons are not enough, there is another. Along the bay front in Duluth is property, belonging to the railroads that have brought about this monopoly, worth many millions of dollars. It costs the city of Duluth large sums every year in police and fire protection. The schools of Duluth educate the children of those who work on or in these railroads, docks and warehouses. The city of Duluth builds streets over which the railroads send and receive the freight they carry. But this property pays not a dollar in taxes or assessments to the city of Duluth. It is owned by the railroads, and the railroads pay all their taxes to the state. The city pays the public expenses made necessary by the presence of these interests, but the state gets the taxes. True, the city is in part supported by these very interests, but so is the commonwealth of Minnesota.

Duluth used to ask that these gross earnings taxes be apportioned to the local subdivisions in proportion to the value of the railroad property in each subdivision. That fight appears to have been lost.

However, there can be no question that the state owes something to Duluth for the taxes it receives from railroad property which increases Duluth's expenses but pays no taxes in Duluth. Helping Duluth establish a system of free docks, when it is so easy to do, will offset that situation in some measure, and at the same time will work out for the direct benefit of every person living in the state.

PUNISHING THOSE "HIGHER UP."

Not long ago an astute government agent discovered that the sugar trust was engaged in a bold system of theft by which it had stolen from the government millions in duties by "fixing" the scales on which the imported sugar was weighed.

There wasn't any doubt about the guilt of the men employed by the sugar trust on the docks. They were picked men, who were paid extra wages secretly. But it was clear enough, too, that it wasn't these extra wages alone that induced these men to steal from the government men. They had stolen millions, and they got only hundreds out of it. The sugar trust got the rest.

Now the sugar trust, or any trust, cannot be guilty of theft. A corporation cannot commit crime; individuals only can do that. This corporation had been the beneficiary of gigantic thefts, and it stood convicted. But the only way to punish anybody, aside from taking back from the trust the millions it had stolen, was to punish the men who did the work and those who directed them to do it.

The men who did the work were convicted, and sentenced to two years in prison. The secretary of the sugar trust corporation, Charles R. Heike, was the only "man higher up" who was proven to be implicated. He was convicted, too. Being more guilty than his instruments, of course you would expect that he would be more severely punished. Certainly you would think he would be punished as much. No. He wasn't. He was let off with a term of eight months and a fine, and the judge practically apologized when he imposed the sentence. Here is what he said:

"I must consider the defendant's age and the evidence that was given at the trial of the clean life he had always lived outside of the charges which were there made against him. If I were to follow the dictates of my own feelings and let my inclination lead me, it would perhaps be in the direction of a suspended sentence, but there is something else besides the question of punishment to consider, and that is the question of example. Therefore, because there is necessity for example to be shown, I feel that I must do what I really dislike to do to a man of this defendant's age and white hair, and that is impose a jail sentence. So I am constrained to impose a term of eight months in the New York penitentiary and a fine of $5,000. But again, taking into consideration the matters I have already mentioned, I shall suspend operation of judgment until such time as the Federal courts have affirmed or acted adversely upon this sentence. I shall not object if counsel for Mr. Heike ask for a reduction of his bail to $15,000, pending final action by the higher Federal courts."

This is a judge indeed to be speaking of "examples"! What kind of an example is it of the temper of the courts and of the accuracy of justice in this land, when the poor devils who did the actual work under orders get two years and no consideration whatever, while the officer of the company who gave the orders gets eight months with an abject apology, and freedom while he appeals to a higher court? If the president of the company or the chairman of the board of directors had been before that court, probably he would have been sentenced to ten minutes in his own garage and a fine of thirty cents, with the judge's compliments and assurance of regard and respect.

IT LOOKS GOOD, INDEED.

"Looks good, doesn't it?" remarks the Hibbing Mesaba Ore after surveying the situation created at the recent county fair at Hibbing, when it was decided to broaden the membership of the county fair association and make the fair fully representative of the county.

It does, indeed, look good. There isn't any reason why St. Louis county shouldn't have the best county fair in Minnesota, and those who participated in the meeting at Hibbing during the fair and came to the conclusion that its base should be broadened and its support made more widespread went about it in exactly the right way to make our fair the biggest and best.

The fair will remain in Hibbing, but the fair association will consist of members from every part of the county and these members will see to it that every part of the county is represented at the next fair. There is material enough for a splendidly representative fair that will do great work in encouraging the agricultural development of the county, and all that needs to be done is to get it together. The St. Louis County club at its next meeting may well give a part of its attention to plans for co-operating in this important enterprise.

THE JUVENILE COURT.

The publication in The Herald Saturday evening of the year's report of the juvenile court calls again to mind the reflection that the Minnesota legislature builded well a few years ago when it created the juvenile court.

Before that there was no way to handle child offenders except through the regular channels of criminal prosecution, which threw into contact with hardened offenders little children who needed only a restraining hand, a kindly impulse and fatherly direction to be set in paths of honesty and self-respect. It is hard to see, now, how society could have suffered this unspeakable thing to continue so long.

During the past year 235 children have been before Judge Ensign, who fits so admirably the office of judge of the juvenile court, and 141 cases have been formally brought before the court. Only twenty-eight children have been sentenced to the state training school, and sentence has been suspended during good behavior in a number of these cases.

"No child is sent to the state training school," said the story in Saturday's Herald, "who has not been given every chance to make good at home." And as the figures show, hardly one in ten of the children brought before the court has to be given into the charge of the state.

The juvenile court is a most admirable institution, and it is being conducted in St. Louis county with tact and judgment.

THE LAKE COUNTY FAIR.

The reports brought by visitors returning to Duluth from the Lake county fair at Two Harbors are uniformly good, and it is quite as important to Duluth to hear good reports from the Lake county fair or the Carlton county fair—which was a splendid success—as it is to hear similar reports from the St. Louis county fair. Duluth is working for the agricultural development of all Northeastern Minnesota, and the prosperity of the northern counties is the prosperity of Duluth.

The comments on the Lake county fair are typified by that of A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert attached to the Duluth Commercial club, who says: "It was an ideal agricultural fair. There were none of the hawkers and fakers who mar the ordinary county fair, and the whole arrangement was in the best interest of agriculture." The agriculture exhibits, he says, would compare favorably with those displayed at the state fair by the Market Gardeners' association of the Twin Cities.

Successful county fairs not only register the achievements already made in agricultural development, but stimulate the community to new endeavors in that direction. Lake county is to be congratulated on the success of its fair, and on its efforts toward turning what was lately a wilderness into a richly productive region.

CAN THE POMPADOUR "COME BACK?"

A representative of the barbers' union, visiting in Duluth, says that he believes the pompadour style of dressing men's heads is due to return very shortly.

Remember the pompadour? The barber combed the top of your head until every particular hair stood on end "like quills upon the fretful porcupine." Then he cut it so that it went straight forward from the peak of the head to an abrupt precipice where the forehead began. It had its advantages—there was no trouble about making a nice "part", and all you had to do was to comb your hair back. But it went out of fashion years ago, and now the barbers say it is coming back.

However, many former wearers of the pompadour, as they ruefully survey thatches in which the years have made fearful ravages, and in which the forehead line has crept stealthily back until it is hard to tell where the forehead ends and the back of the neck begins, will realize that so far as they are concerned, the pompadour can never "come back."

And the next election day in this state will be followed by the Jim Gray Dawn of the morning after.

O. H. Clarke of Duluth wants the state to redeem from neglect the site of old Fort Ridgely, and the idea is good. There will be an increasing value in these old historic spots, and the state should treasure them.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

B. O. FLOWER REPLIES TO HERALD EDITORIAL

To the Editor of The Herald:

My Dear Sir—In a recent issue of your able journal appears an editorial entitled "Health as a Public Asset," which, while indicating both ability and an earnest desire for the public welfare on the part of the author, contains some conclusions from which we must differ for reasons which doubtless did not occur to the writer, yet which, in the light of certain indisputable facts, have a very vital bearing on the question. Furthermore, some of the statements upon which his conclusions are based are, we think, open to serious question; hence, as president of the National League for Medical Freedom, I ask space for a reply.

What the writer says on the value of health as an economic asset, no right-minded person will call in question. No body of men and women are more sincerely interested in promoting the health of the people than the more than 100,000 persons who constitute our league.

The statement sent out by the political doctors to the effect that the Pennsylvania board of health, with an expenditure of $3,000,000, has saved the state $23,000,000, is, we hold, as misleading as it is reckless and absurd. In the first place, there is no possible way of accurately estimating what the saving would be, even if we had authoritative figures accompanying the statement showing the number of lives saved and the money value to the state; and in the second place, there is no means of showing how greatly any improvement in the general health during the last four years has been due to the rapid spread of the newer and safer methods of cure that have gained such popular favor during recent years.

Your editorial writer, accepting the estimates given by the political doctors as authoritative, and supposing that the health boards are responsible for the diminution of disease, concludes that a national department would be beneficial. The National League for Medical Freedom, on the other hand, holds that a federal health department or bureau would be far from beneficial for the following reasons:

(1) The assumption of the health activities by the national government would tend to shift responsibility from the cities and states and greatly weaken efficiency rather than promote it.

(2) If medicine was an exact science, if the cures that are enthusiastically accepted by the old school of one generation were not discarded as worthless and dangerous by succeeding generations, and if there was no great monopoly-seeking class or organization behind this proposed legislation, busily seeking to obtain special privileges and to disseminate pet theories that are in direct opposition to the convictions based on practical experience of other great schools of medical practice and systems of cure, there would be less cause for opposing such proposed measures as the Owen Bill than there would be if conditions were different and medicine approximated a science; but the fact is, the one great school that for twenty years has been persistently trying to secure this legislation is the most empirical, or subject to change in its theories and practice, of all great schools of healing.

(3) The main organization, and, indeed, the only organization that makes the proposed demand for national legislation possible, is the A. M. A., which for the past quarter of a century has been persistently seeking for special or monopoly legislation in the various states.

(4) Senator Owen, in advocating his bill, frankly admitted that for twenty years the A. M. A. had been seeking national legislation. He cited a resolution passed by that body nineteen years before, demanding the creation of a national health department. During recent years the A. M. A. has been reorganized and made a powerful and compact corporation, admirably adapted for the trust or monopoly-seeking purposes of the political doctors. Two years ago, according to the statement of the association's officials, its legislative committee had so organized its work that it had come in touch with over 16,000 political leaders representing all political parties; and thus, while seeking in each state to gain more and more complete monopoly laws, placing the people absolutely in their power, the political doctors of this association are industriously striving to further intrench themselves by gaining a national department or bureau.

(5) The demand for the Owen bill and other health measures that have been introduced has not come from the other great schools of medical practice. Indeed, every great school of practice excepting the old school or A. M. A. has during the past few months strongly condemned the Owen bill. This was officially done at the last meeting of the National Eclectic Medical association, which convened in Boston,; at the annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy, held in Pasadena, Cal., and at the national convention of the osteopaths at San Francisco; while the Owen bill and kindred measures have been strongly opposed by all newer and safer methods of cure whose success is so largely responsible for the systematic attempts on the part of the A. M. A. to secure more and more restrictive or monopolistic legislation.

(6) It may be urged that no school is designated in the proposed national bills, but the fact remains that the only school of medicine recognized by the national government is the allopathic or miscalled regular school. And a homeopathic or an eclectic physician, whose materia medica in each instance is entirely different from that of the old school, is not permitted to be examined when applying for a position in the army or navy or other government activities, by a commission representing his own school, but he is examined in the materia medica of a school in which he does not believe, and he is also compelled to practice the old school system.

(7) One of the chief purposes of the proposed national legislation was recently thus frankly set forth by a prominent medical journal that is a leading advocate of the proposed legislation. The Lancet-Clinic of Cincinnati, Ohio, in its editorial of June 4, said: "Of course, a department of health looks dangerous to Christian Science and osteopaths. What the states have not been able to do the United States must succeed in doing; that is, in putting a stop to these forms of medical graft," or, in other words, in taking away from the people the right to enjoy the practitioner of their choice, and in thousands of cases the practitioner who has cured them after the regular physician has signally failed.

(8) Through freedom the homeopaths and eclectics and other great systems of cure have been able to arise; all have rendered important services to the cause of scientific progress, not only by virtue of the truths which they have enunciated, but by materially modifying the crude, heroic, empirical system of the old school of practice; and this progress has been fought at every step by the great organization that is today seeking a national health department.

(9) If 100 years ago a national health department had been established at the instigation of the A. M. A., and the country had been flooded with literature disseminating what the doctors believed to be the essential remedial agencies for the sick, just as the agricultural department is flooding the country with literature disseminating the theories of those in charge of the various divisions of research, the people would have been taxed for a propaganda advocating the most heroic and dangerous medication, including wholesale mercurial drugging, bleeding, cupping and blistering; as these were the approved orthodox methods in vogue at that time, exactly as the serum theory is the accepted fad of the old school doctors today.

(10) The regular doctor, when once installed in a position of power, becomes not only a medical dogmatist, but an intolerant autocrat. What he conceives to be for the good of the people must be for their good, or the passing fad or mania that has seized upon the imagination of his empirical school must necessarily be the gospel which the intelligent people must accept whether they believe in it or not. A striking illustration of this spirit was recently evinced in a communication which we received from Dr. Wiley, in which he states that: "The public is entitled to protection against infection of all kinds, whether the infected parties are willing or not;" and furthermore, he would enforce what he believed to be beneficial to the people "in a powerful official way." The fact that probably three-fourths of the people and three out of four medical schools might strongly dissent from the employment of a treatment based on an unproved theory which endangers the life and health of the patient by inoculating him with poisons, would have no weight with the medical autocrat, who always assumes that the passing fad accepted for the time being by his school must necessarily be the right thing for the protection of the people.

(11) At the present moment the A. M. A. has entered the systematic political campaign in Illinois, trying to pledge legislators to pass a law that would compel tests of practitioners in conformity with the old school standards, and which are in opposition to the theories of thousands of successful practitioners; measures which, if passed, would take from tens of thousands of the most intelligent citizens of Illinois the right to lawfully employ the practitioners of their choice. If the proposed bills should become a law, thousands of persons who, after having failed to secure relief from the representatives of the A. M. A., have been entirely cured by other systems, would be given the alternative of becoming abettors in law-breaking, or denying themselves the services of the practitioner who had cured them when the trust-seeking doctors had failed. Such legislation, though it would enormously increase the revenues of incompetent members of the trust, would take from the citizens one of the most sacred rights and place in jeopardy the lives of the people; and it is this same A. M. A. that is the backbone of the effort to secure a national health department or bureau. Cordially yours,

B. O. FLOWER.

New York, Sept. 22.

GRAY FOR GOVERNOR.

Better Man Than Lind.

Cass Lake Times: The Democrats have at last found a man who will stand for a nomination as governor and he is a good one, one who will make Eberhart hustle on election day for votes enough to elect. James Gray, an old newspaper man, a man of superior ability and integrity and unless we mistake the mettle of the people of the greater cities he will carry off a large share of the votes. He is not as well known as John Lind, but is a better equipped, better fortified man by the positions that he has held and been mentioned for the place. As mayor of Minneapolis he showed the people his ability to govern and if elected to the high office of governor of the Imperial State of the Northwest, and perchance he be chosen we have no doubts about his willingness and his ability to give us one of the best administrations the state has ever had.

Republicans Take Notice.

Cambridge Independent-Press: Mr. Gray's selection came as a surprise for his name had never been mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination. It is reported that Mr. Gray was Mr. Lind's personal choice and the choice is considered a good one. Mr. Gray was mayor of Minneapolis about eight years ago and he gave that city a clean business administration. He is an able newspaper man and for a number of years has been engaged on the editorial staff of the Minneapolis Journal. The selection of James Gray to head the Democratic ticket has caused the Republicans to take notice and from now on the campaign will be more interesting. Mr. Gray is a good talker and Governor Eberhart will find in him a worthy opponent.

Slump in Eberhart Stock.

Winona Independent: When James Gray gets started after Eberhart the fancied big lead of the latter will dwindle amazingly.

Lends Dignity to Campaign.

Willmar Tribune: Hon. James Gray, the man who was selected to fill the vacancy on the Democratic ticket caused by the refusal of John Lind to run for governor, is a gentleman and a scholar who will lend dignity to the campaign.

Remember That Nov. 9.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press (Rep.): James Gray, an editorial writer on the Minneapolis Journal, has been selected as the heir to John Lind's boots as the Democratic candidate for governor. Jim will make a nice, easy-going, dignified governor if he can be elected—which he can't.

But Not for "Jim" Gray.

Foley Independent (Rep.): James Gray, the new nominee of the Democratic party, is an able, and withal a most likable individual. But then, the stars do not fortell his election. A. O. Eberhart appears to have first call and it's up to Jim to get all the fun possible out of the campaign for after Nov. 8 it will be a case of chills and sick headaches.

Clean-Cut, Square-Toed Man.

Elk River Star-News: Mr. Gray has been connected with the Minneapolis press for many years as an editorial writer, and in his profession is credited with being at the top of the ladder. He is a clean-cut, square-toed man of excellent character, and had he a little more time to get acquainted, he might cut something of a figure in the campaign. As it is, in view of the overwhelming progressive spirit in politics all over the country, it would not be very surprising if he succeeded in giving his Republican opponent a run for his money. It will be remembered that six years ago John A. Johnson was as little known throughout the state as James Gray is today, and there have been cases of history repeating itself in the past that may be duplicated in this instance. Anyway, with a man like Mr. Gray in the field, we may look forward to clean-cut campaign with principles rather than personalities as the issues.

The Children.

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
The army is on the march,
Faces bright,
Collars white
And glistening fair with starch—
Numbering many thousands,
A wonderful sight to see,
After the education
That is free, free, free!

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
And where was this arm's birth?
In every land,
On every strand,
In every part of earth.
But now they are all good Yankees,
Children of Liberty,
Seeking the education
That is free, free, free!

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
And where shall the army go?
Here and there,
Everywhere.
Where the towns and the cities grow,
Into the halls of congress,
To colonies over the sea,
Spreading the education
That is free, free, free!

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!
God speed the army then!
God speed them all
When their duties call.
When they're grown up women and men!
And God speed the patient teachers
Whose wondrous ford it be
To give them the education
That is free, free, free!

Both Doleful.

Life: "Who is that man at the next table with that downcast, sad, resigned expression?" asked the guest at the club.

"I don't recall his name," replied the host, "but he is either a Republican or married to a suffragette; one can hardly tell them apart nowadays."

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Donald Morrison and Miss Maggie McEachren, daughter of Capt. McEachren, were married on the evening of Sept. 23, at the residence of the bride's parents, East Fifth street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Ringland and was witnessed by many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison have already begun housekeeping at 14 East Fifth street.

Among the literary clubs of Duluth, the Saturday club ranks among the foremost. It was organized in the spring of 1889 by a few ladies and now has eighty-one active members. Through the courtesy of Miss Kate Hardy, the club has been accorded the use of one of the large rooms in the Hardy school. Following are the officers: President, Mrs. C. H. Simonds; vice president, Mrs. Herbert Spencer; secretary, Mrs. E. W. Matter; acting corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Elder; treasurer, Mrs. Henry S. Mahon; director, Mrs. C. H. Clague. Mrs. William M. Hubbard, Mrs. C. F. Howe and Mrs. W. A. McGonagle.

For some time past a Duluth syndicate in which the Boyle Bros. are interested has been looking up a site for a popular price hotel. The lots cornering on First street and Fifth avenue west, back of the Lyceum theater, were found to meet all requirements of location, and an offer was made for the property. It is $1,000 less than the owner wants. Should the deal go through, a brick and stone hotel with 100 rooms will be erected.

The purchase of the Milwaukee & Northern railroad by the Milwaukee & St. Paul is an important move for Duluth. It gives the St. Paul road what it has never had before—a Duluth outlet. Last year the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and the Milwaukee & Northern entered into a traffic arrangement, which will remain in force, despite the road's sale.

The People's Investment company, with a capital of $200,000, has just been incorporated. The following are the officers: T. O. Hall, president; Dr. Horace Davis, vice president; George P. Tveit, secretary; Henry C. Nelson, treasurer; J. K. Person, attorney. The officers, with the addition of A. Swordling and William Barnett, from the board of directors.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Chicago Post: "What makes the bird sing so fiercely?" asks the tiger.

"Prof. Parrot escaped from his cage in the city and has come back and established a school of voice culture. The bird is one of his pupils," explains the hippopotamus. Whereupon the hyena laughs immoderately.

Catholic Standard and Times: "My wife is getting to be very tiresome," complained Groucher; "she doesn't seem to know her own mind from one minute to the next."

"My wife," said Kratchett, "is the same way. She's as uncertain as the weather."

"Huh! Mine's as uncertain as the weather forecasts."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Pa," said Ostend, as he leaned out of the window of the smoker, "why do they put those bulldogs in the baggage car?"

"On account of their grips, my son," responded pa, solemnly and then the train rolled on.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "George, what is this 'Rockefeller foundation' made of?"

"Rocks, of course."

Cleveland Leader: "How do you know she's older than you are?"

"Why, she admitted it herself."

"Honestly? What did she say?"

"She said: 'You and I are just the same age, dearie.'"

Brooklyn Life: The Fisherman—I've bought a fly book for each of us.

The Novice—Do you suppose we'll have time to read them?

New York Sun: Knicker—Where was Jones going when arrested for speeding?

Bocker—To deliver a speech on the extravagance of automobiles.

Houston Post: "But why do you talk of getting a divorce; you told me that I make biscuits just like your mother used to make?"

"That's the reason."

Washington Herald: "How do you like the new oatmeal soap?" inquired the barber.

"Seems nourishing," replied the customer, "but I've had my breakfast."

Chicago Tribune: "Paw, what is the great continental divide?"

"It's the final division of the continent, my son, between the Morgans and the Guggenheims!"

Yonkers Statesman: Sentimental one—The beautiful beach was covered with shells this morning.

Practical One—Yes; it's a shame to allow 'em to eat peanuts down there!

Puck: Friend—I suppose there is a great deal of money in contributing to the leading magazines?

Author—Yes, but there's a great deal more in contributing to the misleading ones.

Cleveland Leader: Chief—Tell me, sir, why you have so utterly failed to get a clew to this crime?

Detective—'Taint my fault. The reporters are down on me, an' they won't tell me nothing!

Faith, Confidence and Prosperity.

Wall Street Journal: A distinguished English preacher in Montreal makes the logical claim that, as his religion refuses to recognize divorce, and regards race suicide as a sin against morals, it must necessarily supplant in time those faiths or philosophies which tolerate such evils, because they all tend to self-extinction. He might have gone further and traced the evils he deplores to their true source. Without any pretense at preaching, it may be said that when a large proportion of the citizenship of a country loses its faith in God, all its sanctions are loosened, and the effects are felt not merely in its morals, but in its commerce and its politics.

This sounds old-fashioned, of course, but even our most modern thinkers will not deny that our greatest problems, politically and certainly financially, arise from an overwhelmingly general lack of respect for authority. Readers of the best literature in the language will remember a sincere investigator who once sought an interpretation of the law that he should love God and love his neighbor as himself. He understood the first clause, but asked, "Who is my neighbor?" And in return the world was enriched with the illuminating parable of the Good Samaritan.

Such an investigator nowadays would not ask that question. To do them justice, the well-meaning busybodies who are striving to reform everybody, and are too much occupied to bear children, are typical of a broad national sympathy with misery and misfortune. The desire to better the condition of our neighbor is wide, and so far as it goes it does us credit. We all know who our neighbor is nowadays, even if, as Thackeray said, some of us are anxious to pose as Good Samaritans "without the tuppence."

The question nowadays would not be Who is my neighbor?" but "Who is my God?" It would not, these self-conscious times, take exactly that form. One form of it would be, "What is the constitution among friends?" The assumption of some of our politicians that are exempt from the operation of the law is the same thing in essence. The desire to reverse the decisions of the supreme court of the United States by popular clamor, the dominating opinion of the noisest, means exactly that. Indiscipline is not liberty. No people can govern itself which has not learned how to obey. Whatever our moral teachers may have done (or left undone) our political teachers have industriously taught contempt for authority. They have failed to supply a substitute, because for authority there is no substitute.

Anybody discussing, even from a mere business standpoint, our political and financial follies, can never go to the root of the matter unless he considers the influence of the decay of faith, with the absence of anything to take its place. We are crying for reform of the "trusts" and the politicians; in Wall Street and in the expenditure of public funds. These evils will correct themselves after we have dealt with the more threatening evil which lies behind them all.

Effective reform, like charity, begins at home.

DEFEAT OF TAWNEY.

His Energy and Ability.

Little Falls Transcript (Standpat Rep.): The defeat at the primaries of Hon. James A. Tawney of the First Minnesota congressional district by Sidey Anderson, untried and unknown, will be a matter of regret to many members of the Republican party throughout the state. By his recognized energy and ability in public life as a member of congress he had attained an enviable standing, ranking next to the speaker of the national house in importance.

With Interests Against People.

Rochester Post-Record: In the defeat of Mr. Tawney the district loses one of the ablest men in the lower house of congress, but it could not overlook what it believed to be his affiliation with the interests against the people, and the vote expressed its condemnation. That he should have been a warm friend and supporter of Cannon is not to be wondered at, considering what Cannon has done for him, but that was a major cause of his defeat.

Takes It Philosophically.

Winona Independent: Mr. Tawney takes his defeat philosophically, and that's the only way to take it.

Days of Commission Gone.

Cambridge Independent-Press: The defeat of Congressman Tawney in the First Minnesota congressional district by Sidney Anderson shows the temper of the people of this state. The days of Cannonism and the big interest rule is fast disappearing in this state and in fact throughout the whole United States.

"Take Keer o' Yourself."

Carlton Vidette: Heney, land fraud prosecutor, went into Tawney's district and camped on his trail. Tawney crippled Heney's prosecutions by preventing use of secret service men. Then he pretended to discover that Heney had claimed $13,000 for services he did not render as special counsel for the government. Pinchot also dropped into the district and made some remarks about Tawney and forestry. Well, goodby Jim; take keer o' yourself.

Sees the Handwriting.

Princeton Union (Rep.): James A. Tawney, the ablest and best known of all the Minnesota congressmen, was defeated for renomination in the First district at the primary election. All the other congressmen were renominated. We would not be surprised if two or three of the Democratic congressional nominees were successful at the November election.

Notable Stand-Pat Reverse.

St. Cloud Times (Dem.): The defeat for renomination of Congressman James Tawney of the First congressional district by nearly 2,000 majority is the most notable reverse to the standpatters that has occurred in all the land. Tawney was the only one of Minnesota's eleven in congress who voted for the Payne-Aldrich-Taft tariff menstrosity. He seemed to think that his future success rested in loyalty to the Cannon wing of the party. He looked forward to the speakership and believed he must be friendly with the interests. President Taft on coming to Minnesota last year stopped in Winona purposely to defend Tawney, and in his now (in)famous speech declared that the Payne-Aldrich bill which Tawney voted for was the best ever enacted—an assertion which has returned to plague him ever since. Everything that the administration could do or money accomplish has been invoked to help Tawney, but all to no purpose.

The people of his district whom Tawney deserted have repudiated him, and the Minnesota congressman who was the only one to vote for the tariff bill, may be the only one to remain at home.

PIONEER IS SUMMONED

"Jeff" Daniels, One of City's First Police Chiefs, Passes Away.

One of Prominent Figures in Early Days of Duluth.

Jasper S. Daniels, 72 years of age, a Civil war veteran and one of the best known men in the early history of the city died at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning at his home at Canosia, of heart failure.

"Jeff" Daniels, as he was familiarly called, was chief of police of Duluth for several years in the early '70s, and was one of the most powerful men at the Head of the Lakes. He had many exciting experiences and went through numerous hard tussles as a police officer. Following his retirement from the police force he remained in the city for a time, after which he took up farming on his land back of the city limits.

Thomas Ferrestal, operator at police headquarters, has the police star which was worn by Mr. Daniels while he was in office. He says that it is the first badge which was worn by the chief of police of the city of Duluth. It is much smaller and of thinner metal than the stars now worn, and is inscribed with the single word, "police." Mr. Daniels presented the badge to Officer Forrestal in 1896.

Mr. Daniels served in the Civil war from June 11, 1861, to to June 26, 1865. He was second lieutenant of Company A, Second Wisconsin infantry volunteers, connected with the famous old Iron brigade, when he enlisted. He was discharged as first lieutenant of Company I, First Wisconsin heavy artillery.

Besides his wife he is survived by five children, Mrs. J. H. Austin and Marie E. Daniels of Duluth, Anna J. Daniels of Two Harbors, N. S. Daniels and Ruth Daniels of Canosia, a sister, Mrs. A. J. Lyman of Los Angeles, and one brother, Jerome B. Daniels of Elmo, Ky. He was born in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., in 1838.

The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the undertaking rooms of J. L. Crawford on Second avenue west, under the auspices of Willis A. Gorman post, No. 13, G. A. R. The pallbearers will be members of Camp John G. McEwen, Spanish War veterans. The firing squad and the bugler will be furnished by the Sons of Veterans. Interment will be at "Soldiers' Rest" in Forest Hill cemetery.

ASKS LARGE SUM FOR INJURIES

Paul Lapat Trying to Recover $10,000 From Oliver Mining Company.

Paul Lapat is trying to get $10,000 from the Oliver Iron Mining company for injuries he claims to have sustained while in the employ of the company during the month of Oct. 1909.

Lapat claims that he was employed as "dump man" near Coleraine. It was his duty to dump the cars.

In his complaint he states that he was, at the time of the accident, working on the night shift. The light, he claims, was not sufficient and he was injured when a heavy rock fell upon him.

As a result of the accident he suffered a broken arm and his right leg was badly bruised.

Samuel Anderson, the St. Paul personal injury lawyer, appears for the plaintiff in the action. The case is on in district court before Judge W. A. Cant.

TEACHING TEACHERS MANUAL TRAINING.

Forty teachers in the Bryant and Lincoln schools in the West end have prevailed upon C. R. Carman, instructor in manual training, to give them instructions in the branch of wood work. The course includes drawing, woodwork and metal work and the teachers are enthusiastic, although the experience of being taught instead of teaching is a novel one.

WEIGHS HERSELF WITH ROCKS AND DROWNS.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 26.—Mrs. A. N. Gaskill, a prominent woman at Corwith, Iowa, tied a gunnysack filled with rocks about her waist and stepped into a water tank, where her body was found later.

THE TIMES DO CHANGE

Blue Dimity Frock Replaced By Silk, Satin and Real Linen.

Duluth Stores Show Dazzling Stocks of New Fall Goods.

Time was when one hied one to the store, any store, and said sweetly, ten yards of dimity, please." If one was "a dainty rogue in porcelaine" with limpid blue eyes and golden hair in which the sun danced at will, why, then, one chose a blue figure in the dimity. Then, when it was made, for which one paid a good soul two dollars and a half or so, one put it on, tied a blue sash around one's waist and went off into the gloaming of the garden to meet Reginald or Robert or somebody like that who thought that that blue dimity with the blue sash—well, really, what he thought of it, words could not express—before the thoughts which the blue dimity tied with the blue sash made Robert or Reginald think the whole English language faltered and was inadequate.

And then in the winter time one got a lindsey-woolsey frock and wore it year in and year out, with a few alterations from time to time, of velvet sleeves or a plush basque until not one shred of the lindsey-woolsey frock was left, and then one got another.

Not so today. Indeed, not so.

Chiffon veils satin, satin covers silk, silk is torn aside to reveal real linen with hand-embroidered forget-me-nots, real laces, honest gold—these are but a few of what the modern makers cram into the simple frocks that make the modern Robert just as crazy in the head as did the simple dimity with which this tale started. He, the modern Reginald, thinks the same unspeakable thoughts, but, poor man, if he but knew it will cost him about forty-nine times as much to get that simple effect as it did the old-time hero, that is after he secures the privilege of settling for the dimity or chiffon, whichever it will be.

The world does move, as has been remarked before.

This season, for instance, when gracious ladies who treat the gowns with an easy familiar touch, spread out before your dazzled eyes spangled nets and hand embroidery and real lace and velvets trailing over the floor the same kind of squeezed in feeling assails you that you had in your early youth when you read of fairy princesses and the chest from which velvets and satins teemed forth. You may have a frock this season made of velvet and satin, or satin and chiffon, or satin, chiffon and velvet, or broadcloth and velvet, or broadcloth and satin or broadcloth and satin and velvet. In fact, you may name all the materials you know and find out the permutations and combinations possible with them and you will have then the possibilities which the gowns this year will allow.

Gold embroidery is good style, but it is fearfully crass to wear it right out in the open. You veil it with expensive chiffon. It is lovely, the shades of the blue dimity with its silly little sash!

And then there's the matter of furs. Once upon a time people wore knitted mufflers around their necks. But dear land, is that any fashion how they should now? Well, they won't, anyhow, and it would seem that the end of luxury has been reached in coats of seal that invite the wearer into a nest of cozy comfort and then one needs shut one's eyes in delicious ecstacy. A whole fox has been robbed of life and the pursuit of happiness to make a collar to encircle the neck of the coat and to make a high, snuggly fitting collar to shut out the cruel wind.

Maybe she does, maybe; and it would almost seem that she has in this modern day given up even looking good that way. A few of the hats that are shown this season for dear woman look good in the dark. And when you've said that, you've gone as far as you honestly can. But the luxury of them! And how they cost! Gold lace and real lace and Paisley trimmings. And, by the way, if you have a touch of real Paisley on your gown it adds from $25 to $50 to its cost. Let's all hurry to get some Paisley.

But this can be truthfully said: Never was there such a riot of exquisite colors and such beautiful textures. Never was there so many exquisitely tempting things to make one take the bread and butter out of one's mouth to put a fur coat on one's back. Never has there been such an array of exquisitely beautiful, famishingly desirous, adorably delightful things arrayed for women's temptations. Anthony, whom tradition or history has it, was a sorely tempted gentleman, presumably hasn't what "Bruce" might call a "look in" in the temptation line when compared with the woman who is shown velvets and laces, and satins and cloth of gold, Paradise plumes and such, with $1.98 to her credit in the bank.

The Duluth shops are vieing with each other in the lovely things being shown, and the formal openings will cause many more exclamations of delight and gasps of pleasure, for the stores are crowded to their capacity with luxurious and beautiful apparel.

A PARADISE FOR WOMEN

Wonderful Showing of New Fall Styles at Gidding Opening.

From the dull, dank, dark, dismal out-of-doors into the Paradise of women's dreams was what happened to the shopper who ventured forth today and called at the J. M. Gidding establishment, which was celebrating its annual autumn opening.

The weather man might have done better in providing for a pleasanter day to call forth the populace, but it would seem that the management could not improve upon the things in woman's wearables which are being shown this year for the delight and despair of Duluth women. Throughout the store the only attempt at a special decoration aside from the beautiful things shown was the placing of a few stately palms throughout the departments of the store, and then the gowns, suits and coats and furs were allowed to speak for themselves.

The second floor, the temporary home of unbelievably lovely creations, and suits of all sorts, is the point of particular interest. Soft green rugs and mahogany furnishings and mirrors and light and space are the first impressions, and the rather stoical looking cases do not for a moment suggest the delights that they can disgorge.

Gowns are being made a special feature at the Gidding store this season, and nothing could be loveller than the tumultuous showing of frocks that are gems of the designer's art. There are Paquin and Redfern and Madame Louise and Bishop models. There are other gowns less expensive that are copied from originals and carry that distinction and touch of the originals and without the expense. Then there are cleverly designed dresses for every occasion that have the name of no great maker attached to them, but make very comfortable and very good-looking and very serviceable and very pleasant things in which to clothe oneself, thank you.

Combinations of materials and veiled effects are good, very good. The designers have combined silk and velvet, silk and chiffon, silk and chiffon and velvet, satin and velvet, satin and broadcloth, and almost endless other combinations. The results are softly and delightfully beautiful. Piling one material on another may sound in the telling rather cumbersome. In fact, a whole gown, soft, clinging and lovely, may be folded into a little package that will rest with ease on one hand.

One of the especially lovely gowns is shown on a model in the gown department. It is a Bishop model and is of soft black silk striped with a white line of appreciable width. It is made with the all prevailing narrow skirt which by the cunning of the maker looks more scant than it is. It is drawn into a band of black satin at the foot. A yoke and little undersleeves of white silk printed in a black figure, are arranged and then the touch of all that pronounces the costume in a class of its own, is a bit of velvet of royal purple arranged along the side of the waist to the waist line and a sash end hanging.

Another charming evening frock is a copy of a Madame Louise model and is made with a skirt of satin chiffon, over which is hung a crystal net and over that soft chiffon banded in with satin. Crystal garniture gives character to the waist.

White chiffon over opalescent silk, is chosen for another simple appearing frock and hand embroidery ornaments the waist. Another afternoon frock is of indescribable mulberry color and a part of the waist is fashioned over gold embroidery, making a lovely looking, dull costume.

The suits are smart and varied. In addition to the usual splendid showing of street suits there are some especially designed skating suits of finely chosen cloths and fashioned exactly for the requirements to which they will be put. The coats for motoring for street use are of thick, soft warm stuffs, broad and luxurious over the shoulders and tight around the ankles. They were the snuugest looking things for a rainy day. And the Gidding establishment is showing them in endless arrays of color combinations.

The furs are beautiful. One especially delightful set of furs was of fitch called at times, the Paris fur. It is of the softest brown with streaks of soft kitteny yellow. The maker has revealed the lining of the muff at the ends by emphasizing the gold tones, in to the plain and two-toned lining and it enhances the lovely color in the fur. Coon is popular, pointed fox is lovely and what has previously been referred to deliberately as "sachet kitten" is now plainly called skunk and lovely furs they make.

The hats shown, range from caps so saucy they are positively impudent, to large picturesque affairs that combine velvet and lace and fur and aigrettes. The model that combined these cleverly and prettily was graceful and elegant. This department of the store is showing some of the new theater caps of lace or gold embroidery that may be worn under a large hat and are not removed during the evening and one or two which may be worn without ten extra hat.

The hats are beautiful and in fact every department of the store is ready to supply every need. The negligees of satins, chiffons, rosebud and other lovely materials are extremely satisfying and the department for the girls' things is more nearly complete than ever with tailored coats and suits and school dresses and as a new line, delightful little evening frocks, simple and pretty. The opening will continue tomorrow.

COUNCIL TO ACCEPT BIDS ON PARK BONDS.

The council tonight is expected to accept the bids for the sale of $50,000 worth of park bonds recently authorized by the council in order to enable the board to acquire additional property. They will be taken by local parties, it is expected. It is said that arrangements were completed for the disposal of the bonds before they were authorized and that part of them will be traded for some of the tracts wanted.

Action may also be taken upon the ordinance granting the Canadian Northern a right of way on the bay front, which will enable it to make connections with the Rainy Lake mill at West Duluth.

WOODROW WILSON IN HIS LIBRARY.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 26. — Although Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, did not seek the nomination for governor of New Jersey that was given him in the Democratic state convention, he will make an active campaign for election. Dr. Wilson has already tendered his resignation to the trustees of Princeton, but they have deferred action upon it until the election shall be over. In case Dr. Wilson is defeated they will permit him to withdraw his resignation and resume his duties as head of the university.

CITY HOUSE CLEANING

Public Officials Preparing for Visit of Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane.

Business Men Will Give Dinner in Her Honor at Club.

The bogey-man has been backed off the boards.

Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane is coming, and you'd better look out. That is, if you have anything to do with the municipal government.

It is rumored that the city and county authorities are getting out the mops and the dusters and falling to with an anergy that alarms while it pleases. Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane has an eye that sees—to much, in fact—and she's coming here "for to look."

As a municipal crusader, Mrs. Crane is noted for her inclination to raise objections to those things she may observe that are not as they should be, from her point of view. Mrs. Crane's object is improvement in every line that will benefit the masses.

On second thought, it may be that you'd better look out whether you are connected with municipal administrative affairs or not, for Mrs. Crane probably will pay some heed to the complacent Duluthian who takes no real, vital interest in municipal affairs, preferring to let those elected to paying positions look after things. From what has been printed in the papers of cities where she has been, it is safe to assume that quite a number of Duluthians would do well to supply themselves with affidavits that may be used to salve wounded self respect when Mrs. Crane has finished "viewing with alarm."

Mrs. Crane will have a chance to examine some perfectly good specimens of Duluth citizens of the stubborn made persuasion while she is here, for the Commercial club has arranged to give a dinner for the business men of the city Friday evening at which Mrs. Crane will be the guest of honor. What she will tell them about Duluth and the men of Duluth who do not do their part toward making it the Zenith City in very truth, will be worth hearing. She will get here Friday morning and, past performances considered, will learn a whole lot about the town before the roast is served at the Commercial club.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Crane will address a meeting for women at the public library. It will begin at 4 o'clock. Monday, the public and parochial high school students and the normal school pupils will gather at the high school to hear a talk by Mrs. Crane.

Everybody can get in on the enlightenment game Tuesday evening, when there will be a mass meeting at the First Methodist church.

That will be the wind-up of Mrs. Crane's meetings in Duluth.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SEASON TO OPEN IN EAST

Nearly All Big Teams Will Play Opening Games This Week.

Rules Will Get First Real Test at Hands of Experts.

New York, Sept. 26.—This week will see the new football rules brought out for public inspection for the first time at most of the big collegiate centers of the country.

The University of Pennsylvania led the way Saturday in her game with Ursinus, which resulted in an unexpected defeat for Pennsylvania. Yale, however, Harvard, Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth, Brown, West Point and Annapolis, all will play their opening games this week, and it is safe to say that in each game the chief point of interest to coaches, players and spectators alike, will be the use of the rules committee's latest effort at a safe game.

On Wednesday, Yale will play Wesleyan, and will use the new football cautiously, in accordance with the crafty Yale system of perfecting new plays in practice before exhibiting them.

The program for Wednesday includes a game at Philadelphia between Pennsylvania and Dickinson.

From the spectators' viewpoint, the best game of the week will be at New Haven on Saturday between Yale and Syracuse. The Syracuse game has come to be regarded in New Haven as one of the near big ones of the season. Harvard will open the season Saturday with Bates; Princeton will play Stevens; Cornell will try conclusions with Rennsaeler and Dartmouth, Massachusetts state.

In all the camps, there is still a feeling of uncertainty regarding the manner in which the new rules will work out in actual contests between well-matched teams. The preliminary work of most of the big teams has been devoted to the development of offensive and little scientific work with the defense has been attempted.

That the spectator will be the gainer from the revision, is conceded. Whether the play is through the line, around the end, or far in front on a forward pass or on-side kick, the watcher can follow the ball in a way that was impossible under the old rules.

The defeat of Pennsylvania by Ursinus Saturday is not the only indication that the new rules will spring many surprises. Coaches believe that the offensive side will have a large advantage over the defense, while it is generally conceded that heavy men will be less valuable than before and that a premium will be placed on speedy men, even though they be light of weight.

"Never before have I seen so many small men on the Franklin field," said Mike Murphy, the veteran trainer of Pennsylvania athletes. "They rules give small, speedy men a better chance than they ever had before."

FIGHT FAN REPLIES TO TRAINER MURPHY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Rather late in the game to "Pro and Con," the "Big Fight" of July 4, yet I desire to correct a few of Mike Murphy's mistakes which were made in his article that appeared recently.

Mr. Murphy evinces his scarcity of knowledge on matters pugilistic. He states rope skipping is only for 5-year-olds and that he can't see what good shadow boxing would do any man. Of course, Mr. Murphy can't see through everything. Rope skipping is used for development of wind and agility in foot work as well. All great and near-great pugilists practice both this and shadow boxing. "John Jasper" Johnson (whom Mr. Murphy idolizes) puts in a great percentage of his training hours at these exercises. The writer has seen him shadow box a great deal. Training "Fraternity Saturaded Rummies" for football, and prize fighters for the ring, are two vastly different stunts. He also avers that the muscles of a fighter should be taut and hard and not soft. Again he is wrong. All pugilists aim to keep their muscles quite soft, flexible and quick, for a very hard muscle produces a much slower action.

Jeffries is a very self-willed man. He'll not allow any one to correct him very much when training. It was his desire to chew gum, the writer thinks, more to relieve a symptom of nervousness.

Jim Corbett is a fine second. He has learned to keep his mouth closed regarding topics which he knows nothing about, which would be flattery, were we to say it of Mike Murphy.

He did exactly, as it was agreed he should do while in Jeff's corner. He was there to talk to Johnson and try to "Get his goat." No one was to coach Jeff from his corner. However, before the fight was well under way all six men were talking to him from his corner. Corbett was there to box with Jeff and not to climb mountains. He repeatedly scored him for not boxing more, but the big fellow was obstinate. All that Corbett got out of it was his expenses, $2,000.

Jim Corbett remains today the cleverest man that ever drew on a glove and the first to mix brains with brawn in the heavyweight ranks.

Johnson does not carry a "sleep powder" in both hands, his left jab is only a worry, while his right uppercut is a knockout blow. It is an easy matter to knock out a man with an "upper" as the lifting power of the body is put behind the blow. I have seen men whose left jab was a knockout, or whose swing meant "curtains" for their opponent.

Johnson is a very poor foot worker. He cannot dance on his toes or retreat with one bound. He merely advances the left foot and brings the right foot to a position in the rear of it. His clever blocking aids him greatly and seems to supply the deficit.

The writer was about twenty feet from him when the Spectacular Ketchel floored him. The golden smile was not much in evidence soon and he resorted to the "second raters'" trick of pretending he was knocked out to take advantage of the count of nine, thereby resuscitating himself greatly. This is what took "Stoney" off his guard, for he had stood over Johnson, waiting for him to arise, Johnson would have been a whipped man. As it was, Ketchel did not land with the full length of his glove or he would have been a knock out. Speaking of punches (size considered), Johnson cannot be mentioned in the same breath with Ketchel.

Mr. Murphy cites Johnson's knocking Kid Cotton out as a sample of his ring ability. Kid Cotton is a willing, though "raw" man in the game. His record is not very great. Our crafty "connoisseur" of pugs forgot to mention the time when Jack Johnson tried this same little "grandstand game" on one Gunboat Smith, who was aiding him in preparing for the Ketchel-Johnson bout, when lo and behold! Gunboat slipped one over on Jack and he took the count and later arose (to my mind), the most surprised looking boy I had ever seen.

As for the slur on Joe Choynski, he is the only man who cleanly knocked Johnson out. If Mr. Murphy thinks "Russian Joe" is "hors de combat," let him try conclusions with him. In the meantime if he had the white plague, God knows he deserves our sympathy. Mr. Murphy should remember a real college-bred gentlemen never gets personal.

Possibly our learned friend desires publicity. However, the name "henid" may justly be applied to his case. This word was coined by Jack London. A henid is a man who talks upon a subject of which he knows nothing, yet feels duty bound to continue on account of his having gotten on his feet "to say something."

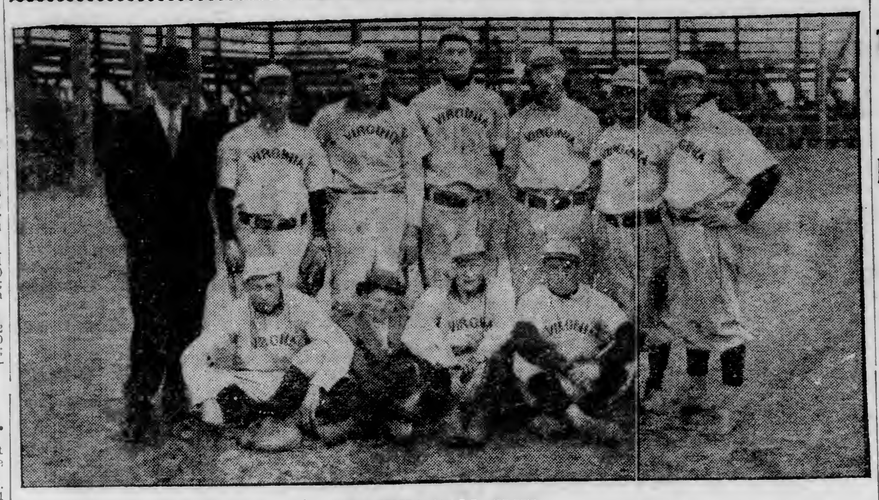

"Mike" would do well to bring his own branch of athletics up to the highest point of efficiency. The Rugby style of football play has been proclaimed as "scientifically brutal," much more so than prize fighting, and the Western colleges are in the lead, having abolished old-style rugby and taken up the association style, long used by the world famous Australian teams.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

THREE VICTORIES IN ONE DAY TIE FOR PENNANT.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 26.—Lansing won three games from Flint yesterday in closing the South Michigan league season and with 87 games won and 52 lost, tied Kalamazoo for the league pennant. Kalamazoo and Lansing will play a post-season series for the pennant.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

From reports far and wide, though it must be admitted that it is as yet a trifle early to form an opinion that is not building on shifting sands, it would seem that A. Mutt is about the only person who can see any logic or light in the new rules.

Several of the young men of the Central high team expressed the emphatic opinion that it was quite impossible to get up a sweat playing under the mollycoddle regulations of what was once one of the grandest games ever played. It is early and the future must be given a clear track for the working out of the rules laid down for the game. Yet already has Dr. Carl Williams, the coach of the University of Pennsylvania, and one of the eminent gentlemen who assisted in the drafting of the rules, come bravely out in the open and declared that the rules will never do, and that some change should be made.

The fact that the U. P. team was beaten by some small and obscure fresh water preparatory school or college, probably had much to do with the statement of Mr. Williams.

Those who saw the high school play Saturday, that is, many of the spectators, longed for the good old game, the game that existed before gents of pale complexions and liver that failed to rest well at night, protested against a game that was rough and proud of it, but the same time was a game built for men.

The convincing test of the new rules is yet to come. So far, they look to be the work of the rules committee of a suffragette gathering. The four-quarter period is one of the most foolish rules ever written into an American game. The season has already proceeded far enough to demonstrate this one point.

If you walked among the good-sized crowd of Saturday, and had your ear to the ground, like Roosevelt, for the "peepul's" verdict, you would have heard a first-class panning of the new game. While there was commendation for the playing of the high school, there was not a single word of praise for the new style of football, which, it would seem, is especially constructed to prevent either team of any contest from gaining very much ground, if the teams be at all equal.

Hark back to the days of two decades ago. In those days men were strong and satisfied with things that were good and manly and on the square. Today, it seems, that if there is a game where any man stands the slightest chance of getting a bloody nose, or his cuffs soiled, there is an agitation to have the game abolished or reformed.

The question remains, as to just how far the thin-blooded busy-bodies will prevail.

Get down one of the histories of once proud Rome, and savvy what happened to these once very estimable citizens. The thin-blooded gang got the upper hand and cut out every game that had any manliness concealed anywhere in it. The race was driven from the clean and hardy athletic sports to dissipation and vice. Well, Mr. Gibbon and other historians have very ably chronicled the result.

This cutting out of the American game of football of every feature calculated to bump a man's head, and making of the game a sort of field basketball, without even the best features of that game, has disgusted not a few of the most faithful followers of the old game.

If the new rules work out as many people think they will, they will either have to be changed, or football will lose the tremendous amount of interest it once held for the college student, business and professional man, and general public. When a game is robbed of its most commendable features, is made a sort of half and half, a milk and water kind of a proposition, you will find the public grieved and disgusted.

The gentlemen who drafted the present rules are yet to hear the worst, it seems.

Jack Johnson, Again.

Those who saw the fight pictures last week are still wondering at the wonderful exhibition of a fighter. They are also wondering if the heavyweight ever lived who could whip the present title holder.

This Jack Johnson, much as many of us hate to admit it, outclassed Jeffries at every angle of the game. He was stronger than the white man, though we had been taught to believe that Jeffries was the most powerful fighter that ever stepped into the ring. He had a harder punch than Jeffries, and again we were deceived, for, for these many years some feeble thought stories have gone out, telling how Jeffries didn't dare to hit any man as hard as he could, lest he kill him.

In the pictures it looked as if Jeff didn't dare hit Johnson lest the negro come back and bite his ear off. All through the fifteen rounds the impression was thrown off by the films, that Jeffries was really afraid of the negro, knew he was beaten and was there to make as tame a fight as possible.

Where has there ever been a fighter who could have beaten the negro? Fitzsimmons is the only one that looms in the picture. With his wonderful ring craft and ability to get one home at some stage of the contest, no matter how the game was going against him, Fitz might have beaten the black.

But many men who have seen all the fights since the days when the name of Sullivan was one to make the knees of prospective opponents tremble, say that Jeffries never saw the day he could beat the man who made him look rather foolish and feeble at Reno. Corbett could not have beaten Johnson, though he would have made the black travel some on those flat feet of his.

Instead of Frank Slavin and Peter Jackson—there are few well versed followers who will say that either of these fighters could have beaten Johnson. Corbett never could have beaten with Jackson when Gentleman Jim was but a kid. Jackson was the man who wanted to quit. He would have been beaten if the fight had continued. Frank Slavin could never have beaten Jim Corbett the best day he ever lived.

All these years the fighting has been progressing, if the methods connected with the game, have not. The highest type of fighter and boxer for the game has been found in the person of an uneducated and uncouth negro. This fact has led psychologists to wonder deeply. This Johnson is a natural fighter. He fights by instinct, just as the gorilla in the dark and dense forests of his lair, crushed easily and with artistic finish the other animals of his set.

Jim Corbett was the greatest boxer the world has ever produced. The beautiful grace and smooth motion of his work has never been approached in a boxer large or small. But Corbett was not the rugged man that some of the other champions of heavyweight fame have been. At that, his habits of life sapped the strength from him before he met the greatest man he ever fought, Robert J. Fitzsimmons.

BIG DULUTHS LOSE CHAMPIONSHIP TO TURNBULLS

The Big Duluths of this city were defeated yesterday by the Turnbull-Cameron-Degler team of Superior, the score being 7 to 1. By their victory of yesterday the Superior team claims the championship of Duluth and Superior. The Adams team of this city disputes the claim, setting up the claim that they have defeated the Big Duluths, and further, that the Superior team never asked for a game with the Adams during the baseball season.

Yesterday's game was played in a drizzling rain, and the Superior boys outclassed the locals throughout. The Duluth players could gather but three hits off the twirling of Hendrickson, while nine blows were gathered off the shoots of Kegler. The lineup:

Y. M. C. A. MAY REVIVE AMATEUR WRESTLING GAME.

Amateur wrestling promises to be revived in Duluth the present winter. Several classes will be formed at the Y. M. C. A. this season, and under the charge of some competent instructor, the members of the association will be instructed in the art of the game made so popular in this country by Frank A. Gotch.

The year before last, a wrestling tournament was held in the association gymnasium that attracted general interest over the city. At that time the Y. M. C. A. boasted some of the best amateur wrestlers in the Northwest.

It has been suggested that a dual indoor athletic meet be held with the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. and that the wrestlers of the two associations, in the various classes, compete for the Northwestern association championship.

The St. Paul Y. M. C. A. has some of the best amateur wrestlers in the state.

HIGHS WIN FIRST GAME

Two Harbors Defeated in Opening Contest By Central Boys.

Play Gives No Opportunity to Pass Judgment on New Rules.

Central won the first game of the season Saturday, defeating the somewhat husky, but untrained team of Two Harbors by the score of 12 to 0. The first score came in the second quarter, a touchdown by Glass; the next score was a safety in the third quarter, the second touchdown coming in the last quarter of the contest.

Both teams were too unfamiliar with the rules to judge convincingly of how the new restrictions of the game will work out, for "restrictions seems to be the proper word. The high school boys were better coached, had better team work and showed form that enabled them to win from a team that was composed of eleven individual players.

The work of Jeronimus, Mars, Johnson and Nolte stood out with prominence. "Dutch" was in every play. That schock of unprotected head and those unpadded shoulders, were mixed in every scrimmage of the afternoon, and he spilled the bunch most every time they tried his side of the line. Both Mars and Jeronimus missed tackles, but for the first game of the season, the two ends put up a corking contest.

Johnson spilled most every play that was directed at him. In fact, the two Central tackles, Johnson and Nolte, played a great defensive game, breaking through and getting the runner behind the line upon a number of occasions. On the offense, too, both of these boys opened up gaping holes, through which the Central backs traveled for many yards.

For so early in the season, and considering the fact that the rules this season are a conglomeration, about which even the men that made them know little, the showing of the high school was better than some of the supporters of the team had hoped for. Colton has a willing and game bunch of youngsters, and the showing Saturday was better than the showing made by Central at this time a year ago.

During the first quarter Two Harbors carried the ball down to the Central's 5-yard line by straight line rushing, varied occasionally by an end run. When the visitors were almost upon the point of scoring, it was discovered that the yard line was only five yards in length, and that the visitors had only been compelled to gain five yards instead of the customary ten.

After this rather glaring mistake upon the part of the innocent little line men had been discovered and rectified, the visitors found it much more difficult to make their distance.

Central's first score came as the result of good work by the backs and first-class aid by the linemen in opening holes. Le Duc made one of the prettiest runs of the afternoon, twenty yards straight through the center. With the ball on the visitors' five-yard line, Glass plowed straight through an opening on the left side of the line for the first score of the game.

The second score, a safety, came when the Two Harbors center carelessly tossed the ball over the fullback's head on a signal for a punt. The ball was recovered behind the line by a Central player.

The second touchdown came when the visitors were somewhat worn by the enthusiastic play of the home talented boys. Several clever forward passes figured in the march to the goal, while the backs were able to gain consistently through the visitors' line.

Near the close of the game several substitutes went in and played well.

ADAMS WIN FROM BRYANTS

1909 Champions Win Close Football Game By 5 to 0 Score.

Yesterday afternoon at Athletic park the Adams football team defeated the Bryants by the score of 5 to 0. The game was close throughout and the winners had little on their gritty opponents, who played a hard and determined game every minute of play.

In the early part of the contest the Bryants threatened to cross the lilly white goal line of the 1909 city champions. But near the Adams goal the defense of the athletic association boys stiffened, and the ball was stopped in its march toward the Adams goal.

The feature of the game was the long run of Capt. Andy Grenner, who broke through and carried the oval to within six yards of the Bryant goal. Kritz was shoved over for the only score of the game.

Olson, Grenner, Sutherland and Helmer Grenner all played good ball for the victors. The Adams have practically the same team that won the city cahmpionship last season, and the team promises to be even better the present season. A good crowd witnessed the game, despite the unfavorable weather.

The Adams are looking for a game for next Sunday, and are willing to meet any of the Duluth teams.

"KID McCOY" HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

New York, Sept. 26.—Norman Selby better known as "Kid McCoy," the pugilist, narrowly escaped death today from an explosion and fire on a launch on which he had spent the night with a friend on the Hudson river.

Selby and Frank George of Manhattan were preparing a chafing dish feast over an alcohol lamp when the lamp exploded. The woodwork of the craft caught fire and the gasoline tank was threatened. Both men dived over the side. Selby holding onto the edge of the craft while George swam ashore and returned to Selby's rescue with a rowboat.

The men had hardly left the launch when the gasoline tank blew up and the boat was totally destroyed.

BEMIDJI WINS FROM FOSSTON HIGH SCHOOL.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji high school defeated the Fosston high school team Saturday by the score of 17 to 0. Bemidji scored two touchdowns in the first quarter. The third touchdown came in the third quarter, while a safety in the last quarter completed the Bemidji score.

Bemidji outplayed the Fosston team at every stage of the new game, Bailey, Ripple, Lycan and McDonald playing a great game for Bemidji. Kronschnabel, the big fullback for the Fosston team, made most of the gains made by the vanquished team.

FATE AVENGES THE MURDER OF WOMAN.

Oskaloosa, Iowa, Sept. 26.—Swift and unusual retribution overtook William Boston Sunday after he had shot and probably fatally wounded Susan Lesson, 29 years old, at Cricket, Iowa. Pursued by friends of the woman, who had jilted Boston, the man fled through a woods and attempted to board a moving train. Out of breath and made unsteady by fear, apparently, Boston fell under the wheels of the train and was ground to death.

ANOTHER BARREL GOES THROUGH WHIRLPOOL.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Bobby Leach of Niagara Falls, Ont., made a trip through the whirlpool rapids in a barrel, starting from the old Maid of the Mist landing near the cantilever bridge. Except for a few scratches and bruises, he was unhurt.

Leach went through the rapids in three minutes, riding the tremendous waves smoothly. The great waves hurled him clear off the water, but the barrel righted itself nicely and went on to the whirlpool without mishap.

The only one of the barrel navigators to be killed in the trip through the whirlpool was Maud Willard, who was suffocated in her barrel, Sept. 7, 1901. She was in the whirlpool five hours.

Gold From Alaska.

Seattle, Sept. 26.—The steamer Jefferson from Skagway, has arrived with two tons of gold bullion, valued at nearly $1,000,000. The gold was from the Tanena placers, was shipped from Fairbanks by express, and registered mail, and belonged to various owners.

PRODUCTION WILL BE SMALLER

Fewer Automobiles Will Be Manufactured in 1911 Than in 1910.

New York, Sept. 26.—The Wall Street Journal says: There is every indication that the production of automobiles for 1911 will be smaller than that of 1910.

There are several reasons for this, the chief one being that bankers here and in the West have been attacking the automobile as a menace to the country at large and, what is more vital, have adopted a highly conservative attitude in making loans to the depositor contemplating the purchase of a car. There is no doubt o fthis, and it is known that several manufacturers have had difficulty in discounting notes as received as part payment for cars.

Another reason is that certain makers over-produced for the 1910 season and have been forced to make extraordinary concessions to get rid of their surplus output now that the 1911 cars are on the market. One of the most popular of the less expensive machines is being sold at from $200 to $300 below the list price as a "used" car after being run around the block, but to all intents and purposes as new as the day it left the factory.

A number of makers say their bona fide orders for 1911 are larger than ever before. They don't mention, however, that they are from agents and dealers who deposit 10 per cent of their amount at the time of making contracts and are supposed to pay the balance as deliveries are made, the machines arriving with sigh drafts attached.

Thus the dealer is apparently responsible for a fixed minimum number of cars, as he cannot cut his original order even if he finds his sales below his estimates, but he can refuse to receive shipments and by forfeiting his deposit money force the machines back upon the maker.

Estimates of production during 1910 vary from 175,000 to 200,000 cars, a fair average being perhaps in the vicinity of 185,000, with a value of about $242,000,000. It is likely that 1911 will show a curtailment of at least 8,000 cars. In tabulated form estimates of the number of autos made in several recent years compares as follows:

	Cars Built.	Value.
1911	177,000	$232,000,000
1910	185,000	242,000,000
1909	82,000	98,400,000
1908	55,400	83,100,000
1904	20,100	40,200,000
1899	600	1,290,000
1895	70	157,500

Of these totals the majority are pleasure cars, but the number used for commercial purposes is constantly growing and it is here that the future of the automobile industry seems to lie. The farmers are declared to be buying more automobiles and are expected to absorb about 60 per cent of the 1911 output.

Although most makers refuse to admit the possibility of over production one conservative manufacturer aptly says that "the problem of the automobile manufacturer in the next few years will not be to turn out cars, but to sell them."

GREAT AMOUNT OF MONEY INVESTED

Automobile Industries Also Give Employment to Thousands of Men.

The Boston News Bureau says: "It is estimated that there is today invested in automobile plants about $400,000,000, and that at least 200,000 persons are employed in the manufacture of automobiles or their accessories. The automobile makers are paying to the railroads of the country between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 annually for freight, and consume over $60,000,000 of rubber, steel, iron and aluminum.

"There are in daily use in the United States at present approximately 350,000 automobiles. The 1909 production may be placed at 180,000 cars, with an approximate value of $240,000,000.

"Large as these figures are, they are exceeded by the annual expenditure for horse-drawn vehicles. Reliable authorities estimate that there are over 7,000,000 of these vehicles used daily in the United States, while the total number of horses and colts in the country exceeds 21,000,000 besides 3,000,000 mules. American manufacturers produce yearly about 1,750,000 vehicles, of which 940,000 are passenger conveyances, with an estimated value of $110,000,000. In addition there is a yearly expenditure of $125,000,000 for horses and $52,000,000 for harnesses, so that it seems fair to assume that the United States expends yearly for its horse vehicles a total of $29,000,000.

"Automobile makers claim that already the automobile has displaced 500,000 horses and wagons, the average upkeep of which is 65 cents a day, compared with the average upkeep for an automobile of 30 cents a day.

"In order to give a comprehensive idea of the scope of the automobile industry the following figures compiled by some of the leading manufacturers of the country are given. The details follow:

Investment in manufacture of automobiles	$225,000,000
Investment in producing accessories	175,000,000
Total plant investment	400,000,000
Number of persons employed in manufacture	200,000
Number of selling agents	5,500
Selling agents and garage employes	33,000
Annual consumption of copper in various forms, lbs.	18,000,000
Freight paid to railroads	$25,000,000 to $30,000,000
Leather consumption	$8,000,000 to 10,000,000
Rubber used (based on high prices)	25,000,000
Steel and iron	36,000,000
Aluminum	9,000,000

"The reiterated statement that people have been mortgaging their homes to buy automobiles has led several of the manufacturers to make a canvass of the situation. Benjamin Briscoe, president of the United States Motor company, recently sent circular letters to 24,000 bank officials throughout the country containing a series of questions, one of which was information as to the number of persons who were known to have mortgaged their property to purchase automobiles. Thousands of replies have been received, the great majority of which state that few mortgages have been so placed."

WILL MOVE INTO FINE NEW GARAGE

Mutual Automobile Company Will Have Finest Quarters in the City.

By the first of the new month the Mutual Automobile company will be installed in the largest and most up-to-date garage in the city. The new garage is now rapidly nearing completion. It is located next to the Elks' temple on West First street.

There will be storage room for many machines and the repair shop will be complete in every detail. There will be waiting parlors for women, smoking rooms for men, lounging rooms for chauffeurs who are awaiting orders from their employers, and in fact every other modern convenience that is now contained in the most modern of the Eastern garages.

This firm has made the greatest success of the automobile business. In a small way the firm was organized when automobiles first made their appearance. First they were located in cramped quarters on East First street. Later they moved to their present location in the rear of the Board of Trade building and now they will move into the newest and largest garage ever erected in the city.

E. J. Fillatrault is manager of the company and it is largely due to his business and hustling ability that the firm now occupies its prominent place among Duluth automobile dealers.

The firm handles the Thomas Flyer, Chalmers-Detroit and Hudson. A better line would be hard to obtain.

SAYS STATEMENT IS RIDICULOUS

New York Magazine Article Is Contradicted By Trade News Journal.

(From the Commercial West of Minneapolis.)

An absurd statement appears in the September number of a high-class magazine published in New York, to the effect that one automobile dealer in Minneapolis holds 1,500 mortgages for cars sold in that city. As there have been but 2,000 automobile licenses issued in Minneapolis in 1910, the absurdity of the statement is at once apparent. Furthermore, as no dealer in the city could carry such a debt, and as the banks would not discount such paper, such a condition is absolutely out of the question. It may be that an occasional automobile is sold on other than cash terms, but it would be contrary to the trade custom, for two reasons. Dealers find it necessary to pay cash for their cars, and few dealers begin business with anything more than a moderate capital, all of which is demanded in their business. We have never heard of an automobile dealer who could not employ his capital to better advantage, by extending his business in legitimate channels, than by selling machines on credit. And, again, the demand for automobiles has been so great during the last two or three years, that credit sales have been unnecessary.

Much has been written of late on the economic side of the automobile with reference to its influence on other lines of business and on the financial life of the country. It is reasonable to expect complaints from dealers in other commodities whose business has been curtailed, but that is no argument against the automobile. For example, piano dealers are among those who lament the big sales of automobiles. Presumably, if a family buys a piano, it is for the pleasure of some members of the family, or partly so and partly a sort of fad, among people of moderate circumstances, deemed necessary in order to appear up-to-date in the eyes of their neighbors. But if instead of a piano, such people now buy an automobile, why should their choice be questioned? Nine-tenths of the sweet young things who take music lessons year after year, waste their time as well as a considerable amount of money that might better be expended for gasoline. An ability to play indifferently—as most young people do—upon the piano is not necessarily an indication of culture, nor in these days even of having had advantages out of the ordinary. Pianos and oil paintings still, and always will, have their place; but as a live feature of the present-day American life, the automobile has lost them in a cloud of dust. This is neither deplorable nor necessarily an indication of extravagance. There is no reason why the head of any family who can afford a piano cannot afford an automobile instead, nor why he should not take the latter if it will give his family more pleasure.

The economic side of the automobile is of no interest to persons who own a car or wh have finally decided upon purchasing one. The car itself and its cost and maintenance are the items of particular importance. It is frequently said that prices of automobiles will, within a few years, have an enormous decline, so that a good five-passenger car can be bought for approximately $500. This is impossible; in fact, the level of prices is now, most likely, established. But there is a decided trend, from season to season, toward giving better value for the money. Moderate-priced cars can now be had that are better than cars of five years ago at double the cost. Today fully equipped five-passenger cars costing $1,000 to $1,500 can be had that are reliable in every particular, economical to maintain and which will, with common sense usage, last for ten years. They are cars of moderate power and weight, and only within the last three years have manufacturers in the United States turned their attention to machines of such design. The first cars to be perefcted were heavy and of greater power.

The development of the automobile to its present state of perfection is one of the mechanical marvels of the ago. The only real trouble any experienced automobile owner now has is tire trouble. Motor troubles, to the experienced man, are almost a thing of the past and the joke of the auto-owner lying on his back under his car is very, very stale and in fact never really had any foundation. The gasoline motor is a mechanical proposition that has been brought under as perfect control as a steam engine, and the only changes being made are in the way of refinements of parts and not diversions from the accepted principle. Considering that the demand for automobiles was, up to the beginning of the present season, in excess of the supply, it is nothing less than marvelous that such perfect machines have been evolved. Automobiles have now arrived at a point of construction that may be called stand, and little change from present designs is likely. New features may from time to time be announced by some manufacturers, but they may not be improvements, or probably they were already employed by some other manufacturer.

With Duluth Dealers.

"Can you beat it?" asks George Maxson, manager of the Northwestern Cadillac company the other day as he pointed to a shining new 1911 model in his show rooms on East Superior street. "She is a dandy and no mistake. No wonder everybody is tumbling over themselves to sell their old cars and get a medium priced car that has power to burn, more speed than can be used, a comfortable tonneau, unbreakable parts and is thoroughly reliable. The Cadillac not only takes you where you want to go, but it brings you home safely. It is no wonder that while others are cutting prices, we have all we can do to supply the demand."

One of the oldest vehicle concerns in the city has entered the automobile field. L. Hammel & Co., now handles motor cars of all kinds. They make a feature of commercial wagons and trucks. Already they have sold a great many wagons and trucks that are being used daily by Duluth firms. The line carried by the Hammel company is said to be especially adapted to the hills. S. H. Marshall is manager of the automobile department.

The Duluth Automobile company, William Buchanan, manager, has about as nifty a line of power vehicles as any firm in the city. The concern handles the Ree, a strong durable car at a medium price, the Interstate, a large roomy powerful car at a price a little higher, and the Baker electric, a standard make of this type. The company has during the season enjoyed a good volume of business.

Of Stoddard-Dayton, Franklin, and the White are the cars carried by the Russell Motor company. The number of Franklin cars seen on the streets of Duluth doing daily service is a tribute to the progressiveness of the management of the firm and to its careful judgment in the selection of reliable cars. The Stoddard-Dayton and the White are too well known to need lengthy description.

Think of running a motor which will go anywhere any other car will go on 30 cents a day. That is what is claimed for the Maxwell runabout. The agency for this car is held by the West End Auto company, 1722 West Superior street.

Since the reorganization of the interstate Auto company, the firm has enjoyed a big business. The firm is located in the fine new garage on Lake avenue and First street. They have a fine selling line. The Palmer-Singer, Kissell Kar and Regal are all well and favorably known to motorists.

CALL TRIAL OF HASKELL

sold by the government in 1902 on behalf of the Creek Indians.

It is alleged that Governor Haskell and others, by falsely scheduling, procured the lots illegally.

System of Fraud.

Persons in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, Texas and other states were registered without their knowledge and consent, it is alleged, as being entitled to buy the lots at one-half the appraised value, and when the deeds were made out Haskell and his associates bought them for nominal amounts. In this way, it is charged, the governor and the five other men were able to procure 600 lots, whereas the government rules for the sale provided that not more than two lots should be sold to any one person.

Judge Marshall denied a motion by Haskell's attorneys who argued that the governor's executive duties required a postponement until after the expiration of his term in January. The court ordered the trial to proceed and the selection of a jury was begun.

CARS WRECKED ON VANDERBILT TRACK

Speeders Come Into Contact and Two Men Are Injured.

Mineola, L. I., Sept. 26.—During practice over the Vanderbilt cup course today the Laucia car driven by Billy Knipper was wrecked in a collision with the Marquette racer driven by Robert Burman. Knipper and his mechanician, Guishard, were seriously bruised.

The Laucia was making more than seventy miles an hour when the accident happened. The wheels of the two cars came in contact, the Laucia leaving the course and pitching the two men into an adjoining meadow. A hasty examination of both men showed that neither had been fatally injured.

If your "big think" just now is about clothes, you'll find "thought food" in plenty in the ads.

LOOTED ON BIG SCALE

Kelly Employes Claimed to Have Been Systematically Stealing.

One of Them, Caught Red-Handed, Implicates Others in Confession.

Extensive looting of the F. S. Kelly Furniture company, 226 West Superior street, has been uncovered since the arrest of Sylvester F. Bernic, janitor of the building, Saturday night, on a charge of grand larceny.

Bernic was accidentally discovered by Mr. Kelly loading a big bundle of stolen goods into a buggy which had been brought around to the Michigan street entrance.

Breaking down at the police station he made what he declares is a complete confession, implicating several other present and past employes of the firm. Acting upon information given by Bernic the police yesterday arrested William and John Kubicki. Both admitted robbing the company, it is claimed. They were employed in the packing room.

This morning two other employes were arrested. They are Joe Weisenberger, chief shipping clerk, and Peter Wamsley, a packer. Mr. Weisenberger was later released as there was no evidence against him.

John Kubicki stated that it was no uncommon thing for him to assist the janitor in making away with his plunder. He stated that on several different occasions he followed Bernic's instructions to roll up large and expensive rugs. After he had them properly tied up he explained that Bernic would tell one of the drivers to deliver it at his home, 117 West First street. It is said that he obtained a large rocking chair for his residence in this manner. The drivers are not alleged to be implicated, as they had no means of knowing whether or not the goods were stolen.

Bernic has been in the employ of the firm for the last six years, but he claims that the thefts have been committed within the last few months. Previous to last year he denies all knowledge of any goods being stolen from the company.

Bernic would not have been caught had he been at his post Saturday night when the store remains open until 10:30 o'clock. Mr. Kelly tried to summon him to his office by signalling him over the electric bell connections. Receiving no response he went into the basement to ascertain his whereabouts, whereupon he caught Bernic red-handed, putting a large supply of dishes, three rugs, and a quantity of bedding into the buggy.

He has told of three different places where he sold a large part of the goods he has stolen, and it is expected that a considerable part of them will be recovered by the police. It is impossible to put an accurate estimate upon the value of the goods that have been stolen, but the loss will be heavy.

ATTACK IS MADE ON THE ATTORNEYS

Action Endorsing Three Candidates Is Warmly Condemned.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a communication under the caption, "An appeal to the lawyers of the state of North Dakota," a bitter attack is made upon the action taken recently at a meeting of attorneys held in Fargo at which the candidacies of three of the men running for the supreme court were indorsed. This "appeal," which has been sent to attorneys over the state, is of unknown origin, and care was used by the authors in mailing it from a train in such a manner that the possibility of tracing the place that it came from would be made more remote.

The attack is not made on the candidates who were indorsed, but is directed against the attorneys interested in it and the 'system,' so-termed, that makes possible the carrying on of a campaign in this manner.

Charges are made in this circular that the movement is one in favor of the railroads, and that it is the corporation attorneys, particularly, who are interested in the problem.

CONDUCTS FIRST SERVICE.

Rev. R. P. Roen of Duluth to Become Pastor at Cloquet.

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. R. P. Roen of Duluth, who recently accepted a call as pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church in this city, conducted his first service in the church last evening. He was assisted by the former pastor, Rev. M. L. Hostager of Brainerd.

Miss Helen Ford of this city has entered St. Luke's hospital in Duluth, to become a trained nurse.

Mrs. William Andrews and Miss Lillian Kelly were hostesses to the Five Hundred club Friday evening at the home of the latter.

A son was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cartwright.

Mrs. Frank Rabideaux has returned from a visit in St. Paul and Eau Claire, Wis.

R. Morell has been taking a hunting trip through the Deerwood, Brainerd and Crookston country.

WOMAN MAY LOSE LIFE.

Mrs. Burt Greer Burned While Attempting to Save Stock.

Linton, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An attempt to save the lives of three horses and a cow may result fatally for Mrs. Burt Greer, wife of a farmer residing northwest of Linton. Her children had been playing in the barn and in some manner had gained possession of matches. Mrs. Greer discovered the fire only after the barn had become enveloped in flames, and she then entered it, trying to save the stock from cremation, but her clothes became ignited, and it was only after a hard fight that she was able to get clear of the burning building. She is so seriously burned that there is little hope for recovery.

New Impetus Given Immigration to Points Near Bowman, N. D.

Bowman, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new impetus seems to have been given immigration into this section of the state, for in the last two weeks fifty cars of immigrants' goods have arrived in Bowman. The majority of the immigrants are homesteaders who filed on land southwest of this place last spring, and who are now coming here to prove up and establish permanent homes. There has been an exceptionally heavy increase in lumber sales, denoting unusual building activity upon the part of the new residents. The homes built are of a substantial nature.

TWO CONVICTED IN SUGAR FRAUD CASE.

New York, Sept. 26.—One former customs official acquitted and two convicted on one count each in the indictment against them was the result of the customs fraud underweighing trial concluded in the United States circuit court here Saturday.

George E. Bedell, who was chief clerk under Former Deputy Surveyor Vail, was acquitted on the charge of having conspired to defraud the government through systematic underweighing of imports. His co-defendants, Charles H. Wardell and Charles D. Drew, former assistant weighers in the customs service, were each found guilty of an overt act in connection with the conspiracy.

Market Stronger When Railroads Swing Upward---Bond Marts Better.

The general market broke away from Amalgamated which was weak and depressed and toward noon the entire list swung into an upward movement which later was followed by Amalgamated. On the dip offerings were well absorbed and when the market began to advance shorts covered.

The London market was lower but the revival of the bond market the favorable action of the leading railroad stocks caused a better feeling and the professionals were not disposed to sell on the bulges but preferred to pick up offerings on the breaks.

The local market was dull. Tuolumne was the feature. While buying in this issue was only moderate, yet offerings were difficult to find and the stock held its advance well. Tuolumne sold at $3.25, $3.31½, $3.37½, $3.43¾ and $3.50 asked. Butte-Ballaklava sold here at $6, Denn at $2.56¼ and $2.50, Red Warrior at $2.06¼ to $2.12½, Calumet & Montana at 92c and 90c, Calumet & Corbin at 40c, Summit at 74c and 75c.

Butte-Ballaklava sold in the East at $6 to $6.62½, Butte Coalition at $18.50, Calumet & Arizona at $56.75, $58 and off at $57.50, Denn at $6.62½, Greene at $6.50, $6.75 and $6.50, North Butte at $26 to $26.50 to $26.25, Ojibway at $5.50 to $5.25, Superior & Pittsburg at $11 to $11.12½, Shattuck at $24.75.

The Financial News of Boston, according to a wire to Paine, Webber & Co., said today: "Butte—While restrained from taking out ore from its rich ore bodies on the 800 and 900-foot levels of the Edith May vein, the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company is employing a large force of men in the opening up of its ore deposits on Vein No. 4, south of the Edith May, concerning which there is no contention. On the 800-foot level of this vein a fine body of ore has been opened up, averaging nearly 9 per cent copper with much assistance with good silver values. In this portion of the property, Manager Newton says, the company will open up an enormous ore deposit which will make the mine one of the richest on the hill aside from the Edith May, which is now in dispute."

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial will say:

"Copper is quiet and prices continue to show a slight sagging tendency. Lake is 12⅝ to 12⅞ cents and electrolytic is 12½ to 12¾ cents a pound. Some electrolytic has been sold recently at 12½ cents, and some lake at 12⅝ cents. Except to take care of pressing requirements, consumers have not been in the market for three weeks past. A few of the small producers and practically all consumers are predicting lower prices; but the very heavy and general restriction of production by substantially all the larger producers, made plain by their August figures of mine output, cannot fail to be reflected in the copper producers' association statements for November, December and January in heavy reductions in the world's surplus.

"It is almost unanimous opinion that domestic consumption must soon begin to show a considerable falling off. As a matter of fact, however, any one predicting a year ago that the average domestic consumption the first eight months of this year would be 65,000,000 pounds, as it has been, would have been laughed at. Just as it has exceeded past expectations, so is consumption likely to far overrun present predictions. As long as metal prices continue under 13 cents, the world's consumption will go on expanding. Considerably more copper is now going into manufactures than is coming from the ground, and the surplus cannot fail to decrease steadily for several months to come.

"I understand that producers will not encourage an advance to more than 13 cents for electrolytic and 13¼ cents for lake until the statistics show the market to be in an entirely healthy position. This change may come about suddenly, however, for should the copper producers' figures, which will appear about two weeks hence, show a heavy decrease in refinery output, consumers are in a position to buy up at one stroke practically all of the world's existing surplus.

"Of course the entrance upon the producing stage of such mines as Miami, Ray Consolidated and Chino will be an important factor in increasing the world's output. Consumption, however, is increasing at the rate of 10 per cent annually. This will call for about 180,000,000 pounds in 1911. The prospect, therefore, is that next year will witness no further increase in the world's surplus. Should business confidence return meanwhile in the United States, this country alone may increase its consumption 100,000,000 to 150,000,000 pounds over this year's phenomenal record. There is good reason to hope, therefore, that the metal situation has permanently turned for the better, and that the coming two or three years will witness decreasing supplies and advancing metal prices, notwithstanding the prospective further increase in production."

From the market letter of Thompson, Towle & Co.: Wall street is Democratic this year and the Maine Democratic success was generally pleasing in the financial district. One of the most Republican politicians in the country tells us:

"Democratic successes this year are a foregone conclusion. The most notable figure in the Democratic party is Judge Harmon of Ohio and it would indeed be a great surprise if he failed to carry Ohio this year. If he does carry Ohio, as expected, he will be the Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1912, and he will have the support of the financial interests of New York, headed by the house of Morgan, which has a very high regard for Mr. Harmon, who was receiver of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad. A Democratic house this year will effectively shut off any legislation, but the effect should prove very beneficial for a Republican national victory in 1912."

KICKS ARE NOT VERY STRENUOUS

Property Owners Accept Raise in Their Assessments Quietly.

No very strenuous kicks were registered this afternoon before the board of equalization by the property owners in the central business district.

About a week ago notices were sent out by the board of a raise in the assessment of practically all the property between Seventh avenue west and Sixth avenue east and Second street and the lake. The owners were notified that they would have a right to be heard before the board today.

A number of them appeared before the board this afternoon, there being from thirty to fifty all told. Some of them had kicks to make, and others merely sought additional information.

MIDNIGHT MARAUDER LEAVES MEMENTO

Grant E. Owens, milk inspector, went on a hunt last night for a thief who had been plundering his chicken coop the last few nights. Although he was armed with his trusty shotgun, the hunt was to be a "still" hunt. Before he finished it proved to be the loudest hunt of its kind that he had ever experienced.

Lying perfectly quiet until midnight, afraid to move a muscle, he lay in wait, every sense on the alert. Shortly after the dim strokes of midnight were sounded on the high school clock, he heard a faint scraping noise in the direction of the hen house. The next instant the fowl were in the wildest disorder, flying madly about squawking fiercely and creating a terrific din. In three jumps he was at the door the muzzle of the gun pointing towards the blackness within. In a minute he saw two balls of light glaring at him. Training his weapon upon them he pulled the trigger.

The report awakened the sleepers in the house. Two or three of them scurried downstairs to find out all about it. Then they scurried right back again. And so did Owens. He just couldn't stand it in that neighborhood. He had killed a skunk, which had refused to shuffle off this mortal coil without leaving behind it a strong reminder that it had been an inhabitant of this sphere.

DEMOCRATIC COHORTS RALLY

Four Nominees for Governor of New York Suggested.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Candidates for the nomination for governor at the Democratic state convention, which will meet here on Wednesday, are opening headquarters. The most mentioned names are Mayor Gaynor of New York, Thomas M. Osborne of Auburn, Representative William Sulzer of New York and Representative James F. Havens of Rochester.

At this early date two rocks appear likely to interfere with the smooth sailing for which the leaders plan. These are William R. Hearst and his following, and the progressive Democracy. Thus far Mr. Hearst has declared himself strongly on but one issue. From his utterances the leaders anticipate that he will oppose Mayor Gaynor both for nomination and election. The Independence league has published a list of questions which it will submit to the nominees of both parties, and announced that its support or opposition will depend upon their answers.

The progressive Democracy is not to be confused with the Democratic league, which meets here the same evening as the Democratic state convention. The league advocates direct nominations, but in less radical form than the progressives.

Her husband is said to be a plumber.

STORY OF THE BURCHARD BREAK.

(From Random Recollections of an Old Political Reporter in the Brooklyn Eagle): The "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" incident was the turning point in the Cleveland campaign of 1884. On Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1884, less than one week before the election the old political reporter met Senator Gorman as he descended the stairs from his room in the national Democratic headquarters. He was dull, gloomy and wearied in manner, quite the reverse of his buoyant habit. As he reached the bottom step he said:

"I want to get away into the fresh air for a short time. I'm going to ride through Central park and I want a companion. Come with me."

As we rode by the corner of Twenty-fourth street and Broadway we saw a number of ministers on the sidewalk. To a senator directed my attention to them and laughed rather bitterly:—

"Going to see Blaine," he said: "An imitation of the Brooklyn incident. The Republican managers think that ministerial visitation to Cleveland in Brooklyn was prearranged, and that it was sharp politics. As a matter of fact, it was no prearrangement at all. It was a case of interference with an arranged program, the conduct of which was in the hands of the Brooklyn managers. They were much put out by it. I had a good deal of trouble in getting them to acquiesce in the disarrangement after the ministerial movement was started. The visit to Cleveland was a spontaneous movement; this one to Blaine is an organized movement. The two incidents well describe the two campaigns. The characteristic of the Cleveland campaign is its spontaneity; that of the Blaine campaign is its almost perfect organization."

"And spontaneity will win?" I asked.

The senator smiled shrewdly as he replied:

"Usually organization wins."

We rode up Fifth avenue in silence for some time, the senator apparently having nothing weightier on his mind than his enjoyment of the crisp October air.

Continuing, he said: "The outlook is not comforting. Everything depends on New York. We can carry the country only by carrying this state. Kings promises us 20,000 plurality for Cleveland, but my best advices are not to count on more than 15,000. New York promises 60,000, but I am warned not to count on more than 40,000. Tammany is playing for the control of the city. It is convinced that Cleveland cannot carry the state, and it will trade him in its contest with the county Democracy."

"That means that Cleveland will be at least 5,000 behind in the whole state," I mournfully commented.

"It means that Cleveland will be beaten in the nation," replied the senator, bitterly. "I have felt that for some time. I regret exceedingly that I permitted myself to be persuaded to take charge of this campaign. I yielded against all my intuitions. I came away from my first visit to Cleveland in Albany, after I had consented to take charge, feeling that I had made the mistake of my life."

That this frank talk on the part of the leader should have plunged me, ardent supporter of Cleveland, into deep gloom, is not surprising. My own information had led me to believe that the contest in New York would be close, but I had had an abiding faith that we would pull through. This glimpse of the mind of the leader made me despair. We rode back in a silence punctuated by these remarks by Senator Gorman: "I do not know that we would have done better with another candidate." "It is a very difficult matter to turn a party out of power, for it has all the advantages." "It has been a scandalous campaign, with credit to nobody on either side," and "Cleveland has not been an easy man to handle, and I think I see that he would not be easy if he were put in the presidential office."

As we stopped at the headquarters the senator said: "Of course, what I have said is confidential. I shall keep up my whistling until I have passed the graveyard. Come with me to my room. I want to go to West Virginia as soon as I can. There are some matters to be attended to on Friday and Saturday that I must turn over to you for execution."

We were engaged on these matters when we heard some one come up the stairs in great haste. In a moment Col. John Tracey, the head of the newspaper bureau, plunged into the room so much out of breath by reason of his haste and excitement that he could not speak—could only point to pages of the papers he had. Gorman took the papers frim his hand, and on reading the words pointed out straightened up with a start and carefully read the context. The words pointed out were "Rum, Romanism and rebellion."

A word here in explanation: It was the practice of the news bureau of the committee to send a stenographer to take a verbatim report of all Republican functions that were open to the public. The same practice as to Democratic functions was followed by the Republican news bureau. In pursuance of this practice a stenographer had attended the ministerial visit to Blaine at the Fifth Avenue hotel and had taken down the speeches made by Rev. Dr. Burchard and by Mr. Blaine. Returning to his desk he had written out the report and turned it over in the hope that he might find something to feed out to the newspapers. He had come upon the words and had instantaneously appreciated their tremendous significance.

As Senator Gorman ran over the pages of Blaine's speech, he asked:

"Is this a verbatim report?"

"Every word uttered is there," replied Col. Tracey.

"Surely," said Gorman sternly, "Blaine met this remark?"

"That is the astounding thing," said Tracey, excitedly. "He made no reference to the words. I have confirmed that fact."

A Catholic Irishman (Tracey) and a Protestant Irishman (Gorman), with the desk between them, stood looking into each other's eyes in a mutual realization, each from his own angle of view, of the tremendous possibilities that lay in the phrase soon to become so famous. Finally, Senator Gorman spoke in his voice cracking like the snap of a whip:

"This sentence must be in every daily newspaper in the country tomorrow, no matter how, no matter what it costs. Organize for that immediately, Col. Tracey. And it must be kept alive for the rest of the campaign.

As Col. Tracey left the room with full powers, Senator Gorman said:

"If anything will elect Cleveland these words will do it. It is amazing that a man so quick-witted as Blaine, accustomed to think on his feet and to meet surprising changes in debate, should not have corrected the thing on the spot. It is too late now. He cannot deal with it at all. The advantages are now with us. For the first time we are able to meet that intrigue to excite religious prejudices against Cleveland. There will be a stampede of the alienated back to Cleveland. God grant that it may be in sufficient volume to turn the tide to Cleveland."

That night was a busy night at headquarters. The wires were kept hot with carrying the dispatches, the letters, the editorials from New York to the farthest corner of the country. Dispatches that would not excite political suspicion or political animosities went to Republican papers. Correspondence that contained the color desired went to Democratic papers. It was anything to get the fateful sentence before the public. Senator Gorman did not go to West Virginia until late in the week, for he stayed to direct the employment of the weapon which, as he said to Edward Cooper, "Providence in its infinite mercy had placed in the hands of the Democrats."

In two days the stampede was apparent. The Republicans were helpless before it. They realized that more damage was likely to result from explanation than from allowing it to take its course.

So it was that the state of New York, which on the Wednesday before the election the leader of the campaign was willing to admit was lost by at least 5,000, was carried by 1,047. How accurate were the canvasses made by Senator Gorman is seen in the fact that Kings gave 15,729 plurality and New York city 43,064 for Cleveland, and the counties outside gave Blaine 57,746. It was close enough in all conscience sake and justified the apprehensions entertained by Senator Gorman before the election and his belief after it that the "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," incident had tipped the scale to Cleveland.

In the late spring of the following year of 1885 I was in Washington. Wandering about for a walk, I found myself opposite the Blaine residence at the moment when Mr. Blaine came from his house to take the carriage awaiting him. I saluted him by raising my hat as I passed him, a salute which he courteously returned, without at the moment recognizing me. But in an instant that great memory of his was at work. He called me by name and as we met he said:

"I've been wanting to meet you ever since Chauncey Depew told me what you had told him about that unfortunate Burchard incident. Have you any objections to telling it to me?"

I had none whatsoever, so he asked me to go into the house with him, and taking me to the library made me comfortable with a cigar. I related the story as I have here told it and answered a number of questions he put as to it, and when I had finished he said:

"I never took any stock in the story that it was a conspiracy. In fact, I knew it could not have been unless fortune had played into the hands of the Democrats in a most marvelous manner. On that occasion there were two different bodies of ministerial visitors between whom there was friction, which at the time I did not know. When they learned that they must be received together the question arose which body should furnish the spokesman. The matter was referred to me. The fact that I was impressed once again that no matter of difference is unimportant, I treated the matter as if it were unimportant by saying let the oldest clergymen present be the spokesman. The fact happened to be Rev. Dr. Burchard, who had not dreamed of officiating in any way. That is the way the man who was loaded with that dynamite was chosen. He himself, happily knew what was going to say. Well, you Democrats made a very cruel and efficient use of the blunder, which cost the Republican party a presidency. We had a perfectly working machine and this man came along with a crowbar and threw it into the middle of the machine. Then everything went to pieces."

With some hesitancy I asked Mr. Blaine how it was that he did not meet the remark at the time.

"I never heard it," he replied promptly. "I had been up late the night before at a dinner and got up rather late that morning. I was so busy with important callers that I had not given even a moment's thought to what I should say. So while Burchard was talking I was trying to arrange some thought and did not hear him." the spot. It is too late now. He cannot deal with it at all. The advantages are now with us. The Light Seeker.

He prayed for light to see the road—he prayed by night and day,
And then it was he saw—alas!—the lion in his way!
And he stopped—stone-still,
By the valley and the hill;
To travel any farther—oh, he didn't have the will!

That light—it wasn't good for him, and so he ceased to pray
For light to see the lions that were growling on the way.
It filled him with despair:
He was hemmed in everywhere;
He couldn't walk the big road when he saw the lion there!

WILL EXTEND TO GRAND AVENUE

Ramsey Street Property Owners Appear Before Board of Public Works.

Property owners along the proposed extension of Ramsey street to Grand avenue attended the hearing conducted by the board of public works at the city hall this morning. The session was given over to a discussion of the valuation of the lots needed by the city for the extension.

N. F. Nelson, who is constructing a two-story brick building for a hardware store on one of the lots in the path of the proposed extension, appeared before the board with a petition asking that the street be extended so as to meet Grand avenue at right angles. This would necessitate a turn after crossing the Northern Pacific tracks.

It is improbable that the board will change the original plans to run the thoroughfare as a straight continuation of Ramsey street. In this case, the new Nelson block, which is nearly completed, will have to be altered. About thirty feet will be taken off the rear of the building.

The members of the board will go over the ground before damages are awarded. Besides the lot upon which the Nelson block stands, there are two others, which are said to be valued at $1,200 to $1,500 that will be taken for the extension. In all, fractional parts of eight lots are needed to extend the street from its present terminal on Central avenue to Grand avenue.

WAS TOO FRIENDLY WITH STRANGERS.

Gust Anderson, laborer, started out last evening to make a "friendly call" on some old acquaintances, but before the evening was over he was landed in the police station at West Duluth for being drunk.

On the complaint of Miss Anna Olson, living at 517 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, Officer Root was sent to the Olson home, where it is claimed that Anderson had intruded in an intoxicated condition and had driven Mrs. Olson from the house.

Officer Root found the man lying on the floor of the Olson home and took him to the station. In police court this morning he was assessed the minimum fine of $1 and costs.

NEW CHURCH FOR PROCTOR METHODISTS.

Proctor Methodists have decided to build a $12,000 church next year, and a site has been purchased by the congregation on a corner east of the newly constructed St. Rose Catholic church. Plans are about completed for the structure, and it now rests with the finance committee to raise the funds.

Anthony Puck, a Duluth architect, is drawing the plans. The specifications call for a church of modern type, provision being made for clubrooms for church societies, a room for Sunday school classes and a choir room. Rev. C. W. Ramshaw is pastor of the congregation.

A good start has already been made by the committee in raising the money.

RAILROADS

NEW PASSENGER AGENT COMING

The Soo Road Official Will Open Office in Duluth.

J. A. Gehry, who will be the district passenger agent of the Soo in the Duluth district, a new office that is created with the opening of the Soo through passenger traffic between here and Chicago, is expected here tomorrow, when he will assume the duties of his new office.

The new office of the Soo has been created because of the realization of the Soo officials of the growing passenger business of this district, and also because of the competition that will result between the Soo and Northwestern for the passenger business here.

It is also expected that W. R. Calloway, general passenger agent of the Soo, Harry Lewis, assistant general passenger agent, and W. H. Schutt, assistant to the general manager of the road, will be here tomorrow.

With the arrival of these officials it is expected that the passenger schedule of the Soo will be announced.

It is understood that the new Chicago train will leave at 7 o'clock in the evening, but nothing definite will be known regarding this until the official announcement is made by the passenger department.

COAL MOVEMENT WEST IS HEAVY

Supplies Being Taken to the Dakotas and Other Western States.

Inquiry among the different railroad traffic men of Duluth, regarding the movement of coal from the docks at the Head of the Lakes, shows that at the present time there is a large amount of coal moving into the two Dakotaas and to the states further to the west, some coal moving from here into Montana. At the present time the movement is greater than it was at this time a year ago.

While the docks are crowded at the present time, and the coal movement from the lower lakes has fallen off, this condition is not due to the slow movement of coal from the Duluth and Superior docks, the railroad men say.

The early heavy coal movement from the lower lakes filled the docks unusually early. This fact was due to more than one cause. In the first place an early movement by rail, was anticipated. In the second place it is estimated that the different companies with docks at the Head of the Lakes will place 100,000 more tons here this season than was on the docks last season. And, still another reason, the coal troubles in Illinois and other states, lead the operators to believe that the demand in this territory would increase, for a time at least. This last prediction proved true, for the railroads here have been hauling coal into territory that heretofore has been drawn from the Iowa and Illinois for its coal supply.

At the rate the coal is moving from the Head of the Lakes at the present time, it is estimated that the docks will be in a position to receive heavy consignments of coal from the lower lakes ports soon.

MAY ABANDON FIGHT.

Great Northern and Soo Roads Believed to Have Arranged Truce.

Fessenden, N. D., Sept. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Great Northern and the Soo railroads have signed a truce to abandon their fight against each other is the belief current in this city as a result of the stopping of the construction operations on the Fargo-Minot line of the Great Northern and the Drake-Fordville line of the Soo. Both companies, it is understood, are not taking any further steps toward securing right-of-way now, but are only making payments to land owners where actual grading work had been done before the order to discontinue operations was sent out.

In the party are: City Engineer Rinker, Aldermben Andrew P. Ortquist, E. W. Clark and C. D. Gould; E. C. York, chief engineer of the Minneapolis water system; R. A. Swan, manager of the Minneapolis General Electric company; E. T. Sykes, supervisor of the Minneapolis water system, and E. P. Burch, consulting engineer.

They were pleased with what they saw and said that the results Duluth has accomplished are very commendable.

The party had luncheon at the Spalding.

POMPADOURS COMMON.

Old Style of Cutting Hair Is Returning Says Barber.

A. C. Mendell, district organizer of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America, who was in Duluth yesterday, says that the pompadour is coming into style again.

Mr. Mendell says that every few years the public insists on having its hair cut differently. It might as well be the pompadour as any other way," he says.

The college boys started the style some time ago but the older men are rapidly falling into line.

Safety razors are not fatal to the barber trade, says the district organizer. He states that barbers are more in demand than ever.

WANT MEN TO WORK IN CANADA

Canadian Employment Agents Are Here After Railroad Laborers.

Canadian labor agents are in Duluth today in search of 1,000 laborers for work on the new extension of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the new branch line work on the Canadian Northern, and also the extensions that the Canadian Pacific is making in Western Canada.

Less than a month ago agents of several Canadian railroads were in Duluth looking for men, saying that they could easily use 5,000 men, as laborers were very scarce in the Dominion. The men here today say that the demand for labor is growing, and that the extension work being done by the three trunk lines of the Dominion will demand many more men than the present labor market seems capable of supplying.

Up north of Nipigon lake alone, the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad needs 500 men to work on the Pacific Coast extension. In addition to the men required by the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern needs men in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and further to the West on the extensions that are being constructed at the present time.

Labor employment men here say that some of the employes on the Duluth roads are being laid off at the present time, and this is the only chance that the Canadian roads have of getting men, as the labor market is not offering men at the present time.

The Canadian agents here today are offering $2.50 a day and free fare for men. They have little hope of getting even half the men they are after.

NURSE TELLS OF DEATH OF GIRL

Says Doctor Cut Feet Off Body and Crushed Torso in Trunk.

San Francisco, Sept. 26.—After two days and nights of silence, Marie Messerschmidt, a nurse detained in connection with the death of Eva Swan, following the finding of the girl's body beneath the cement flooring of the basement of a vacant house, confessed to the police that she had knowledge of the operation performed by Dr. James Grant upon Miss Swan, and that she attended the girl after the operation.

Following is part of the confession of the nurse:

"On Saturday evening, April 16, Miss Eva Swan was operated on by Dr. Robert Thompson, known as Dr. Grant, and came back the next day for further treatment. She then left and came back on April 20 and complained of pains. I waited on her as nurse. Miss Swan died about ten days later and was put into Dr. Grant's trunk, he first sawing the legs off at the ankles so that he might crush the body into the trunk.

Buried in Basement.

"That evening the trunk was moved to 327 Eureka street by an expressman, the doctor going out on a car. Dr. Grant stayed all night, returning about 11 o'clock the next morning, stating to me that he could not bury the body in the yard as it was a very bright moonlight night and he had to bury the body in the basement under the concrete floor."

Gallons of nitric acid had been poured on the body, which had been crushed into a shallow grave in the basement bath room of a cottage in a sparsely settled residence district, but so carefully had the burial place been sealed with cement that the body was well preserved instead of destroyed as evidently had been planned.

Dr. Grant refuses to discuss the matter.

WAS GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Frank Johnson Says Somebody Put a Knife in His Hand.

Frank Johnson, arrested Saturday night by Detective Schulte and Capt. Fiskett on the charge of stabbing Hjalmar Landala the night of Aug. 24 in the alley back of Matlak's saloon on Lake avenue south, has admitted to the police that he is guilty.

He claims that some one else put a knife into his hand and pushed him into Landala after a quarrel had started as they were leaving the saloon. His victim was stabbed in the arm and body, but soon recovered after leaving the hospital.

Johnson left the city the next day and returned only a few days ago. He will likely be arraigned in court this afternoon on a warrant charging him with assault in the second degree.

Harbors Committee Will Investigate the St. Louis River Project.

In response to the request of Col. Fitch, government engineer in charge of federal river and harbor work at the Head of the Lakes, the harbors committee of the Duluth Commercial club today decided to look into the pending projects and advise Col. Fitch as to the views and opinions of Duluthians concerning them. Capt. Alex McDougall is the chairman of the committee which took action specifically on a letter received from Col. Fitch.

The project for deepening the St. Louis river from Spirit Lake to Fond du Lac is one that will be inquired into by the committee.

Congress also has authorized a survey of the harbor at Knife River and the committee will look into that project, too, with the object of supplying what suggestions it may find pertinent and of value.

INSURGENT LEADS IN ONE OREGON DISTRICT.

Portland, Or., Sept. 26.—Returns from the primaries indicate that A. E. Lafferty, insurgents, has secured the Republican nomination for congressman from the Second district by about 2,000 plurality. In the First district, W. C. Hawley, the incumbent standpatter, was re-nominated by about 3,500 majority over his insurgent opponent.

The nominees for the legislature from Multnomah county (Portland), are overwhelmingly in favor of "stament No. 1," the pledge of a legislator to support the popular nominee's party affiliations.

SEE THE Baking Demonstration
at Our Store, Tomorrow and Wednesday

See how an expert Demonstrator Bakes the Finest Biscuits in three minutes with the "Peninsular Range."

THIS is not one of the ordinary cut and dried demonstrations that have in recent years been so common, but it will be a real and genuine baking exhibit to show the actual worth and baking qualities of the "Peninsular" Range. The Peninsular Stove Company have spent millions of dollars annually for the services and ideas of some of the best stove experts in the world and the result is, that they have placed at the public's command, one of the best and most economical stoves of today. Mr. Brown, who is sent here by the factory to take charge of this demonstration, would be glad to see you and give any information that you might desire along the line of stoves, and absolutely free of charge. Ask him to explain to you this scientific construction of the "Peninsular" Range, which insures its perfectly even baking qualities, and furthermore, means a saving of about 25 per cent of the fuel bill. Also have him show why it is that the "Peninsular" Range allowe so little of its heat to escape through the chimney, that a thin paper pipe can be used without danger of its buruing. (Paper pipes will be used at this demonstration.) This goes to show that every particle of fuel is utilized and not the least bit allowed to waste. There are dozens of other points equally as strong in favor of the "Peninsular" Range, that Mr. Brown can explain to you far better than the ad man, so just come in and see him. It matters not whether you buy a stove or not—the knowledge you gain will be worth a lot to you. Remember the days—tomorrow and Wednesday.

OFFERINGS ARE LIBERAL

Wheat Declines Under Pressure of Sales From the Country.

Flax Firmer---Argentine Reports Bullish---Market Dull.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 26.—Wheat declined today under pressure of liberal offerings in the Northwest and the sentimental effect of heavy receipts over the holiday. September lost ½c, December ⅞c and May ⅞c. Cash wheat was on a parity with the December option and ½c under September. Oats gained ½c, rye, barley and durum were unchanged. Export business was confined to a small amount of Manitobas.

Flax was slightly higher. Offerings were scarce although the cash market was fairly active. Argentine reports said that locusts are causing some anxiety concerning the flax crop in the northern provinces. Thrashing reports from the Northwestern states are larger than expected. September flax gained 1c, October 1c, November 1c, December 4c and May 3c.

Wheat had a heavy tone and the market was pervaded by an oppressive dullness after the opening activity which was caused by the covering of a few shorts and scattered buying from other sources.

Statistics were bearish generally. The figures followed on the heels of lower cables and had a softening effect. The extraordinary manner in which wheat is being marketed was indicated by the wheat on passage last week which was placed at 41,912,000 bu compared with 25,008,000 bu in the corresponding week last year. World's shipments increased 15,360,000 bu from 14,928,000 bu in the previous week and 11,632,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of wheat in this country increased 2,262,000 bu compared with an increase of 1,322,000 bu last week. The total supply is 32,252,000 bu compared with 16,460,000 bu a year ago.

A large run of spring wheat to primary points and liberal country offerings combined to depress the northwestern markets toward noon after the early strength had been lost. The country made unexpectedly liberal offers which were absorbed by the mills and elevators, the former taking more than their average daily purchases in the last two or three weeks. Pit sentiment is mixed and there are enough people bullishly inclined to come to support of the market on the dips so that the market is simply a trading affair even in the face of news that is distinctly bearish. Sales at Northwestern points were expected to be heavy over the holidays but not as large as figures indicated. Winnipeg got more than 1,500 cars of wheat, but cash reported 667 of all grains on track and Minneapolis wired early that about 1 000 cars were on track there.

Supplies of wheat press heavily. Canadian wheat is near to an import basis, despite the duty of 25 cents, and Eastern millers are beginning to fear competition from their rivals on the other side of the international border. Europe has not been taking much Canadian wheat and the markets show a tendency to decline. Recent reductions in the price of Canadian flour have made Eastern millers apprehensive. The Eastern flour manufacturers balk at the heavy premium of spring wheat over winter wheat. Yet there is little of a favorable nature in the spring wheat situation as stocks of spring wheat are not excessively heavy and the bulk is for streng cash markets, the bulls think.

Receipts are not as large as last year and indications point to a run of wheat that will average much lower than the movement a year ago. The East has considerable cash wheat but it is being held for higher prices and the mills are unable to get much of it. The bears think, however, that the movement of spring wheat will be larger than expected and that supplies will continue to increase rapidly. There is no export demand and they do not believe that the mills will use all of the spring wheat produced, basing their claim on the belief that the flour production will be smaller than last year.

Russia, Australia, India, Argentina and the Danubian districts continue to ship wheat heavily and the foreign aspect has lost the bullish tone which made it a factor in the advance in prices several weeks ago.

John McLeod of Minneapolis, a former Duluthian, was on the floor today. His friends were surprised in the light of history, he did not appear with several crutches and bandages battered countour. Mr. McLeod was curling several years ago and the rink turned upside down and fell on him. He had hardly recovered from this depressing incident when he ran afoul of another. On a dark and stormy night, it is said, he alighted from a trolley car just as an automobile went by. The auto hit him amidship and he was laid up some time for repairs. Mr. McLeod's friends say he has demonstrated that one can't put a Scotchman down for the count.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Decreasing Northwest Receipts Help Make Wheat Firmer.

Chicago, Sept. 28. — Decreasing receipts of wheat in the Northwest helped to give a firm tone to the market here today. The steadiness of foreign quotations in the face of declines on this side was unexpected and formed another bullish element. Furthermore, traders in favor of higher prices were disposed to emphasize the idea that the recent shrinkage in values had sufficiently discounted the abundance of supplies in this country. The opening was unchanged to ⅛c up with December at 99⅞c to $1, the same as the previous close to ⅛c higher. After a reaction to 99¾@⅞c, there was a rise to $1.00⅛@¼c.

Visible supplies showed a larger gain than expected, and caused prices to recede. The close was easy with December at 99½, a net loss of ⅜c.

Expectation of a cold wave strengthened corn.

December started ⅝@¾c to ⅝@⅞c higher at 51⅝c to 51⅞c and steadied at 51¾c.

Later the market eased off with wheat. The close, however, was steady with December ¼@⅜c net higher at 51¾c.

A rush of shorts to cover pushed up the oats market. December opened ⅛@¼c to ⅛@⅜c higher at 34½c to 34⅝c, and advanced to 34⅝@⅞c.

Slowness of demand let provisions decline. First sales were 2½@5c to 7½c off, with January option at $17.82½ to $9.45 for ribs.

MARKET GOSSIP

Broomhall cabled: "The undertone at opening was steady with values unchanged. Following the opening values advanced ¼d with some outside support. The easier American cables were offset by lighter world's shipments to the United Kingdom, notwithstanding, the larger total than last week. There was also poor grading of La Plata arrivals and a slightly improved cash demand. Later dullness prevailed and this led to some little pressure and the bulls tank.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Opening Narrow But Market Soon Broadened and Prices Rose.

Action By Railroad Employes for Higher Rates Caused Strength.

New York, Sept. 26.—The amount of orders executed at the opening of the stock market today was small and prices moved listlessly. The prominent market leaders were higher, Reading rising 1⅜ and Union Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande ¾. American Car declined ⅝.

Weakness in Amalgamated Copper and realizing in Reading and Union Pacific caused the market to halt, but profit-taking prices did not give way much. The list later rose to its best again. Baltimore & Ohio, Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred, Pacific Mail, American Telephone & Telegraph and Western Union gained 1 and Kansas City Southern 1½. Rock Island preferred and Southern Railway preferred sagged 1¼ and Great Northern Ore certificates 1.

The demand for stocks increased and broadened carrying prices comprehensively to higher levels. Reading, Union Pacific and United States Steel were most largely dealt in but there were numerous advances of a point or more. The principal incentive was the report of concerted action amongst railroad labor organizations in favor of allowing higher freight charges. Buying for London account made a material factor in the strength. Reading was carried up 2⅜, Delaware & Hudson 4, Western Union 3, and Union Pacific and Northwestern 1⅝. Bonds were strong.

The market closed easy. There was a marked contraction in the volume of the general market but prices were not allowed to get much below the highest. There was a rise of 4½ in St. Louis, Southwestern and of 6 in the preferred. Federal Mining sold at a decline of 5.

FALL and WINTER 1910-11

Paris and American Fashions

Suits, Coats and Wraps

It is not surprising that during the last few years the cult of the tailor made suit should have increased by leaps and bounds, for there is nothing in the modistic line so well suited to the climatic requirements of this country as the cloth coat and skirt. Another reason for this increased interest is the fact that American women are waking to the knowledge that while Paris may lay down the law as to the general style of our clothes, it is to the American tailor that we must look for the adaptation of these styles to the American figure; and nowhere is the tailored suit brought to such perfection, nowhere is the strictly mannish English line and the softly feminine French style so skillfully blended as in our own country.

Rough materials have been decided upon to lead the way in everyday wear. Scotch and English homespuns, coarsely woven serges, tweed mixtures and heavy basket weaves all vie for first place. Dark shades predominate, and in the mixtures black and white and heather mixtures in indistinct, flaky designs are well to the fore. The latter materials are especially good for the long coat, which now has a distinct place in my lady's wardrobe. Broadcloth for the more elaborate suits still holds sway, and velvet bids fair to hold a prominent place in the winter fashion scheme of things. As to style—the close silhouette is adhered to very distinctly. Skillful goring, and in some cases a seam directly over each hip is used to produce this long, narrow line. The bubble skirt, which is regarded b ythe majority as a freak, has resolved itself into a deep, plain band of the material placed sometimes as high as the knees, confining the fullness, but giving ample freedom in walking. Trailing skirts are no longer smart, the round length being preferred always. Coats are semi-fitting, but are a little lighter than before. The newest ones show a length of from 29 to 31 inches. In the rough materials trimming is unnecessary, and leather or bone buttons furnish the only embellishment; but in expensive broadcloths or fine grain serges braid is used with a lavish hand. Sleeves are small and plain. The greatest change is in the collar, which now is of the shawl variety, and in the more youthful suits this widens into a sailor shape. Blue is used very extensively, and in the majority of suits a clue touch is given by the addition of a skirt belt, piping or bow of this popular shade.

Long coats in cut follow closely the lines of the tailored suit. Heavy, woolen fabrics, the hand-made frieze, box cloth and velvet have all been pressed into service. Steamer rug material, showing a plain color on one side and plaid pattern on the other, makes an attractive traveling coat, and the fringe is used to trim the sleeves and collar. The majority of the coats are semi-fitting back and front; and where there is extra fullness, it is caught in a deep belt at the back as low down as the ankles. Fastenings on one side (usually the left) with large showy buttons and long roll collars are conspicuous features of the new coat. A very stunning coat shown by one of the most exclusive French shops is a corduroy velvet in a beautiful hunter's green color. The extreme simplicity of cut, which is charmingly offset by the richness of the material, is relieved only by the trimming of silk braid which shows threads of gold deftly introduced in the weave. This braid binds the high military collar, and is made into the frogs and buttons which form the fastening. A touch of fur (skunk) shows at the cuffs, neck and under the braid in front in such a way as to suggest a lining of fur. For evening wear, wraps are necessarily very loose and enveloping, and in these, coats of satin made with wide, square sleeves like a mandarin coat, heavily trimmed with embroidery and lace, and Liberty capes roomy and graceful divide the honors of the year. For the uncertain days of autumn, a rain coat is a decidedly valuable possession, and manufacturers are waking to the fact. Instead of the heavy, shapeless, most unbecoming garments which made up the protection against rain of a few years ago, we now have smart coats of light weight material perfectly rubberized, cut on the correct lines prescribed by Dame Fashion for our cloth coats. Quiet colors are the ones most chosen—gray, blue brown and shepherd's plaid, with darker shades or different colors used for trimming.

While in tailored suits there would seem to be a scarcity of material, there is little of that tendency in the evening gowns of today. Satin in its many varieties is being used most exhaustively, with chiffon and net in combination—the result aimed for being extreme softness and clinging lines. The skirts are narrow in foundation, but there is more of a tendency in this line to draperies. Some indeed suggest the panniers of a few years ago.

Flounces of soft chiffon are seen, placed from the knees down, and are always banded on so that the narrow effect is preserved. Much lace and silver are seen in the list of trimmings, which also includes rhinestones and beads. For afternoon gowns, foulard is still a leader, its effectiveness and practical wearing qualities being a strong recommendation. Strongly suggestive of a remnant sale is the present fashion of mingling a plain fabric with one having an all-over pattern in the same gown; and while it is an idea which will stand many in good stead, it has to be handled with the skill of an artist to get the proper effect. Sleeves are gradually creeping back to the short lengths and come very little below the elbow. They are kept as narrow as possible, all trimming being aplied in flat fashion. During the past season the pretty fashion of scarfs was revived, and they are now being much used as evening wraps. They are made of soft satin, lined with the same material in another color, and are made wide enough to fall in cloudy grace well over the shoulders. The ends are shirred into a point and finished with a large tassel of chenille or ball fringe of taffetas. The usual size is 3 yards by 1.

Fur Fashions for Fall

By John Greenshields.

The ideal protection in cold winter weather, dating from the days when clothes were first recognized as a necessity, is of fur, and because the women of today have realized the health value of time spent in the open air the question of fashions in fur has become a very important one.

This season the skins used are of many kinds, and in such a wide range as to suit the exactions of every figure and every purse. The combination of two (or in some cases three) kinds of fur in one garment is a very popular mode, and a very practical one, particularly in coats and wraps. The short haired flat furs which one must necessarily use for a coat are not becoming to all faces, and, when this is so, collar, cuffs and trimming of a soft fluffy variety may be added with charming effect and satisfaction in the knowledge that one is quite in the fashion. The Parisian fad of combining fur with chiffon and lace is a very pretty one, and for evening or early winter wear is much used. The chiffon figures chiefly in scarfs or undersleeves and vests in short coats. In the latter the fur part resembles a close fitting stole, and the chiffon softly frilled or plaited transforms it into a coat. Seal, sable, mink, lynx, fox and black marten are the favorite furs, while for smart occasions broadtail and ermine are essential. Chinchilla has dropped in favor for the time being, its place having been usurped by the effective Australian opossum. Sable has always been considered a very extravagant fur and beyond the reach of the average pocketbook. With the present themselves readily without being cut styles, however, where the skins lend at all to muff, stole or coat, it would seem to be one of the most practical of furs. Skunk, which has never attained in America the popularity which it has gained in Paris, is in demand for narrow band trimmings, and muffs of this graceful fur deftly combined with soft satin, are much affected by the younger set. Muffs are still large and are either pillow or barrel shaped, the lining being shirred to fit the wrist closely. Both short and long stoles are worn. Where the former is desired, two whole skins are used with both heads and tails showing. The lining is a very soft one, so that the wrap lies flat on the shoulders, giving the desired protection to the back and chest without giving the appearance of short neck. In the long stoles the back part is made to cover the shoulders well in either square or pointed effect, while the front fastens close at the throat and falls to the knees, increasing the long line in front.

Fur coats are to be much worn in length from 36 to 52 inches, the shorter ones, of course, being more practical for walking. They are all semi-fitting in the back and front, and the rather small sleeves are invariably finished with a cuff. Sometimes this cuff is made of a different fur, long haired; but where this is not specially desired, the sleeve is made very long and rolled back. When necessary to take the place of a muff, this can be pulled down over the hands. Long shawl collars and huge revers are equally popular. A new motor coat of seal showing both—the flat revers of seal being made large enough to show beyond the narrower collar of marten, with which this smart model was trimmed. Very large, fancy buttons of passementerie, chenille or silk cord are used for fastening or to cover the fastening.

TWO MONSTERS.

Strand: When Sazonoff, the anarchist, was on trial for the assassination of Plehve, head of the Russian police, his counsel said: 'In Sazonoff's eyes Plehve was a hideous monster only to be destroyed by another monster—death. And so, as he took the avenging bomb into his trembling hands, it seemed to him to be filled, not with dynamite, but with the tears, the sorrows, and the sufferings of his people. When the bomb which he had thrown was sent asunder and its fragments scattered broadcast, the sound was to him as the sound of the tearing and casting aside of the chains which now fetter the Russian people. That is why, as soon as he regained consciousness, he cried, 'Long live Liberty!'"

A DRESS OF BETTLES' WINGS.

In large theatrical productions, says Harry Furniss in the Strand magazine, some startling incongruities have met my eye. Miss Terry's famous performance of "Lady Macbeth," immortalized by Sargent's painting of her in that part, now hanging in the Tate gallery, shows her in a dress which Lady Macbeth never could have worn. It is most effective, and is made out of beetles' wings. The history of that dress is this.

It so happened that I was present at an interesting little dinner, at which Miss Terry who sat opposite to me, was admiring the dress of the lady by my side, then Lady Randolph Churchill, now Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, Lady Randolph wore an evening gown made of beetles' wings. Miss Terry, directly after dinner, asked Lady Randolph if she could inform her where in America they could be obtained. Lady Randolph tore off a small portion of her gown and gave it to Miss Terry. This was the specimen out of which Mrs. Comyns Carr built the now famous Macbeth dress which was never seen in Scotland except on Miss Terry.

Grecian Effects the Choice of the Season's Coiffures

By Jane Brayton.

Time was when the "little girl who had a little curl, that hung in the middle of her forehead," was an object of envy to every straight-haired mother s daughter of us. But now if the poor soul is adorned with only the curls that grew on her little top-knot we pass her by with pity and hie us to a bargain counter where we may buy yards and yards of ringlets. It is the day of the curl, and nature never planted enough curls on anybody's head, except perhaps on Medusa's, to meet the requirements of the present fashions.

The general contour of the most favored coiffures is decidedly Grecian, but with such fluffy additions as to make the classic mode becoming to almost any face. About the face the hair is dressed very softly and naturally, either parted or with a sort of curled bang effect. About the large Greek knot at the back of the head is placed a wide braid caught here and there with the fashionable shell pins, if desired, and from beneath this three to five curls hang upon the neck. For evening, when a band of metal ribbon is brought around the head, finished, perhaps, with a rosette or cabochon, the effect is most attractive.

The Gainsborough style requires forty-eleven curls. A soft twist of hair encircles the head, after the manner of the turban braid. The crown of the head is then filled with a mass of loose curls, with several of them escaping from under the twist in the back to lie on the nape of the neck. For the young face, to which the ringlets hanging in front of the ears cannot impart an old-maidish look, what is called the Recamier mode is very winsome. The hair is usually parted and allowed to fall in apparently careless curls over the ears. A tumble of curls is arranged at the top of the head and a narrow band of velvet or ribbon holds them in place.

One of the simpler effects is produced by covering the bee-hive frame—a wire, hair-covered frame, having a hole in the center of it, that fits over the head like a cap—with a wide thick braid pulled out so that the sides of it completely cover the frame. About this is twisted a soft coil which may be held by big pins or threaded with gauze or satin ribbons for dressy occasions.

The old-time waterfall style has been revived, with slight changes. The front hair is dressed becomingly, and the back hair is drawn to the crown on the head to fall in puffs and curls within the encircling twist of hair.

The pompadour has departed. The mattresses with which we were wont to upholster our forehead we now apply to the back of our heads, but the hair about the face must have a soft, fluffy, careless appearance. In spite of the tendency to very massive effects in present hairdressing, the trend is toward greater simplicity in arrangement, with the preference for the Greek angle or for the high dressing on the top of the head.

Attractive Offerings in China and Artware

The newest designs in china reveal a lavish use of gold, not only in the border of the dishes, but in large floral and conventional designs, and sometimes combined with the flowers, in colors, that may decorate a dish. The patterns for the most part are simple but striking. Among the designs carried out solely in the gold, the oriental, the Greek and the Byzantine effects predominate. The flowered china shows the graceful garland decoration or a happy use of trailing vines with a heavy border effect. In shape, the fluted design—the flutings are widely separated—is being greatly used.

A new ware has appeared which will no doubt be very popular in the odd pieces such as sugar and creamer, chocolate set, or odd plates. It is a china completely covered with gold or silver, which may be washed like other china, with no danger of the deposit wearing off. The shapes are unique and especially attractive in the articles for use on the dressing table.

Copper and brass are steadily gaining in favor both for use and decoration. The buffet is not complete without the tea or coffee set in brass. A punch bowl and glasses in hammered copper is one of the new ideas in this line. A most decorative bowl had unique handles on three sides and stood upon sturdy brass feet. About the rim of the bowl was a band of polished brass toned down to blend with the hammered copper of the body part. The glasses fitted into coper holders with a rim of brass to match the bowl.

Fern dishes and small window boxes in the copper are well liked. These have usually little ball-like feet and are fitted with removable holders with perforated bottoms. Tea served from one of the new copper teapots, on a cunningly brass trimmed service tray, with a feathery fern in one of these copper dishes, is a visual as well as palatable delight.

John Wanamaker could not make a success of a store in Duluth—either a big or a little store, and in either case with adequate capital—unless he advertised! (And he wouldn't attempt it.)

HEADGEAR for the Coming Season

By Joan Greenshields.

From Paris comes the announcement that this year there will be two kinds of hats—the large and the small—and for the present the medium hat will be laid aside. The large hat is extremely large, with a low, rather flat round crown and a wide brim which droops in a natural mushroom effect all the way around. This is most generally becoming. An odd touch is given by the Parisian milliners to this wide brim by pinching it into a point in two or three places just enough to break the monotony of the long line, and a piping of velvet is added at the extreme edge to give softness. In hat fabrics there is not such a wide range as the summer gave us, but it is much more distinct. The three chosen materials are velvet, taffeta and soft satin, and these not only cover the hats, but are made into enormous flat bows or choux for trimming. Where bows are used, they either lie flat on the top of the crown or shoot away from the hat on the left side almost at right angles. Very little moire and no ribbed silk is used. For dressy wear, ostrich plumes have first place, and paradise feathers are a close second. The plumes are medium size (from 12 to 18 inches long) and are curled a very little on the edge. They are placed in trimming so that they stand almost straight up, and the natural mottled gray color is again popular. Much to the relief of the Audubon society the death knell of the aigrette has been sounded. So many successful imitations of this effective decoration flooded the market that a drop in price and in feminine favor naturally followed. Lace, particularly val, plays a very prominent part in the world of hats, and a tiny frill of this fastened inside the crown so that it shows under the brim against the background of hair gives an effect that is both piquant and picturesque. Val is also used to edge the velvet bands and bows of the trimming, and sometimes we find a line of it on the under brim, placed just clear of the edge.

In the small hats there are many to choose from—some with brims and some without, both equally smart. Jaunty, little English walking hats rolled up all round, or turned up abruptly on the side front, will be much sought. These hats are simply trimmed with generous bows or rosettes of silk, or one short plume is arranged to fall from the front to the back.

Summer felt and hemp braid make a splendid combination for the days between seasons, when we bid a reluctant farewell to the straws and lingerie of summer. Wide brimmed hats show this most effectively. Hemp of the same shade as the felt is applied in a wide band on the upper brim, giving it not only a smart touch, but rendering it wonderfully pliable, so that it can be rolled back from the face in all sorts of fetching curves. The trimming is usually a heavy chiffon or mousseline in a darker shade than the felt swathed softly about the crown and ending on the left side in a large chou. With the cold weather, turbans of velvet or beaver cloth come into their own again. These are worn crushed down on the head and are practically untrimmed, the material being tucked on a frame in such a full fashion as to render anything else unnecessary. A large cabochon of jet or barbaric uncut jewels, or a military gold cord with tassel ends may be used to add a touch of sparkle to a dull material. There is a rumor, due probably to the canticleer influence, of the revival of the feather turban, but as yet few of them are on view in the shops. Blue is the popular color and it is seen in all shades from the deep raven blue to the Alice or Copenhagen. A combination of two colors is the smart thing, and royal blue combined with black is one of the most highly favored. Turbans of satin, the crowns made of stiff folds on a light frame, are very popular with the younger girls. One I have in mind is of bright red satin. This has a three-inch band of Persian red on a black ground encircling the hat, and serving to tone down the gay color.

Seasons may come and seasons go, but the sailor hat, like the poor, is always with us. Every year we think it must be the last, but just as sure as the season rolls around it is there, changed a little maybe in size of crown or line of brim, but still the same old sailor. With the departure of the hot summer days went also the extremely wide brim, and for walking or riding in early autumn the sailor will be much worn with a medium straight brim. Later on, in felt the brim will be wider, turned up a little all around maybe and dented abruptly on the left front, with the turn-up caught with a round cabochon of satin. There will be a straight band around the crown piped with a contrasting color—red with black, blue with red, and black with green. Traveling hats of the same material as our suits or long coats (tweed or homespun) are considered very smart for traveling or out-door sports. They are in modified sailor shape, the material being stitched in close rows over an interlining. The brim is rolling and can be twisted to suit any face. For children, the tricorne shape in felt or fine beaver is very smart. This is trimmed with pom poms of ostrich. For the little tots, quaint bonnets of the Kate Greenaway order are to be highly recommended.

The pastime of motoring, for which women have gone in extensively, has brought out a new line of millinery, for what woman would care to motor if she could not be attractively clad in the doing? New materials of a kind we never thought to associate with millinery have been brought into service, and the adaptation of kid, chamois and raffia (the practical dust and shower-proof qualities of which entitle them to a prominent place) to softly smart feminine headgear is a work that can only be done satisfactorily by an artist. Most of the hats (or bonnets rather, for they all hark back to the granny bonnet shape) fit close to the head, coming well down on the forehead and covering the ears. At the back, falling over the neck, is a short curtain frill of the same material as the hat. This keeps the dust from settling inside the coat collar. In front they are cleverly cut so that they can be pulled down on the forehead to protect the hair, and rolled back coquettishly to show the silk lining when desired. The trimming is of the simplest kind. The hats of chamois and kid have narrow stitched strapping of the same material, and under the chin is a workmanlike strap with buttons by way of fastening. For silk or raffia bonnets, large, flat buttons covered with the material, or choux of chiffon placed at either side usually make up the ornamentation. A very smart model in raffia has a flat fold of the material across the front. This is piped on either side with brilliant plaid silk. Tan in several shades is extremely popular, but green, elephant gray and purple are also much in demand. On the same order, but made of thin china silk is a hood intended for opera wear. It is so light that the most elaborate coiffure is safe, and yet the protection given from wind is absolute. A very full frill of lace set all around the face gives an adorably quaint finish and oftens the dark line. It is kept on by means of long strings of chiffon passed through bands of the material in the front and on the sides.

New Wall Papers and Draperies Are Attractive

The decorator is no longer hampered by limitations in color and design of the wall papers and hangings offered to him for selection. Not only will he find unlimited and hitherto unattainable effects in both lines, but there is a marked tendency toward the collaboration of manufacturers, so that with many wall papers may be obtained draperies specially woven to match or harmonize. A living room, for example, papered with a plain paper in one of the new greys, may have a frieze of a rich mulberry hue, and velvet portieres and window draperies in the same shade, with, sometimes, the conventional motif of the frieze suggested in the border of the draperies.

In a house where the general character of the furnishings is in keeping with the somewhat austere effect, plain plastered walls left a greyish white, or tinted fawn color are particularly good for the living room. The landscape papers are to be greatly used this season, and show some rather startling designs. One daring, yet at the same time, quiet effect, showed a leafy forest with a hound leaping into view and a bird of paradise lending a touch of color to the subdued tones.

The scenic frieze above a wainscoting in harmonizing woods is well liked for the dining room. The so-called conquest of the air has brought out many aerially suggestive papers, with happy results. Brilliantly plumed birds of every kind are seen in many of the newest conceptions. Even a bed room paper was noticed which carried out this idea. Over the white ground of the paper were scattered twigs and branches upon which tiny birds perched cheerfully.

For the bed room the two-toned stripes remain in favor, although the French chambray with a narrow border carried around the windows and doors as well as for the top border of the side walls, is very popular. Papers in 1830 styles are quaint and attractive. These usually have old fasaioned baskets of flowers or prim little nosegays, or vases and festooned garlands in softest colorings.

A new bath room paper has appeared which is a delight in its blending of blue, green and white. Between the blue of sky and the foamy green of sea white sea gulls wing a graceful flight.

If none of these tempting new papers are to find their way to your walls here is a hint from a paperhanger about cleaning the old. Get a roll of cheap cotton batting and rub the walls thoroughly. It is said to work wonders.

Drapery Notes.

Madras is now being used for portiers as well as for window draperies. Sateen in a color to set off the pattern and colors of the madras is used as a sort of inter-lining, with the thin material on both sides of it. This makes an unusual, effective portier.

The printed India cotton curtains are among the most desirable curtains obtainable at a moderate price. They may be bought for from $5 to $7 a pair and are in subtle colorings not found in any other fabrics.

Bed room draperies may be had at almost any price. There is the Indian head or the poplin at 15 cents a yard, the cotton taffetas at 35 cents and chintz in a good width at 65 cents. A material similar to poplin which is to be found in all shades is what is called mercerized Jaspe.

For the stenciled curtains Monk's cloth or burlap is greatly used. A new idea is to work designs on the burlap with colored raffia.

A POOR MAN AT OXFORD.

The son of a poor English workingman recently worked his way into and through Oxford and learned while doing it, some things which surprised him greatly. He was almost 30 before he could afford, or he had earned the money with painful slowness by teaching at the usual pittance paid minor teachers in England.

At first the traditional cat in a garret was cosey comfortable compared with him. He was embarrassed by having servants wait on him, he was struck dum at being presented with the English gentleman's cold preprandial tub. He thought it was barbarous to expect him "to sprinkle himself with cold water before breakfast" on a chill October morn.

He was depressed with the wasteful extravagance of having silver forks and spoons. And a clean napkin every night! Also he was not at home with a four or five course dinner. But he must have been game and better. For as he tells his story in the Manchester Guardian, one reads between the lines something that evidently made up for the shortage that had existed in other things.

"I have been amused, astounded, even provoked," he writes, "to find that in my own college were men who gave me a sort of halo and approached me with diffidence I confess I had felt toward them, merely because I was supposed to be 'a real live workingman, who had seen life and had struggled up to Oxford just as the story book young man does.'

"One modest youth, expressing to a friend of mine his desire to know me said: 'But I don't suppose he'll care to talk to me, I'm so ignorant of things.'

"Thus before long I was actually being sought as the man who knew a good deal at first hand of social problems and the life of the poor. At debating societies I was soon embarrassingly in request, for a characteristic of Oxford today is the extraordinary interest taken in all sorts of social housing, education, the right to work, slum life, conditions of labor, sweated industries.

"Such subjects have occupied a very large porportion of the debates both at the Union and at the various college societies. It was this keen interest in social reforms which first showed me my greatest misconception with regard to the 'upper classes.' Like most local members of the proletariat, I had preached of the callousness, the indifference of the rich to the sufferings of the poor. I had honestly believed that the rich were more responsible for the evils of poverty and unemployment, rack renting and sweated labor. But now that I was thrown among these ravening beasts like a slave among wolves for their delectation I found that quite a large number of these wolves were watchdogs."

BISHOPS DON'T DO SO.

A friend of the late Father Tabb said in Ellicott City:

"This fine poet and good man thought that class hatred was due to ignorance—that the rich knew too little of the poor, and vice versa.

"He once illustrated this ignorance with the story of a Methodist bishop's wife who addressed a meeting of slum housewives on their home duties. The address made the home life seem all very fine and ideal, but one housewife voiced the opinion of the rest, perhaps, when she said to her neighbors with a sniff:

"'She's all right as far as she goes; but what I'd like to ask her is this—what does she do when her old bishop comes home on any nights with his envelope empty and a fightin' jag on?'"

NO SNOB.

Mrs. Phelps Stokes, in one of her College Settlement addresses in New York, said of snobbishness:

"I hate the snob so bitterly that I can almost sympathize with the thief in the tumbril

"During the French revolution, you know, a thief and a marquis jolted in a tumbril side by side through the wild streets of Paris on the way to the guillotine, while a venerable priest tried to console their terrible last ride with moral reflections.

"'A bas la noblesse! Down with the aristocrats!' shouted the red-capped mob.

"Thereupon the thief rose in the cart and cried:

"'My friends, you deceive yourselves. I am not an aristocrat. I am a thief.'

"The priest plucked him by the sleeve, saying reproachfully:

"'Sit down. This is no time for vanity.'"

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

Either the woman of fashion is determined that her jeweled vanities shall combine utility with ornamental beauty, or the jewelers are determined that every possible article of utility be converted into gold or silver or bejeweled trinkets, for most of the novelties shown in the shops are a happy combination of attractiveness and practical usefulness.

There are the umbrellas, with handles in which are secreted all the aids to the toilet; there are clinking trinket sets, with each "aid" separately concealed in gold, silver, or gun metal boxes; and now we have the popular coin purse —the watch like sort, with the spring comopartment—artfully introduced into belt buckles and attached to collar pins. Sash pins, in all metals, have the little coin holder soldered in the center so that it appears to be a part of the design. Collar pins have a slender chain attached from which the coin purse is hung.

A long-felt want has been supplied by the appearance of neatly boxed hatpin sets. The box contains six pins of different lengths, which will be appreciated by the woman who has struggled to adapt long pins to small hats and vice versa, and has eight heads of different colors of mother-of-pearl, or jewels, which may be screwed onto any length pin desired. Another hatpin novelty is one having double points. It is shaped like a huge hairpin watch is thrust through the hat securing it more firmly than a single pin does, and onto the two points are then screwed fancy heads.

With the return of the belt to favor again, belt buckles in infinite variety have appeared. The simple enamel buckles in empire green, ruby, and drake blue are well liked for every day wear. With dressy gowns oblong or oval gilt designs in Louis XIV effects, scintillating with brilliants, add a smart touch to the toilet.

A triumph of workmanship is the reproduction in gold and silver of some of the rare old laces. These are sometimes fashioned in delicate bows incrusted with precious stones, and the delicate workmanship often costs quite as much as the jewels.

The present fashions in hair dressing have brought out many jeweled ornaments for the coiffure, from the plainer pins, having a slight tracing of filagree gilt, to those thickly set with brilliants. Narrow bandeaus of stones, harmonizing with the costume, will be much worn during the coming season.

My Lady's Furbelows

Lingerie is fascinating to women, because the feminine mind responds instinctively to the lure of filmy muslin and foamy lace, and a walk through the smartest shops which are filled with hand-made creations from France and Austria, will convince one that the subject is exciting more attention from the manufacturers than ever. As a rule, each year brings some change in the cut or style of our underwear, the change being determined and governed by the lines of our outer garments. This year, on account of the close fit of things, all unnecessary fullness, particularly from the knees up, is avoided. Garments are cut to fit close to the figure. Below the knees, however, full flounces embroidered or lace trimmed, soften the hard lines and give the necessary frou-frou. The combination of drawers or petticoat and chemise has taken a firm hold and this is made either on princess lines or fitted into a narrow waist band, the idea being to keep the waist small. Drawers are made so wide that they look like a short skirt, and by a series of darts, the fullness on the hips is eliminated. The same result can be obtained by having the garment cut bias on the hips. Skirt, drawers and chemise have been cleverly combined in one, and the result has proved very practical. For separate petticoats, white pongee has superseded lawn and nainsook on account of its soft and clinging qualities, and messaline and foulard are to be highly recommended on account of their durability and practicability. They are cut without much fullness and most of them have tucked flounces, the tucks running up and down, instead of around, and the very smart ones showing a trimming of fringe. It is a very useful plan to have deep flounces attached to the petticoat with pressed studs or buttons all around. One may then have a set of flounces matching different gowns.

The draw string has happily vanished and we now have our underskirts cut or darted to fit the figure, or in the case of flannel petticoats, which are again to the fore, mounted on a deep yoke.

In night gowns there is little change. Yoke effects are most in evidence and the influence of the peasant style is seen in the cut of the sleeve and yoke in one. Much embroidery is used, Madiera and French being easily the leaders. A very dainty trimming, the charm of which lies in its simplicity and sheerness, is white dotted swiss, with insets and edging of Val. Yokes and sleeves of this, as well as deep flounces are delightful additions to the less flimy batiste and lawn of our lingerie.

The day of the abnormally small waist is over. Paris has made the law and every one is following it joyously that the natural figure is the fashionable one, and long, supple lines with narrow hips and straight front are the results sought by the corsetiere of today. Long bones are not necessary to produce this figure. The corset is cut long, to be sure, but it is the coutil or brocade cleverly cut to confine the dimensions that gives the pliant graceful line without undue compression. Perfect freedom is given to the chest by the low bust. For out-of-door sports there are short girdle corsets of tricot, boned rather sparingly, but well enough to insure a trim appearance without interfering with the necessary elasticity. The Brassiere or boned corset cover has become, on account of the low cut bust of the corset, a necessity to the well dressed woman, who realizes that without a perfect foundation, the effect of the handsomest gown is spoiled. This is made in several styles, each carefully cut and ingeniously boned to give support to the bust, and at the same time to hold the shoulders back and add to the correct poise, given by the well fitting corset. It is made of strong lawn with embroidery or lace.

Negligees in a host of styles ranging from the imported creations in chiffon and silk, labeled tea gowns, to the simplest wrappers are being shown today. The ever popular kimona is still with us in silk and modifications of this style in which much of the fullness is left out and fastenings are added in front, are used in the light woolen materials. Embroidery is the most suitable trimming for this. Flannel does not possess the charm of silk for these indispensable rest gowns, but a very satisfactory result can be obtained where warmth is necessary by having the gown made of wash silk crepe, with a slip lining of white cashmere. A very charming gown is of fine flannel in a lavender shade. It fits well on the shoulder and falls from there in soft folds. The fastening is on the left side, the hooks being hidden by a scalloped band of the material, embroidered in white, which outlines the neck and is continued all the way down the front. The sleeves fit as far as the elbow, where they flare showing frills of white silk underneath. A silk rope girdle confines the fullness in some semblance of figure.

One of the new dressing gowns specially adapted to the exigencies of modern travel is called a "Pullman Gown." It is made with a hood and deep shoulder cape, and is fitted with large pockets on either side. The sleeves are long and the garment buttons all the way down. Tussore is the material used.

What the Boy Wears

There is one style feature noticeable in boys' clothes this fall; it is the tendency toward mannishness. This distinctive feature is most seen in the lapels, which are narrower and longer than in previous seasons' models.

In the overcoats, especially, the mannish patterns abound, and there is great effort made to shape the garment to the form, and to reproduce the men's models in miniature. The juvenile overcoats are to a great extent double-breasted. The leading materials are Scotch friezes and rough cheviots. Brown is the predominant color, though many gray and mixed blue effects are shown. The little fellows' overcoats are in greens, tans, blues and browns and many of the finer grades are trimmed with Persian lamb or sealskin. In dress suits for these little fellows in ages from 2 and 1½ to 7 years there are many white serge Russian and Norfolk effects shown with contrasting shades of pink, lavender and blue in the ties, cuffs and shields. Blue and brown broadcloth suits have great popularity for everyday wear.

For street and school wear suits for boys from 7 to 16 years, Norfolks and single-breasted, two-piece effects are chiefly shown, these in worsteds, cassimeres, cheviots and tweeds. The coats are cut after the men's models and show a decided dip front. Overplaids are the chief pattern effects employed.

In sizes from 5 to 12 years of age, the Norfolk coat, double-breasted and single-breasted, is the favorite in most localities. The single-breasted Norfolk is the better.

Single-breasted coat suits with vest are also looked upon as good in sizes from 7 to 18 years of age.

Peg-top knickerbockers, pegged just like men's pants, are the latest production of an enterprising manufacturer of boys' trousers.

After considerable experimenting on the part of the designers, the desired peg was obtained. It has a decided curve over the hips, with the usual waist band and waist lining. The trousers have two back pockets with flaps, side pockets and a watch pocket. They have the regulation knee straps, but in every other respect are just like men's.

It is a forgone conclusion that this idea will appeal to the boys, as it is natural for them to want to appear manly. A style that has met with considerable favor throughout the country is one with pants made similar to the riding breeches, fastened at the knee with four buttons.

In boys' hats there are but two styles accepted as really appropriate for the school boys. They are the Eton caps and the telescoped soft hats.

Shoe styles for boys show practically no changes. Common sense lasts, with moderate heels and conservative round toes, are the best choice. Patent leathers are popular for dress wear, the former seems the most popular.

In the skirts, small patterns of black and white or blue and white are considered best for the season, these in swivel or conventional designs. Red ties are very fashionable for the boys in four-in-hand styles and also in Windsor ties, and in these latter bright plaids of red tones are also exceedingly popular.

RAINFALL IN PANAMA.

Scientific American: The heaviest rainfall ever recorded for a single day on the Isthmus of Panama occurred during the great flood of last December, between the hours of 10 a. m., Dec. 28, and 10 a. m., Dec. 29, when the rain gauge at Porto Bello showed a fall of 10.86 inches.

The total fall for the month was 38.17 inches, which is equal to an average rate of nearly two inches a day.

RECORDED IN THE HAIRCUT.

The City Barber Looks Over the Work of His Up-State Fellow Laborer.

New York Sun: "Been out of town, haven't you?" asked the barber, with the air of a man who has got something on you.

"I can always tell where my regular customers have been by their haircut. You've been up-state."

The critical looking over that accompanied the information made the customer resolve never again to try a new barber.

"Yes, sir," continued the regular hair cutter, "whoever turned out that job sure didn't know much about hair cutting. Probably got his training in the butcher shop cutting off steaks.

"Saturday night is a bad time to get a hair cut in a small town anyway. How do I know it was Saturday night? Easiest thing in the world. If you hadn't been caught there over Sunday you'd a'waited till you got back to me.

"I'll try and fix you up, but it may take two or three cuts to get it back just right again. I had it trained just as you like it, but this butcher feller has cut off too much on the sides and he didn't preserve the neck line.

"Wish I had a cent for every time I've fixed up my customers when they come in off the road. Some of 'em look even worse 'n you do. When a regular comes in with one of those real flossy pompadours I say: 'How's things in Chicago?' Fact. That style of cut is called the James Corbett. But the only type that oughter touch that fad is those tall, blond young Germans. Dark hair cut pompadour looks like a wire hair brush."

"What style did this up-state butcher give me?" ventured the regular customer.

"You got what I'd call the convict shear," was the answer. "That is, all but the top of your head, where a fringe of hair stands out like one of mother's crocheted mats. That feller may be an A1 barber for all I know, but he done you a bad job. One reason was he never had my chance to study your style.

"I know it's unbecoming to give you a John Rockefeller shaved egg haircut. You are at your best with the college boy coiffure, as the lady hair specialists say. This time I can only fix you up so you at least won't be ashamed to take off your hat. Drop in again a few days.

"You mustn't get too sore on that up-state hair cutter," concluded the regular barber gently. "You want to remember that only one barber in 500 is a good hair-cutter. It's not alone because hair cutting requires more skill than shaving, but there's less money in it.

"A barber is paid sorter odd. The first $12, $15 or $18, according to locality and the standing of the shop, is guaranteed to him as regular wages. After that the next $10 goes to the house. Then he gets one out of every three dollars taken in after that during the week. That's the rule in most shops.

"You can see it makes a man anxious to mae his checks mount up as fast as possible. We hate a short week broke up by holidays. In that small town where you got your hair cut, when everybody puts off getting fixed up till Saturday night so as to be sweet and tidy for Sunday, you didn't have much of a show. You can't expect much of a hurry up job turned out in a jiffy, so you don't want to be too hard on that poor chap.

"By the next time I'll have every trace of his rotten work removed. Even this time I've made you look like a gentleman again. All right, sir, thank you. Always glad to see you come in. But the next time you go up-state——"

A Word With You, Madam:

Now that the Fall Season is in blossom and sooner or later you will want wearables for yourself as well as for the children, it's high time for you to consider and consider well as to where you will make your purchases. We know you want the best—we also know that you want strictly stylish and up-to-date garments, but what you ought to know is that it is not at all necessary that you pay exorbitant prices for goods made right and correct in style. Now that this city has outgrown its country clothes it has also thrown off the yoke of the high priced "exclusive" shopkeeper where garments can be bought only by the very rich on account of the enormous prices charged for them.

This store benefits you in that it places before you a choice selection of Women's, Misses' and Children's high-grade Coats, Suits, Skirts, Waists, Furs and Millinery as good and fashionable as the best stores in metropolitan cities are showing at prices that YOU CAN PAY. What good is a nice dress to you, for instance, that you may chance to see in the high-priced store when the cost of it is $35 instead of $16 or $18, as it should be, and for which price it can and is sold here. You would either have to pay $35 or so for "that" dress or go without it if you did not care to pay so much—and right here is the DIRECT benefit that you derive from a store like ours—a store founded not for the classes, but FOR THE PEOPLE. And you should encourage an establishment of this kind by getting the habit of looking around before you buy. We're not a bit anxious as to what the result would be—we're confident that you would find our assertions correct in every way.

NOTE: Our salesladies are not in the habit of saying "buy," "buy," "buy"—they are instructed to show goods and sell when YOU ARE READY—they will not urge you if you are not ready—if you wish to look around and compare values you are more than welcome here.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

By Rene Mansfield.

Most women will find cause to rejoice that the short-vamped shoe, so chic, and becoming to the foot, will continue in favor during the winter months. "There is just one reason why I should not like to live in Paris," said a fashionable woman the other day on her return from abroad. "I detest French shoes. The toes are so long they make you think of the end man in the minstrel." Even the French makers, however, are beginning to follow the lead of the Americans in footwear, as well as in other fashions

In high shoes the advance styles show several attractive new features. One of these is the use of black suede for the tops of patent leather, thirteen-button boots. Jet buttons are a decided innovation. For the dressier boots pearl buttons are also used, these and the jet buttons being cut and polished in facets. A shoe of patent kid with a cloth top is being shown with a jet buckle covering the meeting of the vamp and the top. A somewhat novel treatment of the button-fly, on another model, is an edge, each scallop of which incloses two buttons, when fastened, instead of one, as ordinarily. This shoe had also a strap of leather, like the top, stitched about the top of the vamp, forming what is called a collar, which gives a shoe a tailored look.

Many of the cloth-top shoes have the button-fly quite heavily braided at the edge, with the braiding also carried about the top of the boot. The auto-boot now plays a prominent part in the foot toggery of the up-to-date woman. A trig boot of this description had a patent vamp, kid top, and a patent cuff about the top of the boot finished with a tassel.

Pumps will hold their own for dressy and dancing wear during the coming season. Corded silks and satins in the evening shades will be greatly used, and black suedes and velvets, the latter sometimes set off with a small gold buckle and perhaps a finish of filigree gold about the base of the heel, are sure to be popular. The Roman sandal, in patent or suede leathers, with its many straps buttoning bewitchingly over silken hose, it is predicted will be greatly favored later in the season, as it will be particularly in harmony with the prevailing modes in gowns.

The styles in hosiery show little change this season. The woman of fastidious taste clings, summer and winter, to the fine black lisle, or silk hose as her purse allows, indulging in delicately embroidered ones, perhaps, for dressy occasions. She will welcome a new idea for saving the hosiery about the top, where the strain of the elastics works such havoc. This is a sort of cuff that fits above the knee to which the stocking and elastic are fastened, which should prolong the life of the gayest hosiery at least a little while beyond its usually brief span.

Apropos of the Separate Blouse

Each year brings rumors of the waning popularity of the separate blouse; but as the season advances one finds a wide range of new models strong enough to convince the most skeptical that instead of dropping from sight, this popular garment is becoming more indispensable than ever as the years roll on. The reason of this popularity is not hard to find. The blouse, whether a plain tailored shirt or an elaborate creation of lace and chiffon, strikes the key-note of appropriateness in the tailor-made suit and bridges what would otherwise be an impassable gulf between the street costume and the luncheon or impromptu dinner gown. As might be expected, the list of materials used is a long and varied one. For the out-of-doors girl there are attractive flannels, unshrinkable, in all weights, and linen, pique and madras in a multitude of weaves and patterns. The increased demand for wash shirtwaists during the winter has brought forth a number of new designs in which stripes have a prominent place. Cotton crepe, marquisette and voile are delightfully soft, and are particularly well suited to the different embroideries, while the varied weaves of lawn, batiste and printed linen combine well with lace, and are strong favorites on account of their practical qualities—laundering well and preserving to the last their fresh, crispy appearance. For dressy occasions, the waist usually matches the skirt and coat in color. The pretty fashion of veiling the gown is seen in the use of chiffon or net, draped gracefully on a silk or satin foundation. Very often this is heavily embroidered in a darker shade, while a note of light is sometimes given by the introduction of silver thread at the collar and wrist, or an inter-lining of cloth of silver or gold. In linen or madras the only cut permissible is a strictly mannish one, and in this, little fullness, stiff cuffs with sleeve links, and high collars are the most noticeable features. Soft, linen stocks, carefully boned on the sides, or high collars of heavy lace, finished with a jabot of the same, or natty bow of silk, give the necessary touch of feminity to these practical garments. Softer lines and more elaboration are found in the waists of marquisette and voile. Here the hand embroidery, so dear to the hearts of most women, forms the only trimming, and French embroidery, Hardanger and cross-stitch are used with equal artistic value on the newest models. With the departure of the hot days, one bids a reluctant farewell to the Dutch neck, and the high collar comes into its own again. As much of the smart appearance of the waist depends on the trim finish, it behooves us to see that our collars fit well and are carefully boned so that they keep in shape. A flat bow of velvet worn directly under the chin is a popular fad and one that is very generally becoming. At the top of the collar a narrow piping of white has replaced the ruching of last season. The new sleeves show a tendency to greater fullness, but it is not marked, and manifests itself particularly in the shape of little frills, tucks or ornamentation. The short sleeve has vanished, and unless for semi-dress occasions, the sleeve is long and fits well around the wrist. Oversleeves in three-quarter length, fitting over the under part of lace or net so closely as to look like one sleeve, are among the latest dictates of fashion. A favorite model of the summer which retains much of its popularity is the sleeve cut in one with the bodice in a sort of modified kimona effect. This gives a very graceful shoulder line, and in soft materials chiffon, charmeuse and the silk crepes—it is especially good. Unless very carefully fitted, however, this sleeve is apt to hamper the free movement of the arm, and care should be taken to have the under part quite high and the sleeve loose. For this reason it is used only on the more dressy blouses.

LUCINDA'S EXPERIENCES.

New York Sun: "Now this, you know," said Lucinda, "didn't really amount to anything at all, and still it was altogether the most frightful experience I have ever had."

"There was a mother rolling a very small baby along the sidewalk in a baby carriage and toddling along at the mother's side was a little 2-year-old child, just a little more than able to walk, it could even run a little in its way, and just back of this party there came along a woman with a dog.

"I don't know much about dogs and so I don't know what kind of a dog this was, but it was a brindle dog and not very big, and when this dog saw the small child walking along beside its mother it trotted up near to the toddler.

"When the child saw the dog coming up to it like that it toddled ahead faster, and then the dog thought the child was playing with it, and now it ran after the child, all in play you know, but when the child looked around again and saw the dog so close—it was only a small dog, but remember, to the little child it must have looked monstrous—when the child saw the dog coming up close like that it screamed with terror.

"Then the mother looked and when she saw the dog so close to the child she screamed too; I don't suppose we could imagine the frightful fancies that filled her mind of the danger of her child, and she fairly swooped down on the little one and snatched it off the sidewalk and lifted it up as high as she could hold it and turned to the woman that owned the dog and screamed:

"'Take it away! Take it away!'

"And the other woman called the dog and the dog trotted back to her peacefully enough, and that's all there was to it, and maybe you don't think this is much, but for great, concentrated terror I have never heard anything to equal those frightful screams. It was yesterday that I heard them, but I can hear them still, and even now, every time, it gives me a cold creepy chill."

Misrepresentation in a store's advertising is as rare as—murder! And no more profitable as a business policy.

Little Aids for the Fall Housecleaning

Housecleaning is getting to be a thoroughly tame proceeding. It steals upon the unsuspecting master of the house like a person with rubber heels and before he knows that it has struck the household, it is over and done with. No more is he requested to give a lift to the parlor rug that it may be strung along a line in the back yard and beaten to a pulp; no more does he stumble over the davenport on the front steps and hurdle the mattress on the back porch. It is the day of dustless dusting and deceased beatings.

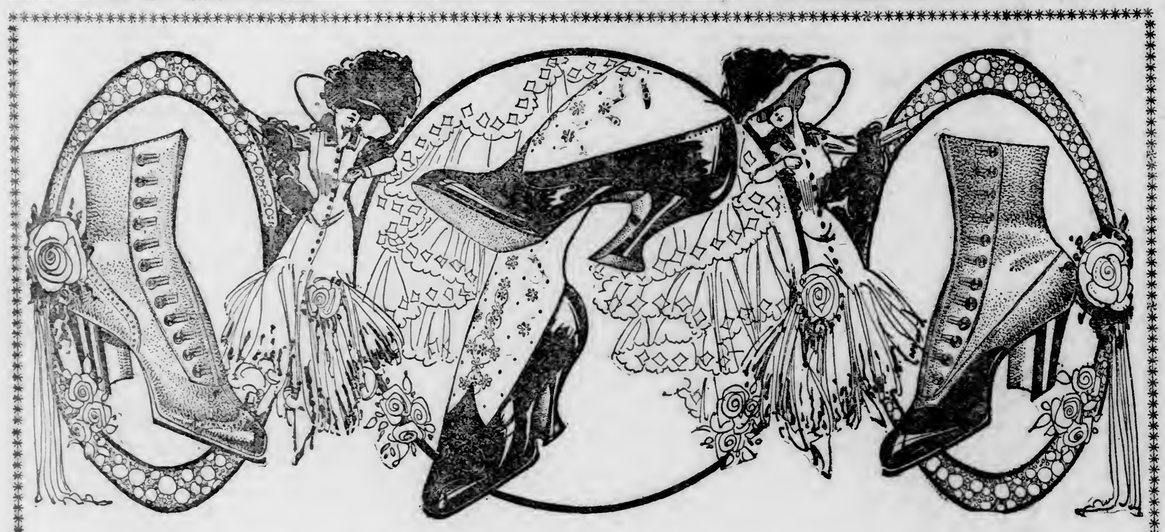

A vacuum cleaner is now almost as necessary a household article as the carpet sweeper. One has recently been put on the market which is simply constructed and easily operated, and which costs only $5. It is made on the principle of the bicycle pump except that the suction is made to draw the dirt out. Appliances are always furnished with these cleaners which are especially adapted for cleaning cushions, curtains and the crevices of mattresses and upholstered furniture.

Then there is the dustless dust cloth. This cloth is chemically treated so that it absorbs every particle of dust and will allow none of it to be whisked from one object to another. It can be washed in soap and water without affecting the peculiar properties of it. There is a new sort of silver polish, also, in the form of a liquid in which the silver may be immersed. When removed and rubbed briskly a high polish is produced. This will be a comfort to housewives who have dreaded silver cleaning because of the gritty dust that is bound to get on the hands and in the hair.

Perhaps the story of the small boy who tried to scub the kitchen floor by skating over it blithely with scrubbing brushes strapped to both feet may have suggested adding a long handle to the back-breaking scrubbing brush. The most practicable brush of this sort has an adjustable handle which may be set at any angle desired, and which may also be placed so that the brush may be propelled in either a lengthwise or crosswise position.

If the general renovating of the house this fall includes new furniture, the discarded chairs and other articles may be quite easily refinished for use in the bedrooms, perhaps. There is now a varnish remover which will do away with the tedious sandpapering heretofore necessary. It is a liquid that is applied with a sponge. When it is wiped off after a short time it will remove every trace of varnish.

A clever woman who herself enameled an entire bedroom set which was originally golden oak, devised some new hangings, also, for the room to take the place of the faded and whipped-out curtains, that summer suns and rains had ruined. She got some unbleached sheeting, of the width sold for single beds and dyed it with a package of dyes. The white enamel with which she had painted her furniture she had tinted a pale green, so that she made her hangings a shade darker. A four-inch hem at the bottom with one or two inches at the top and sides made a neat finish. From the portions of the old curtains which had not faded she then cut the large pink roses and applied them on the sheeting to form a border, outlining the whole with carpet warp.

Every popular style is included in this great showing. Every wood that makes desirable and dependable furniture, is shown in the latest finishes. The best styles from the best builders.

A Dining Room Suite in Flander Period.

The Flanders Period for Library, Living Room and Dining Room.

This style of furniture will at once meet with the approval of homefurnishers to whom the Mission lines are too severe and straight. The Flanders style is very much on the order of the Mission style, but is softened somewhat by the turned posts.

For the Library, Living Room and Dining Room no style is better adapted. It has the simple, massive, comfortable effect so much desired in these rooms, and the soft color tones of the finish and upholstery is especially adapted to the decorations in vogue.

A great deal of space on our display floors is devoted to this particular style. You are cordially invited to call and see the display.

For the Living Room, Handcraft Furniture!

is perhaps the most desirable and the most popular with people of refined tastes throughout the entire country.

Its simple lines appeal to the taste and its apparent serviceability appeals to the practical homefurnisher.

We show, exclusively, the line built by L. & J. G. Stickley, the originators and builders of Handcraft Furniture. These master cabinet makers are authority on Handcraft Furniture and their shops at Fayetteville, N. Y., turn out the truest conception of this style of fniture of any shop in the country.

As exclusive selling agents in Duluth for the L. & J. G. Stickley line, we invite an early inspection of the magnificent display shown on our floors.

FAVORED FEATURES OF The NEW HOMES

By Rene Mansfield.

The last nail has been driven in thousands of new homes whose building has been watched with eager interest all through the summer months. Mother has found a sunny window for the canary; Father has stowed away his kit of tools; Daughter has arranged the sofa cushions, and Sonny has been told where to hang his hat and keep his shotgun. The new home is no longer a house o' dreams; it is a clean, shining reality where cheery lamps welcome the home-comer, as the days begin to shorten—where smoldering logs light the hearth as the evenings grow chill.

They are, above all else, abodes of comfort, these thousands of American homes just finished. They reflect the tendency of the times, in house building, at least, toward substantial simplicity. Even in homes of great wealth the aim has been to produce effects of chaste elegance and not pretentious luxury. Never has the man of moderate means been so well able to build a home so suited to his needs and so artistic as at the present time. Architects generally are putting forth their best efforts to design attractive homes that may be built for sums ranging from $2,500 to $5,000. In fact many delightful bungalows are being built for $1,500.

Indeed, probably more so-called bungalows are being erected than any other style of dwelling. Bungalow has come to be such an elastic term in this country that it is applied to many houses which may not rightly be given the euphonius name. Bungalow is the name given to certain Bengalese houses, but it is said that the inns or hotels built by the English in India are the only real bungalows to be found there. These are long, low buildings with wide veranadas and overhanging eaves, which are never built with a second story. We apply the term to anything from a log cabin to a concrete palace. The preferred building materials for the bungalow are cement, logs, field-stone and slabs on an ordinary stud frame. Among other desirable styles of architecture that have been favored for the small house is the English cottage, the Spanish hacienda, the Italian villa, and the Swiss chalet.

A most attractive house of the latter style has just been completed which has a somewhat uniquie arrangement of the rooms. The house was set high up on a foundation of rustic rock, which eliminated the expense of excavation. This afforded a basement in which was the den, the laundry, a lavatory, heater room and vegetable room. The den had a brick fireplace with an inglenook, paneled wainscoting, and attractive casement windows. Upon the first floor was the living room, the dining room, butler's pantry, two bedrooms and bath. On the second were three bedrooms and a sleeping balcony. A feature noticeable in this house, as in most new houses, was the large number of built-in pieces, made to appear as an integral part of the interior

There was the seat next to the stairway, with its hinged top, which would be convenient for umbrellas and rubbers and the like. A long mirror was set in the door of the closet nearby, should one wish to cast a parting glance thereln. In the living room were the bookcases built across the whole length of the room, on either side of the fireplace. The radiator was concealed under a long, low window seat. In the dining room a china closet filled in the corner of the room, while the buffet was embedded in the side wall. Cupboards and linen closets filled the passage to the kitchen, where glass-doored and glass-shelved cupboards were on every side. Even the flour bin was a fixture.

It would seem to be carrying this idea to extremes to have beds built in the walls, but the practicability of so doing is soon demonstrated. In the lounging room of a country house two regulation Pullman sleeper berths were concealed in the wainscoting. When they were closed one would never have guessed their presence. They are let down by simply pressing a button, and are used often when large house parties tax the capacity of the place.

In many of the new homes has been installed an entirely new method of illumination which has been a matter of experimentation for a long time. The perfection of the powerful tungsten filament and the invention of a mirror reflector that is plated with silver has made practicable and highly satisfactory a method of indirect illumination that is said to be the nearest approach to daylight yet attained. When this reflector is placed beneath an electric lamp with the tungsten filament—which produces three times the illumination of a lamp with carbon filament—the intense light is reflected to the ceiling and thence distributed with a uniform radiance of a soft clear nature like moonlight.

The fixtures for this manner of lighting are most artistic. The plainer ones now in use consist of one or more inverted domes of brushed brass that are swung from the ceiling on chains. Some of the more elaborate domes have their metal fret work lined with soft silk in colors to harmonize with the decorations of the room.

There is also a noticeable improvement in the disposal of radiators in the modern house. Many are concealed under upholstered window seats, or are of such size and shape as to be less obtrusive than the huge gilt things that were invariably in the best corner of the room. An evaporation pan has just apeared which will do away with the motley assortment of bowls and pans to be found on the average radiator. This is of Russian zinc, painted the same as the radiator, and is about four inches high with a capacity of several gallons. It may be clamped firmly to the radiator so that there is no danger of its upsetting—but what a fish-pond and sea of adventure it may prove to the youthful investigator!

An excellent idea recently adopted by many builders is the rounded corners in the kitchen and sometimes in the bedrooms and bathroom. This simplifies cleaning immensely and from a sanitary standpoint is infinitely superior to inaccessible corners where may lurk dust and germs.

THE USE OF COSMETICS.

Apropos of the extravagant use of cosmetics in New York, a witticism is credited to Reginald Vanderbilt. A lady said to Mr. Vanderbilt at one of the "comet suppers" at the Plaza:

"There are the three Van Twiller girls."

"Are they all three still unmarried?" Mr. Vanderbilt asked.

"Yes," said the lady. "They're rich and pretty, too. It's odd they don't go off."

"Isn't it?" said Mr. Vanderbilt. "They use enough powder."

Neckwear Furbelows for Fall

The vogue of the tailored suit for fall and winter, which wise ones say will eclipse all previous popularity, insures a continuous offering of novelties for the neck, many of which have already made their appearance.

Although for late fall the comfortable low collars will no doubt hold on tenaciously in all their infinite variety of Dutch, mildy and Byron effects, the high, stiff, starched linen collars of prehistoric times are approaching by inches, one might say. The revival during the summer of the medium height, embroidered turnover collar was a step in this direction and before the winter season is over the woman who submits to the dictates of fashion will have a nice, rough, red rim about her throat that it will take next summer's collarless comfort to remove. Not so torturous and quite as smart are the stock collars that are finished with low ties, ascots, four-in-hands, or the once-over style.

Velvet bow ties are very modish, while the gay four-in-hand of satin in the bandanna design and coloring will give just the touch of color a sombre suit may need. Windsor ties as well as silk ribbons in the beautiful Persian effects are most attractive with linen and with the dark silk blouses. This bit of Persian color is happily employed on a pleated collar of white batiste, which is edged with a band of the Persian silk and has the inner band extended into a small tie with padded ends.

A decided novelty in a Byron collar, suitable for fall wear, had an under collar of white net edged with a frilling of lace. Over this was a collar of black satin which was edged with Persian mull and came just to the inner edge of the frill. A black satin four-in-hand completed this most attractive neck rigging.

Ruchings promise to be considerably wider than they have been. A frill that was fully an inch and a half in width was noticed at the top of a white mull collar which had also shaped turnovers heavily embroidered in blue. The becoming black velvet band has reappeared in inch widths, topped with a one-inch ruche of black maline. This may be worn as a collar in itself or over any high collar. Some of the ruchings shown have bias bands of satin or mousseline or Persian chiffon. The bewitching little butterfly bows are particularly dainty and attractive when they have under wings of delicate-toned mousseline and upper wings of the gorgeous Persian net or chiffon.

The quaint fichu and Quaker collars will be in good style when worn with simple evening gowns this winter. These range from the real laces to the simple ones of pleated net edged with lace, and may be depended upon to turn many a summer gown into a very presentable dancing frock.

A Word About Gloves.

One of the authoritative words about gloves is that the purse-straining long gloves will be with us again in goodly numbers. The dressy velvet gowns and suits that will be worn this season, with three-quarter length sleeves and even, it is predicted, with elbow sleeves, will again establish their reign.

Another word of a sort of counteracting character is that for everyday wear, the chamolsette gloves, which are now being made in black and dark colors and tan, will prove as durable and look as neat and attractive as the imitation chamois gloves which were such a boon during the summer.

PROMISES.

Chicago News: "It's a pretty good world, after all," remarked the retired merchant. "I have been casting about recently for some enterprise to embark in, and my friends promise me their support and patronage, no matter what I may decide upon."

"Oh, yes, they're always lavish with their promises," replied the hotelkeeper with a snort of disgust, "but when it comes to delivering the goods they have important engagements elsewhere. I wouldn't give a counterfeit nickel for all the promises in the United States, not if they were done up in muslin wrappers and tied with pink ribbons. If I had some money to spare I might buy a few ready-made postholes or a couple of cans of fried moonlight, or a photograph of Dr. Cook, but I wouldn't invest a cent in promises. I got enough of promises when I ran for mayor of this town four years ago.

"I had no more idea of running for mayor than you have of eloping with your grandmother, when a committee of prominent citizens, headed by Judge Chamberlain, came around and said the town was up against a crisis and the taxpayers who were tired of municipal corruption insisted that I should be their standard bearer.

"They put it up to me as a moral duty to be a candidate. Judge Chamberlain made a speech that moved the whole bunch to tears, in which he spoke of pibrochs and slogans and clarion notes, and referred to the gathering of the clans, and said that I had been chosen to remove a blot from the escutcheon of our fair city."

"What is an escutcheon?" asked the retired merchant.

"I'll be hanged if I know, but there was a blot on it, and I was tagged to wipe it out. Of course I consented to run.

"The announcement that I would run was made in the morning paper, and it seemed that everybody in town was rallying to my support. People stopped me on the street to promise that they would vote for me as often as possible on election day, and would endeavor to hypnotize their friends into doing the same. They said their faith in our institutions and the sacred palladiums was renewed and restored by my candidacy. When a man of my character and attainments consented to sacrifice his own personal interests in order to wipe out the blot on the town's escutcheon the world was given a lesson in patriotism.

"I tell you, my friend, after I had listened to this sort of conversation for a couple of days I began to get quite chesty, and I made up my mind that the rest of my life would be devoted to the great work of removing blots from escutcheons. I had in my mind some sort of cleaning establishment where people might bring their escutcheons and have them cleaned and pressed while they waited.

"The opposing candidate was a tool of the interests, or so he was described by Judge Chamberlain. He stood for all that was base and corrupt in politics, and it was evident that he was going to receive a crushing rebuke at the polls. I almost felt sorry for him when I saw him going around town in blissful ignorance of the humiliating defeat that was in store for him. Nearly every man in town had promised to vote for me, and all the pibrochs and clairon notes were in my favor, and you couldn't pick up a newspaper without seeing something about the job of dry-cleaning that I was going to do on the town's escutcheon, and the clans were gathering—in the saloons and elsewhere—and I naturally had sympathy for an opponent who was going to be stamped into the ground.

"There was no end to the promises. People used to call me up by telephone at all hours of the night to tell me that they could hardly wait until election day, they were so anxious to vote for me, and I received a bushel of letters every mail.

"Well, sir, election day came, and you remember the outcome. The tool of the interests got there with both feet, and I didn't have a look-in. They had used me as a doggone stalking horse. Even as an also ran I didn't stack up knee high. The thing that jarred me most was the fact that Judge Chamberlain voted for the tool of the interests and was appointed city attorney for it."

SKEPTICAL BEN.

Lady Cook (she was the beautiful and clever Tennessee Claflin before her marriage) told a New York reporter the other day that American women, under the new English king, would not be so popular as they were under King Edward.

"King Edward liked Americans," she said; "but King George's wife is very aristocratic and exclusive, and I am as skeptical of the American woman's future in London as Franklin was of matrimony.

"'He that takes a wife,' said Franklin skeptically, 'takes care.'

"Then he added more skepptically still:

"'But he that takes care doesn't take a wife.'"

RELIGION DOMINATES DANISH COURT.

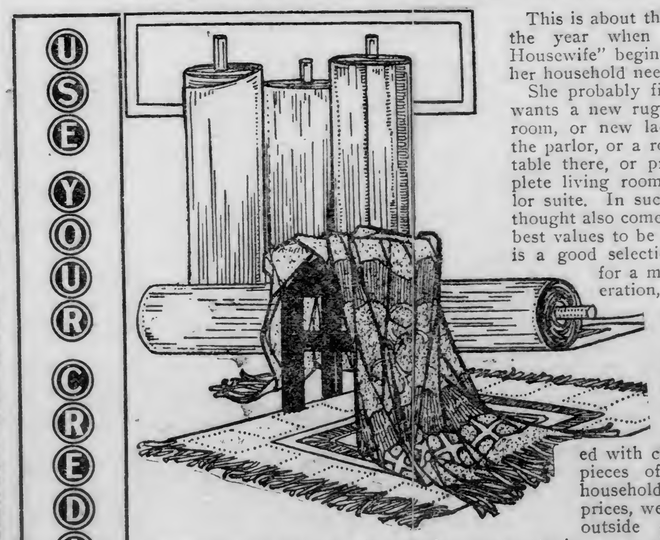

Strand: The royal families of England and Denmark are linked by marriage, but there is not much brilliance in the court of Copenhagen. This northern capital has the shortest season on record. It begins in February and ends in March.

The queen of Denmark is of a serious nature and decidedly religious turn of mind. However, courts are held, and there are some palace entertainments. Trains are not compulsory at the Danish court, but full evening dress is required, and men wear their uniforms on some of these occasions. Black is not allowed at court; white is. But there is one thing that is uncommon in the court ceremonial. The wives of the nobility and of high officials when in mourning have a right to wear a peaked headdress.

Etiquette in Copenhagen is different from that which prevails in London. Newcomers are expected to ask to be introduced to those whom they meet in the houses where they visit, and it is usual for them to leave cards at once on the residents. Dinners are early even in the smart set—at six-thirty or seven. The service is slow, and the long evening that follows is apt to be a trifle monotonous.

When You Can Buy For Less
Then Why Pay More?

This is about the usual time of the year when the "Modern Housewife" begins to discover her household needs.

She probably finds that she wants a new rug for the dining room, or new lace curtains for the parlor, or a rocker here, or a table there, or probably a complete living room suite, or parlor suite. In such instances the thought also comes where are the best values to be had, and where is a good selection. Now, just for a moment's consideration, let us say to you that our Nineteenth avenue store ranks in size with the biggest in the city, and every foot of floor space is crowded with choice and select pieces of furniture and household goods. As for prices, we are absolutely outside of competition. Let us explain and you will see why—our rents, insurance and other operating expenses are just about half of what they are in the heart of the city. This you will plainly see, enables us to undersell and still leave us a fair margin of profit. Come out and see us—we would be pleased to give you prices on your wants. We deliver to all parts of the city and Superior.

MEN'S SECTION

Favored Fashions in MENS FALL STYLES

There is no doubt but that the death of King Edward VII has had a strong effect upon the fabrics in men's clothing for this fall and winter. Reports from England indicate a strong vogue in London for dark materials, especially in pin check effects. As high class American tailors not only construct their garments along the lines depicted by the London fashion plates, but import practically all their fabrics from England, it is highly probable that American cloth mills and clothing manufacturers will follow this tendency. Pin checks in the lighter shades which showed such popularity the past summer are being transformed into more somber tones, the black and white predominating.

It is quite pronounced in the advance fall showings that there is a strong leaning toward gray, both in solid colors and in mixtures. These materials are of the class known in the trade as Bannockburn (a sort of a tweed from a town of that name near Glasgow (Scotland) and pin checks, both of these effects being popular in England as "Kings' Mourning." A predominance of black and white and somber gray also reflects this tendency.

The younger American element have for some time past been making a strong effort to throw off the yoke of English suggestion in their fashions and with no small degree of accomplishment. This will be especially noticeable this season as the English fashions will lose much caste in this country since King Edward, the recognized dean of the fashion world, has found no accepted successor. Therefore, while the more conservative men will adopt the "King's Mourning" effects, the younger element and their adherents are coming out strong for browns in novelty patterns. The plaid effects are said to be the best, while sams have the stripes in addition. Nothing is shown in the solid shades of brown. Everything shown for fald is in the soft finish effect, cassimeres and soft finished serges being most prominent, both in imported and domestic materials. Besides the grays and browns, blues will be very popular.

Chanticleer novelties will be a feature of the season. The idea is used in the baterial rather than in the style of the garment. The fabrics are soft finished ones, with small red or brown pin dots sprinkled throughout. The effect is a reddish or brownish hue, very rich in appearance.

The fall models in suits and overcoats show practically on changes. The cutaway frock coat is the most notable among the new fall garments. Some of the garments have silk braid edges and cuffs, and on the outside seam of the trousers as well. This style of coat can be appropriately accompanied by gray striped trousers and fancy waistcoat. For semi-formal wear, as well as for business, it gives promise of considerable popularity for the fall season. The favored fabric for the cutaway frock coat is the soft finished worsted. The suit styles are gradually getting away from the extreme broad shoulders, and this season decidedly favors the English natural shoulder effect—a narrow shoulder. The coat is also cut closer fitting around the waist, defining the dip effect. These coats, however, are cut full in the chest. The coats are also shorter than has been seen in many seasons; however, the extreme short coat has not yet arrived. The sack coat is still the popular garment. The peg-top and semi-peg-top trousers, which originated with the college youth and were taken up later by the younger element, are gradually giving way to the more conservative types. The regular cut trousers, which prevailed before the peg-top, are now considered proper.

In overcoats, as in suits, there is a call for the wool and soft finish fabrics. The popularity is caused by the great variety of patterns which can not be had in worsteds, except in the higher priced materials. The combination military collars for overcoats continue to make their appearance. Although constructed on many different principles, the effect obtained in all are very similar. Ordinarily the lapel effect is shown, and for stormy or cold weather the lapel or collar is adjusted to button close to the neck, giving the military style. The regular set lay-down collar, however, is still the vogue on the finer garments, notwithstanding that the convertible collar adds much to the serviceability of the gamrent.

The three-quarter length Chesterfield is still the popular garment with the ulsterete and raglan shaped coats following closely in favor. The frock overcoat seems to grow more fashionable as it grows more popular, and this in spite of the fact that it is not an easy overcoat to don when one is wearing evening clothes. The man who is wise and can afford it usually has two of these overcoats of different weights—a rather light one for day wear with a cutaway or frock coat, and a much heavier one for evening wear. Both are of rough material, with velvet collar and three buttons. There is usually a rather wide peaked lapel, and the smartest men always wear these coats with only two of the three buttons in use. The lapels roll softly to the second button.

Something rather new, noticed the other day, was an overcoat for evening wear, combining the style of a single-breasted Chesterfield, with long soft lapels and the old-fashioned Inverness cape. The front is that of the Chesterfield overcoat—possibly a little bit looser—while the back, fitted with the capo, reminds one of the Inverness. It is rather smart looking, and one can get into it very easily without danger of disarranging his tie or the set of his waistcoat. The lapels, faced with silk, are similar to those of an evening coat, only much larger. This coat's advantage over the old Inverness is that it is very much warmer. It is simply an innovation and it is doubtful whether it will command any amount of public favor.

The style changes in dress clothes are so slight as to make chronicling difficult of lucidity. The best models are practically the same as those of last season.

If, through some special gift of business clairvoyancy, you could estimate the number of people who during last week should have patronized your store, but who were influenced by the other store's advertising to go there instead, you'd have insomnia.

The chanticleer is now making a bid for man's approval as a fashion embellishment, particularly in the coloring and designs of neckwear. The latest is a brilliant red—the color of the cock's comb—with a variety of designs in accordance with the latest fashion craze. It remains to be seen what degree of success the chanticleer scarf will achieve. The assured successes of the season in neckwear are those of Persian and Moorish design. In these, the predominant colors are royal purple, garnet and ruby.

A novelty in neckwear effects just launched are those known as college stripes. These are in four-in-hand shape, with lengthwise stripes of innumerable combinations, representative of the college or high school colors.

The knitted and crocheted ties are getting considerable patronage with the really discriminating dressers. This is due to the fact that such exquisite designs and color combinations are shown that men who have an "eye for the beautiful" find these rich scarfs simply irresistible.

All the patterns in neckwear this season seem to run to the bold effects, bold not so much in point of color as in character of design. Many of the designs are of the leaf and feather nature, with a generous proportion of vine effects. Bold diagonal effects are also quite prominently placed in the edicts.

As to shape, the four-in-hand rules supreme. These are just wide enough at the knot to be accommodated to the narrow collar, and wide enough to make the graduated effect from that point to the end graceful. Ascot and Ile Joinville effects will have some adherents for wear with the frock coats. It is still the vogue that the neckwear and the hosiery match in shade, in fact, it is even accentuated this season in certain fashionable quarters by making these two items match in fabric as well as in color tone. These effects show the ties of either knit or tubular texture, and the hose of silk of the same material. Silk and wool and silk plaited materials are also so employed. Aside from this innovation, the hosiery effects are the same as for several seasons past, excepting that the shades in vogue follow those prevailing in the neckwear fashions.

The shirt fashions for fall in a great measure show the same fabrics and weaves that have for several seasons been established as the most fashionable and practical. These are madras, cheviots, oxfords and percales. Small conventional designs and stripes of various widths are in favor for the season. Self stripes are popular and wide stripes decorated with swivel designs, flowers, vines, etc., are seen in the fashionable shops. Blue, gray, tan and black and white effects are shown with the most prominence, but combinations of the more delicate shades are extremely well thought of and are largely displayed in the higher grade lines.

There are many novelties introduced in walking sticks and umbrellas. The canes, especially, show some unique conceptions. One novelty is the lacquer stick with crystal ball or head set with turquoise to match the waistcoat buttons, pins or links. Another has a small watch set in the head of the cane. Still another shows a match box imbedded in the head of the cane and some even have a receptacle for cigarettes. About the same woods and handle effects are employed as heretofore with a variety of ideas in carvings and trimmings.

One of the recent features in jewelry is the lapel watch fob. These are shown in chain, leather and ribbon effects with various unique designs for the lapel button. Many of the buttons attached to the fob are initialed, monogrammed or set with inexpensive stones. These fobs attach with a button in the lapel button hole and permit the watch to rest conveniently in the upper outside pocket of the coat. The popular style of wearing flannel and silk shirts the year round has introduced new effects in soft collar pins and links. There are new links especially adapted to the fashionable French cuffs. These links and pins come in matched sets of pearl and gold or set with semi-precious stones. Scarf holders are also enjoying a marked return to popularity.

The close-set collar reigns supreme for business and day wear, with little hope of the wing collar crowding it. The Ascot ties, which give some indication of returning, may add somewhat to the popularity of the wing collar, but for the present the wing collar divides honors with the poke collar for dress wear.

Gloves offer little scope for variation of style and accordingly there is not much defined this season. The gloves are best selected when in color harmony with the tone of the overcoat or reefer. There is a preference for the button effects over the clasped. Brown shades and grays are the most fashionable. The brown shades are shown mostly in the mocha, glace and cape materials and the grays in the suede and cheverette effects.

The creative spirit in men's wearing apparel has no more inviting field than that of fancy vests. One reason for this might be that fancy vests are suitable for formal wear, evening wear, dressy wear and daily wear. The Parisian styles in fancy vests seem to be returning to the double-breasted effects. The front of the vests have various cuts, some in V shapes, while others have the appearance of a lozenge on the breast. The collarless vest is still good, although worn for the past few seasons. Plain pockets without lapels are again in vogue. The styles are all single-breasted, shaped in at the waist. They are cut very high, so that at least one button will show above the lapels of the coat. The majority are without the collar. Plain colors, black and white stripes, and a few floral designs compose the line. Whites, grays and tans are the most prominent colors. According to the Morning Leader, an English publication, evening dress waistcoats are not made with quite such a decided point at the opening as they used to be. The expanse of shirt front should not be excessive. In one of the Fifth avenue shops a new and striking waistcoat has just been displayed. The feature is the material, which is an all silk knitted fabric. It is cream colored and has a wide flat silk braid of the same shade on the edges and around the pockets.

The indications in hat demands for the fall season tend to show a great increase in popularity for the soft effects in preference to the stiff shapes. The hat shapes have changed very little and the moderately low crown and wide brim will be the favorite shape. Grays, browns, tans and blacks are the better shades, while a few blues of various shades, principally dark, are mixed in to brighten the season's color scheme in headwear. The soft color in beaver effects, introduced last fall, will again be popular during the winter months, and these will be shown in many beautiful mixed effects, as well as in solid colors. The alpine shapes promise to be more popular than the telescopes. The plush hats are not much thought of by the best dressers.

Dressing gowns are becoming more a prominent feature among the smart shops and department stores, as is indicated by the increasing demand for them, which started as a holiday specialty, but has since become a staple. Some of the house gowns one sees nowadays, especially those shown in the Fifth avenue shops, cost almost as much as a woman's evening gown. They are of silk fabric in gorgeous designs. One handsome gown is of silk in a Persian design, in lavender and green. It has a long shawl collar, corded edges, fancy frogs and a silk rope girdle to match the color of the gown. The lining is of light twilled silk. In harmony with the gown is shown an unusually "classy" negligee shirt. It is a fancy light Japanese silk of old gold and green, having four box pleats, square, soft, turned-back cuffs and four pearl buttons forming links. The slippers are covered with Persian silk to harmonize with the gown.

THE STYLES this fall have caught the public favor. The men are fortunate in not having to contend with hobble skirt ideas or inverted waste baskets for hats. Almost everything shown in the better class of furnishings and hats bears the stamp of neatness and perfect blending of colors.

CRAVATS are about the only exception. On account of the changed appearance that a tieable scarf presents after manipulation, bolder floral and wide stripe effects are much employed. They break beautifully in the four-in-hand knot.

GLOVES—Tan, gray and dark green are in demand.

SHIRTS are either white, or unusually neat striped or figured.

Hosiery, Cravats, Handkerchiefs and Shirts are much matched.

SILK HATS are in favor, more so than for twenty years past. They are deservedly the dress hats on proper occasions. This season's styles are graceful, which has not always been the case.

The telescope soft hats will not down and are more than ever in demand.

Silk Hosiery is so reasonable in price now that its use is not confined to Holiday Gifts, but forms a large item in almost every day's sales. Pure thread silk half hose in all plain colors may be had for 50c a pair and upwards.

THE WONDERFUL FLEA

It is the Most Powerful Thing For Its Size That Grows.

CHARLES ROTHSCHILD has for years been the world's greatest flea collector, a strange fad for a prince of wealth, says the New York Press. Rothschild was the first to obtain and describe the Oriental rat flea, which comes from the Nile. This is the true carrier to man of the black death, which has murdered millions, untold millions, of people. The disease occurs in rats and one Oriental flea can carry it from a rat to kill a man.

Egyptian or rat fleas had been spread all over the warm countries of the world by the rats which they worry and ride. It has been proved that man fleas and cat fleas can carry plague, but not so strong or deadly as the rat flea's plague. One flea's stomach and gizzard hold 5,000 plague germs, where germs can further grow and keep alive for fifteen days, but after fifteen days white blood cells in the rat's or flea's blood kill the plague germs. Fleas suck the rat's blood, and so get white cells from the rats. Both rats and fleas become so charged that the plague stops, owing to immunity.

Charles Rothschild years ago startled the world by paying $5,000 for a pair of rare, almost unknown, Arctic fleas.

All human fleas originated in North Europe, and were originally on the badger before they learned to like to live on man. Fleas are collected and preserved in small tubes of alcohol, and no man could have believed that Rothschild's flea fad could have ever borne such valuable wisdom as to prove that the Nile-flea is the deadliest of all things the world ever saw, for one flea bite will give a man the plague. If anybody can find an entirely new breed of flea Tip promises that Mr. Rothschild stands ready to receive the goods and pay the highest market price the world affords.

The Egyptian flea does not tarive in cold climates, for the plague weakens under a temperature of 80 degs Fahrenheit.

The despised and detested flea is a fine circus and theatrical performer, but it will be best to admit right off the bat that the performing power flea as well as in solid colors. The alpine shapes promise to be more popular than the telescopes. The plush hats broken of his habit of jumping the fence or flying the coop. He is fastened up in a pill box, with glass sides. This is made to whirl around like a lottery box for a Chink prayer wheel, until the flea student is graduated by learning it is foolish, tiresome and useless to jump, since the more he jumps the less he goes. But most good performers are not trusted. One single fibre of raw silk is tied around the flea's waist and knotted at the back, a miniature sash, as it were. The other end of the fairy cable is glued to a post or ball and chin, or some such rogue-holding flea-fastener. Fleas may pull a carriage by being harnessed in Queen Mab's fairy coach, with shafts made of finest boar bristles.

The flea is the most powerful thing for its size that grows, barring some bacteria that can lift a red corpuscle so hard they can send it spinning through the blood like a football. So, when old Dobbin flea is hitched to his one-flea shay and set on a sheet of blotting paper where he can pick strong claw holds with the hooks and claws he has at the end of every toe, the equipage rolls off with all the brilliancy, speed and finery of one of Alfred Vanderbilt's English turnouts.

The life of the performing flea is by no manner of means as short and fleeting as most might guess, for they usually live to be eight months old. Some Methuselah fleas act for a year. Flea outfits and instruction in Paris sell as high as $100. Some one-night stands make their owners well-to-do flea showmen.

UNSELFISHNESS OF ANIMALS.

Instances of the Help That They Give One Another.

Pearson's Weekly: A keeper in the zoological gardens at Stockholm has seen the mountain foxes deliberately throwing pieces of meat through the bars of their cages to the gray crows waiting outside.

The weather at the time was bitterly hard—it was March last—and the crows were half starved. It was not for only which acted in this curious fashion. Two of the animals were seen to feed the crows on two different occasions, and it seems hardly possible to doubt that the well fed foxes had some sort of desire to help a hard up fellow creature.

Not so many years ago the idea of one animal being kind to another of quite different sort would have been laughed at. We were told that wild life was one fierce struggle for existence. There was no room for unselfishness.

But as our knowledge of nature slowly increases we are finding out many things of which we never before dreamed, and one is that some animals exercise the virtues of charity and unselfishness.

A Scotsman living in St. Helena had some goats and also a pet monkey. The latter struck up a friendship with one of the goats, and the two became great chums. One day the goat, wandering far afield in search of food, got among a patch of prickly pears, and when it came out its nose and coat were full of the needlelike spines.

The poor beast was in misery. To his astonishment the owner soon afterward saw the goat lying down, while the monkey, with the utmost care and patience and with more than human accuracy, pulled out one by one all the hundreds of spines.

This was not the only time that the monkey performed a similar service. Many times afterward the same thing happened. Whenever the goat got among the cactus it went straight to its clever friend, who patiently acted the part of surgeon.

When we were children we used to be told a wonderful story of how those little American marmots which are called prairie dogs shared their burrows with owls and rattlesnakes, and that animals, birds and snakes lived together in perfect amity. This yarn had not the merit of truth. While it is a fact that snakes do invade prairie dog towns, it is for the purpose of living on the unfortunate inhabitants. The poor little dogs are in terror of the reptiles.

But even had the story been true, on our own Northeastern coasts, you can see for yourself something quite as curious. Puffins, known as sea parrots, may be found sharing burrows with rabbits, and birds and animals live together apparently on excellent terms.

There are many animals of different kinds which live in partnership. The shark and the pilot fish are an instance in point. The greedy shark never touches its small companion, but on the other hand gives the little fish protection from such enemies as the bonito, while the pilot fish appears to act as guide and intelligence officer to the shark.

A rare and interesting lizard known as the tuatera is found in the Chichen islands, off New Zealand. This is rather a slow and stupid creature and does not appear able to find much food for itself. It is, however, clever at burrowing and digs deep holes in the sandy soil.

The islands are a great resort for the petrel, a small sea bird which nests there in vast numbers. The petrel cannot burrow, so the two creatures, the lizard and the bird, have entered into partnership. The petrel nests in the mouth of the tuatera's burrows, and the lizard profits by the remains of the fish which is the food of the birds.

Small creatures that are entirely without means of defence sometimes get other larger ones to adopt them. An instance of the kind may be seen any summer day along the mouth of the Thames. In the clear, shallow channels between the sandbanks float scores of jellyfish, and if you look carefully you will see, swimming underneath their long tentacles, number of very tiny white shrimps.

It used to be supposed that the jellyfish lived on the shrimp. Now it is known that the case is very different. The jellyfish actually protects the little creature. Take the shrimp away from its protector and it dies almost at once.

The partnership is as strange as any on record, for it does not appear that the shrimp makes any return for the protection which it receives. Sea cucumbers also protect an almost microscopic little fish in similar fashion, and to give one more instance of a one-sided partnership a great catfish which lives in Brazilian rivers allows a small fish to swim in and out of its gigantic mouth.

USE FOR SPIDER'S NEST.

It is perhaps difficult to account for the fact that certain very harmless fellow creatures of ours are almost invariably looked upon with repulsion if not with absolute horror. The number of individuals who care to have snakes as pets are comparatively few and those who are interested in spiders must form even a smaller class.

Sentiment is occasionally powerful enough indeed to overcome antipathy to what is loathsome. There are parts of Britain in which even a member of the so-called weaker sex will view with equanimity a red spider running over her sleeve, whereas she would tread remorselessly under foot the common or garden variety. For the red spider is a precursor of the possession of wealth.

The utility of the spider, the fact that it has a part to play in the economy of nature, is very slowly being recognized in this country, but there are regions of the world where sentiment has given place to the conviction that certan classes at any rate of the insect play a role that is both useful and beneficial to man.

M. L. Diguet, who has been on a mission in a district of Mexico which he calls Michoacan, has brought back tidings of a spider's nest which is used by the natives for self-protection during the rainy season and which forms a notable addition to the adornment of the rooms in which they live. In the Bulletin de la Societe Nationale d'Acclimatation he describes the mosquero as it is called, which has been used as a remedy for the fly plague from time immemorial. At the beginning of the rainy season the exodus from the village begins. The inhabitants stream up the wooded hill sides; and the picture he draws of the long procession of branches, each of which contains one or more converted mosquero, reminds one of the wood of Dunsinane.

The nests are large enough to cover a space of a couple of square yards and are like a huge sponge. This is strung to the branches by thick threads which act as cables. Then come the thinner and sticky ropes which are to act as catchers of the harmful, unnecessary fly.

The inside of the nest is simply a mesh of interwoven lines pierced with passages and galleries—all kept in a state of perfect sweetness by a tiny parasite, one of the coleoptera, swarms of which live and move, have their being and find their nurture within its recesses. The season goes on, the nest increases concentrically in size. At each capture is made it is secured by freshly made webs and the remains, after host and parasite have satisfied their appetites, become an integral part of the surface of the nest.

CALAIS AND ITS LIGHTHOUSE.

Wide World: Calais is rather an untidy place for a French town. The place d'Armes, where the tower of the Hotel de Ville has remained since the fifteenth century, is the center spot. Here Calais meets its friends and has its cafe noir. In the square, towering out of the roofs of surrounding houses and dwarfing them, is the old Watch Tower. Since 1848 it has been superseded as a lighthouse by the magnificent one at present in use. Never shall I forget the effect of this lighthouse as I stood under it that night. The revolving spokes of light cast away into finiy space, in all directions, looked like the ribs of a huge umbrella being turned by the white handle, which was the lighthouse tower. So tall is this that its revolving light can be seen from a distance of twenty miles at sea.

THE GREAT BELL MARKET.

Wide World: The wonderful annual market at Nijni-Novgorod, in Russia, is the greatest in existence. It lasts from July till September, and is the chief channel for the interchange of the products of the East and West. Buyers from all parts of Asia and Europe visit the market, and goods to the value of twenty millions sterling are sold annually. Among the numerous attractions of this vast fair is the great bell market, where all sorts, sizes and shapes of bells may be bought, from specimens weighing but a few pounds to monsters of many tons. Anyone in search of bargains in bells might do worse than visit this curious market.

Footwear Fashions for Fall

With the exception of a few tans there is a noticeable absence of color in the men's footwear for fall. A few bluchers will be seen, and the lace effects will have their usual strong following, but the man who follows the mode to the letter of its decree will affect the button shoe this season. The dull leather finishes will predominate but the patent effects are coming back strong after a couple of seasons of indifferent patronage.

One especially good looking shoe introduced this season is a gun metal calf blucher, with heavy double-decker sole, the tip and vamp neatly trimmed with perforations. Another is a heavy viscolized tan, with heavy extension sole and rope stitching, while the upper part is neatly trimmed with fancy stitching.

On the whole, the styles in men's footwear this season show conservatism with here and there a touch of the novel to attract the ultra-dresser. These novelty details are expressed chiefly by high heels, high arch and high knob toes. The popular heels will run from one to one and three-quarter inches. The short vamp will be featured as strongly as ever. The vamps now are about as short as they practically can be made. While the high toe shoe does not fit quite as comfortably as the shoe with the normal box toe it fits nearly as well and compensates by its stylish and natty appearance.

Several glazed kid styles are shown. These are made in straight lasts, round toes and freak lasts. Cloth top shoes will be worn a great deal less than last fall. Those that are shown are seen with black cravanetted tops chiefly, though there are some colored tops also displayed. These are in colors of taupe, gun-metal, tan, gray and brown. Tans, while they have not in recent winters been very strong, will be shown with more prominence this season in the darker shades to harmonize with the brown tone in suits that will become popular this fall.

The pony skin top shoe is one of the extreme novelties of the season. One of these styles noted shows the vamp of patent calf and the finishing of a high grade silk binding in keeping with the pony skin topping. As can be imagined, this is an unusually high priced shoe.

For storm shoes, viscolized tans are shown in abundance. These are chiefly for country and motoring trade. The day for storm boots in the city has evidently died out.

Modes for the Children

Nowadays they cater just as well to the children and growing girls in the matter of dress as they do to the grownups, and a glimpse into the children's or misses' department of our stores today would open the eyes of the most incredulous. Here will be found in the greatest profusion raiment for all ages and sizes from the tiniest tot just walking to the young lady about to make her bow to society, who realizes, however, that as yet there is a distinct line drawn between her gowns and those of her mother or elder sister. True, they are often modeled on the same plan, but the differences though slight, are so obvious as to demand a separate department.

The Caucasian influence which manifested itself so strongly in the Russian blouse of last season, has always been a leading feature in little children's clothes, and it is still in demand, the simple, becoming lines of the tunic and the cross-stitch embroidery suffering less at the hands of the average laundress than the more fussy effects, therefore proving the style too eminently practical to be abandoned easily.

The long waist and short, closely plaited skirts are extremely popular in the lawn and batiste frocks, and here lace is used in profusion, val and baby Irish having first place. Most mothers prefer to use wash dresses entirely for the little ones—hence the necessity for extra warm coats for out-of-doors. Box coats of broadcloth, with a removable lining of satin, which may be changed for one of squirrel fur in extra cold weather, make the best protection against the cold winds of autumn and winter.

Practical simplicity is the key-note of the gowns for the older girls, and the reasonableness of a one-piece gown that could be quickly slipped into and as quickly discarded appeals to most girls. Skirts plaited or gored so that they fit closely on the hips are the favorite models, and the plain waist buttoning all the way down on the left side, or in Peter Thompson effect, is the most serviceable. Dainty chemisettes of all-over lace, Peter Pan collars with loose, silk neckties, wide collars of sott, coarse linen with heavy embroidery, smart belts of leather, either dull or patent, with square metal buckles, and satin ruffles with lace fringed ends are among the accessories in demand for these frocks. Braid—soutache, rat tail and military—are to be much seen this season. The favorite materials for suits are home-spuns and the rough mixtures, and all in dark colors, and the lines of the girls' suits follow closely the lines of those adopted by their elders. The long coat, which is a necessity for the school girl, is built very much on the lines of last winter's model, the only difference being less fullness in front. They are, for the most part, buttoned on one side—the left, with large buttons of bone or metal.

In party dresses, the same simplicity is observed, and fascinating creations of the softest crepe, linen and mousseline have for trimming flowers in wreaths and sprays or chiffon, matching carefully the material of the gown.

The cape of last year—a modification of the Arab Burnous—is the generally accepted evening wrap, and where furs are too heavy, swansdown makes an excellent substitute.

Novel Way to Decorate the Table

No mechanical achievement has ever opened up such unexplored realms of artistic possibilities, in every field, as the attainment of flight. The influence has already filtered down through to such humble arts as hair-dressing and wall-papering and table trimming. Clever conceptions for table decoration that suggest aerial pleasures and voyages, are being carried out in various particularly charming fashions.

At a recent dinner given for a bride and groom who were supposed to be about to navigate the "Seventh Heaven," the central point of interest was a large top aeroplane, which had been painted white and hung above the center of the table. Sprays of white bridal wreath—any small white flower would serve—were twined about the planes and at the wheel sat a tiny wax Cupid. Narrow satin ribbons were strung from this wheel to each place and tied to the place cards. These were in the form of large white butterfly wings, splashed with gold, and so lent that the wings seemed poised for flight. In the center of the table was a low bowl of white roses and bridal wreath, with here and there a golden butterfly hovering. If one does not happen to be handy at such things, instead of the white wings with their touches of gold one may get a roll of the crepe paper which is covered with gorgeous butterflies of all sizes and colors. By cutting these out and pasting on cards, one may have most attractive place cards and winged decorations.

Although the more elaborate table decorations consist for the most part of flowers in profusion, candelabra and individual electric lamps or candles in with flower shades, for the small dinner or luncheon or reception there is nothing that may be used to so good an advantage as ribbon. A most artistic effect was secured at a luncheon for six, by the use of a dull green basket filled with pale pink moss roses. Tied to the high handle of the basket was a wide bow of soft ribbon in one of those blurred pastel effects in which a dull green melted into a faint pink. One end of the bow was carried across to the corner of the table, and when the cake was served with the green and gold banded china the effect was delightfully quaint.

LIP READING.

Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell's Skill in Following Conversation.

New York Sun: Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, wife of the inventor, lost her hearing and what little baby speech she possessed at so early an age that she has no recollection of ever having spoken or heard, and thus occupies the position of one congenitally deaf.

At that time the art of reading the lips was but little known or practised, but fortunately her mother instinctively adopted the best possible method of teaching her mute child. She was brought up with her two younger hearing sisters, they all shared the same lessons, all received the same viva voce instruction; signs were never used by herself or others, nor did she ever have any inclination to employ them in communicating with those around her.

To a passionate love of reading, which her mother saw was fully gratified, she ascribes most of the facility she afterward gained in speech-reading. This she considers an intellectual process, and the function performed by the eye or by the finger (in case of deafness and blindness combined, as with Helen Keller) in tracing the movements of the lips, though necessary, as entirely subsidiary.

Mrs. Bell looks upon lip reading as a mental exercise which consists in selecting the right word from a large number of words resembling each other. This naturally requires an extensive and readily available vocabulary of words and colloquial phrases, obviously open to the deaf mainly through a full and varied course of reading.

This theory she found borne out by her experience in deciphering German speech, which in her youth while in a German boarding school she read almost as well as English. In later years, however, says the Forum, when opportunities for conversing in German were rare, the want of practice led to an annoying lack of fluency. This she could overcome only by steeping her brain in German, as it were—by reading German books, by thinking and seeing in German terms, thus renewing her vocabulary until it became comparatively easy again; precisely the same course that would be adopted by one depending on the ear to refresh the knowledge of a half-forgotten language.

Curiously enough, she says that her husband may talk to her for perhaps half an hour on some subject that interests him; it matters not how abstruse a question in philosophy or science it may be, she follows him with almost never failing comprehension. But when he reads to her the shortest paragraph in the simplest book she cannot understand him without the utmost difficulty and strain; and this is the case with all who attempt to read to her. No matter how natural the style of the reader may be, a subtle artificiality seems to creep into the delivery that makes his efforts of practically no avail in reproducing the thoughts of the writer.

There are men and women moving freely in society, taking part in conversation, in studies, in games and diversions, attending the theater—some even actors themselves—whose lack of hearing is unsuspected by the great majority of those with whom they come in contact. Such skill is of course the fruit of unflagging zeal and long continued application united to a natural aptitude for the study.

It is not so difficult, however, for the average student to acquire sufficient facility to understand those whom he meets frequently—his teachers, the members of the family, his particular friends—and this is no small gain. Heroic efforts are often made to extend the limits of this circle. Thus one of the best known writers of short stories in the country practiced speech reading three hours a day for years, each hour with a different person, each day of the week with a different set of three assistants, until absolute certainty with all classes of speakers had been attained.

Suggestions About Floor Coverings

The melancholy days of fall owe much of their gloom to the dusty, dilapidated appearance of the average home after being closed for the summer, or after being wide open to the ravages of sun and dust. To return from viewing the gorgeous tints of autumnal splendor to gaze upon faded wall paper and rugs that seem suddenly threadbare and dull, is not an exhilarating experience. With the fall renovating comes many furnishing requirements. Particular attention is given to the floor-coverings at this time of year. Perhaps some of the older rugs have been used for porch service, which will necessitate considerable changing about and no doubt mean the re-carpeting of some room.

Never have artistic effects in rugs and carpets been so well within the means of the moderate purse. For the living room the range of price and material is great—from the Orientals and their most satisfactory velvet imitations to the durable fiber rugs of striking design and grateful colorings. While the Wilton rugs and the slightly cheaper Axminster, which are always in great demand are being shown in many new patterns, the popularity of the cheaper rug is increasing, particularly for dining room and bed room use. A Scotch weave rug, called the Kilmamock will be found to be among the most durable as well as attractive and reasonable rugs on the market. They have the look of the old Gobelin tapestries with designs that range from elaborate embossed effects, that further emphasize the resemblance, to the plain-centered, conventional-bordered designs that are so well in keeping with the wall papers and draperies now in use. One particularly pleasing design was an adaptation of the Tudor rose idea carried out in moss green and a dull blue. Another rug of this style was in warm shades of brown with a ash of orange that made it seem especially suitable for the library with its leather tomes or the dining room with its copper. Navajo effects are much liked for the den.

Fiber rugs on account of their great variety of colors, their price, and the ease with which they may be cleaned are superseding all other fabrics for bed room use. Then, too, it is possible to carry out more successfully the color scheme of a bed room with these rugs since they rae made in all the more delicate shades, so hard to find in velvet rugs. A suggestion from a dealer in regard to mending any sort of fiber rug or matting is worth remembering. Instead of using thread which is likely to look unsightly, get a little raffia which may be bought in almost any color, and is much stronger than even the coarsest thread. Another idea which may be of value is to use bran instead of soap when washing rugs of this description. The bran may be tied in a cheesecloth bag and after being dipped in warm water should be rubbed vigorously on the rug. The rug should then be rinsed with a cloth wrung from warm salt water.

The attractive rag rugs, in plain colors with neat white stripes across the ends, are to be found in size 24x48, suitable for the bath room, for a dollar and a dollar and a half. The venerable rag rug has been driven from the kitchen by the sanitary linoleum to the tiled floor of the bath room and now it is rapidly being made to lend its quaint effectiveness to the bed room.

"Again, the ungallant outlook of some husbands causes divorce," said ex-Governor Pennypacker in a witty, after-dinner speech in Philadelphia.

"It is amazing what an ungallant outlook some men have. I said one day to a Bucks county farmer:

"'Have you got a wife, Hans?'

"'Why, yes, to tell the truth I have,' Hans answered. 'For the little bit the critters eat it aint' worth a man's while to be without one.'"

DRESS PALM FOR PARIS

Mrs. H. Gordon Selfridge Calls French Women the Best Garbed.

Americans at List's End---Puts English Between Two Extremes.

New York, Sept. 26.—"The French women are the greatest dress individualists in the world. The American women are the least. The English women do not tend toward either extreme. One might say they accept their styles moderately."

Mrs. H. Gordon Selfridge, wife of the proprietor of the only American department store in London, paused after she had delivered this sartorial summing up of nations and then added quickly:

"But please do not construe anything I may say into a criticism of America. America is my own country, and I love it."

"Oh, I was glad to land from the Arabic," went on Mrs. Selfridge, "although," with a glance through the drawing room of the Holland House, "this is not quite home. We come from Chicago, you know."

English Are Shoppers.

"But in what way do the English women's shopping methods differ from those of American women?" Mrs. Selfridge was asked.

"Well, the English women never used to shop at all," she began. "They sent their maids to the shops for what they wanted. But," she added quickly to prevent any doubt of her views on the British, "English women are well dressed—well dressed in the real sense of the word, for they are usually appropriately dressed.

"There is class distinction in dress in England. We do not have that here. I suppose there is no other country like America in that its women—its domestic servants, its shop girls and its women of social position—all follow identical styles. It is almost impossible to class a woman from her costume here. In England a woman's caste is more apparent from her dress."

Bargain Instinct Strong.

"But, to return to the shopping question," continued Mrs. Selfridge. "English women are beginning to learn to shop. After all, it is an instinct in most women. But the English women should, in the nature of things, take to the pastime even more enthusiastically than the American women.

"English women are less extravagant than we are; they are more anxious to see their money wisely spent. Quite naturally that instinct makes born shoppers of them when the opportunity is afforded them.

"You see, until Mr. Slefridge established American shop methods in London the stores there were conducted along the old, conservative English lines. It used to be that the moment a customer entered a shop in London one of the sales persons stepped forward and asked what she wished to purchase. That is confusing and annoying, as many times a woman enters a store with no very definite idea of her exact wants. Now there is one other department store in London that follows Mr. Selfridge's methods closely, and many of them have been affected by his ideas."

Most Employes Britons.

"Mr. Selfridge's employdyes are all English, however?" was suggested.

"All but five," Mrs. Selfridge answered, "and it is remarkable how quickly the English employdyes have picked up an American way of doing things. Yet they preserve their natural courtesy.

"You know American servants and persons occupying minor positions are not naturally courteous. I presume that is the lack of caste distinction once more. I do believe that there are nowhere kinder hearted people than the Americans, but they do not manifest their kind heartedness in the form of courtesy and respect.

"When I landed from the steamship Arabaia I tipped the porter, a rather old man, who had handled our trunks. As he took the tip he took my whole hand in his and exclaimed, 'God bless you ma'am!' It was a beautiful, kind hearted wish; but an American servant would have stood amazed before the manner of its bestowal."

Dress Is Less Extreme.

"But you think English women are less extreme in dress than we are?" The question brought Mrs. Selfridge back to the opening discussion.

"Less extreme, and rather more individual," she agreed. "A French woman will not wear a style that is not becoming, no matter whether it is fashionable or not. An American woman will wear anything if she believes it to be smart. The English woman is like the American up to a certain point. The point where she draws the line is where her costume becomes conspicuous.

"There is one other difference between the English woman's dress and our own. The English women of the better class, and more especially the married women, wear trains. The young girls and the athletic women wear walking costumes, but most of the English women wear long skirts."

HUNTING BEAR WITH SPEARS.

One of the Methods of Killing Bruin in Northern Europe.

Field: During the last few years I have had the satisfaction of killing a fair number of bears, the biggest and perhaps the most interesting game of Northern Europe, and have studied the ways of these animals both in Sweden and in Finnish and Russian Karelia, where I have come across thirty-six bears altogether, and have myself killed or caught twenty-three, including six young ones. My Russian and Finnish bear hunting has always taken place in winter, but it has been done in various ways. The one which has afforded me the greatest amount of enjoyment is hunting the bear on skis, and I will first relate my experience in that direction.

I have twice hunted a bear with the spear; on one occasion the lair was in a boggy country, and we soon found the entrance, outside which I took up my position, armed with my bear spear, which is a strong ash pole rather more than six feet long, with a steel point of about twelve inches; in order to protect it against the teeth of the bear the lower part of the pole is covered with copper. The moment the bear appeared I tried to hit him in the throat, but he parried with his paw and my spear miscarried. The bear came further out and I managed to thrust my spear well into his chest; he got furious and bit viciously at the copper coating, at the same time trying to knock the spear out of my hand with his paw.

He used his teeth with such force that they almost penetrated the copper, and higher up the pole he tore out great splinters of wood. It took me all my time to hold my own against him, but by degrees he tired and lay down at the entrance to the lair. I drew out the spear to let the blood flow more freely, but the bear still had strength enough left to snap at the point of the spear with such violence that he made some big marks in the metal with his teeth. My friend now came up and gave him the coup de grace with his spear. The fight lasted about five minutes.

To tackle a bear with a spear in the summer time when the ground is bare is a serious business, although I have heard of Laps doing it; but the bear is as lithe as a cat and uses his paws with surprising rapidity and force. Even in winter, when snow somewhat hinders his movements, one needs a cool head and a strong arm.

A well known Norwegian bear hunter, commenting upon the use of the spear when bear hunting, either when rousing a bear from his lair or when in pursuit of a wounded bear, recommends in the latter case that the spear should be so carried that it trails on the ground with the bottom end and the point held a little behind one's body. When the bear rushes at the hunter the latter steps back one step and the bear spits itself on the spear, which with its other end finds support on the ground.

It is more especially in Northern Norway that the spear is used at bear hunts, and such spears are often handed down from father to son through several generations, the same spear often having been the death of many a bear. Its handling requires both great coolness and adroitness and now that both magazine rifle and revolver are used in bear hunting the use of the spear is less frequent than formerly. A member of the recent Danish Literary Greenland expedition relates how the polar Eskimo hunts the ice bear with a spear, considering it below the dignity of a bear hunter to use firearms.

MAY FORFEIT $1,500,000

Indiana Youth Enlists in the Navy at $22 a Month.

Grandfather's Will Provides He Must Earn at Least $75.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The yearning of 22-year-old Horace Logan Keelor of Richmond, Ind., for life on a United States man-of-war, combined with his love for the embalming profession, may cost him $1,500,000.

The youth, a son of Harry C. Keelor of Richmond, enlisted at the naval recruiting station, 22 Fifth avenue, Sept. 7. Last week lawyers representing his grandfather's estate arrived in Chicago after a three months' trail which led them all over the West, only to find that the young man had enlisted in the medical branch of the navy and now is at Norfolk, Va.

By the terms of the grandfather's will property valued at $1,500,000 is bequeathed to young Keelor, provided he earns not less than an average of $75 a month while between 21 and 25 years of age.

Pay Is $22 a Month.

Young Keelor enlisted as a medical apprentice for four years and will receive $22 a month for his services. At the end of six months, if he is proficient in his studies, he may pass a first-class apprentice examination and receive $33 a month. In addition he will have free board and medical attention.

According to naval officers here $33 a month and the cost of food and medical attention will approximate $75 a month. Therefore it will be up to Keelor to pass the examination in order to meet the requirement of the will.

The heir to the big fortune appeared at the naval recruiting station on the morning of Sept. 4. He talked to several attaches of the office concerning an enlistment and was given some literature. Three days later he enlisted.

"I would like to get into the medical branch, if possible," he told Lieut. James Hall Comfort after he had successfully passed the physical and mental tests.

"Have you any out-of-the-ordinary reason for wishing to join the navy?" the lieutenant asked as he sized up the lad.

"No, only that I like the sea," was the answer.

Takes Tools Along.

The following day, just before he was to be shipped to Norfolk with a squad of raw recruits, Keelor went into the lieutenant's office.

"Pardon me, lieutenant," he said, "but I've got a fine kit of embalming tools. You see, I'm a graduate embalmer. May I take the tools with me?"

"Certainly," replied the commanding officer. "Maybe they'll come in handy some time on board ship."

The youth with his kit of embalming tools then joined the "rookies" and was taken to Norfolk. He is scheduled to go to the medical school at Washington in a short time.

On his enlistment papers Keelor gave his age as 22, his father's name as Harry C. Keelor, and his address as 310 Eighteenth street, Richmond, Ind. He gave as reference J. A. Spekenhler, postmaster at Richmond.

The attorneys for the estate said they had traveled throughout the West searching for young Keelor.

Over a Long Trail.

"After his grandfather died," said one of them, "we trailed him from El Paso, Tex., to Kansas City, to Chicago, to Milwaukee, to St. Louis, and finally back to Chicago. We found that he had passed the embalmer's examination in Illinois. When we couldn't locate him we happened to think of his love for the sea, so we searched the recruiting offices.

"Under the terms of his grandfather's will he must earn $75 a month for the next three years. We are afraid he has spoiled all, unless they make him an officer in a hurry."

The attorneys examined his enlistment papers, hoping to find a "loop hole" whereby they might contest the enlistment. They intimated that they might appeal to the war department to save the fortune for the youth.

WOMEN IN HUNTING FIELD.

Proper Feminine Costume for Riding to Hounds in England.

"It is not so very many years since the safety habit, worn exclusively by the Dianas of the present day, was looked upon as a very 'fast' garment," says a writer in the Queen's, "a garment not on any account to be worn by a lady with a shred of modesty, because when dismounted the rider's legs were visible from the back.

"Gradually, very gradually, through the medium of various so-called patent safeties—many of which, by reason of their extreme decency, were just as liable to get 'hung up' as the ordinary riding skirt—the mind of the people began to expand, with the result that the apron skirt of the present day was at length adopted as the only possible garment not only for safety's sake, but for neatness also.

"Even then no apron was ever sent out without its satellite in the shape of a small apron of thin cloth which was carried underneath the main apron (to the inside of which it was attached by a button), whence it was detached and worn at the back by the rider when she was dismounted. Hunting women of the present day are far too sensible to allow themselves to be bothered by any such unnecessary incumbrances and realize that, provided the boots and breeches are nicely cut, a glimpse of these can offend nobody.

"An apron skirt, therefore, of the stoutest melton cloth, the heavier the better, is the correct wear, the coat being of a slightly less heavy make, the fashion of the cut of this depending entirely upon individual taste and figure. For a stout person a tight or semi-fitting coat is preferred, a loose coat being apt to give a rather 'floppy' appearance.

"I am not in favor of the extravagantly low cut openings as affected by many ladies of the smart world. To me they savor of the Bois de Boulogne or Hyde Park rather than the hunting field and offer no protection whatever against the various types of weather which the hunting woman must be prepared to meet. Down to the point of the breast bone makes a sensible opening and above this about an inch of waistcoat, either white or yellow—not red, unless it be a part of the hunt uniform—has a smart effect.

"Above all it is desirable to go to a first class tailor. It is economical in the long run, for a really well cut habit will always hold its own and look smart, even when worn and discolored, whereas a garment of inferior cut loudly proclaims its own imperfections from the very first, both to one's dissatisfied self and to every one else. Dipping at the back of the neck is a most common fault, and great attention should always be paid to this point when fitting, the head being bent a little forward as when riding. For full dress—with a silk hat, for instance—a black or almost black smooth cloth makes the best effect, colored or rough cloths presenting a more mufflike appearance.

"Great attention should be payed to the cut and fit of the breeches, these being nowadays one of the most important points in the turnout of a smart woman. Many ladies prefer them to be of the same material as the habit, in which case the habitmaker usually supplied the breeches. This is by no means always satisfactory, the habitmaker's skill as regards the cutting of breeches being as a rule somewhat undeveloped, and indeed unless great stress is laid on the matter of the knee buttons being made to fasten down the inside of the shinbone they may be discovered half way round the outside of the leg, to the unspeakable horror of one's male relatives. A pair of well cut leathers, though an expensive luxury, will outlast four or five pairs of cloth, or even cords, and are, besides, warmer, smarter and more practical.

"Boots form another important item. Black calf with soft legs are the present fashion and should be buttoned on to the breeches back and front by the loops provided for that purpose. If a spur be worn—and it is not recommended, save for the most experienced horsewomen—it should be worn in the right place, i. e., on a level with the ankle, and not half way down the heel. It is important, therefore, that the under strap be rather more than twice the length of the top one. The boot garters, which ought to be half an inch wide, should be cut to the size of the leg for which they are intended so as not to leave long ends to dangle about, these producing an appearance only a degree less slovenly than when the boot tags are not properly pushed down into the boot.

"Diving deeper into the mysteries of the toilette, it may be mentioned that the corset plays a considerable part in the general effect, and should above all be cut low both back and front in order to avoid the stiff, pushed up effect of a high corset. Both for comfort and appearance it should be soft and pliable, with elastic let in to allow full play to the movements of the body. Riding gloves should be two full sizes larger than those worn for ordinary visiting, strong leather without stitchings being the most sensible and workmanlike."

MODERNIZE YOUR BUSINESS AND HOME SURROUNDINGS

The Edison Electric service holds the way open to the use of all modern appliances which make for your comfort and convenience.

FOR BUSINESS

The largest business establishments and the most progressive factories of this country today use electricity for both

Power and Lighting

They have found that it is to their advantage to do so, for electric power and electric lighting save both money and time.

Electrically wired buildings pay lower insurance rates. Firms do not have the worry and bother that comes with coal or ashes. No fireman needs to be employed to "fire up" long before the factory opens, so as to be ready. Electric power and lighting is always ready the instant their use is wanted. There is no wasted time, energy or fuel when you use electric power and lighting.

If your factory uses modern electric machinery such machinery reduces the coal bills and labor bills. They increase the efficiency of your force. It is always quicker and safer.

If you want either power or lighting see us. We can show you why the electric way is the best way for your business.

Flooded with Light

One single Tungsten Economy Diffuser of three lamps, aggregating from 120 to 300 watts, will flood a show window with dazzling radiance as intense as sunlight. There is no other form of illumination as economical for store lighting, and none as attractive. Tungsten lamps cut the cost of electric light in two, or more than double your illumination for the same money.

Merchants should experiment with one of the new G.E. Tungsten Economy Diffusers and carefully note the results. Wherever Tungsten lamps are tried they are never discontinued.

Merchants, keep your stores well lighted inside and outside, if you wish to attract as well as hold customers. The electric way is the cheapest and safest.

FOR THE HOME

If you build a house, be modern, and wire it for electric lighting. If you rent one, rent a modern one, one that is wired for electric lighting. Either way, it's to your advantage, for such a home opens the way to cleaner, easier, more sanitary, housekeeping.

Heat, Cook and Light

Electrically in your home this winter

The most important feature in the home is the lighting of it. Electric illumination will enhance the beauty of the home, and make it more "homey" as we can demonstrate to you.

Cooking with electricity is; above all, quick and sanitary. Electric cookers, stoves, toasters, percolators, chafing dishes, frying pans and broilers, do away with the drudgeries of housekeeping.

Give a thought to the Heating of your house. The days are growing shorter and colder. The quick, clean, pleasant way to take off the chill is to use electric radiators and heaters. They are either portable or stationary, in different sizes and prices.

Let us figure with you, and let us show you all of these modern housekeeping appliances.

FOUR CONVENTIONS ARE IN SESSION AT WISCONSIN CAPITAL

Democrats May Adopt "Blind" Indorsement of Pinchot.

Denunciation of Tariff Included in One Plank Offered.

Republicans May Ignore Taft in Framing Their Platform.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—When the Democratic state convention met here today it was the general belief that Gifford Pinchot would come in for a blind indorsement in the platform—his name, though not mentioned, to be plainly inferred. The plank was prepared recently and leaders of the convention declared that it was certain to be adopted.

Delegates to three other conventions—the Republican, Prohibitionist and Social Democratic—were ready when their respective chairmen rapped for order and introduced the various temporary chairmen, to make the keynote speeches reflecting respective political beliefs.

The "Pinchot" Plank.

The "Pinchot" plank proposed for the Democratic platform reads:

"True to the policy and history of our party we favor the conservation of our natural resources and denounce the present administration and especially Secretary Ballinger for dismissing from the public service, tried and true officers, whose only aim was the preservation to the people of such resources."

A tariff plank substantially as follows was regarded as certain of adoption:

"We hold that the Republican system of tariff protection, like any other system of laws which enables the favored few to take without consideration a large portion of the earnings of toiling millions is economically unsound, politically corrupt, contrary to

NEW MONUMENT ON GETTYSBURG

Pennsylvania's $140,000 Memorial Is Dedicated By the State.

Gettysburg, Pa., Sept. 27.—In the presence of many thousands of persons, the memorial to the Pennsylvania soldiers who fought at Gettysburg was today dedicated with impressive ceremonies. The throng covered the expanse of ground immediately surrounding the monument. Among the number were nearly 5,000 veterans from this state, all of whose names appear on the bronze tablets.

No display or ostentation marked the ceremonies. There was no parade nor salute. The only touch of the spectacular was given when the students from Gettysburg college marched to the monument carrying aloft their colors.

Gen. H. S. Huidekoper, president of the monument committee, made the address, turning over the memorial to Governor Stuart, representing the state of Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania's memorial was erected at a cost of $140,000. Standing between the memorials of Vermont and Minnesota, it commands a beautiful view of the entire battlefield.

BANK CREDIT BUREAU NEXT

Comptroller Murray Will Establish Central Recording Office.

Plan Is Intended to Help Banks Maintain Solvency.

Washington, Sept. 27.—In order to prevent corporations, firms and individuals from borrowing to the extent of their credit in their own cities, then going elsewhere and doing the same, Comptroller of the Currency Murray has decided upon the establishment of a central credit bureau in Washington in which will be recorded all such borrowings from national banks.

The credit bureau will be in the office of the comptroller. The necessity for its establishment arises from the fact that very often the local borrowings of institutions are to the extent of their ability to pay, and if obligations of which the national bank examiners have no knowledge exist in other districts, the effect is to impair the solvency of the national banks holding the paper.

A committee of national bank examiners has been ordered to report in Washington at once to organize the new bureau. Frank L. Norris, examiner for Philadelphia, has been appointed chairman.

ADD TO CIVIL SERVICE LIST

Assistant Postmasters Will Be Included in That Class.

President Will Issue Order as Result of Cabinet Discussion.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The first definite result of the present cabinet sessions in Washington was the announcement today that President Taft tomorrow will issue an executive order extending the civil service to include all assistant postmasters.

The president will also recommend to congress that second and third-class postmasters be placed under civil service. This action is in line with Postmaster-General Hitchcock's recommendations. By tomorrow's order some 8,000 assistant postmasters will be affected.

The cabinet today took up in detail the departmental estimates for the coming year. Gen. Wood, before the cabinet met, went over the war department estimates with the president in the absence of Secretary Dickinson. Mr. Taft also discussed with his cabinet the speech he is to deliver in New York Saturday night. This is expected to be Mr. Taft's last political utterance of the campaign.

LATHAM FLIES MILE A MINUTE

New 100-Horse Power Monoplane Is Given Tryout at Paris.

Paris, Sept. 27.—Hubert Latham today made a trial flight with his new 100-horse power monoplane, which has been constructed for use at the international aviation meet at Belmont Park, Long Island. The machine developed a speed of from sixty to seventy miles an hour without the full power of the motor having been used.

PINCHOT'S TALK STIRS MINING MEN

Former Forester's Speech Causes Discussion at Convention.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—Gifford Pinchot's declaration that the conservation idea had taken such hold on the American people that it was bound to prevail, and that it would be wise for the mining and oil men of the country to take up and aid, rather than oppose it, is the principal topic of discussion among the delegates to the American Mining congress.

The former chief forester asserted that as a matter of policy the American Mining congress should aid the conservationists in shaping laws which would be satisfactory and just to all interests.

Resolutions demanding the enactment of employers' liability laws that will have the effect of rendering mine operators and heads of other industries more cautious and thus protect the lives of their men, constituted one of the main subjects for discussion in the resolutions committee today.

ROCKEFELLER MAY WIN OUT

Democrat May Be Elected to Congress From Kansas District.

Kansans Laugh Over President Taft's Surrender on Patronage.

By Willis J. Abbot.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kansas has eight representatives in congress, all of them at present Republicans. In two districts there is no regular Democratic nominee against the Republican incumbent. In the First district, the sitting member, D. R. Anthony, Jr., had so bitter a fight for his renomination against an insurgent candidate that there would have been a good chance for the Democrats to pick up a seat there had they nominated a regular party candidate.

Anthony, since the state-wide victory of the insurgents, is talking progressivism, but his record in congress was that of a standpatter, and I did not find in Leavenworth that people were inclined to credit him with any sincerity in his change of front. But his opponent, J. B. Chapman, declined to run as a regular Democrat and entered the primaries as an independent. They tell me that Anthony was nominated by Democratic votes, and that Chapman will be beaten by the same force. It is further said that Anthony as proprietor of the Leavenworth Times

BIG MONUMENT TO STONEWALL JACKSON

Bronze Statue Is Unveiled at the West Virginia Capitol.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 27.—A bronze statue of Gen. Thomas Jonathon (Stonewall) Jackson was unveiled today on the state capitol grounds by the local Daughters of the Confederacy. The statue represents Gen. Jackson with one hand on his sword and the other grasping his field glasses. It is the first statue to be erected in the West Virginia capital and is about twenty feet high. A parade preceded the unveiling, headed by the Stonewall Brigade band of Staunton, Va.

Brig.-Gen. S. S. Green presented the monument to the daughters, and Hon. John A. Preston of Greenbrier, made the speech of acceptance. Sir Moses Ezekiel is the sculptor.

The oration was delivered by Gen. Bennet H. Young.

Precedent Is Found in Spencer Election Probe in Alabama.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Basing his ruling on the decision of the senate investigating committee in the case of Senator George S. Spencer in Alabama in 1876, Chairman Burrows today barred hearsay evidence from the Lorimer hearing.

The ruling was concurred in by the committee and followed long armument by the attorneys for and against Senator Lorimer. The ruling shuts the door against Representative White relating conversations with his fellow legislators in which he says they admitted to him that they were bribed to vote for Senator Lorimer. The adverse ruling was made yesterday in a tentative manner after White had testified

WIDOW WILL NOT PAY FOR HERSELF

Repudiates Hundred Dollar Debt Husband Owed on Her Purchase.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Should a widow be compelled to pay a debt contracted by her husband when he bought her for his wife? That is a question the superintendent of the Skokomish Indians (Washington) was called upon recently to decide. This peculiar case was discovered by Assistant Commissioner Abbott of the Indian office, during a recent inspection trip. The story of the adventure follows chronologically:

The Indian, when a young man, bought his wife for about $200. To pay for her he borrowed the amount from his father. When the husband died, about thirty years later, he still owed a balance of $100.

Upon the death of the husband the father attempted to collect the balance of the debt from the wife. The question was put to the superintendent, when the father applied to him to force the woman to sell her land in order to pay a part of the purchase price of herself.

The question was decided in favor of the widow by the superintendent.

BEATS THE OLD GUARD

Vote in Convention Overthrows Attitude of State Committee.

Gruber Makes Sensational Speech Attacking the Ex-President.

Progressives in Control of New York Republican Organization.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Theodore Roosevelt today made good his prediction of a majority in the New York state Republican convention here by winning the election as temporary chairman against Vice President Sherman, the choice of the old guard of the party and presented for temporary chairman by the state central committee. The vote followed a sensational denunciation of the former president by Col. Abraham Gruber of New York, who had been chosen by the old guard to fire the broadside intended to sweep away the Roosevelt following, and a warm defense by Comptroller William Pendergast of New York City, who replied to Col. Gruber.

United States Senator Elihu Root, the choice of the progressives for permanent chairman of the convention, was assured of election by the success of Col. Roosevelt, and there was every indication that the same element would be able to dictate the platform which would be adopted.

Chairman Woodruff announced 1,012 votes were cast of which Roosevelt received 507 and Sherman 445, three not voting, giving Roosevelt a majority of 122 for the temporary chairmanship.

Spectators Jammed the Hall.

The legend that statesmen are punctually late applied with equal force today to the leaders of the old guard and the progressives, who gathered tardily at the opening of the Republican state convention. Not so the delegates or the spectators, who swarmed into every nook and corner of the convention hall, filled all the seats and overflowed into the aisles.

Col. Roosevelt was the first to come. His appearance started rounds of applause. Shortly after Vice President Sherman took his seat and the demonstration shook the building for several minutes.

William Barnes, Jr., the old guard leader, came in for salvos of applause.

Chairman Woodruff called the convention to order at 12:05 and after the aisle had been cleared, which the one policeman available for the task found difficulty in doing, the convention took up the regular order of business.

Woodruff in Explanation.

When the roll call had been completed, Chairman Woodruff announced:

"The next order of business is the election of a temporary chairman."

There was an instant hush, then a ripple of uncertain applause, after which Chairman Woodruff, addressing the convention, said:

"I have been instructed by the Republican state committee to recommend to this convention a temporary chairman

"The election of a temporary chairman of this convention is a crucial act and calls for the most careful consideration by every man who is about to vote on it.

"President Taft deeply desired that his party here in convention assembled, representing the largest and most potent Republican constituency of the United States, should unequivocally indorse his administration. This I know from personal knowledge as the result of a visit made two weeks ago.

DEMOCRATS GO TO BAY STATE POLLS

Three Congressional Contests Are Involved in the Primaries.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27.—Democratic primaries are being held throughout the state today. The election of delegates to the state, congressional, county and legislative conventions is not expected to determine definitely the name of the party candidate for governor, only a few of the delegates to the Faneuil hall convention, Oct. 6, being pledged. It was expected, however, that the primaries would settle the congressional contest in the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh districts, where direct nominations prevailed. Interest, therefore, centered in these three districts, where the present representatives, John A. Keliher, Joseph F. O'Connell and Andrew J. Peters, are opposed for re-election.

Eleven cities and two towns have adopted the joint primary acts.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW AT NASHVILLE.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 27.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be opened here tomorrow and continues Oct. 2. Between 1,200 and 1,500 delegates are expected. Gifford Pinchot will make the principal address of the convention, on the evening of Oct. 2.

Well Known Northern Minnesota Man Drinks Carbolic Acid.

Nominated for Court Commissioner at Last Week's Primaries.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clyde J. Pryor, former newspaper man, at one time clerk of the court at Glencoe and nominated at last Tuesday's primaries as the Republican candidate for court commissioner of Beltrami county, committed suicide here this morning by drinking a mug of carbolic acid.

Physical deformities, poor health and tangled finances are believed to have worked Mr. Pryor into a frenzied determination to take his own life. He was found in a woodshed by his wife who, worried because he had been away all night, went in search of him.

Mr. Pryor was 41 years old and was one of the best known men of Northern Minnesota. He was secretary for two years of the Bemidji Commercial club and at the time of his death was Ninth district member of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial cubs. Mr. Pryor came here six years ago from Crookston and until a year ago was engaged in work on the Daily Pioneer. Since the first of last January he has been engaged in the real estate and insurance business.

The body will be taken to Glencoe for interment. Coroner Ibertson took charge of the body, but decided that no inquest was necessary. Acid badly burned the face.

Mr. Pryor was a cripple and was compelled to use crutches, and he was obliged to seat himself on the coal bin before taking the poison.

Judge Thompson Reserves Decision on Motion to Quash Charges.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—When the case of Archibald B. Johnston of Springfield, charged with bribing Senator D. W. Holstlaw of Iuka to award the furniture contract for the senate and house to the Ford & Johnston company of Chicago, and with perjury in testifying before the grand jury that he had not offered Holstlaw any valuable consideration, came up before Judge Thompson in the Sangamon county court this morning, argument was heard on the motion to quash the indictment. Judge Thompson announced that he would render a decision tomorrow.

TIME CARD KEPT DARK

Soo Train to Chicago Expected to Leave at 7 p. m.

Though the Soo officials here today refuse to give out the time card that will go into effect with the opening of through passenger traffic between Duluth and Chicago, the third of next month, from an unofficial source it is said that the train will leave Duluth at 7 o'clock in the evening.

W. R. Calloway, general passenger agent; Harry Lewis, assistant general passenger agent; W. H. Schutt, assistant to the general manager of the Soo, and W. M. Grosh, superintendent of the dining and sleeping car service of the road, are here today looking over the details in connection with the opening of the through service next Tuesday.

"We will give out the time next Thursday, and not before," was the brief comment of Mr. Calloway.

The time card has been prepared and at the present time is in the hands of the Soo officials at Minneapolis. It is expected that it will be approved this afternoon.

"The depot is all in readiness," said Mr. Schutt, "and it is probable that we will have the new train here a couple days before the time for the opening of traffic. The trains that will operate between here and Chicago will be new throughout, and will be the finest trains that it is possible for modern shops to produce."

There are several details that will be straightened out by the officials today. The last few finishing touches are being put on the depot, preparatory to its being thrown open to the public next week.

Mr. Schutt will be here several days, looking after the details. J. A. Gehry, who will be division passenger agent here, is here today and will make his home in Duluth from now on.

This morning it was announced that the Omaha would change its time from the present leaving time of 5:15 p. m. to one hour later. This is because of the coming of the Soo, and the fact that the Soo will arrive at Chicago at 8:15 a. m. The train for Duluth will leave Chicago at 6:25 p. m., reaching here at 8:25 a. m.

WEATHER: Fair weather tonight and Wednesday; possibly light frost tonight in low places; warmer Wednesday; moderate southerly winds.

BREAKING RECORDS.

Indications Point to Heaviest Ore Movement in History of Missabe.

President McGonagle of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad this morning stated that the present season would probably be the best in the history of ore traffic over the Missabe, and that present indications pointed to an increase over the tonnage that went from the Missabe docks last year.

At the present time ore is moving rapidly from the ranges, and indications point to the breaking of the tonnage record made by the Missabe last year.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT IS TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN OF CONVENTION AT SARATOGA

before the meeting of the state committee, to the summer capitol at Beverly. There he made known not only his desires, but also his apprehensions.

To Please Taft.

"To allay these apprehensions, what more natural than the selection to make the keynote speech as temporary chairman of him who has been sent to speak for the administration to all parts of the country, even into the president's own state of Ohio, the vice president of the United States, James S. Sherman. Who else, indeed, could the state, unless actuated by some ulterior motive, have even thought of to speak for the national administration in this, his own state, which with unanimity and enthusiasm presented him two years ago at Chicago at the choice for the second highest office in the gift of the people?"

A precedent for the designation of the vice president as temporary chairman of the convention by the state committee at its meeting last month, Mr. Woodruff added, "was wisely established two years ago, when Senator Root, then premier of the then national administration, was selected at the meeting of the state committee held a month before the convention.

Nobody Else Suggested.

"As chairman of the Republican state committee," Mr. Woodruff added, "no one had suggested to me or, as far as I know, to any other member of the committee, the name of any other person than the vice president as temporary chairman until Mr. Griscom, sitting in the committee as a proxy, moved to substitute another name for that of Vice President Sherman after the latter's name had been properly presented. What was the object of this action?

"The correspondence between Col. Roosevelt and myself just after the meeting of the state committee shows more clearly than can otherwise be presented that his opposition to the selection of Vice President Sherman was not based on any personal grounds, but because he desired an opportunity to present his views as to the policies which should hereafter guide the destinies of the Republican party.

Roosevelt Correspondence.

"Perhaps I had better read my letter to him and his letter to me:

"'Aug. 17, 1910—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Oyster Bay, L. I.—My Dear Col. Roosevelt: It cannot be possible that it is necessary for me to tell you that the action of the state committee yesterday in which I participated, was in no sense intended as an act of hostility toward you or one of reflection upon you.

"'I saw Ward and Barnes after their talk with you and they told me what you had said about this matter and I hope you know, despite some statements to the contrary, that they told you the exact facts. Not one of us supposed that your name would be presented without your notifying Ward, the national committeeman, or myself, the chairman of the state committee, that you wished it done, and I was surprised when Griscom made the motion which he did. I understand that neither Griscom nor any one else told Ward or Barnes or any of the other men of the committee that this was their purpose.

"'Believing that you must appreciate the position in which we found ourselves, after having agreed upon the selection of Sherman I beg to remain, with best wishes,

"'Yours respectfully,

"'TIMOTHY WOODRUFF.'

Letter From Ex-President.

"'New York, Aug. 19, 1910.—My Dear Mr. Woodruff: You seem to me to be under a misapprehension in the matter. I was not "notifying" anybody about the matter, and neither Griscom nor I had any idea that the question was to come up at this time. Some of the gentlemen with whom you were acting on Monday evening announced that it was going to come up, and made the announcement on the specific ground that it was to head off the movement for me, because they did not believe in the principles for which I stand.

"'I have never wanted the position, but merely said that I would accept it if it were desired that I should do so. If the vice president is correctly reported as to his position, and if you agree with that position, you are only right in having him and not me make the speech. Faithfully yours,

"'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'

What He Meant.

"Col. Roosevelt manifestly meant that he desired to propound the doctrine of the new nationalism, admitting with his characteristic frankness that we were right in selecting the vice-president if we preferred the traditional Republicanism of the administration of William H. Taft, founded upon the great national administration of Lincoln, Grant, McKinley and Roosevelt himself, for which James S. Sherman, with his quarter of a century of splendid services in congress, and as vice president has always stood and stands today.

"In accordance with the instructions of the state committee, I present as temporary chairman of this convention, Hon. James S. Sherman."

The first applause came when President Taft's name was mentioned, Col. Roosevelt leading in the handclapping. There was a vigorous outburst of cheers when Vice President Sherman's name developed in the chairman's speech.

Intense hisses greeted Mr. Woodruff's declaration that the committee had no idea that any one else had any ulterior motive for desiring to be temporary chairman.

Mr. Woodruff's speech was halted by applause for Mr. Griscom.

Cheered Roosevelt's Name.

There was a redoubled volume of cheers when Co. Roosevelt's name was first mentioned in the chairman's speech.

Chairman Woodruff added to his speech the letter written by Vice President Sherman to the state committee asking that the committee investigate the charges that his selection had been made by misrepresentation and the committee action on the matter last night. The committee, Mr. Woodruff said, decided that Vice President Sherman's selection was made without deceit and misrepresentation.

There were cheers for the vice president and for Joseph Hicks, of Nassau county, who in a short speech nominated Col Roosevelt for temporary chairman.

The convention broke into wild cheers and continuous applause, delegates waved their hats and clapped their hands while the baand played a fanfare.

"Broadside" by Gruber.

Abraham Gruber of New York, who had been selected to fire the broadsides of the old guard against Col. Roosevelt's selection, was recognized and made his way to the platform. Col. Gruber said in part:

"Twelve years ago on this platform I warned a Republican convention against turning the executive mansion into a shooting gallery. My advice was not heeded. Since that memorable day the man who has ever since been shooting has seen his party organization divide in every state, his party's candidate overwhelmed, defeated, business depressed and the intelligent and honest working man without employment and hungry.

Looking for other fields for shooting practice, this man is now shooting at the courts and its judges. Himself posing as a lawyer, who never had a case or drew a brief, he now finds sport in holding up the courts and judges to the scorn of the mob. But this is not a new symptom. It is an old disease.

"Apostle of Derringer Practice."

"This apostle of Derringer practice, while he was president, abused Judge Humphrey of the United States court, a gentleman and an honest man, for rendering a decision which was made according to the law and which to this day is unreversed. When the United States appellate court reversed Judge Landis, the same shooter, not from the head of a barrel, but from the White House, sanctified by Abraham Lincoln, told the people of the United States that the judges had been guilty of miscarrying justice.

"Worgingmen of the United States, do you recall that when Hayward and Moyer were on trial for their lives, this same shooter, with all the power of the president of the nited States, sought to influence the jury by holding up these leaders of labor as undesirable citizens?

"Lungs of the Country."

"A French king once said: 'I am the state.' No sane man may ever say, 'I am the United States.' The lungs of the country are not its brains. Men who a few months ago believed, now disbelieve; men who worshipped then, now execrate, and throughout the country the business men as such are facing panic, and as lovers of their rights and liberties are fearing revolution. From Caesar to Napoleon, from Napoleon to the American Jack Cade.

"When given power to shoot the trusts he drew a line between the good ones and the bad ones. The steel and sugar trusts were the good ones. Those which would not help along the shooter's political schemes were the bad ones. As now, those who cry 'vive le rol' are good Republicans, and those who are putting patriotism above all else and therefore will not join the cry, are bad Republicans.

"While under the table I touch Cox's feet.

"I cannot with Lorimer sit down and eat.

Correspondence With Harriman.

"Fellow citizens of New York, has the correspondence with Harriman passed from your minds? While the firm was Roosevelt & Harriman and not Roosevelt & Lincoln, and railroad men were engaged in a joint plan to get money, and, in writing, the senior member of the firm assured Harriman that they were both practical men and had better keep the partnership under cover.

"Every generation gives opportunity to the patriotic and brave to keep our ship of state ahead in the right direction, and all of us — yes, even the women of this country may now, if they will, join in the great fight begun in the convention to prevent a third term or something worse."

No one enjoyed Gruber's speech more than Col. Roosevelt, who chuckled repeatedly. The delegates hissed Gruber's statement that it would be found that two-thirds of Roosevelt's strength in the convention came from federal office holders.

Defended by Roosevelt.

Jeers and cat calls became so great that Col. Roosevelt leaped to his feet and cried:

"I ask a full hearing for Col. Gruber."

When Col. Gruber concluded, Comptroller Pendergast of New York was recognized to speak for Col. Roosevelt.

Mr. Pendergast congratulated Col. Roosevelt upon Col. Gruber's speech. He said he know of "nothing better to promote the filling of peace between Col. Roosevelt's friends and other people in this convention."

The speaker assailed the action of the state committee last night.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his speech as temporary chairman, said:

"We come here feeling that we have the right to appeal to the people from the standpoint alike of national and state achievements.

"During the last eighteen months a long list of laws, embodying legislation most heartily to be commended as combining wisdom with progress, have been enacted by congress and approved by President Taft.

Work of Administration.

"The amendments to the interstate commerce law, beginning of a national legislative program for the exercise of the taxing power in connection with big corporations doing an interstate business; the appointment of a commission to frame measures that do away with the evils of over-capitalization and improper and excessive issues of stones and bonds; the law providing for publicity of campaign expenses; the establishment of the maximum and minimum tariff provisions and the exceedingly able negotiation of the Canadian and other treaties in accordance therewith; the inauguration of the policy of providing for a disinterested revision of tariff schedules through a high class commission of experts which will treat each schedule purely on its own merits with a view both to protecting the consumer from excessive prices and to securing the American producer and especially the American wage worker what will represent the difference of cost in production here as compared with the cost of production in countries where labor is less liberally rewarded; the extension of the laws regulating safety appliances for the protection of labor; the creation of a bureau of mines—these and similar laws, backed up by executive action, reflect high credit upon all who succeeded in putting them in their present shape upon the statute books. They represent an earnest of the achievement which is yet to come: and the beneficence and far-reaching importance of this work done for the whole people measure the credit which is rightly due to the congress and to our able, upright and distinguished president, William Howard Taft.

The Hughes Administration.

"Turning from the nation to the state we find that during the term of service of Governor Hughes an extraordinary amount of wise and good legislation in the interest of all the people has been put upon the statute books and the standard of business integrity and efficiency in the management of the several state departments has been steadily raised.

"Of course, with a party as long in control of nation and state as ours has been, there have been individual instances of misconduct and corruption. But there is no need of any other party raising the cry of 'turn the rascals out,' for we have turned our own rascals out.

"I believe in the party to whioh we belong because I believe in the principles for which the Republican party stood in the days of Abraham Lincoln; and, furthermore, and especially, because I believe in treating these principles not as dead but as living. Empty glorification of our past amounts to less than nothing if we put it forward as an excuse for not doing our duty in the living present.

To Deserve Confidence.

"We can deserve confidence of the people by proving in deed as well as in word that we face the problem of dealing with political and business corruption and of working for social and economic justice and for the betterment of the conditions of life and the uplifting of our people with the same fervor and sincerity that Abraham Lincoln and his followers brought to the great tasks allotted to them in their days.

"Corruption in every form is the arch-enemy of this republic, the arch-enemy of free institutions and of government by the people, an even more dangerous enemy than the open lawlessness of violence because it works in hidden and furtive fashion.

Are Against Corruption.

"We are against corruption in politics; we are against corruption in business and, above all, and with all our strength, we are against the degrading alliance of crooked business and crooked politics, the alliance which adds strength to the already powerful, corrupt boss and to the already powerful, corrupt head of big business and which makes them in their dual capacity enemies against whom every patriotic man should stand with unwavering firmness

"Let no man say that this is an assault upon the honest business men. That is as foolish as to say that it is an assault upon the upright political leader. The high regard in which we hold the upright and honest business man who reaps a great reward by rendering a great service to the community is the measure of our contempt and abhorrence for that business man, big or little, who wins success by corruption and fraud who swindles the public instead of serving the public.

Honesty and Progressiveness.

"In short, our attitude is merely that we stand for honesty as well as for progressiveness and for efficiency; that we believe both business men and politicians should be just and upright and honest as well as wise, courageous and far-sighted.

"We are against crookedness in the small men, but we are against it just as strongly in the big man. We judge each man by his conduct, and not by his wealth or his social station; and we hold it to be our bounded duty to strive to make and to keep this great American commonwealth as a true democracy and strive to endeavor to shape our social conditions so that there shall be a far nearer approach than at present towards equality of opportunity among men.

Protect the Corporation.

"The corporation must be protected must be given its rights, but it must be prevented from doing wrong; and its managers must be held in strict accountability when it does any wrong; and it must be deprived of all secret influence in our public life. We must strive to do away with the social and economic injustice that have come from failing to meet by proper legislation the changed conditions brought about by the gigantic growth of our gigantic industrialism.

"We must guard the interests of the wage workers, the man who works with his hands; we must safeguard the woman who toils and see that the young children do not toil.

"We must see that, by far-reaching legislation, the workman who is crippled and the family of the workman who is killed in industry are compensated, so that the loss necessarily incident to certain industries shall be equitably and fairly distributed. Finally, as a matter of course, we must de everything possible to promote and conserve the business prosperity of the whole country.

Boss Vs. Democracy.

"We who come together to set the standard of our party have a graver responsibility to that party and to the public. Democracy means nothing unless the people rule. The rule of the boss is the negation of Democracy. It is absolutely essential that the people should exercise self-control and self-mastery. and he is as foe to popular government who in any way causes them to lose such self-control and self-mastery whether from without or within.

"We should at once introduce in this state a system of direct nominations in the primaries so that the people shall be able themselves to decide who the candidate shall be, instead of being limited merely to chosing between candidates with whose nomination they have had nothing to do.

"Bound to Succeed."

"Our country offers the most wonderful example of democratic government in a giant scale that the world has ever seen and the people are watching to see whether we succeed or fail. We believe with all our hearts in democracy; in the capacity of the people to govern themselves, and we are bound to succeed, for our success means not only our own triumph, but the triumph of the cause of the rights of the people throughout the world, and the uplifting from the banner of hope for all the nations of mankind."

Progressive Pattorm Proposed.

The fight for control quite overshadowed the main business of the convention, that of making nominations for governor and other state officers. Chief interest centers in the fight over direct nominations. A tentative draft of the primary plank, drawn by one of the progressive leaders and approved by some of them, follows:

"We favor progressive primary reform legislation on the lines of direct nominations by the people—which shall provide;

"An official enrollment of party members.

"A uniform primary day, protected by all the safeguards provided for election day.

"Protection of party primaries from participation therein by members of opposing parties.

"Preservation of the sound principle of majority rule.

For Direct Vote.

"Direct vote by the people upon all delegates to all conventions, except delegates at large to national conventions.

"County option of direct nominations of county officers.

"Direct nominations for all officers in the smaller civic units.

"And generally for easier and more efficient ascertainment and enforcement of the popular will.

"An application of the relevant provision of the corrupt practices act."

Why?

From a small beginning the sale and use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has extended to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries. Why? Because it has proved especially valuable for coughs and colds. For sale by all druggists.

YOUNG BARON IN DULUTH

Nephew of Late Ambassador From Germany Visiting in City.

Is Studying Brewing Methods and Will Remain for Several Months.

Duluth is entertaining a baron unawares.

He is Harry Speck von Sternburg, nephew of the late German ambassador to the United States, of that name, who died about two years ago in Germany. Baron Harry, who has no desire at all to be called a baron in this country, is the oldest son of the late ambassador's brother, who is now the head of the family. It follows that the temporary resident of Duluth will eventually be the head of the distinguished German family.

Baron von Sternburg has been in Duluth for two months, the guest of August Fitger, head of the Fitger Brewing company. Mr. Fitger attended the brewers' institute at Munich with the young man's father in 1887-88 and they became close friends. The younger man is here to study American brewing methods, having just completed a course of study in the German breweries' academy.

Baron von Sternburg, Sr., is managing the Sternburg estates, which include a large brewery, and Baron Harry is to manage that institution when he returns to Kalserland. He will remain in Duluth for about three months more and then set out on his travels, which will take him around the world, by way of China and the Red Sea.

Baron von Sternburg's mother is an American and the son is distinctly a democratic young man. He is 24 years old.

From the German point of view it is extremely ridiculous for Americans or any one else to be particularly interested in persons who come from foreign lands, simply because they may happen to be entitled to prefix their names with "Baron," or some other titular distinction, and the Baron von Sternburg, who is in Duluth is thoroughly in accord with this German point of view.

However, real barons are not commonly encountered in Duluth, especially barons who make this city their home for almost half a year.

"NO FLAT RATE," ARGUES DAWES

Counsel for the Burlington Is Witness Before Traffic Commission.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—C. M. Dawes, counsel for the Burlington Railroad company, arguing before Commissioner Edgar E. Clark in the railroad rate hearing today, declared that the interstate commerce commission cannot fix a reasonable rate of return upon the property of the Burlington and apply it to smaller roads.

"These matters must be decided by individual cases," said Mr. Dawes. "While a rate may be satisfactory to the Burlington, it may not be so to smaller lines, such as the Iowa Central. We must determine what is a reasonable return and what is fair to provide it. The reasonable rate to the property is one which is fair to the shippers. If the rate is unfair to the shippers, we must cut our return."

"I understand that the Burlington wants rates fixed so high," said Attorney Lyon for the commission, "that it would take care of the weaker lines, and that if these rates were applied, the Burlington's stock would jump to 200 points."

"The fact that the Iowa Central would receive an excessive return does not destroy the right of the Burlington to get a reasonable rate," said Mr. Dawes.

Sturgis Questioned Again.

C. J. Sturgis, auditor of the Burlington company, who yesterday testified that there would be a deficit in the road's account unless an increase of $8,000,000 was earned, was the first witness called to the stand at the hearing today.

Attorney Lyon asked Sturgis by what method the $8,000,000 a year was arrived at. The lawyer, however, was not successful in ascertaining exactly the method used by the auditor. Sturgis continued on the stand through most of the morning session.

TO REOPEN OLD PLANT

Chicago Men Are Negotiating for Ironton Steel Mill.

The old Ironton mill property continues to be the center of interest for a number of men who desire to see it rehabilitated and expanded until it is one of the important cogs in Duluth's wheel of industry, but it seems that the propositions which have been advanced have not met with that approval in influential quarters which would give warrant for confidence that such a result is to be realized immediately.

The Riverside Land company bought the real estate and building.

Then the Duluth Iron & Metal company bought the machinery and scrap iron, with the stipulation made that this part of the plant shall be removed by June 10 next year.

Lately there have been negotiations with some Chicago people for the sale of the machinery, and also with the aim in view of having them come here and establish a large steel plant, but no arrangements have been concluded.

There is no lease on the property from the Riverside company.

Should the Chicago parties make a proposition that could meet the requirements of Duluth investors, it is said the investment would be upwards of $500,000. The plant would be operated upon a large scale, employing about 1,000 men.

An examination of the machinery by experts has shown that much of it is in good condition and that practically all of it could be utilized. It is said that more open hearth furnaces would have to be installed and considerable machinery added.

As far as can be learned the plant would be used for turning out billets or bars. The billets would be manufactured from old iron to a great extent.

Francis C. Carey of Chicago has been in Duluth recently looking over teh ground. He was at the Spalding a few days, but spent much of his time at the plant and in interviewing prominent local men.

POWER OF THE IMAGINATION.

New York Sun: "I don't know when I've been so put out by a little thing," said Mr. Billtops, "as I was by the discovery that my thermometer was 4 deg. wrong; it gave me a real hard little jolt for one thing, and then it made me realize that for two years I had been making myself uncomfortable over nothing.

"Out of doors I can stand the cold as well as anybody, but indoors I like to be warm; 72 is about what suits me in the house.

"Two years ago I bought a new thermometer which I hung up in my room, and I haven't been warm there in winter since.

"Other parts of the house seemed all right; in the parlor and in the dining room they got it up to 72 apparently without any trouble, but in my room it never seemed to get above 68. I didn't shiver, but I never could get really warm, and one day I said to Mrs. Billtops:

"'Elizabeth, why can't we get the heat up in my room? Why should my room be the only cold room in the house?'

"Mrs. Billtops comes in and stands around a minute and then she says:

"'Why, Ezra, it's just as warm here as it is anywhere else.'

"'Nonsense!' I says to her. 'Look at that thermometer! It's only 68 here, and it's 72 at this minute in the parlor.'

"But Mrs. Billtops insisted that it was as warm in my room as it was anywhere else, and she said that probably the trouble was with my thermometer; that my thermometer didn't mark correctly, and I said it did, and I'd show her conclusively that the thermometer was all right; I'd prove to her that my room was cold. I'd put my thermometer right alongside the one in the parlor, and she'd see it go up in no time to 72.

"So we put it out there, but it didn't budge, that is upward, but it did go down 1 deg. Standing side by side with the parlor thermometer marking 72, mine went down to 67; they were 5 degs. apart.

"The temperature in the parlor, actually 1 deg. colder than my own room, had been entirely agreeable to me, while in my room, though it was actually warmer, I had, misled by my thermometer, never been able to get thoroughly and comfortably warmed up. Another illustration of the power of the imagination.

"Now I've got a correct thermometer and I don't have any more trouble over the heat."

A POET'S WIT.

"Oliver Herford, the brilliant wit and poet, was a guest at a country house last winter when a children's valentine day party was given."

The speaker was a novelist. He resumed:

"Mr. Herford was slightly put out by the children's noise—he was at work, I believe, on one of his splendid alphabet books—and that night at dinner, when asked to propose a toast for the little ones, he rose and said:

"'To the much-calumniated, the good and Wise King Herod.'"

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

James Gray Formally Opens Campaign for Governorship at Fergus Falls Tonight—Talk of Independent Candidate for Register of Deeds—Democratic County Committee Meets Thursday Evening—St. Louis County and Democrats in the Legislature.

The formal opening of James Gray's campaign, which has in fact been in progress for some time, will be signalized this evening by a speech to be delivered by the Democratic nominee for governor at Fergus Falls. What Mr. Gray will have to say about county option is being awaited with interest throughout the state, of course, but that is not the only state issue to be given consideration in this campaign and it is not believed Mr. Gray will devote a great deal of attention to the question, which is generally considered to be a legislative rather than an executive one. Besides, the Democratic state platform adequately covers it in the plank favoring the enactment of initiative and referendum.

Gray's Keynote Speech Tonight.

State Senator Ole O. Sageng will preside at the Fergus Falls meeting, and it would not be surprising to see Elmer E. Adams introduce the speaker of the evening, unless Senator Sageng does it.

Mr. Adams, who is an independent candidate for the lower house of the legislature, is an old friend of the Democratic candidate. He has been a member of the house since 1905, is a Republican, but this year he did not file for the Republican nomination, preferring to await until after the primaries and then file by petition. There is a legislative district fight on in Otter Tail county and Adams, it is said, feared this complication would mean defeat for him if he filed for the nomination.

As to the speech that is to be delivered by Mr. Gray, it is declared by those who have heard something about it to be an exceptionally good piece of work. It differs radically from the ordinary political "spiel," in that, as John E. King is quoted as saying, "there is not a platitude in it." Mr. Gray's training and experience have fitted him to produce "good stuff," as the newspaper phrase has it, and it is certain that the voters of Minnesota will have opportunities in the brief period of campaigning that remains to hear and read some political addresses distinctly worth while.

Mr. Gray has made a study of Northern Minnesota conditions in the course of his work as an editor and he knows what this part of the state needs and must have—such as reapportionment, good roads, and those betterments that are demanded in the platform of the Crookston convention generally. That he is a friend of this part of the state and will do all that he can to further the interests and welfare of this section is well known to all who know him.

The progress of the campaign from this time on will be watched with deepening interest. It is understood that Governor Eberhart is waiting to hear what Mr. Gray will have to say this evening before he completes his "keynote" speech, which will be given to the public in October, it is said.

So confident are the Democrats of St. Louis county, that the candidates of that party who are in the field will be elected this fall that a feeling of dissatisfaction has been exhibited since the primaries over the fact that no one filed for the office of register of deeds on the Democratic ticket. It has come to be the general belief in the party that E. A. Lindgren will surely win the treasurership and that Charles Jesmore has every reason to expect to land the shrievalty this time, while as to Tom McKeon and Walter Dacey, they have just as good a chance to get the probate judgeship and the county attorneyship, respectively, as anyone ever had, say the Democrats.

Independent May File For Register of Deeds.

These same Democrats realize that it would be quite useless to go after the auditorship, after what happened in the primaries, but where the office of register of deeds is concerned the feeling is very much different. The upshot of it all is that there is serious talk of an independent Democratic candidate for this office. Not only is there talk of such a move, but the probable candidate is definitely mentioned. He is admittedly a strong man, one not new to the game, and a very popular citizen.

August Hagberg, a prominent Democrat, who has been a candidate for this office before and who formerly was employed in the register of deeds' office, is the man in question. He served in that office under R. S. Munger.

When Mr. Hagberg ran for register of deeds he made a very good run—one that made his opponent, M. C. Palmer, the Republican incumbent, feel cold chills run up his spine. It is figured that with Hagberg in the race again this year the Democratic county ticket will be strengthened, even though Mr. Hagberg cannot be placed on the ballot as a Democrat. If he, or some other man, files for this office it will necessarily be by petition. No one who has taken part in the primaries can sign as a petitioner in his behalf.

There are two Democratic candidates for the legislature in two of the legislative districts of St. Louis county—H. W. Cheadle, nominee for senator from the Fifty-first district, and Edward R. Ribenack, nominee for the house of representatives in the Fiftieth district. Here among their neighbors, where each is so much better known for himself than for his party affiliations, these men do not find it necessary to insist very strenuously on the party designation, but as a matter of St. Louis county patriotism some of their friends are calling attention particularly to this party symbol. Not that it has anything to do with the course these men would pursue in the legislature in furtherance of the interests of this part of the state, but because of the strategic advantage that would be gained by St. Louis county should she send them to St. Paul this winter.

Democrats in the Legislature.

In line with this idea, the Mesaba Ore of Hibbing pertinently says:

> The Ore was strongly in hope that the Democrats of the Forty-ninth legislative district would enter a good man for the nomination for the state legislature, and that he would be elected. Democratic as the Ore is a Democrat, for it is not, any more than it is Republican—it is for its home people and home community before and above all political divisions—but because the Ore believes the Democratic party is entitled to something from this end of the state, and there are able and strong Democrats in the Forty-ninth district that would honor the district.

There is a large following of Democracy in every session of the legislature, all from the southern parts of the state, but never do they meet any of their fellows coming from the northern sections, and it is made to work to a disadvantage to us.

We are looked upon as a Republican horde, driven by our impelling power. It is not the true condition, to be sure, but did we divide our offices amongst the two leading political divisions we would find ourselves in far better condition to combat the unreasonable prejudice, and we would find ourselves in a position to command some assistance from the lower end representatives. The Republican majority in the state legislature has been our strongest opponents, and therefore it is reasonable to suppose that we could fare no worse if we had a few friends on the Democratic side of the house.

All of which seems to have a direct bearing on the situation in the Fiftieth and Fifty-first districts.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic county committee Thursday evening at the St. Louis hotel, when organization in preparation for the campaign will be perfected. It is planned to make a vigorous fight for all the Democratic county and legislative nominees, and with Judge Jaques heading the ticket in this congressional district it is hoped to bring out a heavy vote all along the line. With the feeling of discontent with Republican management of public affairs as strong as it is, the Democrats see no cause to let any office go to the other side by default, so far as the ticket as at present made up is concerned.

Democratic County Committee Will Meet.

Judge Jaques, Chairman Hector of the congressional campaign committee and other leaders in the district, besides the candidates for county and legislative offices, are expected to attend the meeting and give the committeemen the benefit of their advice and counsel. A full attendance of the members of the committee is expected and desired.

To Have a Clear, Velvety Complexion

By MADAME D'MILLE

(From Chicago Inter Ocean.)

Madame D'Mille, one of Paris' most famous beauties just passing through Chicago, gives us a few valuable ideas on skin treatment, as follows:

"Yes, I have just come from beautiful Japan, and I must say the Japanese women have many toilet formulas and ideas which American women should know.

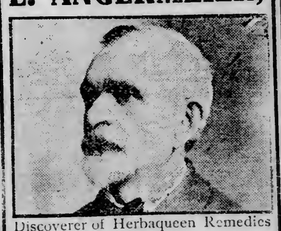

"What do they use to make their skin so soft and velvety

"Any American woman can use the same treatment if she desires. Dissolve a small original package of mayatone in about eight ounces of witch hazel. Massage the face, arms and neck with this solution once or twice a day, and you will shortly find you have a lovely, soft complexion, and then the best of it all is that this solution prevents the growth of hair, and is absolutely harmless to the most delicate skin. Make the solution yourself.

"Why, yes—of course I use it. Just see how beautifully soft my arms and face are, and not a hair.

"No,—you will never use powder again, and those stray hairs will soon be missing from your face."

"THE LOTTERY MAN."

Dramatist and Company Fail to Make Most of Clever Idea.

"The Lottery Man," one of Rida Johnson Young's aenaemic farces, was presented at the Lyceum last evening by a company that was weak in spots and strong in others.

"The Lottery Man" is an example of a clever idea fallen into poor hands. The basis of the plot, a young man offering himself as a prize in a lottery conducted to boost newspaper circulation, is clever and plausible, but it is forced to carry too heavy a burden of the author's solemn preachments and talky platitudes. The laughs are too far apart for a lively farce, and the "business" is wretchedly poor.

Joseph Yanner, who has the title role, is a good-looking young chap, and made heroic efforts to make the play go. He struggled valiantly against the heavy handicap, and while he was on the stage the play moved well. Clara Coleman as Mrs. Wright, his mother, was also capable, and gave a very good interpretation of the lovable old matron.

Carolyn Lee's work as Lizzie Roberts was too grotesquely overdone to be funny. It descended to the level of burlesque in place of farce. Helen E. Davidge was atrocious as Herwig Jensen, the Irish athletic instructor. She misused an Irish brogue in a criminal manner, and the stage manager should give her instruction in swinging Indian clubs and working a Whitely exerciser, if she is to continue in the role of an exponent of physical culture. She handles an Indian club as a man handles a dish rag.

John W. Lott as "Foxey" Peyton made a good impression, and Lenore Halstead as Helene Heyer handled a colorless role acceptably, aside from her tendency to recite her lines.

"The Lottery Man" was here for one night only and will be followed tonight by the Pierce Players in "The Boys of Company B."

"THE BOYS OF COMPANY B" AT THE LYCEUM.

In "The Boys of Company B," which will be put on tonight and Wednesday by the Pierce Players at the Lyceum, the dramatist has followed the fortunes of several members of the company "B" in one of New York's crack regiments of National Guard. In the new military comedy the private and camp life of the representatives of the national and volunteer forces are brought into close range.

The first act takes place in the gym and sun parlor of a New York residence and the boys are seen boxing, fancing and vaulting, etc., under the direction of their trainer. The second scene transfers the acting to Meadows-on-the-Hudson, where Company "B" is in camp. There the soldiers indulge in all sorts of pranks including a blanket tossing, and the drill of the awkward squad provides merriment for all concerned. The scene of the third act is that of a country home not far from the camp where the various romantic entanglements are brought to satisfactory conclusions. William Jossey plays the role created by Arnold Daly and afterwards played by Jack Barrymore. "The Prisoner of Zenda" will be seen by the same company Thursday and Friday, and Saturday and Sunday "Soldiers of Fortune" dramatized by Augustus Thomas from Richard Harding Davis's famous novel of the same name.

The same reasonable scale of prices will be observed for all three attractions, the highest priced seat on the lower floor being 50 cents.

ARE MUSICIANS OF RARE TALENT.

The Milch sisters, the two young St. Paul women, who were drafted at the last moment to substitute on this week's Orpheum bill, owing to the illness of Arthur Dunn, are musicians of a type rarely heard in vaudeville.

The younger sister, who is a violinist, has been appearing regularly as a soloist with the St. Paul Symphony orchestra. She has a wonderful repertoire for a musician of her years and experience, and the lack of music on her first performance Sunday afternoon did not worry her in the least. The elder sister is an excellent pianist and has a sweet soprano voice of good range and fair volume. They have a younger sister who has not yet appeared in public, who is said to be a wonderful 'cello player. She is planning to join them next season for a vaudeville tour.

The act had already been booked on the Orpheum circuit, when the sudden call came for the Duluth engagement, but it was not due to open until next week at Louisville.

The sisters are of Swiss-German descent, and come from a most musical family.

NEW BILL PLEASES PATRONS OF BIJOU.

The Bijou is one of the city's most popular amusement places these days. Since another act has been added to the bill and the program arranged to change every Sunday, the house has become more popular than ever.

This week there is amusement of all kinds. "Polly Pickle's Pets" is a short musical comedy which features the program and proves the most popular although the other acts are well up to good vaudeville standard.

There is juggling, acrobatic work, singing and dance acts, a play entitled "The Hand That Rules," a comic song act, and four Alpine entertainers who please. The moving pictures are also up to the usual Bijou standard.

AT THE MOVING PICTURE HOUSES.

At the Orpheum and Lyric moving picture houses the usual crowds are in evidence. The bills at both houses are of more than ordinary merit this week. The two theaters are the most popular places in the city to witness a program of moving pictures. This is because of the care taken in the selection of the films. The two theaters cater largely to the patronage of women and children during the afternoons. The program at each theater changes twice each week.

N. D. FARMER HELD ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Verona, N. D., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—On complaint of his 13-year-old daughter, Hans Carlson was placed under arrest by the La Moure county authorities and is now being held for trial on a charge of incest. Carlson was given a preliminary examination and bound over to the district court. Being unable to furnish a $2,500 bond, he is being held in the county jail at La Moure.

BEEF HAULED TO THE DUMP

1,300 Pounds of Meat Are Allowed to Spoil in "Cooler."

Dealer Refused to Cut Price to Get Rid of It.

Today a wholesale dealer on Michigan street hauled the last of more than 1,300 pounds of beef to the dump, rather than dispose of it by reducing the price.

The beef, which consisted principally of the best cuts—mostly loins—hung in this particular dealer's ice box for over three months. He demanded the best price and was unable to get it. He let the meat rot, while scores of families in the city are scraping and saving to buy beef once or twice a week.

As long as the meat hung in the cooler it was unmolested. But it began to get putrid. Yet that was all right—so long as it was not sold. But the dealer finally became desperate. He couldn't stand the thought of it going to waste. The man in charge was and agent working for a big company with headquarters in another state, and he wanted to make the best showing possible.

Several days ago he got an order for beef from a man on whom he thought he could "shove it off." He did. But it didn't stay "shoved off." Leo F. Bernhardt, city meat inspector, had been keeping his eye on this particular collection of loins. The day after the butcher received it, the inspector discovered it hanging in his shop. He immediately got busy, condemning the beef in the shop and also every piece in the ice box of the Michigan street wholesale dealer. The latter objected strenuously, but it was of no avail. Every last bit had to be thrown away. And in order not to attract too much attention to himself or the firm for which he was working, he hauled it to the dump in small quantities, necessitating at least half a dozen trips.

"That man has one of the best coolers in the city," said Inspector Bernhardt. "But he let that meat hang there rather than reduce the price a single iota. When it began to spoil he tried to put it off on a man he thought would not complain. As far as the man was concerned he was right in his calculations, for that butcher didn't want to send it back to the dealer. He said that it might hurt his feelings."

Inspector Bernhardt stated that he had been told of a shipment of strawberries which was allowed to rot in the same way.

FINE SHOWING AT FREIMUTH'S

Long poster panels representing an autumn scene in the woods are used at the back wall of the splendidly decorated windows of the Freimuth store, which is celebrating the annual autumn opening of every department. The picture panels are framed in a brilliant sunflower yellow. The scene into the woods gives perspective to the window, and the bright yellows and soft browns make an ideal autumn setting. This is merely the background and gives a delightful setting for the frocks and gowns which are shown.

In one window there is a charming evening gown of chiffon and crystal and fur. The dark fur is used in lightest touches on the evening frock, and although at first thought a chiffon gown trimmed in fur seems an extreme in fashion, it is altogether charming and gives the pretty touch of the new models and latest work. A reception gown of soft supple velvet, which is one of the materials most featured, is also shown in this window. The color is a lovely shade of soft purple, and chiffon is combined with it for the better and more becoming effect.

One whole window is devoted to hats, and they are seen in a profusion of beauty. Hats with soft drooping plumes and picturesque shapes will finish off the costume beautifully, and the showing of hats includes many beautiful models of this sort in a charming harmony of colors. There are, of course, the street hats in small and large effects, and the suit case hats, which are veritable caps that promise to fill a real need.

The accessories of the autumn toilette have been most carefully looked to by this establishment, and in the little touches of gloves and novelties and each detail that makes a harmonious whole, most fetching examples are shown.

Every department of the store is ready for the searching inspection of the city women, and the week is indeed a gala one for the store. Suits and gowns and waists and hats and every other need for proper gowning has been looked to.

The formal opening will continue tomorrow.

CRIMINAL TERM IS COMMENCED

Trial of Serafin Petros Will Probably Come Up This Week.

Axel Erickson will be tried in district court tomorrow on a charge of grand larceny.

Erickson was indicted by the September grand jury. He is said to have stolen $50 in bills from John Schleyel at the Liberty saloon, 613 West Superior street. Erickson pleaded not guilty before the court some time ago.

The first criminal action of the September term was begun before Judge Cant yesterday. Milo Michilovich is being tried on a statutory charge.

It is expected that before the end of the week Serafin Petros will be placed on trial for murder in the first degree. Petros is accused by the grand jury of having shot and killed John Hendrickson on board the steamer Corrigan July 29 last.

When arraigned some time ago Petros pleaded not guilty and the only reason the case has not come to trial before this is that the defendant has not been ready with his case.

Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene is conducting the present criminal calendar for the state. County Attorney John H. Norton is out of the city.

RECOVERS FROM MINING COMPANY

District Court Jury Allows Paul Lapat $1,841 for His Injuries.

A jury in district court brought in a verdict this morning in favor of Paul Lapat and against the Oliver Iron Mining company for $1,841.

The case has been on trial for several days before Judge William A. Cant. Samuel Anderson, the St. Paul personal injury lawyer, represented the plaintiff in the action.

Lapat sued for $10,000. He claimed that he was employed by the company as a dumpman near the Reed mine near Coleraine. It was his duty to dump the cars.

In his complaint he claimed that while he was working at night the company did not furnish sufficient light. In this he claimed that the company was negligent.

He was hit by a huge chunk of earth. The accident resulted in the fracturing of the bones in his right arm and other bruises about the body.

BIG LOCKOUT IN COTTON LIKELY

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 27.—A lockout of 150,000 operatives in the cotton mills appears unavoidable, unless there is a marked change in the situation very soon. The secretary of the Cardroom Amalgamation declared today that the employes would not accept arbitration on the terms imposed by the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners.

STRANGER WITH "BUN" CLEANS UP POOL ROOM

He walked into a Superior street poolroom and sat down to watch the play. Two or three tables were busy and the individual was not noticed in the crowd. His "make-up" was good, he looked as though he might have had a few cups before straying into the place where the ivories clicked and when he stepped forward and offered to play anybody in the house the crowd grinned, for they thought what was in his interior was speaking, not he.

'Twas too good a thing to pass up. The best player in the gang was shoved forward and the game began—straight rotation. The stranger showed some ability with the cue, but not enough to set the world afire and when he lost two games, which were for $1 each, nobody was surprised.

The stranger was apparently nonplussed. He couldn't understand now anybody could beat him. At last, in evident desperation, he proposed to bet the man he was playing $5 and to take any other bets offered. The gang didn't plunge very heavily. They had heard of such games and were determined not to be "come-ons." The game went on and again the reckless stranger lost, much to the delight of his opponent and the spectators and to his own chagrin.

Again he made the same proposition and the "gang" began to plunge a little. They were still wary. The victim of his own recklessness won by the narrowest of margins and it seemed to the gang that he played in phenomenal luck.

The games and the betting went on. It seemed to the crowd that the stranger was losing a good many games, but they didn't see that for every game he lost he won two and every one he lost was one on which the gang had bet lightly in cautiousness. The margins were always small, for the stranger was playing in "luck."

All other tables were abandoned by this time and the stranger was holding the center of the stage. Cautiousness disappeared before the guilelessness of the youth with the "half bun" and the bets grew heavier. The stranger knew when to win and when to lose and just when bets grew small on account of lack of capital in the gang. Mr. Stranger disappeared through the door, leaving the "come-ons" to wonder at the frequent demonstrations of the truth of Mr. Barnum's famous observation.

SAID HIS UNCLE FOUNDED DULUTH

Curious Claim Made By an Old Miner in Arizona.

The Arizona Republican of Phoenix, Ariz., in its issue of Sept. 23, a copy of which was forwarded to The Herald by Daniel Cox, formerly of Duluth, contained the following:

"Dan McDonald, who lives in the southern part of the city, yesterday gave to the undertaker and others concerned the name of the old man who was found dead the night before in his shack near the Center street bridge across Salt river. The dead man's name was Peter Duluth, and he was 65 years old. He belonged to a French family which settled in Kankakee, Ill., before his birth, coming there from farther north and formerly from Canada. Though Peter had a very good English education, the family clung to the language of the mother country, and most of the correspondence was carried on in French, according to Peter's stories of McDonald. Peter also told McDonald that the city of Duluth, Minn., was founded by an uncle of his. His father, now about 90 years old, and a brother and sister, are supposed to be living still on the old Duluth homestead near Kankakee, but their correspondence in recent times has been limited. In the hasty search that was made when the body was removed from the shack no addresses were secured. Peter told McDonald, however, that he had last visited the family in Kankakee on the occasion of a trip to the St. Louis exposition. So far as known, he leaves no wife or other relatives in these parts, nor is it known whether he has any bank account or estate outside of a couple of mining claims in Gila county, though he seemed to have what cash he needed for his meager necessities since he moved down to his river home."

The man ran and hid in the bushes along the sidewalk, drew a revolver and started firing. Fore has supplied the police with a graphic description of the assailant and every effort will be made to effect his capture.

By taking a small part of the skin affected with pimples, rash, blotches, etc., or which is unduly inflamed, itching or chafing, and applying thereto only a small quantity of poslam, an immediate demonstration may be had of the remarkable properties of this new healing agent, and enough poslam for the purpose will be mailed free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city. Spots so treated are cleared and healed in twenty-four hours.

Poslam puts a stop to itching as soon as applied, and its readiness in healing these small surfaces is but an indication of its rapid action in the cure of all eczemas, acne, herpes, tetter, piles, barbers' and all other forms of itch, scaly scalp; in short, every surface skin affection. ("Poslam is fully much more than you claim," writes Mr. Harrison H. Allen, the author, New Gretna, N. J.)

Poslam is sold in two sizes (trial, 50 cents; regular jars, $2) by all druggists, particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior.

BISHOP TO OFFICIATE

Corner Stone of New St. Clement's Church to Be Laid Sunday.

Catholic Clergy and Laity of City to Assist in Ceremonies.

With fitting ceremonies the cornerstone of the new $60,000 St. Clement's Catholic church, now in course of construction at the southeast corner of Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, will be laid Sunday.

Bishop McGolrick will officiate and will be assisted by several of the local Catholic clergy and notable out-of-town prolates, among whom will be Bishop Corbett of Crookston and the Rt. Rev. Peter Engel, superior of the Benedictine fathers and president of the St. John's college at Collegeville, Minn.

A parade, in which the clergy, city officials, Catholic societies and other Catholic laymen will be in line, will be one of the features of the affair. Following the parade at 2:30 p. m. the exercises will start at the church.

The parade will start at the head of Garfield avenue and will march down Superior street to Twenty-first avenue, then north to Third street, where the procession will end. It was originally intended to have the parade form on West Third street at Twenty-fifth avenue, but these plans were changed. The Catholic Order of Foresters, the Hibernians and all of the Catholic men's sicieties of the city will participate in the parade. Mayor Cullum and the members of the council were last evening extended an invitation to take part in the parade.

Priests to Arrive.

Among those who will assist Bishop McGolrick are Rev. Augustine Brockmeyer, pastor of St. Clement's church; Rev. Raymond Basil, assistant pastor of St. Clement's church; Father Lunmer, Father Lemire and Father Lydon of Sacred Heart cathedral; Father Iclek, pastor of St. Mary's Polish church; Father Hufnagel, pastor of St. Anthony's church; Father Gillet, pastor of Ste. Jean de Baptiste church; Father Robillard, assistant pastor of Ste. Jean de Baptiste church; Father McCarthy, chaplain of St. Mary's hospital; Father Eugene, chaplain of Villa Scholastica; Rev. D. W. Lynch, pastor of St. James' church, West Duluth; Father Begley, assistant pastor of St. James', and Father Zarilla of St. Peter's church.

A simple but interesting ritual will be used in the laying of the cornerstone. Bishop McGolrick, in full pontifical vestments, will first bless the holy water, then the cross which will be erected at the place where the altar is expected to be placed, and then the cornerstone, which he will set in place with a trowel.

In the cornerstone will be placed all documents pertaining to the building of the church, records of the laying of the cornerstone, newspaper clippings, coins, etc. Next Bishop McGolrick will bless the entire foundation, after which he will address the audience. He will be assisted in the ceremonies by the clergy.

The committee which is in charge of the ceremonies is composed of Rev. Augustine Brockmeyer, pastor of St. Clement's church, and T. Simons, J. J. Hughes, A. J. Beers and J. Harries. Fred L. Ryan and P. H. Martin will be marshals of the day in the parade. La Brosse's band has also been engaged to play.

Work Is Progressing.

Construction work on the new church has progressed rapidly within the past few weeks. The rear walls of the superstructure are now up and if the weather permits, it is expected that the side walls will be up by Sunday. The contract price of the building as it now stands is $54,000, but as the plans may be altered somewhat before the structure is finished and other improvements may be added, it is figured that the cost will reach the $60,000 mark.

The new church will replace the old edifice which burned last winter. It is of brick construction, 135 feet long and fifty-four feet wide. Of the two spires which will be erected on the front of the edifice, the east one will be the higher. It will reach a height of 128 feet.

The building will be one of the finest church structures in the city on the interior. The main floor plans call for a baptistry in each of the towers, a chapel on the east side, 14x12, and two confessionals, 8x4, on each side. Six pillars will support the main auditorium.

The main altar has been designed on the order of a circular open sanctuary, surmounted by a dome. The side altars and communion rail will also follow the half circle idea. Above the main auditorium will be two galleries, one of which will be for the choir.

Exterior Construction.

The portico or main entrance will be constructed of Lake Superior red stone with six granite pillars as supports. The pillars will be surmounted by a rosette window, which in turn will be surmounted by a niche, in which will be placed a suitable statue, probably that of St. Clement, the patron saint of the church.

The windows will be exceptionally large. There will be seven 18x4 windows and one 12x16 in the transcept. Stained glass will be put in the windows at first, but they will be replaced by art windows later.

The roof will be covered with asbestos shingles. Every precaution has been taken to prevent the recurrence of a fire in the church and the architects and builders have followed out the suggestions of the fire insurance men in making the church a fire-proof one, as nearly as possible.

The basement has been divided into two sections, a meeting room and a winter chapel. The latter will be an exact duplicate of the sanctuary above it and the meeting room will have a movable partition so that it can be separated into two rooms or used as one. A small rest room adjoins the meeting rooms.

If good weather prevails this fall, it is expected that the new church will be under cover by Dec. 1 and will be ready for occupancy by April 1, 1911.

IRON DOOR FALLS DOWN SHAFT

Clarence Cross, 28 years old, a driver for the Home laundry, Twentieth avenue west, and a resident of the West end, had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon, when he was struck by an iron door, which fell two stories down an elevator shaft at the Lenox hotel.

He was struck a glancing blow on the head and shoulders and was also injured about the hip and legs. Cross was in a freight elevator at the time and was descending from the fourth floor. After he had reached the second floor, a huge iron door fell from its hinges on the fourth floor. Had it not been for the cross beam on the open elevator, Cross would have been killed instantly.

Employes of the hotel heard the crash and soon afterwards picked up Cross, who was left unconscious by the blow. He was taken to a physician who dressed his wounds and had him taken to his home at Twenty-third avenue west and Second street. He will be confined to his home for several days.

Southern Editor Advises Its Use

"Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey Is the Best Medicinal Whiskey in the World," Writes Mr. J. R. Sanders—He Uses It and It Is Doing Him a World of Good—Mrs. Sanders Is Also Taking It for Catarrh and She Says It Is Just the Medicine She Needs.

MR. AND MRS. J. R. SANDERS.

In his characteristic style Mr. Sanders wrote recently: "I read one of your advertisements some time ago, and it impressed me that your whiskey could cure my wife of catarrh of several years standing, though the doctors thought she had consumption. My wife had always been averse to using whiskey, but her statement the next morning was: 'Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey certainly must be pure; it stimulates me, clears my throat and does not go to my head like other whiskeys; please get some for the winter. I know it will help my Catarrh.' Now, gentlemen, I am not a doctor nor a chemist; all I know is that your product is better than any I have ever used. I can say, like Dr. G. L. Ross of Canton, Mass., in your Annual: 'If people knew more about your whiskey we would have less drunkenness.' For any one that wants a good, pure whiskey, you have what they want. I think your product would regulate drunkenness to a great extent if used as directed." J. R. Sanders, Editor Sumter County Call, Epes, Ala.

Take heed, build up your body, keep your blood rich, by using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Then you need fear no disease.

An encouraging start has been made during the year toward this fund and the officers are prepared to turn over to the association more than $600, which has been made this last year. The first effort toward raising the fund was a lecture last autumn by J. Adam Bede, who most generously donated his services for the evening in the interest of the cause. Other plans for future work are being made which will be disclosed at Thursday evening's meeting.

Nursery Advice

Children in Hot Weather.

Too many children are over-burdened with hot clothing during the late summer days, and this is a mistake due very often to the laudable desire on their mother's part to prevent them from taking a chill. Unfortunately it has generally the effect of engendering not only colds but other ills.

A child is naturally very active, if in a state of health, and to overload him with clothing is to keep him in a bath of perspiration. Then comes perhaps a lull in the games, when the child hangs about or sits down out of doors, or a chilly breeze springs up; the result may be a cold, or a liver attack, accompanied by sickness that prostrates the child for a day or two. But no one realizes what the cause of trouble was. In a changeable climate like ours a thin flannel vest is a safeguard when washing suits are worn, but in hot weather; and these should be provided with cellular shirts and special care taken to dust the body after washing with the following soothing powder. Equal parts talcum powder and best corn-flour, and one-fourth part of boric acid powder, well mixed and sifted through coarse muslin. This is very cheap and may be lavishly used for any skin irritation. Diet, too, has more to do with comfort than many people imagine. Cut off some of the "stodgy" foods, leave oatmeal porridge off till cooler weather, give salads and stewed or fresh fruit, being careful that the latter is neither unripe nor overripe, and milk foods.

I do not consider it a good plan to allow children to go about barefoot. Any little cut they may get on their feet may prove dangerous, lockjaw being frequently tarceable to a slight accident that has been passed unnoticed. In wet weather, too, children may easily take an internal chill from going barefoot.

Careful Selection of Glasses.

At the first sign of eye trouble take the child to a competent oculist or to one of the large eye hospitals, where the eyes will be tested free of charge and the glasses obtained at a very small cost. Never buy a pair of spectacles that you think will fit, but have the eyes examined properly. There are hundreds of children who are continually accused of being dull, and are even punished by their parents for this apparent stupidity, who, if given correct glasses, would be ordinarily intelligent. Very often, if taken in time, the defect soon passes with the wearing of the glasses for a short period.

THE EVENING STORY

"SONIA"

(From the Russian.)

The dawn is near. The barred window becomes a little lighter. Ominous stillness, like a concealed storm, reigns in the dark prison. The exhausted ones sleep; the sick lie wide awake. Only groans, delirious phrases, tears of despair, shattered hopes and unrealized expectations are heard.

The dull, glimmering lights in the corridor are reflected on the polished parts of the sentinel's rifle.

It is dark and cold in Sonia Kostrova's cell. The damp walls and ceiling are covered with drops of grayish moisture. But the girl feels nothing as she deliriously tosses on the dirty mattress filled with decayed straw. Her long, blonde hair, like golden serpents, is spread on the floor, the eyes glisten unnaturally, and the dry, pallid lips are half opened, muttering something. Her small, delicate hand searches in vain for a vessel with water that was not put by her bed. The whistling sound of her breathing mingles with her dull, pitiful groans. The troubled face of the soldier peeps, sympathetic, into the small window over the door. Then he again resumes his long accustomed, methodical walk, yawning as he counts the paces.

For a moment the sick girl forgets her pain. Her face is overspread by a happy smile, and the lips murmur, "Give me another cup of tea, mother dear. The thirst is fearful!"

And it seems to her that the smiling mother hastens to give the tea to her beloved daughter.

Now she sees a fine garden. Beyond it stretches a golden strip of a wheat field. The heavy ears flutter and sing the exquisite songs of nature.

"Vasia, let us run!"

With her youngest brother she runs down a long, linden alley. The trees are in full bloom and the bees buzz anxiously, as they gather their nectar. Beyond the field glistens the river, flowing in its steep, picturesque banks, hemmed in by the green forest. On the other side are green meadows, covered with a whole sea of tulips. To reach them, the river must be crossed in a boat, or else over a bridge, that spans the stream far below, where the valley narrows. Of course, it is more pleasant in the boat.

"Let's go to the forest!" shouts Sonia. And, ever obedient to her wish, her brother runs to untie the boat. The air on the river is fresh, invigorating. The free, unbounded space captivates the eye.

The boat has reached the opposite shore. Laughing and playing, they jump out and disappear beneath the dark shade of the forest.

"Listen, Vasia! A warbler! How sweetly it sings! Oh, listen, now a nightingale is singing!"

"Oh, Sonia, the branches crack. Maybe it's a bear!"

A crowd of young people burst into the meadow. They are all here, Vera Tarasova and Mary Vachina and Mitia Popoff and Petia and—

Sonia becomes red. But it is a secret why she has become confused, and her gray eyes glisten with joy. A minute more and they are in the different parts of the forest. Sonia walks along the bank of the river with a young man dressed in a student's uniform. The branches of the trees and bushes brush over their faces, but they do not mind it; it is even pleasant.

"I am very glad," says the student, "that you share my view. It speaks in favor of your good sense. We live at a period full of live interest in life and its occurrences. I am happy to live just at such a time. Who knows, perhaps, in a score of years everything will settle into new, definite forms, and we shall again begin to live the dull, colorless and uninterestingly monotonous life."

"But I do not believe," Sonia answers him, "that everything can change so. It is possible that all bright minds will pass away, that the great ideals will cease to exist, or that the whole world will think, struggle and achieve no longer?"

"Oh, of course not; but in the life of a nation, as well as in every life, at some time or other comes a period of exhaustion, of quiet, and such periods often cover ages."

"Sonia! Sergey Ivanovitch! Where are you?"

"Sonia! Sonia!"

The girl shudders and opens her eyes. The dull, monotonous beating of the heavy drops of moisture against the stone floor of the cell, and the dim light of the sunrise bring her back into the world of reality. The forest, the golden fields, the river, the tulips and he—all have disappeared behind the dreadful curtain of that reality.

Again she is delirious.

"Poor girl! It's a fever, I reckon," mutters the soldier, brushing away a disobedient tear that has rolled down his cheek, and then again pacing the corridor.

"What is it doctor?" as if from a distance Sonia hears the words of the prison superintendent.

"Looks like the typhoid, or perhaps a very bad case of grip. The sooner you remove her to the hospital the better, otherwise I would not be responsible for her. Who is she?"

"A condemned one. Today they will read her the sentence."

Once, lying on a clean bed in the hospital, Sonia regained consciousness for a moment. Above her was the sad face of the doctor.

After that Sonia's mind did not reason clearly. Once, when her mother, a woman with gray hair and a very pale face, still young, but apparently suffering, came to visit her, she smiled at her and whispered:

"Mamma!" Why did you make your hair white?"

By an almost superhuman effort the suffering mother refrained from weeping, only pressing her lips to her daughter's head.

"Did you send the petition? Is there any hope?" asked the doctor, entering the room.

"I did send it, but I am afraid, doctor, that it will not do any good. I do not know which is better, her death now or—"

And the choked sobs burst from her bosom.

Sonia opens her eyes.

"Mamma!" she cries, seeking the mother with her eyes.

"I am here, my dear child; here by you."

"Don't cry, mamma. Don't! Where is Vasia?" Call him here."

And once more she forgets her mother and brother.

"Sergey Ivanovitch, I understand your ideas thoroughly, but I think that they are impracticable."

"It's the student," explains the mother, "who induced her to take part in this terrible affair. He was hanged three days ago."

"I believe," Sonia's voice rises to a high, triumphant pitch, "that evil should be exterminated at the very root; but what is the use in violence, in bloodshed? There are other methods."

The mother sobs, covering her mouth with a handkerchief. The doctor bites his lips in an evident effort to restrain himself from weeping.

"I cannot dance any longer," Sonia shouts.

"Sergey Ivanovich, let us shop dancing or I will fall."

A second later she is laughing.

"Ha, ha, ha! Certainly I am not in earnest! With you, I am ready to dance all night, but I think it's better on the shore. Let us go there. Do you wish to get me a branch? For me, of course! Sergey, dear, I know that you love me. I love you, too! Lead me wherever you please. I will follow you even to death! Oh, how pleasant it is here!"

The doctor places ice on her forehead.

Three days later she died without regaining consciousness, utterly ignorant of the death sentence pronounced upon her.

Lobelia's Failure.

By MADELINE DALEY.

Lobella is my cousin—we'll call it twice removed;
A clever girl in many ways, and thoroughly approved.
She's pretty, and she's bright enough—a girl you'd not forget;
And still Lobella failed to fill a high place in our set.
She would not spend the waking hours in talking about dress—
It's hardly strange Lobelia was not a great success.

I introduced her all around and lunched her faithfully
With tons of cake and bonbons, and gallons of hot tea,
But poor Lobella couldn't show absorbing interest
In nerves, and rheumatism, and colds upon the chest.
Lobella changed the subject and so, I must confess,
It's hardly strange that Lobella was not a great success.

She had a queer religion, her views were orthodox,
She hated picture puzzles made of wriggly little blocks,
She didn't care for bridge enough to sit up to all hours,
She doubted that Mahatmas had queer, supernatural powers,
Lobella did not wish to vote, and could not win at chess—
It's hardly strange that Lobella was not a great success.

When older folks were talking, Lobella would sit by
And never interrupt them; she didn't even try
To prove they were old fogies, completely out of date,
Though long-drawn reminiscenses they'd venture to relate.
Lobella was not up in slang; she used puns even less,
It's hardly strange that Lobella was not a great success.

I found her rather quiet, though a very charming girl;
She did not keep your faculties in one unending whirl;
Her tone was low and modest, her talk had something in it,
And, strange to say, she didn't giggle every single minute.
She married well and early, though why I cannot guess,
So, after all, it may be said she had some slight success.

Some Funny Courtships

By CONSTANCE CARRUTHERS.

The science of wooing has always been the queerest study of mankind, and courtship has always been the most interesting subject of consideration in the curriculum of life. "Wooers," said Verlaine, "are as diverse in their ways as the four winds of heaven—and as efficacious."

Several months ago the Improvement Association of Edgewater Park, N. J., bitterly complained against the whistle shrieks of passing locomotives. It was figured out that at least 800 toots a day were the total for regular trains which passed through the town. Men stationed near the line by the association discovered that one train when on slackening speed near a house at the east end of the town, the locomotive whistle indulged in a wild and variable program of shrieks that seemed to have no particular railroad meaning.

Subsequent investigation brought to light the interesting fact that the engineer's sweetheart lived in the house near the line, and that some such love signal schedule as this had been arranged between the girl and her wooer: two short blasts, "I am coming;" three short blasts, "throw me a kiss;" one long blast, "A kiss from me;" two long blasts, "I love you."

When the young woman appeared at the window and waved to her lover, the later would answer with a series of whistle toots which would have put a circus band to shame.

Not long ago there was printed in the newspapers a story of the way in which a gallant merchant had won the hand of his typewriter. Although it was evident to the wooer that the young woman did not regard him entirely without favor, he found it extremely difficult to get her to listen to his plea. The girl refused to lunch, sup or go to the theater with her admirer.

Finding every avenue of approach blocked, the determined courtier, who possessed some literary facility, wrote a short love story, in which the girl and he were the leading figures. This story he sent to the stenographer every morning for a month and ordered her to typewrite it for him. She dared not refuse to do as her employer commanded, and realizing through the story that he would never give up until she married him, she finally acquiesced.

Analogous to the persistency of this wooer was that of a man who won a bride through the conveniently relentless postoffice. Every day for eight months he sent the girl a card with a single capital letter written there on. At the end of each eight days the series of cards spelled "I love you."

A prize for unconventionality in courtship should certainly be awarded to the Baltimore street car conductor who wooed and won a housemaid who worked in one of the residences along the line on which he was assigned to duty. The maid knew the approximate times when her lover's car would pass the house, and juggled her household tasks in such a manner that she would be at one of the front windows at the right time.

Every time the car neared the house the conductor would signal the friendly motorman to stop, although the stop was in the middle of the block. After he had thrown a kiss to the maid and received one in return, he would ring the bell and the car would proceed.

When, however, the conductor was transferred to night duty a new problem presented itself. This he finally managed to solve with a lantern, which he waved to the maid on the two trips before midnight. Each circle of the lantern was supposed to represent a kiss.

Home Truths.

By FRANCES WILEY.

If you desire but little of a busy man's company—marry him.

When you dislike anyone, be particularly charming. It saves trouble in the end.

When you make a new friend remember that you create a potential enemy.

One word of appreciation now is worth a volume of praise when a friend is dead and can no longer hear you.

Never give to anybody, no matter how dear, "the run of the house." It is an experiment which invariably ends in disaster.

It is wise now and then, in dealing with self-seeking business men, to show your teeth. But when you do be ready to use them.

Nobody cares whether you look well-dressed or ill-dressed, except yourself. Therefore, unless husband hunting, spend more time on "manners" than on "mode."

If you want a thing done, choose the right person to do it, and leave him full responsibility. It is impossible to do everything yourself with any show of decency.

Never nag. But if a lover, a friend or a servant prove unsatisfactory, sever the link between you swiftly. (Note—Until our marriage laws are altered this rule does not apply to matrimony.)

This is the age of the chrysanthemum woman. Always remember she is never too old to welcome delicate flattery. (Note—After 50 use a spillikin for the application of homage, not a garden trowel.)

Always remember that marriage is not a condition of life, but a fine art. Once you have mastered this fact, there need be no question of "How to be happy, though married."

When a Woman Will —Well, She Will

(From the "Chicago Inter Ocean.)

"When a woman will—well, she will. A society leader of my acquaintance experimented for years with soaps and shampoos. But all her shampooing had the opposite effect she was striving for—the wetting made her hair brittle, coarse, dull; indeed, in spite of her care and trouble, it was becoming thin and scanty.

"But she was determined. She kept on—trying first one thing, then another.

"Finally she mixed four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of therox. She sprinkled a little of the mixture evenly over her head, then brushed it thoroughly through the hair. The result was wondrously satisfying. She now uses this dry shampoo two or three times a week. It keeps the scalp clean and refreshed, and therox makes her hair beautifully lustrous, light and fluffy, and encourages its growth."

THE KITCHEN

To Rent Butter to Cream.

In the first place, it must be butter, not margarine or any substitute for butter, and a large three-pronged steel kitchen fork must be used; a silver fork will not do as well. Put the butter into a pastry bowl in which the cake will be mixed. If it is cold weather, the beating should be done in a warm place and the bowl warmed a little before the butter is put into it. Break the butter first with the fork, then beat it in long, steady, firm strokes from right to left. It will take from thirty to forty minutes to do it. The butter must not be thin like cream used for coffee and tea, but thick like Devonshire or whipped cream. If the butter has to be left half done, be careful to leave it so that the beating can be resumed exactly as before, or it may be spoiled if beaten the contrary way. When sugar has to be added, it must not be until the butter is quite creamy, and then gradually, a little at a time; when each portion is quite mixed in the beating must be continued from right to left, the sugar not stirred in, and whatever else has to be added—beaten eggs, fruit, flour and spice—must be done in the same way.

Walnut Ketchup.

Remove the inner white from green walnuts, and after pounding them well, strain off the juice to clear it. Let it stand for twelve hours, then strain again. To each pint of juice add a large onion, two ounces of horseradish, sliced, half an ounce of shallots, a clove of garlic, half a pint of vinegar, half a pound of anchovies. Mix these ingredients and let the whole boil slowly for two hours. When cold, strain the liquor until clear, then add to each pint half an ounce of spice, mace, cloves, nutmeg and whole black pepper in equal proportions. Boil again for three-quarters of an hour, but do not strain the ketchup, as the spice must be distributed in the several bottles in which the liquid is kept. The saucepan must be closely covered, or the aromatic flavor will evaporate. The bottles must be perfectly clean and dry, and the corks well sealed.

Canning String Beans.

String the beans, cut in two-inch lengths, cover with boiling salted water and cook until nearly tender enough to eat. Have plenty of water boiling near at hand in the teakettle. Drain the water from the beans, put in sterilized glass jars and pour in fresh boiling water, leaving just space enough for two tablespoonfuls of boiling hot vinegar. Seal and set away in the dark. When ready to use, open the can, turn off the water, rinse and let come to a boil in fresh water to which has been added a piece of soda the size of a pea. Turn off this water, scald again in fresh water, season with salt, pepper, cream and butter, and fancy, without stretching the imagination, that you are eating fresh string beans.

TEDDY WILL SPLIT PARTY

Congressman Goulden of New York Predicts Democratic Success.

New York Law Maker Studying Shipping Conditions at Duluth.

"The Democrats will control the next house, they will elect the president two years from now, and the Republican party will be defeated and put to rout," declared Congressman J. A. Goulden of New York city today, when told that Chairman Barnes of the New York state Republican committee had conceded the election of Theodore Roosevelt as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention at Saratoga.

"Roosevelt will split the Republican party wide apart," he continued. "Speaking as a Democrat, and with the future of my party in mind, I hope he will continue his activities indefinitely. They are sure to put Democracy in power. I say this as a friend of Roosevelt of twenty years' standing. Unless the Republicans can gag Roosevelt, there is no hope for them in this election or the one two years hence.

"It is my opinion that the Democrats will have a majority of thirty-four in the next house. I hope it will not be any larger. You remember what happened last time the Democrats controlled the house, with a majority of more than 100? We don't care to see another such condition.

"In New York state we will gain six or seven seats. New Jersey will elect Democrats to six of her eight seats; as goes New York, so goes New Jersey, you know. I think Woodrow Wilson will be elected governor of New Jersey, and New York certainly will elect a Democratic governor.

"Roosevelt is driving a locomotive right through the Republican party. That's what he is doing, and as a Democrat I am pleased that it is so."

A Word for Miller.

Congressman C. B. Miller was with Representative Goulden much of the time the New Yorker was in Duluth and Mr. Goulden took occasion to give the Duluthian a friendly "boost," qualifying it with a hope that the district might exercise sound judgment enough to send a Democrat to congress rather than a Republican.

"Mr. Miller is all right," he said, in the presence of that gentleman. "He did very well in his first term. He broke loose now and then, but he did it so smoothly and inoffensively that he didn't get the older fellows down on him.

"I can say this for Mr. Miller: If the Eighth Minnesota district insists upon sending a Republican to congress, it might as well be Mr. Miller."

Whether Mr. Goulden knew it or not, there was more or less humor in the observation, in view of the fact that the primaries are over and Miller is the only Republican in the field. Without mentioning his name, Mr. Goulden intimated that the district would do well to send Judge Jaques to congress in place of Mr. Miller.

Boost For Duluth.

Congressman Goulden, accompanied by Alexis Brady Blanchard, his secretary, is in the city to study lake shipping conditions, coming here from Buffalo by boat. He leaves for Buffalo tonight. While in the city Mr. Goulden is the guest of G. A. Tomlinson of the Duluth Steamship company. He is chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and is the author of a bill offered at the last session providing for the organiation of the boat inspection service. As a result of his inquiries here this bill will be modified in form. As submitted it has the approval of the secretary of the department of commerce and labor. It is now before the fisheries and merchant marine committee.

"I am pleased with what I have observed here in Duluth," said Mr. Goulden, "and am convinced that this city is and will continue to be a great commercial center of the Northwest. My investigations here have disclosed that the lake traffic men are giving their employes better treatment than I found to be the case in coastwise and over-sea trades. What I have learned here I am confident will result in some material changes in the bill now before the committee.

"The different unions of the navigation trades, particularly the Seamen's and Firemen's unions, have taken a deep interest in this measure."

FOUR CONVENTIONS ARE IN SESSION AT WISCONSIN CAPITAL

sound morals, and is a legalized robbery.

Denounce Payne Law.

"We denounce the Payne-Aldrich tariff act as an indefensible masterpiece of injustice, legally authorozing remorseless extortions of the many to enrich the few through the operation of trusts and monopolies, which it fosters.

"We favor any honest, non-partisan investigation of the tariff by authorized experts, to the end that the electors may be enlightened as to the iniquity of the present system of spoilation, established and maintained by the Republican party for the last fifty years.

Commission Mere Subterfuge.

"We regard the creation of a board of tariff experts by the last congress and the appropriation of a quarter of a million dollars to send them on a visit foreign countries and then specifically limiting the report of their investigation to the president alone as a mere subterfuge satisfactory to the special interests, intended to deceive the American people and deliberately proposed to indefinitely postpone a reduction of the tariff taxation."

The platform will commend the opposition of democratic congressmen to the passage of the Payne-Aldrich bill, and pledges candidates, if elected, to work for an honest revision downward of the tariff. An income tax law, election of senators by direct vote of the people, state as well as national control of trusts, publicity of foreign contributions and expenses, conservation of natural resources, with particularly stringent state safeguards over water power sites, and "home rule" for the liquor traffic will be advocated.

Republicans Have Troubles.

The platform experts among the Republicans of this state, after laboring until 1 o'clock this morning, were up and at it again today in an endeavor to have a draft ready for the resolutions committee by the time the convention was called to order. It was said that the document was still far from complete and it was expected that the resolutions committee would occupy most of the afternoon getting it in shape. In some quarters the opinion was expressed that the work of the convention cannot be finished today, and that a short session tomorrow will be necessary.

Congressman Lenroot, Secretary of State Frear and others stated that no matter what the delay in framing the document, it would be presented to the convention only after a free and full discussion by the resolutions committee.

Express La Follette Views.

As Senator La Follette is acknowledged as leader by 112 of the 137 members of the convention, it is safe to state that, no matter how drawn, the platform will clearly express the views of the insurgent senator.

One plank over which there was much discussion as to the advisibility of admitting it to the platform, concerned President Taft's recent patronage letter, in which he stated that insurgents would not be discriminated against in the making of federal appointments. The patronage matter is a sore point between the La Follette Republicans and the Stalwarts. The latter were credited today, despite the preponderance of the numbers against them with fighting strength against referring again to the letter and to keep insurgent resentment against the national administration to the mildest form of expression possible.

Eyes on New York Fight.

The delegates, who are composed of the candidates for the legislature and state executive offices, seemed as much if not more interested in the outcome of the New York state convention fight over the temporary chairmanship than in their own work. They knew in advance that, no matter what the wording of their platform, it would be a straight out and out progressive document, but the Saratoga problem presented all the attractions of an old-time political convention.

The best information obtainable in advance was that the platform will ignore President Taft and possibly Governor Davidson's administration. The insurgents in congress will be credited with all the good work that was done. Other probable features are:

Demand for a corrupt practices act limiting amounts of money which can be spent in campaigns.

Second choice primary.

Denouncing the brewers for activity in state politics.

Demand for home rule for cities with initiative, referendum and recall for such as want it.

Referendum and Recall.

Submission of a constitutional amendment to the people extending initiative, referendum and recall to state and legislative offices.

Demand for system of industrial insurance, income tax and good roads.

Demand that the state assumes jurisdiction over water power.

Furniture Company Employes Charged With Theft, Waive Examinations.

The four employes of the F. S. Kelly Furniture company, arrested on charges of grand larceny for stealing large quantities of goods from the firm in the last few months, waived examination when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. The thefts were discovered Saturday night with the arrest of Slyvester F. Bernto, engineer of the building. He implicated John and William Kubicki, Peter Wamsley and Joe Weisenberger. The latter was released as no evidence against him was found. The ball of the others was fixed at $500 each, which they were unalbe to furnish. A considerable quantity of the stolen goods is being recovered by the police from people to whom Bernto confesses he has made sales. He represented that he was breaking up housekeeping and had to get rid of some of the furnishings.

FAIR

The clouds ceased weeping during the night and the disagreeable weather was followed this morning by fine fall weather, with a crisp touch in the air that has been cleansed and freshed by the rain. There are a few clouds in the sky, but they don't threaten rain and fair weather is promised for tonight and tomorrow, with a light frost tonight.

Bright, beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:02 and it will set at 5:56 tonight, giving eleven hours and fifty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance central Monday morning over Southeastern Minnesota has advanced to Eastern Lake Superior, its easterly movement resulting in light to heavy rains over the Lake region, upper Mississippi, Ohio and lower Missouri valleys. A shift to westerly winds has followed as regards the entire Lake region. Mostly clear weather prevails to the westward of the ninetieth meridian. The Western high pressure has moved its center to Kansas and has caused cooler weather there and in Nebraska, Oklahoma, Northeastern Texas and upper Mississippi valley districts. A disturbance central over Northern Saskatchewan is causing warmer temperature over Wyoming, Montana and Manitoba. Fair weather is indicated for the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD!

James J. Hill said in one of his recent speeches that "Credit is the atmosphere which inflates the lungs of business, and when it is greatly lessened, business must be reduced in proportion or be quietly smothered." Ninety per cent of the world's business is done on credit.

We appreciate the trade of our Cash Customers, but we want to be known as an exclusive high-class Credit House. We do an enormous business yearly in the 89 cities where our stores are located and territories adjacent to them, and over two-thirds of this business is done on Credit with people in all walks of life. NO HEARSAY ON BRIBERY that Representative Clark had admitted that he (Clark) was bribed.

Precedent Is Quoted.

The reports of the committee in the Spencer case was read by Chairman Burrows. This report said:

"Some hearsay evidence was offered that some persons had received money for voting for Senator Spencer, and this evidence was ruled out."

"This case," said Chairman Burrows, "is directly in point. The committee has considered the authorities cited and adheres to the ruling already announced."

Representative White resumed the witness stand, following announcement of this ruling, and was still on the stand when adjournment for luncheon was taken at noon.

On this point the committee was given numerous citations by Attorney Austrian yesterday which they discussed in conference last night.

Holstlaw on the Ground.

State Senator D. W. Holstlaw of Iuka, who told State's Attorney Burk and the grand jury of Sangamon county that he had been bribed, arrived at the Congress hotel today in custody of a deputy United States marshal. He had been served with a summons to testify. He is expected to follow Representative H. J. C. Beckmeyer, another who confessed that he was bribed.

Beckmeyer is expected to be the second witness.

Considerable testimony relative to alleged "jackpot" distribution was permitted yesterday by the witness White, who declared he was bribed to vote for Senator Lorimer, subject to a motion to exclude it from the evidence. A ruling was expected before the direct and cross-examination of White was completed.

Would Cut Down Majority.

The protestant in the case contended through its attorney yesterday that it was only necessary to show that enough votes for the senator were tainted with bribery to reduce his majority below a constitutional majority of the general assembly, to make it obligatory on the committee to report that his seat should be declared vacant. In this connection testimony of White relative to alleged confessions of other legislators that they were bribed was urged as admissible and citations of court rulings were advanced.

LOOK FOR FIGHT ON IRRIGATION

Delegations to National Congress Meet in State Divisions.

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 27.—The completion of committee appointments was the first business transacted upon the convening of the eighteenth National Irrigation congress this morning.

The most pronounced interest centered in the meeting of the Colorado delegation. This meeting is expected to determine to what extent the question of state rights will be injected into the deliberations of the present congress.

"Irrigation by private enterprise" was the general topic considered at the morning session.

This afternoon "Public Irrigation" will be discussed.

A resolution was presented by the Colorado delegation recommending "that our respective congressional delegations urge that there be appropriated out of the reclamation service fund $1,000,000 annually for the purpose of gauging the public streams of the arid states under the direction of the United State geological survey."

A second resolution was offered dealing with the Elephant-Butte project in New Mexico.

NAPLES IN PANIC FROM DISEASE

Startling Conditions Are Reported There as Result of Cholera.

Rome, Sept. 27.—With the removal of the censorship, startling details of the cholera epidemic at Naples are being received. A number of persons have died in the streets and the popular excitement is such that the police have great difficulty in maintaining public order. It is reported that 100,000 persons of the better classes already have fled from Naples.

Isolate Railroad Cars.

MUCH INTEREST IN LARSEN LECTURES.

The coming to Duluth of Christian D. Larsen, editor of Progress magazine, is arousing considerable interest in the city. Mr. Larsen will lecture at K. P. hall Thursday and Friday at 2:30 and 8 p. m., and Sunday morning and evening.

The fact that he is the head of a company incorporated for $2,000,000 reflects much credit on his ability. The Progress magazine, of which he is editor, is rapidly taking first rank. His messages have the added force of one who does not theorize, but speaks from experience. It is a rare chance for Duluth citizens to hear these lectures free, for in other cities admission fees have been charged.

WANT COLUMBUS MAYOR SUSPENDED FROM OFFICE.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Petitions asking Governor Harmon to suspend Mayor Marshall on charges of gross misconduct in office, growing out of his management of the car strike situation, have been filed at the governor's office. Information concerning the text of the charges made and the number of signatures attached was refused at the executive offices.

PREDICT FALL OF SPANISH PREMIER

Catholic Newspapers Publish Stories of Cabinet Dissensions.

Madrid, Sept. 27.—The Catholic newspapers here are filled with stories of cabinet dissensions and freely predict that the manifestations to be held next Sunday will force Premier Canelejas to retire on the eve of the assembling of the Cortes on Oct. 3. They say further that Count Romanones, president of the chamber of deputies, will succeed Senor Canalejas. The latter's friends declare that the reports are part of the clerical campaign.

Catholic Leader Prosecuted.

SON OF WEALTHY FATHER IN JAIL

Achilles C. Foley, son of George Foley, the wealthy St. Paul contractor, who is known throughout the West, was arrested in Superior yesterday afternoon for the Duluth authorities for forgery.

He is accused of passing a worthless check for $600 last December on the Wright-Clarkson Mercantile company. The police state that he presented a forged letter purporting to be written by his father, after which he presented the check and purchased $400 worth of supplies for an imaginary lumber camp in Northern Minnesota.

"The young man is another example of the son of a wealthy father gone wrong," said Chief Troyer today.

After obtaining the $200 balance on the check, Foley left the city and was not heard of again until yesterday. As he was going to the train an employe of the company, who knew of the check saw him. He promptly notified the police. But Foley had already boarded the train which had left for Superior. The Wisconsin authorities were notified and they searched the train for him. He was discovered hiding in the toilet and was taken to the Superior headquarters. He announced that he will fight extradition.

PADDY LAVIN STUCK ON DOCK AS PLACE FOR QUIET SNOOZE

Pasted to the dock!

"Help, help; get me loose!"

There is the synopsis, quick and to the point. Let us now proceed in a more leisurely style.

Paddy Lavin is a member of the Box Car club, and not very observing. As long as Paddy gets an occasional nip, and the occasions are not too widely separated, and manages to get something to eat once in a while, he cares not if the world is his, or whether it moves rapidly or slowly.

In other words, Paddy observes little outside of his habitual lazy habits.

If he had been an observing man, he would have known that a mixture of water and flour makes paste, and that paste is sticky. If he had been an observing man, he would have noticed that the docks of Northern Pacific Slip No. 4 were covered with a substance, and that it was damp and sticky.

But being one of the kind that looks not farther than the immediate comfort of the minute, Paddy, who had had a few, only knew that he wanted to lie at full length on the dock, and it might have been fate that he picked out a spot where the flour that escapes from the sacks that are being loaded on the boats was particularly thick, and damp, and sticky.

The sun was shining nicely for about half an hour this morning, and that was the time Paddy chose for his mornin's after morning. He lay full length in the sticky flour and water "goo," and while the waves played plaintive music against the dock, and all nature smiled, Paddy Lavin was wafted to the sweet arms of Morpheus.

The sun beamed down for a few short minutes, and while it beamed the damp mixture of flour and water dried and Paddy sank his identity more or less in his surroundings, and became almost a part of the dock He seemed kind of crazy about the place he had picked out for a snooze; in fact, he was stuck on it.

Tugmen swapped lies, the tune of the waves changed from a gentle and dreamy rhapsody to a Wagnerian strain, as the wind beat up the bay; the sun hid behind a gloomy cloud—and Paddy Lavin shivered, shook, and like the vessel in the poem, seemed to feel a thrill along his keel.

Paddy moved, but not muchly. He was pasted to the dock from his shoulders down to the ankles of his frayed trouserettes. After rolling, like a man in a straight jacket, and struggling to free himself from the dock, Paddy unloosened yells that are often heard in the mob scene only these were on the square and had more genuine human interest in them.

The tugmen stopped telling about the high waves on Lake Superior and hastened over to the storm center And there they gazed on pathetic Paddy doing his human bill board imitation.

They let him lie for some time. He was so amusing. He kicked and screamed and yelled—and swore. The paste was firm, and Paddy's exit was considerably delayed. He might have been there yet, had he not hit upon an expedient.

He unbuttoned his coat and squirmed out of it, leaving it glued fast to the dock. Then he got busy with his knife and pried and cut his trouser legs loose from the dock. And the blue smoke vocabulary was in working order all the time. Part of the coat was left on the dock, and part of it went with Paddy, in search of something to remove the chill.

AUTUMN HAT IS THE FEATURE

Lavish Showing of Fall Styles at Silberstein & Bondy Store.

The autumn hat transcends almost everything else in importance at this time of year and on the third floor of the Silberstein & Bondy store a variety of hats are being shown in a formal opening for the fall of this department. Palms disposed about the apartment give a touch of festivity and but there is nothing to distract attention from the hats themselves. A large number of imported models is being shown by this firm as well as the fine selection of hats from their own designer. The hats are attractively displayed and the opening will continue all day tomorrow.

Hats would seem to have reached the climax of luxury this year season and in the picture hats shown by this store, the combinations of colors and materials are most pleasing and the graceful models attracted much attention.

Although the Silberstein & Bondy company is not holding formal openings in the other departments, a most interesting display of autumn fashions is to be seen. Gowns and suits from foreign and domestic makers and the custom made suits, are sure to be interesting to the world of womankind. Furs and fur coats, soft and pliable and exquisitely fashioned and particularly welcome in a climate such as Duluth's, are shown.

Every department of the store is ready for the inspection of the woman hunting for the necessary and delightful things of autumn. The gowns which are displayed, some of them the extreme of lavish luxury, are interesting and beautiful and there are, too, the necessary, more practical, garments for the every-day use of the every-day woman and they, too, of course, are beautiful. For a gown, or coat or suit which supplies well the needs for which it is to be put, can not help but be beautiful. And a feature has been made of arranging for the needs of the average woman who desires to be well dressed on all occasions.

The waists are especially interesting in simple and elaborate designs.

The millinery opening will continue tomorrow.

HIGH INSANE RATE IN COUNTY

That a large percentage of the people who go insane in St. Louis county are those who remain alone on homesteads and in isolated parts of the country, is proven over and over again in the office of Probate Judge J. B. Middlecoff.

Yesterday two men were adjudged insane after an examination by a board of physicians. Both were homesteaders. Each lived alone.

Nine out of ten cases are from the country. There is seldom a day but what information is filed against some settler who lives alone in the county districts

Oscar Larson talked foolishly and expressed himself indecently to the other residents of Celina, a hamlet in St. Louis county. John Niemi, according to the information, cries, prays, talks to himself and gives other signs of being mentally unbalanced. Both were this morning ordered to Fergus Falls by Judge Middlecoff.

TRIAL LEADS INTO ANOTHER

The trial in the police court of Homer Hewitt for petit larceny, brought up a side issue this morning which will result in another trial. Hewitt is accused of embezzling $8 from an insurance company, the allegation being that he collected the money and failed to turn it in.

Yesterday John D. Morgan, an employe of the company, testified against the young man.

This morning he and Dexter Hewitt, the boy's father, met in the hall. They started to quarrel over the testimony and it is asserted that Hewitt called Morgan a vile name. Whereupon Morgan caused Hewitt's arrest for using profane language. He entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried Thursday morning. It is expected that the case against the younger Hewitt will be finished today.

AUTO INSTEAD OF BUILDING

The board of fire commissioners sent a communication to the city council last night asking that the $8,000 set for a new fire hall at Lakeside be diverted towards the purchase of an autohmobile combination chemical and hose wagon and a building in which to house it. The board figured that the cost of the apparatus and the hall would be about equally divided.

By supplying the gasoline power the board believes that the apparatus would be able to answer alarms from all parts of the East end in a short order, thus giving both suburbs better fire protection and saving the uptown departments many long runs. This would also eliminate the old fire hall at Lakeside, which has long been characterized as a standing disgrace to the city. The same crew, consisting of six men, would be maintained and the apparatus now at Lakeside could be put in other parts of the city, possibly at another new hall or at the new Duluth, where a strenuous clamor is being made for additional fire protection.

BOOST BETHEL AT BANQUET

There will be a dinner this evening at 6:30 in the Commercial club rooms, attended by about seventy-five business men who have volunteered to be workers in the Bethel's new buiding fund campaign.

This dinner is being held for the purpose of getting the workers together, that the general plans for the campaign may be discussed and the needs of the Bethel clearly set forth. It is believed that such a gathering will give an impetus to the work that must be done, which will contribute greatly to the rapidity and success of the movement.

Although the business men of the city have come forward generously and voluntarily to aid the Bethel fund, there never has been an opportunity for those interested to hear the scheme definitely outlined.

VINING CHARGED WITH FELONY

George Vining, alias Ed Russell, the waiter, who was arrested Saturday night by Lieut. Fritz and Sergt. Roberg with Ruth Mildred Sherlun, was arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with felony.

The girl told the authorities after her arrest that she was only 15 years old, which resulted in the serious charge being brought against Vining. The girl stated that she was married and had left her husband, a plumber at Brainerd. She appears to be much older than she claims and would easily pass for 18 years.

She entered a plea of guilty to a statutory charge and was given the option of paying a fine of $30 and costs or spending forty days in the county jail. The court stated that it was probable that she would be taken to the Bethel home instead of the jail.

Thirty-five Firemen Scalded.

Houston, Tex., Sept. 27.—While fighting a fire in the debris of the Houston Transfer company's building, which was burned last night, thirty-five firemen were badly burned and scalded by an explosion of carbide. It is believed that none were fatally injured.

JOHN BURKE.

Governor Burke of North Dakota has opened his campaign for re-election, and from the reports that come in his progress seems to be a sort of triumphal tour, and his reception a ratification of his past good work and an assurance of popular support for another term in which to do more good work.

And this is as it should be. Minnesota has followed the striking career of Governor Burke with an interest somewhat akin to that which it felt in its beloved Governor Johnson. John Burke's policy has been simple: he has consistently and persistently done the right thing no matter what interest it disturbed, and hewed the right path no matter where the chips flew.

That explains why his assurance of re-election is so absolute—that and the fact that he is opposed by a man who bears the unmistakable stamp of the McKenzie ring, representative in North Dakota of the elements to which the people are giving successful battle everywhere.

THE NEED OF FREE PORTS.

The item of chief importance in the report of Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, on the water transportation of this country, published in The Herald last evening, was the following: "Probably the greatest single deterrent to water terminal advance is the present adverse attitude of rail lines toward independent water traffic, in their exclusive control of frontage, in refusal or neglect to co-ordinate with general water traffic, and in refusal to pro-rate generally with water lines in through movement of traffic."

In other words, the people at vast expense have made water highways which provided cheap transportation that should result in cheaper commodities.

The railroads have complacently established toll stations in the harbors giving access to these waterways, and with the bludgeon of a monopoly of terminal facilities make the people stand and deliver a tribute that destroys all the advantages expected of these cheap channels of transportation.

That is why Duluth is working for a free port by providing free docks that will make the people independent of the railroad monopoly of the Great Lakes.

Tomorrow "Jim" Gray's "key-note" will be ringing through the state, and it will awaken an answering chord in the hearts of the people.

THE BEST TIME FOR VACATIONS.

The conventional vacation season having closed, New York is engaging itself in an animated discussion about the best time to take vacations.

There is a good deal to be said about that, but is it worth while saying it? Summer appeals to the majority, because it allows free play in the open air, which is good for folks and which folks need. Autumn is a beautiful time for vacations, because it is no longer hot and oppressive and you can still get the outdoor fun without its discomforts. Spring is a charming time for vacations, because you can get out and see the birth of the season and revel in the promises of bursting buds and unclosing blossoms. Winter isn't a bad time, either, because you can go South if you can afford it and change the bleakness of winter for the balm of spring or the luxuriance of summer, and if you can't do that you can go out snowshoeing or snow-balling or hunting.

Each season has its own peculiar charm, and while there is a preference, and everybody has his choice, the trouble is that so few people who get vacations have much of any option about when they shall take them.

The most sensible thing we have noticed in that New York discussion, which seems to be carried on in an earnest effort to forget politics and the stock market and business hesitation, is this from the New York Globe: "In plain words, the time for the average man to take a vacation is when he can get it. The two extremes in the social scale, the hoboes and the Rockefellers, can revel with bucolic nature whenever they like. The middlemen's choice is made for them by a higher power."

And too often that choice, when made by the "higher power", is no vacation at all. The average worker on a salary usually is glad enough to get his vacation to be willing to take it when he can get it. Workers on wages have a different problem; too often their vacations, also ordained by that same "higher power", are compulsory and come too often, and throw the balance between income and outgo over on the wrong side of the ledger.

Most people who get them take their vacations in the summer, when custom commands a quiet season in business and industry during which it is easier to get away. Few of them manage to get away in the fall, though in many respects that is the best time of the year for vacations, because it is also the busiest time of the open season between winters.

But what needs solving more than the question of when to take vacations is the problem of how to get them. Many employers, urged to that course by sound business reasoning no less than by the dictates of humanity, provide vacations for all their employes. They realize that any man can do more work and better in a year of fifty weeks than he can in a year of fifty-two weeks. Others, however, are not so far-sighted. A little of the energy put into discussing the best time for vacations might wisely be devoted to encouraging the notion that vacations are as indispensable to the average worker as his meals.

HE DOESN'T LIKE THE PRIMARY ELECTION.

Congressman Henry H. Boutell of Illinois distinctly disapproves of the primary election system.

As he is a faithful retainer of the Cannon organization in congress, his dislike of the primary election is not astonishing. When it is remembered that he was beaten for renomination in the primary election lately held in Illinois, his disapproval is still more easily understood.

Boutell is serving his seventh term in congress. During the last session he was mentioned frequently as an ardent standpatter, and the reporters didn't have occasion to mention him in any other capacity. He was a supporter of Cannon and Cannonism, and he was proud of it. When the session was over he "pointed with pride" to his record, questioned the right of insurgents to call themselves Republicans, and asked the voters of his district to reaffirm their allegiance to the Grand Old Party of Aldrich, Cannon, Platt, Quay and Hanna by renominating him as the regular Republican candidate in his district.

A progressive Republican entered the field, the issue was made clear, and Boutell was beaten most decisively.

Now he announces that he doesn't like the primary election, that he refuses to recognize it as decisive, and that he will be an independent candidate for congress—independent in the sense that he runs without a party label, but Republican in the sense that he clings to the old traditions that created the autocracy of Aldrich-Cannonism.

"I place no reliance in direct primaries," says Mr. Boutell. "Pure democracy has always been a failure. The initiative and referendum, direct vote for senators—these are vagaries."

On this platform Boutell is going to run for congress. On that platform no man in the United States ought to get a single vote except those of the beneficiaries of Things as They Are who live in his district.

Boutell's attitude is typical of the reactionary Republican attitude, of the attitude of those who participate in the liberal distribution of special privileges to the few at the bitter cost of the many. The people are not fitted to govern themselves—that's the meaning of that attitude. Government must be handled by the Boutells, the Aldriches, the Cannons, the Tawneys—staunch friends of property who have scant sympathy with the bitter needs of humanity. The primary election is wrong because it puts the power of nomination in the people's hands. The initiative is wrong because it puts the power of initiating legislation in the people's hands. The referendum is wrong because it puts the power of approval or veto of legislation in the people's hands. Direct election of United States senators is wrong because it puts the control of the senate in the people's hands.

Men who hold these views have no business in the public life of a republic; yet men holding such views have had full control of the nation's public affairs for many years—have that control yet, for the matter of that.

The people can approve the primary election, the initiative and the referendum, the direct election of senators, and other tools of pure democracy, for the same reason that the Boutells disapprove them—because they put the power of government in the hands of the people, where it ought to rest.

THE CITY CHARTER.

Not necessarily from a conviction that the city charter is in need of overhauling, but in order to give those who think such need exists a chance to bring their proposals to light, Chairman T. T. Hudson of the city charter commission has appointed a committee consisting of H. H. Phelps, Mayor Cullum, C. A. Congdon and Bert Fesler to consider proposed amendments.

Later the full commission will take up any amendments proposed by the committee or by others, and will prepare for presentation to the voters at the coming city election such amendments as it deems proper, and such other amendments as may be petitioned for under the "initiative", which is a feature of the Duluth charter.

Unless all signs fail, it is not going to be long before Duluth takes up for earnest consideration the commission form of government, and when that is done practically a complete new charter will be prepared and submitted. In the meantime no very pressing changes seem to suggest themselves.

Complaint has been made that the charter limitation of $320,000 on the expenditures of the city in all but a few departments is too low, and very likely that will be considered. The commission should not, and doubtless will not, consider a proposal to remove the limitation altogether. There is no limit to a city's need of money, but there is a definite limit to the size of the tax rate, and the removal of the limitation on expenditures would threaten a dangerously high tax rate. Possibly it would be well to remove the limit on the amount to be spent in any one year, and leave a reasonable limit on the number of mills that can be levied for general city purposes.

The Herald hopes that the charter commission will give the band concert amendment another chance. While it got a large majority of the votes cast upon it last spring, it failed to secure the required proportion of the votes cast at the election. The expense involved is small, especially when considered in the light of the good it will do in the way of providing good music for the people and maintaining a creditable band.

If any citizen has suggestions to make as to needed charter amendments, the opportunity to produce them has been afforded by the appointment of the above committee to receive such suggestions.

HARMONY FROM NECESSITY.

The Republican national congressional committee, after surveying the field, comes to the conclusion that if it wants to save the house of representatives to the Republican party it can't be particular about the quality of the partisanship of candidates. It would like to have a house made up wholly of reactionaries, but it is threatened with a house overwhelmingly controlled by Democrats. So its plan of turning a cold shoulder to insurgents is cast aside, and it announces that there will be no discrimination between Republican candidates for re-election. Maybe it is said with a tongue in the cheek, but anyway it seems wise. Wise, too, is the decision not to send any speakers into any district that are not requested by the candidates. Uncle Joe's speeches have proved too powerful—for the other side, and he and his like will not be in great demand by candidates.

Mr. Bryan complains that Col. Roosevelt has stolen the slogans of the Bryan Democracy and is parading them as his own. That's measurably true, only the Colonel has gone the Commoner a few better.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

NON-PARTISAN BALLOT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The agitation for a change in the primary election law so as to permit all names of candidates to be printed on one ballot, thus giving every voter an opportunity to select such candidates as he chooses, regardless of their party affiliations, and to go into the voting booth without the necessity of declaring his party creed, is certainly making progress, and I am delighted to see The Herald taking the side of the people in this important matter.

Party lines are fast being obliterated nowadays and will soon be wiped out entirely, if the voters continue to study the question of men and measures versus political dictators as effectively for the next two years as they have during the past year.

Truly Roosevelt, Bryan, La Follette, Folk, Cummings, Clapp, Beveridge, Hemley, Gaynor and Garfield are wonderful educators along independent lines. May their following increase a thousand-fold each week from now on until the army of progressives becomes so large that every advocate of "special privilege" legislation will be swept off the political map.

Give us direct nominations, non-partisan office-holders, graduated system of taxation, so that the poor man and little home-owner will be exempt from taxes, while the rich and well-to-do are doubled, and we will see more happy faces, less crime and a more contented people. C. B. MABEN.

Wealthwood, Minn., Sept. 24.

WHAT THE BOY SCOUTS STAND FOR.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Through your valuable paper we have been informed of the organization of Scout Patrols by the boys of the Y. M. C. A., but to my knowledge you have failed to state what kind of work the boys have to perform. As my boys have asked me to consent to their enlistment and under existing circumstances I cannot give my permission. I request you to kindly give us desired information. E. R. R.

Duluth, Sept. 25.

Originally the boy scouts comprised an English organization founded by Col. Baden-Powell of the English army with the indorsement of Field Marshal Lord Roberts and Gen. Kitchener. The primary idea was to inculcate in the young Britons a more intense spirit of patriotism, a greater reverence for country and a deeper respect for the guardians of the nation's honor and possessions. The idea was adopted in this country but without the official recognition of the army or the government although army officers have commended it.

As put into execution in this country the boy scouts are trained to care for themselves in the woods and on tramps, to prepare fires, to cook their own meals, if necessary; to put up a tent and take it down, to tie knots, to pack a knapsack, to recognize the principles of authority, discipline and organization. They are given athletic training and the entire plan has in view the bringing of city boys into athletic and outdoor life, factors in the development of men which many of them miss as boys. The local organization has not done much yet, but it is assumed that it will be conducted on a plan about as outlined above. The boys on joining, take the scout's oath, which calls for clean speech, clean habits, courtesy and truthfulness.—The Editor.

As Wall Street Sees T. R.

The New York Journal of Commerce: From the most responsible sources it was learned yesterday that very serious thinking is being done in the highest financial circles. Not crops, not the monetary outlook, not the lack of investment, not the high cost of doing business—not these things, but the trend, or rather the rush, towards radicalism, led so spectacularly by Ex-President Roosevelt, it was confided, is causing more deep-rooted uneasiness than the financial world has known in years. Beneath the stoicism displayed on the surface, beneath the jaunty declarations that things will right themselves, beneath the lip-ridicule of Mr. Roosevelt's revolutionary doctrines, lies the apprehension that the United States is on the eve of a new political order.

The older countries of Europe have passed through and are still passing through an era of quasi-socialism, of revolt against autocratic domination by crowns or other hereditary authorities, and now radicalism is fermenting in America. Theodore Roosevelt with his almost supernatural divination of popular tendencies, has constituted himself the leader of this new movement, the end of which our financiers cannot foresee and scarcely dare contemplate.

The East has endeavored to belittle the triumphal march of Mr. Roosevelt throughout the West, but those who personally witnessed his reception at the various points have reported back to headquarters that the numerous demonstrations were neither artificial nor superficial, but manifestly were the expression of sincere acclaim, the ex-president being hailed as the people's delivery from the overlordship of capital and of political bosses allied with corporations rather than with the common people. These reports have not come from Mr. Roosevelt's worshippers, but from unbiased representatives capable of accurately gauging the significance of events, and whose mission it was to inform the financial powers that be concerning the inner meaning of things.

The Old Trundle-bed.

Oh, the old trundle-bed where I slept when a boy,
What canopied king might not covet the joy?
The glory and peace of that slumber of mine,
Like a long gracious rest in the bosom divine;
The quaint, homely couch, hidden close from the light,
But daintily drawn from its hiding place at night,
Oh, a nest of delight, from the foot to the head,
Was the queer little, dear little, old trundle-bed!

Oh, the old trundle-bed where I, wondering, saw
The stars through the window and listened with awe
To the sigh of the winds as they trembling crept
Through the trees where the robins so restlessly slept;
Where I heard the low murmurous chirp of the wren
And the katydid listlessly chirrup again,
Till my fancies grew faint and were
Through the maze of the dreams of the old trundle-bed.

Oh, the old trundle-bed; Oh, the old trundle-bed!
With its plump little pillow and old-fashioned spread;
Its snowy white sheets and the blankets above,
Smoothed down and tucked round with the touches of love;
The voice of my mother to lull me to sleep
With the old fairy stories my memories keep Still fresh as the lillies that bloom o'er the head
Once bowed o'er my own in the old trundle-bed.

The Sixth Sense.

Woman's Home Companion: In a primary school examination over which I once had the pleasure to preside one of the questions was with regard to the five senses. One of the bright pupils handled the subject thus:

"The five senses are sneezing, sobbing, crying, yawning, coughing. By the sixth sense is meant an extra one which some folks have. This is snoring."

GRAY FOR GOVERNOR.

Well Worth Waiting For.

Wheelock's Weekly: It was worth waiting for. Predictions that the Democrats, if they could not get Lind, would go to the other extreme, were foiled by their selection of James A. Gray of Minneapolis, John Lind's own choice, and one of the brightest and cleanest and best known of the younger Democrats of the state. He is a man on whom John A. Johnston's mantle can worthily fall. He has already given proof of his unusual ability in an administrative capacity by his brilliant record as mayor of Minneapolis. In every relation of life in which he has been placed he has more than "made good"—he has made a distinguished success. He is devoted to the cause of the common people. He is an able writer, a strong and logical thinker, and a brilliant speaker. He is fearless and without guile. We can think of no other man in Minnesota whom it will be such a keen pleasure to support as this.

Mr. Gray's biography is that of a hard working boy, on his own resources, battling his way to a high minded, enlightened, splendid manhood. He is the kind of man Minnesota delights to honor when such an one is found. The Democrats have again given the state a chance to show its approval of clean methods and clean politics.

Jim Gray's Good Luck.

Chisholm Tribune: The Minneapolis Journal announced last week in a lengthy editorial its determination to support Governor Eberhart in spite of the fact that its editor, Mr. Gray, had been selected as the Democratic standard bearer. Jim Gray always was lucky.

His Ability Unquestioned.

Gaylord Hub, (Rep.): The Democratic state committee met at St. Paul on Thursday of last week and selected their leader to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Lind refusing to become the candidate for governor. Mr. James Gray was named and accepted the honor. Whether or not he will be elected is a question, but there is no question as to his ability. He is a newspaper man of considerable experience, served one term as mayor of Minneapolis, and is an aggressive campaigner.

Man of Character and Reliability.

Litchfield Independent: Ex-Mayor James Gray of Minneapolis will be the Democratic candidate for governor in Minnesota this year. He was last Thursday placed on the ticket by the state central committee. Mr. Gray was mayor of Minneapolis from 1898 to 1900, being elected as a Democrat. He was at that time a newspaper man, and has been engaged in editorial work ever since. He is a good speaker and a man of character and reliability. John Lind has promised to take a vigorous part in the campaign, a strong fight will no doubt be put up from now on until the close of the fall election contest.

Clean, Cultured, Honest.

Rush City Post, (Rep.): James Gray, the Democratic nominee for governor, is a clean, cultured, honest man; fitted both by nature and education as a careful conservative leader of his party. As mayor of Minneapolis, he demonstrated a marked ability as an executive officer and the campaign in which he is now engaged will be prosecuted with gentlemanly vigor, leaving no mud stains.

His Splendid Opportunity.

Little Falls Herald: We believe James Gray has omre than a splendid opportunity to become governor of Minnesota. The people of Minnesota are progressive. They will rally around a man who shows a knowledge of issues and an honest desire to restore popular rights, a man who will be free from the domination of any interest. We believe Mr. Gray is such a man, and that Minnesota along with her sister states, will show in November progressiveness and political independence. Mr. Gray has it in his power in this campaign to make the people realize that the means for saving themselves from corporate aggression and for inaugurating necessary and vital reforms, are embodied in the initiative, the referendum and the recall. When the people can say directly to their legislators what laws they wished passed, when they can directly condemn legislation that is wrong and unjust, and when they can directly call back from office the unfaithful public servant, the interests will have no further use for pliant legislators. The great power of the people like the sword of Damocles, will be suspended over the legislature when the initiative, the referendum and the recall are part of the constitution of the state. This efficient tool of popular action has been put in use in several states and in other lands it demonstrated its tremendous value. It embodies all reform for all reforms can be accomplished through it. The governor who can help to spread the possibilities of this proposition before the people and afterward assist in making it a part of the fundamental law, will deserve well of his fellow citizens. We believe James Gray realizes the opportunity before him.

Johnson's Fit Successor.

Fairmont Sentinel: James Gray, the nominee for governor of the Democratic party, is a fine looking man, a good speaker and a bright newspaper writer. He may be depended upon to make a whirlwind campaign such as Governor Johnson did for three successive terms

Is True Blue and Able.

Grasstown Advance: James Gray, ex-mayor of Minneapolis, and one of the best known Scotchman and newspaper men in the Twin Cities, has been selected as the Democratic standard-bearer, to take the place of John Lind, who absolutely refused to make the run. James is a true blue Democrat and an able man, and has begun a vigorous campaig throughout the state

In the Fall of the Year.

Farewell to Summer—the year is fast aging,
The spirit of Autumn is come to the dells,
And the soft-piping cricket is sadly engaging
The gathering dusk with its plaintive farewells.
O, blest is the season when summer-time closes,
And fair is the earth in the mellow and sere.
O, sweet is the breath of the fast-dying roses,
In the Fall of the year.

In the Fall of the year, when the birds that have thrilled us
Are mute and disconsolate deep in the trees,
And the soft-blowing leaves that have rested and stilled us
Are drifting away on the crest of the breeze.
O, sad are the woods in their innermost bowers,
And sad is the heart holding summer-time dear,
O, dropped are the heads of the withering flowers,
In the Fall of the year.

In the Fall of the year, when the sun is soft-beaming
Through faint phosphorescence, enveiling the sky,
And upon the brown hillsides the sumach is gleaming
As blooms in their beauty soon coming to die.
O, swift are the geese in their clamorous warning—
Of the rigors of Winter too soon to be here,
O, soft is the sun on the bright wings of morning,
In the Fall of the year.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Forrestal Brothers, who recently made an assignment, have sublet their contracts in the city of Duluth to the firm of A. H. Truax & Co.

Articles of incorporation of the International Emporium of Imports and Exports have been filed with the secretary of state. The headquarters are at St. Paul, and the capital stock is $300,000. The incorporators are Francois C. Boucher, Nicholans A. Fleischer, J. B. Edouard Robitaille and George C. Lambert of St. Paul and Louis H. Grieser of Duluth. Mr. Grieser says the scheme originated in France. The idea is to establish in this country a jobbing house exclusively for imported goods of all kinds manufactured in France. It was first proposed to locate the American house at Chicago, but Mr. Grieser says he is going to attempt to have it in Duluth.

Daniel Butters was a visitor on the Duluth board of trade today. Years ago "Dan" Butters was one of the largest wheat and corn exporters in the world, and his foreign business was enormous. He was located at Montreal, and he was the power in corn and wheat in Canada. The failure of the Glasgow bank in Scotland ruined him. Mr. Butters is now connected with the Chicago firm of Logan & Co.

John Campbell, employed in the mill of Williston, Charnley & Co., at Mesaba, fell down the stairs of the company's boarding house today and broke his left leg below the knee.

With the aim of building tracks and terminals from Duluth to Fond du Lac, the Duluth Terminal & Transfer company was incorporated recently. It is comparatively easy to secure the land for tracks from West Duluth to Fond du Lac, but between West Duluth and Duluth is where the difficulty has arisen. To overcome this the Terminal & Transfer company has made an offer to the Belt Line company for all rights and privileges, lands and tracks already built at West Duluth. It is understood the deal is practically closed.

The First Methodist church was crowded to the doors at both services Sunday, it being the last day of Rev. C. S. H. Dunn's five-years' pastorate. In the morning he preached a special sermon to the Duluth Commandery Knights Templar, and nearly every member of the commandery was present in full uniform.

THE NEW HAT.

Anna Woodward in Chicago News: What follows is about a middle-aged woman who was cook and, in fact, general factotum in the house of a poor minister.

Her husband had deserted her and her two little sons lived at some distance in the house of a farmer. To pay for their board and to provide them with shoes took up all her wages. But she was given from time to time materials for clothes, which she made herself. Occasionally a guest of the minister's would leave a coin in her palm.

This woman, living such a dreary life, had one strong feeling. She loved bright colors. In the summer there were plenty of flowers in the garden and she liked to pick nosegays for her mistress, who was very kind to her.

One night, reading the newspaper in the kitchen before she went to bed, she saw the advertisement of a hat. The price of this hat was 60 cents, delivered free. It was of blue straw, trimmed with velvet, and it was turned up at one side.

It was fifteen years since she had bought a hat. At the same time 60 cents was a good deal of money.

But she pictured to herself the hat, a bright blue and turned up at the side!

Besides, she was going in a few days to spend a night with her children.

The next morning quite early she showed the advertisement to her mistress. Between them they wrote a letter, inclosing the necessary stamps, ordering the hat to be sent.

The pleasure would be so great!

It was very anxious work, waiting. She felt that the advertisement might be a mistake, for, after all, 60 cents was very cheap for a hat of good straw with velvet trimming.

She remembered stories she had heard of persons who had sent their money in reply to strangers and had never heard anything in reply.

But in a few days the hat arrived.

It was even better than she had expected. For it was a beautiful blue, nicely trimmed with velvet, and there was a bright buckle on one side.

She took it to her mistress. She wanted some one else to admire it in order to be quite sure that she liked it herself.

The minister's wife thought it was really an excellent bargain. She even tried it on, so that the other might see just how to wear it, a little on one side, turned so that the buckle could just be seen from the front.

The next day there came for this poor servant from a guest who had stayed at the house and had heard of the purchase four pink silk roses!

The servant sat up late into the night with joy. It locked to her so beautiful, with the soft pink roses on the blue straw.

There is nothing more, except that I know some women who spend $60 on a hat and cry when it comes home, from disapp intment.

The Origin of "O. K."

Tit-Bits: The death at Toledo recently of Cornelius Kendall, formerly of Chicago, recalls what is probably the true story of the origin of the symbols "O. K." as a sign of approval or correctness. These symbols are now used throughout the English-speaking world by all sorts of inspectors, revisers, auditors, etc., and as a spoken phrase has passed into common speech.

At the outbreak of the Civil war, in which Cornelius Kendall served in the Chicago Board of Trade battery, there was a large bakery in Chicago, of which his father, Orrin Kendall, was the founder and head. The firm name was O. Kendall & Sons, and the factory was at the southwest corner of Washington and Dearborn streets.

The putting of armies into the field made a large special and immediate demand upon the baking plants for what used to be called "ship bread," or "hard bread."

This is bread made simply of flour and water, and baked hard. "Shortening" is left out because it becomes rancid. Yeast is left out because it adds to bulk and "sours." Sometimes even salt is left out, because attracting moisture. The object was to get a bread ration that would "keep" and be portable.

The result is what has become known as "hard tack," now sledom seen by civilians, and little used even on ships or in armies, but formerly the "staff of life" for sailors on long voyages and soldiers on active marching service.

The firm of O. Kendall & Sons naturally went into hard-tack making. Its crackers had been stamped "O. K.," and the mark was still used. Either it was more skillful than other makers, or it succeeded in making more regular deliveries of fresh goods to the armies in the field.

At any rate the opinion spread among the soldiers that "O. K." hard tack was better than the average. The spoken phrase "O. K." became current army slang, and the soldiers brought it back in civil occupation as a verbal and graphic convenience.

Traction Company Protests Against Increase in Personal Property Assessment.

Claims Market Value of Stock Gives Definite Basis.

The county board of equalization yesterday gave a rehearing to the Duluth Street Railway company, which entered a vigorous protest to its personal property taxes being raised as proposed by the board. The company's return placed the valuation of its personal property at $761,181 and the city board of review pased it at that amount. This, it is claimed, was just one-third of the full value of all the property as shown by the market price of its stock. As no other personal property in the city has ever been assessed at more than one-third of its full value the city board evidently felt that it could not raise the assessment. The county board proposed to raise it to $1,150,000, or about 50 per cent, regardless, it is claimed by the company, of precedent, or the rules applied to other property.

The company was represented at the hearing by Attorney Henry F. Greene, who argued that inasmuch as it was the invariable practice in this county to attempt to assess all other personal property at from 18 to 33 1-3 of its full value, the board could find no justification in assessing the personal property of the company on a higher ratio of its market value.

Mr. Greene quoted a supreme court justice who, in a decision in a noted tax case, had spoken of the value of the capital stock of a corporation as being a "business photograph of all the corporate possessions and possibilities" of the company.

Mr. Greene declared that to assess the property of any particular concern on a higher basis than similar property of other concerns was assessed would be a violation of the Fourteenth Constitutional amendment, and, under a well-known decision, would entitle the company to an injunction in the federal courts.

After Mr. Greene had finished his talk County Auditor Halden asked General Manager Warren if he did not think that the property of a corporation enjoying a public franchise for which it paid nothing should be assessed on a different basis from all other property.

Mr. Warren did not agree with Mr. Halden. He said the property of the company, even without the proposed increase, was taxed higher than any other in the city.

In an interview this morning regarding the company's position relative to its assessment, Mr. Warren said:

"We are not tax-dodgers, and dislike to take any action regarding our assessment that will give any one the least idea that we are not willing to pay our full share of taxes. We do want to pay our just portion, and have not objected to paying a little more than our just share for 'good measure,' but there is a limit. In assessing personal property the assessor has to get at the values as best he can. It is notorious that much of what can be concealed is not assessed at all, and that which cannot be hidden is much more likely to be undervalued than overvalued. It is frequently said that the poor man who has nothing but his household goods and his cow, neither of which can be hidden nor their full values very much underestimated, is the only one who pays a fair personal property tax. It may be some consolation to the poor man to know that while it is true that the rich generally escape, the corporation whose stock is bought and sold in the open market is up against it even worse than he is.

"The market value of the stock shows up the full value of all the corporation's possessions including its rights, franchises, and future prospects, and the law provides that this market value shall be used as a basis for taxation. The law also provides that the property of corporations, the full value of which is thus photographed by the stock values, shall be assessed the same as all other property.

"It is the practice to assess the personal property shown on the assessor's list at from 18 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent of the low and incomplete values shown thereon which it will be seen results in personal property generally being assessed at a very small portion of its full or market value.

"Now all the Street Railway company asks is that no higher rates be applied to the market value of its property than the highest rates that is applied to the estimated values of other personal property. We, very naturally, protest against paying over 50 per cent on market value when all other personal property pays from 18 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent on very low and incomplete estimated values."

ARREST ALL ARMY CADETS

Extreme Measure of Discipline for "Silencing" Capt. Longan.

Officer Is First to Receive Such Treatment in Ten Years.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Although the special board of inquiry will not report on the case for several days, drastic measures of discipline are being meted out at the United States military academy as a result of the cadets having twice administered the "silence" to Capt. Rufus E. Longan, an instructor. The following orders have been issued by Lieut. Col. Frederick W. Sibley, the commandant, who has the situation in charge during the absence in Washington of Maj. Gen. Barry, the superintendent:

"Until further orders cadets will confine themselves to their rooms. During release from quarters from immediately after breakfast and from immediately after dinner until call to quarters, cadets will confine themselves to the limits of the area of barracks, and the cadet sentinels will be posted ten minutes after drill and will make inspection every half-hour."

Whole Corps Under Arrest.

This means that the entire corps is practically under arrest, denied all privileges and permitted to see no one not officially connected with the military academy. The order will remain in force until the return of Gen. Barry.

It is not often that the "silence" treatment is inflicted upon a superior officer and the present case is the first that has occurred since Capt. Lindsay was "silenced" ten years ago. An inquiry resulted in that officer being relieved from the military academy.

Until the board of inquiry makes its report to Gen. Barry, there probably will be few developments. In the meantime the board will hold sessions from 9 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon until the investigation is completed.

Questioned Cadets' Word.

From various sources it has been learned that Capt. Longan was "silenced" for questioning the veracity of cadets. As untruthfulness is branded the most despicable thing in cadet life, to question a man's word is one of the worst insults that can be offered.

The trouble started at dinner Saturday night and continued through breakfast Sunday.

There are forty tables in the Grant Memorial mess hall, each presided over by two members of the senior class. Cadets may not begin eating until the first class man nods to them. The cadets marched into the mess hall saturday night and took their accustomed places. Discipline is lax in the dining room, though the etiquette is severe.

"Silencing" the Officer.

The cadets were laughing and talking until Capt. Longan, as officer of the day, entered the hall.

Instantly knives and forks were dropped and the hum of conversation ceased. Cadets sat as silent as wooden Indians, with arms folded, and refused to speak or to eat. Sunday the cadets marched to the breakfast hall as usual, but still maintained the "silence" toward Capt. Longan.

Among the first class men, upon whom the severest discipline will probably be visited, are Thomas Jackson Christian of Georgia, the only grandson of "Stonewall" Jackson; William E. Larned, son of West Point's famous drawing instructor; Alexander Surles, a noted athlete, and Jose March-Duplat, of a wealthy Venezuela family, who was admitted to the academy as a courtesy.

ROCKEFELLER MAY WIN OUT

is a bit of a boss, has tossed to Democratic politicians a few local offices, which has led to a material lessening of Democratic enthusiasm against him.

Democrat Might Win.

In the Second district, the present member, Representative Scott, went down before Alexander Mitchell, who campaigned as an insurgent. In the last election the Republican plurality was a scant 2,000, which there seems to be a fair chance of overcoming in November.

The Third and Fourth districts impress me as safely Republican. They are now represented by Congressmen Campbell and Miller—converted standpatters.

The Fifth ought to be a good fighting district, although I am frank to say that the professional politicians here do not so hold it. This district is that which has been represented for fourteen years by W. A. Calderhead. This year he was retired in favor of an insurgent. Calderhead, whom I know well, is perhaps the most extreme type of a standpatter. Cannon himself could go no further than he. Unquestionably the district is all against that for which he stood, but nevertheless it seems incredible that a man of such long service should not have in his district friends who would resent his summary retirement. The majority in the district, in the best years, has hardly exceeded 3,000 for the Republicans.

It is interesting, by the way, to note that this is the first district in which President Taft has put into effect his new policy of giving patronage to the insurgents. He turned out of office Calderhead's nominee for the postoffice and substituted the choice of Senator Bristow. People out here laugh at this, and say that the president's conversion comes too late to be taken seriously.

Promising for Democrats.

The Sixth district, long represented by William H. Reeder, better known as "Old Bill Reeder," is probably the most promising district in the state for the Democrats. Reeder was beaten for renomination under circumstances that will estrange his friends from the party. His majorities were never great, the last one being less than 1,000 votes. In this year of Democratic tides almost anybody ought to be able to overcome that. The Democrats have nominated a man bearing the somewhat plutocratic name of Frank Rockefeller. He is a good campaigner, a business man of high standing, and if he can overcome the theory that he belongs to the famous oil family he ought to pull through. It is unquestionably this district on which the Democratic state committee relies chiefly to gain a congressman.

In the Eighth district E. H. Madison, famous as an insurgent, was renominated, and I have not any doubt will be re-elected. He and Victor Murdock insurged so vigorously and so intelligently that the Democrats have not even put up a candidate against Murdock, and while they have against Madison, I do not think they will make any fight that can possibly prove effective.

Bryan's Popularity.

The Democrats will bring into the state to speak for their congressional candidates Mr. Bryan, Champ Clark and Governor Folk. I do not find that Mr. Bryan's personal popularity has decreased materially in Kansas, though the politicians grumble somewhat about his rather dominant attitude in party affairs and insist that it is time for him to let go the reins. Yet the very politician who made this complaint admitted in the next sentence that Bryan could do more than any other man to hold the party together and get Democratic voters to the polls. Apparently they admit his qualities of leadership over the people while denying him any right of like leadership in the organization.

There is apparent, too, among the people a warm approval of Mr. Bryan's attitude in the local option issue in Nebraska. Kansas has gone on year by year improving her prohibition law until now it really prohibits. It is accepted by both parties, and this year is not even an issue in the campaign. The general feeling that Mr. Bryan is himself at heart a prohibitionist has helped to maintain his strength.

All presidential talk is for Folk among the Democrats and Roosevelt among Republicans, though from the latter I heard a recurrence of the discussion of Senator Cummins, which I first heard in Minnesota. As is general throughout the West, Taft is treated with respectful commiseration.

OVER 100,000.

La Follette's Majority Over Cook in Wisconsin Primary Election.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—The state board of canvassers completed their work yesterday and the official primary election figures show that La Follette, Republican, for United States senator, received 144,056 as against 41,343 for Cook.

A. J. Schmitz, Democrat, for nomination for governor, received 48,071 and the Republican vote for governor was as follows:

McGovern, 82,265; Lewis, 40,879; Fairchild, 55,933; Barker, 5,973; Strange 5,845.

Drowns In Cheese Vat.

O-O-O-oh — you B-a-l-dy —

Every time you see a bald head think of Woodbury's Hair Tonic. This famous hair grower was tested and improved for almost half a century before a bottle was sold through the stores. It is the only hair tonic made from the formula of the great dermatologist and saves the hair when all other preparations fail. It stops falling hair, cures dry or greasy dandruff, and relieves itching, irritated or tender scalp. You don't have to wait for results either, for the effect is noticed after the first application. It invigorates the hair roots, stimulates the circulation throughout the scalp and quickly produces a healthy growth of long, beautiful hair.

WOODBURY'S COMBINATION HAIR TONIC

costs no more than a bottle of common, ordinary hair tonic, yet Woodbury's is backed up by almost half a century of practical experience. It is the favorite hair dressing of New York's most beautiful women. It does not discolor the hair but preserves its natural color, restores its lustre and increases its vitality. Now sold by all druggists or direct from the Woodbury Company, 47 West 34th Street, New York.

JOHN.—"By Jove. Those girls have pretty hair. And it seems to be more beautiful every time I meet them. No wonder they seldom wear their hats."

MAUD.—"Just look at John's bald head. He ought to keep his hat on."

MABEL.—"Terrible isn't it. I think we should tell him what Woodbury's Hair Tonic has done for us."

Ask your doctor or your druggist about the experience back of this famous hair tonic. They know.

Little Home Helps On How to Be Beautiful

BY MADAME MAREE

CARE OF THE HAIR.

Switches will be unknown among women when they give as much care and attention to the hair and scalp as they do to the face and hands.

Women troubled with falling or thin, straggly hair, excess dandruff or oily condition of the scalp, will do well to shampoo with eggol, which I have often advised. This removes the accumulation of oil, cleanses and feeds the scalp and stops itchiness. The shampoo should be used twice a month for a time, then once a month. A delightful hair tonic to use in connection is made by mixing one ounce of beta-canthol with eight ounces each of alcohol and water. A gentle massage with this every day for a few weeks, then once a week, will stop falling hair and soon produce a fine, long, glossy and luxuriant growth.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Beauty: (1) Confide in your mother (2) Powder or greasy creams often clog the skin and cause blackheads, enlargement of pores and wrinkles. If you will get three ounces of cerol from your druggist and add it to a pint water that has been brought to the boiling point, stirring until cold, you will have an excellent and inexpensive skin food. Massage the skin gently and thoroughly with this at night and the wrinkles will soon disappear, leaving your skin clear, pink and satiny and the pores will resume their natural size.

A. Z.: The electric needle is painful and not always a success. Superfluous hairs can be permanently removed, without pain, through the use of delol, which any druggist can supply. Get an ounce of delol and with warm water mix into a soft paste enough to cover the hairy parts. Spread on thickly and let remain two or three minutes, then scrape off and the hairs will have vanished.

Dot: (1) I do not advise in affairs of the heart. (2) Roughness and redness of the skin can be quickly overcome if you will get an ounce of amarol from your druggist and dissolve it in a pint of hot water, then apply after drying the hands and face well. This soon rids the skin of its rough, ugly condition and brings back that pink and white glow characteristic of youth and health.

Mrs. Jack: (1) Massaging for scrawniness or underdevelopment it not satisfactory. (2) The Vaucalre treatment of which you write I have described before, but for your benefit I will repeat it Make a syrup with one and a half cups of granulated sugar, using enough water to make a plnt, and in this stir one ounce of true gallol (be sure not to get the synthetic). Take two tablespoonfuls twice daily and drink plenty of water. This treatment, with outdoor exercise and sufficient sleep, soon rounds out the form and develops the symmetrical lines rightly belonging to woman.

ECZEMA ON HANDS FOR TEN YEARS

Were Raw All Over—Was Spreading to Body and Limbs—Used Cuticura and was Cured—Also Cured Daughter's Eczema.

"I had eczema on my hands for ten years. At first it would break out only in winter. Then it finally came to stay. I had three good doctors to do all they could but none of them did any good. I then used one box of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and was completely cured. My hands were raw all over, inside and out, and the eczema was spreading all over my body and limbs. Before I had used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, together with the Cuticura Ointment, my sores were nearly healed over, and by the time I had used the third bottle, I was entirely well. I had a good appetite and was fleshier than I ever was. To any one who has any skin or blood disease I would honestly advise them to fool with nothing else, but to get Cuticura and get well. My hands, cured by the use of Cuticura, have never given me the least bit of trouble up to now. I cannot recommend Cuticura highly enough, it has done me and my family so much good. My daughter's hands this summer became perfectly raw with eczema. She could get nothing that would do them any good until she tried Cuticura. She used two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in two weeks they were entirely cured. I have used Cuticura for other members of my family and it always proved successful. I recommend it to any one with eczema. After once using it you will never use anything else. Mrs. M. E. Falln, Speers Ferry, Va., Oct. 10, 1909."

Cuticura is the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp. A cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston.

Let a Duluth citizen speak.

J. H. Tomlin W. Palmetto St., Duluth, Minn., says: "Backache clung to me persistently for two years and finally became so severe that I had to lay off from work. If I brought the least strain on the muscles of my back, sharp pains seized me. The kidney secretions were also irregular in passage and I did not rest well. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in 1898 and at that time I publicly recommended them. I am only too pleased to again speak in their favor, as I have never suffered from kidney trouble since."

STEADY RAIN SAVES PROPERTY

Forest Fires Extinguished and Ground Greatly Benefitted.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rain which has fallen steadily for the past forty-eight hours has saved thousands of dollars' worth of property in Beltrami, Koochiching and other Northern Minnesota counties, and allayed anxiety of many farmers and owners of standing timber and poles, posts, etc., as to further devastation by forest fires. The rain, in addition to extinguishing the fires, which were smouldering even in the dried ground, has placed the land in fine condition for fall plowing.

That the water began falling at the very moment when conditions in the woods were becoming such as to cause well grounded fears for serious losses is shown by reports from nearby towns. Near Solway and Kelliher in this (Beltrami) county, fires had eaten a way into the timber and apparently would have gotten beyond control, but for the welcome rain of the past two days. R. J. Poupore, a logger near Kelliher, lost a large quantity of cedar poles and posts, estimated to be worth at least $500. Albert Halvorson, a tie and pole cutter, at Eland, near Kelliher, lost his shack and contents, three tons of hay and about 4,000 posts. At Roosevelt, in the extreme northern part of this county, M. W. Simmons lost a sawmill, together with 100,000 feet of lumber, a house, a barn, several head of stock and about $300 in cash, consumed in the fire.

In Koochiching county, residents of International Falls and Big Falls and farmers living near those places last week put up gallant fights against fires, which were of so serious a nature that a telegram was sent to St. Paul requesting aid, orders being subsequently issued to Capt. Otto of this city to have Company K, M. N. and G, in readiness to go to Big Falls.

MAY BUILD STORAGE DAM ON RED RIVER

Question of Water Supply Is Causing Much Apprehension.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept 27.—Another drop of three and a half inches, making the present level of the Red river six inches below the low water mark of 1900, is causing serious apprehension in this city as to the water supply. There was hope that the equinoctial storm period would bring rain in such quantities as to relieve the situation, but with the coming of cold days this hope seems to be futile.

It will probably be necessary to build a temporary dam to insure a sufficient water supply to carry the city through the winter and license to build such a dam has been secured from the government engineer, Maj. Shunk. A thorough investigation of the water conditions will be made this week and a decision reached in the matter of building the dam.

BOWMAN COUNTY FAIR WEDNESDAY

Farmers of New N. D. Territory Promise Fine Exhibition.

Bowman, N. D., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Resources of one of the newer counties of the state, together with the progress made by its new settlers, will be presented at the annual Bowman county fair opening in this city tomorrow. Grain and vegetable exhibits, together with a splendid string of entries in the stock department, bid fair to make the fair one of the best that has ever been held in the southwestern section of the state.

The people of Bowman have received the hearty co-operation of other counties in this section in making the fair a success, and the South Dakota counties bordering on this county are also interesting themselves in the event.

WOUNDED WHILE TARGET SHOOTING

Isaac Rantala of Sandstone Gets Bullet in Back.

Sandstone, Minn., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the accidental discharge of a 22-caliber rifle in the hands of a youngster Sunday, Isaac Rantala, a young and popular Finnish citizen, was seriously wounded in the back while practicing target shooting in the rear of a livery stable. He was taken to a hospital in the Twin Cities and at this time it could not be learned if the accident will prove fatal, as the bullet supposedly lodged in his breast.

Irene Hawley, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hawley, was run over Saturday by a fast driver while walking over a street crossing to meet her father, who was on his way to dinner. However, no bones were broken and the little tot suffered only a few bad bruises. It was clearly accidental, as the driver did not notice her and was in a hurry for a doctor.

Julius Jilon, a single man, who resided with his brothers on a farm three miles east of here, died Sunday morning of pneumonia after a short illness. He was a Belgian by birth and was employed in the stone quarries here.

The remains of Myrtle Lind, the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lind, were laid to rest Sunday afternoon, Rev. W. S. Middlemass of the Presbyterian church officiating. She was a member of the Juvenile I. O. G. T. lodge and a bright and highly esteemed young lady. Inflammatory rheumatism caused her death.

A large crowd attended the social given by the Finnish Church society last Saturday evening at the I. O. G. T. hall. The sale of baskets was brisk and netted the society a snug sum.

Rev. Father Quillen of the Catholic church delivered his last sermon here Sunday, and he will leave this week for Duluth to organize and build up a new congregation among the inhabitants near the new steel plant and West Duluth. Rev. Quillien has been in charge of St. Willibroad's church here for the past two years and his departure is greatly regretted by both his parishioners as well as other citizens.

D., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A car of stock that was being shipped to market by George Armstrong of this city met with a peculiar accident on the so-called Lisbon hill when a spark from the engine set it on fire. The spark had evidently fallen into the straw on the floor of the car and was not discovered until the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to extinguish it before the car was destroyed. Several head of stock were cremated.

AUTOMOBILE WRECKED.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. G. W. Barton of this city received serious injuries late yesterday afternoon when the automobile being driven by her husband was run down by a freight car being shunted across the principal street of the city on a "flying" switch. Her hurts are about the back and side and it is feared that they may be internal. She is suffering much pain.

The automobile was completely wrecked by the impact. Mr. Barton escaped uninjured as did Mrs. Albert Smith of Superior, Wis., who was also in the machine.

NEW INVENTION.

Coil to Relay Sound Used on Telephone Wires.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 27.—Linemen for the Northwestern Telephone company have been here stringing copper wires for a new line between the Twin Cities and Winnipeg. The company is using a new invention known as a loading coil, which serves about the same purpose in telephoning that a transfer does in an electric light system. These coils are placed eight miles apart on the lines and not only carry the sound more distinctly, but permit the use of No. 12 wire, whereas No. 8 wire, a very much heavier wire, would be necessary if they were not available. The new apparatus also makes it possible to talk any distance as it relays the sound. This is the first time it has been used through this section.

AGREES TO CITY'S TERMS

Soo Railroad Will Lay New Pavement on West Michigan Street.

Park Bonds Are Sold By Council to Two Local Companies.

Following a series of conferences, City Attorney Bert Fesler announced to the council last night that he had reached an agreement with the Soo Railroad company for the paving of West Michigan street between Eighth and Twelfth avenues.

Under the terms of the agreement, which he was instructed to put in legal form, the city practically gets all it wanted. The railroad company is to do all the work, with the understanding that the city repay its share on or before July 1, 1911, with interest at 5 per cent.

The street is to be paved with sandstone blocks laid on a concrete base, as recommended persistently by City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray. The city is to stand the entire cost of the base and the railroad company will pay for the paving up to the north street car rail. Part of the balance will be paid by the contractor who put in the sewer on the upper side of Michigan street between Eighth and Twelfth avenues.

It is expected that the work will be started at once, as the thoroughfare is one of the most heavily traveled in the city, being the only highway between the city proper and the Western suburbs and Superior. But one side has been open to the traffic for the last week or more, the lower side being torn up. This has caused considerable congestion and inconvenience bringing forth much criticism from the business men. Unless the weather interferes the concrete base should be down within a very short time.

The park bonds were sold to two local companies. The Little & Nolte company, acting for A. Riepe, was awarded $35,000 worth of the bonds and the N. J. Upham company, $15,000. One outside company put in a bid for the whole amount, but it was turned down because nearly $5,000 was asked in the form of a commission. The local people bid for the bonds at par and accrued interest. It is understood that part of the bonds, at least, will be exchanged for some of the property which the park board wishes to acquire.

Headed by Alderman W. B. Getchell, several of the aldermen put forth strenuous objections to the ordering of lights in different parts of the city. Alderman Getchell declared that it was absolutely wrong for the council to order the lights, as there is no money in the light fund with which to pay for them. The resolution originally called for a bunch of incandescent lights, but as soon as it was read a number of the aldermen tacked on amendments. The outcome was that the resolution, with its many amendments, was referred to the light committee. It was stated last night that the committee would bring in an adverse report. At the same time the council passed a resolution stating that it favored the extension of the lighting system to Fond du Lac and asking the Duluth-Edison Electric company to prepare plans for such an extension.

The members of the council were extended a general invitation to attend the laying of the cornerstone of St. Clement's church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, Sunday, Oct. 2, at 3 o'clock. Automobiles will be waiting at the St Louis hotel at 2 o'clock for those who will attend the ceremonies.

The board of public works was directed to confer with contractors relative to securing an advantageous disposition of dirt from any excavations which they might make. It was pointed out that several of the city streets need fills and that no better method of making them could be devised. The board was ordered to have a quantity of dirt hauled to Sixth avenue east between Fifth and Sixth streets at a cost of not to exceed 25 cents a load, or a total of $125. It is expected that the balance of the fill will be made by garbage men dumping clean ashes in the gulch.

The health commissioner reported that he had no adverse report to make upon the operation of a scrap iron company at Nineteenth avenue west and Michigan street. He said that his investigations showed that it was not a menace to the health of the neighborhood. The matter was referred to a committee, which will likely make a report next week.

The attention of the companies having wires strung on Grand avenue between Fifty-Fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues west, was called to the fact that the avenue will be paved next year. It is expected that they will have their wires underground before that time. The street railway company has already laid its conduits.

The contract for 2,700 feet of lead cable, to be used in putting the city's wires underground on Michigan street between Eighth avenue west and Garfield avenue, was awarded to the Safety Insurance Wire company. The price was somewhat less than $700.

The horse and buggy owned by the city engineering department was ordered sold to David McNutt for $105. The horse is inadequate to the needs of the department, which hopes to secure an automobile shortly.

The report of the finance committee on the tax levy made by the conference committee was read in order to bring it before the council. But it was withdrawn for further consideration, and several changes will likely be recommended. The council cannot increase the total amount of the levy but it can alter the amounts of the various departments.

The vacation of the road between Fond du Lac and Spirit Lake was postponed one week upon motion of Alderman Barnes, who stated that it affected considerable property and that he wished the property owners be given an opportunity to be heard.

Contractor P. McDonnell asked that the council order the substitution of sandstone curb for granite curb on Lake avenue between Second and Fourth street. He explained that the contract was let late in the season, when the granite quarries are crowded with orders, making it almost impossible to get granite curb. The matter was referred to the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks. The change has been discussed by the city authorities and the opinion seems to be that the sandstone curb should be substituted, as the contention of the contractor is well founded.

The attention of the city officials was called to the poor condition of West Third street between Twenty-eighth avenue west and Fifty-fifth avenue west by the West Duluth Commercial club. The organization hoped that it would be put in proper shape at the earliest possible moment.

The proprietor of the newstand at Third avenue west and Superior street asked that he be granted permission to maintain it at that corner. He stated that he had been compelled to remove it, although it had been there with the consent of the officials of the First National bank. If that particular spot was not favored, he asked that he be allowed to keep it at some place nearby. It was referred to the committee on streets.

The paving of East Fifth street between Fourteenth avenue east and Woodland avenue was ordered upon the recommendation of the board of public works. The estimated cost is over $40,000. Bids will be advertised for, but the board has stated that the work will not be done until next spring.

Alderman James Wharton, chairman of the sports committee, announced that the baseball game between the city fathers of Duluth and Superior will not be subjected to further delays. If it rains the visitors will be taken around the boulevard, after which they will be banqueted at the Lenox hotel. Should it be clear, the game will be called at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday at the ball grounds, following which the remainder of the program will be carried out.

WAS HURT WHILE WORKING IN MILL

Joseph Conners Wants Big Damages From Lumber Company.

For her son, Joseph Connors, a minor, Mrs. Mary Geitz has brought suit against the Alger-Smith Lumber company and William Paradise for $10,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained while he was in the employ of the concern during the month of November last.

The boy, his mother claims, was employed as edgerman on a sawing machine. At this machine a subordinate gathered up the scraps as they came from the machine. On the day that the accident happened it is claimed that an inexperienced man was put on the job.

Due to his inexperience he allowed a piece of wood to obstruct one of the rollers. It flew back, hitting Connors in the face. A part of the stick remained in his face for some time, and he claims to have spent fifty days in a local hospital. William Paradise was foreman at the mill.

It is claimed that as a result of the accident the lad's face is disfigured and his health impaired.

100,000,000 PENNIES TO BE COINED THIS YEAR.

Washington, Sept. 27.—In spite of the fact that the Philadelphia mint coined 146,000,000 pennies last year, and many other millions in years before, the mystery of where the little copper go still is unsolved and Director of the Mint George F. Roberts estimates the big plant will make another 100,000,000 this year.

Pennies, more than any other sort of coin, disappear from circulation very mysteriously. The government does not mind coining them, however, for it includes a fine profit. A pound of copper costing now about 13 cents, will make a dollar in pennies.

The big gold stamping machines in the Philadelphia office will begin work next month and several millions in gold bullion will be turned into bright, new St. Gaudens coins.

BRYAN CALLS TEDDY SLOW

Says "New Nationalism" Idea Was Advanced By Democrats Long Ago.

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 27.—William J. Bryan in an address before a mass meeting here yesterday afternoon, charged Col. Theodore Roosevelt with having advocated old-time Democratic principles in his numerous recent addresses on his Western tour. Referring to Col. Roosevelt's Ossawatomie, Kan., speech on "new nationalism," Mr. Bryan said:

"The Democratic party has preached this doctrine for fourteen years and in 1900 incorporated it in its platform, quite a contrast with the distinguished gentleman who appears to have just made the discovery that this doctrine is correct and progressive and just.

"In his expressions regarding railroad regulations, income tax, swollen fortunes, and publicity of campaign contributions, Mr. Roosevelt has merely followed a well-established Democratic lead. For years Democratic platforms have been clamoring for legislation in this direction.

Mr. Bryan also said that the former president's conversion of the income tax proposition had been recent.

IRA G. RAWN IS NAMED IN CASE

Illinois Central Graft Hearing Brings Up Mention of Dead Man.

Chicago, Sept 27.—The name of Ira G. Rawn, former president of the Monon road, who was shot to death in his home two months ago, was brought directly into the Illinois Central car repair case in the hearing in the municipal court here yesterday. The name of E. B. Harriman, a former Illinois Central official, one of the defendants in the present case, also was directly connected with the bills for car repairs, in the testimony of Harry A. Hoyes, a traffic clerk for the Illinois Central.

Hoyes declared that many of the repair bills of the Blue Island Car & Equipment company, through which it is charged the company lost many thousands of dollors, were o. k'd. by Rawn, who at that time was vice president of the Illinois Central road. The witness also declared that J. M. Taylor, one of the defendants, once had told him that he owned stock in the car repair company.

An effort to introduce a small note book believed to contain notes of Henry C. Ostermann concerning repair work was followed by objections by the defense. The book was finally introduced

LOCAL OPTION PLANK FOR UTAH REPUBLICANS.

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 27.—Direct primary law was the only bone of contention in the Republican state convention here. After on hour's debate, the adoption of a direct primary plank was decisively defeated by a viva voce vote. The platform adopted by the convention indorses the national administration. It also includes a plank providing for local option.

Joseph Howell was renominated for congress.

FORUM SOCIETY IS ORGANIZED.

Officers of the Forum Debating society of the Central high school were elected at the first meeting of the organization yesterday afternoon as follows: President, Rolfe Hovde; vice president, Fred Weinberg; secretary, Oscar Solheim; treasurer, Mortimer Bondy. Prof. Robert Brackett will be in charge of the debating team.

A preliminary debate will be held Friday and another contest will be conducted two weeks from Friday. The debating team will be chosen after the candidates have shown what they can do on the forum. Last year's team was graduated, so this year's team will comprise new members. From twelve to fifteen candidates will try to make the team.

The society will hold its second annual mock trial three weeks from next Friday.

A school paper may be started this year. A plan to found a paper last year was dropped because of possible competition with the Zenith, the annual school publication.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

NO HUNTING FOR WHITES

Commissioner Turns Deaf Ear to Entreaties of Nett Lake Indians.

Three Petitions Turned Down and Little Hope for Fourth.

Three petitions of the Nett Lake Indians on the Bois Fort reservation that white men be allowed to hunt on the reservation, have been turned down by the commissioner of Indian affairs and a fourth petition has been sent to the bureau, but no reply has been received. It is very doubtful if the white men of this section of the country will be allowed to hunt on the reservation, in which game abounds. Duck is especially plentiful on the lakes of the reservation and the white hunters have always found good hunting there.

Hunting by white men on Indian reservations is prohibited by federal statue, but the statue has not been rigorously enforced on the Bois Fort reservation. The commission issued an order to the agent last spring instructing him that the statute should be enforced.

The Indians arose in protest. They set forth that the white men coming to the reservation find good hunting, but still leave enough for the Indians. Also the white men employ guides, hire canoes and otherwise call on the Indians for service, which is gladly given for a consideration that materially helps the Indians in taking care of their families.

The petition also contained a request that white visitors be not permitted to have or use liquor on the reservation, each visitor being required to report to the agent and allow his baggage to be searched.

In reply, the commissioner quoted the federal statute prohibiting hunting by white men on Indian reservations, and he offered the same reply to each of the subsequent petitions. In one of the later petitions the Indians petitioned that the commissioner rule that white men might hunt on payment of a license fee of $1 per day, the same to be paid to Daybwaywaindung, chief, for distribution among the old men for the purpose of buying tobacco and ammunition.

The old chief and all of the braves of the tribe are thoroughly aroused, and they hope to finally receive a favorable answer by flooding the commissioner's office with petitions. The white men of Duluth and vicinity are watching the progress of the negotiations with interest, for many of them have hunted each year at Nett Lake, and they do not want to be shut out of their favorite hunting ground.

The statute quoted by the commission is as follows:

"Every person, other than an Indian, who, within the limits of any tribe with whom the United States has existing treaties, hunts, traps or takes and destroys any peltries or game, except for subsistence in the Indian country, shall forfeit all the traps, guns and ammunition in his possession, used or procured to be used for that purpose, and all peltries so taken; and shall be liable in addition to a penalty of $500."

CENTRAL TO PLAY HIBBING

Team Coached By Farnam Expected to Put Up Good Game.

Central will meet Hibbing next Saturday, according to the arrangements that are being made at the present time. While the first team is playing Hibbing at Athletic park, the second team will be sent to Two Harbors, where it will meet the high school team of that city.

Farnam, former center on the University of Minnesota, is coach of the Hibbing team, so that the range boys may give Central a very warm argument.

A week from Saturday the high school will meet the West Duluth high school. Though this is the first season that the West Duluth institution has had a team in the field, The Centrals are not looking for any snap. The West Duluth team is coached by Dr. W. E. Judson, who formerly coached the Tower Indians. He knows the game and has also a wide experience in coaching.

In the game of next Saturday Central is expected to show much improvement over the form of last Saturday. The squad is out every evening, and each practice period shows more familiarity with the perplexing new rules.

CURLERS WILL PLAN FOR COMING SEASON.

A meeting of the directors of the curling association may be called some time the present week. At the meeting of the directors a discussion will be made of the suggestion to construct a new rink. Some of the members of the club are of the opinion that the old rink is too small for the needs of the club.

General plans for the coming winter will be gone over. The Northwestern bonspiel will be held in Duluth the coming winter, and the directors of the club desire to start early to get everything in shape.

PRESENT BIG FIGHTERS LACK JOHNSON'S CLASS.

Last night's slow fight between Al Kaufmann and Al Kublak only goes to show the poor class of the heavyweights that are masquerading in this country at the present time. The fight was a farce, according to reports, and has served no purpose in the much talked of elimination series.

At the present time Sandy Ferguson, under the management of George Little, the former manager of Jack Johnson, is clamoring for an opportunity to show the public that he can come back and be considered in the "let-me-at-Johnson" brigade.

In addition, Jim Barry is at New Orleans, trailing as Berry does—not. He has been promised a meeting with Al Kaufmann. Fighters of the stripe of Kaufmann, Barry, Ferguson and Kublak could fight each other every month for two years and they would be nowhere nearer the class necessary to cope with Johnson.

Until some new young giant comes to the front, there is little hope for a man to take the title away from its present holder.

FEATURE EVENT GOES TO ROSS K.

New Record Set for King Stakes By Winner on Soft Track.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Ross K., over a track softened by the rains of Saturday, gave the King stake of $5,000 for 2:05 pacers a new record yesterday afternoon when he made the first heat in 2:03¼.

By the conditions of the event, six horses shared in the money division. Ross K. won $2,000 and Bland S., sixth, $400. For the best places back of the winner there was a hard scramble, especially in the third heat, when Branham Baughman finished second ahead of Merry Widow.

Bervaldo, of the Murphy stable, made it one, two, three in the 2:13 trot, being able to outbrush Olive F. in the stretch. Maj. Wellington, the first choice, was the third, and once last, because of a break.

In order to handle the 2:19 trotters it was necessary to cut the event into divisions. The first started with Creighton as the favorite. He won the first heat in slow time, but was second to Admiral Red in the next heat, when the time dropped to 2:09¾. The third heat was won easily by Admiral Red, and then the race was postponed until today, to be resumed just before the second division is taken up.

"SCRAPS" COSTELLO HAS ONE FINE IMAGINATION.

"Scraps" Costello exampless the dope about the prophet not being without glory and press notices when he is out of his home corral. He didn't have to go any farther than Chippewa Falls, Wis., to get a lot of stuff that it would have taken Dan years of hard work to have acquired in these matter of fact parts.

In handing out some past performance dope, the Costello boy jumped right into the truth pasture into the green and glaring fiction field. He told the innocent writer on the Eau Claire paper that he had fought George Gunther and Walter Whitehead, not to mention Curley Ulrich and a few others.

Whitehead is dead and Gunther is many weary miles away, so the Costello imagination was perfectly safe in swinging from the hips up. That is always good stuff; the only question being whether you can get away with it. "Scraps" did fine.

CHASE LEADS HIGHLANDERS

George Stallings Is "Fired" By Farrell and Paid in Full.

New York, Sept. 27.—Hal Chase was appointed manager of the New York Americans by President Frank J. Farrell yesterday to succeed George T. Stallings, deposed. Mr. Farrel wired to Chase to take charge of the team yesterday afternoon after Stallings had been paid in full to the date of the expiration of his contract. Stallings had nothing to say regarding his removal from the management of the team, and has no immediate plans for the future.

Chase, the new manager, has been with the club since 1905. He is the fourth man to be entrusted with the management, his predecessors having been Clark Griffith, Norman Elberfeld and George T. Stallings.

DULUTH BOY AFTER MUNCH

Frank Bryant Is Out for Northwestern Roller Skating Title.

Next Thursday evening at the Lincoln Park auditorium Frank Bryant, champion Head of the Lakes roller skater, will meet Phil Bouche in a mile race for a side bet of $50 and for the championship.

Manager Carl Mainella of the Lincoln park rink has had a course measured out that is absolutely correct as to distance. Any records that the young skaters may hang up at the Lincoln park track the coming winter cannot be protested on account of the track measurements.

The race Thursday night is important as it will be the first of a series of contests that the Duluth youngster will engage in this winter in an effort to win the undisputed Northwestern championship.

Negotiations are under way at the present time to bring Joe Munch here to race Bryant. If the Milwaukee flyer does not ask an unreasonable price to appear at the Head of the Lakes, his former home, Manager Mainella of the Lincoln Park rink has agreed to stand his traveling expenses and also put up a purse for a race with Bryant.

Last winter Bryant's reputation never got further than the Twin Cities, where he was well known through his defeat of all the St. Paul and Minneapolis skaters who journeyed to the Head of the Lakes in search of a little easy money. This season it is the ambition of the speedy Duluth boy to meet the best in the game, which means Munch and the veteran, Harley Davidson. The race Thursday evening will be Bryant's first race of the season.

Napoleon Lajoie, the particular star of the Cleveland team, has an excellent chance to win the automobile which is to be presented to the major league player having the best batting average at the close of the season. He is a natural ball player and a great drawing card all around the circuit.

TOM PIPPIN WINS FEATURE AT LEXINGTON.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 27.—The Elmdorf handicap, the feature of the sixth day of the fall meeting of the Kentucky Racing association, was won by Tim Pippin, paying $28.80 in the $2 mutuel machines, in a driving finish with John Griffin II. Hanbridge, the heavily played favorite, was not in the money. The rains of Sunday made the track heavy and the card was marred by the large number of scratches.

Cloud, at $13.50 in the $2 mutuels, won the second from Cisco and Americaneer. Jack Weaver, the favorite, also ran.

Royal Captive, paying $28 in the $2 mutuels, won the fifth in a close finish.

The crowd was estimated at 4,000; weather clear, track slow.

DEVEREAUX IS ACQUITTED AT CLEVELAND.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Harry K. Devereaux, president of the Forest City Livestock & Fair company, under whose auspices the grand circuit races at the North Randall track near here were run in August, was acquitted today of a charge of permitting gambling.

Devereaux's arrest followed a raid by the sheriff and a posse on the booking ring at the track under orders from Governor Harmon.

MINNEAPOLIS TEAM TO PLAY IN CUBA.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27. — The Minneapolis Baseball club, champions of the American Association, has arranged a series of twelve games to be played this fall in Cuba and the West Indies. AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

Here we are, gentlemen, on the first step of the 1910 football stairway. Minnesota has already played the first game of the season, and Chicago, Michigan, Wisconsin and Notre Dame will soon be in the race for the Western championship.

Counting the pigskin chicks before they have knocked a hole through the shell, it might be said right here that Michigan and Minnesota would seem to have the brightest prospects of the conference teams. But—and a long breath should be drawn—there is no telling under the new rules.

Even the instructors of the big teams are up in the rare atmosphere that is found on the mountain top of uncertainty, at the present time, in regard to the funny restrictions that have been placed on our beloved game of football.

Taking a running hazard at the outcome, based upon an attack and defense built around the new rules, this column would say that Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, that foxy man of Western football, should fare as well as any of the coaches in this part of the country.

You must not forget, no, indeed, Alonzo A. Stagg, when it comes to figuring possibilities under any set of rules. The past few years the little Napoleon of football has not had the best material in the world, and consequently he has been under a handicap that neither Williams or Yost has felt.

As somebody said, you might hear of some Brooklyn high school defeating Yale the present season. We don't know at the present time, and until the new rules have received a more thorough tryout than they have yet been given, there is no use trying to dope out any winner.

Until reforms have been instituted at Notre Dame and Marquette, it is of no use to figure these teams in with the white sheep of the Western conference. Both of these schools in the past have paid very little attention to the simon pure stuff, when they wanted men for their teams. That is one of the reasons why the people of the West did not count seriously the defeat of Michigan last season by the sturdy team of Notre Dame, leaving out of consideration the question as to whether or not the Wolverines could have pushed the Catholic school team into the mud of defeat later in the season.

If Notre Dame is to be figured in the standing of the teams of the Western conference, it should be made to enforce the same restrictions that the other Western teams are held rigidly too. If not, why do these teams play with the doughty bunch from George Ade's commonwealth?

It sounds like pretty poor sportsmanship for a team like Michigan to cry that Notre Dame has profesisonals on its team, after the little Hoosier college has given the Ann Arbor bunch a licking. Until a decision is made one way or the other, Notre Dame should be left out of the running.

Taking then, Illinois, Chicago, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the other teams that do not count in the same degree of importance, it would seem that the battle for the highest honor of Western football lies between Chicago, Minnesota and Michigan, as it has in the past few years.

Wisconsin—one sighs when one thinks of the glorious possibilities going to waste—has been athletically ruined by the petty jealousies of the faculty. A bunch of pale corpuscled daddies sit on the faculty bench and cry out against everything connected with football. Under these discouraging conditions, Wisconsin has continued to drop down the ladder of football prominence.

One can hark back to the days of Henry Conchems, Juneau, "Slam" Anderson, the Chamberlain boys, "Norsky" Larson, Pat O'Dea, Harvey Holmes, and the unforgetable Jerry Reardon—days when Wisconsin had the most spirit, was the most loyal college of any of the Western schools.

Those were the dear days when Phil King, perhaps the greatest football general of his day and generation, held forth as the Wisconsin coach. But those days and their great glory to Wisconsin, have passed. Today that great college is laboring under an athletic burden that has proved too great to permit success on the gridiron, and until conditions have changed, it does seem as if Wisconsin will have to be counted out as a serious contender for Western championship honors.

Stagg has sent out the annual bear story. That, however, is not in the least unusual or unexpected. On the other hand, Yost is an optimist. He comes right out from behind the hedge fence and tells you what he expects to do—and the worst part of it, many times he does it.

With the material he has on hand at the opening of the season, the present season should be a very good one for the great Michigan coach. Figuring last season's performances, Minnesota and Michigan should be the real contenders for the honor that the Gopher came so near nailing to the Northrup field pole last season.

Down at Minnesota the material looks great. What Williams will do with the new rules, remains hidden in the dark closet. Perhaps none of us will know until the game with Michigan. Last season we all thought that Minnesota had a team that would beat any team in the country; and behold, alone came the boys from the Wolverine state—and cleaned us.

Williams, considering the substitutes he has to draw upon, has not lost heavily by graduation. He has lost a corking good pair of ends in Rademacher and Pettijohn, but his backfield should be the best in the West the present season. With Lyle Johnson — a half back, whose playing reminds one of the far away playing of Southworth, the one time famous Gopher back, or the more recent playing of Hamil, the dashing back of Chicago — and little Johnny McGovern, the backfield should perform sterling deeds.

Whether or not Pickering will be kept in the backfield, time will tell. At the present time "Pick" is being tried at end. He was perhaps the best full back in the conference last season, and may be returned to that position before the present season is very old.

Two things may happen the present season. It may develop into one of the most brilliant seasons of play we have ever known, because of unexpected possibilities in the new rules, or the interest in the game may fizzle and drop to the below zero point, making it painfully apparent to the gents who make rules that something must be done next year.

Just at the present time the situation is full of interest, for the reason that we are all awaiting the outcome of the experiment period. Until the exact status of the new game has been determined, it is profitless to estimate any outcome. Some rail birds have already caught the time on the new game, and pronounced it a failure. It is too early for any rash prediction. The big games will be the surest tests, and they are some time away.

Mrs. Jacob Wilmert, Lincoln, Ill., found her way back to perfect health. She writes: "I suffered with kidney trouble and backache and my appetite was very poor at times. A few week's ago I got Foley Kidney Pills and gave them a fair trial. They gave me great relief, so continued till now I am again in perfect health." Sold by all druggists.

CANNOT REMEMBER HOW MANY GOWNS

Mrs. H. N. Slater's Baggage Is Held Up By Customs Officers.

New York, Sept. 27.—Mrs. H. N. Slater of Readville, Mass., said to be related to the prominent Slater family of New England and financially interested in a New York firm of the same name, was not permitted to take away her baggage when she arrived from Europe on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. She declared ten model gowns valued at $1,400 and additional personal effects worth $300, but the customs inspectors insisted on a complete appraisement of the contents of her nine pieces of baggage.

After the seizure Mrs. Slater said she could not remember how many gowns she had brought over. No charge was filed against her, but her declaration will be compared with the contents of her trunks.

Robert Stein Talks on Plan of International Police.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 27.—Robert Stein of the United States gelogical survey last night delivered the principal address before the Appallachian peace conference on international police instead of standing armies. The congress opened yesterday afternoon. Mr. Stein said in part:

"It remained for Mr. Roosevelt to point out the specific cure for war—an international police. Now if anybody can organized an international police, it is Mr. Roosevelt."

In order to put this international police movement on its feet Mr. Stein suggested that the United States set before the eyes of the world a model concession. For this example he favored ceding to Canada without restriction the so-called pan-handle of Alaska, the strip of land 500 miles long and a comparatively few miles wide, shutting off a large part of Western Canada from direct communication with the Pacific ocean.

FAILED TO PASS AND COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Dubuque, Iowa, Sept. 27.—The young woman who shot and killed herself in a public park here Sept. 16 has been identified by her brother, Henry Kemp of Sheffield, Ill., as Rhoda Kemp, a student nurse, who disappeared from the St. Luke's training school for nurses in Chicago Sept. 15, after having failed to pass an examination.

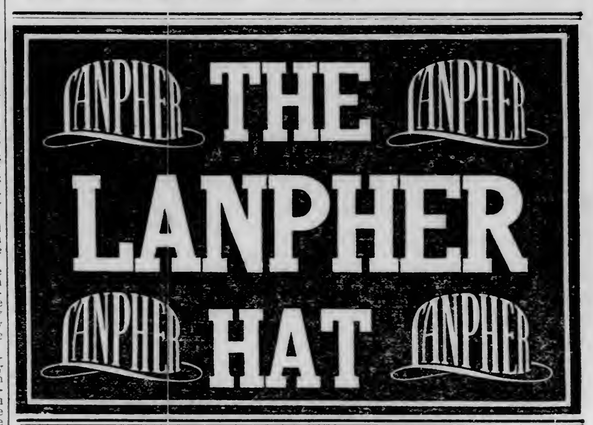

Before leaving the hospital the girl wrote a letter to her sister, Mrs. C. R. Nye of Putnam, Ill., in which she intimated she was planning to end her life. The note was given to a roommate with instructions not to be mailed before Sept. 22.

BANK SUES TO GET BACK STOLEN FUNDS.

New York, Sept. 27.—The New York branch of the Russo-Chinese bank has brought suit for $400 000 against its erstwhile youthful cashier, Erwin J. Wider, now awaiting sentence for looting the strong box of more than $500,000. This move to recover the money indicates that the bank does not place much trust in Wider's story that he lost all of his stealings in Wall street.

Georgian Is Suicide.

Dublin, Ga., Sept. 27.—Thomas G. Pritchett, president of the Georgia Warehouse & Express company, committed suicide early yesterday morning by shooting himself through the head. He carried life insurance for about $110,000. Continued ill health is attributed as the cause for self-destruction.

GAYNOR OUT IN THE OPEN

Mayor Says Bluntly He Is Not Candidate for Governor.

Admits Tactily He Might Make Race---Statement By Hearst.

New York, Sept. 27.—Mayor Gaynor issued, last night, for the first time, a formal statement saying that he is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Nowhere in the statement does the mayor say, however, what course he will pursue in the event the nomination is thrust upon him. He indicates that he prefers to serve his full term as mayor, but at the same time, he emphasizes the fact that he feels no moral obligation to do so.

The statement, in the form of a letter to John A. Dix, chairman of the Democratic state committee, follows in part:

"I have further considered the matter as you requested when you called on me here with Mr. Mack last Wednesday, but can only reiterate to you that I am not a candidate for the nomination for governor. This must have been well known all along, for I have written it to many people during the last six months.

Not Influenced by Assertions.

"I am not influenced in my course by assertions made here and there, that I made an agreement or compact during the mayoralty campaign to serve out the four years if elected. These false assertions are made by persons who oppose me and voted against me, and would do so again. I made no such agreement. And if I had made a pledge, that could not prevent the voters from electing me to some other office.

"There are some large things which a governor could readily do for the cit yof New York, by oversight and legitimate interference, which the mayor of that city cannot do without much time and difficulty, if at all. But nevertheless my wish to remain as mayor is such that I do not become a candidate for nomination for governor. May I add that as a matter of fact, the office of mayor of the City of New York, considering the power and the constant occasion for the exercise of the highest functions of free government lodged in its second to no office in this country, save one.

No Thought of Future.

"Many tell me and write me that in taking this course I give up my future. But I shall not take myself or my future into consideration. None of us has a future, but only the present, and if I thought I had a future, I should be content to entrust it to the people of the City of New York.

"I trust that the convention will nominate some one who is not a mere dealer in the political commonplaces and jingles of the last twenty-five or thirty years, but who has kept pace and grown with the times, and whose absorbing purpose will be to make the government of the state, in all its branches, general and local, intelligent, honest and decent, and to lift it up and make it an object lesson to the whole nation. If to do this he has to be meddlesome, we will all forgive such meddlesomeness, if kept fairly within the law."

Hearst Not a Candidate.

W. R. Hearst, in an interview in Paris cabled the New York World, says positively that he will not be a candidate for governor of this state this fall. His statement, which the World prints today, says in part:

"I will not run for governor myself, but I will do more to prove my unselfish devotion to the cause. If the independents shall nominate a sound progressive for governor, I will accept a nomination for some minor office on the ticket and do my best to elect the head of the ticket and to bring out the independent vote."

In the same statement Mr. Hearst says that he would support Theodore Roosevelt's fight for progressive policies.

"I would support Mr. Roosevelt," he says, "upon a properly progressive platform, but, frankly, I would much prefer to support some other man in whose sincerity and stability I have more confidence."

MARINE

MOVEMENT OF FREIGHT HEAVIER

Eastbound Shipments Make Demands on Capacity of Line Boats.

At the present time the package freight movement is the heaviest that it has been at any time the present season. This is due to the large movement of freight to the East, as at the beginning of the season there was scarcely any movement from the Head of the Lakes to the ports of the lower lakes.

There is a large amount of copper moving from Duluth down the lakes at the present time. This copper is coming from Butte and Anaconda via the Duluth roads, and is being shipped from here to Boston via the water and rail route.

This morning there were over eight cars of copper for loading. These cars were taken to the Northern Pacific docks and the copper will be loaded out today and tomorrow.

In addition to the heavy movement of copper to the East, there is at the present time a heavy movement of shingles, flour and lumber. The westbound movement is not as heavy at the present time as the eastbound movement.

The warehouses at the Head of the Lakes are full at the present time with package freight, awaiting shipments to the East. At the present rate of shipment the package freight line agents here say their companies will make a very good showing on the season.

Juniata Is Delayed.

The Juniata was delayed four and a hlaf hours in arriving today. Due here at 8 o'clock this morning, the big boat did not get in until after noon. The Juniata was delayed at several ports, an accident not being responsible for the boat running behind her schedule.

WHEAT DOWN; FLAX ACTIVE

Decline in Former Under Liberal Offers---Supplies Heavy.

Crushers Purchasers on Recession in Flax---Country Sells.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 27.—Wheat declined sharply today in a listless market. September lost 1⅝c, December 1½c and May 1¼c. Cash wheat was on a parity with December, rye was unchanged, oats lost ⅝c and durum declined 1⅜c.

Flax was more active than at any time in several months. Offerings from the country were heavy and values declined under pressure. On the down-turn crushers bought comparatively heavily. The Eastern buyer who was instrumental in putting July and September flax to the highest prices in those months, appeared to be out of the market. The buying from Minneapolis mills was moderate and Chicago crushers bought fairly heavily in this market for the first time in this crop year. The cash market was active and the general appearance of the flax situation was healthy. September declined 5c, October 6½c, November 7c and May 6c. Cash flax went on a basis of the October delivery.

Trading was limited today and the market was characterized as "rotten." Bearish factors stood out prominently and pit sentiment inclined to the selling side. A bullish opinion was difficult to find.

The market opened lower when cables were weaker than had been expected. Figures which came early indicated the wheat in the world's show windows to be rapidly increasing. Traders sold moderately but there was very little support and the market dragged lower without any reactions worth noticing. At noon values were at the day's low levels and were depressed with indications of a continued decline.

Farmers in the Northwest marketed wheat more rapidly than the bulls expected. Offers were fairly liberal and reports from the country said that receipts at stations were increasing. Farmers sold a moderate amount of grain from storage and did not manifest any disposition to hold aloof. A further decline, bulls think, will cause farmers to stop selling. Optimists look for values to firm with the selling pressure from the country removed. From Aug. 1 to date this market has received 7,662,036 bu compared with 13,999,905 bu last year. Despite this discrepancy stocks are about on a par with stores at this time last year. In this period this year Duluth has received 23,389 bu of No. 1 northern wheat compared with 225,107 bu last year.

Farmers often sell on a declining market when they will hesitate to unload on an advancing market. The fear of a loss is sometimes a more potent power behind the farmers' marketings than the presence of a profit. When values sink comparatively low, however, marketings usually shrink, and the bulls are hoping that this usual sequence of events will follow the present decline.

Recurring to the discrepancy between the receipts of wheat this year and last year and the fact that stores of wheat are about on a parity with stores last year, the rampant bull has tried to find an argument in the shortage in the spring wheat crop. In fact, the only domestic argument that the bull has had, outside of an occasional slice of export business, has been the high premiums of spring wheat over winter wheat and the possibility that the mills might use all of the spring wheat available. The bull has argued that Eastern mills would not be able to get their usual supply from this market, that the shortage of the spring wheat crop would soon become apparent, that the farmers would not market their wheat, that the Northwestern cash markets would be prominent because of their strength and that the milling demand of the East and Central states would have to be filled from the winter wheat territory.

This argument was based on the conditions of last year. The situation now is entirely different. A year ago the millers were heavily long on cash wheat and futures and had no hedges out. This year the mills have hedged their cash stuff and the yare taking no risks on their cash supplies. They are following the lead of the elevators in this regard. The speculative element is thus forced to carry a heavy load. This burden is borne entirely by the professionals because the public is not interested in the market. The speculative trade is narrow and in the nervous market speculators are see-sawed back and forth and they have not experienced uniform success lately in grabbing actual profits. There are plenty of potential bulls but these people are not prepared to espouse the bull side actively now. The bear camp is fairly well populated and when it becomes aggressive and there is no support forthcoming from the bull side the market indeed looks "rotten."

There was no demand for wheat today from anywhere. The mills were not selling any flour to speak of and the Eastern milling demand continued to slumber peacefully. There was no export business either in Manitobas or durums. The cash market was fairly active at weakening prices. The cash position is on a December basis. The market was placed on a parity with the December option although four days of this month remained for sellers to get wheat in elevators. Apparently the change to December which is around ½c under September did not have any effect on the country which continued to offer wheat in unexpectedly liberal quantities.

The short crop this year is not as serious as it appeared some time ago on account of the lack of demand for the stuff. Then, too, must be considered the heavy carry-over indicated by liberal stocks of flour and large cash supplies of wheat in the hands of the millers. This carry-over will make up for a considerable portion of the shortage that for a time many rampant bulls out of many traders usually conservative.

One of the indirect causes of the weakness of the Northwestern markets is the large receipts of winter wheat. This market from Aug. 1 to now has received 250,095 bu of winter wheat compared with only 20,971 bu last year. This, of course, indicates the Northwestern shortage but it shows also that mills are buying winter wheat freely for mixing purposes. They find it of excellent quality and the supply of winter wheat is plentiful at a big discount under spring wheat prices.

Statistics today were excessively bearish. The visible supply of wheat as reported by Bradstreet's, increased 9,813,000 bu. The visible supply in Europe increased 1,556,000 bu to the heavy total of 91,728,000 bu compared with 55,600,000 bu last year. The sight of so much wheat in foreign show windows in connection with heavy exports from Australia, Russia, the Danube, Argentina and India, is not bringing much joy to the hearts of those people who have been regarding the foreign situation in the light of muscle for the bull side.

Broomhall cabled: Wheat opened easy ⅝d to ½d lower being largely influenced by the weaker American cables yesterday and the increased American visible. Following opening market developed further pronounced heaviness and values declined an additional ½d to ⅝d. This selling was in the way of realizing, prompted by the heavy increase in the European visible and the increasing offer. Spot markets were easy ½d lower with Manitoba grade 1d lower. Foreign crop conditions on whole show improvement and this is particularly true of the United Kingdom. Reports from Argentine are of continued rains in southwest were very beneficial. At midday market was weak ⅞d to 1⅛d lower than yesterday.

Corn opened quiet and unchanged, later declined ⅜d to ⅝d with principal pressure in October. There was a very poor demand for spot which is generally lower and the increasing stocks caused liquidation.

European visible wheat this week 91,728,00 against $7,132,000, increase 4,596,000. Last week there was an increase of 1,556,000 and last year increase of 1,700,000 when total amounted to 58,600,000.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Futures Decline With Active But Moderate Trading.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27.—Wheat futures today registered a sharp decline. Trading was more active but of only moderate volume. The near month was the weakest. Receipts in the Northwest are decreasing. September closed 2¼c lower than yesterday, December 1⅞@1¾c lower and May 1¼c lower. Local elevator stocks increased 600,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 278 cars of wheat against 399 a year ago; Duluth, 436 for two days against 531 for one day, and Winnipeg, 545 against 670. September opened $1.09; high, $1.09; low, $1.07¼; closed $1.07½. December opened $1.10⅜@1.10¼; high, $1.10⅜; low, $1.09⅜@1.09½; closed, $1.09⅜@1.09½. May opened $1.14⅛@1.14⅜; high, $1.14½; low, $1.13⅜; closed, $1.13½. Cash wheat was firmer; demand strong from millers. No. 1 northern sold for 1@1½c above December. Closing cash prices:

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,253 tons. Market strong and steady. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $18.50@19.00.

Flour—On account of the decline in wheat, flour prices were lowered today. Some mills reported an improvement in demand on the decline. Shipment heavy, 64,070 bbl, being less, however, than a year ago. First patents, in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.20@5.50; second patents, $5.10@5.30; first clears, $3.70@3.90; second clears, $2.40@2.70.

Flax—Receipts, 38 cars; year ago, 70; shipments, 14. Demand good for spot at 3c lower than September and to arrive at even October, closing at $2.86½.

Barley—Receipts, 87 cars; year ago, 172; shipments, 91. Market ruled easier today. Offerings fairly liberal and prices steady to 1c lower, closing 60@68½c.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bearish Foreign News Cuts Down Wheat a Cent a Bushel.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—A cent a bushel was slashed off the price of wheat today. The instrument was bearish foreign news. An increase of 4,596,000 bu in the European visible supply formed the chief item, but a generally favorable crop summary from trans-Atlantic countries had more or less influence. Selling was general. The market opened ¼c to ⅞c lower, with December at 98⅝c to 99⅛c, a decline of ⅜c to ⅞c. Later the price touched 98½c.

The market ran into a lot of stop loss orders, but purchases by shorts halted the declines. The close, however, was weak with December at 98⅛c, a net loss of 1⅜c.

Frost damage was not counted important and owners of corn were sellers. December started ¼c to ½c off at 61c to 61⅛c and fell to 60⅝c.

Export sales induced a little reaction. The close nevertheless was easy with December at 60⅝c, a net decline of ⅞c.

Oats suffered with other grain but to a less extent support being fair on scaled orders. First sales were at ⅛c to ¼c less, 34½c to 34¼c, and there was a further decline to 33⅞@34c.

Liquidation of provisions resulted from the depression in neighboring pits. After opening a shade down to 2½c higher, some further losses followed. First transactions were at $17.70 for pork, $10.55 for lard and $9.37½@9.40 for ribs.

READING IS BAROMETER

Traders Watch That Stock for Guidance in Their Operations.

Abrupt Decline in St. Paul Keeps the General Tone Heavy.

New York, Sept. 27.—First prices of stocks today varied only an eighth or a quarter from last night's closing for the principal issues. The amount of orders was insufficient to effect a greater movement. Reading opened unchanged and then sagged ⅜c.

Stocks were offered for sale on rallies, and the rise which followed the bidding up of Chesapeake & Ohio was lost. Reading and Union Pacific were sold persistently and their decline dragged down the rest of the market. There were a number of substantial advances in some of the less active stocks. Central Railroad of New Jersey sold at an advance of 15 points on one transaction. Erie second preferred also rose 4¼; International Paper preferred and Rock Island preferred, 2; Western Union, 1¾; Republic Steel preferred, 1⅜; Illinois Central, 1¼ and Chesapeake & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Texas and Pacific and Colorado Southern first preferred, 1.

Traders in stocks watched Reading closely for guidance in their operations The signs of realizing in that stock and the lack of confirmation of the rumors which gave it strength yesterday had a repressive effect on the speculation. Prices moved up gradually towards noon, when Canadian Pacific rose 2½; Reading second preferred, 3; Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic preferred, 1¼ and Colorado Southern, Republic Steel and American Beet Sugar, 1. Bonds were firm.

The market closed easy. A rather abrupt decline in St. Paul of 1⅜ kept the general tone heavy. Reading got a fraction under yesterday's closing and Wheeling & Lake Erie and Bethlehem Steel 1. American Steel Foundries lost 2.

RESTORE THE RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE IS THE ONE ISSUE, SAYS JAMES GRAY

CHEERED BY LARGE CROWD

Candidate for Governor Given Ovation at Fergus Falls.

Takes Advanced Stand on State and National Questions.

Will Walk in Path Blazed By Lind and Johnson.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Gray, the Democratic candidate for governor, delivered his keynote speech before a crowded house in this city last night. He arrived in the afternoon and was met at the station by a band and a committee consisting of H. M. Wheelock, Democratic committeeman of the Ninth Minnesota district; C. D. Wright, president of the First National bank; Robert Hannah, R. J. Angus, N. P. Westberg, O. F. Setter and other prominent citizens. There was a large crowd at the station to welcome the next governor. Mr. Gray was escorted to a hotel, where he spent a few hours renewing old acquaintances, as his newspaper career began in this city.

At the Lyceum theater, where his address was delivered, Mr. Gray was introduced by State Senator O. O. Sageng, the only Populist in the legislature and the most popular man in the county. Senator Sageng said it might seem out of place for him to preside at the opening of the Democratic campaign, but after all the words Democrat and Republican no longer described the two vital forces of the nation. The line of cleavage split both parties in twain, and on one side were found the standpatters, those who stood for privilege and plunder, while on the other side were the men who stood for the rights of the people.

MISTAKEN FOR DEER AND SHOT

Joe Bappo Killed While Head-Lighting Deer Near Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Bappo was shot and killed on the state road twelve miles north of here, last night, by Otto Schwartz, a prosperous farmer living in that vicinity.

It is alleged that both men were engaged in head-lighting deer in the woods contrary to law. Schwartz mistook Bappo for a deer and fired. The rifle ball entered the eye of the victim and penetrated his head, killing him instantly.

Schwartz immediately came to Menominee and notified the authorities of the tragedy. The coroner, prosecuting attorney, and sheriff have left for the scene of the accident.

OPTION THE CHIEF ISSUE

Wisconsin Democrats May Declare Against County Control.

Convention Plunges at Once Into Work on Platform.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 28.—The Democratic state platform convention received the proposed platform upon convening this morning. It is practically the same as the original "Schmitz" draft, with the addition of three planks, one strongly opposing county option, another favoring changes in the existing primary law to make it "more expressive of the free choice of the people," and another favoring the passage, by the national congress of the "dollar a day" pension law for veterans of the Civil war.

The convention plunged into discussion of the platform and there were signs that the anti-county optionists were strong enough to carry their plank against those who believe such a declaration to be impolitic.

An attempt to add a plank favoring the election of postmasters by popular vote, which was strongly urged by Congressman Weisse of Sheboygan Falls, was defeated.

PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

JAMES GRAY,
Whose Keynote Speech at Fergus Falls Aroused Great Enthusiasm.

DENOUNCES PAYNE LAW

Platform Proposed to Wisconsin Republicans Is Insurgent.

Senator La Follette and Other Badgers in Congress Praised.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 28.—What is probably the most radical platform adopted in a generation by a Republican convention was promulgated by Wisconsin Republicans here today. The document is about 4,000 words in length and touches with no uncertain hand on a great variety of subjects. It is generally designated as a radically progressive pronunciamento.

No mention of the national administration was made, to save disparage.

Senator La Follette, although far from well, was present for the first time when the resolutions were read. Mention of his name was invariably the signal for applause. He addressed the convention briefly.

Features of Platform.

Features of the platform are:

Condemnation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act.

Physical valuation of railroads and more stringent regulation of them.

Second choice primaries.

Initiative, referendum and recall.

Anti-lobby law.

Graduated income tax.

Home rule in the liquor traffic.

National control of natural resources.

Ad valorem taxation of corporations.

Condemnation of the "pernicious activity" in the recent primary campaign of the brewery corporations, insurance agencies and the binding twine "trust."

Employers' liability laws.

Condemnation of the "suppression by special interests in congress of the investgations of the country life commission."

Regulation of the working hours of women and children.

Urging the federal government to determine the style of craft best adapted for river use in the light of future improvement of streams.

The platform says:

"It is now recognized throughout the country that Robert M. La Follette was the pioneer in this progressive movement, and although he had behind him years of sound, progressive work, tried and approved in this state, when he entered the United States senate, he had there neither sympathizers nor followers.

Praise For La Follette.

"With the courage, ability and determination that have characterized all his public services, he adhered to his course, grew into leadership, and now holds a position of undisputed power

Lieut. Helm to be Tried.

London, Sept. 28.—Lieut. Helm, the alleged German spy, was committed for trial today, charged with having unlawfully sketched the fortifications of Portsmouth harbor.

FONSECA STARTS ON RETURN TO BRAZIL.

Cherbourg, France, Sept. 28.—Marshal Hermes Fonseca, president-elect of Brazil, began his homeward trip today on the steamer Sao Paulo. He will stop off at Lisbon to call on King Manuel. Col. Charles P. Bryan, American minister to Belgium, and who was formerly minister to Brazil, and Lieut. Com. F. L. Chapin, naval attache at the American embassy, representing American Ambassador Bacon, were among those who were on hand to bid the Brazilian farewell.

NEBRASKA CAMPAIGN

Party Lines Sundered By County Option, Finds Willis Abbot.

Foreign Labor Vote in the Cities to Go Democratic.

By Willis J. Abbot.
(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Here in Nebraska is in heated progress the most interesting campaign that I have seen in these Northwestern states. Wisconsin was strongly insurgent and is safely Republican except for one congressional district. Minnesota, as evinced by the defeat of Tawney, is also strongly insurgent and will, I believe, be in the main Republican in the November elections. Missouri will be almost as solidly Democratic as Texas, and Kansas as certainly Republican as Vermont—a few weeks ago we would have said Maine, but that illustration is now denied to the newspaper writer.

Senator Burkett "a Standpat Progressive."

But here in Nebraska there is a real campaign going on. The primaries have been held and the parties are aligned for the November election. A senator is to be chosen to succeed Senator Burkett, and a governor to succeed Shallenberger. Though it cannot be said that in the primaries the insurgent Republicans made such sweeping gains here as they did in Kansas or Minnesota, nevertheless the influence of public sentiment in other states has made even those who were nominated as standpatters profess a certain degree of insurgency. Senator Burkett for example calls himself a standpat progressive—a designation which I think even others than Mrs.

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS VOTE

Primary Election Interest Centers in Lodge-Ames Contest.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 28.—Republicans today held primaries for the selection of delegates to state, congressional, county, councillor, senatorial and representative conventions in all except eleven cities and two towns, where caucuses were held yesterday jointly with the Democrats.

With no state wide contest there was a decided falling off from the customary large attendance. Interest centered in the fights in districts where there was a clear cut issue between Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Congressman Butler Ames for the United States senatorship.

The delegates elected to the state convention will renominate Governor Eben S. Draper for a third term and all other state officers except attorney general, where Daniel Malone retires and James M. Swift of Fall River will be selected to run in his place.

AERONAUT IS MISSING

Homer Hazard May Have Drowned Near Houghton, Mich.

Lansing Man Has Not Been Seen Since Landing in Lake.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Homer Hazard of Lansing, Mich., an aeronaut, is believed to have drowned last night in Portage lake, between Houghton and Hancock. Hazard was to have given aerial exhibitions as a feature of the Copper Country fair, which opened at Houghton yesterday. He ascended shortly after 6 o'clock last night, a light wind carrying the balloon out over the lake.

Hazard made a parachute drop landing in the lake, as he was unable to clear the water, according to farmers who saw him. It is believed he misjudged the velocity of wind and his height. Searching parties have been unable to locate him, although the balloon was found in the lake about two miles from Houghton, this morning.

One farmer who saw Hazard drop says he called to the aeronaut while the latter was in the water, but Hazard said he needed no assistance. This was before midnight and he has not been heard from since.

Searching parties are out this morning with boats.

GOOD ROADS MEN MEET IN ST. LOUIS

Lewis R. Speare Makes the First Address at the Convention.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 28.—Roadmakers and men interested in good roads attended the third annual convention of the National Good Roads association, which began here today. George C. Diehl of Buffalo, N. Y., presided at the first session. Lewis R. Speare, president of the American Automobile association, made the opening address. The convention will continue until Friday night. Milwaukee, Atlanta and Denver are seeking the 1911 convention.

THREE MORE BAY STATE TOWNS ARE REPORTED.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Population statistics, as enumerated for the thirteenth census, were made public today as follows:

Malden, Mass., 44,404, an increase of 10,740, or 31.9 per cent, over 33,664 in 1900.

Quincy, Mass., 32,642, an increase of 8,743, or 36.6 per cent, over 23,899 in 1900.

Waltham, Mass., 27,834, an increase of 4,353, or 18.5 per cent, over 23,481 in 1900.

STIMSON LIKELY TO HEAD THE NEW YORK REPUBLICAN TICKET

WILL PROBABLY HEAD NEW YORK REPUBLICANS

HENRY L. STIMSON,
Who Is Favored by a Majority of the Nominating Committee at the New York Republican State Convention at Saratoga.

Hinman Is Suggested to Run for Lieutenant Governor.

Tim Woodruff Replaced on State Committee By A. E. Vase.

Platform Adopted at Convention Praises Tariff Law.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The Republican state convention this afternoon adopted the platform submitted by the majority of the committee, after defeating amendments suggested in a minority report on the primary election plank.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Changing political current this morning caused a rubbing of the proposed gubernatorial slate, Harvey D. Hinman and J. Mayhew Wainwright, and when the conferees who were fixing up the ticket met before the convention opened it was discovered that Former United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson of New York had developed increased strength and appeared at the moment to be the strongest candidate.

Mr. Griscom said the majority of those in conference were in favor of Mr. Stimson, but the question had not been finally determined.

Two Sessions Likely.

Two sessions of the convention seem likely today. The discussion on the platform, the progressives say, probably will take a major portion of the day, after which it may be necessary to adjourn for a night session. Between sessions the gubernatorial slate will be fixed.

It is further stated that an effort will be made to have Senator Hinman as candidate for lieutenant governor and the leaders were trying to reach him this morning by long distance telephone.

Three members of the present state ticket are said to be slated for renomination—Edward R. O'Malley, attorney general; Samuel Koenig, secretary of state, and Frank Williams, state engineer.

The offices of state comptroller and state treasurer have not been determined upon, while Judge Vann probably will be renominated for the court of appeals. A conference with the Democrats is likely to determine who shall fill a second vacancy on the court.

WHITE ON THE STAND AGAIN

Tells of Disposal of Story About Lorimer's Election.

Admits That He Lied to the Senator About Big Offer.

Chicago, Sept. 28. — Representative Charles A White, recalled to the witness stand on cross-examination before the Lorimer investigating committee, testified today that he wrote to Senator Lorimer in December, 1909, telling of his manuscript, to get the senator to "commit himself concerning doings in the legislature," so that he, White, might use it in his publication of the story.

White insisted that he did not purpose selling the story, but wanted to publish it. He then declared that the contract with the Chicago Tribune did not state the truth entirely.

"The contract states that I offered to sell the manuscript," said White. "That is not true. I protested at the time that I did not offer to sell the story, but only expected my expenses."

In response to further questions, White declared that he thought his expenses might be $3,500.

Paid By Newspaper.

"I did not know what might arise," he said. "I might need counsel."

The witness admitted that he had received $250 for his expenses in addition to the $3,250 called for by the newspaper contract. After some sparring White admitted he never had received any offer to pay for the story

KAISER WANTS REPORT ON RIOTS

More Outbreaks Mark Strike in the Coal Industry.

Berlin, Sept. 28—The rioting coal strikers appear to have worn themselves out during the night and today quiet prevails throughout the Moabit precinct.

There are no reliable figures of the number injured in the clashes with the police. At one hospital thirty wounded citizens received treatment. Comparatively few policemen seem to have been injured.

Emperor William has sent for a full report of the disorders.

The rioters about 9 o'clock last evening began trouble which increased as night advanced. Excited men and women dashed from place to place, smashing street lamps and the windows of stores. Several of the stores were sacked of valuable contents, but the tradesmen for the most part had taken the precaution of lowering the iron shutters and thus prevented extensive damage.

Bombarded the Police.

The police charged several times, wounding many men. Men and women stationed at open windows of houses, hurled bottles, bricks, coal and stones at the police, who replied with revolver shots.

Commissioner Jagow drove in an automobile through the precinct about 10 o'clock when the riot was at its height. Crowds of furious strikers and their sympathizers, among whom were many women, howled imprecations at the commissioner and his men, while flowerpots, various household articles and other missiles fell in showers from the windows.

BATTLESHIPS IN NEW YORK HARBOR

New York, Sept. 28.—The big American battleship fleet which is to make New York harbor its rendezvous for the next few days swelled rapidly in numbers today. The seven ships of the fighting fleet, headed by Admiral Schroeder's flagship Connecticut, comprising the first division, which were in port, were early joined by the Minnesota, Vermont, Mississippi and Idaho. This squadron had hardly passed up the harbor when the outer gates were reached by the battleships Nebraska, Rhode Island and Virginia.

With expected additions, the display is perhaps the finest the port has ever witnessed except on occasions of celebrations participated in by foreign war vessels. The men of the fleet will be given liberal shore leave here.

MANY SEEK NOMINATION

New York Democrats Must Pick Candidate for Governor.

Gaynor Will Decline to Run If Nominated, He Says.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The sudden and unexpected scratching of Mayor Gaynor's name from the list of gubernatorial candidates, where by almost common opinion, he held first place, leaves the Democratic leaders here for tomorrow's convention confronting a problem.

"We can win with any clean man," said one of the New York men this morning, "but with Gaynor we should have cleaned up the state."

The followers of Congressman Sulzer laid special stress on his strength with the laboring classes. The banner stretched at his headquarters at the Seneca hotel reads:

"The Workingman's Choice."

Boosting Their Favorites.

Thomas M. Osborne's friends are putting him forward as the prime exponent of the "new Democracy" and the most logical candidate in view of the importance which the platform will at-

RETURNS HIS BOOTY.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Paul has an honest highwayman. Nearly three years ago he held up a saloon here, masked in approved style and nearly killed the bartender, and departed with a pocketful of cash. He escaped the drag net of the police department and Christ Bratmoot, the proprietor, chalked up $51.05 to loss and forgot about it. Yesterday he received a money order for the full amount, signed George Smith.

LITTLE CHILD LABOR HERE

Report of State Labor Inspector Shows Favorable Conditions.

Statistics of Minnesota Wage Earners Will Soon Be Published.

The preliminary figures of the Duluth deputy factory inspectors have been given out by State Labor Inspector William E. McEwen.

Out of 1,024 inspections, Miss Jean Poirier and Armour Harvey, the local inspectors, found that there were in the city 20,179 employes in offices, factories and warehouses. Of this number 1,218 are employed in offices. Only six boys under 16 years of age are employed and only three girls under that age. Of the 1,218, 596 are females.

There are 15,926 male wage earners in shops, factories and warehouses, and 2,265 women. There are in this class 128 males who are ulder 16 years old and thirty-seven females.

There are 930 night workers and 1,472 who work on Sundays. The superintendent of the Duluth schools issued during the year from Sept. 1, 1908 to July, 1909, ninety-five employment certificates to ninety-five boys and forty-eight to girls. From Sept., 1909 to July, 1910, he issued ninety-six certificates to boys and sixty-two to girls.

These figures do not include railroad or street car employes or building laborers.

The report which will show the wages of all classes of people in the state of Minnesota, will be out in a very short time. The figures given herein are simply preliminary figures from the report which is soon to appear in printed form.

In Minneapolis there are 64,444 employes in 4,240 establishments. In St. Paul there are 49,342 employes in 2,825 establishments.

COMMODITY IS WASTED

City Is Throwing Away Fertilizer Needed By Farmers of County.

Shipments Will Probably Be Made to Agricultural Centers.

While farmers' clubs all through the county are clamoring for fertilizer, the city of Duluth is having hundreds of tons of manure thrown on the city dump at the foot of Twelfth avenue west.

The officers of the Commercial club, to whom the farmers' clubs appealed, have taken the matter up with Mayor Cullum and the mayor and Health Commissioner Webster have promised to take steps toward providing a system by which the manure can be shipped out into the country.

While the matter was up once before, no action was taken, nobody taking the initiative. Dr. Webster has long recognized the fact that the dumping ground is a breeding place for disease carrying flies and an agency for rank pollution of the bay at that point, but in the absence of any other means of disposing of the filth, no remedy was offered.

Now, however, it is likely something will be done to put to use a commodity that has hertofore been wasted. The owners of livery barns and other places where horses are kept are required to dispose of the refuse from their barns by hauling it to any point the city may direct. The farmers need the fertilizer and they will be willing to pay freight charges if they can be supplied with the material for enriching their land.

It would be an easy matter for the city to have cars spotted at different points in the railroad yards and direct the people disposing of refuse to haul it there and load it on the cars. The people affected would gladly comply with the request, saving the long haul to the city dump. Once in the cars, the farmers would take charge and pay freight charges to the point at which they wanted it unloaded.

The plan formerly proposed fell through because there was no suggestion for hauling by cars. The plan provided for hauling the manure to the top of the hill and dumping it there where the farmers could come in and transport it to their farms by team. The plan of shipment by cars would cover a wider area and be easier on farmers and the owners of barns. Railroads touch most of the agricultural centers and the matter may be dumped from the cars at convenient points, where it may be loaded into the farmers' wagons.

Mr. Hostetter and Mr. Pardee, with Mayor Cullum and Dr. Webster, expect to formulate definite plans within a short time and the request of the farmers' clubs will be complied with.

MEN OF MONEY TO VISIT CITY

Duluth Will Probably Entertain Many Bankers Returning From Convention.

Men with money are trailing across the country, with an investment eye measuring the possibilities of all they see. These observant travelers are bankers, bound for Los Angeles, where they will attend the annual meeting of the National Bankers' association.

The Westward movement of the men of money has begun and it will continue for several days, until the convention goes into session next week. Soon the migratory financiers will be headed eastward, returning from the place where money will talk most garrulously this year. It is probable that quite a number of them will make Duluth a stop-over visit, as this city has been much in the mind of the business world of late, because of the building of the great steel plant and the steady, rapid development of the agricultural resources of the northwestern part of the state.

Some of the most distinguished men of finance in the world are traveling across the continent now, and to those who come to Duluth the city will have a great deal to show and expound.

HAZEN WINS BY ELEVEN MAJORITY

Nominated for Sheriff of Beltrami County By Close Vote.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. B. Hazen, sheriff of Beltrami county, has won the Republican nomination for sheriff at the recent primaries in one of the most sensational political contests of Beltrami county, and by the closest vote on record. It was not until Tuesday that all of the returns of the late primaries were in from the different precincts of the county, and yesterday it looked as if Auditor Hayner would be compelled to send a man after the ballots cast at Hamre and Steenerson. The belated returns from Hamre came in at noon Tuesday, and on the same train came word from Steenerson that no election had been held at that place, as only three men were at home in the precinct, the remainder being in the Dakotas thrashing. Prior to the arrival of the Hamre vote, Sheriff Hazen led his nearest oppoent, Andrew Johnson, by twenty-three votes. Hamre gave twelve votes solidly for Johnson, leaving Hazen's majority but eleven, which in the official majority, the canvassing board finding that Hazen had received 1,180 votes and Johnson 1,169.

In the contest for auditor, James L. George has a majority of fifty over Auditor Hayner. Mr. Hayner still talks quite strongly of contesting Mr. George's election.

CALIFORNIA BECOMING A BIG OIL PRODUCER.

Capt. W. J. Dawson of Butte, a mining man who recently visited the California oil fields, is in the city, accompanied by E. S. Hoyt and Fred Carlson of Los Angeles, who are in the oil business.

"Much Butte money is invested in the Kern river oil district," said Capt. Dawson. "California in the thirty-five years it has been producing oil has come to be first among the states in the production of oil. Dividends amounting to $22,250,000 were paid by companies operating in the state between Jan. 20 and May 26 this year.

"Independent operators control the California field and ship to fourteen foreign countries, using their own pipe lines to tidewater."

BAD SMASHUP ON LONG ISLAND ROAD

Walter Jones, Entered for Vanderbilt Cup Race, Is Injured.

Mineola, L. I., Sept. 28.—A bad smash-up on the Long Island motor parkway this forenoon came near resulting seriously for Walter Jones, one of the drivers booked to compete in the Vanderbilt cup race on Saturday. Jones was driving an Amplex car at high speed when he was obliged to swerve suddenly to avoid colliding with a motor cyclist speeding in the wrong section of the course.

Jones' car left the road and was overturned, throwing out Jones and his mechanician, Warren, a brother of Arthur Warren, the driver. Both were picked up badly bruised, but neither was thought to be very seriously hurt. There is a possibility, however, of internal injuries in Jones' case.

Paris, Sept. 28.—Private advices from Italy assert that Italian emigrants from the cholera infected districts of that country are being embarked at Genoa for America, their original starting point being concealed.

RAILROADS

CANADIAN NORTHERN STRIKE BROUGHT TO END.

Winnipeg, Sept. 28.—The strike of the Canadian Northern car men, which has been on for twelve weeks, was settled last night by the terms brought in by the conciliation board at the beginning of the strike and which the men refused to accept. The condition of the company's rolling stock is very bad, but the men have gained nothing that they could not have got at that time. The men will return to work today, taking the place of strike-breakers who have boarded in a stockade within the company's yards.

COUPLERS OUT OF REPAIR.

Suit Brought Against C. & N. W. By Interstate Commerce Commission.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—On complaint of the interstate commerce commission the United States has begun action in the federal court in Marquette against the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads. The charge in each case is that the roads hauled cars over their tracks near Menominee, the couplers of which were out of repair in violation of the safety appliance act. These cases will be tried before Judge Denison in the United States court at Marquette on Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Ignore the Payne Law.

Carson City, Nev., Sept. 28.—President Taft's administration and the so-called "Taft measures" passed by the last congress were indorsed today by the Republican state convention, with the exception of the Payne-Aldrich tariff, which was not mentioned. The convention also indorsed United States Senator Nixon for re-election.

PROGRAM OF TALKS.

Friday noon — Business men's luncheon at Commercial club.
Saturday, 4 p. m.—Talk to women at library.
Sunday, 3 p. m.—Mass meeting at assembly hall of Central high school.
Monday morning—Talk to high school, parochial school and normal students at Central high school.
Tuesday night — Mass meeting at First M. E. church.

Duluth will undergo a thorough inspection by Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, municipal expert, for four days, beginning Friday of this week. By Tuesday night of next week Mrs. Crane will have learned all she wants to learn about the city and at a mass meeting at the First Methodist church will sum up her findings.

Duluth's municipal methods will be laid bare for the searching eyes of Mrs. Crane. Every department head in the city government, every civic and charitable organization will place at the disposal of Mrs. Crane all the data they have at hand that she may learn just what Duluth is doing in every line of civic work. Guides familiar with conditions in the city will be placed at her disposal and, go where she may, she will receive every consideration and every opportunity to gain the facts for which she will seek.

Duluth is open to inspection and criticism—and Mrs. Crane will criticize with the eye of an expert, who has visited hundreds of cities, who has a thorough knowledge of approved methods of city government and attaining city cleanliness, and who knows what conditions should be and when they are not as they should be.

A National Figure.

Mrs. Crane is a national figure. Starting in her home city of Kalamazoo, Mich., she cleaned it up, physically and morally. She did not stop with pointing out what was wrong—she went ahead and secured the remedies for conditions and practices that were responsible for the conditions. When her work at home was done she branched out into other cities. She pointed out defects in government, she showed where systems of street cleaning might be employed, she told how systems of garbage collection might be established and maintained on a profitable basis, she inspected and learned and worked and talked until she aroused the public conscience from its dormant state and into activity that accomplished results.

That is what she is coming to Duluth to do. The Women's council and the Commercial club have invited her to Duluth because they believe that the public conscience of Duluth can be aroused to the accomplishment of results in matters which have probably never stirred it. The citizen may take an interest in public affairs, but there are some conditions that will never occur to him as being wrong, because they have been so from time immemorial. The keen eye of Mrs. Crane will see and she will point out, and the citizens will not fail to look the way she is pointing. She will arouse civic pride and civic pride, when thoroughly aroused, will accomplish much that might be considered impossible or impracticable.

Mrs. Crane will be welcomed to Duluth and urged to go deeply into the city's methods and gain a full knowledge of them, or as good a knowledge as she can in the short time she is to be here, in order to criticize with the certainty of conviction. She will be urged to compare Duluth with other cities of its class and age and to tell Duluth wherein it may be improved in beauty, in method, in sanitation and in caring for its people.

Mayor Cullum, City Comptroller McCormick, City Clerk Cheadle, Secretary Murchison of the board of public works, Health Commissioner Webster, City Engineer McGilvray and all of the aldermen said this morning that they will be ready and willing to give Mrs. Crane any information she may desire in regard to the city government.

Mrs. Baldwin, one of the inspectors of the health department, will be at Mrs. Crane's disposal during her visit here and will give her full information in regard to the different matters connected with the health department. Secretary Case of the water and light department says that his department is open for inspection. The park boards are anxious to serve the visiting expert. Officers of the Commercial club, the Anti-Tuberculosis society, the Associated Charities and all other organizations will meet Mrs. Crane and tell her of the work of their respective departments.

Members of the women's council are taking the most active interest in the visit of Mrs. Crane and they will entertain her while she is in the city. They have made arrangements for the different lectures she is to give while here and are looking eagerly forward to accomplishing results after her visit for which they have been working for some time.

Mrs. Crane will arrive in Duluth Friday morning and at noon she will be the guest at a luncheon at the Commercial club, given by members of the women's council to introduce Mrs. Crane to the men of the city.

Meeting for Women.

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Crane will address a meeting of women at the public library. Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock she will be the speaker at a lecture at the assembly hall of the Central high school. The lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon views of results accomplished in other cities.

Monday morning Mrs. Crane will address public and parochial high school students and normal school students at the Central high school and the concluding address will be given at a mass meeting at the First M. E. church Tuesday evening.

Just what course Mrs. Crane will pursue while she is in the city and what will be the subject of her addresses cannot be learned until Mrs. Crane arrives in the city. It is expected, however, that between the different meetings she will call on city officials and officers of civic bodies and will inspect the city, gathering materials for her criticisms and suggestions, which are expected to be given in her addresses. It is expected that in her concluding address at the First M. E. church Tuesday evening, she will sum up the results of her investigations in Duluth and will offer suggestions for civic improvements.

The scope of Mrs. Crane's investigations in the different cities she has visited is great. She goes into all affairs of the municipal government and activities of civic bodies and, on account of her experience in such investigations and her knowledge of civic affairs, she is able to cover a marvelous amount of ground in a short time.

About a month ago, Mrs. Crane sent to Duluth a list of questions for which she asked answers. They were answered fully so that she now has a good hear-say knowledge of conditions in Duluth. She will supplement that knowledge with inspection and investigation and when she first touches on Duluth affairs in her addresses she will be sure of her ground.

She will seek facts in regard to the population, assessed valuation, charter limitations and privileges, rate of taxation, water and sewer systems, street pavements and methods of cleaning streets, garbage collection, milk and meat inspection, provisions for keeping hotels and other such establishments sanitary, schools, parks, hospitals, provisions for warring against tuberculosis, rental conditions, disposition of smoke, activities of the medical association, activities of the Associated Charities and the relation of partisan politics to city government.

Mrs. Crane was brought to the state of Minnesota by the state. She is this week addressing the State Federation of Women's Clubs at St. Peter and is also invited to deliver an address before the State Medical society at its coming meeting.

The press notices and magazine articles touching on Mrs. Crane and her work indicate that she is not a theorist. She makes suggestions, but wherever she can, she also assists in obtaining the working out of her theories. Her real work, however, on short visits to cities, is to arouse the civic conscience and point out where that conscience is lax in not improving and advancing the interests of the city.

Duluth Boy Realizing Ambition to Become an Actor.

G. Alfred Smith of 1827 East Fourth street, although yet in his teens, has won deserved recognition as an actor. He is of striking appearance and is the possessor of a voice of that clear, pure quality that never fails to hold the attention of the listener.

On the way to Europe on the Kronprintz Wilhelm, Mr. Smith participated in several dramatic entertainments. He was shown every honor by those on board, and even the captain praised his ability, presenting him with several souvenirs of the trip.

Mr. Smith is enthusiastic over the course he is pursuing, and his many friends here will watch his future career with decided interest and best wishes. He is at present doing some excellent work with the Pierce Players at the Lyceum, appearing tonight in "The Boys of Company B."

PREDICTS A BIG REVIVAL IN BUSINESS.

"The wholesale lumber business has been just as good this season as it was in the preceding season, and in some respects better," said B. W. Arnold of Albany, president of the Spanish River Lumber company and a director of Alger, Smith & Co., who is in the city. "After the November elections I expect to see a marked improvement in business in all lines." Mr. Arnold said retail lumber dealers have had some difficulty in placing their stock, but that by the end of the year they will probably have handled about as much lumber as in any recent year.

DOES NOT FEAR TRIAL

Serafin Petros Does Not Realize Serious Nature of Charge.

Confidently Expects Release---Has Led an Adventurous Life.

Serafin Petros, accused of the murder of John Hendrickson and who goes on trial tomorrow morning before Judge William A. Cant of the district court, has no idea of the serious nature of the trouble he is in.

He does not believe that there is one chance in a hundred of being convicted. He cannot realize that there is a strong case against him and is so full of his own defense that he refuses to see the other side.

Petros does not talk much English. In fact, it is necessary to have an interpreter a greater part of the time, while talking to him. Through the medium of an interpreter he told a Herald reporter this morning, something of his life.

Petros has had a varied career. When a boy he lived according to his story, in Bulgaria. His father and mother were Greeks, and when he was very young they were driven out of Bulgaria by the Bulgarian government. Their property was taken from them and the family had to start life anew in Greece.

Soon after the removal to Greece, the father died. Serafin enlisted some time later in the English navy. He was discharged with papers stating that his conduct while in the navy was of the best.

After having served in the English navy he came to the United States, where he was unsuccessful at finding work. He took out his first papers and enlisted in the American navy. After a service of some two years he was discharged honorably. His conduct was good, he had no trouble of any kind, and the reason for his discharge was given as ill health.

Supported Family.

During all this time he was supporting his aged mother and sister, who lived in one of the provinces of Greece. Every dollar that he could spare was sent to them, he says.

After his discharge from the American navy he went into the coasting service and worked between Boston and Mexico. Next he hired out to a wrecking concern on the Atlantic coast. He put in but a short time at the wrecking business before he went to work for the Lake Carriers' association.

He worked on several ore carriers and had no trouble until that of July 29 last, when he is said to have shot John Hendrickson.

The Greek colony in Duluth is very much interested in the case. They have banded together and retained A. E. McManus to defend their fellow countryman.

The shooting followed a quarrel, part of which occurred on land and part on water. Petros claims that Hendrickson and Anderson were drunk. They had two quarts of whisky in flasks from which they took occasional drinks. All the men had been ashore. While going back to the steamer Corrigan in a small boat a greater part of the preliminary quarreling and that which led up to the shooting, took place. Both Hendrickson and Anderson abused Petros, according to his story. Hendrickson is said to have remarked "Let the d——d dago row." He is also said to have said that he never did like "dagoes." Petros at first refused to row, but later he says he consented and was about to take one of the oars when one of the men hit him with it. Turning around to defend himself he was next hit with a whisky bottle on the forehead. The blow partially stunned him and he was brought to his senses when he found himself in the water of the bay. Hendrickson, he claims, had thrown him in. He climbed back into the boat and was bleeding freely from the wound on his head. The blood covered all the front of his person and as he had no way of telling how badly he was hurt he says that he thought that he would die.

That he finally shot Hendrickson will probably not be denied by his attorney. The fact that he was hit on the head and that the blow might have affected him mentally may or may not be used.

Petros seems to be an inoffensive fellow with no signs of criminal instincts. He talks openly and frankly and when asked a question that he cannot answer he frankly says "not know." He says he was never in any other trouble in his life. He states that he has never even been under arrest.

He seems to be sorry that the shooting took place more for the sake of his late enemy than for himself. He says he does not fear the courts.

Petros says that he is sorry he did not give a ficticious name as he would not for the world have his mother and sister know of the trouble he is in. He has in his possession touching letters from his mother and sister. They all express love and the desire to have him home with them again soon.

He is anxious for his trial to be over so that he may go back to them, he says.

INCREASE IN DONATIONS

Duluth Presbytery Hears Reports on Educational and Mission Work.

An increase of $215,000 in donations to Presbyterian colleges scattered in thirty-one different states, over the offerings of last year was reported by the committee on aid for colleges this morning at the closing session of a two-day's meeting of the Duluth Presbytery which includes thirty-seven churches in Duluth and on the ranges.

The Duluth Presbytery alone gave $7,037.19. Of this amount the First Presbyterian church of Duluth donated $6,317 to be used at Macalester college at St. Paul. The total receipts of the year all over the country were 1,558,491 and gifts to the board of colleges have been larger and more freely given than ever.

Rev. P. A. Schwartz of Eveleth, chairman of the committee in the Duluth Presbytery reported that out of the sixty-six institutions of learning under the board, fifty-seven are of the college grade and nine are academies or preparatory schools. Instruction has been given the past year to 18,366 students.

The aim of the colleges under the board, says the report is to give not only a broad, liberal and up-to-date education but above all else, a Christian education. Bible study has a prominent place in the curriculum.

Of the thirty-seven churches in the Duluth presbytery fourteen gave to the board. In this city the churches donating were: The First church, Glen Avon and the Lakeside. Most of the churches contributing gave to the board and to Macalester college of St Paul.

In its report, the committee recommended that attention of the young people be called to the work which is being done by the Presbyterians along educational lines, with the view of securing their interest and their gifts and that the two colleges in the local synod Macalester and Albert Lea be commended to parents and young people of the Presbytery.

The remainder of the morning session today was given over to the reading of reports from home and foreign missionary work and discussing ministerial relief and evangelistic work. The reports in a general way were encouraging. This afternoon, the business meeting is being continued.

This evening, Rev. Dr. Yost, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will deliver a lecture and Rev. Peter A. Schwartz of Eveleth will talk along the lines of civic righteousness. There will be special singing at the evening service.

The opening session was held last evening, when officers for the ensuing year were elected. Rev. W. A. Garrett of Coleraine was selected as moderator and Rev. John McLeod of Two Harbors, secretary.

Rev. John C. Faries, pastor of Glen Avon church of this city, retiring moderator, delivered the principal address of the evening. He spoke on "The Positive Note in Preaching."

Rev. John G. Leitch, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church who was considering a call to the Hibbing church has announced that he will remain with the local congregation, having declined the Hibbing offer.

INSPECT RAMSEY STREET EXTENSION.

President O. G. Olson, A. J. Meldahl and R. E. Patterson of the board of public works were at West Duluth this morning looking over the proposed extension of Ramsey street.

The trip was taken with the view of getting data in regard to the valuation of property for condemnation proceedings. Damages will be awarded to property owners as soon as the board completes its work.

N. F. Nelson, who has under construction a two-story brick building in the path of the road is the only property owner that has raised any objections to the proposed extension

The members of the board interviewed a number of West Duluth business men on Central avenue this morning and the almost unanimous sentiment was in favor of the extension as ordered by the council.

MOVING PICTURE FILM CATCHES FIRE.

Despite the fact that a moving picture film caught fire while it was being shown at the Colonial theater at West Duluth last evening and had to be thrown out of the window, patrons of the theater did not learn of the blaze until the close of the show.

One of the Raymond Bros., proprietors of the theater, was replacing the regular operator at the time. A long film caught fire just as it had been started and the operator was obliged to stop the machine and take out the machine and take out the film. He threw it into the street and quickly replaced it with another film.

There was no damage, except that the film was destroyed.

BOMB HURLED AT SLEUTH'S FRIEND

New York, Sept. 28.—Friendship for the Italian squad of the detective Bureau of which the late Lieut. Petrosino was formerly in command, is believed to have incited Black Handers to attempt to assassinate Agnati Rini today, by hurling a bomb at him from a housetop. He was shocked into unconsciousness, but escaped fatal injuries. A similar attempt on Rini's life was made three weeks ago.

Join the "NEW THING CLUB."

We belong to it and receive new things in hats the moment they are hatched.

Today the "AUTOSOFT" struck Duluth. It's a Knapp-Felt and fills a long-felt want.

The "Autosoft" is an ideal hat for motoring, driving, riding, or for wear wherever the wind blows. It will stay on the head in a gale or a zephyr and will look well on country road or city street. It has all of the advantages of a cap—and then some. It will distinguish the owner from the chauffeur.

The crown is one inch higher in the rear than it is in front, so that it may be pulled snugly down on the back of the head. The insert on the front of the leather is Dr. Jaeger's Sanitary Woolen Fabric and will cling closely and comfortably to the forehead.

The brim can be worn any way that the whim of the wearer may fancy. When it is turned down in the back it affords protection from sun or dust.

When the hat is put on properly, set well down in the back, it is wind proof. It should be creased or telescoped deeper in front than in the back so that the top will be level when the hat is worn.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

DR. CULLUM VS. GOODELL

Fall Championship at Golf Club Down to Finals.

Play in the fall championship of the Northland Country club has narrowed down to R. T. Goodell, club captain, and Mayor Marcus B. Cullum.

These two players have defeated all the other players entered in the play, and the winner of the match will be the champion for the present year.

Interest in the final game is very high. No definite date has been set for the game, but it will be played some time within the next two weeks. Opinion in the club is divided as to the outcome. Both Mr. Goodell and Mayor Cullum have been playing very strong games the present season. Each has a number of friends who are confident of the result.

Saturday a picked team of the club will play in Minneapolis for the cup offered for a contest between teams of the Northland club of Duluth and the Minnikahda club of Minneapolis.

TEAMS CHOSEN FOR SATURDAY GAMES.

Next Saturday when the Central high school team lines up against the fast Hibbing team the same lineup will be used as the one that started the game last Saturday.

Reports from the range town show that Hibbing has a fast and well coached team. Farnum, the Minnesota center of last year, is coaching the team and if he is as good a coach as a player a hard game is expected Saturday.

"Dutch" Jeronimus, who played a star game against Two Harbors at end last Saturday, has been out of practice the last few days with a sprained tendon, which he received in practice last week. Despite his injury "Dutch" was the only man who starred for Duluth in Saturday's game.

Next Saturday the second team will play the Two Harbors high school team at Two Harbors. The second team will line up against the first team in scrimmage every day this week and should be in good condition to meet Two Harbors Saturday.

The lineup of the second team follows:

Paul, Northfield, l. e.; Mur, l. t.; McConaughey, l. g.; Carpenter, c.; Panton, r. g.; Walker, r. t.; Whiteside, Harris, r. e.; Wagner, q. b.; Kerns, r. h.; Cook, f. b.; Gunderson, l. h.

A week from Saturday the high school will line up against the strong West Duluth Industrial high school team.

"Pennsy" Has New Team.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—With almost an entirely new lineup the University of Pennsylvania football team will, this afternoon meet Dickinson college on Franklin Field. Hutchinson, one of Pennsylvania's last year's star, may line up today, and Randall who put ginger into Pennsylvania's last moments of play last Saturday, probably will start at fullback.

PARDON SOUGHT FOR PITTSBURG BANKER.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 28.—The state board of pardons today heard application for a pardon for W. W. Ramsey, president of the German National Bank of Pittsburg at the time of the municipal graft exposure, who is now serving a sentence of eighteen months for bribery. An application for A. A. Vilsack, another banker, was listed but was continued.

PUBLICITY IS DISCUSSED

Proper Method of Advertising the City, Under Consideration.

An important meeting, having for its object the establishment of a publicity bureau for Duluth, is being held at the Commercial club this afternoon, with the board of directors of the club, members of the real estate exchange and other leading business men of the city in attendance.

The remarks made by the men who addressed the gathering aroused such enthusiasm that every now and then there were outbursts of applause and the participants in the meeting showed the liveliest interest in the proceedings throughout.

The meeting was prolonged far into the afternoon, but no information as to the progress made was given out.

HISTORIC HOUSE IS DYNAMITED

Irwin, Pa., Sept. 28. — The Shotts house, built during the coaching days of almost a century ago, at Adamsburg, and occupied recently as a tenement house, was wrecked by dynamite early today. William Strupple, his wife and four children, who were asleep, were showered with plaster and glass, but escaped without serious injury.

Strupple is employed in cultivating the surface holdings of the Pittsburg & Buffalo Coal company. A number of miners who occupied the other half of the house were absent when the charge of dynamite was set off.

HEARST NOT OPEN TO NOMINATION

New York, Sept. 28.—In a cablegram received in this city from Paris today William Randolph Hearst announced that he would not be willing to accept a minor nomination on the Republican ticket. Mr. Hearst, the dispatch says, when asked if a statement he recently made on the New York political situation could be interpreted to mean that he would accept such a nomination, replied:

"Certainly not. I am an independence leaguer. I would do anything to help the league, but I would not accept any nomination, large or small, on the Republican ticket."

STATE'S RIGHTS MEN ARE LOSING

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 28.—Realizing that there is no possibility of getting the eighteenth national irrigation congress to indorse state's rights in water distribution, the Colorado delegation will endeavor to prevent presentation to the convention of resolutions commending federal control of interstate waters.

Interest today turned largely to the meeting of the resolutions committee, where the policy of the congress for the coming year is being formulated. Present indications are that Colorado will not only lose its fight in behalf of state's rights, but that the committee will report for a strong indorsement of federal control.

The morning session was devoted to a discussion of "water equity" in its various phases.

CHICAGO MAN IS HELD AS UXORICIDE

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Carl A. Badsing, a young confectioner of this city, was arraigned today on a charge of murdering his second wife, Mabel Reid Badsing, and the case was continued to await the coroner's report, also to enable the police to continue their investigation of the death of the prisoner's first wife, Mary McConnell Badsing.

Prof. Walter S. Haines has reported to the police that he found arsenic in the body of the second wife. The body of the first Mrs. Badsing was exhumed yesterday and is being examined for possible traces of poison.

Bad for Forests.

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 28.—An unusual petition, claiming that the lowering of freight rates on timber would be inimical to the conservation of forests in Louisiana, was filed with the railroad commission here yesterday. The petition comes from the Winfield-Louisiana board of trade.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Jaques Campaign Committemen at Large Are Named and Good News Comes to Democratic Congressional Managers—Ex-Senator Gausewitz Talks of the Situation in the State. Dr. Watkins, Socialist, to Make a Real Fight for Votes for Congress—Emmel Opposes Ahmann as Independent

That the managers of Judge Alfred Jaques' campaign for election to congress from the Eighth congressional district on the Democratic ticket are not letting the grass grow under their feet is demonstrated by the fact that the campaign committee is right on the job. The committee at large, which Charles J. Hector was authorized by the committee at its meeting Sept. 22 to appoint, has been named. Its personnel is as follows:

Jaques Campaigners Are Busy.

A. C. Weiss, Duluth.
Mayor M. B. Cullum, Duluth.
E. A. Tessman, Duluth.
A. N. Thompson, Virginia.
J. B Connors, Hibbing.
J. A. Robb, Eveleth.
J. L. Murphy, Tower.

This committee at large will work in conjunction with and supplementary to the congressional campaign committee, composed of the following:

Anoka county—William A. Blanchard of Anoka.
Aitkin—Freeman E. Krech of Aitkin.
Carlton—E. S. Schiebe of Cloquet.
Cook—Thomas I. Carter of Grand Marais.
Isanti—A. P. Yngve of Cambridge.
Itasca—William Houlihan of Grand Rapids.
Kanabec—Thomas B. Vickery of Mora.
Koochiching—Duncan T. McPhee of International Falls.
Lake—John Dwan of Two Harbors.
Mille Lacs—A. M. Anderson of Mille Lacs.
Pine—Paul Perkins of Pine City.
St. Louis—Andrew Nelson of Duluth.

Encouraging reports continue to come in from all parts of the district, some of them so startlingly indicative of the trend of sentiment against the Republican candidate for re-election that the Jaques managers have been slow to give them credence. Investigation has revealed in each instance, however, that the reports are accurate in every particular.

Naturally, these developments are not being bruited about at this stage of the game, but that the Miller camp will experience the sensation of being thrown into consternation daily seems to be an assured thing.

Former State Senator William Gausewitz of Owatonna, who represented Steele county in the upper house of the legislature in 1899 and 1901, was in Duluth yesterday on a business trip. He is a member of the Democratic state central committee and was present at the committee meeting when James Gray was named as the party's nominee for governor, after John Lind had refused to make the run. Senator Gausewitz demonstrated his friendly feeling toward Northern Minnesota in the most effective way at the time of the tonnage tax fight. He is influential in the councils of the Minnesota Democracy and he exerted that influence to good purpose when the crisis was reached in that fight.

Senator Gausewitz Visits Head of the Lakes.

"I must say that I am very much pleased with conditions here in Duluth," said the senator. "Ever since 1886, when I attended a druggists' convention here, I have been making regular visits to the city, and it looks to me that you have a very solid foundation for the most rapid growth. There are things of a commercial and industrial nature here in Duluth that cannot but make a Duluthian proud of his home city."

Speaking of politics, Mr. Gausewitz remarked that he saw Mr. Gray at St. Paul Monday and had a long talk with him about the situation.

"I have no hesitancy in saying that I believe Mr. Gray's chances of election are the very best," he said. "He is an ideal candidate and will make an ideal governor. When the people of the state come to know him, his strength will be great and I confidently look forward to his success at the polls."

Mr. Gausewitz's home is in the First congressional district, where James A. Tawney was defeated as a candidate for the Republican nomination by Sidney A Anderson.

"The situation in the First is favorable to the election of Judge Buck of Winona," said the senator. "Mr. Buck is known throughout the district as a man of ability and wide experience, while his opponent is an unknown quantity.

"In our senatorial district we had a rather strenuous contest for the Democratic nomination, Senator Cashman being opposed by P. J. Thon. Mr. Cashman won by an overwhelming majority. The distance tariff measure fathered by Senator Cashman was the most talked of issue in the fight."

Mr. Gausewitz went from Duluth to Hill City, where he is interested in lands. He is secretary-treasurer of the Washington Tool company of Owatonna and it was on business for that firm that he came to Duluth.

Dr. O. S. Watkins of Duluth, Socialist (Public Ownership) candidate for representative in congress from the Eighth Minnesota district, is going to make a real fight for votes. As plain Dr. Watkins he really doesn't expect to be elected, but as Socialist Watkins he sees a possibility that such will be the amazing outcome of the contest. In Dr. Watkins' opinion, his votes will come from the ranks of the Republicans, rather than from those of the Democrats, because most of the recruits to the cause of Socialism are deserters from the Republican horde.

Socialist Sees Possibility.

The slogan "To the victor belong the spoils" will be the issue, as Watkins will present it to the voters throughout the district. This sentiment, in his view, is the actuating and animating principle of both the Republican and the Democratic parties, and the Socialists purpose to persuade the voters to see the inhumanity of a system of government based on such a sentiment.

"We are going to make an active campaign right here, where the votes are," said Dr. Watkins today, "and I am going right after the votes all over the district. There will be something stirring, for I will not make a gum-shoe campaign, but will go out in the district and tell the people what I stand for and why. The idea is to 'let the voice of the people be heard' and a good supplement to that is 'Vox populi vox dei est.'

"Consider the situation for a moment. Two years ago Mr. Hollilday, the Socialist candidate for congress, did not make a campaign; indeed, he didn't make a move outside his own house toward getting votes. But nevertheless he polled a total of 6,392 in the district. With the socialist candidate active in the field and urging his cause upon the people, it would not be impossible to double that vote. And if the election is close, with the three candidates in the field, 13,000 votes is likely to elect one of them. I don't say that it will be close, but it may be. In that event there is nothing to militate against the chances of the Socialist candidate for success."

Speaking of the result in the First congressional district primaries, Dr. Watkins expressed delight, saying: "The defeat of Tawney pleased me very much. It seems to me that his complaint that he was beaten by the Democrats isn't well founded. An examination of the figures will show that the Democratic vote was just about the same this year as it was two years ago. Yes, the defeat of Tawney pleases me more than the finding of a nickle would do."

Score one for Charles W. in the Bouck feud in Morrison county. Ira W. Bouck, his brother and neighbor in Royalton, who was a member of the lower house in the legislature for three terms, from 1903 to 1907, was defeated in the primaries as a candidate for the Republican nomination for representative, and Charles W. easily captured the honor. That was an interesting fight. There were five candidates for the two seats apportioned the district, those beside the brothers being L. D. Brown, a member two years ago, E. A. Kling and M. N. Young. C. W. Bouck was the first man with a long lead and Kling and Brown were very close, the latter winning by one vote.

Another Bouck In the Legislature.

For a good many years there has been spirited rivalry between Charles and Ira for legislative honors. They live within a stone's throw of each other in Royalton and are the best of neighbors, but when the scent of political battle gets into their nostrils, it's all off and they go to it. Three times running Ira put it all over Charles, but he didn't mind and just bided his time, which was a week ago yesterday.

Kling aspired to speakership of the house.

Henry J. Emmel of Melrose, Stearns county, has announced that he is an independent candidate for state senator from the Fifty-fourth district, which consists of Stearns county with the exception of the city of St. Cloud and the towns of St. Cloud and Le Sauk. Mr. Emmel, who was a member of the house two years ago, is a Democrat, and so is Senator John J. Ahmann, who was renominated after a three-cornered fight, the other candidates being Joseph Friedman, for several sessions a house member, and J. Donohue. Ahmann had a plurality of 292, Donohue running second.

Emmel Flies As As Independent.

This contest is likely to be a pretty lively one, as the two contenders are both good men, with good legislative records, and each has a strong following. Melrose and Torah are about equally distant from the center of the district, Melrose to the northwest and Torah to the southwest, in a densely populated rural territory. Senator Ahmann and Messrs. Donohue and Friedmann pledged each other to support the winner at the primaries, and this week all the Democratic candidates for county offices met and pledged each other to give no aid and comfort to any man who might file as a candidate for county office. The result probably will be that the senatorial scrap will be the only one to be fought within the Democratic ranks in Stearns county.

The legislative candidates are in on this deal.

CITY DADS IN BATTLE ROYAL

Duluth and Superior Aldermen Playing Deciding Ball Game.

The Duluth and Superior aldermen are engaged in a battle royal at the ball grounds this afternoon. They are playing the third of a series of games, with one scalp to the credit of each. Last year the city dads across the bay trimmed the local legislators and this summer the Duluth aldermen ran away from them. The game this afternoon decides the championship and both have declared that they are going to win if they have to go to extremes to do so. Following the game the visitors will be taken around the boulevard, after which dinner will be served at the Lenox hotel.

LABORER ASKS BIG DAMAGES

Matt Jarvi Wants $25,000 From the Oliver Iron Mining Company.

Matt Jarvi is trying to recover $25,000 from the Oliver Iron Mining company for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he was hit by a piece of frozen earth that was blasted near the Adams mine, Eveleth. The case is on before Judge Ensign.

He claims that he was in the employ of the concern at the time of the accident. He states in the complaint that a crew of men was employed in "bull dozing." The term is applied to the blasting method of breaking up chunks of dirt that are too heavy to be raised.

Jarvi claims that he was not warned. The frozen chunk hit him on the arm. He claims that the arm has since become useless.

MARINE

WANT SHIPS FOR STORAGE

Grain Elevators on Lower Lakes Are Filling Up.

While the movement of grain to the Head of the Lakes has been light the present season, compared with the season of 1909, vessel men here look for a fairly good demand for vessels during the next few weeks, if for storage capacity alone.

There is little or no demand for export wheat at the present time, and from the lower lake ports, comes the report that the elevators at Buffalo are rapidly filling, and vessel storage capacity may be needed in the near future.

It is believed that the boats that are not used this fall in the grain business, will be retired at a very early date. Practically all the ore for the present season will be taken care of by the contract vessels. Though more ore is going down the lakes at the present time than ever before in the history of ore traffic, independent boats cannot find cargoes.

Some of the boats that have been in retirement since the middle of the season, may be fitted out for the grain trade. The Sonora of the G. A. Tomlinson fleet is being fitted out here for the grain business, the vessel having been in dockage for the past month.

From Cleveland comes the statement that it looks as if a number of wild carriers will load grain for storage early and will be out of the market for the remainder of the season.

With so little business as there is in sight at the present time, the owners of boats are glad to get any charters.

INDEPENDENTS GET FEW COAL CARGOES.

Independent vessel men at the Head of the Lakes state that though there is a large amount of coal coming here, most of the coal is going to contract vessels and there are few orders for the independent vessels.

The big rush of coal is expected next month when the docks at the Head of the Lakes are somewhat cleared of the congestion. At the present time coal is moving steadily to the country.

DAMAGED VESSELS IN DRY DOCKS ON LAKES.

At the present time the dry docks of the Great Lakes are very busy with boats that have been damaged in collisions. The yards at Ecorse are the busiest at the present time. The steamer D. R. Hanna, damaged slightly in a collision Saturday evening in the St. Clair river, will come to Duluth, discharge her coal cargo and go to the Superior shipyards for repairs.

The Lakeland and Clifford C. Mull are both undergoing repairs at the Ecorse yards.

BIDS TO BE OPENED FOR BIG CONTRACT.

Tomorrow noon bids will be opened at the Duluth United States engineer's office for the building of an addition to the breakwater at the Marquette harbor. The job will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000, according to the estimates of the army engineers.

The day after tomorrow bids will be opened here for the $250,000 job at the Duluth and Superior harbor. This is one of the biggest jobs of the Great Lakes for the present season, and there are a large number of concerns after the work.

Happy This Day for Lovely Women

(New York Fashion Letter.)

"In former times these were trying days, when the weekly shampoo meant tedious hours for drying the hair, danger of catching cold, dull headaches from heavy and soggy hair, and worry that accompanied knowing that too much moisture was bad for the hair, making it dull, coarse, dry and brittle.

"But these are happy days when women know the pleasure and satisfaction that follows dry shampooing. Yes, dry shampooing is the right idea —but don't depend upon powdered orris root alone. A perfect shampoo powder is made by mixing four ounces of therox with four ounces of orris root. Keep the mixture in a sifter-top can, so that you can sprinkle evenly upon the head. Brush thoroughly through the hair and you will have a clean scalp and beautiful, lustrous hair, so light and fluffy that dressing it is genuine joy. Therox tones up the scalp and keeps the hair healthy and growing."

It is said that she was formerly the wife of Frank Carter of Duluth, who is now in Oklahoma in the show business. Little is known of her here.

NEBRASKA CAMPAIGN

Malaprop would be justified in describing as "a fine derangement of epitaphs."

What makes the situation in Nebraska particularly complicated this year is the doubt as to the effect on politics of the liquor question, and of the honorable W. J. Bryan. People are puzzled about both. Let us consider the liquor question first.

County Option the Issue.

The fight in the state is over a county option law. Probably two-thirds of the Republicans favor such a law; certainly as shown by the action at the primaries and in convention two-thirds of the Democrats oppose it. Its strongest partisan on the Democratic side is Mr. Bryan, whose well known temperance principles seem to be gradually progressing toward the point of prohibition. The Republicans in their convention for the declaration of principles urged the county option law practically without contest. In the Democratic convention three factions struggled with the question, one led by Mr. Bryan, who insisted upon a declaration in favor of such a law; a second by Mayor "Jim" Dahlman, who favored a declaration demanding its denunciation, and a third by Congressman Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who favored the middle course of saying nothing whatsoever about it. In the end the Hitchcock plan was adopted. Dahlman has been nominated for governor after a bitter struggle with the present Governor Shallenberger, who was more moderate on the liquor question, while Hitchcock is the regular party nominee for United States senator. The Bryan faction, the extreme drys, as it is put, are practically without recognition and Bryan and his associate editor have bolted.

So there is a peculiar situation of the Democratic party having for its candidate for governor a man who, if he does not believe in absolute repeal of the present restrictive liquor laws, certainly does hold that they should not be extended, while for United States senator the Democratic candidate is one who is willing to stand on the situation as it now exists. The Republican candidates are committed entirely to county option. It might be noted here that Nebraska already has an excellent local option law for political units less than a county, beside a very curious early closing law not paralleled in any other state of the Union.

Party Lines Broken.

The main problem affecting the outcome is how many Republican wets will come over to the Democratic ticket and how many Democratic drys will come over to the Republican ticket. The Populists, who maintain an organization, are no longer numerically strong, have put no candidate for governor in the field and their vote is likely to be split between the two candidates.

Here in Omaha is a great body of foreign working men, controlling practically two congressional districts and who have been accustomed heretofore to cast their votes for the Republican ticket. It is confidently believed by the Democrats, and sadly admitted by the Republicans, that this vote on the single issue of county option will go en masse to the Democrats. It will go ever more strongly to Dahlman than it will to Hitchcock, although as in this state the senator is voted for on the general ballot and people of this class are not accustomed to scratching, this gain won by the Dahlman position will probably accrue as well to the Hitchcock candidacy. On the other hand there are an immense number of Republicans who approve of Hitchcock's position on public questions and who do not disapprove of his moderate position on the liquor question. They are likely to cast their votes for Hitchcock, but almost certain to scratch Dahlman.

Mr. Bryan's Bolt.

Mr. Bryan has greatly complicated the situation by his recent announcement, which, having been sent out by the Associated Press, is no doubt already familiar to newspaper readers. He declares that he cannot support Dahlman because of his position on the liquor question, but that when he returns from the stumping tour he is now making in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Indiana and Illinois, he will take the opportunity to make some speeches in favor of Hitchcock.

A friend of Mr. Dahlman's remarked on this subject that this was a curious position for the former leader in the state to take. Democrats in Missouri have a county option law, but it exempts cities of a certain population from its operation; Democrats in Indiana are fighting against county option; Democrats in Iowa are standing for more liberal liquor legislation. Yet for all these state organizations Mr. Bryan will speak and in eulogizing their candidates, must support their position. In Nebraska he turns down a life time friend who accepts the very principles which in other states he himself must applaud. It is fair to say that this point has just been raised and that I have been unable to get Mr. Bryan's explanation of his attitude.

Democrats Against County Option.

As to the position of the Democrats of the state on the liquor question there is no possible room to doubt. Mr. Bryan's editor, employed there by him on the Commoner, Richard Metcalfe, was put by Bryan into the senatorial campaign to oppose Gilbert M. Hitchcock. He was put forward purely on the local option issue, was recognized as the Bryan entry and was backed by the Bryan influence, eloquence and organization. Nevertheless in the popular vote in the primaries he was defeated by almost three to one; and a significant point in this contest was that Hitchcock beat Metcalfe even in the so-called "dry" counties. This expression of Democratic opinion was made even more specific when the convention met and adopted a platform after a two hours and forty minute speech in opposition by the leader.

tack to the charges of Republican misrule and corruption.

A similar claim is made by the backers of Congressman James S. Havens.

There was decidedly more discussion today of the availability of Edward M. Shepard. It was said the New York attorney has refrained from pushing his candidacy only because he agreed that Mayor Gaynor should head the ticket.

"Watch Shepard," said one of the Tammany men today.

Prospective Platform.

The most important planks in the platform will have to do with direct nominations, tariff reform and denunciation of "Rooseveltism," or the "new nationalism." It looks as if the Democratic platform builders were determined to go the Republican carpenters one better so far as the direct nominations is concerned. Forecasts of the platform declare the direct nominations clause will be radical.

The state committee meets this evening. One of the changes it will recommend to the convention is the increase of its own membership by making the basis of representation the assembly, instead of the senatorial districts, raising the membership to 150 instead of 51.

Letter to Creelman.

New York, Sept. 28.—The elimination of Mayor Gaynor from the possibility of Democratic nomination for governor came through the following letter to James Creelman of New York, who made it public because he became convinced that nothing but this action would prevent Mr. Gaynor's nomination by the Democratic state convention. The letter follows:

"St. James, Sept. 26, 1910.—Dear Mr. Creelman: I am this day writing a letter to Chairman Dix, stating that I am not a candidate for nomination for governor, and refuse to become such. I do this to remove all doubt on the subject which may have arisen by reason of irresponsible statements which I am informed, are being circulated. No utterance of mine has put the matter in doubt.

Gaynor Would Not Accept.

"Some have said to me that the convention may nominate me although I am not a candidate. It seems to me that it might appear vain or egotistical for me to assume in my letter to Mr. Dix that that extraordinary thing might happen. I therefore write this supplemental letter to you to take to Rochester and show there so as to prevent my nomination if it should appear to be imminent.

"Make it plain that if nominated I would decline to accept. I could not abandon to their fate the splendid men whom I have appointed to office, and who are working so hard for good government, nor could I abandon the people of the city of New York after so short a service. You may make this letter public in advance of going to Rochester if in your judgment you think the situation calls for it. But do not do so unless it be plainly necessary. Every honest man will understand me. Sincerely yours,

"W. J. GAYNOR."

DULUTH MEN TAKE OVER LEASE ON SPALDING HOTEL

EDWIN H. LEE,
Manager and Now Part Owner of the Spalding Hotel.

The Spalding hotel has changed hands, G. A. Tomlinson, Edwin H. Lee and associates taking over the lease from the control of the Perry-Rigby Hotel company, which has been represented here by the senior member of the firm, E. O. Perry. In speaking of the deal, Mr. Tomlinson said:

"My associates and myself have financed the lease of the Spalding in a desire that the control of the property shall be in Duluth. The Spalding has been my home for seventeen years and I have a personal interest in improving the quality of the hotel operation. Mr. E. H. Lee will manage the hotel and will ultimately come into control of the lease."

The new management of the Spalding will spend thousands of dollars in refurnishing and improving the hotel, with the object of making it one of the most inviting and most-talked about hotels in the country. Not alone will the furnishings and equipment be improved, but better service in every department is contemplated and will be provided.

Mr. Perry has been in Duluth since early this year and has made many friends in the city. He will go from here to Springfield, Ill., where the Perry-Rigby company is building a fine nine-story brick and stone hotel, the New Leland. Mr. Perry will have charge of this property, which soon will be ready for operation.

Mr. Lee, who is now manager and will continue in that capacity with increased powers and authority, is one of the best known hotel men in this part of the country and is deservedly looked upon as one of the best equipped men in his business. He has been a resident of Duluth for several years and has built up a clientele that speaks well for him as a citizen and business man.

WHITE ON THE STAND AGAIN

except from the newspaper which published it.

"I sent the manuscript to the Doubleday-Page company and told them I would expect my expenses."

White then admitted that his statement in his letter to Senator Lorimer, that he had been offered $2.50 a word for his 30,000 words manuscript, was untrue

Not All Published.

The witness then said that about a fourth of his manuscript was published in the newspaper. He added that he did not know anybody in the legislature who would corroborate by confession anything in his story. He also said he knew from what legislators had said to him that there was corruption in the legislature. This part of his answer was excluded by Chairman Burrows.

White then told of going to State's Attorney John E. Wayman of Cook county at the suggestion of the newspaper which published the story and of telling what he knew about the alleged corruption in the legislature.

State Senator D. W. Holstlaw of Iuka, Ill., it was announced, would be called to testify before Representative H. J. C. Beckemeyer.

Holstlaw is credited with having confessed to the Sangamon county grand jury that he received $2,500 for voting for Senator Lorimer, but his story has not been told in any court. His testimony was awaited with interest.

THOMPSON'S ROTURBINE ENGINE

Owned by the International Roturbine Engine Co. of America.

DESCRIPTION:

Figure 1 is a vertical sectional view taken on a line with the shaft (8), (1) is a outer cylindrical casing. Arranged in the outer casing (1) is a stationary shaft (8) in which is formed a crank (13), one end of shaft (8)) is tubular and its outer end is connected to steam supply whereby steam is admitted to cylinders from space (19) through steam chest (17). Revolubly mounted on shaft (8) is an inner casing (2) which is rectangular in form and provided on its opposite ends with tubular extensions or hubs (21) which project through, and are revolubly mounted on bearings (23) formed on the opposite sides of outer casing (1) on the end of extended hub (21) is fixedly mounted a drive wheel (12). Secured to the opposite sides of inner casing (2) is a series of cylinders (4, 5 and 6) are shown there is another cylinder directly opposite (5); the cylinders are arranged in pairs directly opposite each other. In each cylinder are piston heads (18) which are connected by piston rods (7) to links (11), which are slidably engaged to links (14) arranged on inner side of casing (2). Steam enters through hollow end of shaft (8) and fills space (19) and passes into steam chest (17) and is there cut off and expanded in the cylinders and when the exhaust escapes from the exhaust outlet (H) it is converted into POWER. Now we go farther than that. We have alternately arranged BLADES on the Casing (1) and cylinders, so arranged that when the exhaust escapes from the outlet (B) it strikes a stationary blade (X) and is diverted to moving blades (XX), which are mounted on Cylinders. Therefore it is plain to see that we have A HIGH-CLASS AUTOMATIC ENGINE which has NO RECIPROCATING PARTS and a LOW PRESSURE TURBINE ALL IN ONE UNIT.

Come and see the Demonstration every afternoon and evening.

A Twenty-Five Horse Power Engine

of the Roturbine type occupies a space 12x24 inches. For speed, endurance, economy and small space, the Roturbine stands in a class by itself. EVERY TWENTY CENTS buys a share of stock which will in a short time sell at par, $1.00 per share.

"THE BOYS OF COMPANY B"

Pierce Players Give Good Performance of Light Comedy.

"The Boys of Company B," a light, inconsequential mixture of humor and delicate satire, compounded by Rida Johnson Young, who has written better plays since she turned off the foregoing and "Brown of Harvard," was well presented last night by the Pierce Players at the Lyceum.

Miss Young hauls the militia-enamored youth into the spotlight and permits the audience to laugh at his youthful shortcomings, his romantic conception of military life, his hope for romance and the opportunity to perform brave deeds for various ladies fair.

"The Boys of Company B" is almost barren of character parts and the play needs resourceful actors. In the hands of the Pierce Players it is made the most of, and the capable people provide an evening of very pleasant entertainment.

In Miss Young's earlier works the characters are mostly young people. In "The Boys of Company B" the girls are just out of boarding school and the stalwart young men are not yet burdened with the high cost of living. The boys of Company B do not do any fighting, but they are prepared to sally forth and slay the enemy if necessary. The play abounds in humorous situations and provides a clear and enjoyable entertainment.

William Dossey has an amusing part and he makes the most of it, developing situations and fun even where the possibilities are exceedingly slim. Frederick Monley had a good character part as an old man. Joseph Kemper was satisfactory as a youth with the nickname of "Beauty."

Miss Blanche Douglas was an American society woman and Miss Alice Mason was a lisping maiden who did not shrink from masculine attention. Miss Marshall and Miss Bonsall handled their parts well. The play will be repeated tonight and a matinee was given today. "The Prisoner of Zenda" will be given tomorrow night, Friday and Saturday afternoon, followed by "The Soldiers of Fortune."

"Jolly Fanny" Rice.

"Jolly Fanny" Rice, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, has an act that is different from anything ever seen here. Many vaudeville performers have acts composed of imitations or impersonations; many have miniature stages and little figures or marionettes, but Miss Rice uses a miniature stage and grotesque little marionettes, and allows her own face to serve as the face of the performer. Her facial expressions and the queer little dances of the figures, are extremely funny.

Miss Rice is one of the best known vaudeville performers in America, and is even better known among "the profession" than to the audiences. No more popular actress ever traveled over the circuit. Managers find her a joy and a delight, for she never kicks on the dressing room, her position on the bill, or the advertising she gets, and is always ready to do more than her share if necessary. She has apparently lived up to her name, "Jolly Fanny" Rice.

DeWolf Hopper Coming.

De Wolf Hopper is coming next week. This announcement was made today by Manager Harry Pierce of the Lyceum, who states that Mr. Hopper will be seen here for the first time in two years, appearing in his most recent New York success, "A Matinee Idol," supported by Miss Louisa Dresser and the original New York company intact.

Alpine Entertainers.

One of the big hits at the Bijou this week are the four Hirschhorns, Alpine entertainers. They carry a beautiful stage setting representing a morning scene in the Alps. All four are excellent singers, and the yodeling song by Miss Hirschhorn and the zither selections by George Hirschhorn are exceptionally good, each being forced to respond to several encores at every performance.

This act is well worth seeing and should not be missed by lovers of good singing and music.

Germain the Wizard.

If Germain, the wizard, who will be seen at the Lyceum next week, had lived in the Middle Ages they would not have paid to see him practice his deceptions and vainly tried to detect his methods; they would have put a bridle on his tongue, tied up his dexterous thumbs and toes, then flung him into a mill pond for not telling them what had become of the rabbit after he had thrown it at the ceiling, and finally they would have burnt him alive at the stake and laid the curse of the holy church upon his remains. But all this would not have brought the Middle Ages nearer a solution of his mysteries than the modern audiences get.

FAIR

The clouds cleared away last night, the stars twinkled in a beautiful clear sky and the air was crisp and cool. This morning dawned with the sun shining brightly out of a cloudless sky, and Indian summer has come with all its beauty—the greatest beauty that the weather man gives to Duluth in his product through the whole year. Continued fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:03 and it will set at 5:54, giving eleven hours and fifty-one minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Somewhat cooler weather prevails in the eastern lake region and over the Ohio and lower Mississippi valleys, in connection with a high pressure condition that has moved its center from Kansas to the Ohio valley. A disturbance central over Alberta is causing warmer weather throughout most of the West and Northwest. The easterly movement of the depression central yesterday morning over Eastern Ontario was attended by rain in Eastern Canada and North Atlantic states during the last twenty-four hours. A continuance of fine weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours.

SON IS BORN TO NOTED MISSIONARY

Arrival of Wilfred T. Grenfell, Jr., in Newfoundland Announced.

Boston, Sept. 28.—The birth of a son to Mrs. Wilfrid T. Grenfell, wife of the famous medical missionary of the Labrador coast, is announced in a cablegram received in the city today from Dr. Grenfell at St. Anthony, Northern Newfoundland. The boy, who has been named Wilfred T. Grenfell, Jr., was born Sept. 25. Mrs. Grenfell, previous to her marriage, was Miss Anna MacClanahan of Chicago.

PREPARE FOR CAMPAIGN

Plan of Raising Funds for New Bethel Outlined to Workers.

To Be on First Street Between Fifth and Seventh Avenues.

At a dinner given at the Commercial club last night to the men who are to assist in the campaign for funds for the new Bethel, many facts in regard to the old Bethel, the work done in it and the aims and purposes of the society in the future, were outlined. Plans were discussed and such enthusiasm was aroused that the coming campaign promises to surprise in vigor and results, any that has ever been held in the city.

The new Bethel will be built on First street between Fifth and Seventh avenues west, it was announced last night. It will cost about $100,000, will be six stories high and will be self-supporting.

Rev. J. T. Moody, superintendent of the Bethel, told of the work of the society in the old building and the purpose to carry on the work in the new building on a greater scale. He laid stress on the practical side of the work, saying that it was charity only, in the sense that the society seeks its profits in manhood and is content to break even financially. He said the new building will accommodate 500 men and seventy-five women and will forever be self-supporting. He went into detail as to the sanitary features of the new building.

Phil Bevis, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., told of the campaigns of the Y. M. C. A and Y. W. C. A. for building funds and expressed the sympathy of the Y. M. C. A. with the work of the Bethel.

C. S. Mitchell said that a new Bethel would do far more for Duluth than a new jail. He said the Bethel is the greatest agency the city has for keeping men of a certain class out of jail and he urged the giving of funds for the new building as an economic proposition—a saving of taxes.

L. A. Marvin, L. C. Harris and Dr. C. W. Taylor were among the other speakers. Andrew Nelson was toastmaster.

The plans of the campaign were thoroughly outlined last evening. The campaign headquarters were opened today at 21 Fourth avenue west in the Commercial building and the workers will get their lists and literature there during the next few days to prepare for the campaign.

Brewmasters Elect.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—The United States Brewmasters' association elected the following officers: President, Charles F. Russert, Boston; first vice president, Otto Rosenbusch, Detroit; second vice president, Louis Suess, Chicago; secretary, George Graebner, Chicago, and treasurer, Fritz Schoeller, Chicago. Chicago was chosen for the place of meeting next year.

DUCKS ARE NOW FLYING SOUTH

Bluebills and Redheads Are Being Killed Near Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Duck hunting parties are beginning to move to the duck passes along the Duluth line. The first left last evening for Bagley, consisting of Wylie Phillips, Adolph F. Rauch, W. E. Rowe, E. C. Erickson and J. N. Kirsch. Bluebills and redheads have been killed here already, showing that the southern flight has started as both these varieties breed in Canada and their appearance is evidence that the shooting of ducks is at hand. Thus far no geese have been seen in any quantities. The chicken shooting still continues, and every day good bags are brought in. The birds, however, are getting wilder and the decoys are badly shot up. The remnants are beginning to flock and many flocks of fifty and 100 birds are seen. When they bunch to that extent they are too wild for any sport.

A KEYNOTE THAT RINGS TRUE.

James Gray, Democratic candidate for governor of Minnesota, successor of John Lind and John A. Johnson at the head of the Democratic ticket, made the opening speech of his campaign at Fergus Falls last evening, and his address is printed in full in The Herald tonight. To those who wish their state well, to those who wish to gain a full knowledge of candidates and issues before determining how their votes shall be cast Nov. 8, we unhesitatingly commend this speech for a thorough and thoughtful reading.

There is character in it, there is manhood in it, there is courage and determination in it. James Gray's policy in approaching a public issue stands out sharply in contrast with that of the practiced politician. The practiced politician studies how to evade it if it be dangerous, how to avoid it if it be embarrassing. James Gray grasps it boldly and manfully, and says what he thinks about it. That feature, we believe, will be found the most striking characteristic in this speech.

This is what is commonly called a "key note" speech. In such a speech a candidate usually sounds the note of his campaign, and his followers are expected to put themselves in tune with it. In this "key note" speech James Gray sounds a note to which the hearts of the people already are attuned—the note of government by and for the people.

In a campaign where the issue must be between government by and for the people and government by a horde of corporation retainers for the vested interests, James Gray has struck the right note, and one that is so thoroughly in harmony with the needs and aspirations of the people that it will ring clearly above the confusions of the campaign from now until election day. Hear him:

> Roosevelt restored the rights of the people. The revolution which he began has gone so far that I am persuaded that neither height nor depth nor any creature shall ever again separate the people of America from those rights. The line of bosses which threatened to stretch out like Banquo's descendant "to the crack of doom" has been broken. The men who substituted the previous question for the open debate, the back office for the free assembly, the corridor whisper for the open appeal, who in short pulled down the blinds on the people's business, have received their notice to quit. They have been routed out of their stalls, scourged from the temple, their money boxes overturned, their jeer of triumph turned to gasping dismay. Before them the people of America lift up their heads and "sing a new song unto the Lord."

"Jim" Gray isn't the man to begin a campaign—or to finish one—by hurling abuse at his opponent. Yet there is an issue in this campaign that must be faced. How could that issue have been stated more delicately and yet more effectively than in the following words from his speech:

> In the repeated elections of John A. Johnson we saw enacted on the smaller stage of Minnesota exactly the same drama that Roosevelt enacted in the nation. Under his great administrations, the people once more ruled. DO YOU THINK THEY WILL TAMELY GIVE UP THEIR NEW-FOUND RIGHTS? DO YOU THINK THEY WILL RESTORE STANDPATTERS TO POWER IN THE CAPITOL WHILE THEY ARE HURLING STANDPATTERS OUT OF CONGRESS? The thing does not sound reasonable.

The man who now occupies the governor's chair was placed there by the deplorable accident of a great man's death. He has dragged into the capitol with him, and carries into the campaign with him, a council of servants of selfish interests headed by the man who bossed the senate as the bell wether of the corporations. The issue is whether the people wish their magnificent state capitol filled with such a crew, and the honor of their state sullied by such policies as that crew will devise, or whether they will elect to the governorship the man who declares anew the cherished old doctrine of a government of the people, by the people, for the people, and whose words bear so unmistakably the stamp of truth and sincerity.

James Gray's declaration that if elected it will be his honest ambition to walk in the path blazed by John Lind and made glorious by John A. Johnson does him credit. He makes it as no servile imitator, but as a man big enough to acknowledge high leadership and brave enough to follow the guideposts those splendid leaders have placed along the path of good government.

* * * *

On the detailed issues of the campaign Mr. Gray's views are sharply defined and clearly expressed. National issues are unavoidable in a campaign year when the people are so vitally concerned in them, and on the tariff and kindred issues he speaks vigorously. He echoes the Democratic state platform's condemnation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill as a "base and cynical deception," he exposes the farcical nature of the impotent "tariff commission" produced by the Republican party, and declares for a real tariff commission that will report real facts to congress, and for a congress that will act justly upon those facts. He derides the statement of "a certain rich man" who declares that it is not the high cost of living but the cost of high living which ails us. He approves the true insurgents—twenty-nine in number—who helped the Democrats fight the people's battle in congress, but he asks the people not to forget the 187 Democrats without whose votes these real insurgents—Minnesota furnished but two of these, Davis and Lindbergh,—could do nothing. He demands the direct election of United States senators by the people. He demands the application of the principal of direct legislation through the initiative and the referendum.

On issues peculiar to the state he is as clear and as emphatic. He is for the legislation reapportionment that Northern Minnesota demands, and he is for it now, and not at some future time. As to county option, which Governor Eberhart dodged, he is openly and couragcously for it, though this issue, on which honest men differ, concerns chiefly the legislature, and no governor would veto a county option measure if the legislature passes it. He believes that the burden of the risks of employment should be placed on the employer, and not on the dependent workers. On railroad regulation he is particularly emphatic and outspoken, and he condemns in unmeasured term the recent decision apparently depriving the state of the right to regulate rates within its borders. "It is unreasonable," he says, "to propose that the state can create a corporation and lose its control of its creature, and if elected governor I shall use every constitutional prerogative to protect and defend Minnesota's sovereign powers in this respect." He believes the primary law should be extended to cover the nomination of state officers. He approves agricultural education and pledges himself to the development of the rural schools. On the question of good roads he is advanced and aggressive. He advocates the creation of a state department of conservation. He declares himself for the income tax as the most equitable form of taxation.

In short, this is an advanced, aggressive, emphatic and manly declaration of the rights of the people, and a bold and uncompromising pledge to redeem and preserve those rights. It is a credit to the man, as the man is a credit to the party that proposed him for the governorship. It is a sound, well-reasoned and ably expressed discussion of the vital questions of the day, and it should commend itself and the man who made it to the intelligence, the patriotism and the public spirit of every thinking voter in Minnesota.

BULLY!

In Kipling's "Stalkey & Co." there was frequent use of a phrase indicating triumph. "I gloat," said the school boys when they scored a victory.

"I gloat." Colonel Roosevelt might have said last night following his sweeping victory over the unspeakable Sherman and the motley horde of bosses, little and great, that backed him.

Roosevelt made himself temporary chairman of the New York Republican state convention, delivered a key note speech to his own liking, appointed the committees, and generally organized the convention, thus tossing out of the window the aggregation of Teddyphobes and corporation lackeys that opposed him.

It is well to take this victory at its face value, without examining too closely the Colonel's following that made it possible. The people don't have much to do with New York Republican politics, and the Colonel had to work with such tools as came to his hand. So, it is said, there are in his following those who find the wool of progressivism but scant covering for their wolves' hides.

Nevertheless, it was a bully fight, and no doubt the Colonel had a corking time. Now he has a choice collection of scalps, and there is available for anybody in need of such a thing a choice collection of Republican bosses cut of a job.

A TEN-STRIKE FOR LORIMER.

A senatorial committee headed by Burrows of Michigan, recently defeated because of his allegiance to the powers that have corrupted American public life, is investigating the charge that Senator Lorimer of Illinois recently acquired an election to the senate by the help of these same powers—at least by the use of their money.

Chairman Burrows gravely decided yesterday that the committee cannot entertain hear-say evidence.

Now bribery, by its very nature and being, is secret. There are no third parties present when money that buys betrayal is passed. Witnesses to the hideous transaction of bribery are as rare as witnesses to the offense for which divorce is most readily granted.

It is right enough, perhaps, to exclude hear-say evidence from a criminal trial, but a committee seeking the facts will take all the evidence it can get, weigh it according to its value, and decide according to the judgment the evidence creates in the minds of its members.

Query: Is the Lorimer committee seeking the facts, or is it composed of attorneys for the defense?

IT MAKES FOR BETTER SERVICE.

The first fruit of the cabinet session is the announcement that assistant postmasters are to go on the civil service list, which means that they will be appointed and retained for fitness, and not for political reasons.

The assistant postmasters do the real work in the postoffices, and will continue to do it until the postmasters themselves owe their jobs to fitness and not to political pull. Placing them on the civil service list, therefore, is a wise move. Wise, too, is the decision to add second and third class postmasters to the civil service list later. In time it will come about that every employe of the postoffice department, from its responsible head down, will hold his job simply because he is fit to hold it, and not because senators and congressmen have retainers that need jobs. The process works for better service, and it is to be applauded.

CRIMINAL.

Said a local story in The Herald last night: "Today a wholesale dealer in Michigan street hauled the last of more than 1,300 pounds of beef to the dump, rather than dispose of it by reducing the price."

It seems that this man, who is the agent for a large outside concern, couldn't get his price for this beef, so he allowed it to spoil and then sent it to the rubbish heap.

Probably the present statutes of Minnesota provide no penalty for such an offense as this, but it is an offense, moral if not legal, and it should be punished. When meat prices are so high that in most families meat is a luxury, to allow good meat to spoil rather than shade the price is an atrocious offense against society. If there is no punishment for it there should be, and it should be severe.

Fine weather? Yes, and there's lots more of it coming this fall.

The engrossments of the compaign mustn't be allowed to obscure the importance of getting ready for the Brainern meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association.

The state has done wisely in cutting its tax rate so little. The surplus of a million now in the treasury may well be applied toward state development and the building of good roads, rather than toward a temporary cut in the tax rate that could not be maintained.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WILL HAVE NO CHANCE AGAINST GAYNOR

To The Editor of The Herald:

Roosevelt is now temporary chairman of the state convention at Saratoga, with the majority behind him. He is going to write every plank in the Republican platform and select every candidate for office. Thus he is the boss over all the bosses. Roosevelt has promised to fight. He will fight, but—be defeated.

The Republican party in the state of New York is at present in a hopeless condition. It has already been too long in power. There must be a change, and there will be a change. There is no man in the ranks of the party who successfully can stand up against Mayor Gaynor. He will be governor in the state of New York now, and he will not be forgotten when we come to 1912. THOM STENIUS.

AFTER NAMES OF INDIAN WAR VETERANS

To the Editor of The Herald:

We desire to communicate through the columns of your valuable paper, to obtain the names and addresses of those who served in the United States and volunteer service after the Civil war until 1883 against the hostile Indians on the Western frontier, in order that their names and records may be placed on the books of the association so that they may benefit by the act now pending before congress as soon as it becomes a law.

The National Indian War Veterans, an organization with headquarters at 1643 Market street, Denver, Colo., at their last regular meeting, decided to send two delegates, Henry Hegwer, the national commander, and C. R. Hauser, the national secretary, to Washington, D. C., to inaugurate a vigorous campaign for the purpose of procuring pensions for those noble and brave soldiers who defended the frontier in the early days, and who have so far been unjustly neglected by this government, whose great Western empire they so valiantly protected, making it possible for this generation to develop its unlimited resources and live in peace and prosperity. Yours very truly,

HENRY HEGWER,
National Commander, Indian War Veterans, 1428 Elizabeth street, Denver, Colo.
C. R. HAUSER,
National Secretary, 1643 Market street, Denver, Colo.

OUTSIDE DAIRIES NEED ATTENTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am glad to notice that the health department is closely checking up the outside dairies. It is just as important that they be given attention as those inside the city limits, for a big part of Duluth's milk supply comes in by rail each day. If any shippers think that the requirements are too strict, they can either go out of business or stop shipping milk. I am certain that the city is better off without their product. A CONSUMER.

The Very Soul of Modesty.

New York Evening Sun: The good housewife was struggling with the new scrubwoman, a widow and the mother of six. Suggest, command, protest as she might, the backs of the sitting room pictures remained undusted. The widowed mother of six did not refuse to dust them; she simply smiled sadly at the good housewife and continued to flourish her duster in other directions.

At length the good housewife lost patience. "What is the matter with you?" she asked. "Why on earth won't you dust the backs of those pictures?"

The widowed mother of six drew herself up with dignity. "I've polished the fronts," said she.

"It's the backs I want dusted," said the housewife. "They are an inch thick with dust."

"They are that," said the scrubwoman. "When I casts eye on them for the first time I says to myself, says I, better leave well enough alone."

"I took down those pictures myself," says the good housewife, as she tells the tale, "and laid them out in a row, some very good photographs of Greek subjects, and I fetched a pail of warm soapsuds and I left that new scrubwoman gingerly mopping off the objectionable backs. When I returned it was by way of another door. As I crossed the threshold she was holding up over the pail the full length photograph of a Hermes. With a scream she let it drop splash into the pail, overturning it on the new rug and smashing the glass to flinders.

"Oh! dearie me, ma'am! dearie me!" she cried. "I thought you was a man!"

"You thought what?" I demanded.

"Oh, ma'am!" she cried, "I may be a widow and the mother of six, but I wouldn't have had no man catch me dusting that portrait for nothing, ma'am."

Mamma and Her Willie.

Newark News: "Willie."
(No answer.)
"Willie!"
"What!"
"Stop pulling the lace curtains."
"But, ma, I ain't going to hurt them."
"Let them alone, anyway."
(Willie gives the curtains an extra hard tug).
"You contrary boy. Do you want mamma to whip you?"
"Naw."
Then don't put your hands on those curtains again."
"Will if I want to."
"Why, what do you mean by talking to me like that? Go in the bedroom and shut the door. Go right in the bedroom, I say!"
(Willie obeys and proceeds to kick the paint off the door panels).
"Listen to me, you naughty child. I shall certainly get a stick if you don't behave."
(Willie kicks a splinter off the dressing table).
"Do you want to break mamma's heart?"
"Yes."
"Why, Willie!"
(Willie kicks his mother).
"Papa, you will have to fetch the switch, it's on the clock shelf in the kitchen."
(Papa brings the stick. Willie collapses on the floor, howling horribly).
"Hush, Willie! For goodness sake, don't make so much noise. What will the neighbors think?"
(Willie howls as loud as he can).
"Listen, dearie, don't cry. Please don't cry. Mamma doesn't intend to whip you. No, indeed, mamma wouldn't hurt her sweet boy for all the world. Stop, darling, poor little frightened fellow! There, there, now."
"I'm hungry."
"Bless his heart, he says he's hungry. What shall mamma get for you, dear. Some bread and butter with a little honey?"
"No, I want some chocolate."
"We havn't any, Willie. You ate the last this afternoon. Won't an orange do?"
"No."
"How about a nice dish of pineapple with a big piece of sponge cake?"
"I hate pineapple."
"Wouldn't a nice thick piece of mince pie taste good?"
"I say I want chocolates!"
"Then you shall have some, dear, if you won't cry any more. Papa, it seems too bad, to make you go outdoors for the evening, but I guess you'll have to run down to the drug store and buy a pound of sweets for mamma's little starved lamb."

JAMES GRAY.

Frank A. Day in Fairmont Sentinel: The nominee of the Democratic state central committee—a body of more than 100 representative Democrats selected by vote of the respective county conventions—is James Gray of Minneapolis.

Mr. Gray will enter on a vigorous campaign which will cover almost every county in the state. He will be aided by Governor John Lind, who will make at least twenty-five speeches, and every resource of the Democratic party organization in Minnesota will be wielded in behalf of the nominee. Many well-informed men are strong in the belief that victory will follow such a campaign. I share in this feeling. I firmly believe that the people of Minnesota will arise in their might and place James Gray in the governor's chair for the next two years. It is inconceivable that they will continue Adolph O. Eberhart in a position where he will further serve the special interests that have thus far dominated his every official action. It is past belief, that the progressive Republicans of Minnesota will turn the state over to one in closest sympathy and action with that reactionary element in their party that stands for Cannon, Aldrich, Tawney, Stevens and Nye.

James Gray is not unknown to the people of Minnesota. He has not been an active politician. His public services are practically limited to a term as mayor of Minneapolis. He has been, however, a factor in the development of good government ever since he came to the state. His voice and pen have been in effective use in pointing to higher standards of civic virtue. He is one of the best known as well as the best beloved citizens of Minneapolis. His home city and county can be depended upon to give him a vote in November that will indicate very strongly the hold he has upon the people where he is best known.

James Gray is a Scotch-American. Born Feb. 18, 1862, at Falkirk, Scotland, he was the son of a master miller, and when 4 years old he accompanied his parents to America. The family settled at Bellevue, Iowa, where the father followed his craft. A few years later the family was in Grant county, Wisconsin, where young Jim Gray trudged three miles summer and winter for three years to this district school. Returning to Iowa the lad finished his common school education in the village schools with records showing "excellent" in his studies but only "fair" in his deportment. During his last year in school he acted as supply teacher, that same year taking work at the institute and passing the examinations that gave him a teacher's certificate. When only 17 he was teaching civil government in the institute.

Gray accompanied his people to Minneapolis in 1880, where his father was employed in Governor Washburn's mill. The youth got a job in a sash and door factory, and was a member of the famous dinner pail brigade that traveled daily down the Milwaukee tracks to his employment. In the summer of 1880 he was a spectator at exercises at the university campus when the anniversary of the discovery of the falls of St. Anthony was celebrated. The youth was inspired by the words of Gen. Sherman, and determined to secure a college education. He took the entrance examinations in the fall, was admitted and five years later graduated as valedictorian of his class. He had worked his way through the big school by carrying newspapers, spending his vacations as a rodman in railroad construction, as a hotel clerk at Minnetonka, and in newspaper work at Fergus Falls and Minneapolis. At the former place he was employed by Elmer E. Adams, the well-known newspaper man, and while the politics of the two men differed in name they were not very far apart on the essentials of good government. Gray gave early promise of his future success, and during his junior year at the university he won first place in oratory. He was successively editor and business manager of the college newspaper, president of his class and of the leading literary society. That he was human and that his activities were not entirely bookish is shown by the fact that he for a time guided the destinies of the athletic society.

Upon his graduation, Mr. Gray went into newspaper work and he has been more than ordinarily successful. He has been successively city editor of the Tribune, managing and city editor of the Times, and finally associate editor of the Journal. He was also business and advertising manager of the Times for a time and was in the directorate of that paper when it was fighting the battles of the people.

His only vacation has been the two years that he served as mayor of Minneapolis. He was elected to that office in 1898, and his administration was marked by a high sense of devotion to duty. It was clean, able and progressive and he left the office with the good will of his political opponents and the fullest measure of respect and confidence of those who had been his official and political associates. He naturally returned to his newspaper work and his editorial duties have been interrupted only by an occasional departure into the realm of public speaking. He has been in frequent demand by university clubs, good government bodies, church clubs and like organizations and has a reputation as an after-dinner speaker second to none in the Northwest.

Mr. Gray's training, both as a university man and a newspaper editor and publicist, has put him in the class of close students of political economy. His is no superficial knowledge of the problems of government. He has been called upon repeatedly to defend his views on the great questions before the public, and he has been ever ready. He is a thinker as well as a speaker, a doer as well as a debater. Thousands of men in Minneapolis, where he is of course best known, have pronounced for him in his candidacy for governor and in a campaign which will take him to every corner of the state, his friends confidently look to see him extend his acquaintance and cement his friendships to a degree that at the November election he will receive a popular vote that will place him in line for still further political honors.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The longest lectures are those you get instead of giving them.

Languages in the British Isles.

London Chronicle: Has anybody ever reckoned how many languages are spoken in the British Isles? Few people would put the number as high as seven. But take a census thus: English, Welsh in Wales, Erse in Ireland, Manx in the Isle of Man (church services in Manx were discontinued there but recently), Gaelic in Scotland (six weeks ago at Oban this writer heard maid-servants gossiping in that tongue), French in the Channel Islands and Cornish was spoken in Cornwall far more recently than either historians or the public know. The total is seven languages for the British Isles—and yet the Englishman is the poorest linguist in the world.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Some May Keep Their Pledges.

Bemidji Pioneer: According to the platforms, no matter which candidate wins, we are bound to have great reforms.

"Little Bob" Like Teddy.

Cannon Falls Beacon: If ever there was a man in public life who lived reform with the consistency, fought for it with the unflagging courage and bull dog tenacity which Roosevelt says is essential to success, that man is "Little Bob," the Wisconsin giant. He's as fearless as Roosevelt himself and loves a fight full as well.

And Just About as Brassy.

Winona Independent: A lot of twaddle is being written about the questionable taste of the quadriga at the state capitol. There are a lot of things in the building more inappropriate, and one need not go outside the office to find them.

Party Ties Ineffective.

Hutchinson Leader: Party politics will cut less figure this year than usual. Party ties are not holding the voter. He will consider men and the principles they represent.

For Party Solidarity.

Appleton Press: Those Republicans who vote for Eberhart will so vote not through conviction, but for party solidarity.

Not Quite Consistent.

Perham Enterprise: By advcating the division of the county into legislative districts, some of our Fergus Falls friends admit that a man who lives in a certain locality can vote more intelligently on the needs of that locality than a man living at a distance. But by advocating county option those same men assert that a man living fifty or more miles from a city or village, and knowing nothing about it, is qualified to vote as to how it should be governed.

Ballinger, the Big Stick.

Bemidji Pioneer: Every president has a big stick With Taft it's Ballinger.

He's Sure Got It Coming.

Red Wing Republican: Uncle Joe Cannon declares that he is still a candidate for speaker of the next house. The old man is getting ready to close his political career by butting into a stone wall.

Eberhart Bluff N. G.

St. Cloud Times: The effort of the Eberhart crowd to make political capital by stealing somebody else's thunder on the proposed reduction in the state tax levy has fallen very flat. The Eberhart assumption that his administration had anything to do with it has been ridiculed from one end of the state to the other.

The Rivers of Yesterday and Tomorrow.

O River of Yesterday, with current swift,
Through chasms descending and soon lost to sight,
I do not care to follow in thy flight
The faded leaves that on thy bosom drift!

O River of Tomorrow, I uplift
Mine eyes and thee I follow, as the night
Wanes into morning, and the dawning light
Broadens, and all the shadows fade and shift!

I follow, follow where the waters run
Through unfrequented, unfamiliar fields
Fragrant with flowers and musical with song;
Still follow, follow; sure to meet the sun,
And confident that what the future yields
Will be the right, unless myself be wrong.

And thou, O River of Tomorrow, flowing
Between thy narrow adamantine walls,
But beautiful, and white with waterfalls,
And wreaths of mist, like hands the pathway showing,
I hear the trumpets of the morning blowing,
I hear the mighty voice that calls and calls,
And see as Ossian saw in Morwen's halls
Mysterious phantoms coming, beckoning, going!

It is the mystery of the unknown
That fascinates us; we are children still.
Wayward and wistful; with one hand we cling
To the familiar things we call our own,
And with the other, resolute of will,
Grope in the dark for what the day will bring.

—Longfellow.

Father and Son.

Chicago Evening Post: Samuel Bowles, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress. Mr. Bowles, if nominated, will attempt to defeat the present Republican representative, Frederick H. Gillett, who has served his district in congress for twenty years. Mr. Gillett is a stand-pat Republican, while Mr. Bowles is a Democrat more radical than most members of his party.

The father of the aspirant for nomination honors at the hands of the Second Massachusetts district Democracy is the editor of the Springfield Republican, and the question to which the answer will be most interesting is: Will Samuel Bowles, Sr., support Samuel Bowles, Jr., in the campaign if the son gets the credentials as the Democratic candidate?

The younger Samuel Bowles is connected with the Springfield News, an evening newspaper of pronounced progressive and perhaps radical tendencies. Its proprietor is Charles J. Bellamy, whose brother wrote 'Looking Backward." Now it is not to be supposed for an instant that Bowles pere would decline to support Bowles fils because the offspring is working for a rival local newspaper. The Springfield Republican is progressive enough in a way to make its sanction easy for the candidacy of an ambitious one who would be content to differentiate properly between a pace of progress that enables an account to be taken of the milestones and one that runs them together like the teeth of a comb.

The Boston Transcript says that in his last year at college Bowles, Jr., was one of the organizers of the Harvard Bryan club. The understanding is that today he thinks wings should be hitched to the feet of progression. There may be a wrestling match in the editorial room of the Springfield Republican one of these days between parental affection and political duty.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Chicago Record-Herald: He—It was Wordsworth, I believe, who said, "The child is father of the man."

She—Yes, wasn't he silly?

Baltimore American: "I don't know about taking young Biffins in with us on this work."

"Why not? He is such a promising young man."

"That's just it. There's a risk in taking a promising young man into a paying enterprise."

Puck: Motorist—Going to have a big year in your town, I suppose?

Village Notable—Yep, grand peace celebration. This is the first year since we haven't had a centennial, county fair, soldiers' reunion, old-home week or Knights of Ceres convention.

Brown—He's a social botanist.

Brown—Oh, we invite him especially to give attention to our wallflowers.

Young Lawyer—Yes, I start work by the slow one and stop by the other.

Cleveland Leader: Wife—Mother says she refuses to pay us a visit unless we let her pay her board.

Hubby—Tell her we couldn't think of such a thing.

Chicago News: Little Willie—What is a lawyer, pa?

Pa—A lawyer, my son, is a man who induces two other men to strip for a fight and then runs off with their clothes.

Sourire: M. le Baron—Mme. is going out in the car, Joseph. Be careful to blow the tires up well.

Chauffeur—M. le Baron may be assured that I shall blow them up as if it were M. le Baron himself.

London Opinion: Employer—Come here, young man. I understand you've been gambling in rubber shares.

Clerk—Yes, sir. I made £120 last week.

Employer—Great Scott! Do you know anything else?

Detroit Free Press: "When are you going on your vacation?

"I don't know. I've got to wait until the neighbors get through using my suit case."

VICTORY IS PREDICTED

John Redmond Heard By United Irish League Convention.

Brings Message of Hope for the Home Rule Cause.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Irishmen from all parts of the United States and Canada rallied to the standard of John B. Redmond and his colleagues in the Irish Nationalist party at the opening yesterday of the fifth biennial national convention of the United Irish league. Money pledges came from all quarters, Montreal Irishmen stating in a telegram to President Michael J. Ryan that they would raise $10,000.

Mr. Redmond was one of the speakers. His review of the things accomplished in the last ten years aroused great enthusiasm, particularly his reference to the success of the land purchase act by which thousands of peasants became the owners of their own farms.

"We are assembled here today to forward the great goal of national independence," said Mr. Redmond "We did not come across the ocean to ask you for either your material or your moral help. We have come to tell you that we believe now that all our energies should be concentrated in an effort to settle in our lifetime the question of self-government.

One Supreme Effort.

"We believe that at this moment we are in a position in which we can achieve that, and we have come without doubt or hesitation or misgiving to ask the Irishmen of this great continent to make one supreme effort to strengthen our arms that we will be able to achieve home rule for Ireland and in the immediate future."

In another address to the convention last night, Mr. Redmond said that a conference had been arranged between the partisans of the house of lords and their opponents, the result of which would not be known until parliament reconvened on Nov. 15.

"If that convention leads to a promise whereby the house of lords, in order to save their existence, will agree to surrender the power of rejecting any bill which comes up from the commons, then within the next two or three months, the great obstacle in the way of home rule will have disappeared.

"If, on the contrary, the conference fails, then the fight against the lords will instantly revive."

JESSIE MORRISON GRANTED PAROLE

Woman in Sensational Kansas Murder Favored By Governor.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 28.—Miss Jessie Morrison, who has been serving a twenty-five-years prison sentence for killing Mrs. Olin Castle of Eldorado, Kan., on June 11, 1900, has been paroled by Governor Stubbs. The parole becomes effective immediately and gives Miss Morrison great freedom, allowing her to go wherever she pleases, but requiring her to attend church and to report once a month to Warden Goding.

The murder of Mrs. Olin Castle was one of the most sensational crimes in the history of the state. Miss Jessie Morrison and Miss Clara Wylie had both received attentions from Olin Castle, and a jealous rivalry grew up between them. Castle married Clara Wylie.

Fight Between Women.

On June 22, 1900, neighbors heard a fight going on in the Castle cottage. Miss Morrison was found holding a razor and standing over her rival, whose throat was cut. Miss Morrison said she fought in self-defense. Mrs. Castle made a dying statement declaring Miss Morrison attacked her.

At the first trial the jury disagreed and at the second trial Miss Morrison was convicted and sentenced to five years imprisonment. At the third trial she was again convicted and given a twenty-five-year sentence.

Governor Stubbs said that the first trial more nearly gave justice than the two following.

PROGRESSIVES MAKE NEW HAMPSHIRE PLATFORM.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 28.—A platform constructed by progressive members of the party was adopted unanimously at the Republican state convention here yesterday. Under the new primary law this was the only work which the convention had to do. The administration of President Taft was indorsed to the extent of a commendation of "the Republican achievements of the last congress under the leadership of President Taft in carrying out in such a large measure the policies inaugurated by Theodore Roosevelt."

COL. ELWOOD'S WILL GIVES SONS MILLIONS.

De Kalb, Ill., Sept. 28.—The bequests in the will of the late Col. Isaac Elwood, former business associate of John W. Gates, were made known today. William Elwood, son of the former steel man, said his father's estate would reach $10,000,000 in value, the greater part of which is divided between the two sons, William and E. Perry Elwood, their shares making over $5,000,000.

Col. Elwood left $100,000 for a site and building for the Elwood Old Folks home, while another $100,000 was left as an enodwment for the institution.

William L. Elwood, who had been his father's associate in business, will take the Spade ranch in Texas, estimated to be worth $3,500,000. E. Perry Elwood will inherit the De Kalb county property, worth $4,000,000 and the Pendebrook ranch in Texas, worth $1,500,000.

MARRIED BLISS WAS VERY SHORT

Mrs. Lulu Thorn Says Her Husband Deserted After One Week.

Just one week of married life was all that was granted to Mrs. Lulu Thorn, who is now trying to get a divorce from her husband, Lee J. Thorn.

The mariage took place at Kansas City, Mo., in January, 1908, and the desertion followed a week later. The complaint in the action was filed yesterday with the clerk of the district court.

Although it is now nearly three years since the marriage, the young woman has not heard from her husband. The notice or suit cannot be served upon him as his present whereabout are unknown.

His mother, who lives at Beloit, Kan., states that during March of this year he was in Pennsylvania. This is all she knows about him. He works as a railroad engineer.

Following the alleged desertion Mrs. Thorn came to Duluth, where she has resided a greater part of the time since.

BROOKINS FLIES OVER CHICAGO

Takes Wright Machine Over Skyscrapers of the Windy City.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—An aeroplane rose from the lake front here yesterday afternoon and sailed for twenty minutes above the tallest skyscrapers, back and forth high above the business section of the city, and then scudded back to its landing place and alighted with the ease of a gull.

Walter Brookins, who is to try Thursday to beat the American long distance sustained flight record by flying to Springfield, Ill., from Chicago for the prize of $10,000, offered by the Chicago Record-Herald, drove the Wright aeroplane. He will be ready Thursday morning for the long sail across country.

Aiverse and buffeting winds made Brookins' flight perilous and he was compelled to go up 2,000 feet to get away from the gusts and puffs of wind eddying far above the city's tallest buildings. The ship of the air careened, and when going against the wind barely crawled, so that the throngs that packed the streets below gazed anxiously upward.

Upon landing, the aviator said the winds were so strong he feared at times he would be compelled to make a sudden turn and dash back to earth.

BAY STATE PRIMARIES.

Two Democratic Congressmen Lose at the Polls.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 28.—The notable features of the Democratic primaries held throughout the state yesterday were the defeat of two congressmen for re-nomination—John A. Keliher in the Ninth district and Joseph F. O'Connell in the Tenth.

Republican primaries were also held jointly with the Democrats in eleven cities, including Boston, Lowell and Lawrence, but it was only in Lowell that there was any noticeable opposition to the candidacy of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge for re-election. In Lowell, the home of Congressman Butler Ames, the only avowed Republican candidate against Senator Lodge, three of the candidates nominated by the Republicans for the two branches of the legislature are out-spoken for Ames.

PEOPLE SCARED OFF BIG AREA IN ARIZONA.

Flagstaff, Ariz., Sept. 28.—A territory fifty miles square and extending from here to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river stands practically depopulated because of earthquakes and rumblings, which, beginning Saturday, are steadily increasing in magnitude and violence.

J. B. Chaves, the first of the refugees to reach Flagstaff, reported that his house had cracked open. Others who arrived later, reported that volcanic stones weighing many tons had been torn from their beds and sent crashing down the mountain side, and that the whole district was in a state of unrest. They refused flatly to go back.

CUBAN PATRIOT WILL BE BURIED ON ISLAND.

New York, Sept. 28.—In fulfillment of his dying wish, expressed more than thirty years ago, the body of Lieut. Gen. Francisco Aguilera, hero of the 10-year war in Cuba, will be disinterred from its resting place in Calvary cemetery here and sent to his native land.

"When my country is free and takes her place among the nations of the earth, then, and not till then, let my body be taken to Cuba for burial," was the prayer of Aguilera on the day of his death, Feb. 22, 1877.

CHEROKEE FREED IN OHIO MURDER CASE.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Lone Star, a Cherokee Indian, whose arrest here two months ago on a charge of murder aroused the interest of the department of the interior, was freed by a jury yesterday. Lone Star pleaded self-defense for killing John Donovan, proprietor of a lodging house, on July 11.

During the trial the Indian sat Turkish fashion, with his legs crossed under him. His stolidity was unruffled until the verdict was announced, when he exuberatingly patted the shoulder of the attorney appointed by the court to defend him, exclaiming: "He my good friend."

FEW MURDERERS PAY PENALTY IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Of 639 homicides in the city of Chicago in the last four years, capital punishment has been inflicted in only two cases, and in only forty-two cases was a life imprisonment sentence imposed. This is brought out in a letter from Chief of Police Steward to Corporation Counsel Brundage, in which he urges the bar association to take some steps to increase the number of convictions for homicide.

From the number placed on trial, the letter continues, 114 were acquitted. The entire number of convictions was but 132. Three hundred and thirty-three cases were disposed of without convictions.

ROBBERS IN SUCH HURRY THEY MISS $250,000.

Houston, Tex., Sept. 28.—In their hurry two men who partly looted a Southern Pacific mail car near Avondale, La., Monday night, overlooked just $250,000. Packages of currency aggregating this amount aboard the car at the time of the robbery, have been delivered intact to the Texas banks.

YOUNG STUBBS DIES OF BULLET WOUND.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Donald P. Stubbs, son of John C. Stubbs, vice president and traffic manager of the Harriman lines, who was found in the offices of the Union Pacific railroad here at midnight on Saturday with a revolver bullet wound over his heart, died last evening. According to the story told by young Stubbs before his death, the shooting was accidental, occurring while he was examining a new revolver. He was alone in the offices. The father and mother of the young man were with him at the time of his death.

Dayton's Mayor Flies.

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Mayor Burkhart of this city made an aeroplane flight yesterday afternoon as the guest of Orville Wright at the testing grounds near this city. The mayor was in the air twenty-four minutes and reached an altitude of 1,100 feet and a speed near the ground of 60 miles an hour. His delight with the trip was unbounded.

Legislature to Pass Three Words.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 28.—Governor Gillett has called a special session of the state legislature to convene on Oct. 3 to insert three words in a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the voters at the coming election. The measure provides for the division of county taxes, and if adopted in its present form would, it is said, be invalid.

DULUTH IMPERIAL FLOUR

RESTORE THE RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE IS THE ONE ISSUE

Mr. Gray typified the latter type, and he took pleasure in introducing him as the people's candidate for governor.

Was Warmly Applauded.

Mr. Gray, after a few humorous remarks, took up his keynote speech, which he had prepared and read from manuscript. His reception was in the nature of an ovation. By far the loudest applause of the evening was evoked by his declaration, 'I stand for county option," although his stand on other matters was generally approved, and he was frequently interrupted by enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Gray spoke as follows:

A glance at the history of Minnesota politics shows that most of the state administrations have been merely episodes in the life of the state. Men rose to power through the grades, became governors and disappeared. Few of them made a mark on the history of the state. In the pioneer days of Minnesota this was to be expected. The state was new, the population sparse, the struggle for existence hard. The theory of politics was personal, social, and it sank no deeper than the personality of the men who rose to positions of power. There were notable exceptions to be sure. John S. Pillsbury was the idol of the state and did a great work for the university. Knute Nelson, I believe, had a real call from the people. His administration was able, conscientious and in some ways fearless. His promotion to the office of senator before he had completed his work thrust the administration back into the soggy condition from which it had arisen. Governor Van Sant was elected on no definite theory of reform. He had by party activity and party service at last earned the nomination and got it. But Governor Van Sant had an opportunity and rose to it. He denounced the merger of the parallel lines of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific and by his stand smashed the Northern Securities company.

> It was a flash of light upon the railroad problem, but it was after all but a flame caught from the spark struck off by the previous administration of John Lind, who put a stop to an attempted similar merger of the St. Paul & Duluth and Eastern Minnesota. With those exceptions, I claim that broad constructive work for the people began with the administration of John Lind, who was elected in 1898, and has been continued to this day, nearly all of the time under Democratic executives and must continue if Minnesota is to have a place alongside of Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, where the rights of the people have been restored rather than to fall back in the class of New Hampshire, Vermont and others in which we have never awakened to the problems at their doors.

Six years ago, in pursuance of this forward policy, the people of Minnesota chose John A. Johnson governor. Two years later they elected him as an indorsement of his administration. Two years still later, although Governor Johnson protested against the third-term idea, they fairly drove him into office to continue the work which he had so well begun. No such continuance as the election of the governor in office was contemplated by the people nor provided against in their votes. It seldom happens that the people do so provide. In our national politics there have been repeated efforts to obtain a symmetrical ticket, to name for vice president a man who could take the reins in case of the president's removal and further his work. They usually have failed and some man has been nominated for vice president who could carry his state. There have been exceptions, of course. The Democratic ticket headed by Seymour in 1868 were Cleveland and Thurman, a ticket big at both ends. The Republicans had in 1884 Blaine and Logan, a balanced ticket; in 1900, McKinley and Roosevelt, a remarkable conjunction of cool sagacity and fiery impetuosity. The ticket, the election of which and the demise of McKinley was fraught with the most momentous results. Without disparagement of Mr. McKinley, it must be said that the succession of Roosevelt was providential. It marked the definite breaking away from the old time politics of government of the trusts, by the trusts, and for the trusts, back to government of the people.

> Roosevelt restored the rights of the people. The revolution which he began has gone so far that I am persuaded that neither height nor depth nor any creature shall ever again separate the people of America from those rights.
> The line of bosses which threatened to stretch out like Banquo's descendants "to the crack of doom," has been broken. The men who substituted the previous question for the open debate, the back office for the free assembly, the corridor whisper for the open appeal, who shot the shutters down and pulled down the blinds on the people's business, have received their notice to quit. They have been routed out of their stalls, scourged from the temple, their money boxes overturned, their jeer of triumph turned to gasping dismay. Before them the people of America lift up their heads and "sing a new song unto the Lord."

In the repeated elections of John A. Johnson we saw enacted on the smaller stage of Minnesota exactly the same drama that Roosevelt enacted in the nation. Under his great administrations, the people once more raised. Do you think that they will restore to power in the capitol standpatters while they are hurling standpatters out of congress? The thing does not sound reasonable.

I stand here to claim that the deplorable incident of Governor Johnson's death, a severe blow to the state and a probable loss to the nation, made no difference in the political position. The people did not contemplate his death in office. They elected him with the one thought that he deserved their confidence and that no one else should supplant him. That he did deserve their confidence you have abundant proof in legislation for the people, in popular government, in exceptional appointments, in untiring watchfulness over your interests. Therefore, I say that, though by the death of the governor the Democracy is de facto out of power, it is de jure in power. It is for you to say whether you will continue the forward movement or to take the chance of a backward step.

WILL FOLLOW LIND AND JOHNSON.

For myself, permit me to say that I sat in the first convention which nominated John A. Johnson. I spoke for him through the state in 1904 and I then stated in the same language that I state it today that John A. Johnson would restore the rights of the people.

> If I should be elected, it will be my highest ambition to walk in the path blazed by John Lind and made plain by John A. Johnson. I shall not do this as an imitator, but as one who is not too dull to do the right because some other man has done it before him. There is no preemption of truth and duty.

PROUD OF DEMOCRACY'S ADMINISTRATION.

Now, what did six years of executive Democracy do for you? It gave you, first, an inspiration to be your own masters. It gave you, second, concrete examples of exceptional administration. It gave you, third, advanced but just and popular legislation. It gave you, fourth, a series of executive appointments in efficiency second to none in the Union.

Governor Johnson appointed William E. McEwen labor commissioner and he has created the best department of its kind in the country. He named E. K. Slater and Andrew French to the dairy and food department and their work has penetrated to the humblest farm hand and piled up profit for Minnesota in improved farm methods. He appointed Thomas D. O'Brien, now a justice of the supreme court, insurance commissioner, and he raised that department so high that his work was commended in a special message to congress by the president of the United States. Did any Republican insurance commissioner ever get such an indorsement?

JOHNSON'S APPOINTMENTS COMMENDED.

In the big board appointments Governor Johnson was especially sagacious and far-seeing. His appointment of Prof. Frank L. McVey to the tax commission was non-partisan. It was followed by splendid service in organizing the board, a service interrupted only by his call to the higher position of president of the university of our neighbor, North Dakota. Samuel Lord, a Republican senator, reflected honor on the appointing power and Judge O. M. Hall and J. G. Armson brought profound knowledge and ripe experience to the commission. Service was the first thought of all. Capt. Anton Schaeffer and P. M. Kerst in the public examiner's department; John B. Galarneault at the head of the banking department; John W. Olson and C. G. Schulz, successive heads of our state educational department; Fred B. Wood, the adjutant general; John A. Hartigan, a worthy successor to Mr. O'Brien in the insurance department. All these men reflected credit upon the appointing power and shared in the inspiration of the governor's office.

In even a greater degree the appointments to the board of control the late L. A. Rosing, P. M. Ringdal, Charles Halverson, have been justified by the high rank that their members have taken. But I call your attention particularly to the fact that the distinguishing characteristic of these men and others that he named was that they were men of the plain people, of their vision into the future and see that one day there would grow up in America organized aggregations of capital representing protected interests, transportation interests, power interests, which would take the shortest cut to control the government. Those aggregations did arise; they did take the shortest cut; they went with unerring swiftness to the control of the senate as the key to the citadel. The people might fulminate every two years against a recreant house; they might every four years dethrone a vacillating president, but so long as the interests could erect a senate wall and man it with watchmen, whom Senator Beveridge has aptly denominated "deal masters," they were safe. To tear down that wall, to drive those "deal masters" into the moat, we must restore the rights of the people in the senate.

I can be done only by the direct election of the senators. I know that there are objections to this plan. I know that the people are occasionally fooled and there are times when a popular candidate for senator is a poor senator, but all carpings aside the indefeasible right of the people to this protection from government of the interests and by the interests must not and shall not be denied.

DIRECT LEGISLATION INDORSED

> Closely connected with this question is a similar one—that of direct legislation, known as the initiative and referendum and the recall. A few years ago this was called a chimera. Those were the days when a senator of the United States cynically declared "the purification of our politics is an irridescent dream. But our dreams do sometimes come true. Men dreamed once that taxation without representation was tyranny, and woke to drive it as a fact into every heart of Great Britain. Men dreamed again that the auction block might be destroyed, and woke to find themselves in front of Appomattox. Men dreamed again that their government might be made responsive to justice and truth, and woke to find themselves shaking hands with Roosevelt. Dreams do sometimes come true.

The initiative and referendum is already applied in our best city charters. Councils are not permitted to grant franchises without a vote of the people. Mayors and councilmen in many cities are subject to the recall. In every case where it has been invoked, it has worked for good government. It has been a salutary estop upon bribery and corruption, which though often known, in court result in verdicts of not proven. It has been tried in states and has worked exceptionally well. It is correlated with the popular primary and belongs to that class of legislation which should be advanced cautiously but firmly. It belongs to the revolution which cannot go backward.

JOHN LIND SOUNDED THE KEYNOTE.

Eleven years ago, in his message to the legislature, Governor Lind said, "Direct legislation involves the introduction of no new principles in our government. There are no stronger reasons for trusting the people to pass upon men than upon measures."

The people now have the power to initiate reforms and legislation in the matter of locating county seats and in some municipal undertakings. This power, with proper restrictions as to time and frequency as to its exercise, should be extended to other important questions. By the provisions of our Constitution the people now have the veto power at the polls on any legislation by which it is proposed to change our present laws governing railroad taxation. We, therefore, are already committed to the principle involved in the second branch of the question. The Constitution, in my judgment, should be so amended as to enable a minority in the legislature, by appropriate action, to refer enactments, at least such as extend to corporate privileges without authorizing the granting of franchises, to a vote of the people before becoming operative.

DECLARES FOR COUNTY OPTION.

The Democratic platform says: "That all questions affecting the moral, political and economical welfare of the people should be directly subject to the conscience and will of the people." Under this paragraph, I believe I have the right to state my views on the so-called county option method of controlling the liquor traffic.

In my opinion county option does not mean prohibition, though all methods of restricting the liquor traffic have a prohibitive quality. When we say what license shall be charged, we put a prohibition upon the man who cannot pay the amount. When we say in what hours and on what days liquor may be sold we put a partial prohibition on the business. When we say, as we have said in Minneapolis, that five-sixths of the city shall not have saloons, we put a partial prohibition on the traffic. We call it by its right name—regulation. County option is but another form of regulation. It says, in effect, that the people of a county shall have the right to vote whether they will have saloons or not have saloons. Who in this day, whatever his politics, will deny the people that right? But, as I view it, this is not the liquor question at all. It is a question of the rights of the people.

BREWS POLITICS AS WELL AS BEER.

I think that if the brewing business had not changed its attitude after high license was adopted, this question might not have arisen, at least not until a future date, but that change has come. The people of Minnesota today find that the big brewing interest brews beer only half the time. The rest of the time it brews politics, brews laws, and brews statesmen to carry its errands. It has reached a pass when scarcely any question can be decided on its merits.

Legislation has devolved into a contest between the public and certain interests, of which the brewer is the biggest factor, and they fight to put the people out of power. To a great many this condition has become intolerable. They wish to know whether the interests or the people are running the government. It is necessary for the peace and dignity of Minnesota that this question be tried out.

> My opponent has said that if a county option law were presented to me by the legislature he would sign it, he could do no less. If elected, I will do more. I shall take the position that my election was a mandate from the people to put this question up to the legislature, and I shall exercise the constitutional function of the governor to recommend proper legislation to carry out their will.

REAPPORTIONMENT AN HONEST DEMAND.

"We are unequivocally in favor of a re-apportionment of representation in the state legislature with a view of making the composition of that body a true reflection of the distribution of population."

If a series of Republican legislatures had not been remiss in their duty, this paragraph of the Democratic platform need not have been written. But justice has not been done.

Project the southern boundary of Otter Tail county east to Wisconsin and west to Dakota, and north of it you will have twenty-five counties of perhaps the most resourceful region on the continent of North America. It has the greatest wheat fields and the greatest iron mines in the world, vast forests and water powers and the source of three continental water-sheds. These twenty-five counties have an area equal to that of New York or Ohio. No spot on the globe offers greater opportunities to the settler. All this region needs is fair treatment at the hands of the state. It needs good roads and public schools. It needs forest protection and drainage, but above all it needs and demands justice under a Constitution which guarantees to all an equal voice in the government. It demands that the legislature make a honest re-apportionment. No legislative re-apportionment has been granted since 1897, a period in which the population of this northern domain has increased by perhaps 200,000.

SENATOR SMITH'S SENATE FAILED TO DO ITS DUTY.

For this neglect the state senate appears to be largely responsible, the defeat of reapportionment being charged to senators who refuseed to interfere with their tenure in office. The state authorizes the legislature to make reapportionment, if population changes require it, after each census, state or federal. Governor Eberhart says at this time in the face of another election that he favors reapportionment. The legislature of which he was a part presented a constitutional amendment allowing reapportionment to be made at any time, thus probably deferring the question until the amendment could be adopted.

> Permit me to say to Northern Minnesota here and now that the present Constitution authorizes a reapportionment at this coming session and that in all justice to the state it should be accorded.

STANDS FOR EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

There is nothing more precious than human life. There is no form of conservation more important to the state. It is the duty of the state to protect from needless sacrifice the lives of men and women who are obliged to labor in our industries. Employers and employes understand that every restriction in our present inspection laws should be removed so that the state officials will have the authority under the law to order safeguards in every place where danger to human life lurks. But when we have solved so far as protection to human life is concerned the question of accidents, there still remains a large number that will take place because of the hazard of the industry and which cannot be foreseen or provided against. This brings up the question of the basis of compensation for such injuries The law that we have belongs to an era in our industrial life that has passed. It is based on the theory of fault or negligence, which might have belonged very well in the primitive days of hand tools, but which has no application under a system of industry which involves the buzz of intricate machinery, whirling saw and keen-edged knives.

INDUSTRY MUST BEAR THE RISK

The men who are obliged to work under this hazard and who suffer the pains from injuries sustained there, should not be obliged to carry all the risk. It is the duty of the state to step in and by proper legal enactment to devise a system for the injured working man, which shall in no manner savor of alms or charity. This principle was recognized by the late Governor Johnson, by the last legislature, by the organizations of employers and employes and by the state bar association.

A commission is now at work with a view of proposing a bill which will have for its purpose a scheme of compensation for every person injured in a Minnesota industry without the necessity of a costly law suit and with the question of negligence wholly eliminated. It has received my co-operation and support as a citizen and shall continue to have that indorsement and support in whatever position I may be called upon to fill.

AS TO THE OTIS DECISION.

I cannot forego a reference to a recent court decision which has shaken Minnesota to its foundation. I refer to the findings and decree handed down last week at St. Paul by the master in chancery that will be given at St. Paul, Jan. 25 and at Minneapolis, Jan. 26.

It is understood that Mrs. Corey will bear the entire financial responsibility of the production and whatever surplus there is will be devoted to some charity. It is said that the former Mabelle Gilman has great dramatic genius and that the public will be astonished when they see her as Katherine.

Many of the members are securing their membership tickets this week to avoid the confusion usually attendant on the afternoon of the opening reception, at which time the membership tickets will also be issued.

FEDERATION GROWS.

Three Hundred Delegates Gather at St. Peter.

St. Peter, Minn., Sept. 28.—"We have passed the 10,000 mark in membership, which has long been our ambition, and now number 11,827. Of the growth of our federation the last year we may well be proud."

Such was the good news Mrs. O. B. Lewis, St. Paul, corresponding secretary, told the club women in attendance at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs yesterday afternoon.

"Of these Minneapolis brought this year, 767, and St. Paul 342 members. Thirty-two clubs have joined, making their total 215."

Already the record attendance at the annual conventions has been broken by the registration of delegates at the sixteenth annual convention, which opened here yesterday morning. Heretofore an attendance of 150 has been considered good, and if 200 women registered, the officers of the federation pointed with pride to the record, but at noon Tuesday 305 delegates had applied for reservations at the St. Peter hotels, and the reception committee said that there would be at least 350 accredited delegates in attendance.

The meeting of the executive council of the federation was held yesterday morning, and though many important matters were discussed, the question of a censorship for erotic plays was not broached.

The chairman of the state fair committee, Mrs. J. M. Underwood, submitted a report and suggested that the committee combine with the state fair board for the purpose of erecting at the state fair grounds a federation building. It would be the purpose of this building, she explained, to house the educational exhibits of the federation. Mrs. Underwood explained the uses of a similar building at the Illinois state fair.

Upon request of the committee, the council decided to increase its membership from three to five. It was decided that no definite action would be taken in regard to the erection of a federation building until the matter of the girls' school, for which the board of control is working in conjunction with the federation, is more or less definitely settled.

The council also took up the matter of foreign crafts, and decided to recognize them and combine them with the hand and art crafts. Advocates of this measure argued that there were many foreign crafts-workers in Minnesota, such as Irish and Bohemian lacemakers, and declared that these deserved recognition.

Mrs. W. O. Fryberger, chairman of the music committee, asked that her committee be increased so as to include the president of every federated and non-federated women's club in the state. She said she had a plan for interesting all club women in music and that the progress of the plan could be aided by such action.

There was no general meeting yesterday morning. Last evening Governor Eberhart and Mrs. Fanny French Morse addressed the convention.

MELBA'S CONCERT

Promises to Be Brilliant Event.

The advance subscription for Melba will close tomorrow and no subscriptions will be received on Friday. Orders sent to oHrace W. Reyner before 6 p. m. Thursday, will be accepted. Subscribers will select their own seats Saturday morning at the Lyceum theater in the order of their subscription number. The box office will open at 9:30. The public sale of seats will commence Monday at 10 a. m.

Of Melba's recent appearance in Toronto, E. E. Parkhurst, the leading critic of that city wrote:

"To Mme. Melba, the Australian prima donna, belongs the triumph of attracting last night the record audience in the history of Massey hall. Not only was the regular auditorium completely sold out, but 230 seats placed on the chorus platform were occupied, and about 1,000 people were turned away from the doors unable to obtain admission. The great Patti was never greeted in this city by so immense an audience. Mme. Melba, whose former appearance here dates six years ago, was received with enthusiastic acclamations on her coming forward to sing her first number. This was the "Mad Scene," from "Lucia." In this excerpt her old sheer transparent beauty of voice, crystaline in its purity, and her extraordinary command of florid vocalization were conspicuous. The flute obligato was played by John Lemmone, an artist of finished technique, and with a command of a great variety of tone retour but in the passages in which there was rivalry between the flute and the voice Mme. Melba equalled the technical exactness of the instrument while, of course, surpassing it in appealing quality of tone. Mme. Melba's second solo number was the "Jewel Song," from "Faust," which was a delightful revelation of brilliant execution and also of exquisite, scintillating tone, and the rendering of which was not wanting in sprightliness of mood and expression."

Wed at Minneapolis.

The wedding of Miss Dagmar Brymaldson, formerly of Duluth and George Striblen of Minneapolis, took place Monday at the Hotel Dyckman of Minneapolis. The service was read by the Rev. James Montgomery and was followed by a wedding breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Cargill of this city were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Striblen will be at home in Minneapolis.

Poison in Posies

By AMANDA MOORE.

The alarmist would have us believe that poison lurks everywhere in some form or other. But who would suspect it in the flowers we like to see scattered about. Yet it is a fact that poison is to be found in the posies.

For instance, the laburnum, which has been compared to a fountain of gold leaping up into the air, is one of the most poisonous things imaginable, inasmuch it is poisonous in leaf and flower and seed.

Even the grass growing underneath it is poisonous, by reason of its proximity to the innocent-looking blossoms overhead, and it has been found necessary to guard against cattle eating this grass for fear of fatal results.

The bulbs of such dainty and beautiful flowers as the narcissus, hyacinth and snowdrop secrete the most deadly poisons, not to speak of the oxalis, the monkshood and the foxglove, all of which furnish noxious liquors sufficient to destroy life.

Despite its innocent appearance, the laughing little buttercup is one of the worst poisonous flowers. Even the cow avoids it.

Higher Up; Lower Down

By CARA REESE.

The higher up you go the lower down you get, that is, a less pretentious dwelling, cheaper cuts of meat, more zeal and interest in dry goods bargains. The more the increase the more mouths to feed. It is frequently thus, and you are not an isolated case.

There are many providers who have doubled and trebled their incomes since the auspicious start in housekeeping on a first-class street, who have been slowly, but surely forced to retreat a bit in order to still meet the world honorably and in honesty. This is, invitations whose acceptance involves expense, are now and then declined. The servants for show only are eliminated one by one and a less conspicuous mode of living adopted. Or the early dainty dinners and teas once your pleasure in the giving, now postponed indefinitely. The higher up you have gone as an earner and provider, the more at a standstill, or the lower down in a certain sense, you get. With every "raise" some new responsibility comes. The stouter the pay envelope the more likely you are to be pressed for change. The more frequent the promotions at the works the more diligently into succeeds in hanging weights in the way of claims. And how hard it is to explain.

Oh, yes, bread winners, you are to be wounded to the quick many times as the inconsiderate and the selfish ones lunge at you sharply. ou are not the only one to receive the suspicious thrust of "what in the world do you do with your money?" Or, again comes the sneer, "you make double of what you used to do, it is a pity the ends do not lap and allow some margin for emergency." Never mind, the world is full of mean folks wrapped up in themselves. The meanest of them are those who make no allowance for the cost of rearing and providing for a family. The "house of too much trouble" is ever in evidence. Thank heaven such a house or household is not yours. Thank heaven that your patchstring has ever and always been out as the signal of hospitality for friend or wayfarer. Thank heaven for the room and to spare for the aged and the welcome to the "little stranger." Blessed is the toiler who cheerfully keeps "even" with the needs, for the manna shall never fail.

Don't you know, Mister Man, that it is only your mistaken fear that causes your momentary doubt and depression? There is nothing amiss with home management when the management can look the world square in the eyes and show a family reared to nutritious success, the passing claims of hospitality met, the responsibilities in the way of the unexpected shouldered and yet "owe no man anything." It costs money to educate and to clothe, to feed and to nourish. There are simpletons who do not realize this. And it costs money to 'give a lift," or to lend a hand" to others in distress. Cast out fear! The getting "lower down" does not mean bootheels, manners or low thought and ideals. It does not mean a slum environment and an atmosphere of cheapness. It means live within means and never mind extravagances. The higher the spirituality the more the spirit of service.

THE EVENING STORY

THE WOMAN WHO WOULD NOT SEE

A Tale of the Bedouin.

In the delectable storehouse where God, the bountiful, hides gifts for nations and the men of nations, each is remembered according to his necessity.

Nor are the people of the desert forgotten, though they be subject to no upstart governor or to laws framed by the newly weaned. But because of their exceedingly strange occasions, arising out of the extreme drouths and solitudes and enemies unaware, they are dowered with singular treasures. On one is bestowed a faculty to read in the sand the footprints of strayed camels and to recite therefrom the age and size and nature of the beast, to the end that cattle thieves may be brought to bitter confusion and the progress of the faithful may be unhindered.

Upon anoher (as upon Zaynet, the wife of Abedeh of this story) falls the bounty of double sight, and that is even a more rare thing than camel-telling, and precious above all price.

Twice, as her tribe wandered, had Zaynet, putting her gift to good account, saved it and acquired merit. Once, in the distant column of sand, she had spied robbers, who thought to take her kinsfolk unprepared; and once had she beheld wells, when after weary wandering, believing themselves lost, the tribe lay down to die.

Now, of a truth, gifts are good, but a gift abused is worse than emptiness; and God is just in least as in greatest.

Zaynet, surnamed because of her services to the tribe, the "Four-eyed," held in her heart (as all women hold it) the desire to bear a son. And this desire, cherished with proper meekness, is without offense and even commendable; but Zaynet, forgetting that God gives or withholds as it pleases Him, waxed over-anxious, and because the servant of her wish to her own undoing.

"I am ashamed," whined Zaynet daily to Abadeh, her husband, "with three daughters. God mock me! I have lived in vain!"

And she sorrowed for the unborn as they sorrow who have painfully borne and more painfully lost the fully grown.

"If Zaynet would but rest," grumbled old Kaukab, who kneaded geleeh and had not many teeth, "the son might have his chance; but it is here today and there tomorrow—a charm from this one, a potion from that! Female children are ever the reward of the restless. I speak who know. Have not I, a stay-at-home, brought my lord six men?"

But Zaynet heeded not old Kaukab. Of a truth she heeded nothing, save the desire which, growing each day more importunate, brought her into a very servile subjection.

Secretly (advised of a townwoman making pilgrimage to a shrine) she journey to Cairo, and at the yard of execution (this was before the rule of punishments) she performed rites which the English, who love battle but abhor blood, would swoon only to think on. Yet the son still tarried; only another daughter was born, making in all four.

It was strange hakim from God knows where, vending draughts for the summer fevers, who, hearing as all the world heard (for Zaynet had a clacking tongue) of her extreme necessity, laughed.

"Take a fresh husband," said he, making jest of it. "Custom is the fifth element in the universe, but Allah, being greater than the universe, some times decrees change."

Now, these words, though spoken lightly, refused to forsake the head of Zaynet. They beat there like the tabl at a marriage feast. They ground themselves with her corn and became entangled in the goat's hair which she spun. The hoopees cried them, the camels grunted them, the very dogs barked them at night: "A fresh husband! A fresh husband!"

At first Zaynet the Four-eyed wept for shame, because, apart from the desire, she was a virtuous woman, and Abadeh had been a just husband as a man reads the words.

"Patience is from God," said Abadeh continually; "pray to Him, and a son will reward thy prayers."

Now, when a man falls under a domination he is a fool, but when a woman falls she is worse than a city of fools—there are no words which will describe her folly. In time Zaynet lost sight of honor itself in the light of the desire. She began to whisper to her heart at night, when none might watch her face, that, being a likely woman, she would not tarry long for another mate, if—

And beyond this "if" she was at first loth to go, having still more decency left.

Then, after four moons, during which she peeped a little—on very dark nights—beyond the "if," and trembled now as they who fear for what she saw, a strange thing befell.

She went, as was her evening custom, to fill her kulla from the river. She went heavily, because all the world was empty save for four jeering words and the shadow of a child who had never been; and, having filled, she stood at the water's edge, the kulla on her head, talking without any heart in her talk to the women who love to assemble at sunset and clack over such little matters as seem to them great.

A kite queeked its way home. "Take a fresh husband!" it said, and the heroine was stirred by a breeze which always grows big as the sun becomes little.

"Take a fresh husband!" whispered the breeze as it danced past.

"The content of evening lay everywhere saving only where Zaynet moved. She walked into the water, and it came lapslanding against her legs, which were slender and shapely. "Take a fresh husband!" gurgled the water, and Zaynet struck it with her hand for its counsel, so that it splashed into her eyes.

Then in a moment a fateful speech came from the mouth of a little wading child, who, pulling at Zaynet's wet robe with her own wet hand, pointed to a speck out on the river's breast.

"Look!" he cried. "Woman, look how that goat swims!"

Zaynet, to satisfy the child, looked, hand to forehead; then she blinked her eyes to clear them of the water which was still there, and in looking she saw, because of her gift, that this indeed was no goat, but Abadeh, her husband, in extreme peril, beating at the Nile with his arms for succor. To save him would have been no great matter, for a boat stood ready at hand, and in the boat Hassan, the son of old Nabout, the ferryman, was lazily cleaning fish.

The cry to launch was already in her throat, but another cry came stifling it before it could be uttered. It was the cry, and it rose twice in the hakim's voice. More distant than the city muezdin's call to prayer it rose: "Take a fresh husband! Take a fresh husband!"

So Zaynet stood in silence, the kulla on her head, her feet in the very water which was filling the throat and nostrils of Abadeh, her husband. She stood and looked, but the taunt of the cry was in her blood and she would not see.

Whilst the desert, unheeding the follies of men, swallowed half the red bulk of the sun, she stood. Then she spoke: "Thy goat swims bravely, but now he has—sunk." And pulling her robe from the child's grasp so roughly that he cried out and sought his mother, she went very quickly away—the water dripping from her kulla on to her shoulders because of the stumbling haste of her steps.

All things in their order, but the will of Allah first.

In due season the jest of the strange hakim became a reality. The Nile kept her secret; she is no prating woman with few to guard; and the tribe believed that Abadeh, who had gone to the town to trade, had been bewitched by city jinns (more fearsome than the spirits of the open) or done to death by bazar thieves. They made a small search and a very great lamentation, and Aboosh, the younger brother of Abadeh, took the widow for his wife.

And at length Zaynet the Four-eyed, being with child, was in her heart exceedingly uplifted, because she was well convinced that desire and realization at last stood hand in hand.

But for an evil dream which sometimes troubled her—a dream of brown water and tossing arms which beat at it—there would have been no happier woman between Kaufra and Khartum.

"He is to be a sultan, nothing less," cackled old Kaukab, gossipping with the women as they came home from their washing with clean garments and an appetite for news; "but this sitting always at the tent door weaving is a madness, I say. She would fill is a madness, I say. She would fill his a madness, I say. She would fill her own kulla, were she my daughter, and bless me for it in light pains by and by."

But no argument would drive Zaynet to the river, not even an occasional curse, while old Kaukab, changing her tune, threw at her laziness.

"Pah! pah! That child will be a hunchback without brain, if his mother takes root in the ground. It all comes of two husbands. There is no luck in such numbers. I say: as for me, one was enough to spare."

But in spite of her revilings she limped into the tent of Aboosh on the great day, and crouched, watching the progress of things, and giving occasional assistance. Kaukab was a network of wrinkles, and her teeth were fewer than ever, but for all that she was skilled.

"By Allah! A king indeed!" she murmured, peering (for her eyes were rheumy and she was obliged to peer) when the baby was born.

"Masallah," she added, because it is illomened to praise a child, and then she bent to watch his face. She bent lower, by reason of her age and the darkness of the tent, and as she bent a shriek hissed out from between the scattered teeth

"Oh! Thou compassionate One!" she moaned, and fell into the ugly high-pitched lament of old age. So ugly it was that the chickens outside scattered, cluck-clucking with fear.

Now hearken to the reason of Kaukab's lament and profit, for Allah is very just. He rewards always to deserving.

From the delectable storehouse where He hides His treasures He had chosen for Zaynet an extraordinary gift, and in exchange she had used it for a weapon to wound Him. So from the newly-born he withheld an ordinary gift (for He is never mocked). Sockets He gave the babe, but sockets only, whereof the half-closed lids but ill-concealed their emptiness.

Seest thou? It is a simple matter. To the woman who would not see—a son very perfect in all particulars, save he lacked eyes.

Place all cakes to cool on a wire sieve and never put them away in tins until thoroughly cooled.

A most satisfactory receptacle for sweepings is a conical-shaped peach basket lined with paper.

Young Men and Maidens

By MISS EXPERIENCE

A Novel Vacation.

A party of young men have just returned from a trip which is worth telling about. The party consisted of four young men, all cyclists. Their plan was for two of the four to ride the machines to some place on their route about twenty miles distant, leaving the bicycles there while they continued the journey on foot. The other couple did the first stage on foot, and then took on the bicycles for the second stage. Thus, alternately walking and cycling, the ingenious quartet combined the charms of a bicycling and walking tour.

No Peace for Typewriters.

Serves you right, is all the comfort we can give. The man who proposes to the lady of his heart by typewriter can scarcely expect any other fate. Written proposals are bad enough, but typewritten ones are frankly deplorable. The most ardent passion becomes cold when reduced to type.

Looking Through the Telescope.

According to some superstitious persons a young man dreaming of looking through a telescope thereby learns that the object of his affections has another admirer, of whom it is as well to be watchful. Others, however, declare that it means that his wife-to-be will easily see through him, and, when necessary, shut him up.

Melba came to America a week ahead of time for the sole purpose of making records for the Victor.

"I have tried the records and find them really wonderful reproductions of my singing. I feel that in them all the care and trouble to which your experts went have found great reward. My friends who have heard them are simply delighted with them." Nellie Melba

She spent the entire week of August 20-27 in the Victor laboratories at Camden, making a series of records by our new and improved recording process, and was so enthusiastic with the result that she made over her records already listed in the Victor catalogue.

These new Melba records are truly remarkable examples of the famous singer's glorious voice and conclusively demonstrate the great progress of the Victor.

These Melba records will be placed on sale with all Victor dealers in the early future. In the meantime drop in any store where you see the famous Victor trademark and just ask to hear the Victor or Victor-Victrola. You'll be astonished and wonder why you have waited so long.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

DELEGATES WELCOMED

Preliminary Exercises at University of North Dakota.

Principal Events of the Week Occur on Thursday.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Exercises which will attain their greatest importance tomorrow afternoon when Frank Le Rond McVey is formally inaugurated as president of the University of North Dakota are in progress, opened last evening. Today's program included the welcome session this morning, the dedication of teachers' college this afternoon together with the banquet this evening by the Grand Forks Commercial club, at which President Howard Elliott and Chairman James J. Hill will be the principal speakers.

Dean E. J. Babcock of the University of North Dakota delivered the address of welcome this morning and responses were made by numerous delegates from prominent colleges and universities of the country. The session was very well attended, being held in the university gymnasium.

"The Unification of the State's Educational Forces," was the subject of an address delivered by President George E. Maclean of the University of Iowa as the closing feature of this morning's session.

At noon the visitors were entertained at luncheon by the Grand Forks Commercial club. They were first given an automobile ride about the city, being taken back to the university at 2 o'clock for the afternoon exercises.

The inaugural convocation, the inaugural exercises proper over which Governor Burke, and the official reception by President McVey, are the feature events of the week that are scheduled for tomorrow.

Tuesday Evening.

The two-fold function of a university, the Scandinavian influence upon the development of the Northwest and the importance and significance of inaugural week were features dealt with by speakers at the opening program last night.

President J. L. Kildahl of St. Olaf's college at Northfield, Minn., after setting forth the manner in which the Scandinavians had come into the Northwest, establishing homes, churches and schools, showed that they had now come to the point where they were enabled to command the luxuries of life.

"The greatest danger now to the Scandinavian in the Northwest," said President Kildahl, "are the riches which they are accumulating and the luxuries which they are enjoying. Will the son who is riding to town in an automobile develop the same manly qualities which his father, who drove a pair of oxen, possessed?

University's Duty Toward Faculty.

That universities owe a great deal to the members of their faculties in the matter of providing them with opportunities for the carrying on of research work along their particular branch of knowledge, was the keynote of the address delivered by Dean Frank Allen of the University of Manitoba. He also paid American universities a high compliment on the work they were doing, and urged upon them that they continue in their good work and that they build up with care and precision because of their influence, not only at home, but abroad.

"The Two-fold Function of the University" was the subject treated by Dean Frank Allen of the University of Manitoba.

"There are at least two ways in which the university can make itself fruitful in productive scholarship," said Dean Allen. "One is by the establishment of a research school or faculty; the other, by giving every professor who so desires the opportunity and encouragement to investigate the unknown regions of his own particular branch of knowledge. Not only should the university afford the opportunity, but should expect it to be utilized by the faculty at large.

Speaking of the universities of the United States, Dean Allen said: "In some of the provinces of my own country we are paying you the sincere compliment of imitation. We have therefore a direct interest in hoping that you will place your institutions upon the broadest possible basis. By constantly turning the searchlight of an educational higher criticism upon the methods and subjects of instruction, what is relatively useless will gradually be eliminated, and what is useful will be preserved and strengthened. Signs are not wanting that the universities are realizing that their functions have not all been exercised.

TEACHERS' COLLEGE IS NOW A REALITY

New Building at U of N. D. Dedicated on Wednesday.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Culmination of a long cherished plan of bringing about the complete organization of a teachers' college in the North Dakota university was realized this afternoon when the dedication of the splendid new building bearing the name "Teachers' College" took place. Dean Joseph Kennedy, in his acceptance address at the head of the department, paid North Dakota a compliment on that score, stating that, in so far as he was aware the college in this state was the first of its kind in the United States to realize in complete and tangible form what every state university in the land is now striving for, that is, a completely organized teachers' department, with an adequate building and complete model school to serve as a laboratory for the study, at first hand, of the problems of secondary education.

State Supt. W. L. Stockwell presided during the dedication ceremonies, which were made a feature of the inaugural program. State Senator J. C. Gunderson, a former president of the board of regents and sponsor of the bill presented in the 1909 legislative assembly in which the appropriation for the building was carried, acted on behalf of the state in presenting the new building.

"No better investment can be made by those charged with the duty of legislation," said Senator Gunderson in his address of presentation, "than just and liberal appropriations for the better equipment and facilities for the right training and enlightenment of youth. This university, during its years of existence, has amply demonstrated that it should be accorded the unanimous support and approval of every citizen of the state, and increasing appreciation on the part of those who govern the state finances."

MONUMENT TO MAJOR BROWN

Governor and Other Distinguished Men Attend Dedication.

Henderson, Minn., Sept. 28.—Pioneers and officials of Minnesota came in large numbers to Henderson yesterday to attend the exercises of dedication for a monument, erected by the state and personal friends, over the grave of Maj. Joseph Renshaw Brown

The exercises were held yesterday afternoon in the village cemetery, which Maj. Brown gave to the people for a last resting place for their dead, and were listened to by a large concourse. The principal addresses were made by Governor Eberhart and Henry Poehler of Minneapolis, who became associated with the sturdy state builder in 1854. Other early-day acquaintances of Maj. Brown also made short remarks.

The shaft stands at the head of Main street, on a bluff overlooking the valley at the edge of the cemetery. Upon it is the simple inscription: "Joseph R. Brown, Pioneer, Soldier, Statesman, 1805-1870. Founder of Henderson."

A park has been an unknown quantity here and agitation for one has been going on for some time. The Labor day committee has given it a start by donating its surplus fund toward it and has called a meeting for next Friday evening for the purpose of increasing the fund and pushing the project.

Funeral Directors Arrive.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—More than 500 delegates are in Detroit to attend the annual convention of the National Funeral Directors which began today. Toronto, Ont., is said to want the 1912 convention, though the membership of the association is confined entirely to the United States.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Fergus Falls—Coroner Hagan was notified Tuesday that the dead body of Nels Person, a farmer of the town of Eagle Lake, was found hanging in a clump of woods not far from his home. He disappeared last Saturday. No cause is known for his act.

Rochester—The funeral of Mrs. B. K. Muinford, who took her life in a hotel at Montreal, was held in this city. That she committed suicide while temporarily deranged is the belief of her intimate friends. Her mother at about the same age took her life in exactly the same way and two sisters are now confined in asylums. These facts lead to the belief of hereditary insanity.

Winona—J. Heilner Hanson pleaded guilty to embezzling $3,500 from Latsch & Son, his former employers, and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary at Stillwater.

White Earth—Chester A. Wage of Scranton, Pa., and Miss Myrtle Davis of this place were married at the bride's home by Rev. C. H. Beaulieu. Mr. Wage was formerly employed at this agency as principal teacher of the government Indian school. Miss Davis, a former Hamline girl, has been a school teacher for many years. They will make Scranton their home.

Fergus Falls—Envold Olson, who has been conducting a notion store in Rothsay, has disappeared, and his friends are alarmed. He left home on Sept. 19, and nothing has been heard form him since. It is not known whether he has become demented or met with foul play. His business affairs are said to be in good condition.

Winona—Michael Drelle, a laborer employed at the government stone quarry at La Moille, fell from a ledge of rock at the top of the bluff Sunday evening after dark, a distance of twenty feet, striking on his back on some tracks below. The lower portion of his body from the waist down was paralyzed from the fall and his back was severely injured, so that he was unable to help himself and lay all night in the heavy rain.

Pipestone—The highest price ever paid in Pipestone county for a single load of seed was wher J. S. P. Michael, a farmer, marketed a load of timothy at a local elevator and received a check for $260.56. The former record was $218.50, also paid for a load of timothy.

Moorhead—Peter Stark, Theodore Anderson and Adolph Packland, who were arrested some time ago at the north bridge by the Moorhead authorities charged with being drunk and creating a disturbance and who kicked up considerable of a row at being taken, failed to make an appearance when the time of their hearing arrived and forfeited the ball on which they were released.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—Begging Judge Pollock to send him to the state reform school to escape evil companions and to avoid petty crimes, Basil Pollard was accommodated by the court and taken to the reformatory. His voluntary application was an unusual procedure in local court history. The boy is 16 and will have to serve five years.

Devils Lake, N. D.—A large consignment of fish was placed in Freshwater lake, north of this city, by Capt. W. R. Main, who has charge of the fish hatchery.

Valley City, N. D.—A sad accident occurred Saturday which will probably result fatally to the baby child of Mr. and Mrs. Omund Jacobson. The little one was in front of its home when a team belonging to the Algco market in making too short a turn overturned the wagon, striking the baby and knocking a large hole in the back of its head, exposing the brain, injuring the little one so seriously that it was not expected to live until this morning.

Mandan, N. D.—It has lately been concluded that the work on the improvements to the local waterworks system would be postponed until next spring, though the plans, arrangements and awarding of the contracts will be disposed of during the winter months.

Fargo, N. D.—Miss Edna Johnson, while walking in the vicinity of the waterworks Sunday night, was attacked by an unknown man and relieved of a handbag which contained her purse. Monday morning the purse was found and a bunch of keys which had been inside were found about fifty feet from the handbag under some leaves.

Pierre, S. D.—Dr. Delork M. Robinson, one of the best-known physicians of the state, died at his home in this city Monday morning from an attack of pneumonia. He had been a member of the state board of health for years and at the head of the hospital in this city since it was started. Funeral today.

Yankton, S. D.—Coroner H. F. Livingston was called to Utica Saturday to look into the death of a man at that place by the name of Lon Early, whose body was found near the Milwaukee tracks near Utica. It is supposed that he swung from the train when nearest the Myers farm to save a walk, and was either killed by the train or one passing later.

Mandan, N. D.—James Sheriden, the tailor who was badly burned in a gasoline explosion last spring which resulted in the partial destruction of Barrow's building which stood on the site where the new large building is being erected, then occupied by Apenes & Rastad, was killed while getting off a train at Champaign, Ill. When alighting from a moving train he was thrown against a telegraph pole.

Wahpeton, N. D.—The authorities at Wahpeton are holding Edward West, who says he is from Minneapolis, for some one to claim him. West is either insane or making a good bluff at it and the situation is a quandary to the police department here.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—The boy scout movement has extended to Sioux Falls and at a meeting of young men of the city to be held at the First Congregational church Friday evening of this week, a temporary organization will be effected with C. P. Beattie as temporary chairman. A committee consisting of Gray McKee, Harold Fox and Eugene Re Qua, was appointed to perfect plans for the permanent organization.

Pierre, S. D.—At a meeting in this city the officials of the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway company signed an agreement to at once take up the work of constructing a line from Aberdeen to this city over an old grade which was built by the city and which is donated to the company as a bonus for their building to this city.

Redfield, S. D.—F. J. Hayek and family of this city started on an automobile trip to Los Angeles, Cal., Monday morning. There are eleven in the party and three new forty-horse power machines will be used to make the trip. The cars have been specially strengthened and equipped for the long journey. The southern route will be followed and the distance covered will be about 3,500 miles. Mr. Hayek expects to complete the trip in thirty days.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Fire, which originated while men were doing chores, entirely destroyed the barn belonging to John Farmer, residing two miles north of A dock. Horses and cattle were all taken safely out of the barn, but all harness and thirteen tons of hay were destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss estimated at $1,000, partly covered by insurance.

Chippewa Falls — The new federal postoffice building here was occupied and formally opened to the public. It cost almost $80,000, with a site $10,000 extra, being located prominently on the main business street of the city. The interior is finished in Italian marble and bronze. The upper floor is occupied by the internal revenue collector's office, and rooms for civil service examinations, and a postoffice inspector's office. The main floor is used for a postoffice.

La Crosse—While re-enacting for the benefit of her neighbors her daring capture of a robber who attempted to enter her home, Mrs. H. H. Abin, striking a dramatic attitude to show how she held the crook at bay, accidently discharged the revolver, the bullet narrowly missing Mrs. George Coughlin and daughter Mary, who were interested spectators.

Chippewa Falls — The four Sunderland children, Leona, aged 11; Gladys, age 9; Irene, 4; George, 6, were taken to the orphan's home at La Crosse. Her trial will come off at the November term of the circuit court.

Chippewa Falls—A stranger among the numerous followers of the Northern Wisconsin State fair, held here last week, passed a $10 confederate bill at Hotel Cardinal, this city, buying a 10-cent cigar and getting $9.90 back in change. The bill was issued by the Bank of Commerce, state of Georgia, in 1856. The police failed to locate the swindler.

Wausau—The Wausau Street railway has commenced work on a new pumping station at Rothschild park. The new pumps and boiler will have a slightly higher capacity than the present one.

Stevens Point — Stevens Point has been recognized by the Soo railroad by making that city the division headquarters.

Fond du Lac — A movement is now on foot for the reconstruction of the Theresa dam. The Northwestern Iron company of Mayville, is behind the movement. The company is now securing options on the land and will start the construction of the dam as soon as possible.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock — Joseph Paul and Joseph J. Thomas of South Range were arraigned Monday morning before Justice Olivier, charged with shooting partridges out of season. They were arrested on complaint of County Game Warden St. Clair Wilson. Each man was fined $20 and costs, which they paid and promised that in the future they would wait until the open season before attempting to gratify their appetite for partridge.

Manistique — Presumably as a result of smoking in bed, Martin MacElroy, a farmer living five miles north of Manistique, was burned to death. Neighbors attracted to the scene by the glare of the blaze found the entire house in flames. It was impossible to rescue the man or to save his property. MacElroy lived alone. He was 60 years of age and a pioneer of Schoolcraft county.

Escanaba — Without a dissenting vote, the Escanaba common council has adopted the plans and specifications prepared by Charlton & Kuenzli, architects of Milwaukee and Marquette, for a proposed fire station in North Escanaba and instructed the city clerk to advertise for bids for the erection of the structure. The contract to be let will call for the construction of the foundations by Nov. 15 and completion of the entire building by July 1, 1911.

St. Ignace—A fire started in the basement of the First National bank and assumed dangerous proportions. Thanks to the substantial character of the building the flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

Menominee—The upper peninsula and Northern Wisconsin can boast of the best vegetable crops in years. The corn crop is also exceptionally good.

Menominee — The Menominee high school football team will be coached this year by Prof Rawson. Thirty candidates are in the field for positions on the team and it is expected that the eleven will be exceptionally strong. The first game will be with West Green Bay on Oct. 8.

Houghton — Herman Gundlach, a Houghton contractor, has been awarded the contract for the Masonic temple.

BACKACHE MEANS KIDNEY TROUBLE

A Few Doses Make Kidneys Act Fine and End Urinary Trouble.

No reader of this paper, whether man or woman, need be miserable because of backache or kidney or bladder disorders.

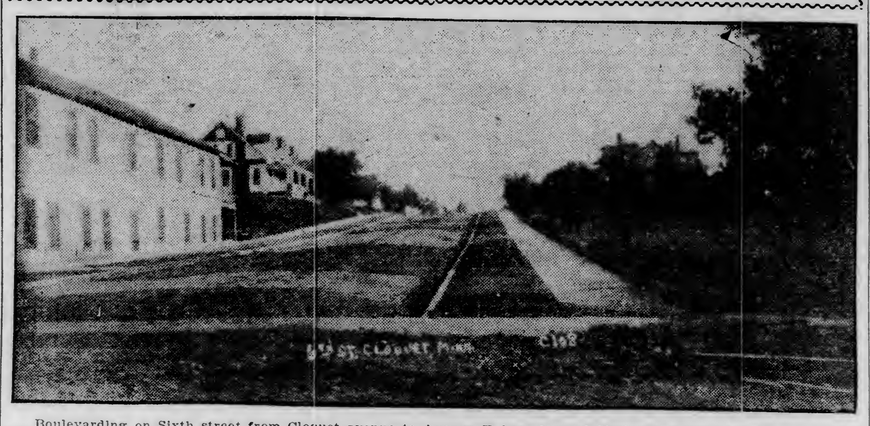

The time to cure kidney trouble is while it is only trouble—before it settles into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Pape's Diuretic acts at once upon the kidneys, bladder and entire urinary system, cleanses, heals and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days. The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary derangement, or feel a constant, dull backache or notice that the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, you should begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Misery in the back, sides or loins, sick headache, inflamed or puffy eyelids, nervousness, prostatic trouble, rheumatism and darting pains, heart palpitations, bilious stomach, dizziness, sleeplessness, listless, weak, worn-out feeling and other symptoms caused by inactive, sluggish kidneys simply vanish. Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discolored water and all bladder misery ends.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, Ohio, who prepare Pape's Diuretic — 50 cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

OVERTURES TO WINNIPEG

Duluth Baseball Men Want Canadian City in New League.

Invasion of the Twin Cities Is Still in Doubt.

A meeting of the officers of the Duluth Baseball association was held last evening to go over the affairs of the club, discuss what will be done in the future in attempting to get into the Twin Cities, and to also take steps toward approaching the Winnipeg club, which it is hoped to get into the proposed new league.

As a result of the meeting last night, it is probable that Jack Desmond will make a trip to Winnipeg, to talk over the proposition with the officials of that club. Winnipeg is anxious to come into the new league, and the officials of the club desire to become better acquainted with the situation.

It is also probable that one of the officials of the Duluth club will go to Columbus, as it is understood that the officials of that club are opposing the entrance of Duluth and Superior to the territory of the Twin Cities.

At the meeting of the Minny league directors Oct. 11 some action may be taken in regard to the proposed action of Duluth and Superior. Here yesterday it was stated that the Minny league would be composed of six clubs in 1911. This statement is taken to mean that neither Duluth or Superior will be in the circuit.

It is generally believed that Duluth will be out of the circuit, and the question at the present time is what circuit this city will join should the owners of the American association finally refuse to permit Duluth and Superior to come into the A. A. territory.

In a letter received yesterday from one of the wisest baseball men in the Twin Cities, the sporting editor of The Herald was informed that at the present time it was impossible to say just what chances the two Minny league teams stood of getting into the Twin Cities.

"There is one thing, however, that can be depended upon, and that is—you can't tell from what Lennon and Cantillon say. Lennon has been guilty of kidding before, and it is hard to teach an old dog new tricks. The people here are going ahead with the proposition and will make every effort to get into the Twin City territory.

BARNEY OLDFIELD SETS FOUR NEW RECORDS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 20.—Barney Oldfield set four new world's records on the state fair race track here yesterday afternoon. In the 25-mile race against time, Oldfield traveled the distance in 22:47, beating the record, which was held by Ralph De Palma. In this race he traveled the twenty miles in new time, setting a mark of 18:15 1-5. This mark also took the record from De Palma, he having held the record with the time of 18:20, which he made at Grand Rapids, Mich. The fifteen miles was made in 13:41 2-5. Oldfield also set a new mark for the one-hour event, traveling sixty and one-half miles during the hour, beating the old record by one and one-half miles. The races were under the auspices of the Milwaukee Automobile club.

RHEUMATISM

WEAK KIDNEYS & THIN BLOOD

Not only is the blood the great nourishing source of our systems, but equally as important is its work of removing the waste of oxodized tissues which have been consumed in force and bodily heat. This waste is filtered out through the kidneys. When, however, the kidneys become weak and unable to perform their regular duties, the waste is allowed to remain in the circulation, soon forming uric acid which destroys the greater portion of nourishing elements of the blood and leave it weak and acrid. This imperfect blood deposits into the different muscles and joints the uratic impurity with which it is contaminated. Then the pains and aches of Rheumatism commence. The gritty formation which uric acid causes collects in the joints and produces the aches and stiffness which always accompany the disease. Likewise the muscles are coated and lose their elasticity, while the continual irritation to the nerves produces swelling and inflammation of the flesh.

S. S. S. cures Rheumatism in the only way it is possible to overcome the disease; it cleanses the blood of all uric acid poison and strengthens the kidneys so they are enabled to properly filter out the waste. S. S. S. is not only the best of blood purifiers, but a fine tonic. Book on Rheumatism free to all who write.

(BY BRUCE.)

One time a certain man, feeling in that rosy-tinted mood after a bottle and a consumption of a large and well prepared amount of the high cost of living stuff, pushed his chair back from the table, and remarked: "There is nothin' to it, gents, nothing succeeds like success."

Since that time political speakers, Fourth of July orators and lady suffragettes have used this dope, which is not copyrighted, and have smeared it far and wide over this broad land of ours.

Down in Detroit, Mich., for three prosperous years the team went along winning pennants. It was fine. Now the Tigers have been beaten to the rag by a team that is in many ways superior to the Jennings boys, and the writers in that town by the St. Clair flats are showing that when success goes across the street, things are discovered that we never dreamed of before.

For instance—until the present year Sam Crawford was one of the idols of the Detroit fans. There was only one Wahoo Sam, and his name was Crawford. Today his name sounds more like mud.

An ambitious young writer on one of the Detroit papers is at the present time telling Sam how to bat. Can you beat it? Telling this veteran how to play the game that he has helped to make immortal.

"Crawford hits where they are waiting for them," this fellow goes on to say," and until he learns to bat the right way, it is very probable that he will continue to slump in his hitting."

They are finding fault with the Tiger catchers, outfielders, with the exception of Cobb; and also many of the other members of the team. Do you suppose that this would have happened if the team was well on its way preparing for the world's championship series with the Cubs? Rather nit and not, Aggie.

This old success stuff is the best thing in the land—no brands barred from competition. Time was when the fans in this neck of the woods howled with glee when the name of darling Darby O'Brien was mentioned. The Irish Orator has still friends in legion and also in Proctor—but, at the same time, there are those who yell that we should have a new manager.

Darby is just as able as the season he landed our bright banner to fame, ran into a lot of unforseen incidents and accidents, and other things, and lost the success thing in the dust of despair.

Now that we have started, we might travel down the road a little further—

James J. Jeffries was once the mightiest pugilist in this bright and broad land of ours. The man who was so fortunate as to grasp the hand of Jeffries, hustled home and told his wife or his friends. He sometimes bought a bright-hued vest and cocked his hat over his right orb. He was a sport and had attained distinction out of the ordinary in this life of ours.

Well, well, what a change! The minute that Jeff was declared the loser at Reno, he billet-headed, square man rose from his seat, and remarked:

"The big stiff never could fight."

Down at Pittsburg they have two of the greatest baseball players that the great national game has ever produced. These men are Fred Clarke and Hans Wagner. The majority of fans invariably think Wagner the greatest of the two—but he is not. The greatest outfielder who ever lived, believed to have been Jimmy McAleer, never saw the day he was any greater gardener than Fred Clarke, who after long service on the diamond is today playing the greatest outfield in the parent major league.

What did the forgetting fans do to Clarke? They just about broke his heart. They hissed him and catcalled him, forgetting in one small detail that this man has given to Pittsburg four pennants, and has always kept the team right up in the running.

Again we have reference to the old thing about success.

It is rather refreshing in this connection to hop to another great athlete, Teddy Roosevelt, and harken to the dust he is scattering down Noo York way. Teddy belongs in the sport collumn by right of contest, for in his boxing and wrestling days he bested the guys who journeyed up to the White House to put him jerry to something out of his line.

After he had went, pardon the expression, there were those who chuckled and said that the poet was plum pertinent when he uttered or muttered those words about the long distance make the heart grow effervescent and affectionate.

It does one good, let it be repeated, as there is strength in repetition and hops, and it is as refreshing as a long and cool one, to see one guy who is getting what is coming to him, after doing great stunts out under the public limelight.

Messrs. Crawford, Sullivan, O'Brien, Jeffries and Clarke have "got there's good," when some of the yelpers believed that they were going. These fellows were good fellows in their time—the kind of men whom Mr. Roosevelt has said a good word for in the midst of his multitudinous tasks. They have got theirs, and they haven't come back with the big "Here I am again, as big as life" speech.

Teddy has, in this tale of woe, it is good to chronicle or rather touch upon the deeds of one who is coming strong

There is really nothing like that old brand, success; but at the same time we are prone to forget that after the cinders and soil of many battles dims the orbs of our once-was heroes, that they are deserving of soft words and a new suit of clothes.

After all this, let us sing.

Who Was He?

From time to time you hear the question asked as concerning the all-round ability of the greatest half back who ever performed in the verdant West. The subject can be arrived at best by elimination. Take group first, and we have: Larson of Wisconsin, Heston of Michigan, Hamil of Chicago, Van Doozer of earlier Northwestern fame, Van Valkenberg of Minnesota, as well as Johnson, Davies and Walter Southworth; Henry Cochems of Wisconsin, in the earlier days; Grey of Cornell and Kennedy of Chicago, though big Walter gained most of his fame at quarter.

Bringing the list down to cases, the question will always rest between "Norsky" Larson, one of the greatest offensive and defensive backs in the West; the immortal "Willie" Heston, the dodging, snake-like Hamil, who was the sensation of Stagg's great 1899 team; Otto Davies of Minnesota, and Van Doozer of earlier fame.

Coming down another step, we have Larson and Heston left, and the majority of critics will say that the West or East never made a better back than the Heston boy.

He might have eaten with his knife and bandaged his head with his napkin, as college muckraker Jordan would have us believe; but, just the same, this Heston could do things to a line that few other backs have been able to do before or since.

There was Vanderboom and Findlay of Wisconsin, Jimmy Irsfield of Minnesota, Hernstein of Michigan, and the great Allerdice of last year's Michigan team—there are many great ones among the great backs of the West; yet who will say that there was ever a greater ground-gaining halfback in the West, then the only Heston?

QUARRELS AND QUERIES

Relative to this question of "come back," the query has been penned in regard to whether there is a successful "come back" on the company books.

Looking over the sporting files one can sure see a long list of dismal failures. There are Jawn Sullivan, Peter Jackson, George Lavigne, Jim Corbett, Charley Mitchell, Jack Dempsey, Bob Fitzsimmons, James J. Jeffries and Jim Tawney.

It is hard to pick a successful "come backist" from the wreck of blasted hopes. Dr. Cook may come back, if he isn't too ashamed, and there is the case of Bob Chanler, who came back, but not in the blushing and bowing, successful way.

Thinking it over seriously, it seems that The Cat and Enoch Arden were about the only successful members of the "come back" club.

Alf. Tennyson, who wrote sports in the epic and sonnet league, tells interestingly of the "come back" of Enoch, who was one of the best waiters in the business.

An amendment to the new rules:

That the ushers wear lace on their sleeves and that the yell masters be instructed to repeat the Golden Rule between the frequent intermissions; that the old veil of "Hit the line be entirely dispensed with and a gentle lisp be substituted, calling gently on the home cohorts to agitate their defense or ruffle their ends; that between the halves coaches be instructed by the faculty not to denunciate or bawl out players, as the nervous shock is too great; rather have the coaches read from Plutach's lives or the stirring and up and doing life of Carry Nation.

Thus would we be getting nearer to the ideal conditions surrounding a game mild and amusing to both children and our elders, who have tired of a life of intense excitement.

* * *

Who is considered the best catcher in the land is the question sent in.

Jawn Kling or Archer.

"What was the first knockout that we have any record of?"

Kid Caine put out Young Abel in the first round, landing left and right and the limb of a tree. Hit and get-away rules governed this contest.

To your query as to what has beccme of old Tom McCune, it has just been learned that he is boxing instructor in the South Dakota old soldiers' home.

FIRST ROLLER SKATING RACE OF SEASON.

Phil Bouche, who will skate Frank Bryant the first roller skating race of the present season at the Lincoln Park auditorium, has raced Joe Munch, generally looked upon as the champion of the Northwest; Harlow Davidson, John Erickson, the Aberdeen flyer, and many other of the best skaters in the business.

The race tomorrow evening will be the first appearance of Bouche in a regular contest in this city. He is the fastest man that Bryant has been matched with, and if the Duluth boy wins the mile contest tomorrow evening, he will be looked upon as one of the real classy skaters in this part of the country.

Bryant has repeatedly challenged Bill Grimmer of Minneapolis, but has not heard a peep from the Mill City man. If Bryant is successful in his match with Bouche, an attempt will be made to arrange a meeting between the Duluth crack and Harley Davidson.

McFARLAND WINS FROM HYLAND

Chicago Boy Given Popular Decision After Bout in New York.

New York, Sept. 28.—Packy McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, outpointed and out-batted "Fighting Dick" Hyland in a slashing 10-round bout last night before the Fairmount Athletic club. The largest crowd that has ever witnessed a contest before this club was present. It was McFarland's first appearance here since he outpointed Leach Cross two years ago and he quickly won favor, popular decision awarding him the victory. No decision was rendered however.

McFarland started mixing from the start, using a short, snappy jab to the face that confused Hyland. The latter, however, unmindful of punishment, rushed continually landing swings to the body, but the distance was too short for this style of fighting to be effective.

McFarland gave a fine exhibition of blocking, using his forearms effectively and was forced to do little ducking. Gradually, he led Hyland into making wild lunges, while his own blows were well timed and directed in fine shape. In clinches McFarland showed to advantage, working a right uppercut to the face that drew blood.

Both men finished strong, the final round being fast and even. McFarland's superior work throughout however, was apparent to the experts.

TAYLOR COMING HERE TO PLAY HATLEY.

William Hatley, manager and proprietor of the St. Louis hotel billiard parlors, has arranged to bring some star billiard players to the Head of the Lakes the coming winter. The players who come here will be seen in matches with Mr. Hatley, who is one of the best players in the Middle West.

Al Taylor of Milwaukee, formerly instructor in the Chicago Athletic club and one of the cleverest players among the cue artists who rank just below Hoppe, Morningstar and Sutton, will be the first player to come here for a series of games.

Taylor and Mr. Hatley will engage in a billiard series in the near future, and after Taylor it is the intention of Mr. Hatley to bring some of the cleverest players in the West to the Head of the Lakes.

At one time Taylor was considered in the first flight of the country's billiard players. Since that time Hoppe has exhibited his phenomenal form, while Sutton and Morningstar have taken places beside the boy wonder.

PRINCETON WRESTLER BESTS SOUTH DAKOTA GRAPPLER.

Last Monday evening at Sandstone, Minn., Ben Hass, the crack welterweight wrestler of Princeton, defeated Jack Elvan of South Dakota. The first fall was secured in thirty minutes, the second fall coming in sixteen minutes. Both falls were accomplished by the scissors hold.

Hass is considered one of the best wrestlers in the state, and after the great showing against Elvan is going after bigger game. He will wrestle Dick Shepperd, the Pipestone wonder, some time the coming winter, and he also desires a meeting with Sailor Jack of this city.

SAILOR JACK AFTER TITLE

Duluth Boy Demands Match With Winner of Miller-Suter Bout.

Those who have followed the career of Sailor Jack, the crack wrestler, who for the past year has claimed Duluth for his home, will be interested in the elimination contest that is promised for the coming winter, for the purpose of determining the welterweight champion wrestler of the world.

The announcement from St. Paul that Young Miller, the present holder of the title, and Otto Suter of Cleveland will meet in a match that will indisputably give the winner the right to claim the championship of the world, is of interest locally, because of the assurance that Sailor Jack will meet the winner of the contest.

Last winter some sharps attempted to trick the husky sailor into one of these come-on matches. Suter was the man at Virginia who masqueraded under the name of Mose Brown. Some friend of the Sailor put him wise to the artifice.

"That's all right," said the sailor, never batting an eye, "Suter is the very guy I want to meet."

Sailor has met every man of his class that he could secure a match with, and for the past six months he has been a persistent challenger of Young Miller. He has also expressed his willingness to meet Otto Suter, so that no matter who wins the St. Paul match, for the world's welterweight title, the husky Duluth sailor, who has made hundreds of staunch friends here by his willingness to meet any man of his weight in the world, will in all likelihood meet the winner.

GIANTS' CAST-OFF IS SIGNED BY BALTIMORE.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 28. — Ashley Pope, a right-handed pitcher who worked in the South Atlantic league this season, has been signed by the Baltimore club of the Eastern league. Pope has been drafted by the New York National league team, but was let go because Manager McGraw found he had gone above the limit permitted in the number of players.

Bowling Meeting Called.

A meeting of the bowlers of the city is called for tomorrow evening, when those interested in the formation of the new league will attempt to complete the details of the association that will have general charge of bowling matters in the city. All those interested in the good of the game in this city are requested to be present at the meeting tomorrow evening. The meeting will be held in the Majestic parlors.

FIRST GAMES FOR YALE AND HARVARD.

New York, Sept. 28.—Further opportunity for a test of the new football rules was afforded today when two more of the big Eastern colleges entered the lists for the beginning of the season's battles on the gridiron. Yale and Harvard gave their first public entertainments of the year, the Crimson meeting Bates at Cambridge and the Blue trying conclusions with Wesleyan at New Haven.

Pennsylvania will play Dickinson at Philadelphia. Other games of the day were Indians vs. Muhlenberg at Carlisle; Amherst vs. Norwich at Amherst; Cornell vs. Hobart at Ithaca; Lafayette vs. Bloomburg at Easton; and Lehigh vs. Western Maryland at South Bethlehem.

LAJOIE LEADS COBB IN RACE FOR AUTO.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Larry Lajoie, the leading batter of the Cleveland Baseball club, remained ahead of his rival, Ty Cobb of the Detroit team, yesterday, in the race for the automobile, which is to be presented to the player with the largest batting average in the major leagues at the end of the season.

In the first game of the double-header with Boston, Lajoie made three hits in four times at bat. In the second game he failed to secure a hit in three times at bat. Cobb in the New York-Detroit game, only secured one hit in four times at bat. The leaders' averages now stand: Lajoie, .374.7; Cobb, .366.4.

DRIVER TO COACH BADGER FRESHMAN.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 28. — Earl S. Driver, a former Wisconsin football star, has been appointed by the regents to take charge of the freshman football team this fall. Mathew F. Colin, '00, and L. H. Huntley '08, were appointed assistants for the 'varsity football squad.

SHOOTING SPRAY IS FIRST AT THE WIRE.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 28.—Shooting Spray surprised the race followers here yesterday by defeating Governor Gray and County Tax, coupled in the betting and strong favorites in the fourth race, the Idle Hour farm handicap for 2-year-olds. The winner paid $11.40 in the $2 mutuels.

Hiram, a well-backed second choice, took the fifth race from Judge Walton and Nettle Traver in a driving finish.

In the third Starport, a strong favorite, was a head in front of Denver Girl, which led Claudia, the second choice, by half a length.

The spectators numbered nearly 5,000. The weather was partly cloudy and the track slow.

Adams and Broadways.

The crack Adams football team, which is out for the Head of the Lakes championship the present season, remembering keenly the rather crushing defeat by Superior last season, has arranged a game with the Broadways of Superior for next Sunday. The Broadways claim to have a very strong team the present season.

One for Coleraine and one for Bovey and one for Marble. It is probable that a number will be given at Taconite upon the completion of the new town hall there. The Coleraine course will consist of six numbers, which will open Oct. 10 by the Chicago Operatic company. Course tickets for the entire course will be sold and the entire school district will be urged to purchase them and assist in paying heavy expenses.

L. D. Sweet of Marble is organizing a company of home talent theatrical artists preparatory to putting on a number of good plays during the fall and winter months. The first one to be presented will be ready on Oct. 20 and will be given in the village hall. Mr. Sweet promises something good for the opening performance.

The moving picture show of the Passion Play presented at the town hall Sunday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church, was very well attended, considering the rainy weather.

SCAFFOLD FALLS; ONE MAN KILLED

Fatal Accident Occurs at the Eveleth High School.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday morning a scaffold on the new high school building gave way and William Rosemurgy and three others fell to the ground, a distance of twelve feet. The bricks and mortar from the scaffold fell on Rosemurgy and it was seen that he seriously injured. He was taken to the residence of Dr. Francis and died about half an hour later.

Thomas Santi and Tony Caponi, laborers, and Lind Gilbert, a bricklayer, also fell when the scaffold gave way, and received minor injuries.

A moment before the fatal accident occurred the foreman of the work warned all the bricklayers to be careful not to put on too much mortar or brick on the scaffold, as he feared that the scaffold would be unbalanced, and wished the scaffold to be used solely for walking purposes.

The body of the deceased was removed to the Cosgrove Undertaking parlors and Deputy Coroner J. J. Gleason of Eveleth, called.

The deceased was a bricklayer in the employ of Graham & Young, Hibbing, the contractors who are erecting the high school building. He was a resident of Houghton, Mich., and removed to Gilbert when work on the new school was started. He was an Englishman, about 35 years of age, and is survived by a brother, who resides in Houghton, and who is expected here today to take charge of the remains.

MANY SURPRISES IN PRIMARY ELECTION

Vote for Democratic County Attorney Is Exceedingly Close.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Sept. 28.—The recent primary election has provided a number of surprises, none of which is greater than the apparent defeat of County Attorney Price by R. A. McOuat of Coleraine, both candidates on the Democratic ticket. With one precinct missing, the total vote of these candidates stands, McOuat 94, Price 90. The precinct to be heard from is Carpenter, and it is not considered probable that there were enough Democratic votes cast to change the result. Mr. McOuat has been in the county about a year.

In the close and exciting race for the office of judge of probate, John Le Fevre is the winner, with a plurality of 61 votes. All of the candidates were within 75 votes of each other.

Glen Strader was nominated for treasurer by 447 votes, and Mrs. Whipple defeated Hattie Booth by 334 votes.

In the Fifth commissioner district, Edward Logan received 79 majority over Archie McWilliams, who was a candidate for renomination. In the Third district another surprise was recorded in the run made by Edward Hansen of Bovey, who came within one vote of beating John P. Trebilcock of Coleraine. Trebilcock was also a candidate for renomination. He is one of the well known mining men of the western Mesaba. In the First district George Ruby was nominated by a majority of 100 over George Herreid. Both men live at Deer River.

GILBERT TO HAVE A SEWER SYSTEM

Citizens So Vote and the Council Approves It.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The special election held yesterday on the question of bonding the city for $20,000 so that a sewage system may be installed here this fall, resulted in the proposition carrying by a vote of 85 to 22. This means that the city may have a sewage system this fall, for the council favors a bond issue, the election being called at the council's request.

At a special meeting of the city council last evening a resolution stating that the city be bonded for $20,000, so that a sewage system may be installed here this fall was adopted and the clerk instructed to advertise for bids on the work.

CLERKS' WORK IS INCREASING

New City Clerk Is Recommended for Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular meeting of the city council last Monday evening a petition from the Commercial club asking that First avenue between Cedar and Poplar streets be resurfaced and covered with crushed rock to give it a better appearance and to make it more serviceable.

Mayor M. K. Knauff brought up the matter of making the office of city clerk and that of water and light collector separate. City Clerk McAlpine has charge of the water and light work, and the work has so increased that it is hardly possible for him to complete all his work. Mayor Knauff recommended that another man be secured to do all the city clerk's regular work, and in addition keep some other records for the city that are not being kept at this time. The matter of First street was referred to the committee on streets and alleys, and that of the city clerk was referred to the council as a whole to investigate and report at the next meeting.

The work of grading Poplar and Cedar streets and macadamizing them is nearly finished. The work of laying the final crushed rock is progressing fast and in a few days will be completed. With the completion of this work Two Harbors will have a fine set of streets in the lower part of the city, all of the streets except Maple being in good condition. It is very probable that Maple street will be macadamized in the next year or so.

TO ERECT GUIDE POSTS.

Contracts Awarded for Road From Tower to Biwabik.

Tower, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a Commercial club gathering held at the Vermilion hotel Monday night the contract was let for signs for guide posts, to be used on the recently improved road from Tower to Biwabik to assist the numerous automobile travelers and tourists in keeping the right road between these towns. The road is reported excellent along the Mesaba range from Hibbing to Virginia, Eveleth and Biwabik, and with pleasant weather for the next four or six weeks large numbers of autos from the "soft ore" range ought to be seen in Tower and along the shore of Lake Vermilion.

The Hotel Vermilion was taxed Sunday and Monday with a large number of guests, many of them from Duluth and Fond du Lac, Wis., who are interested in the Walsh properties.

A recent important real estate transfer was the sale of the Helstrom residence on North Pine street, near the corner of North Third street.

LOCAL OFFICIALS OF AURORA SUED

Desires Repayment of Money Spent for Co-operative Company.

Aurora, Minn., Sept. 28.—All the local officials have been sued by Edward Darrow, a taxpayer. He asks that the village officials be compelled to put back into the village treasury $1,253.40, a sum already paid to the Home Stock Co-operative company, a local mercantile institution, and through the district court Mr. Darrow has also secured a restraining order, preventing the village from paying to the same concern the sum of $128.99, the latter account allowed by the council Sept. 12. The complaint says that village officials held stock in the company and that, consequently it is illegal for it to receive money from the village treasury.

Mr. Darrow is the defeated candidate for mayor.

The complaint filed with the local officials cites the times and dates upon which certain purchases were made from the Home Stock Co-Operative company, and alleges that all the officials are interested in the company. This the officials deny most emphatically and assert that although some members of their families may hold stock in the company, that they do not, and that they propose to open the entire matter of such payments through the public examiner and determine whether spite suits can be maintained merely to make local political capital. It is argued that the particularly small amount involved would warrant this stand.

A little over $200 of the amount involved was purchased while Dr. Darrow was a member of the council, although not paid for until the present council came into office. Mr. Darrow, it is charged, was a member of the purchasing committee.

The entire affair is locally regarded as a reoccurrence of the local political fight that has raged in Aurora for the past three years.

WOULD MOVE CHURCH.

Virginia Man Says Edifice Obstructs His Vision.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 28.—At the council meeting last night John Byrne presented a petition requesting that the Swedish-Lutheran church building at the corner of Wyoming avenue and Locust street be removed from its present position, owing to its impeding the view from his residence. The building sets close to the street, whereas, according to the building ordinance, it is said that it should be at least seven feet back from the street. Members of the church were present at the council meeting and signified their willingness to remove the building as soon as they could raise sufficient money to pay the expense of doing so. The matter was left in abeyance.

Meat Inspector Byrne reported that all the markets in the city were in good condition, but President Osborn of the council replied that he knew of a market that was not in good condition, and the city health officer was instructed to see that the proper changes were made.

EVELETH MINER DIES OF TYPHOID.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Rode of Virginia, who was employed at the Virginia mine stripping recently took sick with typhoid fever, and died here Monday after a few days' illness. He was buried yesterday afternoon at Virginia, from the Swedish Lutheran church, a Virginia minister having charge of the ceremonies. Interment was made at Virginia.

publican state committee, to succeed John A. Merritt of Lockport, is said to have been the result of a truce between the Stevens-Wadsworth factions in the Thirty-fourth congressional district, which comprises the counties of Genesee, Livingston, Niagara, Orleans and Wyoming. Friends of the speaker said today that he has decided not to return to the assembly next year.

State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff of Brooklyn, one of the old guard leaders, was one of the first to feel the effect of the progressives' victory in the convention yesterday. Delegates from Kings county in the Sixth congressional district already have retired Mr. Woodruff as state committeeman and elected Alfred E. Vase to succeed him. Members of two other congressional districts reported that they were ready to elect Mr. Woodruff a member of the state committee, but it was reported that the state chairman had said he was ready to retire from politics. This Mr. Woodruff denied, stating that he has nineteen of the twenty-three Brooklyn districts and intends to remain as leader.

Woodruff Passed By.

It is understood that Mr. Woodruff was named as one of the members of the resolutions committee, but his name was scratched off by Col. Roosevelt and the name of Comptroller Prendergast of New York City substituted in its place. Among the members of the committee are William Barnes, Jr., Speaker James W. Wadsworth of the assembly, George W. Aldridge, Senator Cobb, author of the recently defeated primary bill, Former Mayor Seth Low of New York, Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, Senator Brackett, Representative Sereno E. Payne and Representative J. Sloat Fassett.

As he took up the gavel, Col. Roosevelt asked the delegates and spectators not to smoke.

No Contested Seats.

The committee on credentials reported that there were no contests and there was no report to be made, which elicited from the temporary chairman words of congratulation.

"This convention," he said, "has shown that the utmost intensity of difference of opinion can be accompanied by scrupulous fairness in handling the question as to who is by right entitled to admission to the convention."

United States Senator Root was named as permanent chairman of the convention by the committee on permanent organization. The report was adopted and Col. Roosevelt appointed

TIMOTHY L. WOODRUFF, Leader Beaten by Roosevelt, Who Suffered Another Rebuff.

Charles S. Francis of Troy and Speaker Wadsworth of the assembly to escort Mr. Root to the chair.

Laugh on Roosevelt.

There was a loud laugh when Col. Roosevelt started to leave the platform without introducing Senator Root.

Secretary Gleason hustled after the colonel and brought him back.

"As I understand you may not identify the gentleman I am about to introduce, I am called back to present the permanent chairman of the convention, the Hon. Elihu Root," said Col. Roosevelt.

Chairman Root thanked the convention for the honor they had conferred upon him.

"No prepared slate of which I have heard, bore my name for permanent chairman, and no prepared speech lurks in my pocket or in my hand," said the senator.

"Now shall I detain you by any extended remarks from the work which you have before you and from addressing yourselves to the performance of that work, so that the deliberations of this convention may be finished this day and the delegates be able to return to their homes this evening."

Root Talks of "Revolt."

The chairman said there was passing over the entire country a revolt against the time-worn form of political organizations.

"Initiative and referendum, recall, direct selection of senators, direct nominations," said the chairman, "all are evidence that the people of our country feel that our forms of political organization do not adequately furnish the voters of our political parties means to give effect to their political will.

Trend of Public Opinion.

"I am told that the trend of public opinion is against the Republican party this year. Well, what of it? What difference does that make to us here in the performance of our duty? When did Republicans ever lose heart or love or enthusiasm or virile effectiveness on fear of being in a minority? If the trend of public opinion is against us, we'll change it. If old supporters of our party have turned, under some idea that they can do better elsewhere, we'll show them that they are wrong. We'll win.

"We will earn the support of the people of this state by deserving it.

"We will stand together," concluded the chairman, "the minority and majority doing our duty, loyally demonstrating our fitness for confidence, and we will fight on, no matter what we are told the signs of the times may be, putting ourselves right and fighting for that right, not for ourselves alone, not for the candidates alone, but for other Republicans all over the state and the land, for other Republicans in days to come, for other candidates to be nominated in 1912 and in 1916 and in many and many a year to follow—not for our candidates alone, but for our country."

Chairman Root's speech was heartily cheered.

Mr. Prendergast of King's county read to the convention the report of the resolutions committee.

Roasts Public Graft.

The platform adopted by the committee on resolutions for presentation to the convention declares relentless warfare against official and legislative wrong doing in this state and asserts that dishonesty in public service is, next to treason, the most flagrant of crimes.

"In ridding our institutions of this cancer-growth, we know no party distinction," says the platform. "The crimes which have been committed have involved members of both parties, and the fact that some of the wrongdoers have masqueraded under the name of Republicans neither has gained nor shall gain them immunity from punishment by Republicans."

Indorses Taft Administration.

President Taft's administration is given indorsement as follows.

"We enthusiastically indorse the patriotic and statesmanlike leadership of William Howard Taft and declare our pride in the achievements of his first eighteen months as president of the United States. Each succeeding month since his inauguration has confirmed the nation in its high estimate of his greatness of character, intellectual ability, sturdy common sense, extraordinary patience and perseverance, broad and statesmanlike comprehension of public questions and unfaltering and unswerving adherence to duty.

"He has strengthened our prestige with foreign nations and treated with vigor and wisdom important international problems, notably our tariff relations with Germany, France and Canada.

Record of Achievements.

"Under his administration the prosecutions of those implicated in the sugar and other customs frauds have been continued and convictions obtained; there have been impartial and energetic enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust act; a substantial reduction of governmental expenses; the establishment of better business methods, which will result in greater efficiency and real economy; remarkable progress in the construction of the Panama canal, and the withdrawal from private entry of over 71,000,000 acres of the public domain to preserve for public benefit, valuable coal and other mineral deposits, timber land and water power sites.

"On his recommendation congress has provided for a commission to investigate and report on the regulation of the issuance of stocks and bonds by public service corporations engaged in interstate commerce. He has advocated a new system of appropriations for river and harbor improvements, under which each item, after investigation by experts, shall be approved and carried to completion as a separate measure. This recommendation we heartily indorse."

As to the Payne Law.

The platform has this to say of the tariff bill:

"The Payne tariff law reduced the average rate of all duties 11 per cent.

"By increasing the duties on some luxuries and articles not of ordinary use, making, however, no increase on any common food product, it turned a national deficit into a surplus. Under its first year of operation the value of imports free of duty was the greatest in our history by $109,00,000 and the average rate of duty was less than under the Wilson law. Unlike the Democratic law, its great reductions of duty have not stopped industry nor deprived labor of any part of its hire. It gives free trade with the Philippine islands and it establishes a customs court. Its maximum and minimum rates give us for the first time equality of opportunity with other nations in our foreign trade.

"In providing, upon the suggestion of President Taft, for a tariff board, it affords the means of still more accurately determining the difference in cost of production at home and abroad.

For Further Revision.

"A Republican congress is necessary to provide needed appropriations for this board and to assure business and labor that changes in rates will be made only to equalize the difference in cost of production and not to reduce rates to the free trade, or purely revenue, basis favored by the Democratic party.

"To avoid disturbance of business, we urge the adoption by the congress of a joint rule of the two houses, recommended by the president and leaders in congress, by which the two houses could consider a single schedule or a single paragraph of the tariff without the necessity for amendment which would lead to a general revision.

"Advances in the cost of living are only the local reflection of a tendency that is world-wide and cannot be truthfully said to be due to the present tariff."

The administration of Governor Hughes is given strong indorsement and President Taft is congratulated on his selection of Hughes as a member of the United States supreme court.

On Labor and Capital.

On labor and capital the platform contains the following paragraph:

"The record of Republican legislation during the last eighteen years, conserving the public interest by improving the condition of labor, is unequalled in our history. One hundred and sixty such enactments were written in our statutes, covering the whole range of labor's interest in the workshops, factories, mines and quarries and upon all forms of public work.

"We believe that capital, honestly employed, should be permitted to feel that sense of security essential to stimulate its legitimate investment and thus safeguard the prosperity which has been so well established under Republican administration."

On Conservation.

Of conservation the platform says: "In the interests of the growth and prosperity of the state, we favor the conservation, development and utility of all our natural resources, under conditions, however, which will protect and safeguard the rights of the state."

Direct nominations are indorsed in the following plank:

"To Governor Hughes is due the credit of arousing the interest of the people and convincing them of the need of directly electing their party officers and directly nominating their party candidates. We promise legislation which will enact these principles into law."

References to President Taft and Governor Hughes created rounds of applause.

Amend Primary Plank.

Speaker Wadsworth moved a minority report which he said contained a substitute for the direct primaries plank in the minority report.

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university asked that the following sentence be added to the majority report:

"It being understood that the delegate conventions may be retained and that candidates for assemblymen and senators shall at the earliest possible date be selected by direct nominations."

A motion to limit the debate on the platform to two hours was carried, whereupon many spectators and some of the delegates left the hall.

and influence in the nation. The people of Wisconsin believe the results secured promise opportunity for greater achievements and they have, by an unprecedented majority, expressed their faith in his wisdom and statesmanship and approved his re-election to the United States senate."

On patronage the platform reads:

"Wisconsin is to be congratulated upon having representatives in the senate and house who remained true to the people and to the national platform of the party, notwithstanding the efforts to punish them for so doing by withdrawal of federal patronage."

Scores Tariff Law.

On the tariff it says:

"The Payne-Aldrich tariff is not in compliance with the pledge of the Republican party in its national platform.

"The true basis of a protective tariff is the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, and we hold that any increased cost of production due to higher wages and standards of living of American labor should be accompanied by compensating tariff duties.

"The present tariff board has no power of investigation and is not required to report to congress. We favor the creation of a non-partisan tariff commission empowered to ascertain the cost of production in this and other countries and required to make frequent reports of the information gained to congress. Upon the information so obtained congress should proceed to revise the different schedules independently of each other, according to true protective tariff principles."

Plank on Trusts.

The plank on trusts declares in a general way that the laws against trusts should not be changed "until the people have regained control of government." It says:

"The operation of the federal and state anti-trust and conspiracy laws has been productive of flagrant and unjust inequalities. The laws have been circumvented by the most dangerous and powerful of the monopolies and trusts, which through their control of the banks the money and the credit of the country centered in Wall street, control the natural resources, the food and clothing and the highways of the nation.

"This money power in defiance of laws, has crushed competition and has built up financial monopolies in the interest of speculators and against the interests of producers, wage earners and consumers. The laws designed to prevent industrial monopoly have been used to suppress the unions and co-operative efforts of wage earners and farmers in their struggle to protect the value of their labor and the products of their labor against those monopolies.

For Separate Classification.

"We favor such separate classification of unions, associations, monopolies and trusts as shall abolish this pretense and shall establish real equality before the law. Where monopoly is inevitable we favor complete government regulation.

"Except as herein stated, we are opposed to any change in the laws against trust and monopolies until the people have gained control of the government and have been able to assert complete control over all questions of monopoly affecting the public interest, and this control should include the fullest exercise of the power of the federal and state governments to protect bona fide officials and promoters and financial speculators.

"We point to the regulation of public service corporations in Wisconsin during the past five years as conclusive proof that public control of corporation monopoly is successful, is reasonable to the corporations and essential to the welfare of the people.

Labor Organization.

"Where farmers and wage earners are compelled to organize in order to protect their labor and the products of their labor, we favor the most complete liberty of organization under laws promoting publicity, collective bargaining and voluntary arbitration."

INDORSED BY THE GOVERNOR

The plan of the D. A. R., for the restoration of the old Sibley house has met with the approval of Governor A. O. Eberhart and Mrs. Jay Leslie Howard today received a letter from the governor assuring her that she has his support.

Mrs. Howard is meeting with encouragement on all sides in her efforts to raise funds for the purpose and the play, which will be presented at the Lyceum soon for the benefit of the plan, promises to be an unqualified success.

Following is the governor's letter:

"State of Minnesota, Executive Department.—Dear Madam: I am glad to know that you are making such encouraging progress in raising funds to restore the old Sibley house and opening it to the public, and I want to assure you of my sincere interest in the enterprise, as well as my desire to cooperate in any way that will be helpful. Very truly yours,

"A. O. EBERHART, Governor."

MAIL WRONGLY ADDRESSED

Postmaster A. P. Cooke is sending out to the wholesale houses and commercial organizations a circular, calling attention to the lack of sufficient addresses on mail which is sent out from the local postoffice.

The springing up of new towns some little time in the advance of the establishment of a postoffice is largely responsible for mail being held up, as it is frequently impossible to dispatch to these places without the full direction being given.

The circular is as follows:

"The constant springing up of new towns equipped with trade facilities results in additional mail appertaining thereto, even before they become postoffices. Mail for such should be addressed via the nearest postoffice. A subscription to the postal guide through the J. B. Lyon company, Albany, N. Y., would give you all of the present postoffices and new ones as established, also the old ones discontinued or changed to rural routes.

"The postal regulation, 'that matter not addressed to a postoffice is unmailable,' would not apply if the nearest postoffice is added to your direction, and much confusion, delay and possible loss be obviated."

COPPERS DULL AND LISTLESS

The copper market continued in a light trading position today. There was an absence of pressure and values closed fractionally higher than the opening. The trend of the market was in a narrow range and values were somewhat nervous. From a moderately weak opening the leaders declined and then rallied, advancing until toward the close when there was a slight slump.

President Taft told a labor official that a "square deal" would be given the railroads and when Wall street heard this it turned over in its sleep. The result was a slight firming in values. The short session of the Republican state convention at Saratoga, N. Y., caused a better feeling, also. The East was surprised at the mildness of the platform, which the convention was scheduled to adopt. It had expected a denunciation of everything from rich malefactors to folk who don't cultivate a baby crop.

Electrolytic copper is selling at 12¾c cash, or 12½c for thirty days by the leading sellers. Some agencies are not doing any business but are waiting to see what happens. Calumet & Hecla, which reduced the price of its copper to 12¾c a lb, has sold all of the copper it desires at this price and has restored its selling basis to 13c. The United States selling agency continues to quote electrolytic copper at 12¾c. This is an example of the Amalgamated idea of economics.

A wire from Butte said: "In an answer filed late yesterday by Attorney Charles R. Leonard for the defendant in the suit of the North Butte company vs. the Tuolumne company, sensational counter charges are made by the defendant that North Butte company has extracted large quantities of ore from the eastern portion of Tuolumne and from the Jessie compromise strip belonging to the Tuolumne.

"The answer makes denial of charges that the defendant company has ever extracted ore from the North Butte property, and in addition it asks for an accounting of ore alleged to have been taken from the Tuolumne company by the plaintiff company, and in addition an injunction is asked against further extraction of ore from the property in question. The answer denies that the North Butte has any interest in this strip at all, and alleges that the deed obtained by J. G. Moroney for North Butte does not convey any interest whatever.

"Edward Hickey in purchasing Patrick Meaher's one-fourth interest in Tuolumne and the Jessie compromise strip, supposed he was acquiring all of the tract, but the deed reads: 'One-fourth of Meaher's interest.' After the Tuolumne opened up ore bodies, Moroney acting for North Butte, purchased from Meaher what is claimed to be the other three-fourths of Meaher's interest. It is in this strip that the ore bodies are located.

"The suit promises to be one of the most important since the Heinze-Amalgamated Copper case."

BAKE OVEN CURES C. ERIKSON QUICKLY

After Suffering Two Years and Most of the Time Bedridden, Finds Instant Relief in Loughney & Loughney's Bake Ovens, Says Bake Ovens Cannot Fail to Cure, Even in Most Obstinate Cases.

Men and women from all over the Northwest who have suffered from Rheumatism, sometimes of years' standing, have taken advantage of the Loughney Bake Oven Treatments, since they were first given in Duluth about two months ago. Mr. Carl Erikson, a resident of Aurora, Minn., came to the Loughney Bake Ovens. He had suffered from Rheumatism for the past two years, and could find no relief, though he sought for it through different sources. The best idea of the results obtained in Mr. Erickson's case can be had by reading his testimonial, which follows:

"I have suffered most intense pains from Sciatic Rheumatism for the past two years. Could hardly walk, and the pains were sometimes so severe that I could get no rest. After seeing the amount of good that was being done for others I decided to try the Loughney Bake Ovens. I began taking treatments and obtained the desired relief from the very first treatment, which has continued with every treatment, and I am now entirely free from pain. It is surely a wonderful cure for Rheumatism, and I would recommend it to any one who is suffering from Rheumatism.

I feel satisfied from the marvelous change in my case and from what other sufferers say in regards to their cases that the Bake Ovens cannot fail to cure the most obstinate cases. I had tried everything I heard of to be relieved of my suffering—all to no avail. I even took five trips to see Dr. Till, and had plasters on my back each time, and got no relief, so I'm satisfied the Bake Ovens will give satisfaction.

I live at Aurora, Minn., and I'll gladly substantiate the above. Yours truly, (Signed)

Yours truly
Carl Erikson

WHEAT DULL AND LOWER

Shorts Take Offerings Toward the Close---Trading Light.

Rally Is Feeble---Manitobas Exported---Flax Declines.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 28.—Wheat declined today, although values firmed toward the close. The upturn did not carry prices to yesterday's closing levels. September lost ⅜c; December, ⅛c and May ⅛@¼c. Shorts took most of the wheat offered after noon. Cash wheat was on a parity with December; oats lost ½c; rye was unchanged; barley lost 5c, selling at 60@65c and durum wheat declined ¼c.

Flax was weaker. September declined 5c; October, 4c; November, 4c; December 3½c and May 5½c. Cash flax was on a parity with October.

France was reported to have bought some wheat on the Pacific coast. La Plata and Russian were cheaper. Crop news from countries in the southern hemisphere was favorable.

Wheat opened weak on lower cables and declined from lack of support. Toward noon values firmed. The volume of trading was extremely light and there was very little interest in the market. Shorts accepted profits and the strength at Winnipeg helped markets on this side. Export business in Manitobas robbed the market of a portion of its bearish character.

After the close last night this market did a good business in Manitobas to Germany, France and the United Kingdom. France has been buying considerable white winter wheat, but Manitobas are now cheaper than winter wheat and occupy a more favorable position for export. Germany, said an exporter, takes anything that is cheap. When durum wheat was lowest Germany bought durums. That country is buying Manitoba wheat now for the same reason that durum wheat was formerly purchased.

Crop reports from Argentina, Australia and India are exceedingly favorable. World's shipments continue larger and in excess of weekly requirements. The bulls are still of the opinion that a world's shortage exists and that all of the wheat available will be wanted before the crop is over. A feature of the situation in France that is attracting some attention is the poor quality of the wheat. While the estimated shortage of the crop may have been exaggerated, yet there is no doubt that the quality is much poorer than last year. The bears reply to this argument with the assertion that the standard of wheat in France is higher than in the United States and that what might be considered a poor quality there would be regarded as a fair or good quality here. The Frenchmen are picking up wheat quietly wherever they can get it. They are buying under cover and generally accept offers rather than make bids. They are getting as much wheat as possible without forcing readjustment of values on a higher basis.

There does not appear to be an immediate possibility of an export demand for American wheat and some people believe that there will be no export business of this character this year. European markets are flooded with wheat. Many foreign buyers, claimed at the reported shortage in wheat at home as well as in some of the regions in North America, which usually export wheat, bought wheat heavily at high prices and now they are getting more than their fill of supplies. The French scare was potent while it lasted, but its effect did not have the influence on the world's markets that the bulls expected. The readjustment of values on a much higher plane has not come about and there does not appear to be any immediate liklihood of a new standardization of prices.

Receipts in the Northwest appear to be declining slightly, but stocks continue to increase rapidly. In comparing receipts this year and receipts last year it should be remembered that the run of wheat last year was abnormally large. Cash markets were featureless today. Offerings were absorbed without difficulty. Shipments of wheat will be heavy this week as is usual in the last week of September. The outlook is not favorable to a continuation of shipments on a ratio so heavy as that which has prevailed in the forepart of this week and the outgo of wheat apparently had little or no effect on the market. More than 500,000 bu of spring wheat is being loaded into bottoms today.

The flax market was moderately active early in the day. Crushers bought sparingly. The crushers are trying to hold aloof from the market, but small purchases are made from day to day against oil which is being sold for delivery in the near future. In the last day or two the Eastern crushers have not manifested as much interest in the market as the Northwestern mills. There was some speculative selling today which was instrumental in causing the early decline. The elevators are taking all flax offered and are hedging purchases with sales against the seed. Country offers today were small.

Linseed oil prices in the last few days have depended chiefly on the time in which buyers allowed for delivery. Oil for immediate or early delivery has brought much higher prices than oil for delivery in the more distant future. Prices have ranged from 98c to $1.03½ and some sales have been made as high as $1.04. C. H. Thornton had a letter today from an Eastern importer who said the United Kingdom was offering oil on Sept. 26, at 97c, New York. This price includes a New York importer's profit all interest charges, landing, insurance and other charges. New York crushers had been quoting oil at 98c but on that day they reduced their prices to 97c.

Chicago Inter Ocean wired today: It was said by those who bought the most wheat yesterday that they were only taking profits, and that on an advance of a cent, wheat would be a sale again and that there is no good on the long side as yet. Pit traders figured last night that Shearson-Hammill have covered over 1,000,000 on a declining scale for Lichstern which was put out last week. The Armour interest was bearish, and talked much lower prices. Patten does not want to sell wheat short at the present level. It was said that most of the selling, aside from the Armour house, was in the way of liquidating by longs, and there was a great deal of selling by eleventh-hour bears. Some of the most rampant of the bears who have expressed themselves freely as favoring lower prices for several weeks past, said that they had been afraid to short to market heavily of late and had made little money on the decline which has been 12¾c on September and 12¾c on December, and it is now 2½c off the top point of the season. It was said that the weak longs were well out of their wheat last night and that the market was largely oversold.

Broomhall cabled: The wheat market opened under the influence of the lower American cables yesterday and the continued pressure of larger and cheaper La Plata and Russian offerings which caused liquidation, prices were ⅝d lower. Following the opening there was some little show of steadiness on the reported sales of Pacific sailers to France. The market after the opening was very dull and this dullness led to realizing which resulted in the advance being lost. Foreign crop conditions, especially from Argentina, India and Australia, are favorable and this served to check bullishness. At midday the market was heavy, ⅝d to ¾d lower than yesterday. Corn was easy and ¼d lower at the opening on the liberal Plate offers and increasing stocks. Following the opening the market was dull and unchanged.

Grain prices are weak at 1¼c to Buffalo, and it is possible that many boats will be laid up rather than accept cargoes at prices under this rate. The carrying charge to the boat is ⅝c and the owners declare they cannot afford to send their boats against the fall storms and take a great risk for such a slim margin of profit which may be cut down by alleged shortages and other factors which enter into the grain trade.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Foreign Offerings Cause Weakness in Wheat Prices.

Chicago, Sept. 28. — Liberal and cheaper Argentine and Russian offerings with excellent foreign crop conditions led to weakness today in the wheat market here. Pacific coast sales to France, however, had a somewhat steading effect. Cash demand was slow and stocks increasing. The opening was ⅜c lower to ⅛c higher. December started ⅛c off at 98c, and after rallying to 98⅛@¼c sank to 97⅞c.

Covering by shorts made prices firm later. The close was at 93⅜@⅝c for December, a net gain of ¼@⅜c.

Fine weather and the escape of the belt from frost last night caused commission selling of corn. December opened ¼c to ⅜c down at 50¼@½ to 50⅜c, touched 50½c and reacted to 50¼c.

Purchases by shorts caused a rally. The close was steady at 50½@⅝ for December, a net loss of a shade.

Oats lacked strength, and fell with other grain. December opened a shade to ¼@⅜c off at 33½c to ⅝c and favored the lower at 33⅛c.

Outside selling chiefly for short account pressed provisions down. First sales were 2½c to 12½c lower, with January pork at $17.40, November lard at $11.52½ and January ribs at $9.27½.

STOCKS ARE UNSETTLED

Realizing Pressure on Reading and Higher Call Money Rate.

Some Gains Recorded But Close Is Heavy and Lifeless.

New York, Sept. 28.—The initial dealings in stocks today sent prices downwards. Reading was a feature with first sales of 7,000 shares at 145⅝ and 145⅜ compared with the last sale yesterday at 146⅛. Otherwise the declines were small and the dealings meager. Canadian Pacific rose ¾ and International Paper preferred, 1. Long Island lost 1.

The market was unable to withstand the profit-taking in Reading and went down further. Reading, Southern Railway preferred, Ontario & Western, Chesapeake & Ohio, and American Sugar were forced a point under yesterday's final prices and Delaware & Hudson and St. Louis & Southwestern, 2. The low prices encouraged some buying by the shorts and the market rallied a good fraction. Reading first preferred and Wheeling and Lake Erie gained 1 and American Car preferred 2¼.

Evidence of realizing pressure on Reading and the higher rate for call money kept the forenoon market unsettled. Resistance was shown at declines, but there was lack of power to advance. Wabash preferred gained 1. Kansas & Texas and Great Northern Ore certificates fell 1. The tone was steady at noon. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed heavy and lifeless. Chesapeake & Ohio recovered to a substantial fraction over yesterday. Utah Copper gained 1. Kansas City Southern preferred, 2, and International Harvester preferred, 3. There was a slight upward swing to the general list but the movement was sluggish and unimportant. Another decline in Reading affected the tone again.
